Preface

This second issue in the current four-volume series of Social Security Programs Throughout the World reports on the countries of Asia and the Pacific. The combined findings of this series, which also includes volumes on Africa, the Americas, and Europe, are published at six-month intervals over a two-year period. Each volume highlights features of social security programs in the particular region.

The information contained in these volumes is crucial to our efforts, and those of researchers in other countries, to review different ways of approaching social security challenges that will enable us to adapt our social security systems to the evolving needs of individuals, households, and families. These efforts are particularly important as each nation faces major demographic changes, especially the increasing number of aged persons, as well as economic and fiscal issues.

Social Security Programs Throughout the World is the product of a cooperative effort between the Social Security Administration (SSA) and the International Social Security Association (ISSA). The ISSA is the principal international institution bringing together social security agencies and organizations around the world. Founded in 1927, the ISSA is located at the International Labour Office in Geneva.

Previous editions of this report, which date back to 1937, were issued as one volume and were prepared by SSA staff. ISSA has researched and written the publication since the introduction of the four-volume format in 2002, and beginning with the volume on the Americas 2015, the publication is co-financed by both institutions. The ISSA has conducted the research largely through its numerous country-based correspondents, as well as its social security databases and other types of data that are drawn together to update this report. Social Security Programs Throughout the World is based on legislation in effect in July 2018, or the last date for which information has been received by SSA or ISSA. We added a new country, Cambodia, to this volume, and omitted the summary for Iraq since information could not be verified.

Harald Braumann, Luisa Carmona, and Megan Gerecke managed the data collection and analysis for the ISSA, and John Jankowski and Ben Danforth performed a technical review of the report for SSA. Staff of the Office of Information Resources at SSA edited the report and prepared it for publication.

Your suggestions and comments on this report are welcome. Any suggestions, comments, or questions about the report should be e-mailed to ssptw@ssa.gov. Corrections, updated information, and copies of relevant documentation and legislation are also welcome and may be sent to:

Guide to Reading the Country Summaries

This second issue in the current four-volume series of Social Security Programs Throughout the World reports on the countries of Asia and the Pacific.¹ The combined findings of this series, which also includes volumes on Africa, the Americas, and Europe, are published at six-month intervals over a two-year period. Each volume highlights features of social security programs in the particular region.

This guide serves as an overview of programs in all regions. A few political jurisdictions have been excluded because they have no social security system or insufficient information was available regarding their social security legislation. In the absence of recent information, national programs reported in previous volumes may also be excluded.

In this volume on Asia and the Pacific, the data reported are based on laws and regulations in force in July 2018 or on the last date for which information has been received. Information for each country on types of social security programs, types of mandatory systems for retirement income, contribution rates, and demographic and other statistics related to social security is shown in Tables 1–4 beginning on page 17.

The country summaries show each system's major features including mandatory occupational pensions and in some cases, private insurance. Separate programs in the public sector and specialized funds for such groups as agricultural workers, collective farmers, or the self-employed have not been described in any detail.

The country summaries also do not refer to international social security agreements that may be in force between two or more countries. Those agreements may modify coverage, contributions, and benefit provisions of national laws summarized in the country write-ups. Since the summary format requires brevity, technical terms have been developed that are concise as well as comparable and are applied to all programs wherever possible. The terminology may therefore differ from national concepts or usage.

¹ The names of the countries in this report are those used by the U.S. Department of State. The names of the countries, as reproduced on the ISSA website, reflect those used by the United Nations. The term country has been used throughout the volume even though in some instances the term jurisdiction may be more appropriate.

Information Sources

Most of the information in this report was collated from the Social Security Programs Throughout the World survey conducted by the International Social Security Association (ISSA) in partnership with the U.S. Social Security Administration (SSA). This information was supplemented by data collected by the ISSA. Empirical data were provided by numerous social security institutions throughout the world. (For a listing of countries and jurisdictions that responded to the survey, see page 2.) During the compilation process, international analysts at both SSA and the ISSA examined the material for factual errors, ambiguous statements, and contradictions in material from different sources.

Types of Programs

The term social security in this report refers to programs established by statute that insure individuals against interruption or loss of earning power and for certain special expenditures arising from marriage, birth, or death. This definition also includes allowances to families for the support of children.

Protection of the insured person and dependents usually is extended through cash payments to replace at least a portion of the income lost as the result of old age, disability, or death; sickness and maternity; work injury; unemployment; or through services, primarily hospitalization, medical care, and rehabilitation. Measures providing cash benefits to replace lost income are usually referred to as income maintenance programs; measures that finance or provide direct services are referred to as benefits in kind.

Three broad approaches to coverage provide cash benefits under income-maintenance programs; namely, employment-related, universal, and means-tested systems. Under both the employment-related and the universal approaches, the insured, dependents, and survivors can claim benefits as a matter of right. Under means-tested approaches, benefits are based on a comparison of a person's income or resources against a standard measure. Some countries also provide other types of coverage.

Employment-Related

Employment-related systems, commonly referred to as social insurance systems, generally base eligibility for pensions and other periodic payments on length of employment or self-employment or, in the case of family allowances and work injuries, on the existence of the employment relationship itself. The amount of pensions (long-term payments, primarily) and of other periodic (short-term) payments in the event of unemployment, sickness, maternity, or work injury is usually related to the level of earnings before any of these contingencies caused earnings to cease. Such programs are financed entirely or largely from contributions (usually a percentage of earnings) made by employers, workers, or both, and are in most instances compulsory for defined categories of workers and their employers.

The creation of notional defined contributions (NDC) is a relatively new method of calculating benefits. NDC schemes are a variant of contributory social insurance that seek to tie benefit entitlements more closely to contributions. A hypothetical account is created for each insured person that is made up of all contributions during his or her working life and, in some cases, credit for unpaid activity such as caregiving. A pension is calculated by dividing that amount by the average life expectancy at the time of retirement and indexing it to various economic factors. When benefits are due, the individual's notional account balance is converted into a periodic pension payment.

Some social insurance systems permit voluntary affiliation of workers, especially the self-employed. In some instances, the government subsidizes such programs to encourage voluntary participation.

The government is, pro forma, the ultimate guarantor of many benefits. In many countries, the national government participates in the financing of employment-related as well as other social security programs. The government may contribute through an appropriation from general revenues based on a percentage of total wages paid to insured workers, finance part or all of the cost of a program, or pay a subsidy to make up any deficit of an insurance fund. In some cases, the government pays the contributions for low-paid workers. These arrangements are separate from obligations the government may have as an employer under systems that cover government employees. Social security contributions and other earmarked income are kept in a dedicated fund and are shown as a separate item in government accounts. (For further details on the government's role in financing social security, see source of funds under Old Age, Disability, and Survivors.)

Universal

Universal programs provide flat-rate cash benefits to residents or citizens, without consideration of income, employment, or means. Typically financed from general revenues, these benefits may apply to all persons with the required length of residency. Universal programs may include old-age pensions for persons over a certain age; pensions for workers with disabilities, widow(er)s, and orphans; and family allowances. Most social security systems incorporating a universal program also have a second-tier earnings-related program. Some universal programs, although receiving substantial support from income taxes, are also financed in part by contributions from workers and employers.

Means-Tested

Means-tested programs establish eligibility for benefits by measuring individual or family resources against a calculated standard usually based on subsistence needs. Benefits are limited to applicants who satisfy a means test. The size and type of benefits awarded are determined in each case by administrative decision within the framework of the law.

The specific character of means, needs, or income tests, as well as the weight given to family resources, differ considerably from country to country. Such programs, commonly referred to as social pensions or equalization payments, traditionally are financed primarily from general revenues.

Means-tested systems constitute the sole or principal form of social security in only a few jurisdictions. In other jurisdictions, contributory programs operate in tandem with income-related benefits. In such instances, means- or income-tested programs may be administered by social insurance agencies. Means-tested programs apply to persons who are not in covered employment or whose benefits under employment-related programs, together with other individual or family resources, are inadequate to meet subsistence or special needs. Although means-tested programs can be administered at the national level, they are often administered locally.

Other Types of Programs

Three other types of programs are those delivered mainly through financial services providers (individual accounts, mandatory occupational pensions, and mandatory private insurance), publicly operated provident funds, and employer-liability systems.

Programs Delivered by Financial Services Providers

Individual account. Applies to a program where covered persons and/or employers contribute a certain percentage of earnings to the covered person's individual account managed by a contracted public or private fund manager. Participation may be mandatory or voluntary. The responsibility to establish membership in a scheme and the option to choose a fund manager lie with the individual. The accumulated capital in the individual account is normally intended as a source of income replacement for the contingencies of retirement, disability, ill health, or unemployment. It may also be possible for eligible survivors to access the accumulated capital in the case of the insured's death.

Contributions are assigned to an employee's individual account. The employee, and sometimes the employer, must pay administrative fees for the management of the individual account and usually purchase a separate policy for disability and survivors insurance.

Mandatory occupational pension. Applies to a program where employers are mandated by law to provide occupational pension schemes financed by employer, and, in some cases, employee contributions. Benefits may be paid as a lump sum, annuity, or pension.

Mandatory private insurance. Applies to a program where individuals are mandated by law to purchase insurance directly from a private insurance company.

Provident Funds. These funds, which exist primarily in developing countries, are essentially compulsory savings programs in which regular contributions withheld from employees' wages are enhanced, and often matched, by employers' contributions. The contributions are set aside and invested for each employee in a single, publicly managed fund for later repayment to the worker when defined contingencies occur. Typically, benefits are paid in a lump sum with accrued interest, although in certain circumstances drawdown provisions enable partial access to savings prior to retirement or other defined contingencies. On retirement, some provident funds also permit beneficiaries to purchase an annuity or opt for a pension. Some provident funds provide pensions for survivors.

Employer-Liability Systems. Under these systems, workers are usually protected through labor codes that require employers, when liable, to provide specified payments or services directly to their employees. Specified payments or services can include the payment of lump-sum gratuities to the aged or disabled; the provision of medical care, paid sick leave, or both; the payment of maternity benefits or family allowances; the provision of temporary or long-term cash benefits and medical care in the case of a work injury; or the payment of severance indemnities in the case of dismissal. Employer-liability systems do not involve any direct pooling of risk, since the liability for payment is placed directly on each employer. Employers may insure themselves against liability, and in some jurisdictions such insurance is compulsory.

Format of Country Summaries

Each country summary presents information available on five branches of social security:

- Old age, disability, and survivors;
- Sickness and maternity;
- Work injury;
- Unemployment; and
- Family allowances.

Old Age, Disability, and Survivors

Benefits under old age, disability, and survivor programs usually cover long-term risks, as distinct from short-term risks such as temporary incapacity resulting from sickness and maternity, work injury, or unemployment. The benefits are normally pensions payable for life or for a considerable number of years. Such benefits are usually provided as part of a single system with common financing and administration as well as interrelated qualifying conditions and benefit formulas.

The laws summarized under Old Age, Disability, and Survivors focus first on benefits providing pensions or lump-sum payments to compensate for loss of work-related income resulting from old age or permanent retirement. Such benefits are usually payable after attaining a specified statutory age. Some countries require complete or substantial retirement to become eligible for a pension; other countries pay a retirement pension at a certain age regardless of whether workers retire or not.

The second type of long-term risk for which pensions are provided is disability (referred to in some countries as invalidity). Disability may be generally defined as long-term and more or less total work impairment resulting from a nonoccupational injury or disease. (Disability caused by a work injury or occupational disease is usually compensated under a separate program; see Work Injury.)

The third type of pension is payable to dependents of insured workers or pensioners who die. (Pensions for survivors of workers injured while working are usually provided under a separate Work Injury program.)

Coverage. The extent of social security coverage in any given country is determined by a number of diverse factors, including the kind of system, sometimes the age of the system, and the degree of economic development. A program may provide coverage for the entire country or some portion of the workforce.

In principle, universal systems cover the entire population for the contingencies of old age, disability, and survivorship. A person may have to meet certain conditions, such as long-term residence or citizenship. Many countries exclude noncitizens from benefits unless there is a reciprocal agreement with the country of which they are nationals.

The extent of employment-related benefits is usually determined by the age of the system. Historically, social security coverage was provided first to government employees and military personnel, then to workers in industry and commerce, and eventually extended to the vast majority of wage earners and salaried employees through a general system. As a result, public employees (including military personnel and civil servants), teachers, and employees of public utilities, corporations, or monopolies are still covered by occupation-specific separate systems in many countries.

In many countries, special occupational systems have been set up for certain private-sector employees, such as miners, railway workers, and seamen. Qualifying conditions and benefits are often more liberal than under the general system. The risk involved in an occupation, its strategic importance for economic growth, and the economic and political strength of trade unions may have had a role in shaping the type and size of benefits offered by the particular program.

Groups that might be considered difficult to administer—family workers, household workers, day workers, agricultural workers, and the self-employed—were often initially excluded from coverage. The trend has been to extend coverage to these groups under separate programs or to bring them gradually under the general system. In some countries, noncovered workers become eligible for the right to an eventual pension if they make voluntary contributions at a specified level. Some systems also provide voluntary coverage for women who leave the labor force temporarily to have children or to raise a family, or for self-employed persons not covered by a mandatory program. Some developed countries with younger programs have constructed a unified national program, thus largely bypassing the need for developing separate industrial or agricultural funds.

Most developing countries have extended coverage gradually. Their first steps toward creating a social security system have commonly been to cover wage and salary workers against loss of income due to work injury, and then old age and, increasingly, disability.

In a number of developing countries, particularly in those that were once British colonies, this initial step has come via provident funds. Most provident funds provide coverage for wage and salary workers in the public and private sector. A few funds have exclusions based on the worker's earnings or the size of the firm. Funds that exclude employees with earnings above a certain level from compulsory coverage may in some cases give them the option to affiliate or continue to participate voluntarily.

Source of Funds. The financing of benefits for old-age, disability, and survivor programs can come from three possible sources:

- A percentage of covered wages or salaries paid by the worker,
- A percentage of covered payroll paid by the employer, and
- A government contribution.

Almost all pension programs under social insurance (as distinct from provident funds or universal systems) are financed at least in part by employer and employee contributions. Many derive their funds from all three sources. Contributions are determined by applying a percentage to salaries or wages up to a certain maximum. In many cases the employer pays a larger share.

The government's contribution may be derived from general revenues or, less commonly, from special earmarked or excise taxes (for example, a tax on tobacco, gasoline, or alcoholic beverages). Government contributions may be used in different ways to defray a portion of all expenditures (such as the cost of administration), to make up deficits, or even to finance the total cost of a program. Subsidies may be provided as a lump sum or an amount to make up the difference between employer/employee contributions and the total cost of the system. A number of countries reduce or, in some cases, eliminate contributions for the lowest-paid wage earners, financing their benefits entirely from general revenues or by the employer's contribution.

The contribution rate apportioned between the sources of financing may be identical or progressive, increasing with the size of the wage or changing based on wage class. Where universal and earnings-related systems exist side by side, and the universal benefit is not financed entirely by the government, separate rates may exist for each program. In other instances, flat-rate weekly contributions may finance basic pension programs. These amounts are uniform for all workers of the same age and sex, regardless of earnings level. However, the self-employed may have to contribute at a higher rate than wage and salary workers, thereby making up for the employer's share.

For administrative purposes, a number of countries assess a single overall social security contribution covering several contingencies. Benefits for sickness, work injury, unemployment, and family allowances as well as pensions may be financed from this single contribution. General revenue financing is the sole source of income in some universal systems. The contribution of the resident or citizen may be a percentage of taxable income under a national tax program. General revenues finance all or part of the means-tested supplementary benefits in many countries.

Contribution rates, as a rule, are applied to wages or salaries only up to a statutory ceiling. A portion of the wage of highly paid workers will escape taxation but will also not count in determining the benefit. In a few cases, an earnings ceiling applies for the determination of benefits but not for contribution purposes. In some countries, contribution rates are applied not to actual earnings but to a fixed amount that is set for all earnings falling within a specified range or wage class.

Qualifying Conditions. Qualifying to receive an old-age benefit is usually conditional on two requirements: attainment of a specified pensionable age and completion of a specified period of contributions or covered employment. Another common requirement is total or substantial withdrawal from the labor force. In some instances, eligibility is determined by resident status or citizenship.

Old-age benefits generally become payable between ages 60 and 65. In some countries, length-of-service benefits are payable at any age after a certain period of employment, most commonly between 30 and 40 years. In recent years, several countries have increased the age limit for entitlement, in part because of budgetary constraints arising as a consequence of demographic aging.

Many programs require the same pensionable age for women as for men. Others permit women to draw a full pension at an earlier age, even though women generally have a longer life expectancy. Although the norm has been for the differential to be about five years, there is now an emerging international trend toward equalizing the statutory retirement age.

Many programs offer optional retirement before the statutory retirement age is reached. A reduced pension, in some instances, may be claimed up to five years before the statutory retirement age. Some countries pay a full pension before the regular retirement age if the applicant meets one or more of the following conditions: work in an especially arduous, unhealthy, or hazardous occupation (for example, underground mining); involuntary unemployment for a period near retirement age; physical or mental exhaustion (as distinct from disability) near retirement age; or, occasionally, an especially long period of coverage. Some programs award old-age pensions to workers who are older than the statutory retirement age but who cannot satisfy the regular length-of-coverage requirement. Other programs provide increments to workers who have continued in employment beyond the normal retirement age.

Universal old-age pension systems usually do not require a minimum period of covered employment or contributions. However, most prescribe a minimum period of prior residence.

Some old-age pension systems credit periods during which persons, for reasons beyond their control, were not in covered employment. Credits can be awarded for reasons such as disability, involuntary unemployment, military service, education, child raising, or training. Other systems disregard these periods and may proportionately reduce benefits for each year below the required minimum. Persons with only a few years of coverage may receive a refund of contributions or a settlement in which a proportion of the full benefit or earnings is paid for each year of contribution.

The majority of old-age pensions financed through social insurance systems require total or substantial withdrawal from covered employment. Under a retirement test, the benefit may be withheld or reduced for those who continue working, depending on the amount of earnings or, less often, the number of hours worked. Universal systems usually do not require retirement from work for receipt of a pension. Provident funds pay the benefit only when the worker leaves covered employment or emigrates.

Some countries provide a number of exemptions that act to eliminate the retirement condition for specified categories of pensioners. For instance, the retirement test may be eliminated for workers who reached a specified age above the minimum pensionable age or for pensioners with long working careers in covered employment. Occupations with manpower shortages may also be exempted from the retirement test.

The principal requirements for receiving a disability benefit are loss of productive capacity after completing a minimum period of work or having met the minimum contribution requirements. Many programs grant the full disability benefit for a two-thirds loss of working capacity in the worker's customary occupation, but this requirement may vary from one-third to 100 percent.

The qualifying period for a disability benefit is usually shorter than for an old-age benefit. Periods of three to five years of contributions or covered employment are most common. A few countries provide disability benefits in the form of an unlimited extension of ordinary cash sickness benefits.

Entitlement to disability benefits may have age limitations. The lower limit in most systems is in the teens, but it may be related to the lowest age for social insurance or employment or to the maximum age for a family allowance benefit. The upper age limit is frequently the statutory retirement age, when disability benefits may be converted to old-age benefits.

For survivors to be eligible for benefits, most programs require that the deceased worker was a pensioner, completed a minimum period of covered employment, or satisfied the minimum contribution conditions. The qualifying contribution period is often the same as that for the disability benefit. The surviving spouse and orphans may also have to meet certain conditions, such as age requirements.

Old-Age Benefits. The old-age benefit in most countries is a wage-related, periodic payment. However, some countries pay a universal fixed amount that bears no relationship to any prior earnings; others supplement their universal pension with an earnings-related pension.

Provident fund systems make a lump-sum payment, usually a refund of employer and employee contributions plus accrued interest. In programs that have individual accounts, options for retirement include purchasing an annuity, making withdrawals from an account regulated to guarantee income for an expected lifespan (programmed withdrawals), or a combination of the two (deferred annuity).

Benefits that are related to income are almost always based on average earnings. Some countries compute the average from gross earnings, including various fringe benefits; other countries compute the average from net earnings. Alternatively, some countries have opted to use wage classes rather than actual earnings. The wage classes may be based on occupations or, for administrative convenience, on earnings arranged by size using the midpoint in each step to compute the benefit.

Several methods are used to compensate for averages that may be reduced by low earnings early in a worker's career or by periods without any credited earnings due, for example, to unemployment or military service, and for the effects of price and wage increases due to inflation. One method is to exclude from consideration a number of periods with the lowest (including zero) earnings. In many systems the period over which earnings are averaged may be shortened to the last few years of coverage, or the average may be based on years when the worker had his or her highest earnings. Other systems revalue past earnings by applying an index that usually reflects changes in national average wages or the cost of living. Some assign hypothetical wages before a certain date. Alternatively, others have developed mechanisms for automatic adjustment of workers' wage records based on wage or price changes.

A variety of formulas are used in determining the benefit amount. Instead of a statutory minimum, some systems pay a percentage of average earnings—for instance, 35 percent or 50 percent—that is unchanged by length of coverage once the qualifying period is met. A more common practice is to provide a basic rate—for example, 30 percent of average earnings—plus an increment of 1 percent or 2 percent of earnings either for each year of coverage or for each year in excess of a minimum number of years. Several countries have a weighted benefit formula that returns a larger percentage of earnings to lower-paid workers than to higher-paid workers.

Most systems limit the size of the benefit. Many do so by establishing a ceiling on the earnings taken into account in the computation. Others establish a maximum cash amount or a maximum percentage of average earnings set, for example, at 80 percent. Some systems combine these and other, similar methods.

Most systems supplement the benefit for a wife or child. The wife's supplement may be 50 percent or more of the basic benefit, although in some countries the supplement is payable only for a wife who has reached a specified age, has children in her care, or has a disability. It may also be payable for a dependent husband.

Minimum benefits are intended to maintain a minimum standard of living in many countries, although that objective is not always achieved. A maximum that reduces the effect large families have on benefits is commonly used to limit total benefits, including those of survivors, in the interest of the financial stability of the program.

In some countries, benefits are automatically adjusted to reflect price or wage changes. In other countries, the process is semiautomatic—the adequacy of pensions is reviewed periodically by an advisory board or other administrative body that recommends a benefit adjustment to the government, usually requiring legislative approval.

Disability Benefits. Under most programs, provisions for disability benefits for persons who are permanently disabled as the result of nonoccupational causes are very similar to those for the aged. The same basic formula usually applies for total disability as for old age—a cash amount usually expressed as a percentage of average earnings. Increments and dependents' supplements are generally identical under the total disability and old-age programs. For persons with total disabilities, a constant-attendance supplement, for instance, 50 percent of the benefit, may be paid to those who need help on a daily basis. Partial disability benefits, if payable, are usually reduced, based on a fixed scale. The system may also provide rehabilitation and training. Some countries provide higher benefits for workers in arduous or dangerous employment.

Survivor Benefits. Most systems provide periodic benefits for survivors of covered persons or pensioners, although some pay only lump-sum benefits. Survivor benefits are generally a percentage of either the benefit paid to the deceased at death or the benefit to which the insured would have been entitled if he or she had attained pensionable age or become disabled at that time.

Survivor benefits are paid to some categories of widows under nearly all programs. The amount of a widow's benefit usually ranges from 50 percent to 75 percent of the deceased worker's benefit or, in some cases, 100 percent. In some countries, lifetime benefits are payable to every widow whose husband fulfills the necessary qualifying period. More commonly, the provision of widows' benefits is confined to widows who are caring for young children, are above a specified age, or have a disability.

Lifetime benefits are ordinarily payable to aged and disabled widows. Those awarded to younger mothers, however, are usually terminated when all children have passed a certain age, unless the widow has reached a specified age or has a disability. Most widows' benefits also terminate on remarriage, although a final lump-sum grant may be payable under this circumstance. Special provisions govern the rights of the divorced. Age limits for orphan's benefits are in many cases the same as for children's allowances. Many countries fix a somewhat higher age limit for orphans attending school or undergoing an apprenticeship or for those who are disabled. The age limit is usually removed for orphans with disabilities as long as their incapacity continues. Most survivor programs distinguish between half orphans (who have lost one parent) and full orphans (who have lost both parents), with the latter receiving benefits that are 50 percent to 100 percent larger than those for half orphans. Special payments are also made to orphans under the family allowance programs of some countries.

Benefits are payable under a number of programs to widowers of insured workers or pensioners. In many instances, a widower must have been financially dependent on his wife and either disabled or old enough to receive an old-age benefit at her death. A widower's benefit is usually computed in the same way as a widow's benefit.

Many systems also pay benefits to other surviving close relatives, such as parents and grandparents, but only in the absence of qualifying widows, widowers, or children. The maximum total benefit to be split among survivors is usually between 80 percent and 100 percent of the benefit of the deceased.

Administrative Organization. Responsibility for administration often rests with semiautonomous institutions or funds. These agencies are usually subject to general supervision by a ministry or government department but otherwise are largely self-governing, headed by a tripartite board that includes representatives of workers, employers, and the government. Some boards are bipartite with representatives of workers and employers only or of workers and the government. Where coverage is organized separately for different occupations, or for wage earners and salaried employees or self-employed workers, each program usually has a separate institution or fund. In other cases, the administration of benefits is placed directly in the hands of a government ministry or department.

Sickness and Maternity

Sickness benefit programs are generally of two types: cash sickness benefits, which are paid when short-term illnesses prevent work, and health care benefits, which are provided in the form of medical, hospital, and pharmaceutical benefits. Some countries maintain a separate program for cash maternity benefits, which are paid to working mothers before and after childbirth. In most countries, however, maternity benefits are administered as part of the cash sickness program. (Benefits provided as a result of work injury or occupational disease are provided either under work injury or sickness programs. Details of the benefits are discussed under Work Injury.)

Historically, cash sickness and maternity benefits as well as health care were often administered under the same branch of social security. For this reason, these programs are grouped together in the country summaries.

Another important reason for grouping these numerous benefits together is that each deals with the risk of temporary incapacity. Sometimes, such benefits are furnished as part of a single system with common financing and administration. Many countries provide medical care services for sickness and maternity as an integral part of the health insurance system and some link those services directly with the provision of cash benefits. In other instances, however, maternity cash grants are covered under family allowance programs. In many cases, medical care services are provided under a public health program, independent of the social insurance system. Where this dual approach is followed, it has been indicated in the summaries.

