(A) ADEQUACY OF SECURITY INTERESTS.—In determining the adequacy of any security to be provided under this section, the Secretary may take into account the principles of section 2036A.

(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR TRUST.—If a taxpayer required to provide security in connection with any tax imposed by reason of this section with respect to the corpus of an interest in a trust, such taxpayer shall provide such security by the expiration of the time prescribed for payment of tax under section 6161 to such number of years as the Secretary determines appropriate.

The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section, including regulations to prevent double taxation by ensuring that—

(1) appropriate adjustments are made to basis which reflect gain recognized by reason of an event specified in subsection (a) and the exclusion provided by subsection (b), and

(2) no interest in property is treated as held for purposes of this section by more than one taxpayer, and

(3) any gain by reason of a deemed sale under subsection (a) of an interest in a corporation, partnership, trust, or estate is reduced to reflect that portion of such gain which is attributable to an interest in a depreciable asset of such property, and any interest in such trust is treated as holding directly under section 15960.

(CROSS REFERENCE—...
For income tax treatment of individuals who terminate United States citizenship, see section 7701(a)(47).

(b) DEFINITION OF TERMINATION OF UNITED STATES CITIZENSHIP.—Section 7701(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(47) TERMINATION OF UNITED STATES CITIZENSHIP.—An individual shall not cease to be treated as a United States citizen before the date on which the individual's citizenship is treated as relinquished under section 877A(e)(3)."

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 877 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(f) APPLICATION.—This section shall not apply to any individual who relinquishes (within the meaning of section 877A(e)(5)) United States citizenship on or after February 6, 1995.

(2) Section 2107(c) of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(b) CROSS REFERENCE.—For credit against the tax imposed by section (a) for expatriation tax, see section 877A(i)."

(d) Section 2501(a)(5) of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new flush sentence:

"For credit against the tax imposed under this section by reason of this paragraph, see section 877A(a)."

(e) Section 5811 of such Code is amended by striking subsection (d) and by redesignating subsection (e) as subsection (d).

(f) Paragraph (10) of section 7701(b) of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new sentence: This paragraph shall exclude an individual who is a nonresident alien of any long-term resident of the United States who is an expatriate (as defined in section 877A(e)(1)).

(g) CEREMONIAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subpart A of part II of subchapter N of chapter I of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 877 the following new item:

"Sec. 877A. Tax responsibilities of expatriates."

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to expatriations which occur on or after February 6, 1995.

(2) DUE DATE FOR TENTATIVE TAX.—The due date under section 877A(h)(1)(B) of such Code shall in no event occur before the 90th day after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(f) SEC. 1061. Basis of assets of nonresident aliens.

(1) SEC. 1061. BASIS OF ASSETS OF NONRESIDENT ALIENS BECOMING CITIZENS OR RESIDENTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Part IV of subchapter O of chapter I of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to special rules for gain or loss on disposition of property) is amended by redesignating section 1061 as section 1062 and by inserting after section 1060 the following new section:

"Sec. 1061. Basis of assets of nonresident alien individuals becoming citizens or residents.

(1) General rule.—If a nonresident alien individual becomes a citizen or resident of the United States, the gain or loss on the disposition of any property held on the date the individual becomes such a citizen or resident shall be determined by subtracting, as of the applicable date, the fair market value of such property (on the applicable date) for its cost basis.

(2) Exception for depreciation.—Any deduction under this chapter for depreciation, depletion, or amortization shall be determined without regard to the application of this section.

(c) Definitions and Special Rules.—For purposes of this section—

(1) Applicable date.—The term 'applicable date' means, with respect to any property to which subsection (a) applies, the earlier of—

(A) the date the individual becomes a citizen or resident of the United States and

(B) the date the property first becomes subject to tax under this subtitle by reason of being used in a United States trade or business or by reason of owning a United States real property interest (within the meaning of section 897(c)(1)).

(2) Resident resident does not include an individual who is treated as a resident of a foreign country under the provisions of a tax treaty between the United States and such foreign country, and who and does not waive the benefits of such treaty applicable to residents of the foreign country.

(3) Trusts.—A trust shall not be treated as an individual.

(4) Election not to have section apply.—An individual may elect not to have this section apply solely for purposes of determining the gain or loss with respect to any property. Such election shall apply only to property specified in the election and, once made, shall be irrevocable.

(5) Section only to apply once.—This section shall apply only with respect to the first time the individual becomes either a citizen or residence of the United States.

(6) Regulations.—The Secretary shall prescribe regulations for purposes of this section, including regulations—

(1) for application of this section in the case of property which consists of a direct or indirect interest in a trust, and

(2) providing look-thru rules in the case of any indirect interest in any United States real property interest (within the meaning of section 897(c)(1)) or property used in a United States trade or business.

(b) Conforming amendment.—The table of sections for part IV of subchapter O of chapter I of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by striking the item relating to section 1061 and inserting the following new items:

"Sec. 1061. Basis of assets of nonresident alien individuals becoming citizens or residents.

Sec. 1062. Cross-references.

(c) Effective date.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to dispositions after the date of the enactment of this Act and to any disposition occurring on or before such date to which section 877A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as added by section 611) applies.

Subtitle B—Modification to Earned Income Credit

Title X, Subtitle C

Subtitle C—Alternative Minimum Tax on Corporations Importing Products into the United States at Artificially Inflated Prices

Sec. 10301. Alternative minimum tax on corporations importing products into the United States at artificially inflated prices.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
October 26, 1995

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

Subtitle D—Tax Treatment of Certain Extraordinary Dividends

SEC. 10401. TAX TREATMENT OF CERTAIN EXTRAORDINARY DIVIDENDS.

(a) TREATMENT OF EXTRAORDINARY DIVIDENDS IN EXCESS OF BASIS.—Paragraph (2) of section 1059(e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to corporate shareholder’s basis in stock reduced by nontaxed portion of extraordinary dividends) is amended to read as follows:

"(2) AMOUNTS IN EXCESS OF BASIS.—If the nontaxed portion of such dividends exceeds such basis, such excess shall be treated as gain from the sale or exchange of such stock for the taxable year in which the extraordinary dividend is received."

(b) TREATMENT OF REDEMPTIONS WHERE OPTIONS INVOLVED.—Paragraph (1) of section 1059(e) of such Code (relating to treatment of partial liquidations and non-pro rata redemptions) is amended to read as follows:

"(1) TREATMENT OF PARTIAL LIQUIDATIONS AND CERTAIN REDEMPTIONS.—Except as otherwise provided in regulations—

(A) REDEMPTIONS.—In the case of any redemption of stock—

(i) which is part of a partial liquidation (within the meaning of section 302(e) of the Code) of the corporation, or

(ii) which is not pro rata as to all shareholders, or

(B) REORGANIZATIONS, ETC.—An exchange described in section 356(a)(i) which is treated as a redemption for purposes of applying subparagraph (A) and an amount treated as a dividend with respect to such redemption shall be treated as an extraordinary dividend to which paragraphs (1) and (3) of subsection (b) apply without regard to the period the taxpayer held such stock. In the case of a redemption described in clause (iii), only the basis in the stock redeemed shall be taken into account under subsection (a)."

(c) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to distributions after May 3, 1995.

(2) TRANSITION RULE.—The amendments made by this section shall not apply to any distribution made pursuant to the terms of—

(A) a written binding contract in effect on May 3, 1995, and at all times thereafter before such distribution; or

(B) a tender offer outstanding on May 3, 1995.

(3) CERTAIN DIVIDENDS NOT PURSUANT TO CERTAIN REDEMPTIONS.—In determining whether the amendment made by subsection (a) applies to any extraordinary dividend other than a dividend treated as an extraordinary dividend under section 1059(e)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as amended by this Act), paragraphs (1) and (2) shall be applied by substituting "September 13, 1995" for "May 3, 1995".

Subtitle E—Foreign Trust Tax Compliance

SEC. 10501. INFORMATION REPORTING ON FOREIGN TRUSTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6048 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to returns of certain foreign trusts) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 6048. INFORMATION WITH RESPECT TO FOREIGN TRUSTS.

(a) NOTICE OF CERTAIN EVENTS.—

(I) GENERAL RULE.—On or before the 90th day (or such later day as the Secretary may prescribe) after any reportable event, the responsible party shall provide written notice to the Secretary in accordance with paragraph (2).

(II) CONTENTS OF NOTICE.—The notice required by paragraph (I) shall contain such information as the Secretary may prescribe, including—

(A) the amount of money or other property (if any) transferred to the trust in connection with the reportable event.

(B) the identity of the trust and of each trustee and beneficiary (or class of beneficiaries) of the trust.

(3) REPORTABLE EVENT.—For purposes of this subsection—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘reportable event’ means—

(i) the creation of any foreign trust by a United States person;

(ii) the transfer of any money or property (directly or indirectly) to a foreign trust by a United States person, including a transfer by reason of death;

(iii) the death of a citizen or resident of the United States if—

(I) the decedent was treated as the owner of any portion of the trust under the rules of subpart E of part I of subchapter J of chapter 1;

(ii) an attribution of a foreign trust was included in the gross estate of the decedent.

(B) EXCEPTIONS.—

(i) FAIR MARKET VALUE SALES.—Subparagraph (A)(ii) shall not apply to any sale or exchange of property (if any) transferred to the trust in connection with the reportable event for carrying on a trade or business in the United States, or to be engaged, or to be treated as engaging, in a trade or business in the United States.

(ii) TRANSFER OF PROPERTY TO A TRUST IN A TRADE OR BUSINESS IN THE UNITED STATES.—The preceding sentence shall not apply to any sale or exchange of property (if any) transferred to a foreign trust in connection with the reportable event if the transferor was a United States person (i) who is treated as the owner of any portion of such foreign trust or (ii) who is treated as the owner of any portion of such trust for purposes of sections 7602, 7603, and 7604 with respect to—

(B) any request by the Secretary to examine any books or records or to require the Secretary to examine or review any other evidence to determine whether there is a failure to take into account amounts required to be taken into account under the rules referred to in subparagraph (A), or

(iv) any summons by the Secretary for such records or testimony.

(3) REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO CERTAIN DIVIDENDS NOT PURSUANT TO SECTION 871(J) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If any United States person receives (directly or indirectly) during any taxable year of such person any distribution from a foreign trust, such person shall make a return with respect to such trust for such year which includes—

(i) the name of such trust;

(ii) the aggregate amount of the distributions so received from such trust during such taxable year, and

(iii) such other information as the Secretary may prescribe.

(B) INCLUSION IN INCOME IF RECORDS NOT PROVIDED.—If adequate records are not provided to the Secretary to determine the correct amount of taxable income attributable to a foreign trust, such distribution shall be treated as an accumulation distribution includible in the gross income of the distributary owner. For purposes of paragraph (A), "accumulation distribution" means—

(1) any distribution from a foreign trust which is treated as an accumulation distribution in the United States person’s return, and

(2) any distribution from a foreign trust which is not treated as an accumulation distribution in the United States person’s return but is treated as an accumulation distribution in the hands of another person under the rules of sections 871, 872, 874, and 875.

(4) SPECIFIC RULES. —Such trustee may prescribe the following rules:

(A) IN GENERAL.—If any United States person acts as such trust’s agent under the rules of this section, the Secretary may prescribe such rules as are necessary to carry out the provisions of sections 871, 872, 874, and 875.

(B) DETERMINATION OF WHOSE SMALL TRUSTS. —For purposes of this section, in determining whether a United States person receives a distribution from a foreign trust, the fact that a portion of such trust is treated as owned by another person under the rules of subsection (a) of section 871 or of sections 874, 875, and 876 is disregarded.

(C) FOREIGN PERSONS.—For purposes of this section, "United States person" includes any foreign person with respect to whom the Secretary has determined that taxable income attributable to such trust is includible in the gross income of such United States person under sections 871, 872, 874, and 875.
such Code amended by striking the item relating to section 6067 and inserting the following new item:

"Sec. 6067. Failure to file information with respect to certain foreign trusts."

(3) The table of sections for part I of subchapter B of chapter 63 of such Code is amended by striking the item relating to section 6677 and inserting the following new item:

"Sec. 6677. Failure to file information with respect to certain foreign trusts.

(b) SPECIAL RULES FOR RETURNS UNDER SECTION 6048(b).—In the case of a return required under section 6048(b): (1) the United States person referred to in such section shall be liable for the penalty imposed by subsection (a), and (2) subsection (a) shall be applied by substituting '5 percent' for '3 percent'.

(c) GROSS REPORTABLE AMOUNT.—For purposes of subsection (b), the term 'gross reportable amount' means—

(i) the gross value of the property involved in the event (determined as of the date of the event) in the case of a failure relating to section 6048(a),

(ii) the gross value of the portion of the trust's assets at the close of the year treated as owned by the United States person in the case of a failure relating to section 6048(b)(1), and

(iii) the gross amount of the distributions in the case of a failure relating to section 6048(b)(3).

(d) REASONABLE CAUSE EXCEPTION.—No penalty shall be imposed by this section on any failure which is shown to be due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect. The fact that a foreign jurisdiction would impose a civil or criminal penalty on the taxpayer (or any other person) for disclosing the required information is not reasonable cause.

(e) DEFICIENCY PROCEDURES NOT TO APPLY.—Subsection (c) (relating to deficiency procedures for income, estate, gift, and certain excise taxes) shall not apply in respect of the assessment or collection of any penalty imposed by section (a).

(f) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Paragraph (2) of section 6772(d) of such Code is amended by striking "or" at the end of subsection "as determined by the person at the end of subparagraph (T) and inserting "or", and by inserting after subparagraph (T) the following new subparagraph:

(U) section 6048(b)(1)(B) (relating to foreign trust reporting requirements).

(2) The table of sections for subpart B of part I of chapter 63 of such Code is amended by striking the item relating to section 6048 and inserting the following new item:

"Sec. 6048. Information with respect to certain foreign trusts."

(3) The table of sections for part I of subchapter B of chapter 63 of such Code is amended by striking the item relating to section 6677 and inserting the following new item:

"Sec. 6677. Failure to file information with respect to certain foreign trusts.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) REPORTABLE EVENTS.—To the extent related to subsection (a) of section 6048 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended by this section, the amendments made by this section shall apply to distributions received after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) GRANTOR TRUST REPORTING.—To the extent related to subsection (b) of such section 6048, the amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years of United States persons beginning after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(3) REPORTING BY UNITED STATES BENEFICIARIES.—To the extent related to subsection (c) of such section 6048, the amendments made by this section shall apply to distributions received after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) SEQUENTIAL MODIFICATIONS OF RULES RELATING TO FOREIGN TRUSTS HAVING ONE OR MORE UNITED STATES BENEFICIARIES.—

(a) TREATMENT OF TRUST OBLIGATIONS ETC.—

(1) Paragraph (2) of section 679(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by striking subparagraph (B) and inserting the following:

"(B) TRANSFERS AT FAIR MARKET VALUE.—To any transfer of property to a trust in exchange for consideration of at least the fair market value of the property. For purposes of the preceding sentence, consideration other than cash shall be taken into account at its fair market value.

(2) Subsection (a) of section 679 of such Code (relating to foreign trusts having one or more United States beneficiaries) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(3) CERTAIN OBLIGATIONS NOT TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT UNDER FAIR MARKET VALUE EXCEPTION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In determining whether paragraph (2)(B) applies to any transfer by a person described in clause (ii) of subparagraph (c), there shall not be taken into account—

(i) any obligation of a person described in subparagraph (B) or (C), and

(ii) to the extent provided in regulations, any obligation which is guaranteed by a person described in subparagraph (C).

(B) TREATMENT OF PRINCIPAL PAYMENTS ON OBLIGATION.—Principal payments by the trust on any obligation referred to in subparagraph (A) shall be taken into account on and after the date of such transfer in determining the portion of the trust attributable to the property transferred.

(C) PERSONS DESCRIBED.—The persons described in this subparagraph are—

(i) the grantor, or any grantor or beneficiary of the trust, and

(ii) any person who is related (within the meaning of section 6321(c)(3)) to any grantor or beneficiary of the trust.

(D) EXCPTION FOR TRUSTS CHARITABLE TRUSTS.—Subsection (a) of section 679 of such Code is amended by striking 'section 4944(a) or 4944A and inserting 'section 4943A(a)(1)(B) or (1)(C)'.

(E) OTHER MODIFICATIONS.—Subsection (a) of section 679 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraphs:

"(4) SPECIAL RULES APPLICABLE TO FOREIGN GRANTEE WHO LATER BECOMES A UNITED STATES PERSON.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If a nonresident alien individual has a residency starting date

(4) MODIFICATION OF RETURN REQUIREMENTS.—The Secretary is authorized to suspend, or partially suspend, the filing requirement of this section if the Secretary determines that the United States has no significant tax interest in obtaining the required information.

(c) SEQUENTIAL MODIFICATIONS OF RULES RELATING TO FOREIGN TRUSTS HAVING ONE OR MORE UNITED STATES BENEFICIARIES.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to reportable events occurring after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(T) the Table of sections for subpart B of chapter 68 of such Code is amended by striking the item relating to section 6791 and inserting the following new item:

"Sec. 6791. Foreign trusts having one or more United States beneficiaries.

(b) THE UNITED STATES PERSON'S RESIDENCY STARTING DATE.—(1) In the case of a foreign trust having one or more United States beneficiaries, the residency starting date for such foreign trust shall be the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) OUTBOUND TRUST MIGRATIONS.—If—

(A) any person who is a United States person at any time during the estate of such foreign trust, and

(B) such trust becomes a foreign trust which has United States beneficiaries, then this section and section 6048 shall be applied as if such individual transferred to such foreign trust an amount equal to the United States share of such trust attributable to property previously transferred by such individual to such foreign trust.

A rule similar to the rule of paragraph (4)(B) shall apply for purposes of this paragraph.

(d) MODIFICATIONS RELATING TO WHETHER TRUST HAS UNITED STATES BENEFICIARIES.—

Subsection (c) of section 679 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(3) CERTAIN UNITED STATES BENEFICIARIES DISREGARDED.—A beneficiary shall not be treated as a United States person in applying this section with respect to the United States share of property of foreign trust if such beneficiary first became a United States person more than 5 years after the date of such transfer.

(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any provision of this subsection, the term 'United States person' shall include any person who was a United States person at any time during the existence of the trust.

"(4) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Subparagraph (A) of section 679(c)(1) of such Code is amended to read as follows:

"(A) in the case of a foreign corporation, such corporation is a corporation treated as a United States person (as defined in section 956(a))."

(f) REGULATIONS.—Section 679 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(g) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to transfers of property after December 31, 1994.

"(5) FOREIGN PERSONS.—Section 1053(f)(1) of the United States Code is amended to read as follows:

"(f) OWNERS OF UNITED STATES CORPORATION.—To the extent provided by the Secretary, for purposes of this subsection, the term 'United States person' includes any person who was a United States person at any time during the existence of the trust.

"(6) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Subparagraph (A) of section 679(c)(1) of such Code is amended to read as follows:

"(A) in the case of a foreign corporation, such corporation is a corporation treated as a United States person (as defined in section 956(a))."

(f) REGULATIONS.—Section 679 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(d) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this section.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to transfers of property made after December 31, 1994.

"(g) FOREIGN PERSONS.—Section 1053(f)(1) of the United States Code is amended to read as follows:

"(f) OWNERS OF UNITED STATES CORPORATION.—To the extent provided by the Secretary, for purposes of this subsection, the term 'United States person' includes any person who was a United States person at any time during the existence of the trust.

"(6) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Subparagraph (A) of section 679(c)(1) of such Code is amended to read as follows:

"(A) in the case of a foreign corporation, such corporation is a corporation treated as a United States person (as defined in section 956(a))."

(g) REGULATIONS.—Section 679 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(d) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this section.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to transfers of property after December 31, 1994.

"(g) FOREIGN PERSONS.—Section 1053(f)(1) of the United States Code is amended to read as follows:

"(6) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Subparagraph (A) of section 679(c)(1) of such Code is amended to read as follows:

"(A) in the case of a foreign corporation, such corporation is a corporation treated as a United States person (as defined in section 956(a))."
'"(i) In GENERAL.—Except as provided in clause (ii), paragraph (1) shall not apply to any trust if—

'(I) the power to vest absolutely in the grantor title to the trust property upon the death of the grantor or the transferor, or any successor in interest of the grantor, is retained by the grantor or the transferor, or any successor in interest of the grantor,

'(II) the only amounts distributable from such trust (whether income or corpus) during the lifetime of the grantor are amounts distributed to the grantor or the spouse of the grantor,

'(iii) EXCEPTION.—Clause (i) shall not apply to any trust which has a beneficiary who is a United States person to the extent such beneficiary has made transfers of property by gift (directly or indirectly) to a foreign person who is the grantor of such trust.

For purposes of the preceding sentence, any gift shall not be taken into account to the extent such gift is excluded from taxable gifts under section 2503(b).

'(B) COMPENSATORY TRUSTS.—Except as provided in regulations, paragraph (1) shall not apply to any portion of a trust distribution which is not allocable as compensation for services rendered.

'(C) SPECIFIC RULES.—Except as otherwise provided in regulations prescribed by the Secretary,

'(I) a controlled foreign corporation (as defined in section 957) shall be treated as a domestic corporation for purposes of paragraphs (1) and (2), and

'(II) paragraph (1) shall not apply to purposes of applying part III of subchapter C (relating to foreign personal holding companies) and part VI of subchapter P (relating to treatment of certain passive foreign investment companies).

'(D) RECHARACTERIZATION OF PURPORTED GIFTS.—In the case of any transfer directly or indirectly from a partnership or foreign corporation which the transferor treats as a gift or bequest, the Secretary may recharacterize such transfer in such circumstances as the Secretary determines to be appropriate to prevent the avoidance of the purposes of this subsection.

'(E) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this subsection, including regulations providing that paragraph (1) shall not apply to the purposes.

'(F) LAST SENTENCE.—The last sentence of subsection (c) of section 672 of such Code is amended by inserting in such section—

'(i) the aggregate undistributed net income,

'(ii) the undistributed net income for such year,

'(iii) the qualified income of the settlor, in each case the undistributed income of which is the amount of income which would be determined on the basis of the distribution of the income to the beneficiaries, and

'(iv) the aggregate undistributed net income,

'(v) the qualified income of the settlor, in each case the undistributed income of which is the amount of income which would be determined on the basis of the distribution of the income to the beneficiaries.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart A of part III of subchapter A of chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by inserting after section 10504 the following new section—

(6) INTEREST.—Any interest for the portion of the period described in paragraph (2) which occurs before January 1, 1996, shall be determined—

(A) by using an interest rate of 6 percent, and

(B) without compounding until January 1, 1996.

(b) ABUSIVE TRANSACTIONS.—Section 643(a) of such Code is amended by inserting after paragraph (8) the following new paragraph:

(9) ABUSIVE TRANSACTIONS.—The provision of such Code shall be treated for purposes of subparts B, C, and D—

(A) as if such Code were amended by inserting after such paragraph (8) the following:

"(A) any loan or the use of any property (other than cash or marketable securities) by a person referred to in subparagraphs (A) or (B) of paragraph (1) shall be treated as a distribution by such trust to such grantor or beneficiary (as the case may be)."

(B) the uses of other trust property after December 31, 1995.

(c) TREATMENT OF USE OF TRUST PROPERTY.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—Section 643 of such Code (relating to definitions applicable to subparts A, B, C, and D) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(I) USE OF FOREIGN TRUST PROPERTY.—For purposes of subparts B, C, and D—

(I) IN GENERAL.—If a foreign trust makes a loan of cash or marketable securities directly or indirectly to—

(A) any grantor or beneficiary of such trust or

(B) any United States person not described in subparagraph (A) who is related to such grantor or beneficiary, the amount of such loan shall be treated as a distribution by such trust to such grantor or beneficiary (as the case may be)."

(II) RELATED PERSON.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—A person is related to another person if, with respect to both persons, a third person, who is not a foreign trust, would be treated as a related person (as defined in subparagraph (A)) of such third person.

(II) EXCLUSION OF TAX-EXEMPTS.—The term ‘qualified possession wages’ shall include qualified foreign currency and cash equivalents.

(III) DOMESTIC TRUSTS WHICH BECOME FOREIGN TRUSTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 1491 of such Code (relating to imposition of tax on transfers to avoid income tax) is amended by striking subparagraph (a) and inserting after subparagraph (a) the following:

"(b) CREDIT FOR INVESTMENT INCOME.—The credit..."
(D) WAGES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in clause (2), wages (as defined in section 3401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) derived after the application of clause (2) of paragraph (4) of section 311(h) of the Code shall be treated as wages for purposes of the preceding sentence.

(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR AGRICULTURAL LABOR AND RAILWAY LABOR.—In any case to which subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph (1) of section 51(h) applies, the term ‘wages’ shall be determined in such case under section 51(h)(2).

(2) QPSII ASSETS.—For purposes of this section—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The QPSII assets of a possession corporation for any taxable year are the average of the amounts of the possession corporation’s qualified investment assets as of the close of each quarter of such taxable year.

(B) QUALIFIED INVESTMENT ASSETS.—The term ‘qualified investment assets’ means the aggregate adjusted bases of the assets which are held by the possession corporation and the portions from which qualified as the qualified possession source investment income. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the adjusted basis of any asset shall be its adjusted basis given to such term by subsection (b) of section 3306 (determined without regard to any dollar limitation contained in such section). For purposes of the preceding sentence, such subsection (b) shall be applied as if the term ‘United States’ included all possessions of the United States within such possession. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the adjusted basis of any asset within such possession shall be its basis to such corporation for which the election provided by section 51(h)(2).

(A) SPECIAL RULE FOR AGRICULTURAL LABOR AND RAILWAY LABOR.—In any case—

(i) in paragraph (1) of section 51(h) of this title, the term ‘wages’ shall be determined in such case under section 51(h)(2).

(ii) there is no reason to believe that such commencement was done with the intention of closing down operations of an existing business located in the United States.

(5) ELECTION TO COMPUTE CREDIT ON CONSOLIDATED BASIS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Any affiliated group may elect to aggregate for corporation purposes which would be members of such group but for section 5404(d)(4) of such 1 corporation for purposes of this section. The credit determined under such subsection (a) with respect to such 1 corporation shall be allocated among such possession corporations in such manner as the Secretary may prescribe.

(B) ELECTION.—An election under subparagraph (A) shall apply to the taxable year for which made and all succeeding taxable years unless revoked with the consent of the Secretary.

(6) TREATMENT OF CERTAIN TAXES.—Notwithstanding subsection (c),—

(A) the credit determined under subsection (a)(1) for any taxable year is limited under subsection (a)(4).

(B) the possession corporation has paid or accrued any taxes of a possession of the United States for such taxable year which are treated as not being income, war profits, or excess profits. If the possession corporation is a member of such possession of the United States by reason of subsection (c), such possession corporation shall allow a deduction for such taxable year equal to the portion of such taxes which are allocable (on a pro rata basis) to taxable income of the possession corporation the tax on which is not offset by reason of the limitations of subsection (a)(4). In determining the credit under subsection (a) and in applying the preceding sentence, taxable income shall be determined without regard to the preceding sentence.

(7) POSSESSION CORPORATION.—The term ‘possession corporation’ means a domestic corporation for which the election provided in subsection (a) is in effect.

(d) MINIMUM TAX TREATMENT.—Clause (iii) of section 59(d)(1) of such Code is amended by adding at the end thereof the following subclauses:

(iii) SUBSIDIARY APPLICATION OF FOREIGN TAX CREDIT LIMITATIONS.—In determining the alternative minimum foreign tax credit, section 90(d) shall be applied as if dividends received from a corporation eligible for the credit provided by section 966 were a separate category of income referred to in a subparagraph of section 90(d)(1).

(iv) CREDIT LIMITATION ON §6 CREDIT.—Any reference in this clause to a dividend received from a corporation eligible for the credit provided by section 966 shall be treated as a reference to the portion of any such dividend for which the dividends received deduction is disallowed under clause (d) of section 243 after the application of clause (ii)(d) (e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

ask a question. We have been waiting since late yesterday afternoon to receive a copy of the Finance Committee amendment.

Could the manager indicate when that might be available?

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, this Senator has no answer to that. There is no time. The schedule is to start voting immediately.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President. I want to— I continue my reservation of objection. I am going to object strenuously if—I would like the floor manager's attention.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The regular order is for the clerk to report the bill.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President. I think I have the floor, and I wish to announce that I am going to object strenuously.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator does not have the right to the floor at this time.

Mr. GRAHAM. To any attempt— The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator does not have a right to the floor at this time.

BALANCED BUDGET RECONCILIATION ACT OF 1995

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report the bill.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The bill (S. 1357) to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 105 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 1996.
it's significance. I am alerting the manager to my intention to protect the rights of those who have been waiting now for almost 18 hours to get a copy of this amendment. We have been denied that opportunity, and soon we will be asked to vote upon a stealth amendment which will quite likely be the most significant amendment on this most significant legislative enactment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

AMENDMENT NO. 2978

Mr. DOMENICI. The next amendment on our side is Senator Gramm's. He is not here and asked us to set his amendment aside and proceed to the next amendment, which is the Kerry amendment.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, I am interested in this amendment. Are you just skipping it once or what?

Mr. DOMENICI. I am asking that it be put aside and disposed of and not considered.

The Senator is not ready—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Reserving the right to object.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

Mr. EXON. Reserving the right to object, may I interject a few statements?

Mr. DOMENICI. Of course.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I simply say I share the concerns expressed by my colleague from Florida. I think, if we will check the Record, we will find very clearly that the Roth amendment—that is the subject of concern, and I think legitimately so, of the Senator from Florida and others—was supported. The Senators who we were going to take up when we started this process of voting yesterday. It was laid aside. We were advised late last evening, sometime before midnight, that the measure would be presented to us so we could study it overnight. I remind all it was a rather short night. We still have not received it. I have not received it. Maybe it is in the process of being delivered to us at this time.

Here, it seems to me, we have to exercise some discipline. All day yesterday, this Senator, along with my colleague, the chairman of the committee, kept telling Senators you have to be here to offer your amendments. We cannot run the U.S. Senate for the benefit of every other Senator, regardless of their station in life and regardless of what office they are running for.

It seems to me, if we are going to move this process along, we are going to have to institute a policy that, if the Senator on the list that has been here and about 24 hours is not here to offer the amendment, then I suggest the amendment should be set aside and disposed of and not considered.

We have to exercise some discipline on everyone. I simply say I hope I can see the Finance Committee amendment. But in the meantime, I am at the mercy of the majority, and I simply ask my colleagues, don't join with me—and I think he will to try to exercise some discipline on both sides of the aisle. not only with regard to the time constraints that we must maintain, but also, we cannot move ahead unless Senators put the priority I think is necessary and that we should expect for them to be here to offer their amendments in a timely fashion, if for no other reason than out of consideration for the other Members of the body.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, Senator Gramm is here. He does not intend to offer his amendment. He withdraws it.

We are ready to proceed with your amendment.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER addressed the Chair.

Mr. EXON. I appreciate that very much. Mr. FORD. Shall he not make a motion to withdraw the amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to withdrawing?

Mr. DOMENICI. Can the manager of the bill withdraw the amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to withdrawing 2978?

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. I will not object. I will just say. there are a number of Senators here, including the Senator from Rhode Island and the Senator from West Virginia, who note this withdrawal may have been strategically a very good idea because it was going down to a dreadful defeat because it is such a dreadful amendment. Mr. GRAMM addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas [Mr. GRAMM].

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I do not withdraw the amendment and I am ready to speak on behalf of it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time on the amendment? The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, what we have in this bill is an effort by Senators—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is 1 minute equally divided on the amendment.

The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, what we have in the bill before us is a double-cross of the States. We reduced the rate of growth in Medicaid spending in agreement with the Governors by $187 billion. But the condition under which the Governors took the reduced rate of growth was that they were going to get to run the program. This is in Medicaid. So, in the Medicaid Program, we reduced the growth of spending in that program by $187 billion. The Governors agreed to it on the condition that they run the Medicaid Program. We now are trying to tell them how to run it.

I do not doubt the Senator from West Virginia and the Senator from Rhode Island have very good intentions. But we should not be telling the States how to run this program.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

Mr. CHAFEE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, we have 30 seconds now?