Where health care is dispensed directly by the government or its agencies and the principal source of funds is general revenue, the cash benefit program usually continues to be administered on an insurance basis, funded by payroll contributions, and merged in some instances with other aspects of the social insurance system such as old age and disability. However, countries that deliver health care primarily through private facilities and private funding are also likely to have developed separate programs. Where the social security program operates its own medical facilities, both types of benefits are usually administered jointly.

Benefits designed to assist in the provision of long-term care, often at home, are generally supported by a special tax. Benefit levels are normally set to the level of care required. These benefits may be payable in cash, as care services, or as a combination of the two.

Coverage. The proportion of the population covered by sickness programs varies considerably from country to country, in part because of the degree of economic development. Coverage for medical care and cash benefits is generally identical in countries where both types of benefits are provided through the same branch of social insurance. In a number of systems, particularly in developing countries, health care insurance extends only to employees in certain geographic areas. A common procedure is to start the program in major urban centers, then extend coverage gradually to other areas. Both cash sickness and health care programs may exclude agricultural workers, who, in some countries, account for a major proportion of the working population. Where a health insurance system (as distinguished from a national health service program) exists, most workers earning below a certain ceiling participate on a compulsory basis. Others, such as the self-employed, may be permitted to affiliate on a voluntary basis. In several countries, higher-paid employees are specifically excluded from one or both forms of sickness insurance, although some voluntary participation is usually permitted.

Many countries include pensioners as well as other social security beneficiaries under the medical care programs, in some cases without cost to the pensioner. Elsewhere, pensioners pay a percentage of their pension or a fixed premium for all or part of the medical care coverage. Special sickness insurance systems may be maintained for certain workers, such as railway employees, seamen, and public employees.

Where medical care coverage is provided through a national health service rather than social insurance, the program is usually open in principle to virtually all residents. However, restrictions on services to aliens may apply.

Source of Funds. Many countries have merged the financing of sickness programs with that of other social insurance benefits and collect only a single contribution from employees and employers. More commonly, however, employees and employers contribute directly to a separate program that includes both health care and cash benefits for sickness and maternity. Some countries also provide a government contribution. Where medical care is available to residents, generally through some type of national health service, the government usually bears at least the major part of the cost from general revenues.

Qualifying Conditions. Generally, a person becoming ill must be gainfully employed, incapacitated for work, and not receiving regular wages or sick-leave payments from the employer to be eligible for cash sickness benefits. Most programs require claimants to meet a minimum period of contribution or to have some history of work attachment prior to the onset of illness to qualify. Some countries, however, have eliminated the qualifying period.

The length of the qualifying period for cash sickness benefits may range from less than one month to six months or more and is ordinarily somewhat longer for cash maternity benefits. Usually the period must be fairly recent, such as during the last six or 12 months. In the case of medical benefits, a qualifying period is usually not required. In instances where such a requirement does exist, it is generally of a short duration. Most programs providing medical services to dependents of workers, as well as to the workers themselves, do not distinguish in their qualifying conditions between the two types of beneficiaries. A few programs require a longer period of covered employment before medical services are provided to dependents.

Cash Benefits. The cash sickness benefit is usually 50 percent to 75 percent of current average earnings, frequently with supplements for dependents. Most programs, however, fix a maximum benefit amount or do so implicitly through a general earnings ceiling for contributions and benefits. Benefits may be reduced when beneficiaries are hospitalized at the expense of the social insurance system.

A waiting period of two to seven days is imposed under most cash sickness programs. As a result, benefits may not be payable if an illness or injury lasts for only a few days. Similarly, in the case of a prolonged inability to work, benefits may not be payable for the first few days. Under some programs, however, benefits are retroactively paid for the waiting period when the disability continues beyond a specified time, commonly two to three weeks. A waiting period reduces administrative and benefit costs by excluding many claims for short illnesses or injuries during which relatively little income is lost and can also help reduce the potential for the inappropriate use of the system by workers. In other programs, employers are required to pay benefits for a certain number of days before social insurance payments begin.

The period during which a worker may receive benefits for a single illness or injury, or in a given 12-month period, is ordinarily limited to 26 weeks. In some instances, however, benefits may be drawn for considerably longer and even for an unlimited duration. A number of countries permit the agency to extend the maximum entitlement period to 39 or 52 weeks in specific cases. In most countries, when cash sickness benefits are exhausted, the recipient is paid a disability benefit if the incapacity continues.

Cash maternity benefits are usually payable for a specified period, both before and after childbirth. A woman is almost always required to stop working while receiving maternity benefits, and usually she must use the prenatal and postnatal medical services provided by the system. In some countries, cash maternity benefits are also payable to working men who stay home to care for a newborn child while the mother returns to work. Cash payments may also be available for a parent, usually the mother, who is absent from work to care for a sick child under a specified age.

The proportion of earnings payable as a cash maternity benefit differs considerably from country to country but, like cash sickness benefits, is usually between 50 percent and 75 percent of current earnings. However, in a number of countries, maternity benefits are set at 100 percent of wages. Benefit payments usually start approximately six weeks before the expected date of childbirth and end six to eight weeks afterward.

A nursing allowance—usually 20 percent or 25 percent of the regular maternity benefit and payable for up to six months or longer—may be provided in addition to the basic cash maternity benefit. A grant for the purchase of a layette—clothes and other essentials for the newborn baby—or the provision of a layette itself is furnished under some programs. Finally, a lump-sum maternity grant may be paid on the birth of each child. The wives of insured men may be eligible for this grant. Similar benefits may be provided under the family allowance program.

Medical Benefits. Medical services usually include at least general practitioner care, some hospitalization, and essential drugs. Services of specialists, surgery, maternity care, some dental care, a wider range of medicine, and certain appliances are commonly added. Transportation of patients and home-nursing services may be included.

There are three principal methods of meeting the cost of health care: direct payment to providers by the public system or its agents, reimbursement of patients, and direct provision of medical care. These methods may be used in different combinations and may be varied for different kinds of services.

Under direct payment, the social security or public medical care system pays providers directly for services. Patients usually have little or no direct financial dealings with the care provider. Payments for care are commonly made based on contracts with service providers or the professional groups representing them, such as practitioner or hospital associations. Remuneration may take the form of a specified fee for each service, a capitation payment in return for providing all necessary services to a given group of persons, or a salary.

Under the reimbursement method, the patient makes the initial payment and is reimbursed by social security for at least part of the cost. A maximum is sometimes placed on the refund, expressed as a percentage of the bill or a flat amount that can vary with the nature of the service as stipulated in a schedule of fees. The ceiling on medical bills can be placed on the provider when presenting the bill or on the patient when applying for reimbursement. In the latter case, the patient may be reimbursed for only a small portion of the bill.

Under the direct-provision method, the social security system or the government owns and operates its own medical facilities, largely manned by salaried staff. Countries using this method may contract for services of public or private providers. The patient normally pays no fee for most of these services, except insofar as part of the social security contribution may be allotted toward health care funding.

Regardless of the funding method used, all national health care programs provide for at least a small degree of cost-sharing by patients, usually on the assumption that such charges discourage overuse. Thus, the patient either pays part of the cost to the provider or social security agency or receives less than full reimbursement. Even under the direct-provision method, with its emphasis on basically free medical services to the whole population, patients are generally required to pay a small fixed fee per medical treatment or prescription or for each day of hospitalization.

Some health care systems have no limit on how long medical care may be provided. Other systems fix a maximum, such as 26 weeks, for services provided for any given illness. Some set limits only on the duration of hospitalization paid for by social security. Where time limits are imposed, they may be extended.

Maternity Care. Prenatal, obstetric, and postnatal care for working women is provided in most countries under the medical services program. Obstetric care is sometimes limited to the services of a midwife, although a doctor is usually available in case of complications. Care in a maternity home or hospital, as well as essential drugs, are ordinarily furnished where necessary.

Medical Care for Dependents. When medical benefits for insured workers are provided through social insurance, similar services are typically furnished to their spouses and young children (and, in some cases, other adults or young relatives living with and dependent on the insured). Maternity care is generally provided to the wife of an insured man.

In some countries, however, medical services available to dependents are more limited than those provided to insured workers or heads of families. Dependents may be subject to a shorter maximum duration for hospital stays, for example, and may have to pay a larger percentage of the cost of certain services such as medicine.

Administrative Organization. The administrative organization for the sickness and maternity program is similar to that of the old-age, disability, and survivor program in many countries. Most commonly, such programs are administered by some form of national social security institution. Under some systems, social security agencies own and operate their own medical facilities, furnishing at least part of the services available under their programs.

In most countries with a national health insurance program, responsibility for detailed administration lies with semiautonomous, nongovernment health funds or associations. All workers covered by the program must join one of these funds.

Each health fund usually requires government approval and must satisfy certain requirements. Workers and, in some countries, employers participate in the election of governing bodies. The funds normally collect contributions within minimum and maximum limits. Funds may also receive government subsidies related to their expenditures or to the number of affiliated members.

National law usually prescribes the minimum (and, in some cases, the maximum) cash benefits and medical services the health funds may provide. In a few countries, individual funds may determine what specific health care benefits and services to provide and arrange to furnish medical care to their members. This arrangement can involve delivery through contracts with care and service providers in the region.

Less commonly, government departments are responsible for the actual provision of medical services, usually through a national health service program. The administrative responsibility for delivering medical services in some countries is often separated from the administration of cash benefit programs, which tend to be linked with other types of social security benefits.

Work Injury

The oldest type of social security—the work injury program—provides compensation for work-connected injuries and occupational illnesses. Such programs usually furnish short- and long-term benefits, depending on both the duration of the incapacity and the age of survivors. Work injury benefits nearly always include cash benefits and medical services. Most countries attempt to maintain separate work injury programs that are not linked directly with other social security measures. In some countries, however, work injury benefits are paid under special provisions of the general social security programs. Both types of programs are dealt with under Work Injury.

Types of Systems. There are two basic types of work injury systems: social insurance systems that use a public fund, and various forms of private or semiprivate arrangements required by law. In most countries, work injury programs operate through a central public fund, which may or may not be part of the general social insurance system. All employers subject to the program must pay contributions to the public carrier, which in turn pays the benefits.

Countries that rely primarily on private arrangements require employers to insure their employees against the risk of employment injury. However, in some of these countries, only private insurance is available. In the remainder, a public fund does exist, but employers are allowed the option of insuring with either a private carrier or the public fund.

The premiums charged by private or mutual insurance companies for work injury protection usually vary depending on the experience of work accidents in different undertakings or industries, and the cost of protection may vary widely. In some countries, however, experience rating has been eliminated, and all employers contribute to the program at one rate.

In other instances, workers' compensation laws simply impose on employers a liability to pay direct compensation to injured workers or their survivors. Employers covered under such laws may simply pay benefits from their own funds as injuries occur or may voluntarily purchase a private or mutual insurance contract to protect themselves against risk.

Coverage. Work injury programs commonly cover wage and salary workers and exclude the self-employed. The programs of some of the more highly industrialized nations cover practically all employees. However, many countries either exclude all agricultural employees or cover only those who operate power-driven machinery. Some programs also exclude employees of small enterprises.

Source of Funds. Work injury benefits are financed primarily by employer contributions, reflecting the traditional assumption that employers should be liable when their employees suffer work injuries. Where certain elements of the work injury program are meshed with one or more of the other branches of the social insurance system, however, financing usually involves contributions from employees, employers, and the government. Another exception occurs in countries that provide medical treatment for work-connected illnesses under their ordinary public medical care programs.

Work Injury Benefits. Work injury programs provide cash benefits and medical benefits. Cash benefits under work injury programs may be subdivided into three types: benefits for temporary disability, those for permanent total disability, and those for permanent partial disability. No qualifying period of coverage or employment is ordinarily required for entitlement to work injury benefits. The concept of work-connected injury has gradually been liberalized in a number of countries to cover injuries occurring while commuting to and from work.

Temporary disability benefits are usually payable from the start of an incapacity caused by a work injury, though some programs require a waiting period of one to three days. Benefits normally continue for a limited period, such as 26 to 52 weeks, depending on the duration of incapacity. If incapacity lasts longer, the temporary disability benefit may be replaced by a permanent disability benefit. In some systems, temporary benefits may continue for an extended period, particularly if the temporary and permanent benefit amounts are identical.

The temporary benefit is nearly always a fraction of the worker's average earnings during a period immediately before injury, usually at least one-third to one-half. A ceiling may be placed on the earnings considered in computing a benefit. Temporary benefits under work injury programs may be significantly higher than in the case of ordinary sickness. Benefits are reduced under some programs when a worker is hospitalized.

The second type of cash work injury benefit is provided in cases of permanent total disability. Generally, it becomes payable immediately after the temporary disability benefit ceases, based on a medical evaluation that the worker's incapacity is both permanent and total. The permanent total disability benefit is usually payable for life, unless the worker's condition changes. A minority of programs, however, pay only a single lump-sum grant of several years of wages.

The permanent total disability benefit usually amounts to two-thirds to three-fourths of the worker's average earnings before injury, somewhat higher than for ordinary disability benefits. In addition, unlike ordinary disability benefits, the rate usually does not vary based on the length of employment before the injury. Supplements may be added for dependents and for pensioners requiring the constant attendance of another person, in which case benefits may exceed former earnings. In some countries, the benefits of apprentices or new labor force entrants who become permanently disabled as a result of work-connected injury or disease are based on hypothetical lifetime wages or on the wage of an average worker in the particular industry. This mechanism overcomes the problem of establishing a lifetime benefit based on a very low starting wage.

The third type of cash work injury benefit is provided when permanent partial disability results in a worker's loss of partial working or earning capacity. It is usually a portion of the full benefit corresponding to the percentage loss of capacity. Alternatively, permanent partial disability benefits may be paid in the form of a lump-sum grant. Partial disability payments are generally smaller and are usually stipulated in a schedule of payments for particular types of injuries. Some systems pay the benefit as a lump sum when the extent of disability is below a stated percentage, such as 20 percent.

Medical and hospital care and rehabilitation services are also provided to injured workers. Nearly always free, they may include a somewhat wider range of services than the general sickness program. Ordinarily, they are available until the worker recovers or the condition stabilizes. In some countries, however, free care is limited, the amount being based on the duration of services or their total cost.

Survivor Benefits. Most work injury programs also provide benefits to survivors. These benefits are customarily payable to a widow, regardless of her age, until her death or remarriage; to a widower with a disability; and to orphans below specified age limits. If the benefit is not exhausted by the immediate survivors' claims, dependent parents or other relatives may be eligible for small benefits. No minimum period of coverage is required.

Survivor benefits are computed as a percentage of either the worker's average earnings immediately before death or the benefit payable (or potentially payable) at death. These percentages are typically larger than those for survivor benefits under the general program and do not normally vary with the length of covered employment. They are usually about one-third to one-half of the worker's average earnings for a widow, about half as much for each half orphan, and about two-thirds as much for each full orphan. A limit is commonly placed on the combined total of survivor benefits.

Not all countries, however, provide work injury benefits to survivors, and some do not differentiate between survivors in this category and survivors entitled to benefits under other social insurance programs. Some schemes pay only a lump sum equal to the worker's earnings over a specified number of years. Most systems also pay a funeral grant equivalent to a fixed sum or a percentage of the worker's earnings.

Administrative Organization. The functions involved in administering work injury programs differ widely between countries in which employers are not required to insure or can insure with private carriers and those in which a public agency or fund has sole responsibility for both collecting contributions and paying benefits.

Unemployment

Benefits in this category provide compensation for the loss of income resulting from involuntary unemployment. In some countries, these programs are independent of other social security measures and may be closely linked with employment services. In other countries, the unemployment programs are included with social security measures covering other short-term risks, although employment services may continue to verify unemployment and assist in a job search.

Unemployment programs, which exist mainly in industrialized countries, are compulsory and fairly broad in scope in many countries. Some countries restrict benefits to those who satisfy a means or income test. In addition to the programs offering scheduled payments, a number of countries provide lump-sum grants, payable by either a government agency or the employer; other countries provide individual severance accounts, providing total benefits equal to the value of accumulated capital in the individual account. In addition, employers in many instances are required to pay lump-sum severance indemnities to discharged workers.

Coverage. About half of the compulsory unemployment programs cover the majority of employed persons, regardless of the type of industry. Coverage under the remaining programs is limited to workers in industry and commerce. A few exclude salaried employees earning more than a specified amount. Some have special provisions covering temporary and seasonal employees. Several countries have special occupational unemployment programs, most typically for workers in the building trades, dockworkers, railway employees, and seafarers.

Voluntary insurance systems are limited to industries in which labor unions have established unemployment funds. Membership in these funds is usually compulsory for union members in a covered industry and may be open on a voluntary basis to nonunion employees. Uninsured workers, such as recent school graduates or the self-employed, for example, may be eligible for a government-subsidized assistance benefit when they become unemployed.

Source of Funds. The methods used to finance unemployment insurance are usually based on the same contributory principles as for other branches of social insurance—contributions amounting to a fixed percentage of covered wages are paid on a scheduled basis. In many cases, the government also grants a subsidy, particularly for extended benefits.

Unemployment insurance contributions are shared equally between employees and employers in many countries. Alternatively, the entire contribution may be made by the employer. However, government subsidies may be quite large, amounting to as much as two-thirds of the program's expenditures. Means-tested unemployment assistance programs are financed entirely by governments, with no employer or employee contribution.

Qualifying Conditions. To be entitled to unemployment benefits, a worker must be involuntarily unemployed and have completed a minimum period of contributions or covered employment. The most common qualifying period is six months of coverage within the year before employment ceased. In a number of industrialized countries, however, students recently out of school who are unable to find jobs may be eligible for unemployment benefits, even without a work record. This benefit provides a transition from school to work, particularly in periods of recession.

Nearly all unemployment insurance programs, as well as those providing unemployment assistance, require that applicants be capable of, and available for, work. An unemployed worker, therefore, is usually ineligible for unemployment benefits when incapacitated or otherwise unable to accept a job offer. Usually, the unemployed worker must register for work at an employment office and report regularly for as long as payments continue. This close linkage between unemployment benefits and placement services ensures that benefits will be paid only after the person has been informed of any current job opportunities and been found unsuitable.

An unemployed worker who refuses an offer of a suitable job without good cause usually will have benefits temporarily or permanently suspended. Most programs stipulate that the job offered must have been suitable for the worker. The definitions of suitable employment vary considerably. Generally, the criteria include the rate of pay for the job being offered in relation to previous earnings; distance from the worker's home; relationship to the worker's previous occupation, capabilities, and training; and the extent to which the job may involve dangerous or unhealthy work. In some countries, long-term unemployed workers may also be obliged to undertake employment retraining programs. Some countries also provide the unemployed with access to educational placements. If an unemployed worker refuses a place on a retraining program or fails, without good cause, to attend an educational placement, benefits can be temporarily or permanently suspended.

An unemployed worker may satisfy all of the qualifying conditions for a benefit but still be temporarily or permanently disqualified. Nearly all unemployment systems disqualify a worker who left voluntarily without good cause, was dismissed because of misconduct, or participated in a labor dispute leading to a work stoppage that caused the unemployment. The period of disqualification varies considerably, from a few weeks to permanent disqualification.

Unemployment Benefits. Weekly benefits are usually a percentage of average wages during a recent period. A system of wage classes rather than a single fixed percentage is used in some countries. The basic rate of unemployment benefits is usually between 40 percent and 75 percent of average earnings. However, a ceiling on the wages used for benefit computations or maximum benefit provisions may considerably narrow the range within which the basic percentage of wages applies.

Flat-rate amounts are sometimes payable instead of graduated benefits that vary with past wages and customarily differ only based on the family status or, occasionally, the age of the worker. Supplements for a spouse and children are usually added to the basic benefit of unemployed workers who are heads of families. These supplements are either flat-rate amounts or an additional percentage of average earnings.

Most countries have a waiting period of several days before unemployment benefits become payable to reduce the administrative burden of dealing with a very large number of small claims. Most waiting periods are between three and seven days. Some programs have a waiting period for each incident of unemployment, and others limit eligibility to once a year. Longer waiting periods may be prescribed for certain workers, such as the seasonally employed.

Most countries place a limit on the period during which unemployment benefits may be continuously drawn. Typically, this limit varies from eight to 36 weeks but may be longer in certain cases.

Duration of benefits may also depend on the length of the preceding period of contribution or coverage under the program. That criterion may reduce the maximum duration of unemployment benefits for workers with brief work histories. However, workers with a long history of coverage may, under some programs, have their benefit period extended well beyond the ordinary maximum.

Many unemployed workers who exhaust the right to ordinary benefits continue to receive some assistance, provided their means or incomes are below specified levels. Recipients are usually required to continue registering and reporting at an employment exchange. Some countries that have unemployment assistance but no insurance program do not place any limit on the duration of payments. A number of countries require that insured workers approaching retirement age who have been out of work for a specified period be removed from the unemployment rolls and granted a regular old-age benefit.

Administrative Organization. Unemployment insurance systems may be administered by government departments or self-governing institutions that are usually managed by representatives of insured persons, employers, and the government.

Unemployment insurance and placement service programs usually maintain a close administrative relationship that ensures that benefits are paid only to workers who are registered for employment. At the same time, this liaison increases the effectiveness of the placement services by providing an incentive, through payment of benefits, for unemployed persons to register and report regularly.

Some countries have merged the administration of unemployment insurance and employment service programs, especially at the lower administrative levels where claims are received and benefits are paid by the local employment office. Other countries require persons to register with a local employment office, but the receipt of claims and payment of benefits are handled by a separate insurance office.

In addition to providing an income for the unemployed, many governments have elaborate measures to prevent or counteract unemployment. The typical procedure is for government employment services to work with industry to promote occupational and geographic mobility of labor and to minimize unemployment caused by economic or technological developments; they do that by subsidizing the retraining and relocation of workers in industries that are declining or being restructured. Governments may grant tax and other incentives to industry to locate in areas of high unemployment, or they may allocate funds to create jobs in anticipation of periods of seasonal unemployment.

Family Allowances

The general purpose of family allowance programs is to provide additional income for families with young children to meet at least part of the added costs of their support. These programs may either be integrated with other social security measures or kept entirely separate. In this report, family allowances primarily include regular cash payments to families with children. In some countries, they also include school grants, birth grants, maternal and child health services, minimum income guarantees, and allowances for adult dependents.

Most industrialized countries have family allowance programs that originated in Europe in the 19th century when some large companies began paying premiums to workers with large families. The idea spread gradually, and several European countries enacted programs during the 1920s and 1930s. Most programs in operation today, however, have been in place since 1945.

A relatively new trend in many developing countries has been the emergence of cash transfers as an instrument to alleviate poverty and invest in human capital. In this report, these benefits are classified as family allowances since they are generally paid to families with children. Usually financed from taxation, cash transfers are almost always means tested, and the receipt of benefits may be tied to a given set of behavioral conditions, such as school attendance or meeting basic health and nutritional requirements.

Types of Systems and Coverage. Family allowance programs are generally of three types: universal, employment-related, and social assistance. The first category, in principle, provides allowances to all resident families with a specified number of children. The second category provides allowances to all wage and salary workers and, in some cases, to self-employed and nonemployed persons. Most employment-related programs continue to pay family allowances to insured persons with dependent children in their care when they retire or are temporarily off the job and receiving sickness, unemployment, work injury, disability, or other benefits. Employment-related family programs also pay allowances to widows of social security beneficiaries. The third category provides allowances to persons or households whose resources fall below a calculated standard, usually based on subsistence needs.

Source of Funds. The differences in family allowance programs are reflected in the methods used for financing. In universal and social assistance systems, the entire cost is usually covered by general revenue, although some programs may be financed with earmarked taxes or solidarity transfers from contributory programs. By contrast, countries linking eligibility with employment meet the cost of allowances entirely or in considerable part from employer contributions, usually at a uniform percentage-of-payroll rate. If employer contributions do not cover the entire cost, the remainder is usually met from a government subsidy. Few countries require an employee contribution toward family allowances, although some require self-employed persons to contribute.

Eligibility. Eligibility is commonly related to the size of the family and, in some cases, to family income. Many countries pay allowances beginning with the first child. In addition, some countries pay an allowance for a nonemployed wife or other adult dependent, even if there are no children.

In some countries, families with only one child are ineligible. Age requirements vary but are usually tied to the last year of school or the minimum working age, which are often the same and fall somewhere between ages 14 and 18. Under most programs, the continuation of schooling, apprenticeship, or vocational training qualifies a child for an extension of the age limit. In the case of children with disabilities, many countries extend the age limit beyond that for continued education or pay allowances indefinitely.

Benefits. Whether a program pays a uniform rate for all children or an increasing or decreasing amount for each additional child may reflect the history or the intent of the program. The allowance structure may vary, for example, depending on whether the primary intent is to provide assistance, stimulate population growth, or promote human capital. The allowance is often a uniform amount for every child, regardless of the number of children in a family. In other countries, the allowance in most of the other countries increases for each additional child; the payment for a fifth child, for example, may be considerably larger than that for the first or second child. In a few countries, the allowance for each child diminishes or ceases with the addition of children beyond a certain number. In some countries, family allowances (and tax exemptions for dependent family members) have been replaced or supplemented by credits or other forms of a negative income tax.

Administrative Organization. In countries where family allowances are universal or targeted to the poorest households, the program is usually administered by a government ministry, department, or semi-autonomous agency. Where allowances are payable mainly to families of employed persons and financed primarily from employer contributions, the administration may be by a semiautonomous agency under public supervision. Equalization funds may handle the program's financial operations. Each employer pays family allowances to its employees with their wages. The firm then settles with the local fund only the surplus or deficit of contributions due, after deducting allowances the firm has paid. A similar procedure of settling only surpluses or deficits is followed by the local funds in relation to the regional equalization funds under whose supervision they operate. The equalization process makes it possible to fix a uniform contribution rate for all employers, regardless of the number of children in their employees' families. It also eliminates any effect allowances might have on inducing employers to discriminate in hiring workers with children.

NOTES: The types of mandatory old-age income programs are defined as follows:

Contributory flat-rate pension: A pension amount that is independent of earnings, but can vary depending on length of service, residency, or other factors. It is financed by payroll tax contributions from employees, employers, or both.

Contributory earnings-related pension: A pension that is based on earnings. It is financed by payroll tax contributions from employees, employers, or both.

Non-contributory means-tested pension: A pension paid to eligible persons whose own or family income, assets, or both fall below certain limits. It is generally financed through government contributions, with no contributions from employers or employees.

Non-contributory universal pension: A pension paid to eligible persons based primarily on residency and not earnings or financial means. It is generally financed through government contributions, with no contributions from employers or employees.