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I yield 30 seconds to my colleague from West Virginia.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is yielded 30 seconds.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, this is the most cruel and unusual amendment of this entire 24-hour fiasco. It rejects the idea of making sure America's poorest children, poorest elderly, pregnant women, disabled, it decimates people who need help. It is an evisceration of Medicaid. It is a cruel amendment. It ought to be rejected by both sides.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, there is a lot of talk about who is in the wagon these days. If we have no room in the wagon for 12-year-old poor children, pregnant women, the blind, and disabled, we have become an unworthy society.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired.

The majority leader.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the first vote be 15 minutes and thereafter votes be limited to 7½ minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The first vote will be 15 minutes. Then further votes will be 7½ minutes.

Mr. DOLE. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question now is on the Gramm amendment No. 2978.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber who desire to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 23, nays 76, as follows:

Mr. President, I yield 30 seconds of my time to the Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSSTONE. Mr. President, this amendment is all about plugging tax loopholes, whether we are talking about keeping a strong alternative minimum tax, or getting rid of subsidies for oil companies or pharmaceutical companies.

This all goes for deficit reduction—all the savings go into a lockbox—and the total savings is between $60 to $70 billion. I will tell you right now, regular people are tired of having to pay more in taxes because of these egregious loopholes. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mr. President, last night I talked briefly about each of the four amendments I was going to offer separately. I will briefly about each of the four amendments I was going to offer separately.

There being no objection, the statements were ordered to be printed in the RECORD as follows:

REPEAL CORPORATE WELFARE IN THE TAX CODE: ELIMINATE OIL AND GAS TAX BREAKS NOW

Mr. President. I rise to offer an amendment which I know will be controversial with my colleagues, but which I think deserves debate and a vote. It is part of my larger effort to help reduce the deficit over the next several years through scaling back corporate welfare, instead of making such unnecessarily large cuts in Medicare, Medicaid, student loans, and other areas, many of the protections which will be used to finance a tax cut primarily for the wealthy.

This Republican budget package is radical, and it fails to meet a basic test of fairness that Americans expect us to apply in order to get to a balanced budget. One of its major failings that has been discussed is that it does almost nothing to eliminate the fantastically expensive tax loopholes that have been embedded in the code for years. And these tax preferences have been extended to one industry or type of investment over all others. These preferences distort economic decision-making, and because they are so expensive make it much harder for smaller families, who are struggling to make it these days, pay much higher income taxes than they otherwise would be able to.

Let me make a simple point here that is often overlooked. We can spend money just as easily through the tax code, through tax loopholes, as we can through the normal appropriations process. Spending is spending, whether it comes in the form of a government check or in the form of a tax break for some special purpose, like a subsidy, a credit, a deduction, or accelerated depreciation for this type of investment or that. These tax loopholes allow some taxpayers to escape paying their share, and make everyone else pay at higher rates. These arcane tax breaks are simply special exceptions to the normal rules, rules that oblige all of us to share the burdens of citizenship by paying our taxes.

I think it is a simple question of fairness. If we are really going to make the spending cuts and other policy changes that we would have to make to meet the balanced budget amendment targets, then we should make it clear that we expect those who have political clout, who hire lobbyists to make their case every day here in Washington, are asked to sacrifice at least as much, or on behalf of middle class folks, that you and I represent who receive Social Security or Medicare or Veterans benefits or student loans.

That is just common sense, and I think we ought to signal today that the standard of fairness we will be applying will require elimination of at least some of these tax breaks. Too often, in discussions about low-priority federal spending which ought to be cut, one set of expenditures is notoriously absent. That is tax breaks for wealthy and well-positioned special interests.

Tax subsidies are heavily skewed to corporations and the relatively few people in the wealthiest 1 percent. While government benefits and services go in far larger proportions to the middle class and the poor. It is harder to eliminate tax breaks of those who have political clout, who hire lobbyists to make their case every day here in Washington, are asked to sacrifice at least as much, or on behalf of middle class folks, that you and I represent who receive Social Security or Medicare or Veterans benefits or student loans.

Mr. President, this issue is complex, but in the end it seems to be really a choice between two fundamentally different philosophies. There is a philosophical difference about the basis on which the cost of energy should be distributed, and it is no longer possible to ignore this matter.

The oil and gas industry has for decades been enjoying a tax benefit that has not been available to comparable energy sources, or to any other industry for that matter. We need to consider this special treatment from the perspective of fairness, efficiency, and the need to promote environmental sustainability.

Many of these tax breaks are industry-specific, others were designed to encourage certain kinds of activities or investments, or to give a special status to entities. These arcane tax breaks are simply special rules that are designed to allow certain kinds of activities or investments, or to give a special status to entities.

As with many other energy subsidies, this subsidy encourages drilling in environmentally sensitive areas. It encourages drilling in areas that have been protected for years by the ravages of thoughtless oil and gas development. These arcane tax breaks are simply special rules that are designed to allow certain kinds of activities or investments, or to give a special status to entities. Reconciliation Act did scale back somewhat the benefits provided to eligible companies under the provision, but it failed to repeal the provision. And so now I think the time has come to repeal it outright, starting in 1996. That will put a stop to efforts by corporations to push their operations out of Puerto Rico into other U.S. Possessions to shelter profits and avoid paying their fair share of taxes.

One goal is to encourage economic development in U.S. possessions, primarily Puerto Rico, the Section 936 tax credit has done more in that respect than any other provision. The GAO's extensive 1993 report concluded that repeal of this provision will have long-lasting effects. It pointed out that the credits were misused by some of America's most profitable companies. While it has been narrowed considerably by the most egregious abuses addressed, it remains a fairly large loophole for expensive subsidy to a few special interests. That is unfair, Mr. President, especially when we consider all of the competing budget claims on these scarce federal funds. It is time to bring this to an end.

Over the past several decades, as I have mentioned a few times, some have tried and failed to close the Section 936 tax credit. Those regulations often use the increase in labor costs as a measure of double-taxation. As a result, they have not been able to tax the income derived from intangible assets. Those companies that invest in Puerto Rico. The GAO's extensive 1993 report concluded that the credits are misused by some of America's most profitable companies. While it has been narrowed considerably by the most egregious abuses addressed, it remains a fairly large loophole for expensive subsidy to a few special interests. That is unfair, Mr. President, especially when we consider all of the competing budget claims on these scarce federal funds. It is time to bring this to an end.

In 1993, Finance Committee Chairman Moynihan observed that the 936 program, as Moynihan observed that the 936 program, as it is known, dates back to the 1920's. He said that the changes in the 1993 Reconciliation bill were designed to allow payments to rate the amount of the credit. In many cases, to actual wages paid or investments made. But it also allowed corporations to receive the tax credit for the cost of new buildings, and that continued to cost taxpayers billions per year. While this modest linkage between actual costs and wages paid with a step in the right direction, it is still a credit that is no longer justifiable in this current budget climate.

Mr. President. I have already spent some time here on the Senate floor in an effort to put a number of these issues on the floor. These efforts are a recognition that we must reduce the federal budget deficit in a way that is fair, responsible, and that requires shared sacrifice. Corporate welfare loopholes like this are often astronomical. Mr. President. continuing this credit for years while trying to balance the budget by 2001 is bad public policy. It is bad tax policy. And it is bad budget policy. It is no longer possible to stand, especially in the current budget climate. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. I yield the floor.

who work in the U.S. are being forced to pay more in taxes to make up the difference. Clearly, the AMT is a tax loophole that raises U.S. taxes.

When taxpayers in my State of Minnesota file their returns every year, they are not allowed to take the $70,000 of their income. So why do we let Americans living abroad to take advantage of this loophole?

When it first came on the books in 1986, the Exclusion was said to help support U.S. citizens living abroad that was promoting trade between the U.S. and foreign countries. However, it has been a constant tension between those fighting for tax equity because it was a tax break for U.S. citizens living abroad that was promoting trade between the U.S. and foreign countries. However, it has been a constant tension between those fighting for tax equity and those who believe that the loophole actually benefits U.S. trade relations. When the loophole was first tried, at times, to expand the loophole, i.e., raise the Exclusion above the current $70,000.

Clearly, in deciding whether or not to eliminate a special tax break, we need to balance the good effects against the bad. In this case, the elimination of the tax loophole abroad in foreign countries would make up the difference. When the loophole was first tried, at times, to expand the loophole, i.e., raise the Exclusion above the current $70,000.

Clearly, in deciding whether or not to eliminate a special tax break, we need to balance the good effects against the bad. In this case, the elimination of the tax loophole abroad in foreign countries would make up the difference. When taxpayers in my State of Minnesota file their returns every year, they are not allowed to take the $70,000 of their income. So why do we let Americans living abroad to take advantage of this loophole?

When it first came on the books in 1986, the Exclusion was said to help support U.S. citizens living abroad that was promoting trade between the U.S. and foreign countries. However, it has been a constant tension between those fighting for tax equity because it was a tax break for U.S. citizens living abroad that was promoting trade between the U.S. and foreign countries. However, it has been a constant tension between those fighting for tax equity and those who believe that the loophole actually benefits U.S. trade relations. When the loophole was first tried, at times, to expand the loophole, i.e., raise the Exclusion above the current $70,000.

the form of new tax breaks for wealthy individuals and big business. Corporations and wealthy families could not escape this fair share of the tax burden through tax shelters. In this day of severe budget cuts, when we are all asked to tighten our belts, we should be taxing most wealthy of our country from that obligation.

To add insult to injury, this legislation would substantially increase the tax burden on middle-class families and the poor by restricting eligibility for the Earned Income Tax Credit while scaling back the AMT on corporations and wealthy individuals. This is the same sort of tax relief of tax burden from the very wealthy to low and moderate income working families. How can we in good conscience increase taxes on 17 million low-income working families while at the same time decrease taxes on the wealthiest people in this country, those making hundreds of thousands of dollars annually?

During the debate on the balanced budget amendment, Republicans repeated over and over again that we need to balance the budget for a better future for our children and grandchildren. But now that we have before us the actual plan for balancing the budget (which actually will do no such thing), we can see that it is the poor who are being asked to sacrifice at least as much as regular working families.

This amendment violates the Budget Act, is not germane, and I make a point of order under the Budget Act.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable section of that act pursuant to the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion to waive the act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. FORD. I announce that the Senator from California [Mrs. FEINSTEIN] is necessarily absent. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

Mr. DOMENICI. I ask unanimous consent that I and Senator EXON be permitted to speak for 3 minutes each to explain to Senators where we are and what we expect of them in the next couple of hours.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, let me explain to the Senators where we are, and I will then yield obviously to Senator EXON.

We are next going to vote on the substitute budget resolution by Senators SIMON and CONRAD. And then we have only one amendment left in the so-called second tier, the tier about which we have agreed to have 5 minutes on each side of debate. That is the Roth Finance Committee amendment. Except me, Senator PURDUM, our work is left to go home is next, and SIMON-CONRAD on the substitute follows that, and the Roth Finance Committee amendment. They are circulating parts of it to the various staff. And the Senator from GRAHAM of Florida. We are trying to get the staff involved very soon. But those are the three that are left on that part.

Then we come to that omen group, that nebulous group that is called third tier. We have invented that term. But that means all the other amendments that anybody would like to offer. We ought mention that we have been waiting for a list, and we do not have a list. But the minority leader is working to try to get that list.

The minority leader and the majority leader suggest the following: If you have amendments that you intend to call up in that period of time when there is little or no time to discuss them, we would ask Senators to submit their amendments to the desk so that they will be with the staff and then submit them to Senator EXON and Senator DOMENICI at our desks so that we will have some idea by the time we finish tier 2 of what amendments we have to consider.

It is very important for everyone, to all Senators—not as we managers—that we establish some order for that series of amendments. So I urge that all Senators who have amendments to get them to the desk, not have them circulating around here, and get them to the manager and the ranking member’s desk here in the Senate.

I yield now to Senator EXON.

Mr. EXON. I agree completely with what the chairman has said. I simply remind all that if you file your amendments now in a timely fashion, as we have indicated, giving a copy to each of us, when we get into the voting procedures on these amendments we will try and give priority consideration as nearly as possible with regard to how they were filed to give some incentive for people to file the amendments.

We are trying to get together, as the chairman has said, the definitive list on this side. We do not have a list of all of the amendments that are proposed on the other side. This is a way to get that worked out. Numerous Senators have come to me and have said, "What plan should I make with regard to leaving Washington, DC, this weekend?" I said that is very, very much up in the air.

I would simply say that my best guess at the present time is that we have, as of now, a minimum—I emphasize the word "minimum"—on both sides of the aisle of somewhere around 50 individual separate amendments to be considered. Multiply that out. Even at a limited 10-minute timeframe, you can see we are talking about a minimum of 8 hours of steady voting, which should give everyone pause for consideration if they have any visions of leaving sometime this evening for obligations that they have elsewhere.

Therefore, I hope we can continue to whittle down the amendments. We have been tremendously successful thus far on this side. We have a standing order with about 120. Right now I think we are down to somewhere between 41 and 45. That is still an awful lot. But we have come a long, long way, and we intend to go further. Suffice it to say that if we are going to have the cooperation that is necessary while allowing each Senator rights as guaranteed to offer the amendments, then we are going to have to have some restrictions in the better understanding than we have worked on both sides with regard to limiting the amendments.

So I hope that all will agree with the suggestion made by the chairman, which I agree with completely. We have checked this, as I understand it, with both the minority leader and the majority leader. At least that is the best chance we have of moving forward in an expeditious a fashion as possible. I urge the Senate to agree.

Mr. DASCHLE addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President. I want to confirm what the ranking member and the chairman have indicated. The majority leader and I have talked about how we are going to proceed now with the third tier. I urge Senators to accommodate our two ranking members. They have been working with us very carefully and closely.

I think the only way we can accommodate the schedule for the balance of the day is to do what the chairman has suggested. We have talked to all of our colleagues on this side of the aisle. We know approximately what the list is. We do not have the text of any of the amendments. They need to be filed within the next hour. And then the list needs to be provided to the ranking member so we can begin to put the list in order.

So I urge everyone's cooperation to allow us to get through this list as expeditiously as we can but also as knowledgeably as we can. No one on the Republican side has seen the text of any of our amendments. We have not seen the text of their amendments. The only opportunity for us to look at the text is while we are voting on additional amendments.

So it is important that everyone come forth and bring their amendments to the desk, and allow us to list them officially. Then we will begin considering them.

I thank the Chair.

Mr. GRAHAM addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator from Nebraska has expired. There are 40 seconds left to the other side.

Mr. DOMENICI. Would Senator GRAHAM like to ask me a question?

Mr. GRAHAM. If the Senator will yield for a question, does he have any idea when we will have an opportunity to get to review the Finance Committee amendment?

Mr. DOMENICI. Fellow Senators, let me just add to what we said heretofore. I have been asked by Senators what the vote will be on this later. So my comments are attempting to accommodate you. I think sometime within the next couple of hours we will have made all the major votes, taken all the major votes, and will have decided all the major issues. So I do not think we should stay around here until 12 o'clock tonight. We are going to do our best to expedite things.

Mr. GRAHAM. The question is, When will we have an opportunity to review the Finance Committee amendment?

Mr. DOMENICI. I just spoke to Senator ROTH. He said that his staff is going to exchange views with your staff and other staff. They are already going to give you parts of the amendment, which are ready. They are going to do that right now. And we will just go from one step to another. But you will have it very quickly. The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired.

Mr. EXON. I ask unanimous consent for an additional 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The President's amendment is in order. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, the first amendment has been handed to both sides by Senator SIMON, an important step in the right direction. We hope all will follow.

Second, I would suggest that if possible—we cannot insist on this—I would suggest Senator Domenici and all that will follow with this process to try to add a one- or two-sentence explanation of what their measure is intended to do. That will help expedite things on all sides.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, the amendment has expired. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The next vote occurs on the amendment of the Senator from Arkansas. On this question, the yeas and nays have been ordered.

There are 30 seconds to each side.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I yield 30 seconds to the Senator from Arkansas.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let us listen to the Senator from Arkansas for 30 seconds. Senators clear the well, please.

The Chair cannot hear the Senator from Arkansas. The Senator from Arkansas is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. PRYOR. I thank the Chair. Mr. President, this amendment is offered by myself and Senator COHEN and several of our colleagues. This amendment very simply reinstates the nursing home standards that we adopted in 1987 as part of a bipartisan effort. These standards have worked well. They have saved money. The nursing home industry is not trying to repeal these standards. And we are going to hear that another proposal from the other side of the aisle is going to fix this issue. But I will say, Mr. President, we have not seen all of the ramifications. We know that there is a gaping hole.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. PRYOR. In the waiver process and there are no standards going to be submitted on the other side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, Senator COHEN's proposal with reference to this issue is going to be incorporated in the Senator from New Mexico's proposals. I urge that Republican Senators vote against this amendment because it is going to be taken care of and in some respects even be better than this amendment. It will be part of the package, and we are sorry we cannot give it to you yet. But it is Senator COHEN's proposal that is incorporated in the Republican package.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, will the Senator from New Mexico yield for a question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time is yielded.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Arkansas be given an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. PRYOR. I just want to ask a question. Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to additional time?

Mr. DOMENICI. I will not object this time, but I really do not think we can do it every time.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, if I can ask my friend from New Mexico, is the so-called nursing home regulation or standard fix, is this a part of the larger omnibus Finance Committee package that none of us have seen?

Mr. DOMENICI. Yes. That is right.

Mr. PRYOR. I thank the Chair.

Mr. DOMENICI. Senators will see it shortly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is all time yielded back?

All time is yielded back. The question is on agreeing to the Pryor amendment No. 2983. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.
The result was announced—yeas 51, nays 48, as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 522 Leg.]

YEAS—51

So the amendment (No. 2983) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. JOHNSTON. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay this on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 2984

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The next amendment is the Simon amendment No. 2984, with 30 seconds for each side.

Mr. EXON addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for 1 minute for an exchange of views between the managers in this Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there an objection to the Senator's request?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator's request is granted.

The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. After consultation with the two leaders, and the managers of the bill, it is our feeling—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 2984) was rejected.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this amendment is cosponsored by Senators CONRAD, ROBB, and KERREY. It eliminates the tax cut, reduces the CPI 0.5 percent, which is less than the experts have recommended. That means, for the median person on Social Security, a $3 billion bill. For that, you get more than $100 billion in Medicare, more than $100 billion in Medicaid, $36 billion in welfare, and you eliminate the cuts in education. It has bipartisan support in the House, and I hope it can have that here in the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2984, as modified by the yeas and nays that have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll. The legislative clerk called the roll. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 19, nays 80, as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 523 Leg.]

YEAS—19

Akaka  Bradley  Johnson  Pell
Baucus  Breaux  Kerrey  Pryor
Bingaman  Conrad  Leahy  Robb
Brown  Dodd  Lieberman
Domenici  Graham  Nunn

NAYS—80

Abramoff  Ashcroft  Frist  Feingold  Maccack

Bingaman  Biden  Gorton  Mikulski
Bingaman  Brown  Gramm  Mushro
Bingaman  Bryan  Harkin  Nickles
Bumpers  Burns  Hatfield  Nickles
Byrd  Campbell  Hollings  Rockefeller
Coats  Coburn  Hutchison  Rockefeller
Cochran  Cochran  Isakson  Rockefeller

Daschle  Dever  Kennedy  Stevens
DeWine  DeWine  Kerry  Thomas
Dole  Dole  Kyl  Thomas
Dorgan  Dorgan  Kyel  Thurmond
Exon  Exon  Lott  Wellstone

So the amendment (No. 2984) was rejected.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DOLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, on rollcall vote 518, I voted "no." My intention was to vote "aye." I ask unanimous consent that I be permitted to change my vote, which in no way would change the outcome of the vote.
(The foregoing tally has been changed to reflect the above order.)

Mr. DOLE. If I could inform my colleagues where we are and where we are headed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is the Senator using leader's time?
Mr. DOLE. I will use my leader's time.

We are now ready to proceed to the third tier. So we have some order and know what we are voting on. I will request that the two managers each have 30 seconds to explain their amendment, or maybe they do not need explanation. The votes on the pending amendments will be 1½ minutes in length.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. GRAHAM. Reserving the right to object, Mr. President, the last item on tier 2, what is going to be its disposition?

Mr. DOLE. The last item?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair advises the Senator from Florida there is no amendment before the desk.

Mr. GRAHAM. I was asking a question. We have been proceeding under a unanimous-consent request, taking up amendments under tier 2.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no time for debate.

Mr. DOLE. Under my leader's time, we will postpone action on that, and we have talked to the Democratic leader and the manager of the bill, and that gives everybody a chance to look at it, study it, and bring it up sometime later.

Mr. GRAHAM. Does the majority leader have an indication of when we can see the legislative language?

Mr. DOLE. Probably the time we get to see the list of tier 3 amendments on that side.

Mr. GRAHAM. So we have no indication of when?

Mr. DOLE. As quickly as we can.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

Is there any objection to the request of the Senator?

Mr. BRADLEY. Would the Chair restate the Senator's request?

Mr. DOLE. That the two managers have 30 seconds to explain the amendment, then have 7½-minute votes.

Mr. SIMON. Reserving the right to object, why not get to 5 minutes?

Mr. DOLE. It is not possible for the clerk to do it any more quickly than 7½, plus there is always one or two that never get the message and are rolling around out here somewhere.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Reserving the right to object, did the 1 minute apply to the Roth?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, using my leader time, all we have is 7½ minutes, so I am asking we have 30 seconds, for the managers to have 30 seconds. I do not include the 7½.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, using my leader time, let me emphasize we have asked all Senators to turn their lists in, their amendment in—we hope it is not a list, but an amendment—by noon. The amendment ought to be filed by noon, and it ought to be turned in to the managers by noon.

That is the only way I am going to put it on a list. If I do not have that amendment by noon, it is not on the Democratic list. So it is very important everybody cooperate to the extent that we have 40 minutes, now, to file the list and compare our lists so we can get on with our work.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the majority leader's request for 30 seconds on each side before each amendment?

Mr. GRAHAM. Yes, there is objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objectation is heard. There is no further time for debate.

Mr. DOLE. No debate, no explanation of amendments. Let us vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there an amendment to present?

The Senator from Pennsylvania.

AMENDMENT NO. 2985

(Purpose: To restore funding for Medicare disproportionate share hospital payments)

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President I call up amendment No. 2985. I ask unanimous consent there be 1 minute equally divided to comment on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

AMENDMENT NO. 2985

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask for 30 seconds on each side before each amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask for 30 seconds for the managers on each side to discuss the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. SPECTER. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objectation is heard. The question is on the amendment. All in favor say aye.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.
point is that, if an objection is made, there will be no time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct. If there is an objection, there will be no time.

Is there an objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has no time. The manager has to designate the sponsor.

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield 30 seconds to Mr. SPECTER.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, this bill cuts out $14.5 billion from disproportionate share payments, and indirect medical education hospitals and the major teaching institutions. And this amendment reinstates $4.5 billion.

I yield back the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Time is yielded back.

Mr. EXON. I yield 30 seconds to the Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. DOMENICI. In opposition? The PRESIDING OFFICER. In opposition to the amendment?

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. I am speaking to the amendment. I have no time. The manager has to designate the sponsor.

Mr. DOMENICI. I send Mr. D'AMATO's amendment to the Senate Journal. I send Mr. D'AMATO's amendment to the Senate Journal.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The text of the amendment is printed in the Congressional Record under "Amendments Submitted."

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this is agreed to on both sides. I ask that the amendment be agreed to and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

So the amendment (No. 2993) was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

AMENDMENT NO. 2994

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I have an amendment for Senators HUTCHISON, MCCAIN, LIEBERMAN, and others. It has been cleared on both sides, as I understand it. I send it to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI, for Mrs. HUTCHISON, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. STEVENS, and Mr. LEVIN] proposes an amendment numbered 2994.

Mr. DOMENICI. I send that amendment to the desk and ask unanimous consent that further reading be dispensed with, the amendment be agreed to, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator reserves the right to object.

Mr. BRADLEY. Will the Senator state what the amendment is?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If the Senate will be in order, the Senator did state that he had an agreement from both sides.

Mr. BRADLEY. Will the Senator state what the amendment is?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Did the Senator from New Mexico hear the state what the amendment is?

Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. BRADLEY reserves the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill is open to amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, do we have that amendment?

I do not believe we can proceed in this manner. I could not possibly take 30 seconds in opposition because I do not have the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is at the desk.

Is the Senator from Montana calling up his amendment?

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I call up my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Which number does the Senator call up?

Mr. BAUCUS. It is the ANWR amendment, Mr. President.

Mr. DOMENICI. OK, let us proceed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Montana [Mr. BAUCUS, for himself, Mr. ROTH, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. WELLSTONE, Mr. BIDEN, and Mr. LAUTENBERG] proposes an amendment numbered 2988.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 272, strike line 21 and all that follows through page 273, line 22.

On page 178, strike line 3 and all that follows through page 178, line 7.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thirty seconds on each side.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, this amendment strikes the provision opening the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil and gas drilling. To offset the loss of revenue from ANWR drilling and to keep the budget balanced in 2002, this amendment also strikes the sale of the naval petroleum reserves.

Opening Arctic Wildlife Refuge to oil drilling will seriously disrupt precious natural resources, will do nothing to enhance our energy independence, and will not generate the amount of revenue that the proponents claim.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this would increase the deficit by nearly $3 billion over the next 7 years. I think everybody knows the issue with reference to ANWR.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is all time yielded back?

Mr. DOLE. I move to table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time yielded back?

Mr. DOMENICI. Yes. we yield it back.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time is yielded back.

Mr. DOLE. Move to table.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to table the amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber who desire to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 51, nays 48, as follows:

So the motion to table the amendment (No. 2988) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I move to reconsider the vote.
Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill is open to amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that I may proceed for 1 minute.

Mr. BAUCUS addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President. Let me say to Senators who contemplate offering amendments that unless we have seen a copy of the amendment before you offer it, we are going to offer a second-degree amendment, because there is no way to state the case if we have never seen it. We have three now that we have seen that are the next three. I never seen it. We have three now that is no way to state the case if we have ond-degree amendment, because there

And there’s another thing. Opening the refuge to oil drilling is yet another example of public lands policies that favor special interests over the interests of ordinary American families. It opens the Refuge up to drilling at the expense of our children and grandchildren and the Native people who live near the refuge and depend on the land to sustain their way of life. In addition, the refuge supports a spectacular array of other wildlife, including polar bears, grizzly bears, wolves, and snow geese.

OMB has stated that "exploration and development activities would bring physical disturbances to the area, un- likely to increase revenues. A reduction in Federal revenues will decline to about $170 million."

Third, the environmental impact. The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is unique. It’s been referred to, for good reason, as "America’s Serengeti." More than 150,000 caribou migrate through the refuge, bearing their young on the coastal plain. The caribou are an important source of food for the native people who live near the refuge and depend on the land to sustain their way of life. In addition, the refuge supports a spectacular array of other wildlife, including polar bears, grizzly bears, wolves, and snow geese.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, this amendment strikes the provision of the omnibus bill that would open the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge up for oil drilling. As an offset, it strikes the provision of the bill that authorizes the sale of the Naval Petroleum Reserve. It preserves the balanced budget in 2002.

Let me explain why Members should support the amendment.

We’ve heard a lot of talk. during the budget debate. I urge them to vote for this amendment.
Mr. BURNS. Mr. President. I rise today in support of the reconciliation provision to open a small part of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to competitive leasing for oil and gas exploration and development. Like many of the other issues we have addressed on this floor in the past few weeks, this issue has generated a lot of emotion. We hear about destroying the pristine refuge, the threat to the wildlife of the area, the irreversible changes that such development will cause, the mortality wounding of a national treasure. This has been the most controversial provisions of the reconciliation package, and the President has threatened a veto over it. The irony is that there is no reason for this. In the final measure, all of the arguments and objections that have been raised over the leasing in ANWR come to nothing. These objections just don't hold water, and I'll tell you why.

The environmental concerns have been raised and found wanting. All of the research done on oil development on the North Slope proves that such development can occur without having an adverse effect on wildlife. As a matter of fact, the caribou herds have not only survived during the nearly 30 years of oil development in the Prudhoe Bay area, they have shown strong growth. Some people predicted that the caribou would be disturbed by the development, and particularly the pipeline. They argued that the caribou would not cross it and therefore the range of the herd would be cut in half, they would not be able to get to their calving areas and the herd would suffer. Because of the concern over this possibility, the oil companies buried portions of the pipeline at great expense and effort. This has proven to have been a waste of time and money. The caribou have never used the pipeline, they did not even ignore it. The fact it they use it. Biologists have found that caribou enjoy the heat that the pipeline provides during the cold winter months and that they can find taking advantage of the shade that it provides during the summer on this treeless plain. Some predicted that caribou would be trapped by the pipeline, and that predators would change their behavior to take advantage of the pipeline. But this has not happened either. There has been very little effect on the wolves or bears in the area. Some said that waterfowl and other birds such as hawks and falcons would avoid the area because of the development. Again, this has not happened. Each year thousands of waterfowl and other birds use the area. In fact, there has never been a instance of what could even approach being called serious environmental damage in the North Slope oil fields.
Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, America knows that drilling the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to balance the budget is wrong. We understand and agree that the basic concern for the environment is all you need to come to this conclusion. Now all we have to do is convince the Senate of the right thing to do. I am disappointed at the difficulty of what should be a simple truth.

The refuge is one of a kind—in fact, it is the last of its kind. The Alaska National Wildlife Refuge is the only place we have left that resembles the kind of land that gave birth to our Nation centuries ago.

I wonder how many people realize that outside this chamber, 500 years ago, the first Americans could hunt bison and elk in the open forests on the banks of the Potomac. I wonder how many people remember that outside this building passenger pigeons used to roost in American chestnut trees, sometimes in flocks of thousands. If we could only turn back the clock and return to an era when the passenger pigeon was a common sight, the American chestnut has been wiped out in this region by an exotic disease. The first Americans would not recognize this place.

If we turn to a remote corner of our country, the last expanse of true wilderness left, and Congress is saying, we need that too—to balance the budget.

To me it takes only a simple sense of decency, respect and history to know that drilling ANWR is the wrong thing to do, but there are many other reasons that support the American public's opposition to this provision.

First of all, drilling for oil in Alaska is just a tiny drop in the deficit bucket. The leasing revenues will contribute only one-fifth of 1 percent of the budget gap. provided the residents of Alaska do not enter a recent share of the royalties. Even the $1.3 billion revenue estimate is flawed because it assumes we will make about $30 a barrel when the rest of the world is actually paying only $10. Add to that the fact that the production estimates are outdated and it is clear that we are selling the orchard for an apple.

Second, we should ask ourselves why the residents of the other 49 States should chip in to support Alaska's welfare state. Alaska is a State that collects no income tax, collects no sales tax, pays each man, woman and child almost $1,000 a year just for being there, has $18 billion in the bank, and enjoys the highest Federal spending per capita. And now the State has come to Congress to ask the American people to shoulder another $1.3 billion to support their welfare state.

Third, we have to look at the huge environmental cost of lacing the Arctic plain with truck roads, gravel drill pads, pipelines and oil spills. Some argue that Prudhoe Bay proves that drilling can be done in an environmentally sound way. But what is so environmentally benign about 500 oil spills a year, air pollution that exceeds the total emissions of six States, pushing millions of gallons through a rapidly deteriorating pipeline, and littering 9,402 acres of arctic wetlands, oil rigs and roads? Prudhoe Bay does not have a track record to emulate.

The Senate should also consider the impact of oil wells on wildlife and people that use the refuge. The coastal plain is the cradle of life for birds that migrate from four different continents. 160,000 caribou that migrate between nations, polar bears, musk ox, grizzly bears, and the Gwich'in Indians. The global significance of the resource is recognized in the Agreement on the Conservation of the Porcupine Caribou Herd and the Agreement on the Conservation of Polar Bears. The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is, after all, supposed to be refuge for wildlife, not a refuge for desperate Senators looking to fund a tax cut.

Fifth, we should recognize the parody of drilling for 90 days worth of oil to reduce our dependence on oil. It is like curing an alcoholic by serving him vodka instead of his usual whiskey. National security is not served by simply deferring our dependence on foreign oil for a mere 90 days. If this same Congress had funded the President's budget for energy conservation and efficiency and refused to gut efficiency standards with environmental riders we would have saved enough oil to drill in ANWR. Energy conservation is not a quick fix, it sticks with us for good.

Sixth, I object to the backdoor process to that is being used to pass a law that could not survive the light of day. Drilling for oil in the Alaska Wildlife Refuge has been a controversial issue for almost 10 years. This is not a reason to sneak it into the budget resolution through the back door.