Provident funds: Employee and employer contributions are set aside for each employee in publicly managed special funds. Benefits are generally paid as a lump sum with accrued interest.

Occupational pensions: Employers are required by law to provide private occupational retirement programs financed by employer and, in some cases, employee contributions. Benefits are paid as a lump sum, annuity, or pension.

Individual accounts: Employees and, in some cases, employers must contribute a certain percentage of earnings to an individual account managed by a public or private fund manager chosen by the employee. The accumulated capital in the individual account is used to purchase an annuity, make programmed withdrawals, or a combination of the two and may be paid as a lump sum.

- a. The benefit formula contains a flat-rate component as well as an element based on earnings or years of coverage.
- b. The statutory program has not yet been implemented.

SOURCES: Information on statutory and early pensionable ages is based on information in the country summaries in this volume. Other indicators are sourced from the World Bank, World Development Indicators, available at <https://data.worldbank.org/data-catalog/worlddevelopment-indicators>; and where information was not available, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The World Factbook (Washington D.C.: Central Intelligence Agency), available at <https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/resources/the-world-factbook/index.html>. The figures in the table reflect the latest data available from each source as of the publication of this volume.

NOTES: GDP = gross domestic product; PPP = purchasing power parity. GDP estimates are converted into international dollars using PPP rates. The statutory and early pensionable age shown in the table is the general pensionable age or the age that applies to the largest covered population.

- Population aged 14 or younger plus population aged 65 or older, divided by population aged 15–64.
- The country has no early pensionable age, has one only for specific groups, information is not available, or the pension is awarded at any age if certain qualifying conditions are met.
- There is no statutory program or the statutory program has not yet been implemented.

NOTES: This table provides an overview. Contribution rates are not directly comparable across programs and countries. The definition of earnings used to calculate contributions can vary and some rates are subject to contribution floors and ceilings. Contribution rates for self-employed persons and government funding are not represented. In some countries, only certain groups of employed persons, such as wage earners, are represented. When the contribution rate varies, either the average or the lowest rate in the range is used. In most cases, contribution rates for individual accounts do not include administrative fees. In most cases, contributions for medical benefits have been excluded. They are only included in Sickness and Maternity in countries where cash benefits and medical benefits are financed from the same contributions. Where two programs are financed in different ways or with different rates, either the aggregate rate is used or one rate for one program and a footnote for the other, if relevant. If an individual can choose whether to participate in two (or more) programs, the social insurance rate is shown.

- a. Nonstandard financing. See country profile for specific information.
- b. All or certain benefits are financed under another program.
- c. Employers pay the total cost or provide benefits directly to the insured.
- d. The statutory program has not yet been implemented.

Social insurance: See source of funds under Old Age, Disability, and Survivors.

Employer

Universal and social assistance: None.

Social insurance: None.

Government

Universal and social assistance: The total cost.

Social insurance: Provides subsidies as needed.

Qualifying Conditions

Cash sickness and maternity benefits (social insurance): There is no minimum qualifying period. A medical certification may be required.

Maternity allowance (social assistance): Paid to nonemployed pregnant mothers. A medical certification may be required.

Birth or adoption grant (universal): Paid for the birth or adoption of a child.

Medical benefits (universal): There is no minimum qualifying period.

Sickness and Maternity Benefits

Sickness benefit (social insurance): The daily benefit is 80% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last 12 months before the incapacity began (or in the total period of covered employment if less than 12 months) divided by 21 (by 25 for a six-day work week). The benefit is paid from the sixth day of incapacity (the employer pays benefits for the second to the fifth day; the first day is not paid) for up to six months.

The maximum earnings used to calculate the sickness benefit are five times the legal monthly minimum wage (10 times the legal monthly minimum wage for a six-day work week).

The legal monthly minimum wage is 55,000 drams.

The benefit is also paid to a person providing care for a sick child or adult family member.

Maternity benefit (social insurance): The daily benefit is 100% of the insured's average monthly earnings (regardless of the number of years of covered employment) divided by 30.4 (average number of days in a month). The benefit is paid for 140 days (70 days before and 70 days after the expected date of childbirth), 155 days if there are complications from childbirth, and 180 days for multiple births.

The minimum earnings used to calculate the maternity benefit are 0.5 times the legal monthly minimum wage.

The maximum earnings used to calculate the maternity benefit are 15 times the legal monthly minimum wage (employed persons) or five times the legal monthly minimum wage (self-employed persons).

The legal monthly minimum wage is 55,000 drams.

Maternity allowance (social assistance): A lump sum of 50% of the legal monthly minimum wage divided by 30.4 and multiplied by 140 is paid.

Birth or adoption grant (universal): A lump sum of 50,000 drams is paid for the first child; 150,000 for the second child (as of October 1, 2018); 1,000,000 drams for the third and fourth child; and 1,500,000 drams for each additional child. The lump sum is paid within the 12-month period after childbirth or adoption.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted on an ad hoc basis depending on available resources.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Government health providers offer medical services directly to patients. Benefits include general and specialist care, hospitalization, laboratory services, dental care, maternity care, and transportation.

Cost sharing: Patients pay part of the cost of appliances. Medicine is free if provided while the patient is hospitalized or for pensioners. The government fully or partially covers certain medical treatments.

Dependents' Medical Benefits

Medical benefits for dependents are the same as those for the insured.

Free medicine is provided for children with a disability younger than age 16 and for all children younger than age 1.

State Health Agency (<http://www.moh.am/>) purchases publicly financed medical services from health care provider organizations and monitors the use of state financial resources.

Unemployment

Regulatory Framework

No statutory benefits are provided.

Note: In 2015, unemployment benefits were discontinued and replaced by employment-promotion measures, including cash assistance to persons who are uncompetitive in the labor market.

Under the labor code (2004), employers are required to provide severance pay to dismissed employees. The amount is the employee's average monthly salary if dismissal is due to firm closure or downsizing. If dismissal is due to retirement, military service, mutual consent, a change in the essential conditions of employment, or if the employee is unable to perform the duties of the position, for example due to disability, the amount depends on the employee's length of service: 10 days of pay for one year of service, 25 days for more than one and up to five years, 30 days for more than five and up to 10 years, 35 days for more than 10 and up to 15 years, and 44 days for more than 15 years.

Bereavement allowance (Social Security, means tested): Paid to a surviving partner who has not re-partnered. The surviving partner and the deceased must meet certain residency requirements.

Additional assistance: Persons receiving the bereavement allowance automatically receive the pension supplement, energy supplement, and pensioner concession card, and may be eligible for other supplementary benefits. See Family Allowances.

Social security survivor benefits are generally payable abroad for up to six weeks.

Survivor benefit (Superannuation, mandatory occupational pension): Paid to named beneficiaries if the insured dies before withdrawing the full account balance.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (Age Pension, Social Security, means tested unless blind): Up to A$916.30 (if single) or A$690.70 (if partnered) is paid every two weeks (September 2018).

Work bonus (income tested): Pensioners can earn up to A$250 every two weeks without it being counted as income under the pension means test. In addition, any unused amount of the A$250 work bonus accumulates in an employment income bank, up to A$6,500. Credit in the income bank can be carried forward to future years and used to offset employment income that would otherwise be taken into account under the pension means test.

Additional assistance: See Family Allowances.

Medical card (Commonwealth Seniors Health Card, Social Security, income tested): Provides access to reduced-cost medicine and medical services.

Benefit adjustment: Social security pensions are adjusted in March and September based on the greater of the increase in the consumer price index or the pensioner and beneficiary living cost index. The combined couple rate of the old-age pension is benchmarked to the male total average weekly earnings. The Commonwealth Seniors Health Card is adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index.

Old-age benefit (Superannuation, mandatory occupational account): The account balance may be paid as a lump sum or as an annuity.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension (Disability Support Pension, Social Security, means tested unless blind): Up to A$797.90 (if single) or A$601.50 (if partnered) is paid every two weeks if aged 21 or older. If younger than age 21 with no dependent children, up to A$562.20 (if single and living away from the family home, or if partnered), A$412.80 (if aged 18 to 20 and living in the family home), or A$364.20 (if younger than age 18 and living in the family home) is paid every two weeks (January 2017).

Additional assistance: See Family Allowances.

Caregiver payment (Carer Payment, Social Security, means tested): Paid every two weeks at the same rate as the old-age pension.

Caregiver supplement (carer supplement): A$600 is paid once a year. The benefit is paid for each person receiving care.

Additional assistance: See Family Allowances.

The federal government provides funding for residential and in-home aged care and a portion of public hospital operating costs.

Universal (pharmaceutical benefits): Cost sharing for prescription drugs.

Employment related and social assistance (sickness and parental benefits): The total cost.

Qualifying Conditions

Cash sickness benefit (Sickness Allowance, social assistance, means tested): Must be aged 22 to the normal retirement age, provide a medical certificate stating that the claimant is incapable of working or studying, and either have a job or study to return to when fully recovered.

Additional assistance: Persons receiving cash sickness benefits automatically receive the energy supplement, health care card, and pharmaceutical allowance, and may be eligible for other supplementary benefits. See Family Allowances.

Cash parental benefit (Parental Leave Pay, employment related, income tested): Paid to the primary caregiver of a newborn or recently adopted child. Must have worked at least 330 hours in at least 10 of the 13 months before the birth or adoption of the child, with no more than an eight-week gap between any two consecutive working days.

Additional assistance: Parents receiving cash parental benefits are ineligible for certain other family allowances. For multiple births, a parent can receive parental leave pay for one child and the family tax benefit (part A) newborn upfront payment and newborn supplement for each additional child, subject to also meeting the family tax benefit income test. See Family Allowances.

Income test: The employee's annual adjusted taxable income in the year before childbirth or adoption must not exceed A$150,000.

Cash partner benefit (Dad and Partner Pay, employment related, income tested): Paid to fathers and partners who are caring for a newborn child or recently adopted child. Must have worked at least 330 hours in at least 10 of the 13 months before the birth or adoption of the child, with no more than an eight-week gap between any two consecutive working days.

Income test: The employee's annual adjusted taxable income in the previous financial year must not exceed A$150,000.

Birth grant (social assistance): Parents not receiving parental leave pay may be eligible for the newborn upfront payment and newborn supplement. See family tax benefit (part A) under Family Allowances.

Stillbirth grant (Stillborn Baby Payment, social assistance, income tested): Paid to the mother of a stillborn baby. Must not be receiving parental leave pay.

Income test: Estimated household income must not exceed A$62,057 for the six-month period beginning on the day of the stillborn child's delivery.

Medical and pharmaceutical benefits (Medicare, universal): Eligible persons must enroll with Medicare (excludes applications for a parent visa).

Sickness and Maternity Benefits

Sickness benefit (Sickness Allowance, social assistance, means tested): If aged 22 or older with no dependent children, up to A$550.20 (if single) or A$496.70 (if partnered) is paid every two weeks. If single and aged 22 or older with dependent children or aged 60 or older and has received the benefit for at least nine consecutive months, up to A$595.10 is paid every two weeks (September 2018). The benefit is paid after a seven-day waiting period.

Additional assistance: See Family Allowances.

Parental benefit (Parental Leave Pay, employment related, income tested): A$719.35 a week is paid for up to 18 weeks.

Additional assistance: See Family Allowances.

Partner benefit (Dad and Partner Pay, employment related, income tested): A$719.35 a week is paid for up to two weeks.

Birth grant (social assistance): See family tax benefit (part A) under Family Allowances.

Stillbirth grant (Stillborn Baby Payment, social assistance, income tested): A lump sum of A$2,199.83 is paid for the first stillbirth; A$1,100.55 is paid for each subsequent stillbirth.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually or in March and September based on changes in the consumer price index.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Medical benefits (Medicare, universal): Benefits include free or subsidized primary and specialist care, and inpatient and outpatient services. The Medicare Benefit Schedule (MBS) establishes fees by service. Only services provided by MBS-eligible health professionals are subsidized. 100% of the schedule fee is reimbursed for general practitioner services, 85% for other outpatient private practitioner services, and 75% for inpatient services (private insurance reimburses at least 25% for inpatient services). Additional reimbursements are provided once certain out-of-pocket cost thresholds are met. Standard ward inpatient treatment provided by staff doctors in public hospitals is free.

Pharmaceutical benefit (Pharmaceutical Benefits Scheme [PBS], Medicare, universal): Patients pay up to A$40.30 for each prescription for most prescribed medicine; up to A$6.50 for persons with low income and a current concession card. Medicine is available at a reduced cost for general patients or free for concession card holders once out-of-pocket costs exceed A$1,550.70 or A$390, respectively (January 2019).

The pharmaceutical benefit copayment and safety net threshold increase in January each year based on changes in the consumer price index.

Dependents' Medical Benefits

Medical and pharmaceutical benefits for dependents are the same as those for the insured.

Work Injury

Regulatory Framework

First laws: For the six states, enacted from 1902 (Western Australia) to 1918 (Tasmania), 1911 (seamen's compensation), 1912 (commonwealth government employees), 1931 (Northern Territory), and 1946 (Australian Capital Territory).

Current laws: 1942, 1987, and 1998 (New South Wales); 1958, 1985, and 1993 (Victoria); 1986 (South Australia); 1986 (Northern Territory); 1988 (Tasmania); 1988 (commonwealth government employees); 1989 (Australian Capital Territory); 1992 (Seafarers compensation); 2001 (Western Australia); and 2003 (Queensland).

Australia

Type of program: Employer-liability program through a public or private carrier.

Note: Some states still allow common-law actions against an employer for negligence.

Coverage

Employed persons.

Voluntary coverage for some self-employed persons.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: The total cost of self-insurance.

Employer: The total cost (pays insurance premiums). The cost of premiums varies depending on the assessed degree of risk. Some employers are permitted to self-insure.

Government: None; contributes as an employer.

Qualifying Conditions

Must be assessed with a work injury or occupational disease.

Temporary Disability Benefits

The benefit varies depending on the state, territory, or jurisdiction in which the award is made. Generally, at least 95% of earnings is paid for at least 13 weeks. Benefits may be paid for an extended period at reduced levels.

The maximum benefit levels are determined by the states and territories.

Income from the temporary disability benefit is taken into account for entitlement to means-tested disability benefits paid under Old Age, Disability, and Survivors.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are generally adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Permanent disability pension: Lump-sum payments are made for specified permanent injuries and for pain and suffering. Payment levels vary depending on the degree of impairment, pain, and suffering. They also vary among the Commonwealth, states, and territories.

Income from the permanent disability lump sum for a work injury is taken into account for entitlement to means-tested disability benefits paid under Old Age, Disability, and Survivors.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are generally adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Benefits include the reasonable cost of medical care, hospitalization, transportation, nursing care, and rehabilitation.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor benefit: A lump sum is paid for each dependent survivor. A weekly payment is paid for each child younger than age 16 (age 25 if a full-time student).

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are generally adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index.

Funeral grant: The reasonable cost of a funeral is paid.

Administrative Organization

Commonwealth, state, and territory governments set up and run workers' compensation programmes. Workers' Compensation Commission administers claims in most states (except Australian Capital Territory, Northern Territory, Tasmania, and Western Australia, which have multi-insurer systems with claims administered by insurers).

Workers' Compensation Commission administers claims for Commonwealth employees.

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1941 (child endowment).

Current laws: 1991 (orphan pension) and 1999 (family assistance).

Type of program: Universal (social security) and social assistance system.

Note: On July 1, 2018, a new Child Care Subsidy was introduced to replace the Child Care Rebate and the Child Care Benefit.

Coverage

Residents of Australia.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: None.

Employer: None.

Government: The total cost.

Qualifying Conditions

Family tax benefit (part A): Paid to a family with dependent children younger than age 16 (aged 16 to 19 if a full-time secondary student). Must provide at least 35% of a dependent child's care.

The maximum family tax benefit (part A) is paid if annual family income does not exceed A$53,728. Families receive a partial benefit for annual family income up to A$99,536 with one dependent child aged 19 or younger (the income ceiling is raised for each additional dependent child aged 19 or younger).

To receive the maximum family tax benefit (part A), children aged 1 or older must be fully immunized, and children of families receiving an income support payment must undergo a health check at age 4.

End-of-year supplement: Paid to families receiving the family tax benefit (part A) if annual family income is A$80,000 or less.

Newborn upfront payment and newborn supplement: Paid to parents with a child born or adopted on or after March 1, 2014, who are eligible for the family tax benefit (part A); the child must be younger than age 1 if born or placed into care, or any age if adopted. Must not be receiving parental leave pay.

Multiple birth allowance: Paid for the birth of three or more children at one time. The allowance is paid until the children are age 16 (age 18 if at least three of the children are full-time secondary students).

Additional assistance: Persons receiving the family tax benefit (part A) may be eligible for additional assistance. See below.

Family tax benefit (part B): Paid to a single parent, grandparent, or great-grandparent caring for a dependent child younger than age 16 (age 18 if a full-time secondary student), or to a couple with one primary earner and caring for a dependent child younger than age 13. Must provide at least 35% of the dependent child's care and not be receiving cash parental benefits. See Sickness and Maternity.

The maximum rate is paid if the secondary earner's annual income does not exceed A$5,621. Couples and single parents where the primary earner has annual income above A$100,000 are ineligible. Couples where the primary earner has annual income of up to A$100,000 receive a partial benefit if the secondary earner's annual income is less than A$28,087 and the youngest child is younger than age 5, or less than A$21,864 and the youngest child is aged 5 to 18.

End-of-year supplement: Paid to families receiving the family tax benefit (part B).

Additional assistance: Families receiving family tax benefit (part B) may receive the energy supplement.

Parenting payment (social assistance, means tested): Paid to the primary caregiver of a child younger than age 8 (if the caregiver is single) or age 6 (if the caregiver has a partner). Only one parent can receive the payment.

Additional assistance: Partnered parents receiving the parenting payment automatically receive the energy supplement and the health care card. Single parents receiving the parenting payment automatically receive the pension supplement, energy supplement, and the pensioner concession card. All persons receiving the parenting payment may be eligible for other supplementary benefits. See below.

Child care subsidy (Social Security, income tested): Paid to a family with a child younger than age 14 (aged 18 if disabled) who needs special care or supervision. Families must meet certain residency requirements and follow a vaccination schedule.

The child care subsidy rate varies based on the family's combined annual income and ranges from 20% (for families with annual income of at least A$341,248 but less than A$351,248) to 85% (for families with annual income of A$66,958 or less).

Income test: The family's combined annual adjusted taxable income must not exceed A$351,248.

Assistance for isolated children (Social Security): Paid for primary, secondary, and certain tertiary students who do not have reasonable daily access to an appropriate state school, because of geographical isolation or because the student has a disability or special needs. The student must be an Australian citizen or permanent resident who lives in Australia during the school year, be undertaking approved studies (enrolled in and undertaking full-time studies in an approved education or training program), meet the age criteria, and meet certain other conditions. Four separate benefits may be paid:

Boarding allowance: Paid for a student who boards away from his or her principal family home. A supplementary allowance is paid if the student is a member of a lower-income family. The student must not receive a pension.

Second home allowance: Paid for a student who lives in a second family home to have daily access to appropriate schooling. The student must not receive a pension.

Distance education allowance: Paid for a student who lives at his or her principal family home while studying remotely. The student must not receive a pension.

Assistance for isolated children pensioner education supplement: Paid to the family of a student who meets the qualifying conditions for the boarding allowance, second home allowance, or distance education allowance, except for the requirement of not receiving a pension. Must receive or be entitled to receive a disability support pension or a parenting payment (single).

Additional assistance to social security beneficiaries: Persons receiving certain social security or tax benefits under Old Age, Disability, and Survivors; Sickness and Maternity; Unemployment; and Family Allowances may also receive:

Energy supplement: Paid to assist with household expenses, including energy costs, to persons receiving most social security benefits.

Health care card: Provides reduced costs for pharmaceuticals and medical services to persons receiving certain income support and families receiving the maximum family tax benefit (part A); also used by state, territory, and local governments to target recipients for their concessions, including public transport.

Pensioner concession card: Provides reduced costs for prescribed medicines and medical services to persons receiving an old-age pension, bereavement allowance, caregiver payment, disability support pension, or parenting payment (single), and, under certain conditions, to persons receiving the adult unemployment benefit, youth unemployment benefit, parenting payment (partnered), partner allowance, cash sickness benefits, special benefit, or widow allowance.

Pension supplement: Must be receiving an old-age pension, bereavement allowance, caregiver payment, or certain other benefits; persons older than the normal retirement age receiving the parenting payment, partner allowance, special benefit, widow allowance, or certain other benefits; persons receiving the disability support pension except if younger than age 21 with no dependent children; and persons younger than the normal retirement age receiving the parenting payment (if single).

Pharmaceutical allowance: Must be receiving cash sickness benefits or, under certain conditions, the disability support pension, widow allowance, adult unemployment benefit, youth unemployment benefit, parenting payment, partner allowance, special benefit, or certain other allowances.

Remote area allowance: A tax-free allowance is paid to persons receiving most social security benefits and living in certain areas officially designated as remote.

Rent assistance: Paid to persons receiving certain benefits who are paying rent above a set level, based on family situation. Special rules apply to persons younger than age 25; younger than age 21 and receiving a disability support pension; and living in retirement villages, sharing accommodation, or paying for meals.

Telephone allowance:

Basic rate: Paid under certain conditions to assist with the cost of maintaining a telephone to persons receiving the disability support pension, parenting payment, adult unemployment benefit, cash sickness benefits, partner allowance, widow allowance, special benefit, or youth unemployment benefit.

Higher rate: Paid under certain conditions to assist with the cost of maintaining a telephone and internet connection to persons receiving the disability support pension.

Utilities allowance: Paid to assist with the cost of regular utility bills to certain persons receiving the disability support pension (if younger than age 21 with no dependent children), partner allowance, or widow allowance.

Family Allowance Benefits

Family tax benefit (part A): Up to A$182.84 is paid for a child younger than age 13, generally depending on family income; up to A$237.86 if aged 13 to 19 and in secondary school.

End-of-year supplement: Up to A$737.30 is paid annually for each eligible child at the end of the financial year (September 2018).

Newborn upfront payment and newborn supplement: A$2,199.83 is paid for the first child; A$1,100.55 for each subsequent child. The benefit is spread over 13 weeks.

Multiple birth allowance: A$158.06 is paid every two weeks for triplets; A$210.56 for quadruplets or more.

Family tax benefit (part B): Up to A$155.54 is paid every two weeks for a child younger than age 5; up to A$108.64 if aged 5 to 13 (up to age 18 for single parent, grandparent, or great-grandparent caregivers).

End-of-year supplement: Up to A$357.70 is paid annually for each eligible child at the end of the financial year (September 2018).

Parenting payment (social assistance, means tested): Up to A$496.70 is paid every two weeks for a partnered parent (A$595.10 if the partners are separated by illness, respite care, or imprisonment); up to A$768.50 (including the pension supplement) for a single parent (September 2018).

Child care subsidy (Social Security, income tested): The benefit amount varies depending on family income, the type and amount of care, and the number of hours that parents spent in certain activities, including paid and unpaid work, volunteer work, and training courses. Benefits are paid directly to the child care provider.

Families with annual earnings exceeding A$186,958 are subject to an annual subsidy cap of A$10,190 per child.

Assistance for isolated children scheme (Social Security): Four separate benefits may be paid:

Boarding allowance: A basic allowance of A$8,249 a year is paid. An additional allowance (means tested) of A$2,366 may be paid (January 2018).

Second home allowance: A$240.30 is paid every two weeks (January 2018).

Distance education allowance: A$4,124 a year is paid (January 2018).

Assistance for isolated children pensioner education supplement: A$62.40 is paid every two weeks (January 2018).

Additional assistance to social security beneficiaries:

Energy supplement: Up to A$14.10 is paid every two weeks, depending on the specific benefit received, marital status, number of dependents, age, dependency status, and certain other conditions. Recipients may change the payment schedule to once every three months or once a year.

Health care card: Provides cardholders with reduced costs for prescribed medicines and medical services.

Pension supplement: Up to A$67.80 is paid every two weeks, depending on the marital status, number of dependents, and living arrangements. Recipients may change the payment schedule to once every three months (September 2018).

Australia

Pensioner concession card: Provides cardholders with reduced costs for prescribed medicines and medical services.

Pharmaceutical allowance: A$6.20 (if single) or A$3.10 (if partnered) is paid every two weeks.

Remote area allowance: A$18.20 (if single), A$15.60 (if partnered), or A$7.30 (for each dependent child) is paid every two weeks.

Rent assistance: Up to A$180.18 is paid every two weeks, depending on marital status, number of dependents, and the level of rent (September 2018).

Telephone allowance: A$29.60 (basic rate) or A$43.80 (higher rate) is paid every three months (September 2018).

Utilities allowance: A$158.50 (if single) or A$79.25 (if partnered) is paid every three months (September 2018).

Benefit adjustment: Most benefits are adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index.

Old-age social allowance (social assistance): Age 67 (men) or age 62 (women) and does not qualify for the NDC old-age labor pension; age 57 for mothers who gave birth to and raised at least three children, or one child with a disability, until age 8.

Employment must cease.

Disability labor pension (NDC): Must have at least five years of covered employment plus four months of covered employment for each year of work since age 15. The pension is paid based on three assessed degrees of disability: Group I (total disability, incapacity for any work, and requires constant care); Group II (disability, incapacity for any work, but does not require constant attendance); or Group III (incapacity for usual work).

For a Group II or Group III disability, the notional account balance must be sufficient to provide a pension of at least the minimum monthly disability labor pension.

The minimum monthly disability labor pension is 116.27 manat.

Covered employment includes noncontributory periods of active military or alternative national service; periods providing care for a person with a Group I disability, a child younger than age 18 with a disability, and persons aged 70 or older; periods receiving unemployment benefits or professional retraining; periods receiving a Group I or II disability labor pension as a result of a work injury or occupational disease; and periods receiving a disability pension from younger than age 18 until the normal retirement age.

A medical commission assesses and periodically reviews the degree of disability until certification of a permanent disability.

The disability labor pension is payable abroad under bilateral agreement (citizens only).

Disability social allowance (social assistance): Paid to persons who do not qualify for a disability labor pension with a Group I, Group II, or Group III disability; and children younger than age 18 with disabilities.

Survivor labor pension (NDC): The deceased must have had at least five years of covered employment plus four months of covered employment for each full year of work since age 15. The notional account balance must be sufficient to provide a pension of at least the minimum monthly survivor labor pension.

The minimum monthly survivor labor pension is 116.27 manat.