Finally, the Alaska National Wildlife Refuge is an American treasure that does not belong to us. It is the heritage of our country. Just as Vermonters recognize a responsibility to pass on a clean Lake Champlain, our best trout streams, and the Green Mountain National Forest to future generations, Vermonters recognize a responsibility to pass on North America's Arctic plain to future generations.

Despite overwhelming public opposition, this bill trades an American treasure for $1.3 billion, a mere trinket in a trillion dollar package. We cannot let this Congress drill ANWR to balance the budget. I urge bi-partisan support of this amendment.

Mr. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the Baucus amendment to strike the provision in the Energy Committee's reconciliation instructions which opens the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil drilling activity.

The Arctic Wildlife Refuge is one of this Nation's last great wilderness areas. I have often said that we must forge an environmental ethic in our society—that we must preserve America's natural treasures for generations to come. We are the stewards of this land. We are the ones responsible for ensuring that some part of our planet remains for our children.

Protecting our wilderness yields benefits in ways that we do not always see. Scientists will tell you that a vast amount of the medicines that we take for granted today were first discovered in nature. The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is unique among America's diverse climate. The secrets this unspoiled land holds may well provide us with benefits beyond what any of us can imagine now.

Some would have us believe that this is just an economic issue. I would disagree based on the hundreds of letters and phone calls I have received from Marylanders who are concerned about protecting this land, the land we have heard from the native people, both in the United States and Canada. whose culture and livelihoods depend on the caribou that breed within the confines of the refuge. Opening this precious land to oil drilling will wipe these timeless cultures out.

Mr. President, I, for one, am not willing to do that. I am not willing to destroy the lives of thousands of native villagers just so that the oil industry can turn a larger profit next year than it did this year.

I urge my colleagues to support removing this dangerous provision from this bill and vote for the Baucus amendment.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, a financial debt is not the only threat that hangs over the heads of future generations. There is a threat to their environment, as well. A threat we must address. We are a people who have a moral duty to pass on a world that has clean water and clean air, and open vistas where wildlife can thrive. One of the opportunities of every American citizen is to enjoy the wealth of beautiful public lands.

As a lead sponsor of S. 428, the bill that designates the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, there is a provision in the budget that provides for oil and gas lease sales in this sanctuary. Located in the northeastern corner of Alaska, this unique piece of our national heritage is bordered on the north by the Arctic Ocean and Beaufort Sea, and on the south by the snow-capped Brooks Range.

As a lead sponsor of S. 428, the bill that designates the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge as a wilderness area, I am concerned by a provision in this budget reconciliation bill that uses revenues taken from sales of leases to drill the coastal plain.

My concern is on two levels: first, that the budget is assuming revenue from a pristine wilderness area; and second, that the revenue raised from drilling in this wilderness area will not amount to be such a significant amount of money that it could easily be found elsewhere.

Mr. President, as I have said before, the best thing we have learned from nearly 500 years of contact with the Arctic wilderness is restraint, the need to stay our hand and preserve our precious environment and future resources rather than destroy them for momentary gain.

For this reason, I have been active in the effort to designate the refuge coastal plain of Alaska as a wilderness area. And I am not alone. Only 4 years ago, Congress rejected the idea of sacrificing a prime part of our national heritage, the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, for what most likely will be a minimal supply of oil. The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is an invaluable region with wildlife diversity that has been compared to Africa's Serengeti.

As I have said in earlier statements, the Alaskan wilderness area is not only a valuable part of our earth's ecosystem—the last remaining region where the complete spectrum of arctic and subarctic ecosystems comes together—but it is a vital part of our national consciousness. It is a place we can cherish and visit for our soul's good. It offers us a sense of well-being and promises that not all dreams have been dreamt.

The Alaskan wilderness is a place of outstanding wild, wildlife, wilderness, and recreation, a land dotted by beautiful forests, dramatic peaks and glaciers, gentle foothills and undulating tundra. It is untamed—rich with Caribou, polar bear, grizzly, wolves, musk oxen, Dall sheep, moose, and hundreds of thousands of birds—snow geese, tundra sand, black brant, and more. In all, about 165 species use the coastal plain. It is an area of intense wildlife activity. It is a place where we know that the young, and set about the critical business of fueling up for winters of unspeakable severity.

Addressing my second concern—that the potential oil and gas leasing in the coastal plain of ANWR will not result in such a significant amount of money that it could not be found elsewhere—let me say that the estimated revenue is only two tenths of 1 percent of the total savings.

And that is why I am here today, to support the Bausch amendment that will prohibit the leasing of the coastal plain of ANWR to pay for deficit reduction.

This amendment is consistent with the current law—with the dictates of Congress—law that prohibits oil and gas leasing in the coastal plain of ANWR. It is also consistent with agreements that we have made with Canada to preserve and protect this wilderness area, especially the habitat and culture of the native people who live in the area.

This amendment prevents oil and gas leasing in the coastal plain of ANWR without hearings in Congress. It does not preclude future development of this area, but only prevents Congress from using these savings from oil and gas leasing in the current budget process.

The coastal plain—where the oil and gas leasing would occur—is the biological heart and the center of wildlife activity in the refuge. It is a critical part of our Nation's preeminent wilderness and would be destroyed by oil development.

There are those who may think the northern coast of Alaska is too remote for use for worry about. I urge them to read the CONGRESSIONAL RECORDS from the 1870's. The men who initially urged the Congress to protect a place called Yellowstone were subject to ridicule. Why, critics asked, should we forgo the opportunity to dig up minerals from the area? It is a remote place, and few Americans will ever venture there.

Today, as we wrestle with America's future, let us be as far-sighted as that Congress eventually proved to be. Let us not cash in a unique piece of America for a brief, hoped for a rush of oil. Let us protect the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge forever.

Mr. President, I believe that we should not allow revenues to be used in this budget that are supposed to come from doing something that Congress has not allowed.

This is how it should be done. The Baucus amendment accomplishes this purpose. And I encourage my colleagues to support this important effort.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I wish to express my support for this amendment, which will help ensure continued protection for the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

The issue of whether or not to allow oil drilling along the Arctic coastal plain has been lobbied heavily for the past several years. There are several arguments made by my colleagues, by representatives of the oil industry, by a delegation of Gwichin people who inhabit the area in question, by the Arctic Slope Regional Corporation who are veterans of North Slope oil production, by environmentalists, and by the public at large. I appreciate the strong feelings this debate evokes.

The fate of ANWR is far reaching. It involves national and State economies, environmental and social values, and the relationship between the Federal and State governments.

Anyone who has visited Alaska knows that the stakes for Alaskans are high. The State and its people depend heavily on oil revenues, and its leaders are sensitive to experience with the potential environmental tradeoffs of oil development.

This issue has come before Congress in the past. I have consistently opposed opening ANWR during those debates. I have consistently opposed disrupting this unique and fragile habitat for the purposes of oil drilling today.

Most opponents of opening up the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge cite the potential environmental tradeoffs of drilling in this fragile ecosystem. I appreciate and share that concern.

As I have said in the past, I take seriously the national obligation embodied in the Alaska lands bill to ensure that these remote 19 million acres continue to achieve their purpose of providing a refuge for wildlife. There is no other region in America or in the world where caribou, polar bears, and wild geese flourish as they do in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. And, as we know from both history and recent scientific study, once one component of an ecosystem is adversely affected, then the entire system can become affected by a chain reaction.

Declining populations of polar bears, birds, and caribou, and the animals and Native American communities that depend on them, is a valid fear. A recent article in the Anchorage Daily News reports that the Central Arctic caribou herd that inhabits Prudhoe Bay has suffered a 23 percent reduction from 23,400 animals in 1985 to 18,000 animals in 3 years. Although it is difficult to determine the exact reason for this marked decline, the part of the herd that ranges near the oil drilling activity has experienced almost all of the losses.

Nonetheless, the debate over the future of ANWR should not be framed as it all too often is as a face off between elitist environmentalists and rapacious developers. It is also a debate about national energy policy and national values.

It is particularly hard to justify opening the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil drilling, with all the industrial activity and associated disruption that would involve, when the probability of finding oil is so low. Moreover, even if oil were to be found, the potential oil reserves are much smaller than anticipated. The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge would at most sustain our country's basic petroleum needs for a mere 6 months. Clearly, then, the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is not the answer to achieving independence from foreign oil supplies.

Meanwhile, this perpetuation of our national love affair with hydrocarbon fuel has other downsides. Our profiteering energy consumption cripples our international competitiveness, pollutes our air and beaches, and increases the trade deficit. We must take serious steps to make ourselves more energy-efficient and to conserve energy whenever and wherever possible. And we should better develop our domestic renewable energy supplies like ethanol and renewable methanol.

Consistent with the desire of representatives of the petroleum, natural gas, automotive, ethanol, and engineering industries met in Washington at the World Conference on Transportation Fuel Quality to review the progress made in just the past few years in reformulating gasoline as required in the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. Today, approximately one-third of all the gasoline sold in the United States contains noncrude oil-derived additives called oxygenates, primarily ethers and ethanol from grain. EPA has called the refined gasoline the most significant automobile pollution reduction advance since the removal of lead. The pollution reductions achieved this year amount to the equivalent of taking 8 million cars off the road.

What is little recognized, however, is that the reformulated gasoline program is also the most significant crude oil reduction program ever instituted. The Congressional Research Service has concluded that it could reduce U.S. oil requirements by 500,000 barrels per day, and that it represents the most significant means of reducing oil imports in the near to mid-term of any other approach.

Even more exciting is the fact that if the proposal to have a "49 State Fuel"—in other words, a nationwide RFG standard—is adopted, U.S. oil requirements could be reduced by over 1.5 million barrels per day, or more than 40 percent of our daily gasoline demand. At an average $20 per barrel, this would mean that nearly $1 billion annually would remain in the United States rather than be exported to foreign oil producers.

This alternative far overshadows the benefits to the Nation of opening ANWR. It also carries with it the additional advantage of more diversified job creation, and the ongoing benefits of implementing renewable fuel technologies that cannot be depleted as is the case with finite oil fields.

I believe the case for continuing to protect the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge from oil drilling is strong. Drilling would risk the ecological health of the coastal plain for a relatively small and speculative supply. And, from a national energy policy standpoint, it seems more sensible to turn to energy conservation and the development of renewable fuels than to seek new reserves of fossil fuels in the Arctic coastal plain.

Drilling, for most Americans, opposition to oil drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is more profound than the mere sum of these concrete arguments might suggest. Our country has a revered tradition of protecting its natural heritage. Through our system of State parks, national parks, wilderness areas, and wildlife refuges, Americans have been in the forefront of conservation, articulating and enforcing a land ethic that embodies the best impulses of our Nation. We have always had a clear sense in this country of the natural heritage that makes our lives so special and worthwhile, and we have been willing to make tangible steps to protect that heritage.

Robert Kennedy, in a speech delivered only 3 months before his death, spoke at the University of Kansas on the importance of protecting the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. Kennedy noted that too often we pay attention only to the bottom line and judge policies only on their contribution to the gross national product, and that in using that simple measure, we fail to account for that which makes life in America so special. He stated that—

[The GNP counts air pollution and cigarette advertising, and ambulances to clear our highways of carnage. It counts special locks for our doors and the jails for those who break them. It counts the destruction of our redwoods and the loss of our natural wonder in chaotic sprawl . . .] It measures neither our wisdom nor our learning; neither our compassion, nor our devotion to country; it measures everything, in short, except that which makes life worthwhile.

For most Americans, who will never have a chance to see the Arctic coastal plain and witness the thundering herds of caribou in their annual migration, or watch a wolf run down a ptarmigan, the simple knowledge that this special and endangered environment remains is a tribute to our courage and wisdom. Perhaps the personal sacrifice of my Brother Robert, who lost his life in the protection of our natural heritage, is the most significant means to a better understanding of the simple knowledge that this special land and the lives of the Gwich'in people have relied on the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is more profound than the concerns of big industry.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, since I first came to the Senate I have been active in the fight to protect the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge from oil and gas drilling. I continue to fight to save the Arctic Refuge as we debate the reconciliation bill in the Senate.

The Senate reconciliation bill contains a number of provisions that are poor policy, that are unfair to those least able to defend themselves, and that consider only short-term gain and not long-term loss. The proposed plan to open the Arctic Refuge to gas and oil drilling is one such provision. Since I have been in the Senate I have spoken time and time again about the fact that this is poor energy policy, poor environmental policy, and cynical politicking.

The Arctic Refuge is one of the last pristine wilderness areas left in America. It contains the National's most significant polar bear denning habitat on land, supports 300,000 snow geese, migratory birds from six continents—some of those birds even make it to my State of Minnesota, and a concentrated porcupine carbou calf population.

While proponents of drilling in the Arctic Refuge will tell you that the caribou are not harmed by drilling, an October 21, 1995 article in the Anchorage Daily News reports that new information shows a sharp decline in the number of caribou in the Central Arctic caribou herd. While nobody knows exactly what caused this decline, most of it has occurred in the part of the herd that lives near the oil and gas drilling. Despite the effects oil drilling would have on the animals, there are those who continue to push for oil drilling without an update environmental impact statement (EIS) as required by current law. An EIS has not been done in the area since 1987. Just a month ago, we were in a position to rely on those porcupine caribou for thousands of years to provide their food and meet their spiritual needs. I have heard them speak very eloquently and directly about what oil drilling in the Arctic Refuge would do to their way of life. People like the Gwich'in want to save the environment. But they are not the big oil companies. They do not have the money. They do not have the power. They are not the lawyers here every day. In today's Washington environment, that seems to mean that their concerns are less important than the concerns of big industry.

Even if whatever amount of revenue gained were somehow worth destroying this unique land and the lives of the Gwich'in, there are a number of questions regarding whether the Arctic Refuge has oil. how much it has and what the cost would be to retrieve it. Estimates are broad and disagreements are rampant. Even I, a nonscientist, know one thing for certain: There is no way to tell how much revenue can be gained from drilling in the Arctic Refuge. New information, however, suggests previous figures overestimated possible revenue.

Alice Rivlin, Director of the Office of Management and Budget, stated in an October 25 letter that drilling in the Arctic Refuge would produce "significant less than the current scores by the Congressional Budget Office." New studies suggest there is less oil than previously thought, the price of oil as projected by the Department... of Energy has dropped and serious concerns remain about whether Alaska will stage a court battle to change their share of the revenue from 50 percent to 90 percent as the State claims its statehood act allows. Regardless of who is right, barreling ahead with incomplete information and short-term thinking is just plain poor energy policy.

The administration has indicated that if the bill includes drilling in the Arctic Refuge, the President will veto it. I would wholeheartedly support him if he did.

Throughout the course of my years of work to save the Arctic Refuge, I have heard from many Minnesotans, including many children, about their desire to preserve it. Our natural resources are among the most important things we can leave to these future generations. Our children and our grandchildren deserve more than what this bad energy policy, bad environmental policy, and shortsighted politicking would leave them. We must continue to speak for all Minnesotans, for their sense of fairness and equity and for their love and concern for the environment. I will continue to fight to save the Arctic Refuge from gas and oil drilling. I urge my colleagues to join me.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I rise in strong support of this amendment to protect our national heritage. I rise because this budget reconciliation debate should be about revenues. It should be about how much we have and how much we spend. The Arctic Refuge coastal plain is not about money; it is about values. It is a question of whether we are willing to trade off wilderness and wildlife that are our national heritage and legacy for our children, in order to make a short-term payment on our accumulated debts.

Future generations will look back on what we might do today with sadness. They will not see this as a matter of shared sacrifice, but as a mark of the selfishness of a generation which, in its haste to pay off a minuscule fraction of its debts, sacrificed the inheritance of future generations. Let me explain the several other reasons why I support this amendment.

First, leasing the Refuge does not result in a significant return of money to the Federal Treasury. If the dubious assumptions of the Budget Committee prove correct, the leasing revenues would be a mere two-tenths of 1 percent of our budget gap. If we lease this unique Arctic wilderness that has been called America’s Serengeti, it would be purchasing the right to allow some companies and the most critical for wildlife. The coastal plain is an integral part of the only conservation area in North America that protects a full spectrum of Arctic and sub-Arctic ecosystems. While only 13,000 acres would be affected, the wilderness in the entire coastal plain would be impacted by oil development. The massive industrial complex would not be in a compact area, but would sprawl over hundreds of square miles in a network of roads, pipelines, airports, and processing plants.

Fourth, budget reconciliation is the wrong place to decide such an important issue. We should have a full and fair airing of all views about the leasing of our Arctic Refuge. Money is not the only value we should consider. Before we drill holes and pave portions of the refuge, we should consider all of its value, not just its infinitesimal contribution to the budget deficit. I believe its sponsors know that they could not win in the light of full debate. A massive spending bill provides them the cover of darkness that they know they must have to win.

In closing, I quote the great writer and naturalist Margaret Murie. "Wilderness itself is the basis of all of our associations. I wonder if we have enough reverence for life to concede to wilderness the right to live on?"

I will cast my vote to protect the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge—for wilderness and for my children.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, my amendment would reallocate the tax credits in the reconciliation bill toward the middle-income taxpayers and away from the saving to the Medicare spending cuts. It specifically strikes capital gains for corporations and gives some relief for individuals who make capital gains over $100,000 a year. It is geared more toward the middle-income taxpayers.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this amendment adds new language. It is not germane and is subject to a point of order.

I make a point of order that this amendment violates the Budget Act.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable sections of that act for the consideration of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion to waive.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays are ordered, and the clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 43, nays 55. As follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the ayes are 43, the nays are 55. By a vote of the Senate, the amendment is rejected. By a vote of 43 to 55, the amendment is rejected.

Mr. DOMENICI. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.
The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2995

(Purpose: To provide that the repeal of the exclusion for punitive damages shall not apply to punitive damages in a wrongful death action in a State where on September 13, 1995, only punitive damages may be awarded in such an action.)

Mr. DOMENICI. I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI] and Mr. HEFLIN, for himself and for Mr. SHELBY, proposes an amendment numbered 2995.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 1773, strike line 24 and insert the following:

"(d) RESTRICTION ON PUNITIVE DAMAGES: NOT TO APPLY IN CERTAIN CASES.—The restriction on the application of subsection (a)(3) to punitive damages shall not apply to punitive damages awarded in a civil action—" (1) which is a wrongful death action, and (2) with respect to which applicable State law would be fully taxable by the Internal Revenue Service. For this reason I see the tax effect of the current provision as unfair to those Alabama victims and their families and the amendment as an equitable solution.

I strongly support this amendment. I think it is the correct language to narrowly address what would be an intolerable tax burden on the grieving families of Alabama victims who are killed by negligence or by gross negligence or recklessness or warrantlessness or for any type of proof that is necessary to prove a cause of action. I think the Senate ought to adopt this fair and equitable amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. I will take the 30 seconds allowed to explain this amendment.

This is agreed to on both sides. It is for the two Senators from Alabama and it relates only to an 1852 statute with reference to damages for wrongful deaths—civil damages for wrongful death. It will correct a very old law.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, we have checked. We have found no objections to the amendment. We are not going to offer further amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I understand the amendment before us does nothing to prohibit the payment of punitive damages. All we are saying is what is necessary for the protection of our patients, the people I represent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 2995) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The amendment to the table was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Senator, do you have an amendment on your side?

Mr. EXON. I yield to Senator KENNEDY for an amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized for 30 seconds.

relief from the floor and perhaps getting more of the amendments prepared so we can know what we are doing.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That will be the order.

Mr. DOMENICI. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to lay on the table the amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts, amendment No. 2996.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber who desire to vote?

So the motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 2996) was agreed to.

Mr. DOLE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

RECESS

Mr. DOLE, Mr. President, so that we can give staff on each side time to sort of bring the amendments together in some order on each side so we will know precisely where we are—it makes it very difficult if we are not quite certain, and if we have not seen the amendment—I think we can save time by taking a brief recess now to give them that opportunity.

So I ask unanimous consent that we start in recess until the hour of 1:20 p.m. and that when we come back we resume voting immediately after reconvening with 7½-minute votes, the same as we have now.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 12:33 p.m., recessed until the hour of 1:20 p.m.: whereupon, the Senate reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer (Mr. GRAMM).

The Senate continued with the consideration of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I will just use a minute of my leader's time.

I am now advised that there are at least 40 amendments on the other side that will be offered, after we were at least hopeful yesterday and we agreed to have up-and-down amendments on tier 1. We will probably end up with maybe 25 tier 3 amendments. We have already disposed of a number. So it seems we are going to exceed almost up to 50 amendments in that category.

If you just took the votes themselves, you allowed 10 minutes, that is 400 minutes. That is 7 hours. I am not going to stick around here very long tonight. But I am very happy to come back early tomorrow morning. We will go along and see how many of these—we have 13 over here, so that is another couple hours. So if that is what we want to do, we will have plenty of time this weekend to do it. We are going to do it tomorrow, but we are not going to stay up half the night to accommodate somebody who has to be somewhere tomorrow.

Mr. EXON addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. Senator KENNEDY has an amendment that we would like to bring up at this time, so I yield him the 30 minutes to explain his amendment.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, the reconciliation bill raises the Medicare age for eligibility from 65 to 62.

Mr. KENNEDY. I just say, if we are going to be taken off our feet when the parliamentary situation is not clear, we will be staying around for a long time.

I am asking for fairness, for the 30 seconds we were entitled to, that I was told I am entitled to by the Budget Committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has used his 30 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, the Senate has prevailed.

Mr. KENNEDY addressed the Chair.

Mr. DOMENICI. He has prevailed.

Mr. KENNEDY. I just say, if we are going to send something to the President, it is not at the desk. The Senator does not have any time.

Mr. KENNEDY. I made the point of order. It was sustained.

I ask, in place of sending the amendment, that I be entitled to the same amount of time to speak on the point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has a time limit of 30 seconds on the amendment. And if the amendment is not at the desk, the Senator does not have any time.

Mr. KENNEDY. I made the point of order. It was sustained.

I ask, in place of sending the amendment, that I be entitled to the same amount of time to speak on the point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has used his 30 seconds.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator have an additional 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the Senator.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, the Social Security change enacted in 1983, it has significant differences. Individuals affected by the Social Security change had a minimum of 20 years to adjust their retirement plans, while individuals affected by this change have only 7 years. Social Security change continued to allow individuals to receive benefits at 62.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts must send his amendment to the Chair.

Mr. KENNEDY. I ask that the Budget Committee, where I submitted it—if I could have their attention, please.

As I understand, the point of order was sustained, so I wonder why I need to send something.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has a time limit of 30 seconds on the amendment. And if the amendment is not at the desk, the Senator does not have any time.

Mr. KENNEDY. I made the point of order. It was sustained.

I ask, in place of sending the amendment, that I be entitled to the same amount of time to speak on the point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has used his 30 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, the Senate has prevailed.

Mr. KENNEDY addressed the Chair.

Mr. DOMENICI. He has prevailed.

Mr. KENNEDY. I just say, if we are going to be taken off our feet when the parliamentary situation is not clear, we will be staying around for a long time.

I am asking for fairness, for the 30 seconds we were entitled to, that I was told I am entitled to by the Budget Committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has used his 30 seconds.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator have an additional 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the Senator.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, the Social Security change continued to allow individuals to receive benefits at age 62, the age of early retirement, and age 65, the normal retirement age although at reduced levels.

Under this proposal, no Medicare benefits at all will be provided until the individual is 67. The provision breaks faith with American workers who paid into the Medicare system in the expectation they will be provided health security at the age of 65 and will leave millions of senior citizens without health insurance coverage.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I hope—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. I hope for purposes of management that Senators on our side would leave it up to one of us, either the leader or I, in terms of asking that people be recognized or granted time. I understand the Senator, but I hope in the future the Senator will leave that up to us. He has prevailed. We do not have the intention of stopping him. So I think that is over and we yield back any time we might have had on the point of order. It has already been granted.

The next amendment, I understand, is on our record by Senator COCHRAN.

AMENDMENT NO. 3004

(Purpose: To require the Secretary of Agriculture to establish a special marketing order to equalize returns on all milk used to produce class IV final products, to consent to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, and to require the Secretary to carry out an agricultural competitiveness initiative)

Mr. COCHRAN addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk. The assistant legislative clerk read the following into today's Record under "Amendments Submitted."

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, this amendment helps farmers and markets adjust to the changes in Federal dairy policy in this bill. It does so by creating an export class for dairy products and establishing a farmer-financed mechanism to boost exports. It saves money and provides for research to make our products more competitive.

It will also grant the consent of Congress to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which is supported by all the Governors and legislatures in New England.

I urge Senators to support the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator’s 30 seconds has expired.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I join my colleagues Senator COCHRAN, Senator LEAHY, Senator GORTON, Senator COHEN, and Senator SNOWE in supporting the creation of an export class for dairy products, and granting the consent of Congress to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact. This amendment is vital to the future of the New England dairy industry and the national dairy industry as a whole.

Mr. President, the Senate reconciliation bill cuts the cost of the dairy program by 49 percent over the next 7 years. This comes on top of a reduction of 89 percent in the last decade. While the dairy industry is willing to accept some cuts, they are already under pressure to cut, the industry has already pulled its load. As it stands, this bill does not address the critical need to increase sales of butter and nonfat dry milk in the world market.

As the support price for butter and nonfat dry milk is eliminated, their prices will fall and cause a glut of those products. This surplus will either be cleared on the world market at a very reduced price, or be converted into cheese. In either case, this will cause a substantial reduction in the return to dairy farmers and manufacturers of these products. This amendment will expand U.S. dairy markets by providing a way for all producers to share the cost of moving those products to the export market. The compact will help to bolster U.S. dairy products through the class IV export program by $230 million. This amendment will help farmers and taxpayers—by ensuring dairy products will be exported instead of being purchased by the Government.

This amendment will also grant consent to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, an agreement among the six New England States to create a commission that will have the authority to oversee the pricing for fluid milk produced in the New England region. The compact will not affect milk prices outside the compact region. In fact, it will act as a useful pilot project for other regions, and is strongly supported by many groups and individuals across the country.

Mr. President, the New England States have joined together to do what many States do already on their own. If America had grown from west to east, I would not be standing here because New England would likely be one large State and would not have to ask for consent of Congress.

All six States’ Governors, Republican and Democratic, and their legislatures strongly support this amendment. On vote after vote this year we have acted to give more responsibility back to the States. Here is an opportunity for the Senate to do just that—in precisely the manner the Founders laid out in the Constitution.

Mr. President, the National Milk Producers Federation strongly supports this amendment as well as Mid-America, AMPI, Darigold, Milk Marketing Inc., and many other farmer cooperatives and dairy farmers from throughout the country. Supporting it is an opportunity to vote for State’s rights, and to vote for dairy farmers and to vote for our taxpayers. I urge my colleagues to support our amendment.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I join my colleagues, Senator JEFFORDS, Senator COHEN, Senator SNOWE, and Senator LEAHY, as a cosponsor of this amendment.

Mr. President, the Senate Agriculture Committee has eliminated dairy price support purchases for butter and nonfat dry milk, and retains such purchases for cheese. The dairy farmers in my State support this provision, but only if a farmer funded class IV export program is established. The Agriculture Committee failed to add this provision of the price support program for butter and nonfat dry milk to the world market. Our amendment addresses this issue and according to CBO will save an additional $233 million in the next 7 years. These savings are in addition to $1 billion, the Government will save during the same 7 years by the elimination of dairy support for butter and nonfat dry milk.

This farm-funded class IV export program has the support of many, including: Darigold—80 percent of all Washington State producers, National Milk Producers Federation, Mid-America Dairymen. Milk Marketing Inc., AMPI, American Farm Bureau, Kansas Dairy Producers Association, NE Council of Farmer Cooperatives, Michigan Milk Producers Association, Florida Dairy Farmers Association, Dairylyfe Cooperatives, United Dairymen Association, Western Dairy Cooperative, a legion of other farmer cooperatives and dairy farmers across the country.

In closing, Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this amendment.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I am pleased to be a co-sponsor of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Vermont, and I rise in strong support of the amendment.

Family dairy farms are facing hard times across the country, and this amendment is designed to assist these farmers while protecting the interests of the taxpayers and consumers.

This amendment does two things. First, it creates a class IV pool for nonfat dry milk and butter. This pool will help to offset the financial impact on farmers of the reconciliation of the class IV proposal. It is a logical back-up program for these two products. The new pool would be GATT-legal, allowing a greater volume of U.S. butter and nonfat dry milk to be exported than would be the case if we do not create the new pool. In short, the class IV pool will help farmers maintain their incomes without increasing Federal expenditures.

Mr. President, the second provision of the amendment provides the consent of the Congress to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact. Like the class IV proposal, the compact is designed to help family dairy farmers survive in a very difficult market environment. But unlike the class IV proposal, the compact does not involve the Federal Government. It represents a regional solution to the regional problem, and the Federal Government need only give its assent and then step out of the way.

Today, New England is practically bleeding dairy farms. In Maine, for instance, we have lost more than 200 farms since 1988, and this number would have been far higher if Maine had not instituted a dairy vendor’s fee to help stabilize farm income. Unfortunately, that vendor’s fee has been invalidated by a Federal court, and farmers are exceedingly vulnerable once again.

The decline in New England’s dairy farms can be attributed to low and volatile dairy prices under the Federal new program. The Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact option does not reflect the costs of production in the region. Because New England farmers sell much of their milk in the fluid milk market, they face substantially higher costs to get their milk to the plant, and they do not have access to subsidized electricity like farmers in some other parts of the country. Consequently, New England’s dairy farmers receive some of the lowest mailbox prices of any dairy farmers in the country.

In response to this farm crisis, the six New England States negotiated an interstate compact in 1993 that allows them to add, if they choose, an additional producer milk price to milk that is sold to external processors. With very few exceptions, it affects only the consumers, farmers, and dairy processors of New England. The compact applies only to fluid, or class I, milk, and 97 percent of the fluid milk consumed in New England is processed by New England-based processors.

Approximately 75 percent of the milk processed by these processors comes from New England farmers. The remaining 25 percent of New York farmers would receive the same prices for their milk under the compact as farmers in New England.

As the compact only affects the participating States, the sponsors of the amendment have included explicit assurances to remove any doubt. These assurances further clarify that the compact only applies to class I fluid milk, that no new States can join the compact without the formal approval of both Houses of Congress, that out-of-region farmers who sell milk in the compact region will get the same price as New England farmers, and that the compact commission will take active measures to prevent increases in production.

Mr. President, the Jeffords amendment was not concocted in a protectionist, pro-States’ rights. It will help to ensure that good farmers have a reasonable chance to stay in business, but at less cost to the Federal Government. I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President. I rise in strong opposition to the amendment offered by Senator COCHRAN to grant the consent of Congress to the North-East Interstate Dairy Compact and to create a class IV pricing system for milk used to make butter or powder.

Both of those amendments would take dairy policy in the opposite direction in which congressional reformers are attempting to take all agricultural policy—this amendment provides more market intervention, more regulation, and more inequity.

It is unfortunate that the major changes that this amendment makes and the enormous precedent that it sets will not be fully debated by this Chamber, but I understand that few Members of this Chamber will have an opportunity to actually learn and understand just what it is they are voting on. I am also certain that this amendment will be approved.

This amendment is the Jeffords amendment is profarmer, protaxpayer, and proprice control. It would allow one region of the country to increase and expand exports. I have 30,000 dairy farmers in Wisconsin that want to expand exports and are planning to do so. But Wisconsin dairy producers oppose this proposal.

Why? Because it forces them to pay a tax to support producers on the west coast. In fact, producers throughout the country will likely pay a minimum of 15 cents per hundredweight to help producers on the west coast continue to overproduce milk powder which will no longer be supported by the Federal Government which is no longer deemed necessary. I would urge my colleagues to look with a skeptical eye on projections that this amendment will greatly enhance producer revenues to compensate for a producer tax that all producers will pay. If such projections were realistic, the thousands of milk producers in the upper Midwest—the heart of this Nation’s dairy country—would be embarrassed by the domestic market.

Mr. President, this amendment provides help to producers in eight States—the six Northeastern States that will benefit from the Compact. Wisconsin and two west coast States that will benefit from the class IV system. All other producers in between are the big losers.
I urge my colleagues to oppose this amendment. It creates more regulation, more market distortions and discriminates against all but a few producers in the country. Mr. President, this is bad policy.

Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, it is difficult for me to oppose my friends from the Northeast in their efforts to help their region. But it is on behalf of the dairy farmers of my State that I feel that I must. Not only because I believe his compact will have a negative effect on the dairy farmers of regions outside the northeast, but also because I believe it to be an inappropriate method of addressing the problems of the dairy industry, which are national in nature.

This measure is a regional compact. It is an effort by six Northeastern States to require artificially increased milk prices for the farmers in those States exclusively. It is at its heart anticompetitive, and I believe that it is market distorting.

The expenses of this measure claim that the Northeast is an island unto itself, and that this compact will not affect any other region. I believe that statement ignores the complexities of dairy markets, which are national in nature.

To predict the exact effects of the compact on other regions is nearly impossible. But to assume that will be no loss to us is a mistake. We are a part of the history of agricultural policy.

My region of the country, the upper Midwest, has learned this lesson all too well. We, in this region, have seen our dairy industry become the victim of unforeseen market distortions caused by the milk marketing order system. This system, which was instituted in the 1930's requires that higher minimum prices for milk farther are they from Wisconsin. Since the upper Midwest was the traditional hub of dairy production, the purpose of this regional discrimination was to help those dairy farmers in Wisconsin than in the upper Midwest develop, so that every region could have a locally produced supply of fluid milk.

But that goal has been largely accomplished, and the policy that was intended to give other regions an artificial advantage is a mistake. This debate is not only about the upper Midwest. It is now contributing to the decline of dairy farming in the upper Midwest.

But that is not the case. It is not only about dairy policy. This debate is about the future direction of all agricultural policies.

I and many of my colleagues from farm States have been willing to promote farm programs that we believe will provide a safety net to farm prices, to help provide some security for the farmers in this Nation. But the Northeast Dairy Compact goes beyond anything ever done in a farm bill. And it goes far beyond any other regional compact presented to this Congress.

It is the product of one region's frustration with national policies, and an effort by that region to remove themselves from that national system and establish a regional dairy policy.

So why is this compact before the Senate? The answer is that the Northeast needs Congress' approval in order to interfere with interstate commerce.

The commerce clause of the U.S. Constitution makes it clear that States cannot interfere with interstate commerce. Court case after court case has turned down efforts by individual States to do so. Most recently, in the 1994 West Lynn Creamery, Inc versus Healy decision, the Supreme Court turned down a Massachusetts milk pricing policy that would have artificially increased the price of milk sold in Massachusetts in order to bolster the dairy farmers of that State alone.

The Supreme Court turned down that effort as being a clear violation of the commerce clause of the Constitution. At that time, even the State of Vermont argued in opposition to the Massachusetts effort, claiming that it was "economic discrimination burdening interstate commerce by interfering with competition."

But now all six Northeastern States have banded together to do something very similar to what Massachusetts tried to do on its own, and that is to artificially increase milk prices in that region for the benefit of the farmers in that region, and to protect their higher milk prices by placing a protective tariff on all milk coming into the region for outside.

Clearly this too would be considered a violation of the commerce clause if subject to the scrutiny of the courts.

However understanding the threat that this constitutionality question poses to their efforts, the Northeast have been very clever in getting around the constitutional problems. This authority has been used many times, without controversy, by States that seek to address multistate environmental or transportation concerns. But it has never been used to allow States to engage in price-fixing activities. And it has never been used as a way to circumvent the commerce clause of the Constitution.

Make no mistake about it. This compact is unprecedented in the history of the Nation. While the context of this compact may be milk pricing, its ramifications are far more significant. Congressional approval of this compact is an invitation for all sorts of economic balkanization.

Our forefathers had the foresight to see the dangers of allowing States and regions to erect economic barriers against other States in the Union. They asked the question "What are we, as a nation, if we do not have a unified economy?"

Last year, when the Northeast Dairy Compact was considered in the Senate Judiciary Committee, many of my colleagues raised constitutional concerns with the compact.

Senator HATCH commented on this matter. He stated:

I am afraid that this is the kind of precedent-setting compact that will lead other States to seek the same type of protection, to the economic detriment of all their bordering States. More importantly, I would expect that other industries will line up seeking compacts as a means of protecting their particular States' interests, and we just can't do that.

On the same matter, Senator THURMOND stated:

I believe that Congressional approval of this compact would set a bad precedent. Approval would encourage other regions of our country to form compacts to assist regional producers in a variety of industries at the expense of those outside the region. A breaking up of our nation into regional cartels and economic infighting would be very harmful and should be opposed.

At that same mark up in the Judiciary Committee last year, Senator GRASSLEY stated:

Historically, these compacts have dealt with order issues, environmental cooperation, and other subjects limited to the member States not having an impact on the rest of the country. Not just those of one region.

I tend to agree with Senator GRASSLEY that this compact is probably constitutional... But what it is constitutional is not necessarily wise.

Mr. President, the Senate Agriculture Committee has already started the debate on the reauthorization of national farm programs through the 1995 farm bill. It is my sincere hope that as we begin that debate, we can craft dairy policy changes that are beneficial to all the dairy farmers of this country, not just those of one region.

I too want to help the farmers of this Nation. But I firmly believe that the Northeast Dairy Compact is the wrong approach for our nation's dairy farmers.

Another provision of this amendment authorizes a class IV price for milk. The rationale for this provision is that since the Senate Agriculture Committee eliminated the price support for milk, powder and butter, the prices for those products will fall to world prices.

However, the problem is that the class IV price would merely create a tax on the farmers nationwide by being transferred to the farmers in those few States that have excess milk production. But that excess milk into butter and powder. In short, this imposes a butter/powder tax on the dairy farmers of those States, to be transferred to the dairy farmers of those States producing those products.
I urge my colleagues to join me in strong opposition to this compact and the class IV pricing provisions.

Mr. EXON addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. I raise a point of order against the amendment offered by the Senator as not being germane.

Mr. STEVENS. Will the Senator use his microphone. We cannot hear him.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I raise a point of order against the amendment offered by the Senator on the basis it is not germane.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to waive the Budget Act and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a second?

There is a sufficient second. The yeas and nays are ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber who desire to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 65, nays 34, as follows:

[Roilcall Vote No. 528 Leg.]

Title XIII: Credit for Adoption Expenses

To provide a $5,000 tax credit for the adoption of a child

Mr. STEVENS. Will the Senator use his microphone? We cannot hear him.

Mr. STEVENS. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LASAROW. Objection.

Mr. LASAROW. Parliamentary inquiry; could we have a reading of the amendment?

Mr. BALLENGER. Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to lay on the table the motion to lay on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, it is our turn to offer an amendment. I yield to the Senator from New Jersey 30 seconds for the purpose of explaining and introducing his motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion is agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I send a motion to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the motion.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Jersey [Mr. LAUTENBERG] moves to commit S. 1357 to the Committee on Finance with instructions to report the bill back to the Senate within 3 days and in the instructions to limit any individual income tax break provided in the bill to those with incomes under $1 million and to apply any resulting savings to reduce proposed cuts in Medicare and Medicaid.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, this is a fairly simple motion. It is to recommit, to cut the tax breaks for those who make over a million dollars a year, and to have the savings that occur apply to reduce the cuts that are contemplated in Medicare and Medicaid. I hope that we can finally reach a point at which we say across the board here that at some point we are not going to give tax breaks to those with the enormous incomes. We are talking about a million dollars a year on this.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

AMENDMENT NO. 3005 TO THE LAUTENBERG motion to commit

Pursuant: To provide a $5,000 tax credit for the adoption of a child

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Idaho [Mr. CRAIG] proposes an amendment numbered 3006 to the Lautenberg motion to commit.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

In lieu of the amendment offered by Mr. LAUTENBERG, insert the following with instructions to report the following amendment:

At the end of the bill, add the following title:

TITLE XIII—CREDIT FOR ADOPTION EXPENSES

(a) IN GENERAL. Subpart A of part IV of chapter A of chapter 1 (relating to non-refundable personal credits). as amended by section 137, is amended by inserting after section 24 the following new section:

"SEC. 24. ADOP11ON EXPENSES."

"(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by this subtitle for the taxable year the amount of the qualified adoption expenses paid or incurred by the taxpayer during such taxable year.

"(b) LIMITATIONS.—

"(1) DOLLAR LIMITATION.—The aggregate amount of qualified adoption expenses which shall be taken into account under subsection (a) with respect to the adoption of a child shall not exceed $5,000.

"(2) INCOME LIMITATION.—The amount allowable as a credit under subsection (a) for any taxable year shall be reduced (but not below zero) by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount so allowable as determined without regard to this paragraph but with regard to paragraph (1) as—

"(C) QUALIFIED ADOPTION EXPENSES.—For purposes of this section, the term 'qualified adoption expenses' has the meaning given such term by section 24(d).

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) The table of sections for subpart A of part IV of chapter A of chapter 1, as amended by section 138, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 23 the following new item:

"Sec. 24. Adoption expenses."

(2) The table of sections for part III of subchapter B of chapter 1 is amended by striking the item relating to section 137 and inserting the following:

"Sec. 137. Adoption assistance programs."

(3) Cross references to other Acts are amended as necessary.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment shall be effective on January 2, 1995.

AMENDMENT NO. 3006 TO AMENDMENT NO. 3005

(Purpose: To provide a $5,000 tax credit for the adoption of a child.)

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I send a second-degree amendment to the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Kansas [Mr. DOLE] proposes an amendment numbered 3006 to amendment No. 3005.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, this is a very important, yet understandable amendment. It changes the adoption tax credit of $5,000, and we are offering this in this reconciliation package to an effective date of January, and I believe the second-degree moves it to February, 1995.

Mr. KENNEDY. Parliamentary inquiry; could we have a reading of the second-degree amendment? Was it waived?

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Gorton). The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to read the amendment.

Mr. CRAIG. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

Mr. KENNEDY. Objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I believe under the agreement we have 30 seconds to respond to this amendment. For that purpose—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will continue to read the amendment.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

At the end of the bill, add the following title:

TITLE XIII: CREDIT FOR ADOPTION EXPENSES

(a) IN GENERAL. Subpart A of part IV of chapter A of chapter 1 (relating to non-refundable personal credits), as amended by section 12001, is amended by inserting after section 23 the following new section:

(Purpose: To provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 303 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 1996)

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I send up originally, and I am asking exactly the same as the amendment that Mr. DOMENICI proposes an amendment numbered 3005.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I am given the floor for a moment——

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield part of my time.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my motion to commit the PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the motion is withdrawn.

The motion was withdrawn.

Mr. DOMENICI. I think Senator NICKLES is ready for an amendment on our side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES, for himself. Mr. DOLE, Mr. ROTh. Ms.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question occurs on amendment No. 3005.

The majority leader.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry. Could you get a little order?

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Can we have order in the Senate please. Mr. President?

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President. is it appropriate to withdraw the amendment at this time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate is not in order. Members cannot hear.

Mr. DOLE. We withdraw the amendment.

The amendment (No. 3005) was withdrawn.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico has the floor.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I am trying to find out what they desire to do at this point.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, if I am given the floor for a moment——

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield part of my time.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my motion to commit the PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the motion is withdrawn.

The motion was withdrawn.

Mr. DOMENICI. I think Senator NICKLES is ready for an amendment on our side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES, for himself. Mr. DOLE, Mr. ROTh. Ms.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oklahoma (Mr. NICKLES), for himself. Mr. DOLE, Mr. ROTh. Ms.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 1336, beginning with line 5, strike all through page 1336, line 17.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, this amendment I send to the desk on behalf of myself, Senator DOLE. Senator ROTH. Senator SNOWE, and Mr. CHAFEe. proposes an amendment numbered 3008.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, the question was asked: Is this a 10-percent tax? My colleague from New Jersey raised this as well. Originally, this was a 10-percent tax. I think the committee made adjustments and made it 6.6 percent. I happen to agree with him that even at 6.6 percent, the tax is too high. Also, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent Senator CHAFFEE be added as a cosponsor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. We are eliminating the 6.6-percent tax.

Mr. DOMENICI. We do not need a vote.

Mr. EXON. It would appear to me, with the 30 seconds that I have on this side of the aisle, that as of now this Senator has not been advised that there is any opposition to this matter on this side.

Evidently, we have found this was given to us in a different order.

Does anyone wish to oppose?

Mr. BRADLEY. As I understand it, the amendment opposed by Senator NICKLES is the exact content of the amendment that I was going to offer.

So I have no opposition.

Mr. EXON. Hearing no objection on this side, I yield back the remainder of my time and suggest possibly this could be voice voted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of Senator from Oklahoma.

The amendment (No. 3008) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, there is any opposition to this matter.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 341, strike line 10, and all that follows through page 342, line 8.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, this amendment is to strike the 40 percent reduction in direct medical education payments in the reconciliation bill and restore $9.9 billion to teaching hospitals in the years 1996 to 2002. This reconciliation bill seriously threatens the future of medical research.

Mr. NICKLES. We are eliminating the 6.6-percent tax.

Mr. DORGAN. There is a sufficient second, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 3009) was agreed to.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further proceedings under the quorum call be dispensed with.

AMENDMENTS NOS. 3010 THROUGH 3014, EN BLOC

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, I am going to send to the desk, with the full concurrence of the ranking member and no objection that I am aware of, six amendments en bloc. Let me just list them: a Dole-Kohl-Grassley amendment, which is a test for truckers; that is a self-selected test; we had a little while ago that was withdrawn—it has been cleared on both sides—a Senator D’AMATO sense of the Senate.

Mr. BYRD. That amendment has not been cleared on both sides. I have just been talking with Mrs. HUTCHISON.

Mr. DOMENICI. We withdraw it. I say to Senator HUTCHISON, that has not been cleared on their side.

Senator D’AMATO has an amendment cleared on both sides, a sense of the Senate; Senator GRASSLEY has one with reference to an advisory task force: Senator BOXER has one on no pay—what do you call it? I say to the Senator.

Mrs. BOXER. No pay. We already passed it.

Mr. DOMENICI. We already passed it. Senator Grahams amendment to ensure Medicare beneficiaries have urgent Medicare treatment. We have no objection to it.

I send all five to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. DOMENICI. I ask them to be reported on en bloc and accepted on en bloc.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 530 Leg.]
The restoration of this deduction is essential to the livelihood of the food service, travel and tourism, and entertainment industries throughout the United States. These industries and the workers they employ are being economically harmed as a result of this reduction. All are major industries employing millions of people, many of whom are already feeling the effects of the reduction.

Contrary to what many might believe, most individuals who purchase business meals are small business persons: 70 percent have incomes below $50,000. 39 percent have incomes below $35,000, and 25 percent are self-employed. Moreover, 78 percent of business lunches and 50 percent of business dinners are purchased in low to moderately priced restaurants. The average amount spent on a business meal, per person, is about $9.39 for lunch and $19.58 for dinner. The business meal deduction is the last critical element of the business tax code.

Again, I commend Senator Kohl for his efforts to restore the business meals deduction to 80 percent for workers on DOT service hours. I urge my colleagues to also support my bill, S. 216, which would restore the business meals deduction to 80 percent for all industries.

Mr. President, the amendment that I am offering with Senator Dole will restore the business meal deduction to 80 percent for all individuals subject to Federal limitations on hours of service, including truckers, long-haul bus drivers, and others subject to the hours of service limitations of the Department of Transportation. Paragraph (i) shall be applied by substituting '89 percent for 90 percent'

In order to facilitate sound national banking policy and assist in the conversion of thrift charters to bank charters, I urge my colleagues to also support my bill, S. 216, which would restore the business meals deduction to 80 percent for all industries.

In order to facilitate sound national banking policy and assist in the conversion of thrift charters to bank charters, I urge my colleagues to also support my bill, S. 216, which would restore the business meals deduction to 80 percent for all industries.

Mr. D'Amato. Mr. President, this sense-of-the-Senate resolution would express the will of the Senate that Congress should eliminate this significant disincentive in the current law which prevents thrift institutions from changing their charters. It also prevents thrifts from diversifying into new and profitable opportunities. Given developments in financial institutions and the debate in Congress over the future of the thrift industry, it is desirable for Congress to seriously examine this aspect of the tax law that applies only to thrifts.

Mr. AMENDMENT NO. 3013

(Purpose: To provide that Members of Congress and the President shall not be paid during Federal Government shutdowns.

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section:

SEC. 3. PAY OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS AND THE PRESIDENT DURING GOVERNMENT SHUTDOWNS.

(a) In General.—Members of Congress and the President shall not receive basic pay for any period in which—

(1) there is more than a 24-hour lapse in appropriations for any Federal agency or department or if the regular appropriations bill or continuing resolution; or

(2) the Federal Government is unable to make payments or meet obligations because the public debt limit under section 3101 of title 31, United States Code has been reached.

(b) RETROACTIVE PAY PROHIBITED.—No pay forfeited in accordance with subsection (a) may be paid retroactively.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

"(1) ACCESS TO PROCESS.—A medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide access 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to such persons as may be authorized to make any prior authorizations required by the plan sponsor for coverage of items and services (other than emergenc

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President. I think we sort of set a pattern here. If the Senators could look at the remaining amendments—I say this to both sides, we are not in a truly inclusive process that the Senators could look at theirs, maybe they could package them with reference to subject matter. If the Senators package them with reference to subject matter, then we might get five amendments the whole process and on the subject. We think we know how they are going to turn out, but that is not terribly relevant. We could offer them en bloc.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I hope that we will be careful that we do not try to streamline this silly process further. Now we are really flying dumb, dumb, and blind. So I hope we will look at these so-called packages with four or five amendments. I want to see them. I am not going to set myself up as an authority from Connecticut.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut has a motion at the desk which I offer to.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, whose turn is it?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I have a motion at the desk which I offer on behalf of myself, and Senators DASCHELLE, HARKIN, GRAHAM, ROCKE, BREAUX, and KENNEDY, who are members of a Medicare working group.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. I thank the Chair and I thank my friend from Nebraska.

LIEBERMAN MOTION TO COMMIT

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, have a motion at the desk which I offer on behalf of myself, and Senators DASCHELLE, HARKIN, GRAHAM, ROCKE, BREAUX, and KENNEDY, who are members of a Medicare working group.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Connecticut [Mr. LIEBERMAN], moves to commit the bill to the Committee on Finance with instructions to report the bill back to the Senate within 3 days, not to include any day the Senate is in session, report the following amendment, and to make sufficient reductions in the tax cuts to maintain deficit neutrality.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. I thank the Chair.

The purpose of this amendment is to restore the solvency of the Medicare Part A trust fund for the next 10 years and then to go on, beyond dealing with that immediate, obvious deficit looming, to reform the Medicare Program and provide real choices to Medicare beneficiaries by increasing the range of health plan options, by increasing information so that beneficiaries can act as informed consumers, and to require planning and action for the changes that will come with the retirement, the coming retirement, of the baby-boom generation.

This is a constructive Medicare alternative.

Mr. President, what we have here is a missed opportunity. Democrats and Republicans agree generally that there are some problems with the Medicare Program that we must address:

Problem No. 1. Our Republican colleagues argue that the Medicare Program must be saved from bankruptcy in the Part A trust fund. Democrats agree that we must act to restore the solvency of the Part A trust fund. The Health Care Financing Administration's Actuary tells us that it will take $89 billion in spending reductions to assure solvency through the next 10 years—through 2006. Democrats have put forward a strong proposal that would do this in a fair manner. It has been scored by CBO and achieves solvency for at least the next 10 years.

Problem No. 2. The rate of increase in the cost of the Medicare Program is unsustainable at 10 percent each and every year. We will agree that this problem must be dealt with. Democrats and Republicans have both put forward proposals that begin to bring competitive market forces into the Medicare Program. I would argue that the Democratic proposal is much stronger in this regard. We would strongly move the Medicare Program toward competitive bidding among the private health plans participating in Medicare. We would also increase rates of interest that private health plans to private sector market price, rather than to arbitrary budget targets. Ultimately, I am convinced that competition among an expanded range of private health plans serving Medicare patients will be the key to reducing long term rates of growth in the Medicare Program.

We recognize that the Medicare Program is 30 years old and is showing signs of its age. We have proposed changes that would bring the program into the rapidly changing health care system of the 1990's and the next century.

Problem No. 3. The most difficult problem looming on the horizon. Mr. President, is the coming retirement of the baby boom generation—a relatively large group of Americans we begin with 78 million baby boomers will begin to turn 65 starting in 2000. There are some millions in the baby boom generation. They outnumber by 50 percent the generation that preceded them into retirement.

This is a constructive Medicare alternative.

Mr. President, what we have here is a missed opportunity. Democrats and Republicans agree generally that there are some problems with the Medicare Program that we must address:

The Health Care Financing Administration's Actuary tells us that it will take $89 billion in spending reductions to assure solvency through the next 10 years—through 2006. Democrats have put forward a strong proposal that would do this in a fair manner. It has been scored by CBO and achieves solvency for at least the next 10 years.

Problem No. 2. The rate of increase in the cost of the Medicare Program is unsustainable at 10 percent each and every year. We will agree that this problem must be dealt with. Democrats and Republicans have both put forward proposals that begin to bring competitive market forces into the Medicare Program. I would argue that the Democratic proposal is much stronger in this regard. We would strongly move the Medicare Program toward competitive bidding among the private health plans participating in Medicare. We would also increase rates of interest that private health plans to private sector market price, rather than to arbitrary budget targets. Ultimately, I am convinced that competition among an expanded range of private health plans serving Medicare patients will be the key to reducing long term rates of growth in the Medicare Program.

We recognize that the Medicare Program is 30 years old and is showing signs of its age. We have proposed changes that would bring the program into the rapidly changing health care system of the 1990's and the next century.

Problem No. 3. The most difficult problem looming on the horizon. Mr. President, is the coming retirement of the baby boom generation—a relatively large group of Americans we begin with 78 million baby boomers will begin to turn 65 starting in 2000. There are some millions in the baby boom generation. They outnumber by 50 percent the generation that preceded them into retirement.
the combination of, one, a declining base of workers and, two, longer life-spans will double the combined costs of Medicare and Medicaid even if medical inflation decreases, above CPI is eliminated altogether.

If Medicare is not prepared for the implications of this demographic shift, it may not be able to weather the storm. Republicans and Democrats have both put forward Medicare reform plans that would set up a high level, bipartisan commission to make the tough recommendations that are needed to prepare for this historical shift. The differences between the parties, nevertheless, remain stark. The bill that is on the Senate floor today would cut $280 billion out of the Medicare Program over the next 7 years. The problem, Mr. President, is that this figure is based solely on a series of budget targets that lead to a balanced budget and reductions in taxes of $254 billion over the next 7 years.

The largest cuts before us is too long on squeezing beneficiaries and too short on genuine reform. It treats Medicare as a cash cow to be milked to keep promises of deficit and tax reduction made in the campaigns of 1994. The figure of $280 billion in Medicare cuts is not good for the Medicare Program and the population it serves—those who depend on it today and those who will depend on it in future generations.

In the end, Mr. President, I am convinced that we can find a solution to all of these problems. What we have on the Senate floor today, however, is not the solution. It maintains all of the problems of the existing Medicare Program and underfunds them. It is a package of cuts, not reforms. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that the Democratic Medicare plan printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material ordered to be printed in the RECORD as follows:

A Democatic Medicare Plan for the 21st Century

Since Democrats created Medicare thirty years ago over GOP opposition, protecting this program has been a top Democratic priority. Today, as Republicans propose the largest cuts in Medicare's history—cuts made in the name of "saving" Medicare—Democrats once again are coming to Medicare's defense.

Our proposal: To ensure that Medicare remains solid and strong by implementing reforms that strengthen and improve the program.

Our position: That the GOP Medicare plan cuts Medicare three times more than it is necessary to restore Trust Fund solvency—and raids Medicare to pay for their scheme of tax cuts, would be the wrong way to go.

Rejecting the Republican plan is not enough. Democrats will offer a proposal with three key elements:

Preserves seniors' right to keep their own doctor while giving them more choices of private health plans that provide high-quality and comprehensive benefits:

Improves Medicare's traditional fee-for-service program by making it more efficient and affordable without imposing unnecessary and unfair increases in out-of-pocket Medicare expenses;

Tackles Medicare waste, fraud and abuse through programs applauded by law enforcement officials; and Guards the solvency of the Medicare Trust Fund through the year 2006 and prepares for the long-run challenge of the baby boom generation that will begin to retire in 2010.

The GOP plan would have to cut $270 billion in order to save Medicare. That's just not true. According to the Health Care Financing Administration's projections, the estimates relied upon by the Medicare trustees—only $89 billion in cost reductions are needed to extend the life of the trust fund through the fourth quarter of the calendar year 2006.

In this proposal, we show that we can preserve and protect Medicare without slashing needed services for the elderly or increasing their out-of-pocket costs. Our plan places no new burdens on seniors—and our hospital cuts are half the Republicans'.

SUMMARY OF DEMOCRATIC PROPOSAL TO ENSURE SOLVENCY

I. Providing real choices

Medicare beneficiaries currently may choose from only two options—the traditional fee-for-service program and health maintenance organizations. In 1994, there were 17 HMOs, seniors in many states have no choice at all. This plan would ensure beneficiaries access to a wider variety of health plans. Specific reforms include the following:

Expand private health plan choices: Medicare's current system of fee-for-service plans allow the participation of preferred provider organizations, point-of-service plans, and provider sponsored networks. Plans would be required to meet the benchmark standard for each disease or condition and provide the benchmark level of benefit to seniors.

Preserve a vital and affordable fee-for-service option: The GOP's $270 billion in cuts will spell disaster for hospitals and other health care providers all across the country, particularly in rural and underserved areas. The Democratic plan protects and improves fee-for-service Medicare—so seniors will continue to have a real choice. It keeps premiums affordable, saving seniors hundreds of dollars a year.

Reform payments to private health plans: Medicare's fee-for-service and other health plans a rate which would indicate the cost of other private health plans, unlike the GOP plan which arbitrarily caps payments and reduces Medicare spending. The Democratic plan would allow the participation of preferred provider organizations, point-of-service plans, and provider sponsored networks. Plans would be required to meet the benchmark standard for each disease or condition and provide the benchmark level of benefit to seniors.

The Democratic plan would also require Medicare to test and recommend options to Congress on ways to pay private health plans through a market-based competitive bidding process.

Provide information on health plan options: Medicare would provide all beneficiaries information comparing plans available in their region. The comparative plan information would be presented in a standardized format, in language that is easily understood. Such information would be provided to beneficiaries before they become eligible for Medicare and yearly after that during an open enrollment period.

II. Strengthening Consumer Quality Protections

Strengthen Consumer Quality Protections: Medicare, and other health plans, would be required to meet plan quality standards to prevent improper marketing and inappropriate incentives for utilization reviewed by the Actuarial Commission to the full range of Medicare covered services, including emergency and urgent care.

III. Attacking waste, fraud, and abuse

The General Accounting Office and others have estimated that up to 10 percent of Medicare spending goes to fraud, waste, and abuse. Millions of dollars in Medicare payments are lost every year to fraud, waste, and abuse. These losses must be the first target of any responsible Medicare program. The Democratic plan would take the most aggressive and comprehensive steps ever proposed to stamp out Medicare waste, fraud and abuse.

Specific measures include the following:

Expand abuse-fighting activities: Much abuse goes undetected and unpunished because there are not enough inspectors, auditors and prosecutors to do the job. Estimates indicate that every dollar invested in anti-fraud activities by Federal, State, and local governments can prevent $5 to $10 in Medicare expenditures. The Democratic plan will increase funding to Federal, State, and local law enforcement efforts to combat health care fraud.

Strengthen penalties for committing fraud: The Democratic plan would impose stiffer penalties on those convicted of health care fraud: illegally distributing controlled substances, providing kickbacks, charging excessive rates, over-billing, billing for non-existent services, submitting false claims, or engaging in other abusive activities. This plan also strengthens available criminal remedies.

End wasteful Medicare spending for critical items and services: For example, Medicare...

AMENDMENT NO. 3015

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I understand now that if I send the Hutchison amendment to the desk, the Senate does not have to vote on it. But with this withdrawal, the Senator BYRD objected, and he now has no objection. I send it to the desk for immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI], for Mrs. HUTCHISON, for herself. Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. LEVIN, Mr. COOPER, Ms. SPECTER, Mr. KERRY, Mr. THURMOND, and Mr. THOMAS, proposes an amendment numbered 3015.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(a) The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Human rights violations and atrocities continue unabated in the former Yugoslavia.

(2) The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights recently testified that war crimes are occurring in war-torn areas in the former Yugoslavia.

(3) The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees recently reported that between October 6 and October 12, 1995 thousands of Bosnian Muslims and Croats in Northwest Bosnia were systematically forced from their homes by paramilitary units. Local police and in some instances, Bosnian Serb military officials and soldiers.

(4) Horrible examples of "ethnic cleansing" persist in Northwest Bosnia. Some six thousand Muslim refugees recently reached Zenica and reported that nearly two thousand family members from this group are still unaccounted for.

(5) The U.N. spokesman in Zagreb reported that many refugees have been given only a few minutes to leave their homes and that "girls as young as 17 are reported to have been driven to remote areas and forced to walk long distances on unsafe roads and cross rivers without bridges.

(6) The War Crime Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia has collected volumes of evidence of atrocities, including the establishment of death camps, mass executions and systematic campaigns of rape and terror.

(7) The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights has described the eye witness accounts as "prima facie evidence of war crimes which, if confirmed, could very well lead to further indictments by the War Crimes Tribunal".

(8) The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that more than 22,000 Muslim refugees have been forced from their homes since mid-September in Bosnian Serb controlled areas.

(9) In opening the Dodd Center Symposium on October 18, 1995, President Clinton cited the "excellent progress" of the War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and said that "the accused of war crimes, against humanity and genocide must be brought to justice. They must be tried and, if necessary punished, for their crimes."

Homes since mid-September in Bosnian Serb areas were systematically forced from their homes by paramilitary units. Local police and in some instances, Bosnian Serb military officials and soldiers.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

October 27, 1995

The PRESIDENT proclaims the amendment. Without objection, it is so ordered. (The text of the amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Amendments Submitted.")

Mr. DOMENICI. We yield back any time.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, let me thank Senator KOHL, who has worked on this for a long, long time. It is a very good amendment. He has worked with the majority leader on this. We are enthusiastic about this on our side. Mr. DOMENICI. Senator BYRD would like to have the amendment explained.

Mr. KOHL. This amendment will allow family farmers—not farmers who are not farming the land, family farmers—who farm the land for generations, when they sell their farm to roll over up to $500,000 of the proceeds into an IRA account. It only applies to hard-working family farmers.

We offset it by requiring those individuals from foreign lands or corporations, foreign lands who own U.S. stocks which are not now subject to tax, when they sell those stocks they will in the future be required to pay a U.S. tax on the sale of that U.S. corporation stock that they own.

I think the offset is an outstanding amendment. I think the purpose of the IRA is to reward hard-working family farmers. I think it is a really good amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 3016) was agreed to. Mr. EXON. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 3017

(Purpose: To require the President to include a generational accounting in the President's budget)

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I send a Simpson amendment to the desk in his behalf.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this amendment would require the annual budget of the President include a chapter on generational accounting (including the increase required in current levels) required to eliminate the projected Federal deficit."

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. President, I rise today to offer an amendment that all Senators should be able to agree on. It would require that the President's annual budget continue to include a chapter on generational accounting.

Generational accounting is a way to consider the fiscal treatment of different generations. Specifically, it indicates what the members of each generation can expect to pay on average, now and in the future, in taxes, as a result of current budget expenditures and revenues.

President Bush included a chapter on generational accounting in his 1993 fiscal year budget and President Clinton included a chapter on generational accounting in his 1995 fiscal year budget—but he failed to include any mention of generational accounting this year.

One of the 32 of us on the bipartisan commission on entitlements and tax reform concluded that if we do nothing about the impending entitlements crisis, by 2018 every penny of our Federal revenues will be necessary to pay for entitlements and interest on our national debt. In 2040, our children and grandchildren will be forced to pay 40 percent of the national payroll tax base in taxes.

It is crucial that we begin to take a longer term view of the future and consider how the impact of our decisions today will affect our children and grandchildren. If you truly are concerned about the burden of taxes on those we love, then you will support this amendment.

For 2 days now, I have listened to my colleagues talk about the young, the disenfranchised while they ignore the biggest crisis—the impending bankruptcy of the Social Security Program. It is like crying about slippery banana peels on the deck of the Titanic.