Eligible survivors include a retired widow(er) or a widow(er) with a Group I or II disability, a nonworking widow(er) caring for a child of the deceased younger than age 18, children younger than age 18 (age 23 if a full-time student, no limit if disabled before age 18). Other eligible survivors include dependent parents who are retired or have a Group I or II disability and a parent, grandparent, or sibling who does not work but cares for one or more of the deceased's children, siblings, or grandchildren younger than age 8.

Survivor's supplement: Paid to family members of deceased National Heroes of Azerbaijan and family members of citizens who died for the country's independence.

The survivor labor pension is payable abroad under bilateral agreement (citizens only).

Survivor's social allowance (social assistance): Paid to a dependent survivor if the deceased did not receive and was not entitled to receive an old-age or disability labor pension.

Funeral grant (NDC): Paid when an old-age or disability labor pensioner dies.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age labor pension (NDC): The monthly pension is based on the total value of notional contributions divided by the average life expectancy at retirement (currently 144 months).

The total value of notional contributions is based on the number of years of employment before January 1, 2006, and the value of contributions since January 1, 2006.

Early pension: Calculated in the same way as the old-age labor pension.

Gradual retirement pension: 100% of the old-age labor pension is paid; the pension is recalculated after every six years of contributions and after full retirement.

Special supplements: 110 manat a month is paid to persons with a Group I visual disability and 22 manat to other persons with a Group I disability; 110 manat a month to war veterans with a Group I disability (154 manat to participants in the Great Patriotic War), 77 manat with a Group II disability (121 manat to participants in the Great Patriotic War), 55 manat with a Group III disability (99 manat to participants in the Great Patriotic War); 11 manat to persons who care for children younger than age of 18 with disabilities and rehabilitated victims of political repression. (July 2017).

Benefit adjustment: The old-age labor pension is adjusted annually based on increases in the average national monthly salary.

Old-age social allowance (social assistance): 72.60 manat a month is paid.

Benefit adjustment: The old-age social allowance is adjusted at least once a year.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability labor pension (NDC): The monthly disability labor pension is based on the total value of notional contributions, divided by the expected number of months of pension payments multiplied by the insurance duration coefficient.

The total value of notional contributions is based on the number of years of employment before January 1, 2006, and the value of contributions since January 1, 2006.

The insurance duration coefficient is the number of months of covered employment required to qualify for a disability labor pension divided by 192.

The minimum monthly disability labor pension is 116.27 manat.

Disability social allowance (social assistance):

81.07 manat a month is paid for a Group I disability and for children younger than age 18 with disabilities; 60.50 manat a month for Group II disability; 52.03 manat a month for a Group III disability.

Persons whose illnesses are the result of radiation accidents receive 237 manat a year for medical treatment (2017).

Benefit adjustment: The disability social allowance amount is adjusted at least once a year.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor labor pension (NDC): The pension is calculated in the same way as the disability labor pension, and split equally among eligible survivors.

The minimum combined monthly survivor labor pension is 116.27 manat.

Survivor's supplement: 110 manat a month is paid to family members of deceased National Heroes of Azerbaijan; 93.5 manat a month to family members of citizens who died for the country's independence (2017).

Survivor's social allowance (social assistance):

66.55 manat a month is paid.

Benefit adjustment: The survivor's social allowance is adjusted at least once a year.

Funeral grant (NDC): Three times the minimum monthly labor pension is paid.

The minimum monthly labor pension is 116.27 manat.

Regulatory Framework

First and current law: 1976 (social insurance).

Type of program: Social insurance system.

Note: An income-tested benefit is paid to certain elderly persons, persons with disabilities, and survivors under Family Allowances.

Coverage

Citizens of Bahrain working in establishments with at least one employee or in one of the Gulf Cooperation Council countries (Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, or United Arab Emirates).

Voluntary coverage for self-employed persons, persons who previously had at least five years of mandatory coverage, and citizens of Bahrain working abroad.

Exclusions: Household workers, certain groups of agricultural employees, casual workers, temporary noncitizen workers, and other groups specified by law.

Special system for public-sector employees.

Source of Funds

Insured person: 6% of monthly covered earnings; 15% of monthly declared income for the voluntarily insured.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are 4,000 dinars.

Self-employed person: 15% of monthly covered income.

The monthly income used to calculate contributions is determined by the self-employed person when joining the system.

The minimum monthly income used to calculate contributions is 200 dinars. If the self-employed person chooses a monthly income that is higher than 200 dinars when joining the system, the monthly income may be decreased annually by 5% but must not fall below 200 dinars.

The maximum monthly income used to calculate contributions when joining the system is 2,000 dinars. The maximum may be increased annually by 5% but must not exceed 4,000 dinars.

Employer: 9% of monthly covered payroll.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are 4,000 dinars.

Government: None.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age pension: Age 60 (men) or age 55 (women) with at least 10 years of contributions.

Contributions may be credited under certain conditions for periods of employment prior to joining the program.

Usual employment must cease. A pensioner may work in a new job as long as the combined monthly income (pension plus earnings) does not exceed his or her average monthly earnings in the last two years.

Pension supplement: Paid to supplement an old-age pension.

Early pension: At any age with at least 20 years (men) or 15 years (women) of contributions.

Compensation for prolonged service: Paid if the insured has more than 40 years of contributions.

Old-age settlement: Age 60 (men) or age 55 (women) with less than 10 years of contributions.

Employment must cease.

The old-age settlement may be paid under certain other conditions, such as if the insured is incarcerated, permanently emigrates, becomes self-employed, is eligible for a pension from a different program, or is a married, divorced, or widowed woman at the time of the application.

Disability pension: Must be younger than the normal retirement age, be assessed with an incapacity for work that is expected to last for at least six months, and have at least six consecutive months of contributions immediately before the disability began or 12 nonconsecutive months of contributions with three months immediately before the disability began. The pension is also paid if the disability began within one year of ceasing contributions.

Pension supplement: Paid to supplement the disability pension.

The disability pension is payable abroad under certain conditions.

Disability settlement: Must be younger than the normal retirement age, be assessed with an incapacity for work that is expected to last for at least six months, and not meet the contribution requirements for a disability pension.

Survivor pension: The deceased received or was entitled to receive an old-age or disability pension at the time of death. The pension is also paid if the deceased died within one year of ceasing contributions, regardless of age.

Eligible survivors include a widow, a widower with a disability, orphans (unmarried daughters of any age; sons up to age 22, age 26 if a full-time student, no limit if disabled), and the deceased's dependent parents, brothers, and sisters.

Earnings test: No pension is paid to an orphan if his or her earnings are at least equal to the survivor pension.

The survivor pension for widows, daughters, or sisters ceases upon (re)marriage but may be reinstated if the survivor subsequently divorces or is widowed.

Pension supplement: Paid to supplement the survivor pension.

Marriage grant: Paid to each woman receiving a survivor pension upon (re)marriage. The grant is paid to each eligible survivor only once.

If a widow remarries or dies after the death of her insured or pensioner spouse, or if any of the survivors' pensions cease for any reason, the pension is redistributed to the remaining eligible survivors according to a schedule in law.

Survivor settlement: The deceased received or was entitled to receive an old-age or disability settlement at the time of death.

Eligible survivors include a widow, a widower with a disability, orphans (unmarried daughters of any age; sons up to age 22, age 26 if a full-time student, no limit if disabled), and the deceased's dependent parents, brothers, and sisters.

Death grant: Paid to eligible survivors according to a schedule in law when an insured person or pensioner dies.

Eligible survivors include a widow, a widower with a disability, orphans (unmarried daughters of any age; sons up to age 22, age 26 if a full-time student, no limit if disabled), and the deceased's dependent parents, brothers, and sisters.

Funeral grant: Paid to a widow, the deceased's eldest son, or the person who paid for the funeral.

Survivor benefits are payable abroad under certain conditions.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension: 2% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last two years of contributions multiplied by the number of years of contributions is paid.

The maximum contribution period used to calculate the pension is 40 years (up to five years of credited contributions may be used to calculate the pension if the insured's total contribution period does not exceed 30 years).

The insured's average monthly earnings in the last two years of contributions used to calculate benefits must not exceed 150% of his or her monthly earnings five years before claiming the pension.

The minimum monthly old-age pension is the insured's average contributory wage in the last two years of contributions or 200 dinars, whichever is less. The minimum monthly pension for each family member (including the pensioner) is 35 dinars; the combined total may not exceed the insured's average contributory wage over the last two years.

The contributory wage is the insured's total monthly wage received in January of each year.

The maximum monthly old-age pension (excluding the pension supplement) is 80% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last two years of contributions.

Pension supplement: 10% of the old-age pension is paid. Instead of an additional 10%, the insured may choose a lump sum of 3% of his or her average monthly earnings in the last two years of contributions multiplied by 12 times the number of years of contributions.

Early pension: The pension is reduced by 20% if it is claimed before age 45, by 15% if it is claimed from age 45 to 49, or by 10% if it is claimed from age 50 to 54.

Compensation for prolonged service: A lump sum of 11% of the insured's average annual earnings in the last two years is paid for each year of contributions exceeding 40 years.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are increased by 3% every January.

Old-age settlement: A lump sum is paid of 15% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last two years multiplied by 12 times the number of years of contributions plus 5% interest from the date contributions cease until the date the settlement is paid.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension: The pension is 44% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last year of contributions before the disability began or 2% of the insured's average earnings in the last year of contributions multiplied by the number of years of contributions, whichever is greater.

The insured's average earnings in the last year of contributions used to calculate benefits must not exceed 150% of his or her monthly earnings five years before the disability began.

The minimum monthly disability pension is 44% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last year of contributions or 200 dinars, whichever is greater.

The maximum monthly disability pension (excluding the pension supplement) is 80% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last year of contributions.

Pension supplement: 10% of the disability pension is paid. Instead of an additional 10%, the pensioner may choose a lump sum of 3% of the average monthly earnings in the last year of contributions multiplied by 12 times the number of years of contributions.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are increased by 3% every January.

Disability settlement: A lump sum is paid of 15% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last year of contributions multiplied by 12 times the number of years of contributions plus 5% interest from the date the insured ceased employment due to disability until the date the settlement is paid.

Survivor Benefits

Old Age, Disability, and Survivors

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1951.

Current laws: 1953 (regulations); 1978, 1995, 1997, 1999, and 2005 (directives); 2009 (guideline on rural pensions); 2010 (social insurance); 2011 (social insurance); 2014 (pension portability and guideline on unified pension for rural and nonsalaried urban residents); 2015 (inclusion of civil servants and public-sector employees); and 2018 (contribution collection).

Type of program: Social insurance, individual account, and noncontributory system.

The basic pension insurance program has two components: a social insurance pension and mandatory individual accounts. The pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents have two components: a noncontributory pension and individual accounts.

Note: Since July 2011, existing regional and local social security programs, including pooling arrangements, are gradually being unified under the country's first national law on social insurance. The government aims to establish a comprehensive, equitable, and unified pension system that covers both urban and rural residents by 2020.

Coverage

Social insurance and mandatory individual account (Basic pension insurance): Employees (including legally employed foreigners and migrants, and part-time employees) in urban enterprises and urban institutions managed as enterprises; self-employed persons and small business owners with no employees; casual workers; and civil servants and certain public-sector employees.

Noncontributory and individual account (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): Rural and nonsalaried urban residents aged 16 or older.

Exclusions: Students and persons covered under the basic pension insurance scheme.

Source of Funds

Insured person

Social insurance (Basic pension insurance): None, or as determined by local government regulations.

Mandatory individual account (Basic pension insurance): 8% of gross average monthly covered earnings in the previous year.

The minimum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are 60% of the local average monthly wage for the previous year.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are 300% of the local average monthly wage for the previous year.

Noncontributory (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): None.

Individual account (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): A choice of 100 yuan to 2,000 yuan a year based on 12 scales. Local governments may adjust the number and levels of scales.

Self-employed person

Social insurance (Basic pension insurance): 12% of the local average monthly wage.

Mandatory individual account (Basic pension insurance): 8% of the local average monthly wage.

Noncontributory (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): None.

Individual account (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): A choice of 100 yuan to 2,000 yuan a year based on 12 scales. Local governments may adjust the number and levels of scales.

Mandatory individual account (Basic pension insurance): None.

Noncontributory (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): None.

Individual account (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): None.

Government

Social insurance (Basic pension insurance): Central and local governments contribute as employers and provide subsidies as needed.

Mandatory individual account (Basic pension insurance): Central and local governments provide subsidies as needed.

Noncontributory (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): The central government finances the total cost (at least 88 yuan a month per insured person) in the central and western regions and 50% of the cost in the eastern region. Local governments cover 50% of the cost in the eastern region and may make additional contributions.

Individual account (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): Pays contributions for residents living under the poverty line; local governments provide a minimum annual subsidy of 30 yuan to the individual account of each insured person (at least 60 yuan for those who contribute at least 500 yuan).

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age pension (Basic pension insurance): The pension consists of a social insurance pension and a mandatory individual account.

Social insurance pension (central government guidelines): Age 60 (men and professional women), age 55 (non-professional salaried women), or age 50 (other categories of women), with at least 15 years of contributions.

Age 55 (men) or age 45 (women) with at least 15 years of contributions if employed in arduous or unhealthy work.

The minimum pension is paid with at least 15 years of coverage.

Early pension: Age 50 (men) or age 45 (women) with at least 10 years of contributions and assessed with a total disability; age 55 (men) or age 45 (women) with eight to 10 years of continuous contributions if employed in arduous or unhealthy work.

Insured persons who reach the normal retirement age with less than 15 years of contributions may continue making contributions until they reach 15 years or transfer their pension entitlements to the schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents. Those who joined the basic pension insurance program before 2011 and have at least 10 but less than 15 years of contributions at the normal retirement age may make a lump-sum contribution to become eligible for the basic pension.

Mandatory individual account (central government guidelines): Age 60 (men and professional women), age 55 (non-professional salaried women), or age 50 (other categories of women), with at least 15 years of contributions.

Age 55 (men) or age 45 (women) with at least 15 years of contributions if employed in arduous or unhealthy work.

Early pension: Age 50 (men) or age 45 (women) with at least 10 years of contributions and assessed with a total disability; age 55 (men) or age 45 (women) with eight to 10 years of continuous contributions if employed in arduous or unhealthy work.

Insured persons who joined the basic pension insurance program before 2011 and have at least 10 but less than 15 years of coverage at the normal retirement age may make a lump-sum contribution or continue to pay contributions to become eligible for the basic pension. With less than 15 years of contributions, the insured can choose to stop making contributions and receive a lump-sum payment, or to transfer the account balance to the schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents.

Old-age pension (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): The pension consists of a noncontributory pension and an individual account.

Noncontributory pension: Age 60 and not entitled to a social insurance old-age pension under the basic pension insurance program.

Individual account: Age 60 with at least 15 years of contributions and not entitled to an individual account old-age pension under the basic pension insurance program.

Insured persons who reach age 60 with less than 15 years of coverage can continue making contributions to the individual account until they become eligible or make a lump-sum contribution to become eligible for the rural or nonsalaried urban resident's old-age pension.

Disability pension (Basic pension insurance): The pension consists of a social insurance pension and a mandatory individual account.

Social insurance pension (central government guidelines): Must be assessed with a total incapacity for work and not qualify for an early social insurance old-age pension under the basic pension insurance program.

Medical experts of the Labor Ability Appraisal Committee assess the degree of disability.

Mandatory individual account (central government guidelines): No cash benefit is provided.

Survivor pension (Basic pension insurance): The pension consists of a social insurance pension and a mandatory individual account.

Social insurance pension (central government guidelines): The deceased was a pensioner or in covered employment at the time of death.

Eligible survivors include a widow(er) and dependent children and parents.

Funeral grant: Paid when the insured or an immediate family member who was dependent on the insured dies.

Mandatory individual account (central government guidelines): The deceased was a pensioner or in covered employment at the time of death.

An eligible survivor is the deceased's legal heir.

Survivor benefit (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents, individual account): The deceased received or was entitled to receive an old-age pension for rural or nonsalaried urban residents.

Eligible survivors include the deceased's legal heirs.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (Basic pension insurance): The pension consists of a social insurance pension and a mandatory individual account.

Social insurance pension (central government guidelines): The pension is the average monthly local wage in the previous year plus the average individual monthly wage used to calculate contributions, divided by two. The result is multiplied by 1% for each year of contributions.

The average individual monthly wage used to calculate contributions is the insured's average monthly wage indexed to the average monthly local wage.

The minimum combined social insurance and mandatory individual account pension is normally 40% to 60% of the average monthly local wage in the previous year, depending on the region.

Early pension: The pension is based on the average local monthly wage in the previous year, the average individual monthly wage used to calculate contributions, and the number of years of contributions.

Mandatory individual account (central government guidelines): The monthly benefit is total employee contributions plus accrued interest, divided by the actuarial month.

The actuarial month ranges from 56 to 233, depending on the insured's age, and is adjusted periodically based on the average life expectancy for the urban population and the interest rate. The actuarial month for an insured person who retires at age 60 is 139. Local governments provide transitional arrangements for workers who began employment before the introduction of mandatory individual accounts in 1997 and who retired on or after January 1, 2006.

After the monthly benefits from the mandatory individual account are exhausted, benefits are paid from a local pooling fund.

The minimum combined social insurance and mandatory individual account pension is normally 40% to 60% of the average monthly local wage during the previous year, depending on the region.

Early pension: The monthly benefit is total employee contributions plus accrued interest, divided by the actuarial month.

With less than 15 years of coverage, a lump sum of the account balance is paid if the insured does not transfer the account balance to the schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents.

Old-age pension (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): The pension consists of a noncontributory pension and an individual account.

Noncontributory pension: At least 88 yuan a month is paid. The amount of the pension increases with age in some areas.

Individual account: The monthly benefit is total insured person and government contributions plus accrued interest, divided by the actuarial month.

The actuarial month is 139 and is adjusted periodically based on the average life expectancy for the urban population and the interest rate.

After the monthly benefits from the individual account are exhausted, benefits are paid from a local pooling fund.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension (Basic pension insurance): The pension consists of a social insurance pension and a mandatory individual account.

Social insurance pension (central government guidelines): 40% of the insured's average monthly wage in the previous year is paid.

The minimum pension is set by provincial and local governments based on the local standard of living.

Mandatory individual account (central government guidelines): No cash benefit is provided.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension (Basic pension insurance): The pension consists of a social insurance pension and a mandatory individual account.

Social insurance pension (central government guidelines): A lump sum of six to 12 months of the deceased's last monthly wage is paid, depending on the number of surviving dependents.

Funeral grant: A lump sum of two months of the average monthly local wage in the previous year is paid to the widow(er), children, parents, and grandparents. When an immediate family member who was dependent on the insured dies, 33% to 50% of the average monthly local or enterprise wage in the previous year is paid based on the age of the deceased.

Mandatory individual account (central government guidelines): A lump sum of total employee contributions plus accrued interest is paid. If the insured dies before the normal retirement age, the balance of any employer contributions made to the deceased's individual account before January 1, 2006, is transferred to a local pooling fund.

Survivor benefit (Pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents, individual account): A lump sum of total insured person and government contributions plus accrued interest minus previous payments to the deceased is paid.

Administrative Organization

Department of Pensions and Department of Rural Social Insurance, under the Ministry of Human Resources and Social Security (<http://www.mohrss.gov.cn/>), provide general supervision.

Provincial or local social insurance agencies administer their respective retirement pension pools and individual accounts. Provincial and local social insurance pools are gradually being consolidated into national pools.

Provincial human resource and social security authorities are responsible for regulatory funds (special reserve funds) to which local pooling funds in the jurisdiction must pay a percentage of their revenue.

Provincial or local social insurance agencies also administer the pension schemes for rural and nonsalaried urban residents.

Local tax authorities under the State Administration of Taxation (<http://www.chinatax.gov.cn/>) collect contributions (as of January 2019).

Sickness and Maternity

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1951.

Current laws: 1953; 1988 and 1994 (female employees); 1998, 1999, 2000, and 2003 (medical insurance and pilot rural cooperative medicare); 2007 (pilot urban resident medical insurance); 2009 (directive on health care reforms); 2010 (social insurance); 2012 (special protection for female employees; pilot critical disease insurance for urban and rural residents); 2016 (integrated scheme for rural and nonsalaried urban residents); and 2018 (contribution collection).

Type of program: Social insurance (cash and medical benefits) and mandatory individual account (medical benefits) system.

Note: Since July 2011, existing regional and local social security programs, including pooling arrangements, are being gradually unified under the country's first national law on social insurance. In 2016, the government decided to establish a unified basic health insurance system for both rural and nonsalaried urban residents. The government has also announced a pilot program merging the basic medical insurance for employees and maternity insurance programs.

Coverage

Social insurance (cash benefits): Employed persons in urban areas working in government organizations, enterprises, social groups, and nonprofit organizations.

Voluntary coverage for self-employed persons in most provinces.

Social insurance (Basic medical insurance for employees): Employed persons in urban areas working in government organizations, enterprises, social groups, and nonprofit organizations.

Voluntary coverage for most categories of self-employed persons.

Social insurance and mandatory individual account (Basic medical insurance for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): Rural and nonsalaried urban residents of China not covered by basic medical insurance for employees.

Voluntary coverage for certain categories of self-employed persons, depending on local regulations.

Source of Funds

Insured person

Social insurance (cash benefits): None.

Social insurance (Basic medical insurance for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): An average annual flat-rate contribution of at least 220 yuan.

Social insurance and mandatory individual account (Basic medical insurance for employees): None to the pooling fund; about 2% of gross earnings to the individual account (local governments may adjust contribution rates based on local conditions).

The minimum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are 60% of the average monthly local wage in the previous year.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are 300% of the average monthly local wage in the previous year.

Self-employed person

Social insurance (cash benefits): The total cost (actual rates vary depending on the region).

Social insurance (Basic medical insurance for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): An average annual flat-rate contribution of at least 220 yuan.

Social insurance and mandatory individual account (Basic medical insurance for employees): About 6% of gross earnings (local government may adjust contribution rates based on local conditions).

The self-employed person's contributions are split between the pooling fund and the individual account in varying proportions based on local conditions. Self-employed persons may pay a lower rate to the pooling fund (without establishing an individual account) or join the basic medical insurance program for urban and rural residents.

Employer

Social insurance (cash benefits): The total cost (sickness benefits); up to 1% of payroll (maternity benefits), depending on local government regulations.

Social insurance (medical insurance for rural and nonsalaried urban residents): None.

Social insurance and mandatory individual account (Basic medical insurance for employees): About 6% of payroll (local government may adjust contribution rates based on local conditions).

70% of the employer's contribution is directed to the pooling fund; 30% to the insured's individual account.

Government

Social insurance (cash benefits): None.

Social insurance (Basic medical insurance for rural and non-salaried urban residents): An annual matching contribution (combined central and local governments) of 490 yuan for each person. The actual amount of the matching contribution varies by province.

Social insurance and mandatory individual account (Basic medical insurance for employees): None.

Qualifying Conditions

Sickness, maternity, and medical benefits: There is no minimum qualifying period.

Sickness and Maternity Benefits

Sickness benefit (central government guidelines for urban employees, social insurance): 60% to 100% (depending on length of service) of the insured's last monthly wage is paid for up to six months each year; thereafter, 40% to 60% until the employee recovers or is assessed with a permanent disability.

Contract workers receive the same benefits as permanent workers.

Maternity benefit (central government guidelines for urban employees, social insurance): 100% of the enterprise's average monthly wage for the previous year is paid for 98 to 158 days for the birth of a child, depending on the province, including 15 days before the birth (an additional 15 days for complicated childbirths), 42 days for a miscarriage that takes place after at least four months of pregnancy, and 15 days for a miscarriage that takes place after less than four months of pregnancy.

Some local governments have implemented paternity leave policies.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Basic medical insurance for employees (social insurance and mandatory individual account, central government guidelines): Medical care is provided at accredited hospitals or clinics.

Cost sharing: The pooling fund reimburses the cost of medical benefits up to 600% of the local average annual wage in the previous year. Reimbursement for payments beyond 600% of the local average annual wage must be covered by private insurance or supplemental programs. Medical expenses and private insurance premiums can be drawn from the individual savings account.

Basic medical insurance benefits for rural and nonsalaried urban residents (social insurance): Insured persons are reimbursed annually for medical costs up to 600% of the local average annual income.

Dependents' Medical Benefits

Basic medical insurance benefits (social insurance and mandatory individual account, central government guidelines): No benefits are provided. The individual account can be inherited.

Medical insurance benefits for rural and nonsalaried urban residents (social insurance): No benefits are provided.

Administrative Organization

National Healthcare Security Administration provides general guidance to local governments' medical insurance and sickness and maternity insurance programs and ensures that local regulations follow central government guidelines.

Local government healthcare administration agencies administer medical benefits insurance and sickness and maternity insurance funds.

Local government healthcare security administration agencies contract with accredited clinics and hospitals to provide medical benefits.

National Health Commission provides general guidance to medical care providers.

Local healthcare security administration agencies manage the medical insurance program for employees, the medical insurance program for rural and nonsalaried urban residents, and the cash benefits program.

Work Injury

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1951.

Current laws: 1953 and 1978 (permanent employees), 1986 (contract workers), 1996 (regulations), 2003 (work injury), 2004 (rural migrants), 2010 (work injury insurance regulations), and 2018 (contribution collection).

Type of program: Social insurance system. (Employer-liability system for nonparticipating enterprises.)

Coverage

Social insurance: Employed persons in participating enterprises, public institutions, civil associations, private nonenterprise units, foundations, law firms, and accounting firms.

Special systems for civil servants, including employees of government and communist party organizations, and cultural, educational, and scientific institutions.

Employer liability: Employees of enterprises not participating in the social insurance program.

Exclusion: Self-employed persons.

Source of Funds

Insured person

Social insurance: None.

Employer liability: None.

Self-employed person

Social insurance: Not applicable; small business owners contribute as an employer.

Employer liability: Not applicable.

Employer

Social insurance: An average of 0.75% of payroll based on eight categories of industry and the assessed degree of risk.

Employer liability: The total cost.

Government

Social insurance: Provincial work injury insurance regulatory funds and local governments provide subsidies as needed; contributes as an employer.

Employer liability: None.

Qualifying Conditions

Must be assessed with a work injury or occupational disease.

Temporary Disability Benefits

100% of the insured's wage is paid for up to 12 months; may be extended for 12 months.

Medical experts of the municipal Labor Ability Appraisal Committee assess the degree of disability. The benefit is suspended if the insured's disability is assessed as permanent.

Permanent Disability Benefits

The benefit is awarded based on 10 assessed degrees of disability. For a total disability (degrees 1–4), a lump sum of 27 months of the insured's previous wage plus a pension of 90% of the insured's previous wage is paid (1st degree); a lump sum of 25 months of the insured's previous wage plus a pension of 85% of the insured's previous wage (2nd degree); a lump sum of 23 months of the insured's previous wage plus a pension of 80% of the insured's previous wage (3rd degree); or a lump sum of 21 months of the insured's previous wage plus a pension of 75% of the insured's previous wage (4th degree). If the permanent disability benefit is less than the local minimum wage, the work injury insurance fund pays the difference.

The benefit ceases when the insured becomes entitled to an old-age pension. If the old-age pension is less than the permanent disability benefit, the work injury insurance fund pays the difference.

To receive a benefit for a total disability (degrees 1–4), the insured and the former employer must contribute to the basic medical insurance program.

For a substantial permanent disability (degrees 5–6), a lump sum of 18 months (5th degree) or 16 months (6th degree) of the insured's previous wages is paid. If the employer cannot offer the insured an appropriate job, a monthly pension of 70% (5th degree) or 60% (6th degree) of the insured's wage before the disability began is paid.

Employers pay social insurance contributions for pensioners assessed with a 5th or 6th degree disability. If the permanent disability benefit is less than the local minimum wage, the employer pays the difference. If the insured voluntarily ceases the employment relationship with the employer, a lump-sum work injury medical treatment subsidy and a disability employment subsidy are paid. Provincial governments set the subsidy rates.

For a partial permanent disability (degrees 7–10), a lump sum of 13 months (7th degree); 11 months (8th degree); nine months (9th degree); or seven months (10th degree) of the insured's previous wages is paid. If the labor contract expires or the insured voluntarily ceases the employment relationship with the employer, a lump-sum work injury medical treatment subsidy and a disability employment subsidy are paid. Provincial governments set the subsidy rates.

For injured workers employed illegally and assessed with any degree of disability, employers must pay a lump-sum benefit that is at least the work injury benefit paid to legally employed workers.

The insured's previous wage is the insured's average monthly income in the last 12 months before the disability began. The previous wage used to calculate benefits must be 60% to 300% of the average monthly wage in the pooling area.

The minimum permanent disability benefit is the local minimum wage.

Medical experts of the municipal Labor Ability Appraisal Committee assess the degree of disability.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Benefits include treatment, surgery, nursing, medicine, appliances, rehabilitation, transportation, and hospitalization based on a list of approved diagnoses and treatments.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension: 40% of the deceased's average monthly wage in the last 12 months before death is paid to the widow(er); 30% to each additional dependent.

Widow(er)'s and orphan's supplements: 10% of the deceased's last monthly wage is paid.

Other eligible survivors include parents, grandparents, grandchildren, brothers, and sisters.

China

The maximum combined monthly survivor pension is 100% of the deceased's last monthly wage.

Death allowance: A lump sum of 20 times the national urban per capita disposable income of the previous year is paid.

The national urban per capita disposable income is 36,396 yuan (2017).

Funeral grant: A lump sum of six times the local average wage in the previous year is paid.

Administrative Organization

Department of Work Injury Insurance, under the Ministry of Human Resources and Social Security (<http://www.mohrss.gov.cn/>), provides general guidance for the social insurance program and ensures that local regulations follow central government guidelines.

There are no maximum earnings used to calculate contributions.

Social assistance: None.

Employer

Provident fund: 10% of payroll; none for persons aged 66 or older. Additional voluntary contributions of up to 12% of wages (paid by the insured person, the employer, or both) are possible.

The maximum combined insured person and employer contribution is 30% of wages.

Of the combined insured person and employer contribution, 70% is allocated to a Preserved Account and 30% to a General Account.

Contributions are paid daily, weekly, biweekly, or monthly, depending on the type of employment.

Social assistance: None.

Government

Provident fund: None; contributes as an employer.

Social assistance: The total cost.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age benefit (provident fund)

Preserved Account: Age 55; age 50 if unemployed for the last three years with an account balance of up to F$5,000; at any age if emigrating permanently.

Partial withdrawal: Fund members younger than age 55 may withdraw funds from their Preserved Account to finance the purchase of a first home.

General Account: Funds may be accessed before retirement for education, medical, unemployment, housing, and other approved expenses.

Old-age social pension (Social Pension Scheme [SPS], social assistance): Age 65, does not currently receive provident fund benefits, poverty benefits, or a government pension, and has not previously received a lump-sum provident fund benefit.

Disability benefit (provident fund): Must be assessed with a total incapacity for work certified by a registered medical practitioner.

A medical board appointed by the Fiji National Provident Fund Board may request that the fund member undergo a medical examination.

Survivor benefit (provident fund): Paid to a widow(er) or other named survivors when the fund member dies.

Death grant (Special Death Benefit): Paid to named survivors or the person who pays for the funeral when a fund member dies.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age benefit (provident fund)

Preserved Account: The balance of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest minus previous withdrawals (from both the Preserved and General Accounts) is paid. This amount may be taken as a lump sum; a single life or joint life annuity; a term annuity for terms of five, 10, or 15 years; or a combination of these. Life annuity rates depend on the insured's age at retirement. Life annuities are guaranteed for up to five years; may purchase both a single and joint life annuity at the same time.

A lump sum is paid with an account balance of up to F$5,000 or if emigrating permanently.

Partial withdrawal: Up to 21% of the account balance may be withdrawn to finance housing costs. Only one withdrawal is permitted.

General Account: The balance of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest may be withdrawn. Withdrawals are subject to certain limits based on the type of withdrawal. The maximum withdrawal to finance housing costs is 30% of the account balance.

Old-age social pension (Social Pension Scheme [SPS], social assistance): F$100 a month is paid.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability benefit (provident fund): The balance of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest minus previous withdrawals (from both the Preserved and General Accounts) is paid. This amount may be taken as a lump sum; a single life or joint life annuity; a term annuity for terms of five, 10, or 15 years; or a combination of these. Unlike the life annuity, the term annuity rates are not adjusted for age, but for term.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor benefit (provident fund): The balance of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest (from both the Preserved and General Accounts) minus previous withdrawals is paid. This amount may be taken as a lump sum; a single life or joint life annuity; a term annuity for terms of five, 10, or 15 years; or a combination of these. Only a widow(er) can choose an annuity option.

Death grant (Special Death Benefit): F$8,500 is credited to the deceased's account balance, including F$2,000 that can be withdrawn for the deceased's funeral expenses.

Benefit adjustment: The Special Death Benefit is reviewed annually.

Social assistance (cash and medical benefits): The total cost.

Qualifying Conditions

Cash sickness benefit (employer liability): Must have at least one month of continuous employment.

The employee must accumulate a sufficient number of paid sick days to cover the leave period. Paid sick days accumulate at the rate of two days for each complete month of employment during the first 12 months of employment and four days for each month of employment thereafter, up to 120 days. The sick leave period must last at least four consecutive days, and the employee must provide an appropriate medical certificate issued by a registered medical practitioner or dentist.

Cash sickness benefit (Comprehensive Social Security Assistance, social assistance, asset tested): Must be aged 15 to 59, in ill health, assessed with limited or no work capacity, and have at least one year of residency in Hong Kong (China) before the claim is made. (The one year of residency does not have to be continuous or immediately before the claim is made; the residency requirement is waived if the beneficiary is younger than age 18.)

Asset test: If the beneficiary is living alone, assets must not exceed HK$47,500; if the beneficiary is living with one or more family members, assets must not exceed a limit that varies depending on the family's composition.

A public medical officer assesses the loss of work capacity.

Type of program: Employer-liability system through private carriers.

Coverage

Employed persons, including household workers, agricultural employees, and crew members of Hong Kong (China) ships.

Exclusions: Self-employed persons, home-based workers, family labor, and certain casual workers.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: Not applicable.

Employer: The total cost. (The minimum coverage is HK$100 million for employers with up to 200 employees or HK$200 million for employers with more than 200 employees.)

Government: None.

Qualifying Conditions

Must be assessed with a work injury.

Temporary Disability Benefits

80% of the difference between the insured's monthly earnings before and after the accident is paid for up to 36 months, after which the disability is considered permanent.

The earnings used to calculate benefits are the insured's earnings in the month immediately before the accident or the average monthly earnings in the last 12 months before the accident, whichever is greater.

A registered medical practitioner or an Employees' Compensation Assessment Board appointed by the Commissioner for Labour assesses the loss of work capacity.

Benefit adjustment: The insured's monthly earnings are adjusted based on the average rate of earnings increases for employees in similar employment with the same employer or, if there are no such employees, based on the rate of increase in the consumer price index at the end of each 12-month period that the disability benefit is received.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Permanent disability grant: For a total (100%) disability, a lump sum of 48 months of the insured's earnings is paid if aged 56 or older; 72 months if aged 40 to 55; or 96 months if younger than age 40.

The earnings used to calculate benefits are the insured's earnings in the month immediately before the accident or average monthly earnings in the last 12 months before the accident, whichever is greater.

The minimum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are HK$4,090.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are HK$28,360.

The minimum lump sum for a permanent total disability is HK$464,360, regardless of age.

The maximum lump sum for a permanent total disability is HK$1,361,280 if aged 56 or older; HK$2,041,920 if aged 40 to 55; or HK$2,722,560 if younger than age 40.

Partial disability: A percentage of the full permanent disability grant is paid based on the assessed degree of disability and a schedule in law.

Constant-attendance supplement: A lump sum for the actual cost of constant attendance, up to HK$556,700, is paid. An Employees' Compensation Assessment Board appointed by the Commissioner for Labor assesses the degree of disability.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Medical benefits include examination and treatment by a registered medical practitioner, dental care, physical therapy, chiropractic services, and appliances.

The maximum limit on employers' liability for treatment costs is HK$300 a day for inpatient care or outpatient care, or HK$370 if both types of care are needed during the same day. The maximum limit for appliances is initially HK$40,010; HK$121,230 for subsequent repair and renewal of the appliance.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor grant: A lump sum of 36 months of the deceased's earnings is paid if the deceased was aged 56 or older; 60 months if aged 40 to 55; or 84 months if younger than age 40.

The earnings used to calculate benefits are the deceased's earnings in the month immediately before the accident or average monthly earnings in the last 12 months before the accident, whichever is greater.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are HK$28,360.

The minimum lump sum is HK$408,960, regardless of age.

The maximum lump sum is HK$1,361,280 if the deceased was aged 56 or older; HK$2,041,920 if aged 40 to 55; or HK$2,722,560 if younger than age 40.

Eligible survivors include the deceased's spouse, children, parents, grandparents, and other family members who had been living with the deceased for at least 24 months immediately before the disability began. The grant is split among eligible survivors. The amount paid to each survivor depends on the number and type of eligible survivors (with the spouse and children receiving the largest shares of the benefit in all cases). If the only survivors are the spouse and children, 50% of the grant is paid to the spouse, and 50% is split equally among the children.

Funeral grant: A lump sum of up to HK$83,700 is paid to the person who paid for the funeral.

Administrative Organization

Labour Department (<http://www.labour.gov.hk/>) administers the employer-liability program.

Employers purchase insurance policies with private insurance carriers.

The full pension is paid with an assessed degree of disability of at least 75% and monthly income from employment less than the national average monthly wage.

The national average monthly wage is 9,906 new shekels.

Partial disability: Paid for an assessed degree of disability of up to 74%.

Incentive pension (income tested): Must have received a disability pension for at least 12 consecutive months and have income from employment exceeding an amount specified by law, which varies depending on the severity of the medical impairment and the period of entitlement to a disability pension.

Additional monthly pension (AMP): Must have at least a 50% assessed degree of disability (at least 40% for a cognitive developmental disability or mental illness), and at least a 75% assessed loss of earning capacity. Must not reside in an institution where a public body pays over 50% of the expenses.

Graduated AMP: Paid to persons who received the AMP but are no longer eligible because their income from employment exceeds the limit for the normal disability pension.

Dependent's supplement (income tested): Paid for each of the first two dependent children up to age 18 (older if studying, volunteering or in a pre-army framework), and for a dependent spouse with earnings below 57% of the national average monthly wage. Dependents must not be receiving benefits. (A housewife with a disability is entitled to a supplement for her children only.)

Constant-attendance supplement: Paid if the insured requires the constant attendance of others to perform daily functions. Must have at least a 60% assessed degree of disability and be receiving a disability pension (or at least a 75% assessed degree of disability and subject to an earnings test).

Special benefit: Must be receiving the constant-attendance supplement.

A medical committee assesses the degree of disability.

Disabled child benefit (social insurance): Paid for a child younger than age 18 with a disability, not living in an institution or with a foster family, and not receiving a mobility allowance (unless the child's parent has two children, both with disabilities, and under certain other circumstances).

Benefit supplements: Paid to cover the cost of school supplies.

A medical committee assesses the degree of disability.

Mobility allowance (social assistance): Must be aged 3 to 67 with an assessed loss of mobility of at least 40% (with a valid driver's license) or 60% (without a valid driver's license if there is an authorized driver).

A medical committee assesses the degree of disability.

Long-term care benefit (social insurance, income tested): Must have reached age 67 (men) or age 62 (women, gradually rising to age 64 by 2022), not live in an institution, and require the constant attendance of others to perform daily functions.

Income test: The benefit is paid to an individual with monthly income less than 1.5 times the national average monthly wage, to a couple with monthly income less than 2.25 times the national average monthly wage, or to a person with dependent children with additional monthly income less than 0.75 times the national average monthly wage for each child.

The national average monthly wage is 9,906 new shekels.

Survivor pension (social insurance): Paid if an insured person dies from any cause, except war or hostile action. The deceased had 12 months of contributions in the year before death, at least 24 months in the last five years, at least 60 months in the last 10 years, or met the contribution requirement for a social insurance old-age pension. There is no minimum qualifying period if the insured died within a year of immigration, or before the age of 19; was the main source of support for a spouse or children; or was a housewife or widow.

Eligible survivors include a widow(er) aged 40 or older or caring for a dependent child; and children younger than age 18 (age 20 if in higher education or the pre-military framework, age 21 if in military or volunteer service, up to age 24 under certain conditions) for whom no child increment is paid to a widow(er).

A widow must have been married to (or been the common-law spouse of) the deceased for at least one year (six months if aged 55 or older) at the time of his death or had a child with the deceased.

A widower must have been married to (or been the common-law spouse of) the deceased for at least one year (six months if aged 55 or older) at the time of her death and must either have a child living with him or meet an earnings test.

In most cases, the survivor's pension ceases upon remarriage.

Child increment: Paid to a widow(er) with dependent children.

Seniority increment: Paid if the deceased had more than eight years of contributions.

Remarriage grant: Paid to a widow(er) upon remarriage.

Bar Mitzvah grant: Paid to orphans at age 13 (boys) or age 12 (girls).

Spouse's and orphan's income supplement (means tested): Paid to recipients of the survivor's pension if assets and income, including the survivor pension and other benefits, are less than a minimum established by law. See Family Allowances.

The survivor pension is payable abroad under bilateral agreement.

Special survivor pension (social assistance, means tested): Paid to a widow and orphans of a person who resided in Israel but did not meet the age requirements to be insured at the time of immigration.

Spouse's grant (social insurance): Paid to a widow(er) younger than age 40 without dependent children or to a widower no longer eligible for a survivor pension.

Funeral grant: Paid to the organization responsible for the funeral when a resident of Israel dies.

Death grant (social insurance): Paid to a widow(er) or children of an old-age, disability, or survivor pensioner or income support beneficiary.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (social insurance, income tested): 17.7% of the monthly old-age basic amount is paid. An additional 1% is paid to pensioners aged 80 or older.

The monthly old-age basic amount is 8,674 new shekels.

Income test: If the insured is younger than the retirement age without an income test, the pension is reduced by 0.60 new shekels for every new shekel of monthly income above 57% (individuals) or 76% (with dependents, depending on the number of dependents) of the national average monthly wage.

The national average monthly wage is 9,906 new shekels.

Deferred pension: The pension is increased by 5% for each year of deferral.

Dependent's supplement (income tested): 8.9% of the monthly old-age basic amount is paid for an eligible spouse and 5.6% for each of the first two eligible children.

Seniority increment: The pension is increased by 2% for each year of contributions exceeding four years, up to 50% of the pension.

Old-age income supplement (means tested): 36.77% to 74.26% of the monthly old-age basic amount, depending on marital status and the number of dependent children, is paid to a pensioner younger than age 70; 37.13% to 74.83% if aged 70 to 79; or 37.49% to 75.40% if aged 80 or older. The resulting amount is increased by an additional 7% for all age groups.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually in January based on the increase in the consumer price index in the previous year.

Special old-age pension for new immigrants (social assistance, means tested):

Calculated in the same way as the social insurance old-age pension.

Old-age income supplement (means tested): 36.77% to 74.26% of the monthly old-age basic amount, depending on marital status and the number of dependent children, is paid to a pensioner younger than age 70; 37.13% to 74.83% if aged 70 to 79; and 37.49% to 75.40% if aged 80 or older.

The resulting amount is increased by an additional 7% for all age groups.

The monthly old-age basic amount is 8,674 new shekels.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually in January based on the increase in the consumer price index in the previous year.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension (social insurance): 25% of the monthly disability basic amount plus an additional 7% of the resulting amount is paid.

The monthly disability basic amount is 8,783 new shekels.

Partial disability: A percentage of the full disability pension is paid based on the assessed degree of disability.

Incentive pension: For an assessed degree of disability of at least 75%, up to a full disability pension is paid depending on the insured's income; for an assessed degree of disability of up to 74%, a pension is paid based on the insured's earning capacity or a schedule in law (whichever is lower).

Additional monthly pension (AMP): 20.6% of the disability pension is paid with an assessed degree of disability of at least 80%; 16% with an assessed degree of 70% to 79%; 11.5% with an assessed degree of 50% to 69%.

Graduated AMP: The full AMP amount is paid in the first year, 75% in the second year, 50% in the third year, 25% in the fourth year, and none in the fifth year.

Dependent's supplement (income tested): Up to 12.5% of the monthly disability basic amount is paid for an eligible spouse; 10% for each of the first two eligible children. An additional 7% is paid for both categories.

Constant-attendance supplement: 50%, 111.9%, or 188% of the full disability pension is paid, depending on the assessed degree of dependence.

Special benefit: 14%, 28.5%, or 42.5% of the full disability pension is paid, depending on the assessed degree of dependence.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually in January based on the increase in the consumer price index in the previous year.

Disabled child benefit (social insurance): 50% to 188% of the full disability pension is paid, depending on the assessed degree of disability. An increment of 50% of the benefit is paid for each additional child assessed with a disability.

Benefit supplements: The cost of schooling for students with disabilities and an additional benefit for children with severe disabilities is paid.

The maximum total disabled child benefit is 140% of the full disability pension.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually in January based on the increase in the consumer price index in the previous year.

Mobility allowance (social assistance): The monthly benefit varies depending on whether the insured has earned income, has a driver's license, and owns a car. Additional cash benefits may be provided to help cover car taxes and costs resulting from a loss in mobility.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually in January based on the increase in the consumer price index in the previous year.

Long-term care benefit (social insurance, income tested): 1,955 new shekels a month is paid if the beneficiary is largely dependent on the help of others; 3,208 new shekels a month if severely dependent; 3,610 new shekels a month if completely dependent. Benefits are normally paid directly to the organization providing the long-term care services. (If long-term care services are not available and the beneficiary lives with and is cared for by a family member, the benefit is paid directly to the caregiver. If he or she employs a full-time Israeli caregiver, the benefit is 3,810 if severely dependent; 4,412 if completely dependent.)

Income test: The benefit is reduced by 50% if the insured's monthly income exceeds the national average monthly wage for a single person; by 50% if monthly income exceeds 1.5 times the national average monthly wage for a couple, plus 0.5 times the national average monthly wage for each child, up to a maximum.

The national average monthly wage is 9,906 new shekels.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually in January based on the increase in the consumer price index in the previous year.

Work Injury

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1911.

Current law: 1947 (workmen's accident compensation insurance).

Type of program: Social insurance system.

Coverage

Employed persons.

Voluntary coverage for persons employed in agricultural, forestry, and fishery establishments with fewer than five regular employees.

Some self-employed persons and entrepreneurs (such as business owners of small- and medium-sized enterprises) are covered.

Special systems for civil servants.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: 0.3% to 5.2% of the basic daily benefit multiplied by 365, depending on the type of business.

The basic daily benefit is the insured's average daily wages in the last three months before the injury occurred or disease began.

Employer: 0.25% to 8.8% of payroll, depending on the type of business.

Government: Provides subsidies as needed.

Qualifying Conditions

Must be assessed with a work injury or occupational disease. Accidents that occur while traveling to or from work are covered.

Temporary Disability Benefits

Temporary absence from work benefit: 60% of the basic daily benefit plus a temporary disability special supplement of 20% of the basic daily benefit is paid after a three-day waiting period until recovery (the employer pays 60% of the average daily wage for the first three days).

The basic daily benefit is the insured's average daily wages in the last three months before the injury occurred or disease began.

Minimum and maximum daily benefits apply after 18 months of absence from work.

The minimum daily benefit is 3,920 yen to 7,009 yen, depending on the insured's age.

The maximum daily benefit is 13,264 yen to 25,219 yen, depending on the insured's age.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are automatically adjusted quarterly for wage changes greater than 10% from the previous quarter.

Injury and diseases compensation pension: Paid from the 19th month of disability until recovery to persons with more severe disabilities (Injury and Disease Class 1 to 3). The annual benefit is 100% of the basic daily benefit multiplied by 245 (Class 1), 277 (Class 2), or 313 (Class 3) plus a special supplement based on the worker's annual salary bonus.

The basic daily benefit is the insured's average daily wages in the last three months before the injury occurred or disease began.

Schedule of payments: Benefits are paid every two months.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are automatically adjusted annually based on changes in wages.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Permanent disability pension: The pension varies depending on the assessed degree of disability.

An annual pension of 131 to 313 times the basic daily benefit is paid to persons with more severe disabilities (Disability Class 1 to 7).

The basic daily benefit is the insured's average wage in the last three months before the injury occurred or disease began.

Constant-attendance allowance (Disability Class 1 and 2): Up to 105,290 yen a month is paid if the insured requires the constant attendance of others to perform daily functions (57,190 yen if family members provide care); up to 52,650 yen a month if the insured requires part-time care (28,600 yen if family members provide care).

The permanent disability pension is paid every two months.

Disability grant: A lump sum of 56 to 503 times the basic daily benefit is paid to persons with less severe disabilities (Disability Class 8 to 14).

The basic daily benefit is the insured's average daily wages in the last three months before the injury occurred or disease began.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are automatically adjusted annually based on changes in wages.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Benefits include medical treatment, surgery, hospitalization, nursing, dental care, medicine, appliances, and transportation.

There is no limit to duration of benefits.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension: An annual pension of the basic daily benefit multiplied by 153 to 245 days is paid, depending on the number of survivors.

The basic daily benefit is calculated based on the deceased's average daily wages in the last three months before the death.

Eligible survivors include a widow, a widower aged 60 or older, children and grandchildren (up to the end of the fiscal year that the child reaches age 18), parents and grandparents aged 60 or older, and brothers and sisters (up to the end of the fiscal year that the child reaches age 18; or aged 60 or older) who were dependent on the deceased worker at the time of death.

Schedule of payments: Benefits are paid every two months.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are automatically adjusted annually based on changes in wages.

If there are no eligible survivors, a lump sum of the insured's average daily wage in the three months before the insured's death multiplied by 1,000 days is paid to a nondependent survivor.

Funeral grant: 60 days of the deceased's average daily wages in the three months before death or 315,000 yen plus 30 days of wages, whichever is greater, is paid.

Administrative Organization

Ministry of Health, Labor, and Welfare (<https://www.mhlw.go.jp/>) provides general supervision and administration.

Labor Standards Bureau in the Ministry of Health, Labor, and Welfare administers the program and supervises the collection of contributions through prefectural Labor Bureaus and local Labor Standards Inspection Offices.

Deferred basic pension: The basic pension may be deferred if the insured continues to work beyond the normal retirement age. There is no age limit.

The basic old-age pension is not payable abroad.

Supplemental pension: The insured meets the qualifying conditions for the old-age basic pension.

Deferred supplemental pension: The supplemental pension may be deferred if the insured continues to work beyond the normal retirement age.

The supplemental old-age pension is not payable abroad.

Remuneration pension: Must qualify for a basic or supplemental old-age pension and have at least 24 months of contributions after 2014 (certain exceptions apply); self-employed persons must have at least one year of contributions but not qualify for a basic or supplemental old-age pension at the normal retirement age, or must have at least 30 years of contributions for the basic pension.

Disability pension: The pension consists of a basic pension and a supplemental pension.

Basic pension and supplemental pension: Must have an assessed loss of work capacity of at least 50%.

The general medical council assesses the loss of work capacity.

The basic and supplemental disability pensions are not payable abroad.

Survivor pension: The deceased received or was entitled to receive an old-age pension at the time of death.

Eligible survivors include widows; a dependent widower with a disability and incapable of working; sons up to age 26 (age 28 if a full-time student, no limit if disabled); unmarried daughters of any age; dependent parents, brothers, sisters, and grandchildren under certain conditions.

The survivor pension is suspended upon (re)marriage and resumes if the eligible survivor divorces or is widowed.

Marriage grant: Paid to the deceased's daughter or sister, or the daughter of the deceased's son, upon (re)marriage.

The survivor pension is not payable abroad.

Death grant: Paid when an insured person or a pensioner dies.

The death grant is not payable abroad.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension: The pension consists of a basic pension, a supplemental pension, and a remuneration pension.

Basic pension: The monthly pension is 65% (75% for military personnel) of the insured's last monthly earnings (for employed persons) or average monthly earnings in the last three years (for self-employed persons) plus 2% for each year of contributions exceeding 15 years, up to 95% of earnings (100% for military personnel).

The minimum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are 230 dinars; 200 dinars for self-employed persons.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are 1,500 dinars.

Deferred basic pension: In addition to the full basic pension, a lump sum of 10% of the insured's last annual earnings is paid for each of the first five years exceeding 30 years; 12% for each of the next five years; 15% for each of the subsequent five years; and 20% for each year thereafter.

Benefit adjustment: Flat-rate adjustments are made to benefits every three years.

Supplemental pension: The monthly pension is 25% to 30% (depending on the insured's age) of the insured's average monthly earnings during the total contribution period plus 5% for each year of contributions, divided by a fixed amount of 202 dinars to 120 dinars (depending on the insured's age).