Our temporary fix for the Medicare Program is nothing more than delaying the inevitable. My colleagues are cheering that Medicare will not go broke in 2002, but rather in 2008. Now that is something to be proud of. Yet, we only have ourselves to blame. In the past, the Social Security Advisory Council provided guidance on Social Security and Medicare issues. However, we got rid of the Advisory Council and instead created an Advisory Board—except that they no longer provide guidance on Medicare issues. How ironic. The program that is going to the dogs first is the program we decided we do not want any guidance on.

So we have done it to ourselves. But we can stop this game-playing if we are forced to consider what we are doing to future generations—and this is why generational accounting is so important.

Mr. President, this amendment would simply require the annual budget of the President include a chapter on generational accounting.
The President of the United States, President Clinton, did a nice job on that in the first budget message. It was left completely out of the second one, too. If I think it is vitally important we tell the American people 20 and 30 years down the line who is paying the bills. I hope we can get back what President Clinton put in his first budget. This requires that so that we know what is out there. We need to look at 20- and 30-year generational accounting, who is paying the bills, who really cares about the children of the country and also deals with that issue in an upfront way.

Mr. EXON. We yield back our time and accept the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment. The amendment (No. 3017) was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I advise the Senate and the chairman of the committee that the next four amendments all have to do with medical matters. We think we have those bundled into one amendment that can be offered.

If required, though, I would like unanimous consent that we have tentatively agreed to: roughly, that if we have situations like this—in this case, there are four introducers—if the introducers would like 30 seconds each, we would grant them that to encourage further melding of these amendments that are similar into one amendment and therefore expedite the process.

Mr. DOMENICI. Does the minority leader agree with that? I had talked to him. It seems a little different when he was proposing it.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I have no objection to that approach. I think all Senators need to have the opportunity to express themselves, whether it is a block of time or one person does it or individual blocks of time.

I know the distinguished Senator from West Virginia is very concerned that everybody have a complete appreciation of what the original amendments were. So it is our view it expedites not only the process but the issue, in order to allow us to bring them up together.

So I think all concerns are served in this particular amendment. I hope we can support it.

Mr. DOMENICI. Let me just address this for a moment. Senator BYRD, as I understand it, if they would have sent their amendments up singly, they would have had 30 seconds. That is the agreement. They are going to send up four together—three and the other one. They will have 30 seconds on each of those and we will have 30 seconds to respond on each of those. I do not see anything more than save us the time of three votes. The rest of the rights are all intact, as we have agreed to them here in the Senate.

Mr. EXON. I was explaining that rather than four, we set aside the Dodd matter, which will be considered separately. The Feingold, Moseley-Braun, and Rockefeller amendments are em-bodied under the agreement that we have worked out.

Pending final working out of some details, I suggest, since Senator DODD, whom I earlier thought was included in this, is not in the single list, at this time I yield 30 seconds to Senator DODD for an explanation and the introduction of his motion that both sides have received some time ago.

DODD MOTION TO CONSOLIDATE
Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I send a motion to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

"The Senator from Connecticut (Mr. Dodd) proposes a motion to commit." Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the motion be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The motion is as follows: Mr. President, I move to commit to the Committee on Finance with instructions to report the bill back to the Senate in 3 days (not in session) making changes in legislation within that Committee's jurisdiction to reduce revenue deductions for upper income taxpayers by $51,000,000,000. In order to--

(1) restore current law Medicaid eligibility for children and pregnant women.

(2) include coverage of prenatal care and delivery services for pregnant women and Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic, and Treatment (EPSDT) for children.

(3) strike the 20 percent cut from title XX of the Social Security Act.

(4) strike the cap on foster care administrative expenses.

Mr. DODD. This does three things. It restores Medicaid coverage for pregnant women and children, both eligibility and benefits; it restores the cut in title XX, which States are widely using for child care assistance; and, third, it restores the cut in foster care funds that States use to investigate reports of child abuse and to recruit foster parents. Again, these are three issues I think most people here believe are critically important. This would restore those parts of the bill.

CHILDREN: EARNING HAS A COST
Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I want to speak today about the children of this Nation, about my hope they will not give up hope, and my wish they will look forward to a brighter future.

I want to tell the children of this country and of my state—despite what is going on in this current budget fight—there are adults who care about them.

I do not want to say the adults in the majority party don't care about our children. This budget plan does make some cuts, however, whether some Members of this austere body remember what it is like to raise children.

It makes me wonder whether some Members have ever really had to deal with the most modest problems and costs every working family has to deal with: the costs of child care, the costs of medical care, the costs of school lunch.
I would simply remind those Members: caring does have a cost, and the cost is in no way reflected in this budget. Children in this country feel like they have less to look forward to than ever before. Many adults on this floor have derided the state of our children's present and future, and many of us have felt the eyes of these kids upon us as we have cast a vote or made a speech.

So, here is what the majority will do for our kids in this budget: they will take away the health care coverage that allows kids to be healthy and ready to learn and grow. They will take away the child care that allows kids' parents to work. And, they will take away the foster care that helps kids in serious need.

Well, we have an amendment to this budget reconciliation bill to repair the damage: it will restore current Medicaid coverage for pregnant women and their kids, restore child care, and restore foster care funding.

On Medicaid, we need to preserve a safety net for children born into families of modest means. Medicaid is not free tummy-tucks for folks who don't need it.

Medicaid provides preventive and emergency care for needy kids, and long-term care for disabled children—who could be the children of any American family. We are restoring Medicaid coverage for these children, on a per-capita basis, instead of a block-grant that would cause them to compete against the elderly or other groups.

On child care, we cannot say to working mothers, struggling to stay off public assistance. "Oh, by the way, we are cutting money that allows you to work for a living." The Republicans have cut $33 billion in title XX child care grants to States at the same time they are promising $3 billion under welfare reform. The request is not try and trick anyone. They are cutting child care—our amendment restores the cut.

On foster care, the majority is now going after children who do not even have birth-parents to rely upon. This cut is a classic: it tells a child, "we're really sorry that it's not working out with your folks, and that this is the toughest time in your life, but we cannot afford to pay for your foster care."

Meaningful assistance is one of the Republicans want to give tax breaks to people who can already afford to leave their children in the care of a high paid nanny every day.

Mr. President, our children are more important to us than a number on a balance sheet. I understand and agree we must balance the budget. We must preserve a future for our children, by making tough choices down our debt. But, we keep families alive, and able to work to support and raise their kids. Otherwise, we will shackle future generations with a much worse kind of debt.

Mr. PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SMITH). Who yields time?

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to table the Dodd motion.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

So, the motion to lay on the table the Dodd motion to commit was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the motion was agreed to.

Mr. DOLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. EXON addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, earlier we had suggested that three Medicare amendments by Senator FEINGOLD, Senator MOSELEY-BRAUN, and Senator ROCKEFELLER be combined into one. We agreed that each Senator would have 30 seconds to explain their joint amendment.

At this time, I ask the Chair to recognize Senator FEINGOLD, then Senator MOSELEY-BRAUN, and then Senator ROCKEFELLER.

I congratulate them for expediting the process.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I do not believe consent has been given to package amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request?
Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Twelve years and under to have standards for their health benefit packages.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN, Mr. President, this amendment provides for flexible community and home-based, long-term care programs for individuals with disabilities of any age that have been Medicaid funded by striking provisions in the bill providing new tax expenditures for long-term care insurance and expanded IRA's.

The amendment would save $2.3 billion over 7 years. It is based on a very successful program in Wisconsin that has saved us hundreds of millions of dollars, keeping people in the community rather than in nursing homes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN. Mr. President, Senator MOSELEY-BRAUN, Mr. President, the other part of the amendment has to do with people who are transitioning from welfare to work so we can provide that they will not lose health coverage, and particularly that the children will not be put in jeopardy of losing their health care when their parents go into the work force. Over a million children will be involved with this, Mr. President, and I encourage support for providing a minimal safety net for them.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The reconciliation bill repeals this provision resulting in a $20 million cost to the Federal taxpayer by the purchase of additional cheese surpluses from California. This amendment strikes that provision and leaves current law intact and saves $20 million.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is amendment No. 2999.

Mr. DOMENICI. That is the amendment that was just described.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President. The Agriculture Committee bill would repeal section 102 of the 1990 farm bill. Section 102 required in that bill to override State operating orders. It has been in existence for 5 years and has never been used.

It seems to me we ought to remain consistent and we ought to defeat the amendment.

I move to table the amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to lay on the table amendment No. 2999. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 57, nays 42, as follows:

So the motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 2999) was agreed to.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote. And I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there further amendments to the bill?

Mr. DOLE addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President. I am not quite certain where we are in the process. Some have suggested that we take a couple hours recess here to try to get the amendments into a little group. I do not know how many are left. We do not have any idea how much longer it is going to take.

We are trying to decide whether to leave here as is and come back at nine in the morning, or whether to take an hour break and see if we cannot further winnow down the number of amendments. We would like to finish it sometime tomorrow.
The Senator from Iowa (Mr. HARKIN), for himself, Mr. DASCHLE, Mr. DORGAN, Mr. WELSTONE, Mr. HEFLIN, and Mr. BUMPERs proposes an amendment numbered 3200.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The text of the amendment appears in today's RECORD under Amendments Submitted.)

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I offer this amendment on behalf of myself and Senators DASCHLE, DORGAN, WELSTONE, HEFLIN, and BUMPERs.

Basically, Mr. President, this is an agricultural substitute. It cuts $4.2 billion out of agriculture, not the $12.6 billion that is in the bill. It provides for a two-tier marketing loan system for wheat and feed grains. And we offset the cost of the bill by striking the provisions of the bill affecting the alternative minimum tax.

So basically, if you want a fairer farm bill for our farmers and rural people, this is it. It only cuts $4.2 billion, not the $12.6 billion in the bill. And we do have an offset.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this is a rewrite of the farm bill which is in this reconciliation bill. After much concern and consideration, the Committee on Agriculture provided a farm bill which reforms much of agriculture in America.

I do not believe we ought to be undoing that here with a total subtext. It is not germane and is subject to a point of order under the Budget Act. And I raise a point of order against the pending amendment.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable section of that act for the purpose of the consideration of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion to waive.

AMENDMENT NO. 2986

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there further amendments?

AMENDMENT NO. 2986 AS MODIFIED

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate concerning a flat tax and reform of the current Tax Code)

Mr. SPECTER. I send a modification to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. SPECTER. Senator SPECTER has a sense of the Senate amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I call up amendment 2986.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, is it in order to modify the amendment?

AMENDMENT NO. 2986

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there further amendments?

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section: SEC. . Sense of the Senate.—(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) The current Internal Revenue Code, with its myriad deductions, credits and schedules, and over 12,000 pages of rules and regulations, is long overdue for complete overhaul;

(2) It is an unacceptable waste of our nation's precious resources when Americans spend an estimated $5.4 billion hours every year compiling information and filling out Internal Revenue tax forms, and in addition, spend hundreds of billions of dollars every year in tax code compliance. America's resources could be dedicated to far more productive pursuits;

(3) The primary goal of any tax reform must be to unleash growth and remove the inefficiencies of the current tax code, with a flat tax that will expand the economy by an estimated 2 percent over seven years.

(4) Another important goal of tax reform is to achieve fairness, with a single low flat tax rate for all individuals and businesses and an increase in personal and dependent exemptions, is preferable to the current tax code;

(5) Simplicity is another critically important goal of tax reform. And it is in the public interest to have a ten-lined tax form that fits on a postcard and takes 10 minutes to fill out;

(6) The home mortgage interest deduction is an important element in the financial planning of millions of American families and must be retained in a limited form; and

(7) Charitable organizations play a vital role in our nation's social fabric and any tax reform package must include a limited deduction for charitable contributions.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that Congress should proceed expeditiously to adopt flat tax legislation which would replace the current tax code with a fairer, simpler, pro-growth and deficit neutral flat tax with a low, single rate.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President—within 30 seconds—this amendment expresses the sense of the Senate that Congress should proceed to build on this achievement. It does not specify the precise type of a flat tax. There has been a lot of expression in favor of a flat tax as being pro-growth, not regressive with a substantial exemption for individuals.

And I ask my colleagues to support this concept in general terms with this sense of the Senate resolution.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, this amendment has no effect on reducing the deficit, which is what this bill is all about. It is a good political statement for people who are involved in politics at this particular time in the year. I think we do not have the time to look at this. I may be for a flat tax at some time in the future, but this is not the place or the time to put the Senate on record.

Therefore, Mr. President, I raise a point of order that the pending amendment is extraneous and violates the Byrd Rule, section 313(b)(1)(A) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I move to waive that section.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion is made to waive.

Mr. SPECTER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

AMENDMENT NO. 301

(Purpose: To target commodity-program benefits to small and moderate-sized farm operations, and to ensure that large farm operations contribute to deficit reduction by requiring that agricultural payment limitations be directly attributed to individuals and not to the entities that receive payments. The amendment also provides definitions for "individual," "commodity," and "entity."

The amendment is as follows:

SEC. 1. PAYMENT LIMITATION

Strike section 1110 and insert the following:

"SEC. 1110. EXTENSION OF RELATED PRICE SUPPORT PROVISIONS.

"(a) IN GENERAL—Section 1001 of the Food Security Act of 1985 (7 U.S.C. 1308) is amended by striking paragraph (1) and inserting the following:

"(1) $1802000000 for the fiscal year 1996:"

"(B) DIRECT ATTRIBUTION.—The Secretary shall attribute payments specified in subparagraphs (A) and (B) and paragraph (3) to persons who receive the payments directly and attribute the payments received by entities to individuals who own the entities in proportion to their ownership interest in the entity.

"(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT—

"(2) Section 1001(b)(2) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1308(2)(B)) is amended by striking ‘72.5 percent’ and inserting ‘72.5 percent’.

"(3) Section 1001(c)(1) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1308(3)) is amended by striking ‘72.5 percent’ and inserting ‘72.5 percent’.

(b) Strike section 1104(4)(C)(ii)(I) and insert the following:

"(I) by striking ‘85 percent’ and inserting ‘72.5 percent’.

SEC. 3. CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM

Amend section 1201(a) by striking ‘(1) $1,787,000,000 for fiscal year 1995’ and all that follows through ‘(3) $1,050,000,000 for fiscal year 2000’ and inserting the following—

"(1) $1,802,000,000 for the fiscal year 1996;

"(2) $1,811,000,000 for the fiscal year 1997;

"(3) $1,476,000,000 for the fiscal year 1998;

"(4) $1,277,000,000 for the fiscal year 1999;

"(5) $1,311,000,000 for the fiscal year 2000;

"(6) $1,029,000,000 for the fiscal year 2001;

"(7) $1,040,000,000 for the fiscal year 2002.’

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, may I have order in the Chamber first, please?

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, this would limit the farm payments to $40,000 a year. Over the last 10 years, only 2 percent of the recipients have received more than that.

It saves $1.6 billion over 7 years. It assures that the larger farmers are a part of deficit reduction and from these savings, this goes back to help some of the mid-sized farmers and also the Conservation Reserve Program.

I send this amendment to the desk with Senator Lieberman as a cosponsor.

SEC. 4. REPLACEMENT OF CMF PROVISIONS

Amend section 1308 (7 U.S.C. 1308) by striking ‘(2) $1,300,000,000 for the fiscal year 1995’ and all that follows through ‘(2) $1,300,000,000 for the fiscal year 1997’ and inserting the following—

"(1) $1802000000 for the fiscal year 1996;

"(2) $1811000000 for the fiscal year 1997;

"(3) $1476000000 for the fiscal year 1998;

"(4) $1277000000 for the fiscal year 1999;

"(5) $1311000000 for the fiscal year 2000;

"(6) $1029000000 for the fiscal year 2001;

"(7) $1040000000 for the fiscal year 2002.’

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, may I have order in the Chamber first, please?

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, may I have order in the Chamber first, please?
Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I yield the remainder of my time. We approve of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 3022) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I believe the next amendment that we have would be by the Senator from New Jersey. I yield 30 seconds for the purpose of an explanation of the amendment to the Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk on behalf of Senator Brown and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

SEC. 121. LEASE-PURCHASE OF OVERSEAS PROPERTY, AND SECTIONS 3005 AND 3006 OF TITLE 10, UNITED STATES CODE.

(a) AUTHORITY FOR LEASE-PURCHASE.—Subject to subsections (b) and (c), the Secretary is authorized to acquire by lease-purchase such properties as are described in subsection (b).—

(1) the Secretary of State; and

(2) the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

certify and notify the appropriate committees of Congress that the lease-purchase arrangement will result in a net cost savings to the Federal government when compared to a lease, a direct purchase, or direct construction of comparable property.

(b) LOCATIONS AND LIMITATIONS.—The authority granted in subsection (a) may be exercised—

(1) to acquire appropriate housing for Department of State personnel stationed abroad and for the acquisition of other facilities in locations throughout the United States with a diplomatic mission; and

(2) during fiscal years 1996 through 1999.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF FUNDS.—For funds for lease-purchase arrangements made pursuant to subsection (a) shall be available from amounts appropriated under the authority of section 111(a)(1) (relating to the Acquisition and Maintenance of Buildings Abroad) account.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I think this has been cleared on both sides. This has to do with lease-purchase agreements and authority to do that interagency, between agencies of the Government.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I yield back the remainder of my time. We approve of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 3022) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I move to reconsider the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Jersey (Mr. BRADLEY) proposes an amendment numbered 3022.

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, I move to strike sections 5400 and 5401 of the reconciliation bill. These provisions in the title of the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources that would repeal the prohibition on prepayment of construction charges.

I read with some interest the "Dear Colleague" sent around by the Senator from New Jersey. It presents a curious and inaccurate history of reclamation provisions. Its description of the committee provision is also flawed. The letter uses the rhetoric of "corporate welfare" and "costly "West" subsidies as if they were some magic incantation that would transform the true intent of the motion. The committee language does not create a loophole; it terminates a foolish restriction inserted in the 1982 Reclamation Reform Act to prevent irrigation districts and individuals who hold repayment or water service contracts from prepaying their debt. Prior to 1982, that limitation did not exist.

The letter is not correct about the history of reclamation law that led to the 1982 act. The letter states that when the reclamation program began in 1902, Congress provided low cost irrigation water to small—160 acres or less—family farms. The policy was intended to help small farmers; large farms were explicitly excluded from the subsidies.

In 1982, Congress recognized that the average family farm had grown, and increased the acreage limitations from 160 acres to the present 960 acres. Holders larger than 960 acres were required to pay full cost for irrigating their excess holdings.

The reconciliation bill creates a loophole permitting the wealthiest farmers to avoid paying full cost instead of the subsidized price. It allows farmers with water—nothing wrong with that—but at the subsidized rates intended for small family farms. For these large farm operations, the cost of prepaying could be less than the cost of 1 year's irrigation water. These individuals would then be exempt forever from paying full cost, and for non-cost pricing, even if the Federal Government makes new investments that would enhance their water projects. The net present value of the benefits to these individuals—and loss to the U.S. Treasury—could exceed $1,000 an acre. How can we justify such welfare for the wealthiest?

As a result of this provision, the very family farmers for whom the Reclamation Program was designed will face ever-larger competitors who obtain even greater subsidies than the small farmer. This change in policy would be accomplished without hearings and without any meaningful analysis of impacts, taxpayer costs, winners or losers. It is not fair to the many farmers throughout the West who have complied with the letter and intent of reclamation law, and did not seek additional discounts or waivers of key provisions of Federal law. I believe that allowing people to have the same-

It also is not fair to the many farmers throughout the West who have complied with the letter and intent of reclamation law, and did not seek additional discounts or waivers of key provisions of Federal law. I believe that allowing people to have the same—could exceed $1,000 an acre. How can we justify such welfare for the wealthiest?
and elsewhere who repay nothing because their benefits are called flood control. The statement is also inaccurate in suggesting that Congress provided the water, since in many of the early projects, such as the Newlands Project, the water users held, and still hold, the water rights. What the Federal Government did was to provide the financing for the storage and conveyance systems. Even where the Federal Government obtained the water rights for a project, the Reclamation Act specifically required the rights to be obtained in full compliance with the laws of the States. One major problem was that the Supreme Court made it clear that the Federal Government held those rights as a trustee for the water users. Congress did not provide water. In addition, the statement that Congress was providing low-cost water would come as a surprise to the water users who were required to reimburse the Federal Government for the entire cost of the projects. Such as the Newlands Project. The letter speaks of the 1982 act easing the ownership limitations. It is not a concern for the family farmer that lies behind this motion, but rather a desire to keep Federal control over family farms for as long as possible. No one should misunderstand the true motives of those who support this motion. All you have to do is look at the proposed regulations issued by Secretary Babbitt to see what the objection is. The regulations, which depend on the economic benefit test, address the situation where possession is not held by the potential lessor. It is not a concern for family farmers associated with farming his land, if he is subjected to full cost irrigation water rates. In its analysis of the proposed rules (60 Fed. Reg. 16924) Interior explains the lease definition change as follows: Lease would be substantially modified. Under the existing regulation, one of the key elements in the definition of lease is the assumption of economic risk by the lessee. This definition permits the development of arrangements under which an individual or legal entity is paid a fixed fee for operating a farming enterprise. Since the operator under these arrangements assumes no economic risk, Reclamation currently does not deem the operator to be in a lease relationship. Therefore, under the existing rules, operators are not subject to full cost irrigation water rates. The second and third sentences of the definition would address the situation where more than one party has some degree of possession and control of the land, a lease would exist. Reclamation would then consider the lessee to be the owner of the economic benefit. When two or more parties占有 the land, a lease would exist. Reclamation would then consider the lessee to be the owner of the economic benefit.
Committee when the Reclamation Reform Act was adopted, made a very eloquent statement on the effect and proponents of the proposed regulations. He stated:

Under the proposed regulations, if a farmer were to fall ill and his children or neighbors were to take over the management of the farm so that he was not going to be able to pay his debts and not have to sell off the homestead, Secretary Babbitt would send a bill for full cost even if the children were not even benefited for their costs.

If a farmer were called to military service and his fater took over the farm while he served his country, the President would pay him a medal and Secretary Babbitt would send him a bill for full cost.

At the rate EPA is trying to regulate every aspect of our lives, I guess we could send the bill for full cost even if the children were to take over the management of the farm so that he was not going to be able to pay his debts and not have to sell off the homestead, Secretary Babbitt would send a bill for full cost even if the children were not even benefited for their costs.

There is not the slightest concern for sovereign States with a central government and a recognition that this is a Republic of the sovereign States. What the committee did was let it be known that they were striking that. We think we have crafted language imposed by the Senator from New Jersey: It is a philosophy that Secretary Babbitt and his allies, even Director Rivlin plaintively objects to this provision as an unjustified provision allowing prepayment—perhaps contrary to the purpose for which farmers might be able to go back to farming without fear that this administration will succeed in driving them off their land.

Mr. DOMENICI. I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I yield my 30 seconds to Senator CRAIG in opposition to the amendment. Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President I hope we could oppose this amendment.

In the bill we are attempting to pass, we are asking reclamation projects to pay now upon a negotiated relationship with the Bureau of Reclamation, to return money to the Treasury now.

The Senator from New Jersey is striking that. We think we have crafted good law, which is exactly the intent of the original reclamation law, only we advance the opportunity to pay it out and then turn those authorities to the use of the property according to those with the projects. Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to table and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered. The assistant legislative clerk presented the following:

So the motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 3024) was agreed to.
Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to. Mr. LEAHY. I move to lay that motion upon the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who seeks retraction? Mrs. CHAFEE addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, the re-conciliation bill contains a provision which would put the Hyde language permanently into law. This is the first time that this has been done. The Hyde language has always appeared in annual appropriations bills which are open to modification.

This provision, subsection 2123(g) of the Social Security Act, as added by section 7191(a) in the reconciliation measure, does not produce a change in outlays or revenues and is not necessary to implement a provision that does change outlays or revenues.

I, therefore, raise a point of order under section 313(b)(1)(a) of the Budget Act against this provision.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I rise in strong support for the amendment offered by the Senator from Rhode Island. Senator CHAFEE, to strike certain restrictive language from the Medicaid block grant portion of this bill, and I am proud to be a co-sponsor of this important amendment. I consider the inclusion of this language to be yet another attack on poor women waged by this Congress. I urge my colleagues to support this motion to strike.

The Medicaid block grant proposal approved by the Senate Finance Committee includes language which bars States from using Federal funds to pay for most abortions for poor women. The bill allows States to use Federal dollars to fund abortions only in cases of rape, incest, or where the mother’s life is in danger. This is not a new idea—we have seen restrictions like this one, known as the Hyde amendment, added to appropriations bills year after year. The key difference is that, now, this discriminatory ban could be made permanent—and I urge my colleagues to join us in ensuring this does not happen.

Including this ban as a component of Medicaid law is an unprecedented and alarming evolution in the attempt to restrict women’s access to abortion. And will have devastating effects on the women who rely on the Medicaid program to provide health care coverage. Even more offensive, the target in this case is low-income women, who deserve the same access to critical reproductive health services available to other women in our country. If we do not strike this language from the bill, we are allowing Congress to single out poor women, and this sends a very strong message to the women of this country. Voting to include the Hyde language tells these women—we do not care. Without providing coverage for abortion services, we will be sending low-income and poor women straight to the black market, and forcing those who are insured to choose unsafe alternatives and risky procedures—and make no mistake. Mr. President—women will die.

Women who receive an average of $400 a month from public assistance cannot raise the estimated $300 for a first-trimester abortion. What do you think a woman in this position will do? Will she divert money she should be spending on rent? Will she be forced to use the money she sets aside to feed herself or her child she already has? Or will she choose the cheaper, albeit un-sanitary and dangerous, alternative? I do not want to place poor women in the position of having to make this kind of choice. I am proud to be a co-sponsor of this important amendment.

I want to commend Senator CHAFEE for his commitment and his leadership on this issue. I know he tried to strike this restrictive and discriminatory language in Committee, but was unfortunately defeated. I thank him for trying again here on the floor, and I am proud to join in his efforts. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. Thank you.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time for the debate is over.

Mr. NICKLES addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904(d) of the Budget Act. I move to waive the Budget Act for this provision if included in the conference report on this measure.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Oklahoma. On this question, the yeas and nays have been ordered and the clerk will call the roll.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

October 27, 1995
The CONGRESSIONAL RECORD - SENATE

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DOLLE. Mr. President, how long was that last vote?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I have two unanimous consent requests that I believe will be acceptable. Senator MIKULSKI asked us to approve a unanimous consent request in her behalf, and Senator NICKLES has a similar one in terms of what we would be agreeing to.

How do I want to pose these unanimous consent requests? Correct my remarks. We want to do the same for Senator NICKLES that we did for Senator MIKULSKI.

I ask unanimous consent that it be in order for Senator NICKLES immediately after Senator MIKULSKI offers her motion to instruct, to move to instruct the conference with reference to the Hyde amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I yield 30 seconds to the Senator from Maryland.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I send a motion to the desk on behalf of myself, Senator KASSEBAUM, Senator SNOWE, Senator BOXER, Senator FEINSTEIN, Senator MURRAY, and Senator MOSBY-BRAUN and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Maryland [Ms. MIKULSKI] moves to instruct the conference on the part of the Senate to insist upon guaranteeing to the American public that the quality and safety standards set forth by the Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 will be maintained by striking... certain provisions in the House amendment relating to section 353 of the Public Health Service Act (standards that ensure quality in testing for risk factors such as a heart attack or stroke, kidney disease, prostate and colon cancer, gout and strep).

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President: the purpose is to instruct conferees to reject the provisions in the House bill to repeal the Clinical Lab Improvement Amendments of 1988. Before 1988, clinical labs lacked uniform standards. Dirty labs were tolerated. Tests were misread. Diseases were misdiagnosed. Staff was inadequately trained and overworked. People died of sloppy work.

What does the House bill do? It repeals CLIA ‘88 for all physicians’ labs except when the labs conduct pap smears. I urge conferees to stick with the Senate position and to reject the House repeal of CLIA ‘88. Let me tell all my colleagues what CLIA is. And why it is so important.

CLIA ‘88 set for the first time uniform quality standards for all clinical labs. I am proud that this law, which I authored, was passed with broad bipartisan support.

CLIA was passed in 1988 and implemented in 1992 to address serious and life-threatening conditions in clinical labs. To now even suggest we turn back the clock to pre-1988 will have devastating results. Do we really want to:

Turn back to the bad old days of misdiagnosis of the HIV/AIDS virus, when doctors were using inferior methods of reading slides: when people with the virus went undetected because the virus was mutating and was unrecognized by physicians.

Or turn back to a time when the lab technicians were overworked and under supervised; when slides were taken home, when dirty labs were tolerated; when lab technicians had little or no formal training, resulting in many diseases going undetected.

My colleagues, CLIA works. It works because CLIA saves lives.

Prior to CLIA, women were dying after having pap smears misread 2 or 3 years in a row.

Prior to CLIA, complex tests for heart disease, conducted improperly, put patients at risk of serious impairment or death. As we know, medical conditions like heart disease not detected early, not only are more expensive to treat, but result in serious disability or death.

Today, the stakes are high for quality lab tests and diagnosis. The need for quality testing for HIV and AIDS and other diseases that affects our communities is without question. We are talking here about a matter of life and death.

CLIA ensures quality testing and quality laboratories.

For the first time, all labs that perform similar tests must meet similar standards, whether located in a hospital, a doctor’s office or other site.

Americans must be assured that all labs are of the highest quality and performance standards.

CLIA saves tax dollars by curbing fraud and abuse.

An unexpected benefit of the CLIA law has been to weed out the most unscrupulous of labs that run scams and take advantage of the most vulnerable members of our society.

Today, CLIA is threatened. Why? The House Reconciliation bill repeals CLIA for all physician labs except when the lab conducts pap smears. No hearings, no review of the Inspector General’s report on the impact of CLIA, no opportunity for the public to respond.

The House even recognized the importance of CLIA by carving out one exemption—for labs that conduct pap smears.

My question is this: Does the Senate really want to tell somebody facing the prospect of heart attack or diabetes, that we do not care that your tests are performed adequately?

That we only care if quality standards are met for one particular test and not the entire battery of other life-saving tests being conducted? I do not think so.

Quality standards in labs are critical to saving lives. Uniformity is the key. Safe and effective standards are the goals of CLIA—or no matter where the lab is located—in a hospital, doctor’s office or other health setting.

My colleagues, the Senate position is right. The Senate wisely left CLIA alone.

Changes in CLIA should not be done in the context of Reconciliation, but should be done with careful and deliberate consideration in the Labor and Human Resources Committee.

CLIA is so important. We should not act hastily, and put lives in danger, put families at risk. I am not willing to take that chance. Are you?

My motion is simple. Stick with the Senate position. Leave CLIA alone.

I urge support for the Mikulski motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator’s time has expired.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President: I urge my colleagues to vote no on this motion, because the House had some provisions to allow some flexibility for physicians to conduct tests in their offices.

Frankly, we are talking about some simple tests: in some cases, strep tests or blood tests. CLIA, the Clinical Laboratory Improvement Act, drives up the cost of doing a bunch of these tests. In some cases, makes it prohibitive to do it, so they have to send off the test to the bigger cities. That wastes time. It wastes money, it makes health care a lot more expensive and dangerous in many areas of the country.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Time has expired.

Ms. MIKULSKI. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The PRESIDENT PRO Tempore (Mr. SANTORUM). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote? The result was announced—yeas 49, nays 50.

The result was announced—yeas 49, nays 50, as follows: [Rollei, Vote No. 541 Leg.]
The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from North Dakota (Mr. CONRAD), moves to commit.

Mr. CONRAD. I ask unanimous consent reading of the motion be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CONRAD. I ask unanimous consent on behalf of Senators HELMS that on roIcall vote 520 wherein he voted no be changed to aye.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, we previously voted on my plan during consideration of the budget resolution. I received 39 votes. Today, if we held a vote, I might add a few votes to that total but I am under no illusion that I would prevail.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, we previously voted on my plan during consideration of the budget resolution. I received 39 votes. Today, if we held a vote, I might add a few votes to that total but I am under no illusion that I would prevail.

Mr. CONRAD. I have a fair share balanced budget plan at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.
So the amendment (No. 3026) was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 3027

(Purpose: To amend the Civil War Battlefield Commemorative Coin Act of 1992, and for other purposes)

Mr. DOMENICI. On behalf of Senator LOTT and Senator JEFFORDS, I send another amendment to the desk.