Part of the supplemental pension may be paid before age 65 as a lump sum.

Deferred supplemental pension: The pension is increased by 5% for each year of deferral.

Benefit adjustment: Flat-rate adjustments are made to benefits every three years.

The minimum monthly combined basic and supplemental pension ranges from 577 dinars (women and single men) to 990 dinars (men with five or more dependent children).

Remuneration pension: The pension is calculated based on the insured's earnings used to calculate the basic pension multiplied by the number of years of contributions, up to 18 years.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension: The pension consists of a basic pension and a supplemental pension.

Basic pension: The monthly pension is 65% (75% for military personnel) of the insured's last monthly earnings (for employed persons) or average monthly earnings in the last three years (for self-employed persons) plus 2% for each year of contributions exceeding 15 years, up to 95% of earnings (100% for military personnel). The insured is credited with years of contributions from the date the disability began up to age 59.

Benefit adjustment: Flat-rate adjustments are made to benefits every three years.

Supplemental pension: The monthly pension is 25% to 30% (depending on the insured's age) of the insured's average monthly earnings during the total contribution period plus 5% for each year of contributions, divided by a fixed amount ranging from 202 dinars to 120 dinars (depending on the insured's age).

The supplemental pension is calculated based on 15% to 25% (depending on the insured's age) of the insured's average monthly earnings during the total contribution period, plus 5% for each year of contributions.

The insured is credited with years of contributions from the date the disability began up to age 59.

Benefit adjustment: Flat-rate adjustments are made to benefits every three years.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension: 100% of the old-age pension (basic, supplemental, and remuneration pensions) the deceased received or was entitled to receive is paid, based on the number and category of eligible survivors. The survivor pension is split among eligible survivors in proportions determined by law.

The minimum monthly survivor pension is 250 dinars for a widow or a dependent widower; 196 dinars for each parent; 126 dinars for each of the other eligible survivors.

The survivor pension is suspended or ceases if the survivor (except the widow) starts working.

If a survivor's eligibility ceases, the pension is split among all remaining eligible survivors.

Marriage grant: A lump sum of six months of the eligible survivor's share of the survivor pension is paid. The grant is paid to each eligible survivor only once.

Benefit adjustment: Flat-rate adjustments are made to benefits every three years.

Death grant: The grant is twice the deceased's last monthly earnings or the old-age pension (basic and supplemental pensions) the deceased received or was entitled to receive.

The minimum death grant is 230 dinars.

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1922.

Current laws: 1997 (state pension), 2004 (contribution rates), 2008 (individual accounts), and 2017 (state benefits).

Type of program: Social insurance, notional defined contribution (NDC), mandatory individual account, and social assistance system.

Coverage

Social insurance, NDC, and mandatory individual account: Employed persons, self-employed persons, and members of cooperatives and state and collective farms.

Special system for military personnel.

Special provisions for workers in aviation and the performing arts, and for citizens recognized by the government for meritorious service to the nation.

Social assistance: Resident citizens of Kyrgyzstan and certain foreign citizens residing in Kyrgyzstan.

Source of Funds

Insured person: 8% of monthly earnings (social insurance and NDC) plus 2% of monthly earnings (mandatory individual account); 10% of monthly earnings (social insurance and NDC) if up to 15 years younger than the normal retirement age.

The insured person's contributions also finance sickness, maternity, work injury, and unemployment benefits.

Self-employed person: 10% of average monthly earnings for most categories of self-employed persons; 3% to 6% of average monthly earnings for certain merchants, depending on the insured's activity.

The self-employed person's contributions also finance medical benefits.

Employer: 15.25% of monthly payroll.

The employer's contributions also finance sickness, maternity, and work injury benefits.

Government: The total cost of social assistance benefits and constant attendance supplements for persons with disabilities.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age pension (social insurance, NDC, and mandatory individual account): Age 63 with at least 25 years of covered employment (men) or age 58 with at least 20 years of covered employment (women).

Covered employment includes periods of study, maternity leave, caring for persons with disabilities, registered unemployment, and other leave periods approved by special decree.

The qualifying conditions are reduced for periods of full-time underground work, full-time work in hazardous conditions, Chernobyl disaster-related work, for mothers with five or more children or at least one child with a disability, and for little people.

Partial pension: Meets the age requirement for the old-age pension but has less than 25 years (men) or 20 years (women) of covered employment.

Early pension: Age 60 with at least 40 years of covered employment (men) or age 55 with at least 35 years of covered employment (women).

Old-age pension supplement: Paid to persons aged 80 or older, World War II veterans, Chernobyl disaster workers, persons with a Group I (requires constant attendance) disability, caregivers of persons with a Group II (total disability with an 80% loss of mobility) disability, and single persons with a Group II disability.

The old-age pension is payable in the Russian Federation under bilateral agreement.

Old-age social pension (social assistance): Age 65 (men) or age 60 (women) and does not qualify for an earnings related old-age pension. There is no income test.

Disability pension (social insurance and NDC): Must be assessed with a Group I (total disability and requires constant attendance), Group II (total disability with an 80% loss of mobility), or Group III (partial disability with some loss in working capacity) disability, and meet a covered employment requirement that varies based on the insured's age when the disability began: at least one year of covered employment if younger than age 23; two years if aged 23 to 25; three years if aged 26 to 30; or at least five years if aged 31 or older.

Covered employment includes periods of study, maternity leave, caring for persons with disabilities, registered unemployment, and other leave periods approved by special decree.

An expert commission of the Ministry of Labor and Social Development assesses the degree of disability.

Constant-attendance supplement: Paid if the insured requires the constant attendance of others to perform daily functions.

Partial pension: Paid with less than the required number of years of covered employment for a total disability pension.

Disability pension supplement: Paid to a person with a Group I disability, single persons with a Group II disability, and Chernobyl disaster workers.

The disability pension is payable in Russia under bilateral agreement.

Disability social pension (social assistance): Paid to persons with a disability that began in childhood, children with disabilities younger than age 18; and persons assessed with a Group I (total disability and requires constant attendance), Group II (total disability with an 80% loss of mobility), or Group III (partial disability with some loss in working capacity) disability who do not receive any other pension.

Survivor pension (social insurance and NDC): Must meet a covered employment requirement that varies based on the insured's age at the time of death: at least one year of covered employment if younger than age 23; two years if aged 23 to 25; three years if aged 26 to 30; or at least five years if aged 31 or older.

Covered employment includes periods of study, maternity leave, caring for disabled persons, registered unemployment, and other leave periods approved by special decree.

Eligible survivors include a dependent spouse older than age 58 (at any age if disabled); children younger than age 16 (age 23 if a full-time student); nonworking dependents with disabilities, including sisters, brothers, and grandchildren younger than age 16; and parents older than the normal retirement age (at any age if disabled).

The survivor pension is not payable abroad if the pensioner emigrates permanently.

Survivor social pension (social assistance): Paid to children younger than age 16 (age 23 if a full-time student) when the family breadwinner dies and he or she was not entitled to receive an earnings related old-age or disability pension. There is no income test.

Funeral grant (social insurance and NDC): Paid when an insured person or a pensioner dies.

Funeral allowance (social assistance): Paid when an employed person, an unemployed person, a self-employed person, or a social assistance beneficiary dies. The benefit is also paid when certain dependent persons die.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (social insurance, NDC, and mandatory individual account): The monthly benefit is the sum of several components: a basic flat-rate benefit, a social insurance component, an NDC component, and a benefit from the mandatory individual account.

The basic flat-rate benefit is 1,780 soms or 12% of the national average monthly wage in the last year, whichever is greater.

The national average monthly wage is 15,670 soms (2017).

The social insurance component is calculated as the insured's average monthly earnings for 60 consecutive working months multiplied by 1% for every complete year of insured employment before 1996.

The maximum average monthly earnings used to calculate the social insurance component are 50 times the basic rate.

The basic rate is 100 soms a month.

The NDC component is calculated as accumulated contributions (of at least one year) since 1996 divided by 12 months and multiplied by a coefficient based on life expectancy of the insured's cohort at retirement age.

The individual account benefit is based on the account balance at retirement.

Partial pension: A percentage of the full pension is paid based on the number of years of covered employment.

Early pension: Calculated in the same way as the old-age pension.

Old-age pension supplement: 50% to 475% of the basic rate is paid monthly.

There is no maximum monthly old-age pension.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted periodically based on changes in the national average wage and the consumer price index.

Old-age social pension (social assistance): 1,000 soms a month is paid.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension (social insurance and NDC): If assessed with a Group I or Group II disability, the monthly pension is the sum of several components: a basic flat-rate benefit, a social insurance component, and an NDC component. If assessed with a Group III disability, 50% of the full disability pension is paid.

The flat-rate benefit is 1,780 soms or 12% of the national average monthly wage in the last year, whichever is greater.

The national average monthly wage is 15,670 soms (2017).

The social insurance component is calculated as the insured's average monthly earnings for 60 consecutive working months multiplied by 1% for every complete year of insured employment before 1996.

The maximum average monthly earnings used to calculate the social insurance component are 50 times the basic rate.

The basic rate is 100 soms a month.

The NDC component is calculated as accumulated contributions (of at least one year) since 1996 divided by 12 months and multiplied by a coefficient based on life expectancy of the insured's cohort at retirement age.

Constant-attendance supplement: 200% of the basic rate is paid monthly for blind persons and 100% of a specified rate for other categories of disabilities.

Partial pension: A percentage of the full pension is paid based on the number of years of covered employment.

Disability pension supplement: 50% to 475% of the basic rate is paid monthly.

There is no maximum monthly disability pension.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted periodically based on changes in the national average wage and the consumer price index.

Disability social pension (social assistance): 2,000 soms a month (4,000 soms if disabled before age 18) is paid for a Group I disability; 1,500 soms (3,300 soms if disabled before age 18) for a Group II disability; or 1,000 soms (2,700 soms if disabled before age 18) for a Group III disability.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension (social insurance and NDC): 50% of the Group II disability pension is paid for one eligible survivor, 90% for two, 120% for three, and 150% for four or more.

Full orphan's pension (social insurance and NDC): The pension is the sum of all pensions that both parents received or were entitled to receive.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted periodically based on changes in the national average wage and the consumer price index.

Survivor social pension (social assistance): 1,000 soms a month is paid for each orphan younger than age 16 (age 21 if a full-time student); 2,000 soms for full orphans. There is no income test.

The GM is 900 soms a month (October 2016).

Funeral grant (social insurance and NDC): A lump sum of 10 times the basic component is paid (three times the basic component for a dependent of a pensioner).

The basic component is 1,780 soms or 12% of the national average monthly wage in the last year, whichever is greater. The national average monthly wage is 15,670 soms (2017).

Funeral allowance (social assistance): 100% of the national average wage in the previous year is paid; 50% if self-employed, unemployed, a beneficiary of social assistance, or a dependent of an employed person; 20% for a dependent of an unemployed or self-employed person.

Survivor pension: The deceased had at least five years of contributions.

Eligible survivors include a widow (aged 55 or older) or a nonworking widower (aged 60 or older), orphans up to age 18 (no limit if disabled), or a dependent father (aged 60 or older) or mother (aged 55 or older) without any income.

The widow(er)'s pension ceases upon remarriage or employment.

Survivor grant: Paid if the deceased had at least three months of contributions.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension: For private-sector employees and self-employed persons, the pension is the insured's total pension points multiplied by the estimated average monthly covered earnings of all insured persons in the calendar year before retirement multiplied by 2%.

The number of pension points earned each year equals the insured's average monthly earnings divided by the year's average covered monthly earnings of all insured persons. Pension points are credited for periods when other benefits are received.

For civil servants, and police and military personnel, a percentage of the last covered earnings is paid depending on the period during which the employee began working for the National Revolutionary Movement: from 80% to 100% for persons who began working before 1954, from 75% to 90% for persons who began working from 1955 to 1974, and from 70% to 80% for persons who began working after 1975.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted at least once a year based on changes in the average covered earnings of all insured persons.

Old-age grant: A lump sum of 1.5 times the insured's average monthly covered earnings in the last six months multiplied by the number of years of contributions is paid.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension: 90% of the insured's average monthly covered earnings in the last six months multiplied by the assessed loss of work capacity is paid.

Earnings test: 25% of the full disability pension is paid if the insured is employed.

Constant-attendance allowance: 70% of the disability pension is paid.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted at least once a year based on changes in the average covered earnings of all insured persons.

Disability grant: 10 times the insured's average monthly covered earnings in the last six months multiplied by the assessed loss of work capacity is paid.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension

Spouse's pension: 30% of the deceased's last monthly covered earnings, or the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive, is paid to an eligible widow(er).

Orphan's pension: 20% of the deceased's last monthly covered earnings, or the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive, is paid to each eligible orphan.

The maximum combined orphan's pension is 60% of the deceased's last monthly covered earnings, or the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive.

Dependent parent's pension: 30% of the deceased's last monthly covered earnings, or the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive, is paid to each eligible parent.

The maximum combined dependent parent's pension is 50% of the deceased's last monthly covered earnings, or the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive.

The maximum combined survivor pensions is 80% of the deceased's last monthly covered earnings, or the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive.

Survivor grant: A lump sum is paid that varies depending on the length of the contribution period: from five times the deceased's average monthly covered earnings with three to 12 months of contributions, up to 30 times the deceased's average monthly earnings with at least 44 years of contributions.

The disability pension is payable abroad to citizens of Palau, the Marshall Islands, and the United States under reciprocal agreement. For citizens of other nations who are fully insured and older than age 60, benefits are paid over a six-month period.

Dependent disabled child benefit: Paid to a dependent child disabled before age 22 when an insured person receiving or entitled to receive a disability pension dies. The benefit is paid for as long as the child's disability exists.

The dependent disabled child benefit is payable abroad to citizens of Palau, the Marshall Islands, and the United States under reciprocal agreement. For citizens of other nations who are fully insured and older than age 60, benefits are paid over a six-month period.

Survivor pension (earnings tested): The deceased was fully insured and had at least 50 quarters of coverage and US$2,500 in contributions.

A person is fully insured when his or her total quarters of coverage is at least the number of years after June 1968 or since age 21 (whichever is later) until death.

Eligible survivors include a widow(er) and dependent, unmarried children younger than age 18 (age 22 if a student; no limit if disabled before age 22).

The widow(er)'s pension ceases upon remarriage, and the orphan's pension ceases upon adoption.

The survivor pension is payable abroad to citizens of Palau, the Marshall Islands, and the United States under reciprocal agreement. For citizens of other nations (if the deceased was fully insured and older than age 60), benefits are paid over a six-month period.

Survivor settlement: If the survivor pension is less than 4% of the deceased's cumulative covered earnings, a lump sum is paid to eligible survivors.

The survivor settlement is payable abroad to citizens of Palau and the Marshall Islands under reciprocal agreement.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (earnings tested): The monthly pension is 16.5% of the first US$10,000 of the insured's cumulative covered earnings plus 3% of earnings from US$10,001 to US$40,000 plus 2% of earnings from US$40,001 to US$302,500 plus 1% of earnings above US$302,500.

The minimum monthly old-age pension is US$100.

Earnings test: The old-age pension is reduced by US$1 for every US$2 of quarterly earnings above US$300.

Early pension (not earnings tested): 50% of the full monthly old-age pension is paid.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted based on changes in the earnings test.

Old-age settlement: 4% of the insured's cumulative covered earnings is paid.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension: The monthly pension is 16.5% of the first US$10,000 of the insured's cumulative covered earnings plus 3% of earnings from US$10,001 to US$40,000 plus 2% of earnings from US$40,001 to US$302,500 plus 1% of earnings above US$302,500.

The minimum monthly disability pension is US$100.

Dependent disabled child benefit: 15% of the monthly disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive is paid.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension (earnings tested):

Spouse's pension: 60% of the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive is paid to a widow(er).

Earnings test: The spouse's pension is reduced by US$1 for every US$2 of quarterly earnings exceeding above US$300.

The minimum monthly spouse's pension is US$100.

The maximum monthly spouse's pension is 100% of the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive.

Orphan's pension: 15% of the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive is paid for each eligible child.

Earnings test: The orphan's pension is reduced by US$1 for every US$2 of quarterly earnings above US$300.

The minimum monthly orphan's pension is US$100.

The maximum combined half orphan's pension is 40% of the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive (if there are three or more children and if a spouse's pension is paid).

The maximum combined full orphan's pension is 100% of the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive (if there are seven or more children and if no spouse's pension was ever paid).

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted based on changes in the earnings test.

Survivor settlement: 4% of the deceased's total cumulative covered earnings minus the amount of any benefits previously paid to the deceased and his or her eligible dependents is paid.

Old Age, Disability, and Survivors

Regulatory Framework

First and current laws: 1962 (provident fund), 1994 (old-age allowance), 2011 (social security fund), and 2017 (labor code).

Type of program: Provident fund and social assistance system.

Note: Additional cash benefits are provided to citizens of Nepal based on ethnicity and geographic location.

The 2011 law established a Social Security Fund Secretariat to administer a social insurance program covering old-age, disability, unemployment, and other social risks. Public- and private-sector employees already contribute 1% of earnings to the social insurance fund, but no benefits have been paid.

The 2017 law established a mandatory social insurance program for private-sector employees, including daily workers. The program will be gradually implemented starting in May 2019. Insured persons will contribute 11% of monthly earnings and employers will contribute 20% of monthly payroll. Of the combined insured person and employer contributions, 28.33% will finance old-age benefits, 1.40% will finance disability and work injury benefits, 0.27% will finance survivor benefits, and 1% will finance sickness and maternity benefits.

Coverage

Provident fund: Public-sector employees, including civil servants, military and police personnel; and private-sector employees with permanent contracts, including apprentices and vocational training students.

Voluntary coverage for foreign workers.

Exclusions: Self-employed persons.

Social assistance: Citizens of Nepal.

Source of Funds

Social assistance: The total cost.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age benefit (provident fund): Age 58 or upon termination of employment.

Deferred benefit: The benefit may be deferred for up to six years after the normal retirement age.

Loan option: Loans may be taken from the fund member's account to help finance the cost of housing, education, and other needs. The qualifying conditions vary depending on the nature of the loan.

Old-age allowance (Senior Citizen's Allowance, social assistance): Age 65 (age 60 for Dalits, single and divorced women, and residents of Karnali Zone).

Disability grant (Accident Indemnity, provident fund):

Paid for the partial or permanent disability of the fund member.

Disability social pension (Disability Allowance, social assistance):

Must be aged 16 or older and assessed with a total or severe disability.

Survivor benefit (provident fund):

Paid to the named survivors or legal heirs if the fund member dies before withdrawing his or her full account balance.

Additional benefit: The deceased was a civil servant or a member of the police or military.

Survivor grant (Accident Indemnity, provident fund):

Paid for the accidental death of the fund member.

Survivor social pension (Single Women's Allowance, social assistance, means tested):

Paid to widows aged 60 or older who satisfy a means test (no personal income, no family support, and no survivor pension as a widow).

Funeral grant (provident fund): Paid when a fund member dies.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age benefit (provident fund): A lump sum of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest is paid.

The interest rate is 8% a year (2017).

An annual bonus based on the fund's operating profit is credited to each member's account.

Deferred benefit: Calculated in the same way as the old-age benefit.

Loan option: The maximum amount that may be borrowed and the maximum borrowing period vary depending on the nature of the loan.

Interest rate adjustment: The Board of Directors of the Provident Fund sets the interest rate based on the fund's annual income.

Old-age allowance (Senior Citizen's Allowance, social assistance): 2,000 rupees a month is paid; 1,000 rupees a month for members of the Rautes, Chepang, and certain other ethnic groups.

Schedule of payments: The pension is paid every four months.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability grant (Accident Indemnity, provident fund): A lump sum of 200,000 rupees is paid for a total disability.

Partial disability: A lump sum of 10,000 rupees to 25,000 rupees is paid, depending on the assessed degree of disability.

Disability social pension (Disability Allowance, social assistance): 2,000 rupees a month is paid for a total disability; 600 rupees a month for a partial disability.

Schedule of payments: The pension is paid every four months.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor benefit (provident fund): A lump sum of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest minus previous withdrawals is paid to a named survivor or legal heir. If there is more than one named survivor, the amount is split equally.

The interest rate is 8% a year (2017).

Additional benefit: A lump sum of 150,000 rupees (civil servants) or 40,000 rupees to 75,000 rupees (military and police personnel) is paid.

Coverage

Legal residents of New Zealand.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: None.

Employer: None.

Government: The total cost is financed from general revenues.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age pension (New Zealand Superannuation, universal): Age 65 with at least 10 years of continuous residence and physical presence in New Zealand since age 20, including at least five years after age 50, and a resident on the date of application. There is no income or asset test (except for pensioners who choose to include an unqualified partner in their pension).

The pension is payable abroad for up to 26 weeks if the beneficiary is not abroad for more than 30 weeks; may be payable abroad for longer than 26 weeks, depending on the beneficiary's length of residence in New Zealand and the applicable reciprocal agreements and domestic legislation.

Old-age assistance benefits (social assistance, means tested): An accommodation supplement, a disability allowance, a special needs grant, and other benefits may be paid to old-age pensioners who meet certain conditions.

Disability pension (Supported Living Payment, social assistance, income tested): Paid to citizens or permanent residents aged 16 or older with at least two years of residence who are assessed with a limited capacity for work (less than 15 hours a week for more than two years) due to a serious disability or mental health condition or are caring for a person who would otherwise need full-time professional care.

The disability pension is payable abroad temporarily under certain conditions.

Caregiver allowance (Supported Living Payment, social assistance, income tested): Paid to citizens or permanent residents aged 18 or older (aged 16 to 17 under exceptional circumstances) with at least two years of residence who provide full-time care for persons with a serious disability or mental health condition. The person receiving care must not be the caregiver's spouse or partner.

Disability assistance benefits (social assistance, means tested): An accommodation supplement, a family tax credit, an advance payment of benefit, a training incentive allowance, transition-to-work assistance, a disability allowance, a temporary additional benefit, a special needs grant, and other benefits may be paid to disability pensioners who meet certain conditions.

Spouse's pension (Job Seeker Support, social assistance, income tested): Paid to a widow with no children or a widow(er) whose youngest child is aged 14 or older (see Unemployment).

Survivor pension (Sole Parent Support, social assistance, income tested): Paid to a widow(er) whose youngest child is younger than age 14 (see Family Allowances).

Orphan's benefit (social assistance, income tested): Paid to the primary caregiver of an orphan younger than age 18 whose biological or adoptive parents are deceased, cannot be found, or are incapable of caring for the child due to a serious long-term disability. The caregiver must be aged 18 or older and expect to care for the child for at least 12 months. The child must be a resident and physically present in New Zealand; or the caregiver must be a resident and continuously physically present in New Zealand for at least 12 months.

Funeral grant (social assistance, means tested): Paid to the deceased's partner, spouse, child, parent, guardian, or, in the absence of the above, to the person who paid for the funeral. There are income and asset tests based on the deceased's circumstances before death and the survivor's age, number of children, and relationship with the deceased.

Survivor assistance benefits (social assistance, means tested): An accommodation supplement, an advance payment of benefit, a training incentive allowance, transition-to-work assistance, a disability allowance, a special needs grant, and other benefits may be paid to survivor pensioners who meet certain conditions.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (New Zealand Superannuation, universal): NZ$400.87 (if single and living alone), NZ$370.03 (if single and sharing accommodation), or NZ$308.36 (if in a married, civil-union, or de facto couple) (net) a week is paid.

If the beneficiary chooses to include a spouse or partner who would otherwise not qualify for an old-age pension, up to NZ$586.18 (net) a week is paid, subject to an income test (the pension is reduced by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross annual joint income above NZ$5,200).

The pension may be reduced by NZ$1 for every NZ$1 in pension benefits the beneficiary receives from foreign governments.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually on April 1 based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous year, with a further adjustment based on the net average ordinary time weekly wage. The net average ordinary time weekly wage is determined by the quarterly employment survey published by Statistics New Zealand.

Old-age assistance benefits (social assistance, means tested): The amount of additional assistance varies depending on the beneficiary's earnings, family situation, living conditions, and other factors.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension and caregiver allowance (Supported Living Payment, social assistance, income tested): Up to NZ$217.80 (if single, aged 16 or 17, and without children), NZ$269.15 (if single, aged 18 or older, and without children), NZ$379.19 (if single with children), NZ$237.09 (if in a married, civil-union, or de facto couple with children), or NZ$224.28 (if in a married, civil-union, or de facto couple without children) (net) a week is paid.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$0.30 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$5,200 and by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$10,400. The personal earnings of totally blind persons are exempt.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually on April 1 based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous calendar year.

Disability assistance benefits (social assistance, means tested): The amount of additional assistance varies depending on the beneficiary's earnings, family situation, living conditions, and other factors.

Survivor Benefits

Spouse's pension (Job Seeker Support, social assistance, income tested): Up to NZ$215.34 (with no dependent children), NZ$334.05 (with dependent children), or NZ$224.28 (if benefits began before July 15, 2013) (net) a week is paid.

Income test: The pension is reduced by NZ$0.30 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$5,200 and by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$10,400.

Survivor pension (Sole Parent Support, social assistance, income tested): NZ$334.05 (net) a week is paid.

Income test: The pension is reduced by NZ$0.30 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$5,200 and by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$10,400.

Orphan's benefit (social assistance, income tested): Up to NZ$229.83 (gross) a week is paid, depending on age, for each eligible orphan.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$1 for every NZ$1 of unearned income the child receives above 50% of the basic annual orphan's benefit rate. (The caregiver's income is not taken into account.)

The basic annual orphan's benefit rate is NZ$209.52 (net) a week.

Funeral grant (social assistance, means tested): Up to NZ$2,516.19 (gross) is paid to the surviving spouse, partner, or dependent child for funeral costs.

Means test: There is an income and asset test based on the deceased's circumstances before death and the survivor's age, number of children, and relationship with the deceased.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually on April 1 based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous calendar year.

Survivor assistance benefits (social assistance, means tested): The amount of additional assistance depends on earnings, family situation, living conditions, and other factors.

Sickness and Maternity

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1938.

Current law: 1964 (social security), implemented in 1965.

Type of program: Universal and social assistance system.

Coverage

Universal (paid parental leave): Employed and self-employed persons legally residing in New Zealand.

Universal (medical benefits): Legal residents of New Zealand and certain other persons.

Social assistance (cash benefits): Citizens or permanent residents of New Zealand.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: None.

Employer: None.

Government: The total cost is financed from general revenues.

Qualifying Conditions

Cash sickness and maternity benefits (Job Seeker Support, social assistance, income tested): Must be aged 18 or older (aged 19 or older with a dependent child); have at least two years of continuous residence; and have stopped working, have reduced hours and income, or be unemployed or working part-time and be unable to perform full-time work due to sickness, injury, pregnancy, or disability.

For persons with less than two years of residency, a benefit may be paid in cases of hardship. For nonpermanent residents, an income- and asset-tested emergency benefit may be paid in cases of hardship.

Paid parental leave (universal): Must have worked an average of at least 10 hours a week for at least 26 of the 52 weeks before the expected date of childbirth or the date the adopted child came into the parent's care. Partial or full entitlement is transferable to a qualifying spouse or partner.

Medical benefits (universal): Must have legally resided or have a stated intent to remain in New Zealand for at least two years. No residency requirement for subsidized treatment for accidents under the Accident Compensation Corporation.

Sickness and Maternity Benefits

Sickness benefit (Job Seeker Support, social assistance, income tested): Up to NZ$215.34 (net) a week is paid if aged 25 or older, single, and with no children; NZ$179.44 (net) a week if aged 20 to 24, or if aged 18 or 19 and living away from home; NZ$143.55 (net) a week if aged 18 or 19 and living with a parent.

Up to NZ$334.05 (net) a week is paid for a single beneficiary with children; up to NZ$192.25 (net) a week for each member of a married or civil-union couple with children or NZ$179.44 (net) a week without children.

The benefit is paid after a waiting period of up to two weeks, depending on the beneficiary's previous income.

There is no limit on the period of eligibility, but the beneficiary must reapply every 52 weeks. A medical professional must periodically assess the illness.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross weekly earnings above NZ$80 for single persons without children and for couples; by NZ$0.30 for every NZ$1 of gross weekly earnings from NZ$100 to NZ$200 and by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross weekly earnings above NZ$200 for single persons with children.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually on April 1 based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous calendar year.

Maternity benefit (Job Seeker Support, social assistance, income tested): May be paid to a single pregnant woman at the sickness benefit rate (see above) after the 26th week of pregnancy (or earlier if the woman is unable to work due to pregnancy complications, an illness, or disability). Payment may continue for up to 13 weeks after childbirth.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross earnings above NZ$80 a week.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually on April 1 based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous calendar year.

Paid parental leave (universal): 100% of the employee's average gross weekly earnings in the best 26 of the 52 weeks of earnings before childbirth or adoption is paid for up to 18 weeks. The benefit is paid to one parent or shared between both parents if they are both eligible.

Self-employed persons who earn less than the equivalent of 10 hours a week at the highest adult minimum wage receive the minimum gross weekly benefit.

The minimum gross weekly paid parental leave benefit for self-employed persons is NZ$165.

The maximum gross weekly paid parental leave benefit is NZ$564.38.

Benefit adjustment: The maximum benefit is adjusted annually on July 1 based on the increase in net average ordinary time weekly earnings. Net average ordinary time weekly earnings are determined by the quarterly employment survey published by Statistics New Zealand. The minimum benefit for self-employed persons is adjusted annually on July 1 based on the increase in the highest minimum wage.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Free services include inpatient care in public hospitals, maternity care, and most laboratory services. Partial subsidies are provided for general practice visits. Costs for care in a private hospital are not subsidized.

Cost sharing: Partial subsidy for approved prescribed medicines, depending on a patient's number of copayments, income, and frequency of use.

Subsequent items are fully subsidized after a patient or family makes 20 copayments of NZ$5 for each item a year.

Low-income families have access to a Community Services Card (CSC) for reduced prescription charges, after hours doctor visits, specialist visits, children's eyeglasses (up to age 15), emergency dental care, travel and lodging support for certain hospitalizations, and home help.

Persons who do not qualify for a CSC can obtain a High Use Health Card (HUHC) if they have made 12 or more doctor's visits in the last 12 months. The HUHC is for individual use only and is not income tested. For HUHC cardholders, visits are subsidized at NZ$15 a visit for adults aged 18 or older, and NZ$20 a visit for children aged 6 to 17.

No reimbursement is provided for dental treatment, physical therapy, or work-related injuries.

The Accident Compensation Corporation (ACC) subsidizes treatment for accident-related injuries.

Dependents' Medical Benefits

Medical benefits for dependents are the same as those for workers. Free general practitioner care is provided for children up to age 13; free dental care for children up to age 18.

Special subsidies are provided for low-income families or those who need intensive medical care.

Administrative Organization

Work Injury

Regulatory Framework

First laws: 1900 (worker's compensation) and 1974 (accident compensation).

Current law: 2001 (accident compensation), implemented in 2002.

Type of program: Universal and employer-liability (through a public carrier) system.

Coverage

Work injury: Citizens and residents of New Zealand.

Nonwork injury: Citizens and residents of, and temporary visitors to, New Zealand.

Source of Funds

Insured person

Work injury: None.

Nonwork injury: Contribution rates are set each year based on the actual lifetime cost of injuries, according to a schedule in law.

Self-employed person

Work injury: Contribution rates are set each year based on the actual lifetime cost of injuries, according to a schedule in law.

Nonwork injury: Contribution rates are set each year based on the actual lifetime cost of injuries, according to a schedule in law.

Employer

Work injury: Contribution rates are set each year based on experience ratings and injury risk groups, which take into account both the industry and the employer's performances in injury prevention and returning employees to work.

Nonwork injury: None.

Government

Work injury: Contributes as an employer.

Nonwork injury: The cost of the program for nonearners is financed from general revenues.

Qualifying Conditions

Work injury benefits: Must be assessed with a work injury or occupational disease, and be substantially unable to perform usual work as a result of the work injury or occupational disease. A medical practitioner must provide a medical certificate. For noise-induced hearing loss, must be assessed with at least a 6% injury-related loss.

Nonwork-related injury benefits: There is a one-week waiting period.

Temporary Disability Benefits

Temporary disability benefit (Weekly Compensation, earnings tested): 80% of the worker's average gross weekly earnings in the period before the incapacity began is paid until he or she is able to return to work.

The benefit is paid after a one-week waiting period for as long as a certified incapacity lasts, or up to the normal retirement age or 12 months after the incapacity began (whichever is later). (For work-related injuries, the employer pays benefits for the first week)

The minimum gross weekly temporary disability benefit for incapacitated full-time workers is NZ$528.

The maximum gross weekly temporary disability benefit is NZ$1,976.46.

Earnings test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$1 for every NZ$1 of earnings above 20% of the worker's weekly earnings used to calculate benefits.

Employers may make an additional weekly payment to increase the employee's income during incapacity to the level of his or her normal wage. The additional payment is exempt from the benefit reduction.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are increased annually based on changes in the labor cost index.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Permanent disability pension

Lump-sum payment: A lump sum is paid based on the assessed degree of incapacity: from NZ$3,345.06 (gross) for an assessed incapacity of 10% to NZ$133,802.28 (gross) for an assessed incapacity of at least 80%. Assessment for entitlement begins two years after the injury occurred or occupational disease began, or once the condition stabilizes, whichever is earlier.

Independence allowance: The allowance varies depending on the assessed degree of incapacity: from NZ$191.36 (gross) for an assessed incapacity of 10% to NZ$1,148.81 (gross) for an assessed incapacity of at least 80%. The allowance is paid quarterly in addition to other cash assistance for any long-term incapacity resulting from an injury suffered before April 1, 2002. There is no limit to duration.

Medical practitioners assess the degree of incapacity.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits may increase if the initial assessed level of incapacity increases.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Medical care: A copayment may be required for medical care and physical rehabilitation, according to a schedule in law. The worker pays for the full cost of benefits that are not specified. The full cost of elective surgery performed by a contracted provider is fully funded; partially funded if performed by a non-contracted provider.

Social rehabilitation: Attendant care, household help, childcare, assistive devices and appliances, modification of motor vehicles and residence, and travel-related costs are provided if there is an assessed need.

Vocational rehabilitation: Provided for up to three years (may be extended) to those entitled to compensation for loss of earnings and potential earnings.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension

Spouse's pension: 60% of the temporary disability benefit the deceased would have received for a total incapacity is paid. The benefit is paid for up to five years, until the date the deceased's youngest child reaches age 18, or until the date that the spouse no longer cares for the deceased's children younger than age 18 or any other eligible dependent, whichever is later. (The spouse can choose between survivor benefits under superannuation or work injury.)

Orphan's pension: 20% of the temporary disability benefit the deceased would have received for a total incapacity is paid for an orphan up to age 18 (age 21 if a full-time student; no limit if disabled, dependent on the deceased, and with earnings lower than a set amount); 40% for a full orphan.

Other dependents' pension: 20% of the temporary disability benefit the deceased would have received for a total incapacity is paid to other dependents with average weekly earnings over a 12 month-period less than the minimum full-time earner rate.

The maximum combined survivor benefit is 80% of the deceased's weekly earnings, up to a maximum.

Survivor's grant: A lump sum of NZ$6,668.03 (gross) is paid to a spouse; NZ$3,334.04 (gross) to each child younger than age 18 or other dependent.

Child care: NZ$141.79 (gross) a week is paid for one child; NZ$85.07 (gross) each a week for two children; NZ$198.51 (gross) a week for three or more children.

Funeral grant: A lump sum of up to NZ$6,219.44 (gross) is paid to a named survivor.

Administrative Organization

Ministry of Business, Innovation, and Employment (<https://www.mbie.govt.nz/>) oversees the program and legislation.

New Zealand Treasury (<https://treasury.govt.nz/>) monitors the performance of the Accident Compensation Corporation.

Accident Compensation Corporation (<https://www.acc.co.nz/>) administers the benefits.

Employers may self-manage claims.

Unemployment

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1930.

Current law: 1964 (social security), implemented in 1965.

Type of program: Social assistance system.

Coverage

Citizens or permanent residents of New Zealand.

Exclusions: Pensioners, full-time students, and striking workers.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: None.

Employer: None.

Government: The total cost is financed from general revenues.

Qualifying Conditions

Unemployment benefit (Job Seeker Support, income tested): Must be aged 18 or older (aged 20 or older with a dependent child); have at least two years of continuous residence; be available for and actively seeking full-time work and must comply with the work test, which includes acceptance of any offer of suitable employment. The unemployed person is ineligible for benefits for the first 13 weeks in cases of voluntary unemployment or dismissal for serious misconduct (during which time a provisional benefit may be paid if specified tasks are performed for six weeks).

For citizens or permanent residents with less than two years of residency in New Zealand, a benefit may be paid in cases of hardship. For nonpermanent residents, an income- and asset-tested emergency benefit may be paid in cases of hardship.

Unemployment Benefits

Unemployment benefit (Job Seeker Support, income tested): Up to NZ$215.34 (net) a week is paid if aged 25 or older, single, and with no children; NZ$179.44 (net) a week if aged 20 to 24 or if aged 18 or 19 and living away from home; NZ$143.55 (net) a week if aged 18 or 19 and living with a parent.

Up to NZ$334.05 (net) a week is paid if single with children; up to NZ$192.25 (net) a week for each member of a married, civil-union or de-facto couple with children or NZ$179.44 (net) a week without children.

The benefit is paid after a waiting period of up to two weeks, depending on the beneficiary's previous income and family circumstances.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross weekly earnings above NZ$80 for beneficiaries who are not single parents. For single parents, the benefit is reduced by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross weekly earnings above NZ$100; by NZ$0.30 for every NZ$1 of weekly income from NZ$100 to NZ$200; and by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of weekly income above NZ$200.

There is no limit on the period of eligibility for the unemployment benefit but the beneficiary must reapply every 52 weeks.

Administrative Organization

Ministry of Social Development (Work and Income) (<https://www.msd.govt.nz/>) administers benefits through its service centers and provides a one entry point for financial assistance and employment services via its Work and Income' service line (<https://www.workandincome.govt.nz/>).

Family Allowances

Regulatory Framework

First and current laws: 1964 (social security), implemented in 1965; 2004 (taxation), implemented in 2005; and 2007 (income tax and tax credits), implemented in 2008.

Type of program: Universal and social assistance system.

Note: It is possible to be eligible for more than one tax credit and allowance.

Coverage

Citizens and legal permanent residents of New Zealand.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: None.

Employer: None.

Government: The total cost is financed from general revenues.

Qualifying Conditions

Sole parent support (social assistance, income tested):

Paid to a single parent aged 20 or older with a dependent child younger than age 14. Must be available for part-time work or participate in employment training or job placement seminars, depending on the age of the parent's youngest dependent child. Must have at least two years of continuous residence.

Young parent payment (social assistance, income tested):

Paid to parents aged 16 to 18 with dependent children. Single parents aged 16 to 17 must be in exceptional circumstances (neither living with nor supported by parents or guardians), divorced or separated, or living at home or financially supported by parents or guardians with earnings below a certain threshold. Parents aged 16 to 18 who are married or in a civil union do not have to be in exceptional circumstances but neither partner must receive certain other benefits in his or her own right. Must be undertaking or available to undertake full-time secondary or tertiary studies, approved training, or approved work-based learning; or must be exempt from this condition due to personal circumstances. Must have at least two years of continuous residence.

For persons with less than two years of residence, a benefit may be paid in cases of hardship. For nonpermanent residents, an income- and asset-tested emergency benefit may be paid in cases of hardship.

Job seeker support for sole parents (social assistance, income tested): See Unemployment.

Emergency maintenance allowance (social assistance, income tested): Paid to single parents who are ineligible for the sole parent support, job seeker support, supported living payment, youth payment, or young parent payment, and who would experience hardship without the benefit.

Child disability allowance (universal): Paid to the principal caregiver of a dependent child with a serious disability.

Unsupported child's benefit (universal): Paid for a child younger than age 18 who is financially dependent on the caregiver, and the child's parents (biological, adoptive, or step) are unable to care for him or her. The primary caregiver must be aged 18 or older and expect to care for the child for at least 12 months.

Youth payment (social assistance, income tested): Must be aged 16 to 17 with no dependent children. Must be single and in exceptional circumstances (neither living with nor supported by parents or another guardian) or divorced or separated, or must be married or in a recognized union with a person who is not receiving certain benefits in his or her own right. Must be undertaking or available to undertake full-time secondary or tertiary studies, approved training, or approved work-based learning; or must be exempt from this condition due to personal circumstances. Must have at least two years of continuous residence.

For persons with less than two years of residence, a benefit may be paid in cases of hardship. For nonpermanent residents, an income- and asset-tested emergency benefit may be paid in cases of hardship.

Family tax credit (social assistance, income tested): Paid to families with dependent children up to age 17 (age 18 if a student). The principal caregiver or the child must meet a family income test and a residence test.

In-work tax credit (social assistance, income tested): Paid to families with dependent children up to age 17 (age 18 if a student). A two-parent family must work jointly more than 30 hours a week; 20 hours a week for single parents. Parents receiving paid parental leave or accident compensation for an injury suffered after January 1, 2006, can meet the work hours test. No eligible parent may receive an income-tested benefit, a student allowance, or a parental allowance under the War Pensions Act 1954. The principal caregiver or the child must meet a family income test and a residence test.

Minimum family tax credit (social assistance, income tested): Paid to working families with dependent children up to age 17 (age 18 if a student) with annual income less than NZ$26,156 (net). A two-parent family must be working jointly more than 30 hours a week; 20 hours a week for single parents. Parents receiving paid parental leave or accident compensation for an injury suffered after January 1, 2006, can meet the work hours test. No eligible parent may receive an income-tested benefit or a student allowance. The principal caregiver or the child must meet a residence test.

Best Start tax credit (social assistance, income tested): Paid to families after the end of paid parental leave until the child reaches age 3 (from birth for families who are not entitled to paid parental leave).

Income test: An income test is applied once the child reaches age 1. For children younger than age 1, there is no income test.

Family Allowance Benefits

Sole parent support (social assistance, income tested): NZ$334.05 (net) a week is paid for single parents after a waiting period of up to two weeks, depending on previous income and family circumstances. Other rates depend on age, relationship status, number of dependents, and income.

Income test: The benefits are reduced by NZ$0.30 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$5,200 and by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$10,400.

Young parent payment (social assistance, income tested): Up to NZ$334.05 (net) a week is paid to a single person aged 18 or aged 16 to 17 and receiving no support from his or her parents. Accommodation, utilities, and other related expenses may be paid directly from the benefit payment; a food allowance is credited to a payment card; and a cash allowance is paid.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$1 for every NZ$1 of additional income above NZ$211.96 a week.

Job seeker support for sole parents (social assistance, income tested): See Unemployment.

Emergency maintenance allowance (social assistance, income tested): NZ$334.05 (net) a week is paid after a waiting period of up to two weeks, depending on previous income and family circumstances.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$0.30 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$5,200 and by NZ$0.70 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$10,400.

Child disability allowance (universal): NZ$47.64 (gross) a week is paid.

Unsupported child's benefit (universal): Up to NZ$209.52 (gross) a week is paid for each eligible unsupported child, depending on age.

Youth payment (social assistance, income tested): NZ$179.44 (net) a week is paid.

Income test: The benefit is reduced by NZ$1 for every NZ$1 of additional income above NZ$211.96 a week.

Benefit adjustment: The sole parent support, the job seeker support for sole parents, the emergency maintenance allowance, the child disability allowance, the young parent payment, and the youth payment are adjusted on April 1 based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous year.

Family tax credit (social assistance, income tested):

NZ$113.04 (gross) a week is paid for the first child and NZ$91.25 (gross) a week for each additional child.

Income test: The total benefit is reduced by NZ$0.25 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$42,700.

In-work tax credit (social assistance, income tested):

Up to NZ$72.50 (gross) a week is paid for up to three eligible children; NZ$15 (gross) a week for each additional child.

Income test: The total benefit is reduced by NZ$0.2225 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$36,350.

Minimum family tax credit (social assistance, income tested): A guaranteed gross income for working families of NZ$26,156 a year is paid.

Best Start tax credit (social assistance, income tested):

Up to NZ$60 a week is paid for each eligible child.

Income test: For a child aged 1 or older, the benefit is reduced by NZ$0.21 for every NZ$1 of gross annual earnings above NZ$79,000; for a child younger than age 1, there is no income test.

Benefit adjustment: The family tax credit and the best start tax credit are automatically adjusted when the cumulative increase in the consumer price index reaches 5%. The in-work tax credit is subject to periodic review; the minimum family tax credit is reviewed annually; and both are adjusted at the discretion of the government.

Administrative Organization

Ministry of Social Development (Work and Income) (<https://www.msd.govt.nz/>) administers allowances through its service centers.

Inland Revenue Department (<http://www.ird.govt.nz/>) administers the in-work tax credit, minimum family tax credit, best start tax credit, and family tax credit for working families who do not receive a benefit.

Social insurance: Finances any deficit.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age pension (social insurance): Age 60 with at least 120 months of contributions before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the pension is first paid; certain workers, such as miners, can retire earlier under certain conditions.

For pensioners up to age 65, employment or self-employment must cease; the pension is suspended if the pensioner resumes employment or self-employment.

Dependent's supplement: Paid for each of the insured's five youngest unmarried, unemployed children younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled) conceived or adopted on or before the insured's date of retirement.

Old-age grant (social insurance): Age 60 with less than 120 months of contributions before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the grant is paid.

Old-age social pension (Social Pension Program for Indigent Senior Citizens, social assistance, means tested): Age 60 and assessed as poor by the National Household Targeting System for Poverty Reduction (NHTS-PR).

Disability pension (social insurance): Must be assessed with a permanent total or partial disability and have at least 36 months of contributions before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the disability began.

Dependent's supplement: Paid to a disability pensioner with a total disability for each of his or her five youngest unmarried, unemployed children younger than age 21 (no age limit if disabled) conceived on or before the date the disability began.

Partial disability: Must be assessed with a permanent total loss of certain body parts or their functions, and have at least one month of contributions before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the disability began.

The pension is suspended if the pensioner recovers, resumes employment (in the case of a total disability), or fails to report for the annual physical examination.

Supplemental allowance: Paid to disability pensioners.

A Social Security System doctor assesses the degree of disability annually.

Disability grant (social insurance): Must be assessed with a permanent total or partial disability and have less than 36 months of contributions before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the grant is paid.

Survivor pension (social insurance): The deceased had at least 36 months of contributions before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the death occurred.

Eligible survivors include a widow(er) and up to five dependent, unmarried, unemployed children younger than age 21 (no age limit if disabled).

The widow(er)'s pension ceases upon remarriage.

Dependent's supplement: Paid for each of the deceased's five youngest unmarried, unemployed children younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled) conceived on or before the date of death.

Survivor grant (social insurance): The deceased had less than 36 months of contributions before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the death occurred.

Eligible survivors include a widow(er) and up to five dependent, unmarried, unemployed children younger than age 21 (no age limit if disabled). If there is no spouse or dependent child, the benefit is paid to dependent parents or to the person named by the deceased.

Funeral grant (social insurance): Paid to the person who paid for the funeral.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (social insurance): The pension is the highest of: 300 pesos plus 20% of the insured's average monthly covered earnings and 2% of average monthly covered earnings for each credited year of service exceeding 10 years; 40% of the insured's average monthly covered earnings; 1,200 pesos with at least 10 but less than 20 credited years of service; or 2,400 pesos with at least 20 credited years of service.

Average monthly covered earnings are the sum of the insured's last 60 months of covered earnings immediately before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the pension is first paid divided by 60, or the sum of all monthly covered earnings paid before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the pension is first paid divided by the number of monthly contributions paid in the same period, whichever is greater.

The insured's credited years of service are the insured's total months of contributions divided by 12 for contributions since 2002; every year in which the insured has at least six months of contributions for contributions from 1985 to 2001; 1985 minus the year the insured began making contributions for contributions before 1985.

The minimum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are 1,000 pesos; 5,000 pesos for voluntarily insured overseas workers.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are 16,000 pesos.

There is no maximum monthly old-age pension.

Partial lump sum: The insured may choose to receive the first 18 months of pension payments (not including dependent supplements and the 13th pension payment in the first year) as a lump sum.

Dependent's supplement: 10% of the old-age pension or 250 pesos, whichever is greater, is paid for each eligible child.

Schedule of payments: 13 payments a year.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted on an ad hoc basis based on changes in prices and wages and the financial health of the system, subject to approval by the Social Security Commission.

Old-age grant (social insurance): A lump sum of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest is paid.

Old-age social pension (Social Pension Program for Indigent Senior Citizens, social assistance, means tested): 500 pesos a month is paid.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension (social insurance): The pension is the highest of: 300 pesos plus 20% of the insured's average monthly covered earnings and 2% of average monthly covered earnings for each credited year of service exceeding 10 years; 40% of the insured's average monthly covered earnings; 1,000 pesos with less than 10 credited years of service; 1,200 pesos with at least 10 but less than 20 credited years of service; or 2,400 pesos with at least 20 credited years of service.

Average monthly covered earnings are the sum of the insured's last 60 months of covered earnings immediately before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the disability began divided by 60, or the sum of all monthly covered earnings paid before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the disability began divided by the number of monthly contributions paid in the same period, whichever is greater.

The insured's credited years of service are the insured's total months of contributions divided by 12 for contributions since 2002; every year in which the insured has at least six months of contributions for contributions from 1985 to 2001; 1985 minus the year the insured began making contributions for contributions before 1985.

Philippines

The minimum monthly earnings used to calculate benefits are 1,000 pesos; 5,000 pesos for voluntarily insured overseas workers.

There is no maximum disability pension.

Dependent's supplement: 10% of the disability pension or 250 pesos, whichever is greater, is paid for each eligible child.

Partial disability: A percentage of the full disability pension is paid based on the assessed degree of disability. A lump sum is paid if the insured had less than 12 months of contributions.

Supplemental allowance: 500 pesos a month is paid.

Schedule of payments: 13 payments a year.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted on an ad hoc basis based on changes in prices and wages and the financial health of the system, subject to approval by the Social Security Commission.

Disability grant (social insurance): For a permanent total disability, a lump sum of the full disability pension multiplied by the number of months of contributions or 12 (whichever is greater) is paid.

For a permanent partial disability, a lump sum of the full disability pension multiplied by the number of months of contributions or 12 (whichever is greater) multiplied by the assessed degree of disability is paid.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension (social insurance): 100% of the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive is split among eligible survivors (illegitimate children receive 50% of the share allocated to legitimate children).

The spouse's pension ceases upon remarriage and the amount is split among the eligible surviving children.

The minimum monthly survivor pension is 1,000 pesos if the deceased had less than 10 credited years of service; 1,200 pesos with at least 10 but less than 20 credited years; 2,400 pesos with at least 20 credited years.

The deceased's credited years of service are the deceased's total months of contributions divided by 12 for contributions since 2002; every year in which the deceased had at least six months of contributions for contributions from 1985 to 2001; 1985 minus the year the deceased began making contributions for contributions before 1985.

There is no maximum survivor pension.

Dependent's supplement: 10% of the monthly old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive or 250 pesos, whichever is greater, is paid for up to five eligible children.

If there is no surviving spouse or dependent child and if the deceased died within 60 months of first receiving a pension, a lump sum of the remaining balance of 60 months of the pension is paid to dependent parents, or if there are no dependent parents, to the person named by the deceased.

Schedule of payments: 13 payments a year.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted on an ad hoc basis based on changes in prices and wages and the financial health of the system, subject to approval by the Social Security Commission.

Survivor grant (social insurance): A lump sum of the old-age pension the deceased would have been entitled to receive multiplied by the number of months of contributions or 12 (whichever is greater) is paid.

Funeral grant: A lump sum of 20,000 pesos is paid.

Administrative Organization

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are 40,000 pesos.

Government

Cash benefits: Finances any deficit.

Medical benefits: 2,400 pesos a year for certain categories of people with low or no income.

Qualifying Conditions

Cash sickness benefit: Must have at least three months of contributions in the 12 months immediately before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the incapacity began. The insured must be hospitalized or incapacitated at home for at least four days and provide medical certification.

Cash maternity benefit: Must have at least three months of contributions in the 12 months immediately before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the birth or miscarriage occurred. Benefits are paid for up to four pregnancies, including miscarriages. Must provide medical certification of the pregnancy and a birth certificate.