This is to amend the Civil War Battlefield Commemorative Coin Act of 1992, which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

"The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI], for Mr. LOTT, for himself, and Mr. JEFFORDS proposes an amendment numbered 3027.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 205, between lines 13 and 14, insert the following:

SEC. 3008. AMENDMENTS TO THE CIVIL WAR BATTLEFIELD COMMEMORATIVE COIN ACT OF 1992.

(a) DISTRIBUTION AND USE OF SURCHARGES.—

the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, even oil in national storage facilities—as deficit reductions since the fact that such sales are actually money-losing. This budgetary innovation opened the floodgates for proposals to unload valuable Federal assets in return for the fast buck, often at fire-sale prices. Many of these proposals in fact, would lead to reduced revenues in the future, and higher deficits. This approach relies on political myopia—a simple-minded scoring of sales revenue within the limited budget window—and fails to withstand the straight face test. Only by railroadine these proposals through the Senate, under the very restrictive and controlled conditions of budget reconciliation, would many of these proposals ever have a chance of becoming law.

The Energy Committee’s title is loaded down with asset sales that follow the same pattern. While they produce deficit reductions in their first few years, as valuable assets are sold off, after a few years the pattern reverses and deficit reductions are turned into increases. In most cases the red ink continues far out into the future, easily dwarfing the deficit reductions of the early years. Thus asset sales are both short term and short sighted. Why we produce these budget resolutions in the first place? The reason is not to balance the budget. If it were, I am sure we could create some appropriate fiction which showed budgetary balance by definition.

But that is not what we were supposed to be doing here. We are supposed to be systematic. We are supposed to be honest. We are supposed to be consistent. We are supposed to address the substantive, structural issues which keep the Federal Government spending year after year out—more money than it takes in. So what do we have here, buried deep in this bill? We have a trick, a gimmick. We cut spending, by redefining what we mean for the first time since we gave this budget process teeth—with the passage of Gramm-Rudman—we can sell off national property—national assets—and include the proceeds as deficit reduction.

Mr. President, because of these cynically clever changes, we can now propose all sorts of asset sales, from ANWR to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, and chalk up that deficit reduction. This asset sale formula leads to all sorts of questionable proposals. Because even outrageously low sales prices would still score as deficit reductions for the short period of the budget window, asset giveaways could receive a budget blessing. In fact, I doubt that any business accountant or economist would agree with this underlying budgetary premise—that liquidating public assets adds to public wealth. If I sell my stock portfolio and put the returns in my checking account, do I become wealthier? Have I protected my children? It may make sense to sell my stocks, but the transaction itself produces no wealth—except for my broker.

Consider the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. We can lease the Refuge to oil developers and sell any oil that might be underground to them. We will get some money. The companies will get the rights to drill and if they find oil, probably it will be shipped to the Pacific rim and burned completely. Have we done a lot for our kids? You must be joking.

At best, we can claim for our children and is not necessary to implement the provisions of this budget. Therefore, I raise a point of order that the amendment violates the Budget Act.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable sections of that act for the consideration of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion to waive. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second. The yeas and nays are ordered. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Nebraska. On this question, the yeas and nays have been ordered, and the clerk will call the roll. The bill clerk called the roll. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber who desire to vote?
The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this motion, the ayes are 47, the nays are 52. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion fails.

Mr. DOMENICI. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the motion was rejected. Mr. STEVENS. I move to lay that motion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

CHANGE OF VOTE

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, on rollcall vote No. 539, I voted "aye." It was my intention to vote "no." Therefore, I ask unanimous consent to change my vote. It will not affect the outcome of the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(Alleged tally has been changed to reflect the above order.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. We have been waiting to do the Biden amendment. I understand that it has been worked out. So I yield at this time to Senator BIDEN for the offering of his amendment, including the 30 seconds which is a part of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

AMENDMENT NO. 3029

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment. The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. BYRD] proposes an amendment numbered 2974.

Mr. BYRD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. I know of no legal or constitutionally binding reason why the Senate has to ever pass a reconciliation bill. It may have some budgetary consequences if the Senate does not. But as long as we are going to pass such a bill—and I assume that we will continue to do so for a while—we should lengthen the time for debate.

This is not a partisan amendment. It is not a political amendment. It is for the good of the institution——

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator’s time has expired.

Mr. BYRD. The budget process, and the good of the American people. I hope Senators will vote for this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator’s time has expired.

The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President and fellow Senators, it is with greatest respect and some degree of sorrow that I have to raise the Byrd rule against the amendment.

But Senator BYRD has made sure under the rules that you cannot change the budget or the Budget Act without sending the matter through the committee of jurisdiction. So this amendment will increase from 20 to 50 hours the time limitation on debate on future reconciliation measures; increase the time limitation from 10 to 20 hours on Senate consideration of conference reports; and, therefore, it violates the Budget Act.

I make a point of order against it.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I believe the clerk read the wrong amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is correct. The Chair will withdraw the amendment 2974, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. BYRD] proposes an amendment numbered 2942.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 2942

(Purpose: To amend the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 to extend the hours of debate permitted on a reconciliation bill)

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, the next in order, according to the list that we have agreed to, is recognition of the Senator from West Virginia for an amendment.

I yield four 30 seconds to him for that purpose.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. BYRD. Thank the Chair. I ask that the amendment be called up at the desk.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I believe the clerk read the wrong amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. BYRD. Thank the Chair. I ask that the amendment be called up at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. BYRD] proposes an amendment numbered 2942.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following:

SEC. 904. AUTHORITY TO PAY PLOT OR INTERMENT ALLOWANCE FOR VETERANS BURIED IN STATE CEMETERIES.

Section 2303 of title 38, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

(c) Subject to the availability of funds appropriated in addition to the benefits provided under section 2302 of this title, section 2307 of this title, and subsection (a) of this section, in the case of a veteran who——

(1) is buried in a national cemetery, and the interment of persons eligible for burial in a national cemetery is under section 2406(b) of title 38, United States Code, is provided for in addition to the benefits provided under this section, but only if the veteran died after active service in the armed forces, or

(2) is buried (without charge for the cost of a plot or interment) in a cemetery, or a section of a cemetery, that (A) is used solely for the interment of persons eligible for burial in a national cemetery, and (B) is owned by a State or by an agency or political subdivider of a State.

The Secretary may pay to such State, agency, or political subdivision the sum of $150 as a plot or internment allowance for such veteran, provided that payment was not made under clause (3) of subsection (b) of this section.’

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, following the admonition of Senator Long years ago, if the amendment is accepted, I have nothing to say.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate on the amendment, the question is on agreeing to the amendment. The amendment (No. 3029) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

EXON POINT OF ORDER

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, the next item on the agenda is the Exon point of order with regard to the Byrd rule. In the Budget Act of 1974, I raise a point of order that several provisions—

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, may we hear the Senator on this very important matter?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is recognized. The Senator from Nebraska has 22 seconds remaining.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, pursuant to section 313(d) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I raise a point of order that several provisions—

Mr. BUMPERS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

Strike “for” on line 4 of page 389 through “thereby” on line 19 on page 395.

Mr. BUMPERS. Mr. President, there is some confusion about what fair market value is in this bill. This amendment simply says that the mining industry, when they apply for patents, will pay fair market value.

Fair market value means just what it says: Land and minerals. Is that fair? All you have to do is vote ‘aye’ and the U.S. Government will receive fair market value.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator’s time has expired.

The Senator from Alaska is recognized.

Mr. MURkowski. Mr. President, this is the same item we have already dealt with in budget reconciliation. In fact, we already voted on this. It will be a repeat of the same amendment my friend from Arkansas proposed previously.

Given Senator BUMPERS’ rhetoric and the “we only print one-side of the issue” perspective of the national media, it is difficult to get a clear understanding of the significant mining law reform in the 104th Congress.

Senator BUMPERS, Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt, and the national media are long on mining law rhetoric but short on substance.

Senator BUMPERS often argues the goal of mining law reform should be significantly revise patenting, to impose a royalty on the production of hardrock minerals, and to establish a mechanism to clean up abandoned mines throughout the country.

I happen to agree, but would quickly add one more essential point. Any reform bill passed by Congress should also aim to preserve the economic foundation of hardrock mining in this country—a critical industry that provides high-paying jobs for tens of thousands of American men and women.

It is on this point that legislation sponsored by mining critics like Mr. BUMPERS falls flat on its face. The punitive royalties and onerous environmental provisions he favors would make future mining on Federal lands nearly impossible.

Economic analyses of Senator BUMPERS’ comprehensive mining law reform legislation, including in-house studies done by the Department of the Interior, conclude that the punitive royalty supported by Senator BUMPERS would cost thousands of jobs. His legislation would shift exploration and development capital overseas, export U.S. jobs, decrease our tax base, and increase our balance of trade deficit.

I take issue with Senator BUMPERS’ assertions that members representing western mining States oppose mining law reform legislation. What we oppose is punitive legislation that would cause unnecessary economic harm to rural mining communities across working America.

In our effort to impose a royalty on the hardrock mining industry we should not presume that more is better.

One would hope that Congress would learn from history. In 1990, when Congress enacted the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, we imposed a significant tax on luxury items, including high-end luxury yachts. Unfortunately, instead of taxing the rich, this recklessness destroyed the yacht building industry and eliminated thousands of jobs in this country.

In addition, we should learn from our foreign competitors. In 1974, British Columbia enacted the Mineral Royalties Act, which imposed royalties on mines located on Crown Lands and the Mineral Land Act which subjected owners of private mineral rights to royalties equivalent to those applied to Crown Lands. The result was a disaster.

During the period the royalty was in effect, no new mines went into production and several mines closed. Two years later, after thousands of mine-related jobs were lost, the royalty was repealed.

Should the hardrock mining industry pay a royalty to the Federal Government? The answer is yes. But let’s not make it so punitive that we destroy the industry or run it off-shore. We need to remember, just like Arkansas rice farmers, the domestic mining industry must compete in a worldwide market.

At the outset of the 104th Congress, I cosponsored the Mining Law Reform Act of 1995 (S. 506), a bipartisan bill that recognizes the world of change in which we now live. The bill balances economic reality with the environmental concerns facing today's hardrock mining industry. I've actively pursued enactment of this legislation during the past several months.

It's worth noting that Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt continues to insist on grossly devaluing the current shortcomings of the existing mining law. Yet he offers no reform proposal of his own. Why? Very simply, it is much easier to be critical than to be constructive.

It's no secret this is a divisive issue. In an effort to strike an acceptable compromise, the Senate Energy Committee included mining law reform provisions in its budget reconciliation package.

Those provisions represent significant compromise by both sides in this debate.

For the first time in history, the legislation would require miners to pay fair market value for the surface estate of patented land. For the first time in history, the legislation requires patented land used for nonmining purposes to revert back to the Federal Government. This would end the so-called federal land giveaway.

For the first time in history, miners would be required to pay a royalty to the Federal Government for the production of minerals on Federal land.

The Congressional Budget Office estimates the royalty will generate over $36 million dollars during the first 7 years. As new projects come into production, revenues received from the royalty are expected to increase to $25-$50 million per year.

Finally, for the first time in history, we could create an abandoned mine land fund (AML fund), establishing a mechanism to clean up old mines, many of which were abandoned in the 1800's.

The program will be financed by one-half of the royalty receipts. As royalty revenues increase, funds for the AML fund will also grow.

The legislation contained in the committee's reconciliation package answers the urgent call for increased Federal revenue without adding layers or crippling new Federal regulations or usurping the rights and responsibilities of individual States to oversee mining operations within their own jurisdictions.

Simply put, it would significantly revise the existing patenting system: impose a royalty on the production of minerals; and create a mechanism to fund the cleanup of abandoned mines: all while allowing Americans to enjoy the benefits of a strong domestic mining industry.

It's time for mining critics to stop the rhetoric and begin working to enact reform.

Senator BUMPERS' amendment is not a good faith effort at enacting responsible reform. His claims of a Federal land give-away cannot hold water in the face of the dual requirements in budget reconciliation of fair market value for the surface of patented lands and a royalty on the produced minerals from the subsurface.

The time is right for reform. The language in the budget reconciliation package represents comprehensive reform that ends the so-called Federal land giveaway and according to CBO, raises $148 million dollars.

I urge critics of the mining industry to support the mining law provisions in the budget reconciliation package and oppose the amendment being offered by Senator BUMPERS.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to table the amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to lay on the table amendment No. 3030. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 55, nays 44, as follows:

Purpose: To modify the estate tax reform proposals by striking the provisions excluding up to $3.5 million in business assets from the estate tax and by inserting a package of reforms specifically designed to ease the burden of estate taxes for true small businesses and family farms.

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Jersey (Mr. BRADLEY) proposes an amendment numbered 3031.

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 1622, beginning on line 8, strike all through page 1636, line 12, and insert the following:

SEC. 12301. MODIFICATIONS TO TIME EXTENSION PROVISIONS FOR CLOSETLY HELD BUSINESSES.

(a) INCREASED CAP ON 4 PERCENT INTEREST ELECTION.—Subparagraph (b)(i) of paragraph (b) (relating to 4-percent portion) is amended by striking "$344,800" and inserting "$780,800".

(b) PARTNERSHIP, ETC. RESTRICTIONS LIFTED.—Subparagraph (a) of section 6166(b)(7) (relating to partnership interests and stock which is not readily tradable) is amended to read as follows:

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If the executor elects the benefits of this paragraph (at such time and in such manner as the Secretary shall by regulations prescribe for purposes of paragraph (1)(B)(i) or (1)(C)(i) (whichever is appropriate) and for purposes of subsection (c), any capital interest in a partnership and any non-readily-tradable stock which (after the application of paragraph (2)) is treated as owned by the decedent shall be treated as included in determining the value of the decedent's gross estate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. STEVENS). This vote, there are 23 yeas, 78 nays. Three-fifths of the Senators as duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is not agreed to. The point of order has been sustained, and the provision fails.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEAHY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay the motion on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 3033

(Purpose: To limit the capital gains deduction to gain on assets held for more than 10 years and to impose a $250,000 lifetime limitation.)

Mr. EXON. Mr. President. I am pleased to report that two Senators have been successful in working together to offer two amendments in a joint form. The two Senators are Senator DORGAN and Senator HARKIN. I yield each of them 30 seconds as per the previous arrangement.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President. I have an amendment at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

"The Senate approved the Senate amendments to the bill and ordered the bill to the House with amendments.

The assistant legislative clerk read amendments introduced by Senator FEINGOLD at the table.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendments be dispensed with. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows: (General Rule—The amendment is set forth in the Record under "Amendments Submitted.")

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, this amendment is very simple. It changes the capital gains portion of the legislation. It would provide that if you hold an asset for 10 years, this would exclude up to $250,000 of capital gains—a exclusion twice as much benefit for the first quarter of a million dollars in capital gains. But that is what the limit would be. It actually saves $10 billion over the capital gains provisions in the bill.

I yield to Senator HARKIN for the explanation of the second provision in the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, this is the so-called Benedict Arnold amendment. Many of the very wealthy individuals who renounce their U.S. citizenship for tax reasons reside in the United States for up to 180 days. Under this amendment, such individuals would resume paying taxes in the United States as if they were resident aliens similar to U.S. citizens if they would stay in the United States for 30 days.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator from New Mexico.

The Senator has 30 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. As to Senator HARKIN's portion of the bill, let me remind Senators. Senator MOYNIHAN had put this provision together. And it strikes an appropriate balance. This would essentially do away with the MOYNIHAN balance in this bill.

The Dorgan part of this limits the capital gains tax to a lifetime of $250,000. This would be incredibly difficult to keep track of and almost impossible to enforce if it was fair. I move to table both amendments. They are both en bloc. I ask for the yeas and nays. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question occurs on agreeing to the motion to table the amendment numbered 3033. This is on both amendments in tandem.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, the next amendment is an amendment by Senator FEINGOLD, from Wisconsin, with regard to tax loopholes. I yield to him at this time the 30 seconds we have for each amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator FEINGOLD.

AMENDMENT NO. 3034

(Purpose: To amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to eliminate the percentage depletion allowance for mercury, uranium, lead, and asbestos.)

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President. On behalf of myself, Senator WELSTON and Senator BUMPERS, I send a amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. FEINGOLD], for himself, Mr. WELSTON, and Mr. BUMPERS, proposes an amendment numbered 3034.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

SEC. 1. CERTAIN MINERALS NOT ELIGIBLE FOR PERCENTAGE DEPLETION. (a) General Rule. (1) Paragraph (1) of section 613(b) (relating to percentage depletion rates) is amended—(A) by striking "and uranium" in subparagraph (A) and (B) by striking "asbestos", "lead", and "mercury," in subparagraph (B).

(2) Subparagraph (A) of section 613(b) (3) is amended by inserting "other than lead, mercury, or uranium" after "metal mines."

(3) Paragraph (4) of section 613(b) is amended by striking "asbestos" if paragraph (1) (B) does not apply.

(4) Paragraph (7) of section 613(b) is amended by striking "or" in subparagraph (B) and by inserting "or" and by inserting after subparagraph (C) the following subparagraph:

(D) mercury, uranium, lead, and asbestos.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS. Subparagraph (D) of section 613(c)(4) is amended by striking "lead," and "uranium,".

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE. The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, this amendment eliminates the special 22 percent percentage depletion allowance for certain mine substances—asbestos, lead, mercury, and uranium.

It would allow mining companies to deduct only the cost of their capital investments as other businesses have to do. The amendment would save $33 million over 5 years, and the bulk of this tax break goes to lead mining. I do not think that makes any sense to have this kind of subsidy when State and local and Federal health officials and environmental agencies are spending precious resources for lead abatement and testing.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired. The Senator from New Mexico.
Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I am not going to use my 30 seconds. I just now make a point of order against the amendment under section 305(b)(2) of the Budget Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.
Mr. EXON. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the sections of that act for the consideration of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays on that motion to waive.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to waive the Budget Act. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 43, nays 56.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that my vote on the Bradley amendment No. 3022 be changed from "yea" to "nay." This request will not change the outcome of the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, its so ordered.

The foregoing trolley has been changed to reflect the above order.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is recognized.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN. On rollcall vote No. 548. I voted "no." It was my intention to vote "yea." Therefore, I ask unanimous consent that I be permitted to change my vote. This will in no way change the outcome of the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, its so ordered.

The foregoing trolley has been changed to reflect the above order.

Mr. DOLE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I wonder if we can take a short reading on what may be happening tonight or tomorrow.

I have had a discussion with the distinguished Democratic Senator, Senator Daschle, and I think he is prepared to give us a fairly open report on amendments left on that side.

I will be happy to yield to the Democratic leader.

Mr. Daschle. Mr. President, I have consulted with colleagues and I think we are down to five amendments. One of those may fall. We are within reach now. That is the total on our side.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I think on this side we have just the Finance Committee amendments. As I have indicated, there would be some additional debate on that—probably not more than 10 minutes will be allotted—because it is a 46-page amendment.

I know the Senator from Florida was suggesting additional debate time.

I say to my colleagues, if we can move as quickly as we can here and finish this bill at a reasonable time tonight, we will not be in tomorrow and we will not be in on Monday. I think it would depend on how quickly we can complete action on the bill.

In addition, we are now looking at the Byrd-Exon package on different matters that have been subjected to the Byrd rule. We have not had that list very long, but we have people working on it now to match it against our list to see why some are left out and some are put in. It is a rather selective list.

I suggest that may require some additional votes. I am not certain.

Mr. Daschle. Would the majority leader yield?

Mr. DOLE. I yield.

Mr. Daschle. Did I hear the majority leader say if we can expedite this and come to final passage tonight on the bill, we would not be in session on Monday. Is that correct?

Mr. DOLE. That is correct. We have some conference reports, but I think they can be disposed of very quickly on Tuesday morning.

I have also discussed this with the distinguished Senator from West Virginia, who has a very important appointment on Monday. I want to try to accommodate every Senator where I can. I think I can.

Mr. DOMENICI. Might I discuss the points of order that were submitted as a package by Senator Exon?

Senator, as you might know, since it is a very selective list, it has caused a lot of concern on our side: some are just working with me to see what they want to do about it. The first step we are taking so we will know is, we are comparing your selected list with our list to first find out where there are any that we do not think should be in there.

We would like to handle those in a way—by presenting those to you on the basis that if they do not properly belong in that we might drop them out. We are not sure there are a lot but there are some and they are of concern.

I might reflect for a moment how detached the Senate cleared a reconciliation bill with how many votes? Mr. President. 87-12. That bill was put in the reconciliation bill and it has its own track going. It was never perfected by the U.S. Senate or by any committees in a way that made it absent the Byrd rule problems.

In other words, we handled that on the floor. In turns when you put it in reconciliation, obviously it has a lot of points of order.

We are concerned because most of the Senators on the other side of the aisle and this side voted for that bill. In fact, 87 voted for it. We might want to present to the Senate a package of those Byrd rule violations and see if you all want to waive them on the basis that they got 87 votes, or if you might want to reconsider since they got 87 votes.

After all, we are the ones who vote on the 60-vote number that is required under the law. We can make that decision.

It is not simple. Frankly, it comes late, which is no one's fault. Everybody on our side knew or should have known that, as they moved their committee work law. The Byrd rule was imperative. If we did not know it on the welfare bill—because we were not preparing the welfare bill for reconciliation.

I think we may take a little time tonight because I have a lot of concern on my side for the Senators and I want to make sure they understand and get a chance to evaluate it. I do not think you would deny us that. We will give you adequate time on our major amendment. This is major, major to some people on our side.

With that explanation, let us proceed and we will do the best we can.

Mr. EXON. May I have 30 seconds? I simply say that I will be glad to listen and look at anything that is presented to us. I simply point out to my colleagues that the points raised were the most serious, in my view, of the violations of the Byrd rule. We believe they are all valid points of order and the Parliamentarian has so told us.

We published a comprehensive list of all budget rule violations in yesterday's RECORD. This is no surprise deal. I certainly say that I will look forward to hearing from your side and, as usual, take a careful look at your proposition.

Mr. DOLE. I indicated before. I know that interpreted a section of our Tax Code too narrowly.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Motion to Commit.

Mr. EXON. The next motion would be by the Senator from New Jersey, Senator LAUTENBERG.

I yield to him the 30 seconds I have as part of my time for his disposition.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. This is to come to the Office of the Finance Committee with instructions to report back on an amendment that would expand the deductibility of expenses that occurred in connection with business that one conducts in one's home.

In 1993, the Supreme Court decision drastically reduced the deductibility of items in connection with a home-office kind of business.

If there was a router or a telephone or an accountant and operated out of home, they would lose their deductibility because their clients would not have visited the home.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerks will report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows:

The Senator from New Jersey [Mr. LAUTENBERG] moves to commit S. 1357 to the Committee on Finance with instructions to report the bill back to the Senate within 3 days, not to include any day the Senate is not in session, inserting provisions to expand the deductibility of expenses incurred in connection with the business use of one's home and to offset the resulting costs by adjusting the corporate capital gains tax rate.

Motion to Expand the Home Office Deduction

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I rise today to offer a motion that would benefit home-based small business owners. My motion would send the Senate reconciliation bill back to the Committee on Finance and instruct the committee to insert language expanding the home office deduction. For a relatively small sum, to be offset by a modification to the corporate capital gains tax rate, Congress can remedy a 2-year-old court holding that interpreted a section of our Tax Code too narrowly.

Under current law, a taxpayer may only obtain a home office deduction in one of the following ways: First, if the office is the principal place of business for a trade or business; second, if the office is a place of business used to meet with patients, clients, or customers in the normal course of the taxpayer's trade or business; or third, if the office is physically separate from the home. The Supreme Court holding interpreted the principal place of business too narrowly, thus effectively denying this deduction to taxpayers unless their offices were physically separate from their homes or unless their clients physically visited their offices.

This court decision, and the IRS's subsequent application of it, have prevented taxpayers from obtaining a deduction. Congress intended it to have. The Government should not be providing a disincentive to those persons who have made the decision to work at home, a decision that was most likely based upon economic constraints and family considerations.

Women-owned businesses are being disproportionately hurt by this narrow interpretation of section 280A of our Tax Code. Women are more apt to work out of their homes than men and they should not be punished for choosing to work near their families. By voting for my motion, my colleagues will be sending a profamily message to their constituents.

Expanding this deduction would also help workers who have been displaced by corporate downsizing to remain in the workforce and avoid welfare by de-fraying some of their startup costs. They should be able to go into business for themselves.

The motion would also benefit the elderly and persons with physical disabilities who want to work but for whom commuting to traditional office space would be difficult.

Mr. President, expanding the home office deduction was endorsed by the recently held White House Conference on Small Business, which had participants from every state. The Committee on Finance held a hearing on this matter in June and it has strong support in the small business community. Legislation was introduced earlier this year that would accomplish the same goal I am seeking today. I would ask unanimous consent that a letter written to the Majority Leader DOLE by dozens of small business groups supporting this goal be inserted into the RECORD. I strongly urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support my motion.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

HON. ROBERT DOLE, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR DOLE:

The undersigned associations strongly urge you to cosponsor S. 337, the Home Office Deduction Act. The original sponsors of the bill are Senators O'NEIL G. HATCH, MAX BAUCUS, CHARLES E. GRASSLEY, JAMES J. EXON, ROBERT J. KERREY, JOSEPH I. LIEBERMAN, BENNETT J. JOHNSON, and JOHN H. CHAFFEE.

S. 337 will promote economic growth and enhance property for the nation's workforce. It is designed to ameliorate the economic hardships caused by the 1993 U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Commissioner v. Soliman case.

Tens of thousands of persons stand to lose the home office deduction as a result of the Soliman decision. Particularly if (a) these people visit customers outside the home and (b) they generate revenues of the business outside the home. The list of people potentially losing the deduction includes independent salespersons, plumbers, electricians, remodeling contractors, home builders, veterinarians, travel agents and others. The bill would put home-based businesses like these on a more equal footing with other businesses.

S. 337 is an excellent response to the current spate of corporate downsizings which have resulted in the layoffs of tens of thousands of workers. They, like many other people faced with decision, particularly if (a) these people visit customers outside the home and (b) they generate revenues of the business outside the home. Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this would increase corporate tax rates from 28 to 32 percent in order to expand this deduction of home business expenses, and I believe it adds new language to the bill by way of the home-business expenses.

Therefore, it is subject to a point of order on germaneness, I raise that point under the Budget Act.

Mr. EXON. Pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act, I move to waive the sections of that Act for the consideration of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion to waive the Budget Act.

Mr. EXON. Pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act, I move to waive the sections of that Act for the consideration of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion to waive the Budget Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, I offer this amendment in behalf of Senator STEVENS, Senator BREAUX, and myself. The motion to strike the amendment in behalf of Senator SIMON.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will suspend.

The clerk will report the amendment. The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Illinois [Mr. SIMON, for himself, Mr. STEVENS, and Mr. BREAUX, proposes an amendment numbered 3035]. Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be included at the conclusion of my remarks. There being no objection, this material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

In summary, Mr. President, I believe that the provision in the legislation before disallowing the preferential tax treatment of ESOP loans is bad policy, and I urge support of Senator SIMON's amendment to strike it.

There being no objection, this material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE ESOP ASSOCIATION.

Washington, DC, October 17, 1995.

Re: Incredible Revenue Estimate on Repeal of ESOP Provision.

The revenue estimate for the proposed repeal of the ESOP tax provision known as the ESOP lenders interest exclusion (Code Section 133) is unbelievable for each year estimated.

Fact: the average ESOP leveraged transaction, where borrowed money is used to acquire stock for employee owners, is at most, $5 million per transaction.

Fact: at the highest, only 50 transactions a year since January 1, 1980, have used the tax incentive that is proposed to be repealed.

Fact: 50 times 5 equals 250. If the interest rate on the $250 million in ESOP loans is 10%, the interest paid on these loans is $25 million per year. The lender may exclude $12.5 million of this interest from its income.

The revenue loss is the Treasury is $25 million per year.

The revenue estimates that in the year FY '99, for example, that the revenue loss is $148 million is ridiculous. To reach this level of revenue loss, the amount of 50% plus ESOP transactions would be $8.6 billion per year.

Mr. President, has the experience of cases where employees acquired 50% or more, and use borrowed money. come close to this level.

The ESOP community in its wildest dreams would wish that there were that remain stagnant. employee ownership gives workers a means to share in the profits of their labor. In cases in which employee ownership is significant and in which voting rights are extended to employee owners, as required by section 133, it also can give workers an important voice in corporate decisions.

Beyond helping individual workers, there is significant evidence that employee ownership enhances the competitiveness of corporations. Several studies, including a 1995 study by Douglas Kruse of Rutgers University, have established a positive link between employee ownership and corporate performance. It is no surprise that workers are more productive when they own the fruits of that productivity. In a global economy, shouldn't we be doing everything we can to encourage corporate ownership to be more competitive?

Beyond these substantive policy reasons for striking the anti-ESOP provision in this legislation, I believe that there are budgetary reasons for striking this language. Most notably, it is my understanding that the revenue estimates attached to this provision are grossly overstated. No hearings have been held on the provision or its revenue effects, and the ESOP Association has done an analysis showing the anticipated revenue is extremely unrealistic. I ask that a copy of that analysis be included at the conclusion of my remarks.

In this summary, Mr. President, I believe that the provision in the legislation before disallowing the preferential tax treatment of ESOP loans is bad policy, and I urge support of Senator SIMON's amendment to strike it.
Mr. DOLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

Mr. DOLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I move to reconsider the vote.

Hence. 103 days had passed between March 9, the day that the motion was first made to proceed to take up the bill, and final passage on June 19.

That was a very historic occasion. The vote on cloture was June 10, which was the 100th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's nomination for a second presidential term. The 34 rollcall votes occurred on June 16, and the bill passed on June 19 by a vote of 73 to 27.

Mr. President, this is another historic occasion today. We are about to cast 35 rollcall votes, which will, of course, set a new record, the first such new record in 31 years.

I wish we would pause just a moment and think about the contrast between the bill that was before the Senate then and the bill that is before the Senate now and the 100th anniversary.

The vote on cloture in 1984 was a matter of 100 days. We had 36 rollcall votes, including Saturdays. There had been scores of amendments offered thereon and closure was finally invoked. And then more amendments were called up and additional votes occurred.

Think of the time that it took the Senate to dispose of that bill: 103 days. It was a historic bill. I voted against it. I may regret today. I have said that many times. But here we have a bill that has been before the Senate now 2 days—3 days: only 3 days—and we are limited to 20 hours on this bill—20 hours.

On that bill in 1964, we had 103 days: on this bill the limit is 20 hours and only 2 hours on an amendment, and the motion to proceed to this bill was non-debatable. But we are down to the point now where we have only 30 seconds to the side for debate on an amendment—30 seconds for debate. I am not criticizing either party or anybody in either party, in saying this. I am just concerned and discouraged by what we have in taking place here in the Senate on this bill.

It is a historic bill also, but we have gone from 103 days on a massive bill—one bill—to 29 hours on what consists of a number of bills, not just one bill. No hearings. No hearings on this bill. There were hearings by committees on parts of it, but no single committee had hearings on the whole bill. 1,949 pages.

I am concerned with what we are doing to the Senate, what we are doing to the legislative process. We are inhibited from calling up amendments. We have taken a very significant time to debate on this massive, comprehensive bill, a bill that may be even more far-reaching in some respects than was the civil rights bill of 1964.

I hope that we will, in the coming days and weeks and next year, consider revising the reconciliation process, that part of the legislative process...
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
S 16035

October 27, 1995

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, How can I guarantee you that if we did not have a reconciliation process, what we wanted to change would take 30 years.
Any piece of this amendment could be subject to the exact same 69, 79, 89 days as that legislation, which the distinguished majority leader brought to our attention. That is just too long to change things and turn the deficit around.

My amendment, which is at the desk.
I say to the leader, may I proceed with my amendment?
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.
Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I call up my amendment, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:
The Senator from West Virginia [Mr.
BYRD], for himself, Mr. Fbungold, Mr. Hol-lings, Mr. Simon, Mr. Dorgan, Mr. Robb, and Mr. Bumpers, proposes an amendment numbered 2974.

On page 1469, strike beginning with line 1 and all that follows through page 1509, line 9.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is recognized.
Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, How can we possibly tell the American people that the budget will be balanced in 2002 when we carry out the projections of this reconciliation bill? CBO's deficit estimates have been off the mark by an average of $45 billion per year since 1980.

Yet, we do not only being asked to accept CBO's projections for seven years (as opposed to the usual five-year projections)—we are being asked to then take a so-called "fiscal dividend" that will occur if CBO's projections of a balanced budget turn out to be correct seven years down the road and to use that as the basis for enacting a huge $245 billion tax cut for the year in the bill and apply the savings after the budget is actually balanced, but now.
Let us give Americans a tax cut now and promise them a balanced budget seven years from now. Why? Because it makes good politics. It fooled the American people in 1981. Why not do it to them again in 1995? If we are serious about balancing the budget, let us use the spending cuts that will occur this year and in the coming 7 years to cut the deficit and only to cut the deficit.
The current drag race that is going on between the administration and the Republican Congressional leadership to see who can get to the tax cut finish line first with the most is discouraging and will. I fear ultimately result in a repeat of the failures of Reaganomics—a return to using the American people's credit card to pay for never ending deficits.

There is no fiscal dividend with which to cut taxes. It is a hoax.

I urge Senators to reject the hoax by voting for the pending amendment which eliminates the $245 billion tax cut from this bill and applies the monies to the deficit.

Mr. President, the amendment speaks for itself. It eliminates the tax cut in the bill and applies the savings that are projected—and we know how the projections have been in error so many times, and that is not to be critical of CBO—but it applies the savings to the deficit.

I thank all Senators for listening.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.
Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I think everybody understands this amendment. It would strike all the tax cuts that were provided for children, those where we want to correct the marriage penalty and the like.
Let me say to the leader, let us rather than talk about that. I say to Senator Byrd, your speech was eloquent, and I thank you for it. But I must suggest that you did not help us put this kind of process together, and we thank you for it, because if you had did not helped us put this kind of process together, we could never change the country.

I guarantee you that if we did not have a reconciliation process, what we wanted to change would take 30 years.
Any piece of this amendment could be subject to the exact same 69, 79, 89 days as that legislation, which the distinguished former majority leader brought to our attention. That is just too long to change things and turn things around.

So this year, we get an opportunity to proceed to change the country and vote on very large, significant substantial changes under the privilege of a reconciliation bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.
Mr. DOMENICI. I ask unanimous consent that I be permitted to proceed for 1 additional minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, it is true this is not the cleanest of processes, and I submit a clear reading of the Budget Act. Which, again, the Senator from West Virginia had a very big hand in drawing, that clearly it was intended that when you put a budget of the United States together, that the U.S. Congress would not avail itself of delaying tactics to implement it. As a matter of fact, the implementing of it to make it reconcile with the budget is from whence the word 'reconciliation' comes.

So maybe it is being used for too many things, and maybe it is too difficult, and perhaps we ought to fix that process a bit. But I guarantee you, if you do not find something to take its place and abolish it, you will not change America in important matters for year after year after year.

I like the rules. But I think once a year you ought to comply with the budget of the United States and change the laws to change the country, to comply with the fiscal policy. That is why we are here. It is difficult. I am glad that I am chairman when we broke the record—I am not sure of that, although I am very pleased with the record. We won almost every vote and, for that, I thank the Republicans.
I think they knew what they were voting about and for. Essentially, the truth of the matter is that we have no other way to get it done, as imperfect as it is. I yield the floor.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to table the Byrd amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there

Amendment (No. 2974) was agreed to.

Mr. SIMPSON. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LOTT. I move to lay that motion on the table.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I may be recognized for 15 seconds out of order.

Mr. BYRD. A little earlier I stated that Senator THURMOND and I were the only two Senators who voted on June 16, 1964, and I inadvertently overlooked Mr. PELL, who was here, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mr. INOUYE. Those three Senators also were here on that record date.

I thank the Chair.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, when the vote was announced on the last amendment, was that reconsidered and tabled?

Mr. EXON. As near as I can tell, and I stand to be corrected if I am in error, we have three amendments and possibly one that I do not think will be offered.

At this time, then, to move along, I ask unanimous consent that her amendment be read as follows:

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. President, according to the Mineral Management Service, this provision which Senator WELLSTONE would seek to knock from this bill would produce 320 million barrels of oil in the central gulf which would otherwise not be produced.

I need remind my colleagues that the Mineral Management Service is part of the Department of the Interior. Bruce Babbitt, a Senator who has never been known as being in the pocket of the oil companies—this is backed by Secretary Babbitt. It is backed by Secretary O'Leary.

I ask unanimous consent that her letter be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

The PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE. The Clerk read the following:

The SECRETARY OF ENERGY.

Hon. J. BENNETT JOHNSTON,
Ranking Minority Member, Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, U.S. Senate.

Washington, D.C.

DEAR SENATOR JOHNSTON: The Administration reiterates its support for the title providing deepwater royalty relief to the central and western Gulf of Mexico.

In the energy policy plans, "Sustainable Energy Strategy: Clean and Secure Energy for a Competitive Economy" in July 1995, the Administration outlined its overall energy policy stressing the goals of increased energy productivity, pollution prevention, and enhanced national security. To achieve these goals, "the Nation must make the most efficient use of a diverse portfolio of domestic energy resources that will allow us to meet our energy needs today, tomorrow, and well into the 21st century. The Administration continues to promote the economically beneficial and environmentally sound expansion of domestic energy resources."

In furtherance of this objective, "The Administration's policy is to improve the economic competitiveness of domestic energy production by reducing costs, in order to lessen the impact on this industry of low and volatile oil prices."

One of the ways indicated to lower "pollution costs is...exemptions from federal income and other fiscal incentives to support our domestic energy resource industries."

Finally, the "Strategy" specifically targets the opportunities the Administration perceives to encourage the production of domestic oil and natural gas resources in deep water in the Gulf of Mexico.

One of our best opportunities for adding large new oil reserves can be found in the central and western Gulf of Mexico, particularly deeper water projects, which are a key to timely access to this important resource.

The Administration supports targeted royalty relief to encourage the production of domestic oil and natural gas resources in deep water in the Gulf of Mexico. This step will help unlock the estimated 4 billion barrels of oil that have been left in the deepwater Gulf of Mexico, providing new energy supplies for the future, spurring the development of new technologies, and supporting thousands of jobs in the energy industries. (emphasis in original, page 164)

The royalty relief provision in S. 395 as adopted by the conference committee is targeted to deepwater projects that the Administration supports. For existing leases, it targets relief for only those leases that would not have been offered without the relief. For new leases, the provision is targeted for a specific time period for only a specific number of barrels of production and could be offset by increased bonus bids.

The Minerals Management Service has estimated the revenue impacts of new leasing section 304 of S. 395 for leases in the central and western Gulf of Mexico between 1996 and 2000. The deepwater royalty relief provisions would result in increased bonuses of $485 million—$135 million in additional bonuses on tracts that would have been leased without relief; and $350 million in bonuses from tracts that would not have been leased until after the year 2000, if at all, without the relief. This translates to a present value of $420 million. If the time value of money is being considered, however, the Treasury would forego an estimated $553 million in royalties that would otherwise have been collected through the year 2075. But again, the Treasury would gain the present value of money, this offset in today's dollars is only $220 million. Comparing this to the gain we have from the bonus bids as a net present value basis, the Federal government would be ahead by $200 million.

It is important to note that affected OCS projects would still pay a substantial upfront bonus and then be required to pay a royalty when and if production exceeds their royalty-free period. A royalty-free period as such as that proposed in S. 395, would help ensure marginally viable OCS projects to be developed, thus providing additional energy. Jobs and other important benefits to the country. However, as noted, the Treasury would forego an estimated $553 million in royalties that would otherwise have been collected through the year 2075. But again, the Treasury would gain the present value of money, this offset in today's dollars is only $220 million. Comparing this gain we have from the bonus bids as a net present value basis, the Federal government would be ahead by $200 million.

In contrast, in the absence of thorough reform of the 1872 Mining Law, hard rock mining projects on Federal lands can be initiated without any royalty. The Administration believes that this never required to pay a royalty on the resources developed. The end result is that the value of the benefits from the resources developed. The ability to lower costs of domestic production in the central and western Gulf of Mexico by providing appropriate fiscal incentives will lead to expansion of domestic energy resources, enhance national security, and reduce the deficit. Therefore, the Administration supports the deepwater royalty relief provision of S. 395.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, we are still examining the different items of the package, the so-called Byrd-Exon package on the Byrd rule.

I wonder if we might proceed on the Finance Committee amendment. Senator ROTH I think is prepared to proceed on that amendment. We would be prepared to enter into some lengthier time agreement than the 10 minutes we were allotted under yesterday's unanimous-consent agreement. We would like to keep it as tight as possible, but we understand the Senator from Florida in particular wanted some additional time.

Mr. DASCHLE addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Democratic leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. I have consulted with a number of our colleagues, and I think that a half-hour on either side might accommodate the needs of Senators interested in participating in debate on the Roth amendment if that would accord with the majority leader.

Mr. DOLE. Half-hour on each side.

Mr. DASCHLE. Half-hour on each side.

Mr. DOLE. I ask unanimous consent there be an hour equally divided.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the hour equally divided? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I had been trying to clear a correcting amendment to the D'Amato amendment that had heretofore been adopted. I understand it has been cleared on both sides.

Mr. EXON. It has been cleared on both sides.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I send the amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI], for Mr. D'AMATO, proposes an amendment numbered 10337.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

The amendment is agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I yield back my time.

The amendment is agreed to.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, buried in this gigantic reconciliation bill is a provision. Section 12874, that would amend a carefully wrought bipartisan measure enacted in 1992 to protect the health benefits promised to retired coal miners and their dependents. This provision would jeopardize those health benefits and put the 92,000 retired miners and their dependents at risk. I understand this provision was added at the last minute and is a modification of a bill. S. 878, which has not been the subject of hearings by the Finance Committee. Hiding this provision, that would have on the floor a Congress that has not received careful review or consideration, in a 1,949-page bill is an outrage.

Section 12874 represents a major policy change that would overturn existing state and case law in order to provide a two-year tax break to a select group of coal companies at the expense of other coal companies. In so doing, this provision would not only change a major provision of the Coal Act of 1992, it would also overturn dozens of district and Federal court decisions.

Under the 1992 Coal Act and case law, companies are required to pay health insurance premiums for their former workers, with whom they contractually committed to pay lifetime health benefits. Section 12874 would relieve certain coal companies from this commitment by allowing them to forego these premiums for 2 years.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, over the 7-year period 1996-2002, this provision would produce a net increase of only $8 million.

In light of the fact that Section 12874 represents a major policy change, which would overturn existing statutory and case law, while having a minor budgetary impact of only $8 million over 7 years, it is clearly a violation of section 313(b)(1)(D) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, which reads as follows:

A provision shall be considered extraneous if it produces changes in outlays or revenues which are merely incidental to the non-budgetary components of the provision.

Therefore, it is my view that Section 12874 should be stricken from the reconciliation bill as being in violation of the Byrd Rule.

In addition to the blatant violation of the Byrd Rule, Mr. President, this provision is just bad policy. The 1992 Coal Act was enacted to save the health benefits of over 120,000 miners and their dependents. The situation which led to the need for enactment of the Coal Act was the impending crisis resulting from the dwindling number of coal companies left to pay for the health benefits promised to coal miners and their dependents. This situation is a direct threat to the health and financial status of the Combined Fund, a threat about which the Coal Act averted this crisis by requiring companies to pay the health benefit premiums of their former employees, and further solidified the promises made to the miners that they would keep their lifetime health benefits.

Miners' health benefits have a unique history in that the federal government has played a role since the coal strike of 1946. Over the years, miners gave up increases in wages and pensions and in return were promised lifetime health benefits by the coal companies. Health benefits are important to coal miners. The coal miner lives dangerously, working in cramped, hazardous conditions. The brutal nature of mine work and the risks to miners' health that go hand in hand with this labor make good health benefits extremely important to miners.

The provision included in the Reconciliation legislation would, for two years, provide relief to 26 companies, those companies that were not injured as result of the 1988 National Bituminous Coal Wage Agreement, by reducing the premiums they are required to pay to the Combined Fund if it is calculated that the Fund has a surplus. The calculation of a surplus would be done on the cash method of accounting, not the accrual method, and the surplus would be based on the current year's benefits and administrative costs. Requiring the calculation of a surplus using the cash method of accounting is unwise, could lead to a misleading statement of surplus, and is not the standard practice with regard to health plans. Further, the provision provides that if a shortfall in the Fund occurs, all companies' premiums would be increased, even though only a specific group of companies would get relief.

The financial status of the Combined Fund is precarious. Guy King, the former chief actuary for the Health Care Financing Administration, in an analysis of the Combined Fund, suggests that all of the net assets in the Fund will be necessary to pay benefits for the next ten years. The annual premium increase rate is insufficient to cover the anticipated rate of increase in expenses of the Fund; therefore, the surplus in the Fund is necessary for the Fund to remain solvent in the years ahead. It is patently absurd to absolve certain companies, who can clearly afford to keep their promises, of responsibility for their former employees and, thus, jeopardize the financial status of the Fund. Given the uncertainty surrounding the Combined Fund, I must adamantly oppose this provision to relieve certain companies of their responsibility to their former employees.

Section 12874 is a violation of the Byrd rule because the savings attributed to the provision are solely incidental to the non-budgetary components of the provision. These components are merely incidental to the non-budgetary components of the provision.

The 1992 Coal Act was enacted to save the health benefits of over 120,000 miners and their dependents. In addition, this provision does not adequately safeguard the financial status of the Combined Fund, and would jeopardize the health benefits of 92,000 retired miners and widows, including approximately 27,000 who live in West Virginia. I hope that the Senate will vote to remove this ill-advised provision from the Reconciliation legislation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

There will be 30 minutes on a side. The Chair asks the Senate to be in order.

Mr. ROTH addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, how much time does the Senator desire on the amendment? We have 30 minutes on our side.

Mr. ROTH. Five minutes.

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield 5 minutes to Senator ROTH.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware is recognized for 5 minutes.

Will the Senate please be in order.

(Purpose: To make various changes in the spending control provisions in the matter under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Finance)

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Delaware (Mr. ROTH) proposed an amendment numbered 3038.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.
(The text of the amendment is printed in today's Record under "Amendments")

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, this amendment includes modifications in Medicare and Medicaid. The first change in the Medicare provisions establishes a fully prospective payment system for skilled nursing facilities within 2 years.

Now until this new skilled nursing home prospective system is implemented, the amendment changes how Medicare will pay nursing homes for nonroutine services. The change establishes payments based on each nursing home's cost in 1984 with an inflation adjustment.

The second change in the Medicare provisions is a slower phase-in for changes in Medicare's indirect medical education payments to teaching hospitals.

Mr. President, this amendment also makes several modifications to the Medicaid provisions in the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Would the Senator suspend?

Would the Senators take their conversations off the floor, please?

Mr. ROTH. The—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator suspend? The Chair will start naming Senators. Please take the conversations off the floor.

Mr. THURMONT. That is right.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. ROTH. The first modification would modify the Federal quality standards for nursing homes under Medicaid. We have worked with Senator COHEN on this modification, and he will explain those changes. The modification would reduce the costly and duplicative requirement that States perform predmission screening and annual resident review. In addition, a modified approach to the nurse aide training requirements would make it easier to train nurse aides in rural areas.

The amendment would allow States with equal or stricter nursing home standards to seek a waiver from the Secretary of HHS to use the State standards in lieu of the Federal standards. However, the Secretary of HHS would continue to enforce State compliance with the Federal standards. States not in compliance with the Federal standards would be assessed a penalty of up to 2 percent of their Federal Medicaid funds.

Second, the amendment creates a Medicaid-Medicare integration demonstration project to permit Medicare and Medicaid funding to be combined to provide comprehensive services through integrated systems of care to elderly and disabled individuals who are eligible for both programs.

Third, the amendment creates a separate set-aside for low-income Medicare beneficiaries. This set-aside would be in addition to the set-asides already in the bill for pregnant women and children, the disabled and the elderly. Under this provision States would be required to spend a minimum amount on Medicare premiums for low-income Medicare beneficiaries. The amount States must spend must be at least 90 percent of the average percentage spent on Medicare premiums under Medicaid over fiscal years 1993 through 1995.

Fourth, the amendment requires States to apply the same solvency standards for health plans under Medicaid as the States set for health plans in the private sector.

And fifth, the amendment modifies the distribution formula under the Medicaid program.

Let me start by saying we have worked very hard to improve the Medicaid formula—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's 5 minutes has expired.

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield 2 additional minutes.

Mr. ROTH. To improve the Medicaid formula which was adopted by the Finance Committee. Under the modification, each State's base would be the higher of, first, fiscal year 1995 spending, minus all payments to disproportionate share hospitals; second, fiscal year 1994 spending, including all disproportionate share hospital payments, plus 3.4 percent; or, third, 95 percent of fiscal year 1994 expenditures minus all disproportionate share hospital payments.

Each State's funding would increase by 9 percent for fiscal year 1995. And beginning in fiscal year 1997, each State's base would be increased by a growth rate determined by a formula subject to floors and ceilings. The ceilings have been modified by this amendment. We have tried to give more funds to the high-growth States by raising the high-growth States to 2 percent, and States would be able to carry over a credit of unused Federal funds for 2 consecutive years on a rolling basis. And after 2 years, unused funds from the previous years would begin to go into a redistribution pool. States can apply for additional funds from this redistribution pool.

Finally, the amendment strikes section 216 of the bill limiting causes of action under Federal law.

Finally, the provisions in this amendment are paid for by adopting the 2.6 percent cost-of-living adjustment recently.

Thirty seconds?

Mr. DOMENICI. Fine.

Mr. ROTH. Recently announced by the administration for 1996 for programs under the Finance Committee's jurisdiction and updated by the CPI-W. The CBO baseline assumes the CPI-W would be 3.1 percent.

Mr. President. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. WARNER addressed the Chair. Mr. President, could I seek 1 minute from the manager?
the program for the beneficiaries. Medicare will have more demands upon it than ever before when the baby boom generation begins retiring around the year 2000. We are told that Medicare is underfunded or bankrupt because of the built-in automatic growth of the program which, as I mentioned, has been based on medical price inflation and is one of the principal contributing factors to approaching insolvency. Rather than retrenching the program, as it would, at a rate of 10 to 16 percent per year, we will hold the line at an average of 6.2 percent. I repeat, the program will grow by an average rate of 6.2 percent a year.

This translates into some important numbers that Medicare beneficiaries need to know. In 1995, Federal spending on Medicare will reach $157.7 billion. By the year 2002, the program will have grown to 52 percent to $207.5 billion. This equals for every beneficiary an annual increase in the value of their benefit from $4,800 in 1995 to over $7,000 in 2002. This is growth, Mr. President, not cuts, and we should make every effort to make sure that our constituents fully understand.

Our next priority has been to actually improve Medicare benefits, and much, much work has gone in to determining our course. Should we pursue another top-down big government strategy as we did in 1965, or should we return to the roots of the program and follow the private sector? At the heart of both the best private employers are able to offer their employees a variety of health care choices—choices which best suit the needs of their employees and their families. The Congress is now striving to do the same for Medicare, putting together an array of health insurance options second to none. Older and disabled Americans have earned their Medicare entitlement, and it is our responsibility to make sure we improve it in the best possible manner.

Older people being what they are—and I am over 65 myself so I can say it—many are naturally reluctant to follow the private sector. In my State of Virginia, which has a predominant HMO market, many are naturally reluctant to participate in the marketplace. They are investors in the modern health care marketplace. They are customers. Our job is to lead the way in demonstrating that, depending on the flow of business, we will yield 5 minutes to the Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. ROBERTS will speak on that. Medicare, for example, was the only program to rate an A in the Health magazine consumer survey. We must insist that any reform maintain the track record and avoid the last-minute amendments by the chairman or leaders of the House and Senate which were inserted in the Medicare bill to meet whatever pressure was generated by the leaders. Medicare, we must insist, is not to be used as a piggy bank to pay for other programs.

We do not have unlimited funds. We must talk about the most efficient and effective way of using them. The amendment weakens the Medicare program, and we must insist that any reform preserve what has been a signature achievement of this program. I repeat, Medicare is not to be used as a piggy bank to pay for other programs. Medicare is its own account. The beneficiary would then be given an annual open season to join if they feel that it is right for them. All options will include, for a reasonable copayment, the right to see a favorite physician who might not be in their local plan. Perhaps the most innovative option will be access to newly available medical savings accounts (MSA's).

In my State of Virginia, which has a predominant HMO market, Medicare's have prompted a great deal of interest and support by doctors and patients alike. Medicare would offer a catastrophic health insurance policy which, for example, would cover all costs over $3,000 per year. Remember that today, Medicare hospitalization begins to run out after 60 days in the hospital. The beneficiary would then be given an annual option by curtailing exorbitant growth, and open the door for Medicare beneficiaries to the modern health care marketplace. We should insist as expatriates to protest what is underneath this amendment, a bill that will cut Medicare and Medicaid by unprecedented amounts of money. No last-minute amendments by the managers are going to soften the blow of this combination of Medicaid and Medicare cuts put together. It is a stunning—stunning—cut.

I think there is a number of reasons to reject this bill. I think I need to warn my colleagues that the amendment under discussion today is underhanded. It is underhanded because the amendment magically creates a $1,500 a year which they have no authority to use. The only possible out-of-pocket expense is the out-of-pocket limit. Medicare fund would be rolled over to the next, and would cover all costs over $3,000 in the MSA in just a few years. While an MSA will not be suitable for everyone, it is likely to have a real impact on the health care marketplace and consumer choice. Beneficiaries can shop around for the best price, and providers want their business. Perhaps the most innovative option will be access to newly available medical savings accounts (MSA's).

Moneys not utilized by the end of the year could be rolled over to the next, without tax consequences, or withdrawn as taxable income for personal use. The only possible out-of-pocket expense is the out-of-pocket limit. Medicare fund would be rolled over to the next, and would cover all costs over $3,000 in the MSA in just a few years. Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished manager for recognizing me and allowing me a few moments.

This morning, by a vote of 51 to 48, the U.S. Senate voted in a bipartisan way to restore the OBRA 1987 nursing home regulations. They have worked well. They have served residents well. They have served the taxpayers well, and I am strongly committed to achieving that end once again.

Mr. President, with all due respect to the distinguished manager's amendment that we now have before the Senate, even if a State could operate under a waiver and opt out of the Federal standards, there is no guidance whatsoever as to what the rules or the guidelines would be in granting that determination.

Also, Mr. President, there is a major flaw in this amendment. I say with all due respect. I am just wondering if the distinguished manager knows under what jurisdiction the Director of HCFA or HHS would determine that a state's standards were sufficient to opt out of the Federal standards; there is no guidance whatsoever as to what the rules or the guidelines would be in granting that determination.

Also, Mr. President, there is absolutely no guidance whatsoever as to what the Secretary must do to decide whether or not a State could get a waiver, opt out of the programs, free of Federal regulations is going to be an impossible time to meet.

Mr. President, last month, it was made clear that the regulations that we adopted on a bipartisan basis in 1987 have worked and they have worked well. I do not know of one Member on either side of the aisle who can argue against that. I am very hopeful that when this process is over, that we will have the very strongest standards, and I truly believe that those strongest standards were supported this morning by the vote of 51 to 48 for the so-called Pryor-Cohen amendment adopted by the U.S. Senate.

I hope that will ultimately be the language that will be retained and that we will follow in the decades to come.

Mr. President.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I yield 4 minutes to the manager.

Mr. KENNEDY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, Mr. Kennedy is recognized for 4 minutes.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, Mr. Pryor just said, in his introduction, that this amendment is a disgrace. I ask unanimous consent that I be permitted to change my vote.

Mr. PRYOR. I yield 4 minutes to the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, this amendment purports to improve a very bad bill, but it does nothing, absolutely nothing, to improve the fundamental problem. This Republican program slashes Medicare and Medicaid to pay for tax cuts for the wealthy. It sacrifices working families, children and senior citizens on the altar of sweetheart deals and tax breaks for the powerful special interests.

This amendment symbolizes what is worst about the 2,000 pages of the bill as a whole. Every time you turn one of those pages, something ugly scuttles out. Look at what is in the so-called perfecting amendment.

It weakens the nursing home standards we adopted just this morning. This morning we restored the strongest standards that are in current law and that the Republican bill would have repealed. This evening, our Republican colleagues are trying to water those standards down.

The Medicaid formula changes are the last piece needed to put together a majority. Vote against seniors. Vote against children. Vote against families. For which a State could operate under a waiver, opt out of the programs, free of Federal regulations is going to be an impossible time to meet.

Mr. President, last month, it was made clear that the regulations that we adopted on a bipartisan basis in 1987 have worked and they have worked well. I do not know of one Member on either side of the aisle who can argue against that. I hope that will ultimately be the language that will be retained and that we will follow in the decades to come.

Mr. President.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I yield back the remainder of my time.
he says, "Well, maybe I made a mistake." Well, he did make a mistake. We are returning IRA's to working middle-class families. And we are doing while doing something about the marriage penalty. We always complained about that. There has not been anybody here on the floor who has run and did not say we need to do something about the marriage penalty. That is $12 billion in relief—a move in the right direction. And in student loans, a billion dollars to help pay for the interest.

Mr. President, this is a good bill, and it deserves our support.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. President, I want to take this opportunity to address some of the Medicare and Medicaid provisions of this budget reconciliation legislation.

For the past few months, the debate on Medicare has been rife with partisan finger-pointing. Democrats accuse Republicans of ravaging Medicare. While Republicans counter with charges that the Democrats are failing to restore solvency to the program.

But the simple fact is that Medicare is in trouble. And we are doing something about it. We cannot take the easy route and pretend to senior citizens—the looming crisis. But we cannot take the easy route and pretend to senior citizens—on Medicare beneficiaries—that the crisis will go away if we simply look the other way.

Changes in Medicare are crucial if it is to survive at all for current and future senior citizens. The Republican budget plan takes the tough steps necessary not only to restore solvency to the trust fund but also to prepare Medicare for the 21st century.

The President and congressional Democrats claim that $90 or $100 billion in savings proposed in this bill cut too far and too deep. What the Democrats have proposed would certainly be more politically palatable. But their proposal fails far short of the reforms that will be necessary to prepare Medicare for the future.

Guy King, the former chief actuary for the Health Care Financing Administration, agrees with the Democrats that $90 billion will keep the trust fund solvent until 2006. But, by 2010, the year the baby boomers begin to retire, it will leave Medicare $309 billion in the red. It will be difficult enough to cope with this tidal wave of retirees when Medicare is solvent. It will be impossible if the program is over $300 billion short.

Like the Republican budget, Medicare spending will continue to grow at an average annual rate of 6.2 percent over the next 7 years—less than the current 10 percent rate of growth, but still twice the rate of inflation. In fact, per beneficiary spending in Maine will increase by almost $2,000 over the next 7 years.

Equally important to controlling growth, the proposal will give beneficiaries more choice. The "Medicare Choice" plan contained in the bill closely resembles the Federal Employment-based Health Insurance program. Each year, Medicare beneficiaries will be given information on a number of plans available in their areas. They will then be able to elect to remain in the traditional fee-for-service plan or they can choose among “preferred provider organizations,” such as health maintenance organizations, physician and hospital sponsored networks, or medical savings accounts.

The proposal does include, for the first time, a "affluence test" that would require the wealthiest beneficiaries to pay a fairer share of the costs of the Medicare program. Taxpayers currently subsidize about 70 percent of the costs of Medicare beneficiaries' part B premium cost. The Republican plan phases out these taxpayer subsidies for upper-income retirees and eliminates them completely for individuals with incomes over $100,000 and couples over $175,000. I believe that this is fair. There is no good reason why a working family with an income of $40,000 should be subsidizing wealthy retirees earning more than four times as much. Further, the vast majority of Medicare beneficiaries will not be affected by the change—about 98 percent of all Maine Medicare beneficiaries have an income below the "affluence test" threshold.

I am very pleased that this budget bill includes tough anti-fraud legislation that I introduced earlier this year to help rid Medicare of the fraud and abuse that robs the program of as much as $15 billion a year.

Specifically, the proposal creates tough new criminal statutes to help prosecutors pursue health care fraud more swiftly and efficiently. Increases in fines and penalties for billing Medicare and Medicaid for unnecessary services, over billing, and for other frauds against these and all federal health care programs, and makes it easier to kick fraudulent providers out of the Medicare and Medicaid program, so they do not continue to rip off the system.

More importantly, the bill establishes an anti-fraud and abuse program to coordinate Federal and State efforts against health care fraud, and substantially increases funding for investigative efforts, auditors, and prosecutors by flowing additional fines and penalties collected from health care fraud efforts to law enforcement.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, these provisions will yield $1 billion in scorable savings to Medicare and Medicaid for every senior citizen. I am convinced that the long-term savings are much greater, and that billions more will be saved once dishonest providers realize that we are cracking down on fraud, and that they can no longer get away with illegally padding their bills to pad their own pockets.

The proposal also makes significant reforms in the Medicaid program. Like Medicare, Medicaid is one of our fastest-growing entitlement programs. Over the past few years, Medicaid spending has increased at an alarming rate. Between 1988 and 1993, program costs have more than doubled. From 1990 to 1992, Medicaid grew at an average annual rate of 28 percent, while private insurance costs grew at less than one half that rate.

The current growth in Medicaid spending clearly cannot be sustained by either Federal or State budgets. In Maine, 22 cents out of every dollar spent by the States was to pay for Medicaid, and next year it may be even more. We simply cannot sit back and watch the program consumer get bigger and bigger bites out of the taxpayer dollar each year.

Under this budget plan, the growth in Federal Medicaid spending—which is now just over 10 percent a year—would be limited to a 7.2 percent growth rate in 1996, 6.8 percent in 1997, and 4 percent for the remaining 5 years. The plan achieves the necessary savings by converting Medicaid into a block grant which would guarantee only a lump sum payment to the States with very little in the way of oversight.

While I strongly support increased State flexibility with regard to Medicaid, I believe that some Federal standards should remain in place to help ensure quality and to maintain some protections for vulnerable populations. This is especially important given the fact that the Federal Government will be committing nearly $800 billion in Federal dollars over the next 7 years to the Medicaid program.

Therefore, I worked to ensure that guarantees of coverage for low-income children, pregnant women and the disabled—including the disabled elderly—continue under the Medicaid program. I am pleased that the bill as amended by the Senate includes provisions to provide these minimum guarantees to our vulnerable citizens.

I am also pleased that the final bill includes provisions that I and other moderate Republican Members authored, namely, a requirement that States continue to pay Medicare premiums for low-income Medicaid beneficiaries and requirements that States apply the same solvency requirements on Medicaid providers as on private sector plans.

I am also pleased that this package provides has incorporated several of the provisions included in my legislation, the Private Long-Term Care Family Protection Act of 1995 to improve access to long-term care services. The legislation is aimed not only at improving access to care but also at looking forward in creating incentives for older Americans and their families to plan for future long-term care expenses and removes tax barriers that stifle the private long-term care insurance market. As Chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, I know the obstacles and challenges that older Americans and their families face paying for necessary long-term care. Despite heroic caregiving efforts by spouses, children and friends, many disabled Americans do not receive the appropriate medical and social services they desperately need. Families are literally torn apart or pushed to the brink of financial disaster due to the overwhelming costs of long-term care.

While approximately 38 million people lack basic health insurance, almost every American family is exposed to the catastrophic costs of long-term care. In fact, less than 3 percent of all Americans have insurance to cover long-term care.

Sadly, many families are under the erroneous impression that their current insurance or Medicare will cover necessary long-term care expenses. It is only when a loved-one becomes disabled that they discover coverage is lacking. Long-term care is often financed out-of-pocket.

This bill encourages personal responsibility in a way that makes it easier for individuals to plan for their future long-term care needs. It provides important tax incentives for the purchase of long-term care insurance and places consumer protections on long-term care providers. Quality products will be affordable and accessible to more Americans.

A strong private long-term care market will not only give individuals greater financial security for their future care, but also ease the financial burden on the Federal Government for years to come, as our population ages and more elderly persons need long-term care services.

In addition to providing better access to long-term care services, this bill incorporates a demonstration project I introduced last year to explore ways to better integrate long-term care with the rest of the health care system. Today, many of the most expensive, chronically-ill elderly and disabled Americans are eligible for both Medicare and Medicaid services. While these programs may cover most of their necessary care, patients are often faced with a bias toward institutional care and a maze of complex and often incompatible policies and rules.

The demonstration project included in this bill will allow up to 10 States to pool Medicare and Medicaid dollars for the purpose of creating a more balanced and cost-effective acute and long-term care delivery system. These projects will help States develop ways to better manage the care of high-cost beneficiaries and offer elderly and disabled Americans full integration of services, including case management, preventive care and interventions to avoid institutionalization whenever possible.