Medical benefits: Employed persons must have at least three months of contributions in the six months before hospitalization. Self-employed persons and voluntarily insured persons must have at least three months of contributions in the six months before hospitalization if no surgical procedure is involved; nine months in the 12 months before hospitalization if a surgical procedure is involved. Contribution requirements are waived for registered retirees and pensioners, certain categories of people with low or no income, and overseas workers.

Sickness and Maternity Benefits

Sickness benefit: 90% of the insured's average daily covered earnings is paid after a three-day waiting period (except for an injury or an acute disease) for up to 120 days in a calendar year. The benefit payment period may not exceed 240 days for the same illness.

Daily covered earnings are the sum of the insured's six highest months of covered earnings in the 12 months before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the incapacity began divided by 180.

Maternity benefit: 100% of the insured's average daily covered earnings is paid for 60 days each for up to four births or miscarriages (78 days for a caesarean birth or an ectopic pregnancy that requires surgery).

Daily covered earnings are the sum of the insured's six highest months of covered earnings in the 12 months before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the birth or miscarriage occurred divided by 180.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Accredited health care providers offer comprehensive health care services, including basic primary care, inpatient and outpatient services, and emergency care, which are paid directly by the health fund according to a fixed schedule (fee for service and case rates for select medical and surgical procedures).

Cost sharing: There is some cost sharing for general and specialist care, hospital care, laboratory and X-ray fees, surgery, and medicine.

There is no cost sharing for citizens of the Philippines aged 60 or older, household workers, and certain categories of people with low or no income and their dependents, who are treated at government hospitals and facilities.

Inpatient treatment is limited to 45 days a year for insured persons and each of their covered dependents.

Inpatient treatment abroad is reimbursed based on an established fee schedule for claims submitted within 180 days of discharge.

Dependents' Medical Benefits

Medical benefits for dependents are the same as those for the insured.

No additional premium is required for a spouse, unmarried and unemployed children (including foster children) younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled), and parents aged 60 or older who are not independently enrolled or who are assessed with a disability.

Administrative Organization

Social Security Commission, composed of a tripartite board of representatives from the government, employers, and workers, provides general supervision, management, and regulation of the cash benefits.

Employers pay sickness and maternity benefits directly to employees and are reimbursed by the Social Security System. The Social Security System pays benefits to self-employed and voluntary members.

Social Security System (<https://www.sss.gov.ph/>) collects contributions and administers the cash benefits.

Department of Health (<https://www.doh.gov.ph/>) provides policy coordination and guidance for the medical benefits.

Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (<https://www.philhealth.gov.ph/>) collects contributions for the medical care program and oversees the provision of medical benefits. Medical care is provided by accredited providers.

Work Injury

Regulatory Framework

First and current laws: 1928 (workmen's compensation); and 1974 (work injury), implemented in 1975.

Type of program: Social insurance system.

Coverage

Private-sector employees, household workers, and public-sector employees, including government employees, firefighters, military, police, coast guard, and correctional personnel.

Exclusions: Self-employed persons.

Source of Funds

Insured person: None.

Self-employed person: Not applicable.

Employer: 10 pesos a month for each private-sector employee with monthly earnings below 14,750 pesos; 30 pesos a month with monthly earnings of at least 14,750 pesos.

The Employees' Compensation Commission periodically adjusts the maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions.

Government: 100 pesos a month for each public-sector employee; finances any deficit.

Qualifying Conditions

Must be assessed with a work injury or occupational disease.

Temporary Disability Benefits

90% of the insured's average daily covered earnings is paid from the first day of disability for up to 120 days; may be extended up to 240 days if further treatment is required.

Daily covered earnings are the sum of the insured's six highest months of covered earnings in the last 12 months before the six-month period (January-June, April-September, July-December, or October-March) in which the incapacity began divided by 180.

The minimum daily temporary disability benefit is 110 pesos for private-sector employees.

The maximum daily temporary disability benefit is 480 pesos for private-sector employees.

The benefit is suspended if the insured does not undergo at least one medical exam a year.

Permanent Disability Benefits

The monthly pension is 115% of the permanent disability pension under Old Age, Disability, and Survivors.

The minimum monthly permanent disability pension is 2,000 pesos.

Dependent's supplement (permanent total disability): 10% of the insured's disability pension or 250 pesos, whichever is greater, is paid for each of the insured's five youngest unmarried, unemployed children younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled).

Partial disability: The pension is the same as the permanent total disability pension but is paid for a limited period according to a schedule in law for each specified disability. If the awarded duration of the pension is less than a year, the pension is paid as a lump sum.

Caregiver's allowance (permanent total and partial disability): 1,000 pesos a month is paid.

The degree of disability is assessed annually by a Government Service Insurance System doctor. The pension is suspended if the beneficiary is gainfully employed (in the case of a total disability), fails to undergo an annual physical examination, does not provide a doctor's quarterly medical report, or is fully rehabilitated.

Workers' Medical Benefits

Benefits include medical, surgical, and hospital services; rehabilitation, physical and occupational therapy; medical appliances and prosthesis; skills and entrepreneurial training; and meals and transportation allowances.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension: 100% of the permanent total disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive is paid.

Dependent's supplement: 10% of the permanent total disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive is paid for each of the insured's five youngest unmarried, unemployed children younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled).

The pension is shared between the spouse and dependent, unmarried children younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled) with monthly earnings less than 300 pesos.

If there is no eligible spouse or dependent child, the insured's monthly pension (excluding dependent supplements) is paid to dependent parents for up to 60 months, minus the number of months the pension was paid to the deceased before his or her death.

Funeral grant: A lump sum of 30,000 pesos is paid to the person who paid for the funeral.

Administrative Organization

Employees' Compensation Commission (<http://ecc.gov.ph/>), a government corporation attached to the Department of Labor and Employment (<https://www.dole.gov.ph/>), oversees and administers the program.

Employers pay temporary disability benefits directly to employees and are reimbursed by the Social Security System.

Social Security System (<https://www.sss.gov.ph/>) collects contributions and pays permanent disability benefits.

Unemployment

Regulatory Framework

Labor law (1974) requires employers to provide severance pay to employees who are dismissed due to illness, downsizing, or redundancy. The benefit amount is half a month of the employee's pay for each year of service if the dismissal is due to illness or downsizing; one month of pay for each year of service if the dismissal is due to redundancy.

The Public Employment Service Office provides free employment promotion services to unemployed workers.

Old Age, Disability, and Survivors

Regulatory Framework

First law: 1953 (provident fund), implemented in 1955.

Current laws: 2001 (provident fund) and 2015 (income support program).

Type of program: Provident fund and social assistance system.

Note: Central Provident Fund (CPF) provides four types of individual accounts for each member: an Ordinary Account (OA) to finance the purchase of a home, approved investments, life and mortgage insurance, and education; a Special Account (SA), principally for retirement (may invest in retirement-related financial products); a MediSave account (MA) for certain hospitalization and medical expenses (see Sickness and Maternity); and a Retirement Account (RA) set up at age 55 to finance monthly payments at retirement.

Coverage

Provident fund: Employed persons, including most categories of public-sector employees; and self-employed persons with annual net income greater than S$6,000 (MA only).

Voluntary coverage for persons without mandatory coverage.

Special system for certain categories of public-sector employees, including administrative service staff.

Social assistance (Silver Support Scheme): Needy, elderly citizens of Singapore.

Source of Funds

Insured person

Provident fund: 20% of monthly earnings of at least S$750 if younger than age 56, 13% if aged 56 to 60, 7.5% if aged 61 to 65, or 5% if aged 66 or older. Insured persons earning at least S$500 but less than S$750 a month pay a flat monthly amount depending on age and earnings. Contribution rates are reduced for pensioners.

An additional monthly premium, which varies by age, is paid for coverage under the Dependants' Protection Scheme (DPS). The premium ranges from S$36 (if younger than age 35) to S$260 (if aged 55 to 59). Premiums can be paid using the balance in the OA or SA.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are S$6,000.

Of the combined insured person and employer contribution, 1% to 23% is allocated to the OA, 1% to 11.5% to the SA, and 8% to 10.5% to the MA, depending on age, for insured persons with monthly earnings of at least S$750. The MA covers the cost of hospitalization and medical expenses (see Sickness and Maternity). Funds from the OA and the SA are transferred to the RA at age 55, up to a certain amount.

The maximum annual combined insured person and employer contribution is S$37,740.

Social assistance: None.

Self-employed person

Provident fund: 4% to 10.5% (depending on age, earnings, and whether or not the self-employed person is a pensioner) of annual net trade income to the MA only. (Contribution rates for older insured persons, persons with higher annual net trade income, and nonpensioners are higher).

The maximum mandatory annual contribution to the MA is S$5,760 to S$7,560, depending on age, earnings, and whether or not the self-employed person is a pensioner.

Self-employed persons can make voluntary contributions to the OA and SA.

An additional monthly premium, which varies by age, is paid for coverage under the Dependants' Protection Scheme (DPS). The premium ranges from S$36 (if younger than age 35) to S$260 (if aged 55 to 59). Premiums can be paid using the balance in the OA or SA.

Social assistance: None.

Employer

Provident fund: 17% of monthly payroll greater than S$50 for employees aged 55 or younger, 13% for employees aged 56 to 60, 9% for employees aged 61 to 65, or 7.5% for employees aged 66 or older. Contribution rates are reduced for pensioners.

The minimum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are S$50.

The maximum monthly earnings used to calculate contributions are S$6,000.

Of the combined insured person and employer contribution, 1% to 23% is allocated to the OA, 1% to 11.5% to the SA, and 8% to 10.5% to the MA, depending on age for insured persons with monthly earnings of at least S$750. Funds from the OA and the SA are transferred to the RA at age 55, up to a certain limit.

The maximum annual combined insured person and employer contribution is S$37,740.

Social assistance: None.

Government

Provident fund: Contributes as an employer for most categories of public-sector workers.

Under the Workfare Income Supplement Scheme (see Family Allowances), subsidizes 60% of up to S$3,600 a year, depending on the insured person's age and income, to the CPF accounts of lower-wage employees aged 35 or older (aged 13 or older if disabled) with gross monthly income up to S$2,000 (and gross average monthly income up to S$2,000 in the last 12 months for employees); 90% of up to S$2,400 a year, depending on the insured person's age and income, to the MA of lower-wage self-employed persons; and tops up CPF accounts for insured persons on an ad hoc basis.

Social assistance: The total cost.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age benefit (provident fund)

Ordinary Account: Funds can be withdrawn at age 55, subject to certain conditions; at any age if the fund member is assessed with a serious medical condition or permanently leaves Singapore and West Malaysia.

Drawdown payment: Funds can be withdrawn before age 55 to purchase a home or insurance (term-life insurance scheme and a mortgage-reducing insurance program run by the CPF Board) or to pay for full-time tertiary education at approved local institutions for the fund member, his or her spouse or children. Funds over S$20,000 can be withdrawn to make investments in approved instruments.

Special Account: Funds can be withdrawn at age 55, subject to certain conditions; at any age if the fund member has a serious medical condition or permanently leaves Singapore and West Malaysia.

Early withdrawal: Funds over S$40,000 can be withdrawn before age 55 to make investments in approved instruments.

MediSave Account: Funds can be partially withdrawn to pay for costs related to hospitalization, certain outpatient expenses, and healthcare insurance premiums. See Sickness and Maternity.

Retirement Account: Funds can be partially withdrawn at age 55, subject to certain conditions, or at any age if the fund member has a serious medical condition or permanently leaves Singapore and West Malaysia.

Fund members with at least S$60,000 in the RA at age 65 are automatically enrolled in a life annuity program from the CPF Board (CPF Lifelong Income For the Elderly [CPF LIFE]). (Enrolment is voluntary for fund members with less than this amount.)

Old-age benefit (Silver Support Scheme, social assistance, income tested): Age 65 with total CPF contributions of up to S$70,000 by age 55 and household per capita monthly income of up to S$1,100. Self-employed persons must have an average annual net trade income of up to S$22,800 from age 45 to 54. Must live in public housing with less than seven rooms and must not own or be married to someone who owns a property with five or more rooms.

Disability benefit (Dependents' Protection Scheme, provident fund): Must be aged 21 to 60 and diagnosed with a serious medical condition, assessed with a permanent total incapacity for any work, or terminally ill.

Fund members may opt out.

Survivor benefit (provident fund): Paid to one or more named survivors.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age benefit (provident fund)

Ordinary and Special accounts: A lump sum is paid of the account balance exceeding the minimum required balance in the RA, or S$5,000, whichever is greater.

The minimum required balance in the RA varies depending on the age at which the insured reached age 55: from S$80,000 (if reaching age 55 from July 1, 2003 to June 30, 2004) to S$171,000 (if reaching age 55 from January 1, 2018 to December 31, 2018).

Interest rate: The interest rate on the OA is 2.5% or the average interest rate of major local banks over the last three months, whichever is higher. The interest rate on the SA, MA, and RA is based on the current floor interest rate of 4% or the 12-month average yield of the 10-year Singapore Government Securities plus 1%, whichever is higher. The first S$60,000 of a member's combined savings (including up to S$20,000 from the OA) earns an additional 1% a year. Members aged 55 or older will also earn an additional 1% extra interest on the first S$30,000 of their combined savings (with up to S$20,000 from the OA). The CPF Board guarantees a legislated minimum interest rate of 2.5% a year on all accounts. Interest is computed monthly and compounded and credited annually.

MediSave Account: See Sickness and Maternity.

Retirement Account: Funds can be withdrawn to buy a life annuity from the CPF Board or approved insurers. Members with at least S$60,000 in their RA at age 65 must purchase the life annuity provided by the CPF Board (CPF LIFE). Up to half the minimum required balance in the RA can be withdrawn.

The minimum required balance in the RA varies based on the age at which the insured reached age 55: from S$80,000 (if reaching age 55 from July 1, 2003 to June 30, 2004) to S$171,000 (if reaching age 55 from January 1, 2018 to December 31, 2018).

Old-age benefit (Silver Support Scheme, social assistance, income tested): S$300 to S$750 a quarter is paid, depending on the beneficiary's place of residence.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability benefit (Dependents' Protection Scheme, provident fund): Fund members are paid a lump sum of up to S$5,000 or the amount of the RA balance exceeding a pro-rated minimum balance, whichever is greater.

A monthly benefit of the remaining balance in the RA is also paid.

The maximum combined disability benefit is S$46,000.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor benefit (provident fund, all accounts): The benefit is the remaining balances in the deceased's accounts, any term-life insurance payouts, and any death benefit from the CPF LIFE annuity scheme.

The fund member determines the proportion of benefit that different survivors receive. If there are no named survivors, the benefit is distributed by the Public Trustee according to law.

Administrative Organization

Ministry of Manpower (<https://www.mom.gov.sg/>) provides policy supervision through its Income Security Policy Division.

Central Provident Fund Board (<https://www.cpf.gov.sg/>), managed by a tripartite board and a chairman, administers the programs, including the custody of the fund, collection of contributions, and payment of benefits.

Old-age pension (social insurance, income tested): The pension is the insured's monthly basic pension amount (BPA).

The BPA is 1.35 (decreasing by 0.015 a year until reaching 1.2 in 2028) times the sum of the national average indexed monthly wage in the three years immediately before the year in which the pension is first paid and the insured's average monthly wage over the total contribution period. An increment is paid for years of coverage exceeding 20 years.

Partial pension: 50% to 95% of the insured's monthly BPA is paid, depending on the years of coverage.

Early pension: The pension is based on the insured's monthly BPA, the total number of years of coverage, and the insured's age when the pension is first paid.

Active old-age pension: The pension is the old-age pension the insured would have been entitled to receive (based on the insured's monthly BPA, the total number of years of coverage, and the insured's age when the pension is first paid) minus an amount that varies depending on the insured's monthly taxable income from gainful activity.

Split pension: Up to 50% of the insured ex-spouse's old-age pension is paid, depending on the length of marriage. The insured ex-spouse's old-age pension is reduced accordingly.

Dependent's supplement: 256,870 won a year is paid for a spouse and 171,210 won a year for each eligible child or parent. The supplement is not paid if the insured is receiving the active old-age pension.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous year.

Old-age settlement (Lump-sum Refund, social insurance): A lump sum of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest (calculated at the basic bank rate on the date of the refund) is paid.

Basic old-age pension (social assistance): Up to 209,960 won a month is paid, depending on the beneficiary's income.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension (social insurance): The pension is calculated based on the assessed degree of disability and the insured's monthly basic pension amount (BPA). 100% of the insured's BPA is paid for a first-degree disability; 80% for a second-degree disability; or 60% for a third-degree disability.

The BPA is 1.35 (decreasing by 0.015 a year until reaching 1.2 in 2028) times the sum of the average indexed national monthly wage in the three years immediately before the year in which the pension is first paid and the insured's average monthly wage over the total contribution period. An increment is paid for years of coverage exceeding 20 years.

Dependent's supplement: 256,870 won a year is paid for a spouse and 171,210 won a year for each eligible child or parent.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous year.

Disability benefit (social insurance): A lump sum of 225% of the insured's BPA is paid.

The BPA is 1.35 (decreasing by 0.015 a year until reaching 1.2 in 2028) times the sum of the average indexed national monthly wage in the three years immediately before the year in which the pension is first paid and the insured's average monthly wage over the total contribution period. An increment is paid for years of coverage exceeding 20 years.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension (social insurance): 60% of the deceased's monthly basic pension amount (BPA) is paid with at least 20 years of contributions; 50% with 10 to 19 years; 40% with less than 10 years.

The BPA is 1.35 (decreasing by 0.015 a year until reaching 1.2 in 2028) times the sum of the average indexed national monthly wage in the three years immediately before the year in which the pension is first paid and the insured's average monthly wage over the total contribution period. An increment is paid for years of coverage exceeding 20 years.

Dependent's supplement: 171,210 won a year is paid for each eligible child or parent.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually based on changes in the consumer price index for the previous year.

Survivor settlement (Lump-sum Refund, social insurance): A lump sum of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest (calculated at the basic bank rate on the date of the refund) is paid.

Death settlement (social insurance): A lump sum of total employee and employer contributions plus accrued interest (based on the average annual bank interest rate) is paid.

The maximum death benefit is four times the deceased's last covered monthly wage, or the average covered monthly wage for the entire insured period, whichever is greater.

Regulatory Framework

First laws: 1993 (pensions) and 1999 (personalized accounting system and individual accounts).

Current laws: 1997 (social insurance); and 2010 (insurance and state pensions), implemented in 2013.

Type of program: Notional defined contribution (NDC), mandatory individual account, and social assistance system.

Coverage

NDC and mandatory individual account: Employed and self-employed persons.

Special system for military personnel.

Social assistance: Employed and self-employed persons.

Source of Funds

Insured person

NDC and mandatory individual account: None to the NDC account; 1% of earnings to the mandatory individual account.

Social assistance: None.

Self-employed person

NDC and mandatory individual account: 20% of declared income to the NDC account; information not available for the mandatory individual account.

The self-employed person's contributions also finance unemployment benefits and family allowances.

Social assistance: A portion of the NDC contributions finances the social assistance benefits.

Employer

NDC and mandatory individual account: 25% of payroll to the NDC account; none to the mandatory individual account.

The employer's contributions also finance sickness and maternity benefits, unemployment benefits, and family allowances.

Social assistance: A portion of the NDC contributions finances the social assistance benefits.

Government

NDC and mandatory individual account: None; contributes as an employer.

Social assistance: Provides partial subsidies.

Qualifying Conditions

Old-age pension (NDC and mandatory individual account): Age 63 with at least 25 years of covered employment (men) or age 58 with at least 20 years of covered employment (women). The age and number of years of covered employment required for a full pension are reduced for mothers caring for five or more children or children with disabilities and for persons living in remote mountain areas.

Partial pension: Meets the age requirement for the old-age pension and has at least five years but less than 25 years (men) or 20 years (women) of covered employment.

Deferred pension: The pension may be deferred for up to 10 years after the normal retirement age.

Old-age social pension (social assistance, income tested): Age 63 (men) or age 58 (women) and does not meet the covered employment requirements for the old-age pension (NDC and mandatory individual account).

Disability pension (NDC and mandatory individual account): Must have at least 60 months of covered employment and be assessed with a Group I (total disability, incapacity for any work, and requires constant care), Group II (disability, reduced work capacity, and occasionally requires care), or Group III (disability and reduced work capacity) disability.

A territorial or state medical service under the Ministry of Labor and Social Protection assesses the loss of work capacity.

Disability social pension (social assistance, income tested): Must be assessed with a Group I (total disability, incapacity for any work, and requires constant care), Group II (disability, reduced work capacity, and occasionally requires care), or Group III (disability and reduced work capacity) disability and have less than 60 months of covered employment.

Survivor pension (NDC and mandatory individual account): Paid to eligible surviving family members.

Eligible survivors include widows aged 58 or older and not receiving an old-age pension, children and grandchildren up to age 23 if studying (no limit if disabled before age 18), and family members caring for the deceased's children up to age 14.

Orphan's pension (social assistance, income tested): Paid to an orphan younger than age 18 (age 23 if a student) who is ineligible for a survivor pension.

Old-Age Benefits

Old-age pension (NDC and mandatory individual account): The monthly pension consists of an NDC benefit and a mandatory individual account benefit.

NDC benefit: The benefit is based on the total value of notional contributions divided by the expected repayment period after retirement.

The total value of notional contributions is based on the number of years of employment before January 1, 1999, and the value of contributions since January 1, 1999.

The expected repayment period after retirement is 180 months.

Mandatory individual account benefit: The benefit is based on the insured's contributions plus accrued interest. If the total account balance at retirement is less than 10 times the minimum monthly old-age pension, the mandatory individual account benefit is paid as a lump sum.

The minimum monthly old-age pension is 180 somoni (August 2018).

The maximum monthly old-age pension is 850 somoni (August 2018).

Partial pension: The pension is proportionally reduced for each year of covered employment less than the required number for a full pension.

Deferred pension: The pension is increased by 1% for each year of deferral, up to 10%.

Old-age social pension (social assistance, income tested): 60% of the minimum monthly old-age pension is paid.

The minimum monthly old-age pension is 180 somoni (August 2018).

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually based on changes in the cost of living.

Permanent Disability Benefits

Disability pension (NDC and mandatory individual account): The monthly disability pension is calculated in the same way as the NDC component of the old-age pension for a Group I disability, 85% of that amount for a Group II disability, or 70% for a Group III disability. A mandatory individual account benefit is also paid after reaching the normal retirement age, based on the insured person's contributions plus accrued interest.

The minimum monthly disability pension is 100% of the minimum monthly old-age pension for a Group I disability, 85% for a Group II disability, and 70% for a Group III disability.

The minimum monthly old-age pension is 180 somoni (August 2018).

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually based on changes in the cost of living.

Disability social pension (social assistance, income tested): At least 100% of the minimum monthly old-age pension is paid monthly for a Group I disability or a Group II disability since childhood, 60% for a Group II since age 18, or a Group III disability.

The minimum monthly old-age pension is 180 somoni (August 2018).

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted annually based on changes in the cost of living.

Survivor Benefits

Survivor pension (NDC and mandatory individual account): The NDC component of the old-age or disability pension the deceased received or was entitled to receive is split among eligible survivors.

Orphan's pension (social assistance, income tested): 60% of the minimum monthly old-age pension is paid for one orphan (100% if a full orphan), 90% for two orphans (150% if full orphans), or 120% for three or more orphans (200% if full orphans).

The minimum monthly old-age pension is 180 somoni (August 2018).

Qualifying Conditions

Cash sickness benefit: There is no minimum qualifying period. The incapacity must not be work-related, self-inflicted, or related to drug or alcohol abuse.

The cash sickness benefit is also paid to an insured parent caring for a sick child younger than age 7.

Cash maternity benefit: Must have at least six months of contributions in the last 12 months before childbirth. Also paid for the adoption of a child younger than age 6 months; for an abortion, miscarriage or stillbirth; or to a surrogate and an intended mother.

Cash paternity benefit: Paid to an insured father who is paying contributions.

Birth grant: Must have at least six months of contributions in the last 12 months before childbirth. Also paid for the adoption of a child younger than age 6 months.

Medical benefits: Provided for a non-occupational injury or illness. The insured must have at least 30 days of contributions for normal medical services; for specialized medical services the required contribution period varies depending on membership groups and type of services.

Sickness and Maternity Benefits

Sickness benefit: 75% of the insured's last monthly earnings before the incapacity began is paid for up to 30 days in a calendar year with less than 15 years of contributions; 40 days with 15 to 30 years; 60 days with more than 30 years. If the insured is engaged in hazardous or arduous work or working in certain regions, the benefit is paid for up to 40 days in a calendar year with less than 15 years of contributions; 50 days with 15 to 30 years; 70 days with more than 30 years. For specific illnesses requiring long-term treatment the sickness benefit is paid for 180 days in a calendar year and a reduced benefit thereafter. The maximum duration of paid sick leave for specified illnesses is the total contribution period.

For convalescence and rehabilitation after a sickness, 30% of the legal monthly minimum wage for civil servants is paid for up to five, seven, or 10 days in a calendar year.

The legal monthly minimum wage for civil servants is 1,390,000 dong.

75% of the insured's earnings is paid for up to 20 days in a calendar year to care for a sick child.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted based on changes in the cost-of-living index and economic growth.

Maternity benefit: 100% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last six months before the maternity leave began is paid for five one-day leave periods (or two-day leave periods in special cases) for prenatal care; for six months during maternity leave or to mothers for adopting a child younger than age 6 months. For multiple births, an extra month of leave is paid for each additional child. The benefit is paid to a surrogate mother until she gives the newborn to the intended mother; for the intended mother, from the time she receives the child until the child is six months old.

A female employee can return to work before the end of the maternity leave and receive wages and maternity care if she returns to work after at least four months of leave and has an advance agreement with her employer.

For convalescence and rehabilitation after maternity leave, within the first 30 work days after the maternity leave period, 30% of the legal monthly minimum wage for civil servants is paid for up to five, seven, or 10 days a year.

The legal monthly minimum wage for civil servants is 1,390,000 dong.

Paternity benefit: 100% of the insured's average monthly earnings in the last six months is paid for five days (up to 14 days in certain circumstances) after childbirth. If the mother dies during childbirth, up to six months of unused maternity leave passes to the father.

Benefit adjustment: Benefits are adjusted based on changes in the cost-of-living index and economic growth.

Birth grant: A lump sum of two times the legal monthly minimum wage for civil servants is paid for each child born or for each adopted child younger than age 6 months. When only the father is covered by social insurance, the father is entitled to a benefit of two times the legal monthly minimum wage for civil servants for each child in the month of the birth.