I am also very pleased that this bill now maintains the tough Federal standards that are in place to protect elderly and disabled individuals living in nursing homes. Placing a parent, spouse, disabled child, or other loved one in a nursing home is one of the most frightening spectacles a family ever faces. Even once at peace with that decision, the nagging fear that a loved one may not receive adequate care, or may be abused or neglected in a nursing home, continues to haunt the minds of families. The continuation of OBRA '87 nursing home regulations is a major victory for today's two million nursing home residents, and tomorrow's growing elderly and disabled population.

This week I chaired a hearing of the Senate Special Committee on Aging hearing to examine the need for strong Federal quality of care standards in nursing homes. The testimony from family members, advocates, witnesses and residents convinced me more than ever that the Federal Government must continue to play a central role in monitoring and enforcing nursing home standards. Witnesses shared with me heart-wrenching stories of how their family members were overmedicated, placed in physical restraints, and left to sit in their own waste while in nursing homes. I was also handed a picture by a daughter of a nursing home patient that showed a bloody, oozing bed sore that I will not soon forget.

The basis for this Federal nursing home standards law is simple, strong, and clear: that residents in nursing homes which receive Federal Medicare or Medicaid dollars should be treated with care and dignity. The law provides a framework through which facilities can help each resident reach his or her highest potential physical, mental, and general well-being. It also provides critical oversight and enforcement of nursing home standards. Following years of evidence that the states simply did not make enforcement of nursing home standards a high priority.

While the Finance Committee bill required that States include certain quality of care provisions in their Medigrant State plans, I had strong concerns that many of the important OBRA '87 provisions were eliminated that the bill lacked adequate Federal oversight and enforcement of nursing home standards.

Over the past few days I have worked with the Republican leadership and many of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to ensure that this bill keeps intact the standards, enforcement and Federal oversight now contained in current law. No family member should have to lie awake at night worrying if their loved-ones are being abused or neglected in a nursing home. This bill ensures that nursing home residents and families peace of mind that their rights are protected and that the Federal Government will be ensuring States continue to enforce quality standards for nursing home care.

The bill provides for States to receive waivers from the Federal nursing home reform law only in tightly crafted circumstances. Specifically, States may apply for a waiver of standards only if its standards are equal to or more stringent than the Federal requirements. The amendment clearly indicates that such waivers are allowed unless the Secretary approves the waiver, and only if each standard is equal to or more stringent than the Federal standard. Further, the provision specifies that waivers allowed under this section in no way waives or limits the Federal Government's enforcement of tough nursing home standards, patient protections, and other provisions of OBRA 87.

Mr. President, while I believe that the package including home care steps toward reforming Medicare and Medicaid, there are some elements of the proposals that I do not support.

During the course of the debate on the bill, I have supported amendments that were aimed at striking a more appropriate balance between Federal responsibility and State flexibility, and ensuring protections for our most vulnerable populations. This effort is far from complete and I will continue to work toward achieving the goals of deficit reduction and Medicare and Medicaid reform.

Mr. President, let me address the issue raised by my colleague from Arkansas, since he and I have worked for many years in dealing with the nursing home reform. It was called OBRA 87, but it is basically the nursing home reform that we worked 15 to 17 years to develop. We held a hearing this week in the Banking Committee in which we, once again, reaffirmed the need and saw the need to maintain strong Federal standards over nursing homes in our country—not only standards, but enforcement, oversight and enforcement procedures.

This is not, as some might think, a last-minute attempt to weaken and dilute what was done this morning. I should tell my colleagues that I have been working for the past 3 or 4 days with the majority leader and his staff, anticipating that we would have a debate understanding the House of Representatives wants no standards imposed. They want to turn it over to the States entirely.

In anticipating that, I went to the majority leader saying, this is important to me, it is important to us, it is important to the country. We need to develop these standards and do it in a way that we can have broad bipartisan support. So that has been something we have worked on for the past 3 days. In fact, we worked until last night mid-night trying to work out the language.

So I just want to assure my colleagues on the other side, this is not something that has been concocted in the dark of the night in order to weaken what was done this morning. I supported strongly what was done this morning.

A particular measure reaffirms the need to have OBRA 87 standards. We want the nursing home reform standards we passed in 1987. We finally started to get the civil monetary penalties imposed as of July of this year. We finally have some teeth to establish standards. I do not want to see those thrown overboard.

I said to my colleagues on this side of the aisle that we need these standards. I said to my colleagues from Arkansas that agree that we have had these complaints. No law is perfect. We have tried to modify laws over the years to make sure that, if we overreach, if something is too burdensome, too costly, or duplicative, we make changes. So we made some minor changes which I think are positive as far as I am concerned.

The apprehension I had is in the point raised by my friend from Arkansas: that is, "If States show that they have standards equal to or greater than..." I saw that as a red flag and said, wait a minute. I do not want to create, in what much of an exemption I am not sure where the enforcement is going to lie.

I worked very late last night with my staff and with the majority staff to make sure that any State—and I do not know of any State that has the same or better ones than the Federal ones. But assuming States come forward, as they have not in the past, and raise their standards to those at the Federal level, I believe that if they can satisfy the Federal Government cannot fine any nursing home in that particular State, the Federal Government cannot penalize, cannot say you cannot take in any more Medicaid patients. Only the State has the enforcement authority over nursing facilities. I think my colleague from Arkansas that, as I indicated before, the first major change we made in this bill was to delete the parole of the waiver granted under subparagraph (A); and any other authority available to the Secretary to enforce the requirements of section 1919 as so in effect.

What we have done in this section is to say that just because you get a waiver, you are not free from the enforcement provisions here. The Federal Government retains the authority to go in and impose those penalties. Were that not in there, I would not be supporting this.

Let me say one other thing to my colleagues. As I indicated before, the House bill, which I opposed, left out, if they have been granted a waiver, you are not free from the enforcement provisions here. We passed the measure we supported this morning by, I think, three votes. It is my belief—and I support what we did this morning, and I reaffirm that action—that we are going to be in a much stronger position with a majority endorsing what we are doing here and going to the confeerees and saying we want this provision, and it will remain in the bill, and we will have it when it goes to the President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Mr. EXON. Mr. EXON. I yield 1 minute to the Senator from Arkansas.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I thank the manager. Mr. President, on page 38 in section (C)—let me say to my good colleague and friend from Maine that, according to this section and the sections preceding it, if a State has opted out, if they have been granted a waiver for an indeterminate amount of time—and it could be 30 days or 30 years: who knows?—but if that State is under a waiver of the requirement, the Federal Government cannot fine any nursing home in that particular State. The Federal Government cannot penalize, cannot say you cannot take in any more Medicaid patients. Only the State has this jurisdiction.

I am trying to impress upon my friend that, he not knowingly, not willingly, is helping to weaken drastically the nursing home standards that have worked so well since 1987.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I yield 1 minute to the Senator from Minnesota. are going to allocate over $710 billion of your American taxpayers' money over the next 7 years and the standards by which those allocation decisions would be made.

There is no rationale to the allocation formula which is in this bill. I have been asking for better than 36 hours to get the legislative language. Finally, at 6:25 p.m., we got the first version of the legislation but not the last version. The last version came at 9:45.

Let me direct your attention. If you have the 6:25 version, to page 36. I ask someone on the Republican side to explain the theory and philosophy behind this allocation.

On page 36, line 11. it says, "Additional Amounts Described. The additional amounts described in this paragraph are as follows;" these are additional amounts that go to States just because they are the States.

Arizona gets $63 million; Florida gets $250 million; thank you: Georgia gets $34 million; Illinois gets $376.5 million; South Carolina, $181 million: the State of Washington, $250 million.

That was the list as of 6:25. But by 9:45, Vermont has come on for $50 million.

Friends, we have talked a lot about balanced budget, about fiscal prudence and responsible use of taxpayers' money. That is how your money is best spent.

Let me tell you another little fact in terms of the rationale of distribution. Of the States which have two Democratic Senators, the difference between what those States would have received out of a pool of dollars that was $10 billion less—$10 billion less—total money to be distributed. Those States which have two Democratic Senators lost $3.605 billion. Of the States that have two Republican Senators they gained $3.605 billion. Of the States which have two Democratic Senators lost $10 billion less—$10 billion less—total money to be distributed. Those States which have two Republican Senators they gained $11.22 billion.

That is the rationale way in which we are distributing $770 billion of the taxpayers' money.

Now we come to the States that got those absurd allocations? We did it largely because, unlike the Finance Committee which very thoughtfully made the decision to restrict the amount of money that a State could continue to take into its base for allocation, those funds which were derived from what is called disproportionate share, disproportionate share.

What is disproportionate share? It was the amount of money that was distributed to States over the periods of the 1970's and 1980's theoretically to make up for the hospitals that had a high incidence of poor and underserved population. That is an increasing element of the Medicare program. In fact, in 1990, disproportionate share was only $1 billion: by 1992, it had gone to $17.4 billion.

Why had we seen this enormous increase? We had seen the enormous increase according to a GAO report. General Accounting Office report. dated April of this year, because there were States which were scheming this money. The swapping and redirecting of revenues among providers, the State and the Federal Government resulted in increasing incremental increases of funds for providers, and in some cases additional revenue for State treasuries.

So States were manipulating this disproportionate share to their benefit. Under the original Finance Committee, we would have retained and limited the benefit that could have been gained by that previous predatory action. We have now taken all of the constraints off. We have now said the State can go back to 1994 and count every dollar that they had gotten under that disproportionate share.

Let me tell you something, Mr. President. that may be surprising. The GAO did come out with a report on three States. I will be blunt and say who they were: Michigan, Tennessee and Texas. Michigan, Tennessee, and Texas.

Of all of the new money that came into this plan in the last 24 hours, the $10 billion, how much do you think Michigan, Texas and Tennessee got? Mr. President. $6.5 billion. They got almost 2 out of every 3 new dollars that went to those States which have been identified as the principal perverters of the system.

What kind of policy is that? We are going to reward and benefit those States which benefit the most from the Federal taxpayers? What kind of a plan is this? I would be very interested to get a response from our Republican colleagues on that issue.

Friends, the fact that we are about to rape the elderly nursing home, the fact we are raping the Federal Treasury and rewarding inappropriate, I say criminal past behavior is not the end of it.

Where are we getting the $10 billion from? We are getting the $10 billion by raiding Social Security.

The last position of this legislation states that we are going to fund this $10 billion, where it will come from, is because we are going to say that we will break our previous practice of using the Congressional Budget Office as the means of calculating what our deficit position is, and we will for this year take the lower cost-of-living number, which has just recently been reported. leave everything else in our revenue estimates the same, but plug in that new number, which is a 2.6 cost-of-living factor rather than 3.1.

Now, we are not going to do this as it relates to revenue. You know there are some rich people that benefit by this because their taxes are indexed. They get held down by virtue of a higher cost of living. We are only going to use this against the old folks—primarily Social Security and other Federal programs. —who are going to have their money used as the basis of funding this raid in order to benefit a handful of politically powerful—and I would say probably politically greedy—States in order to pass this atrocious proposition.

What has the Congressional Budget Office had to say about this particular raid on the Federal Treasury? The Congressional Budget Office has stated—this is Paul Van de Water, who is the Assistant Director for Budget of the Congressional Budget Office. He states that the Congressional Budget Office and the Office of Management and Budget "do not score savings for legislating a COLA that would happen anyway under current law. This rule was applied to veterans compensation in the last 24 hours.

In other words, we are changing our previous Congressional Budget Office policy.

But, friends, it gets worse. Mr. Van de Water goes on to say that:

At the request of the Budget Committees, the CBO has from time to time updated the baseline to reflect recent economic and technical developments. In such circumstances, however, we insist on incorporating all relevant new information, not just selected items, such as COLAs. In this instance . . .

Friends, listen to this sentence: we were to integrate all of the information in our August baseline, plus the actual 1996 COLA, our estimate of the 2002 deficit . . . would be higher.

It would be higher, not lower.

So we are using a fraudulent method in order to calculate what is presented to be savings in order to fund this atrocious raid on the public Treasury when the Congressional Budget Office has stated that they were asked the right question they would not only not have scored this as creating any additional money, but they would have said that we would have a greater deficit than we started with.

So, friends, that is what we are about with this amendment in the Finance Committee that we have waited 36 hours to get. If you want to know why this stealth bomber was out there all those hours when we kept asking. Can we see what is in this proposal, can we see the legislative language, can we see the State-by-State numbers—we could not get an official stamp. So it is too complicated. It is being worked. The technicians are pouring over it.

I am certain the technicians came up with a formula that gave $11 billion of additional funds to States that just happened to be represented by Republicans and cut the funds from the States that happened to be represented by Democrats. That was just a technical oversight.

And then to have the gall to raid our Social Security fund as a means of financing this, is there no limit to what we ask our older people to do? We are raiding their Medicare, we are raiding other important programs for the elderly. And now we are using their Social Security in this back-door means as the basis to fund an additional $10 billion which does not exist, which would go toward a deficit, to give money to a few favorite States so that they can corral the votes to pass this steamy mess.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE S 16045
My friends, I wish this thing would stay the stealth bomber. It is better if we did not see it than if it finally appeared on the radar scope and we are able to look at it. Mr. President, fellow colleagues, the answer tonight is a simple answer: that is, to defeat this amendment. As bad as the proposal passed by the Finance Committee was, it looked so much better than what we are about to vote upon. We have converted a frog into a beauty with this amendment.

So I urge my colleagues to vote this amendment down, and let us at least consider the correct thing that we in the Senate can have some degree of satisfaction as it is taken up in conference.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate's time has expired. Who yields time?

The Senator from New Mexico has 12 minutes and 32 seconds, and the Senator from Nebraska has 4 minutes, 24 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield myself 6 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, with reference to the formula, let me just state for the record that 46 States are better off under this formula than the House formula. Many of those have Democratic Governors and many of those have Democratic Senators. Many of those have Republican Governors and Republican Senators. Let me repeat. Under this formula, 46 States are better off than in the House formula.

Mr. President, Senator COHEN has adequately answered the remarks with reference to nursing homes. I do not know how anybody could stand on the floor of the U.S. Senate and say that we are raping the nursing homes. I have just heard Senator COHEN, one of the strongest and best advocates, say that has been fixed in this bill. He just said it. He repeated it. He read the language. And so we hear it from that side of the floor.

Let me tell you with reference to the money in this budget that is used for some of the reallocation, that there is nothing wrong with it. It is not phony. It is plain and simple, the fact: We already established in the United States of America that the Consumer Price Index is not 3.1 percent, but rather, 2.6 percent. We are not talking about 3 years from now. We are talking about right now. It is not 3.1, as estimated in this budget. It is 2.6. The reality is that is not going to change. It is 2.6 for the rest of the year. It just has not changed. So if you do the numbers, that saves $13.1 billion. The meaningful $13.1 billion less is being spent because of the real Consumer Price Index—not speculation and not changing anything. That is where you get $13.1 billion. This is because we do not use the tax revenues and spend them. We left them there. So we only used the revenues that I have just described. It does not mean we changed anything on the Tax Code. The taxes are going to come out at the 2.6 level in terms of the bracket creep that will be adjusted. So the argument just misunderstands what we have done and what the reality is.

Having said that, Mr. President, I am led to believe that, in spite of this interoffice memorandum, there is nothing from the Director of the Congressional Budget Office. This is somebody that works there named Paul Van de Water, writing to somebody named Sue Nelson, who is on the staff of the Budget Committee, and gives a little history of what has and has not been done.

The truth of the matter is that Chairman Sasser last year came to the floor—in 1993. excuse me—and he said, "I want to adjust the numbers for reality, for the real thing." And, in fact, he adjusted two items in the budget for what he perceived to be the real numbers. In doing that, revenues and monies were found to make their budget come out as planned.

Frankly, ours is absolutely real because the Consumer Price Index is not 3.1 percent. The checks are going out at 2.6. We are not taking money away from anyone.

I am led to believe this is not subject to a point of order, and we decided that we were going to reallocate some money because a number of States felt that they had not been treated fairly here. Some said they had been treated fairly in the House. Others said they had not, and we still have to go to conference in order to come out with the final formula and final distribution.

So as far as that part is concerned, how the allocations came about, I was not part of that committee. I trust them. I think they did a good job. And the chairman is here. They all worked together. There may be thoughts I need to explain in more detail.

But let me suggest that we in no way—in no way—are attempting to defraud anyone. As a matter of fact, this budget will be balanced in the year 2002, and if you need a letter on that from June O'Neill, we will get it for you.

This does not unbalance the budget, because we have a $13 billion surplus in 2002, and if you do not even come close to using it, so we will still be in balance.

If I have not used my time, I wish to yield it back. And I want to ask Senator Roth if he wants to talk for a couple minutes, or Senator Dole.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 7 minutes 35 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. How much time do we have?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Seven minutes 35 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. We will reserve our time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. EXON. How much time do we have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 4 minutes 24 seconds and previously yielded time. I believe 2 minutes.

Who wishes to yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Arkansas?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas is recognized for 2 minutes.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I will not use all my 2 minutes. Mr. President, I rise to ask a parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. President, this morning by a vote of 51 to 48, the Senate voted for an amendment offered by myself and Senator COHEN of Maine. The amendment was adopted and agreed to. Presently pending is another amendment with different language proposed by the distinguished Chairman of the Finance Committee, Senator ROTH, in the manager's amendment. Should the manager's amendment pass, does the manager's amendment encompass or include the nursing home provisions of Senator ROTH? Does it prevail over the amendment passed this morning by a vote of the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is informed that by virtue of the fact that this amendment covers a broader spectrum of the bill, if the Senate adopts this amendment, it would prevail over the previous text that was included in the smaller reaching amendment that was voted upon this morning.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, then if I have any time remaining, I would simply ask my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, what do they see as operating these nursing home standards that have worked so well for these years, that my colleague from Maine was saying just now are having their bite? Why are we taking that bite out? Why is the amendment excluding that? Mr. President, we are going to be committing a terrible mistake if we do. I hope we will not adopt the chairman's amendment.

Mr. EXON. How much time do I have?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 2 minutes 50 seconds.

Mr. EXON. I yield 2 minutes 50 seconds to the Senator from Florida.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida is recognized for 2 minutes 50 seconds.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I would like to make a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will state the inquiry.

Mr. GRAHAM. Are outlay reductions to the Social Security used to offset the spending of this amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is not in a position to answer that question.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, would the Chair like to be informed on that matter so that he might be in a position to answer that question?

may qualify or try to apply for a waiver. They can do that. If they have penalties that are equal to or greater than what is in the Federal law, they can apply for the waiver.

The Secretary of HHS has 120 days, in which time he either grants it or denies it. And assuming he or she grants it, he or she still retains the authority to go in there and impose penalties upon the State if there is any deviation from the standards. They can suspend and terminate the institution. They can terminate the waiver.

At the bottom of the page, please look at it. "Any other authority available to the Secretary to enforce requirements of section 1919." That is OBRA. That says the Secretary of HHS still has all of the authority to enforce every single provision in OBRA '87, all the way up to the change we made as of this date.

So, I want to assure my colleagues I would not be supporting this if I did not believe that for the first time we have the majority saying we want to maintain OBRA '87. We want the same standards. We want the same enforcement levels. We will provide some opposition to any of the waiver, but only if they measure up to what we expect, and then the Secretary retains the authority to impose every single penalty.

So in many ways we give more authority to the Secretary under these circumstances.

So, please, I hope everyone will not mischaracterize what is being done here.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

The Senator from New Mexico has 2 minutes 13 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield 2 minutes to Senator DOLE.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. DOLE. I just want to say, I think we have a fair discussion of this amendment, and we indicated to the Senator from Florida this morning we would have that discussion. He did have access, as he indicated, to the information at about 8:27. So, I believe we had adequate time to take a look at it.

We made a lot of changes. Changes are always made in a big, big package like this by either party, both parties, whatever. I believe the Senator from Maine and the Senator from Delaware, and others pointed out these have been very constructive changes.

We always have these formula fights, and there is always someone running around with a sheet of paper saying how much one State got over the other State. I can name a State with two Republican Senators where they are getting $500 million less than they had in the committee.

Mr. HARKIN. I raise a point of order under section 310(g) of the Budget Act because the pending amendment achieves its savings by changing the cost-of-living provision of section 215 of the Social Security Act, and changing title II of that act violates section 310(g) of the Congressional Budget Act.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. CPI was not changed as referred in that act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is informed that the provisions in the act cited are not applicable to this instance and that the point of order is not well taken.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. State the inquiry.

Mr. HARKIN. Section 7482 on page 45 of the pending amendment, line 22, states: "Notwithstanding any other provision of law," that is not referencing title II of Social Security?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is informed that that would not be interpreted as referencing anything. That is to indicate that without regard to any other provision of law, this provision of this bill would become law.

Mr. HARKIN. Further parliamentary inquiry.

Is the Chair then ruling that by that very sentence, "Notwithstanding any other provision of law," that that would, in fact, cover title II of Social Security since it is law? And that, "Notwithstanding any other provision of law," therefore, that overrides title II of Social Security?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would state that that interpretation must yield to a clear provision of law. The Senator is asking this Chair to act as a court and make a determination of law and the conflicts of law, and that is not within the proper purview of this Chair.

Mr. HARKIN. Further parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes.

Mr. HARKIN. Is the Chair ruling, as pertains to the rule on Senator GRA-}

The Chair is not ruling—the Chair is not ruling—as the Senator indicated, that the point of order is not debatable. I note the Senator from New Mexico wishes not to make a statement.

The scoring of this bill under the Budget Act is under the control of the chairman of the Budget Committee, and the precedents of the Senate do not go beyond that. The point of order is not well taken.

Mr. HARKIN addressed the Chair.

Mr. DOMENICI. I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. HARKIN. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes.

Mr. HARKIN. Is the Chair ruling, as pertains to the rule on Senator GRA-
Mr. HARKIN. One last parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The regular order is for the Chair to determine if there is a bona fide parliamentary inquiry being presented to the Chair. One further inquiry.

Mr. HARKIN. If that is the ruling of the Chair, the Social Security law must be sealed to attack under reconciliation. How would not section 310(g) of the Budget Act be no hearing meaningless by the precedent the Chair is now setting? The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair has no intention of rendering meaningless any provision of the Budget Act. The Chair is in order to comply with the Budget Act. We are attempting to comply with the Budget Act. The Chair is in order. The Senate is in order. The Chair is in order. The point of order has been confirmed that each and every provision of the Budget Act. The Chair is informed the motion to waive is in order. The motion to waive is not debatable. It is subject to a vote by the Senate. The Chair is informed the motion to waive is not debatable. It is subject to a vote by the Senate. The motion to waive is in order. The motion to waive is not debatable. It is subject to a vote by the Senate.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I think we may be down to the last vote. Our bipartisan staffs have visited with the office of the Parliamentarian. That office has confirmed the PRESIDING OFFICER. If the Senator will withhold. The Senate is in order. Mr. EXON. Mr. President, our bipartisan staffs have visited with the office of the Parliamentarian. That office has confirmed the motion to lay on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other amendments to this bill? Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I think we may be down to the last vote. Our bipartisan staffs have visited with the office of the Parliamentarian. That office has confirmed the motion to lay on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If the motion to waive is in order a violation of the Byrd rule. So I renew my point of order under the Byrd rule. The motion is in order. The motion to waive is in order. The motion to waive is not debatable. It is subject to a vote by the Senate. The Chair interpreter the leader to mean on the motion to waive the point of order? Is there objection?

Five minutes on a side, then, on this issue.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to waive the Budget Act for the consideration of the following provisions and for the language of the provisions if included in the conference report:

Mr. DOMENICI. Let me explain what is in it: only provisions included in the welfare bill.

The reason I did that is because the Senate approved the welfare bill—87 votes on the welfare side. Mr. PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no time for debate.

Mr. DOMENICI. I send it to the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will have to look and see whether there are any of these provisions not covered by the ruling that the Chair was prepared to make. Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Hold up for a minute, please.

What is the parliamentary inquiry? Mr. KERRY. The parliamentary inquiry was whether or not the Chair was in the process of giving a ruling which would assist us to know what the relevancy of the waiver is. The Senator would certainly appreciate hearing the ruling.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will inform the Senate that the Parliamentarian has indicated should be dropped from the statement of extraneous provisions provided by the Senate from Nebraska.

There is now 10 minutes equally divided, 5 minutes on a side. Mrs. BOXER. Parliamentary inquiry. Mr. President, the PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

We have a time agreement now. There can be no further parliamentary inquiry without using the time. Mr. EXON. I yield 1 minute. Mrs. BOXER. I want to know which three the Chair has ruled on.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair has not ruled and will not rule under the Parliamentarian’s advice until the Chair acts on the motion to waive the point of order on a series of these items. Mr. DOMENICI. I yield 3 minutes to the Senator from Pennsylvania. Mrs. BOXER. Parliamentary inquiry. The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no time until we use this 10 minutes, except for that purpose. Mr. KERRY. Parliamentary inquiry takes precedence over request for time. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Not unless—

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield 3 minutes to the Senator from Pennsylvania. Mr. SANTORUM. I want to tell people who know what is in this motion. What this motion would do, what the motion of the Senator from Nebraska would do is strike the 5-year limit. There will no longer be a time limit on welfare.

Some people would like that, but we voted 87 to 12. You want to end welfare as we know it, in what the President said he campaigned on, put a time limit on welfare. If this motion is not waived, we will not have a time limit on welfare.

The growth formula—we worked very long and hard on trying to find money to be able to give to the States as they grow under the welfare system. All the growth formulas are struck—no more money. Whatever you get in the original formula, you do not get any additional money. We do not take into account any growth in welfare population. They strike it all.

Want to provide for assisted suicide payments? You can do that. Under the original bill, you cannot actually reimburse people who actually tried to go out and help people kill somebody else. Now you can. You can do it because we will strike it under this provision.

There is a laundry list of things here that are just punitive. We had a vote. Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, about 2 weeks ago we made a profound mistake in voting the welfare measure we did. A report now surfaces from the White House that says it will instantly plunge 1.1 million children into poverty. If that is the desire of this body, voice not to waive. You have a chance of redemption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 3½ minutes remaining. Mr. EXON. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from South Dakota. Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I voted for the welfare bill, as well.

Let me say I do not hold the same view as the distinguished Senator from New York about the consequences of the bill that we passed here in the Senate. Obviously, I would like to see a lot more done in welfare reform, and ultimately I think we will do a lot more. If we feel strongly about welfare, it is important enough to separate out from reconciliation. It ought to stand on its own. It ought to be considered policy for policy sake, not a source of revenue, referred out of current welfare programs into other things. That is what we are doing in the reconciliation package. That is why I support the point of order raised by the ranking member, the Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield back the balance of our time. I ask for the yeas and nays on the motion to waive.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska has 2 minutes remaining.

Mr. EXON. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from West Virginia. Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I voted for the welfare bill, but I did not vote on each of the items, which may be in violation of the Byrd rule on this bill. That is what we are narrowing it down... to at this point. Is it extraneous to the reconciliation bill?

A point of order has been made against provisions, as being in violation of the Byrd rule. That is the question to be decided.

The Senator from New Mexico, the distinguished manager, has moved to waive this Byrd rule point of order.

The Senate will vote one way or the other. If the Senate votes to waive the point of order, then there is no point of order. It falls. But if the Senate votes not to waive the point of order, then the Chair will rule on each of the amendments. either en bloc, or if there are one or two that the Chair disagrees with, he can so state, as he sees it.

I hope the Senate will uphold the Byrd rule, the intention of which was to rule out extraneous matter in reconciliation bills. No matter what your thinking is on the welfare bill—and the point of order has now been made—is that this is an important in the context of the interpretations that have been made, the precedents, the definitions, and the rule itself?

I hope the Senate will vote against the motion to waive so that the Chair may rule on the point of order.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I wonder if I could reclaim 45 seconds of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The request.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President. I wonder if I could reclaim 45 seconds of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The request.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I wonder if I could reclaim 45 seconds of my time.

Mr. CONRAD. Thirty seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further proceedings under the quorum call be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber who desire to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 53, nays 46, as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator withhold the Chair to state one question?

Mr. DOLE. The Chair is not going to rule.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. No, but I wish to state that the Chair has been informed that each of these extraneous provisions is subject to a motion to waive. It would be incumbent on the Chair somehow to get an agreement with the Senate how to handle this. We have never handled such a massive list of extraneous provisions before.

The majority leader has suggested a quorum. The clerk will call the roll. There is this problem.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DOLE. I ask unanimous consent that further proceedings under the quorum call be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I think rather than take further time of the Senate tonight, we can knock all the other provisions out in conference with the Byrd rule, the very selective list sent up by the Democrats. We can take care of the other provisions in a conference. They are also subject to the Byrd rule. So, I think rather than do that here this evening, we will take care of those in conference.

Let the Chair rule, en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is prepared to rule pursuant to the general order provisions that were added to the Byrd rule in 1990. And the Chair, on the advice of the Parliamentarian, does rule that of the 49 items listed on extraneous provisions, 46 are well taken. 3 are not.

Of the provisions regarding exemption of agriculture and horticultural organizations from unrelated business income tax on associate dues.

The second is the tree assistance program under the Committee on Agriculture.

And the third is the provision of the Commerce Committee dealing with the Spectrum language on page 207.

These are the three items.

The Chair must advise that after such a ruling any Senator may appeal the ruling of the Chair.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, just a point of inquiry.

If this material would be incorporated in the conference report, when it comes back would it be subject to the point of order?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is advised it would be.

Mr. DASCHLE. I thank the Chair.

Mr. DOMENICI. Did you rule?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair ruled that 46 items listed on the extraneous provisions are subject to the Byrd rule. Those items are individually appealable.
The clerk will enter in the RECORD those items presented to the Chair and those that were ruled upon pursuant to the advice of the Parliamentarian.

TITLE I—AGRICULTURE

Sec. 2001

The sale of Naval Petroleum Reserves

313B(n)(V) | No budgetary impact. |

Sec. 3002

Depends Insurance Study. Requires Secretary of the Treasury to conduct a study on converting the FICA into a self-funded deposit insurance system.

313B(n)(V) | No budgetary impact. |

TITLE IV—COMMERCE, SCIENCE, AND TRANSPORTATION

Subtitle B. Oil and Gas:

5901 | California Land Directed Sale | Byrd 313B(n)(V) | Savings are mainly incidental to the transfer of Federal land (Novel Valley) to the state of California for the purpose of creating a low-level radioactive waste site. |

5950 | Radio and TV Site Communication Fees | Byrd 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no budgetary impact. Establishment of this section would have no impact on revenues because the long-distance telephone already assumes that the BLM and the Forest Service would raise fees by the level beginning in 1996. |

Subtitle C. Welfare

5505 | Repay in Kind | Byrd 313B(n)(V) | Non-budgetary. Clarifies the Secretary's option to take repay in kind in land and gas. |

5510 | Repay Simplification | Byrd 313B(n)(V) | No budgetary. Requires the Secretary to streamline royalty management requirements, and submit a report to Congress. |

5512 | Delegation to States | Byrd 313B(n)(V) | Delegates various auditing responsibilities to the States. |

Section 505(c)

Resale of highway demonstration projects: | 313B(n)(V) | This section is not within EPA's jurisdiction. |

Subtitle D. Medicaid

2106 | Medicaid Task Force | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no budgetary impact. The Secretary is not to establish and provide administrative support for a Medicaid Task Force; membership is specified. An advisory group is to be established for the Task Force; the membership of the advisory group is specified. |

2123(g) | Authority to Use Portion of Payment for Other Purposes | 313B(n)(V) | Non-budgetary. Requires the Secretary to streamline royalty management requirements, and submit a report to Congress. |

2174 | Individual Enrollment | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no budgetary impact. |

401(b)(3) | Supplemental Grant for Population Increases in Certain States. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, covers. Provides additional grants to States with higher population growth and average spending less than the national average. |

401(b)(4) | Trust Immigrants Under Rules of Former State | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no budgetary impact. A State may apply to a family same or all of the rules, including benefit amounts, or the program operated by the former state if the family has resided in the current State for at least 12 months. |

401(b)(5) | No assistance for More Than Five Years | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, does not count. States may not provide assistance for more than 5 years on a cumulative basis. |

401(b)(6) | State option to Deny Assistance For Out of Medical Births in States. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, does not count. States may deny assistance for a child born out of wedlock to an individual who has not attained 18 years of age, or for the individual. |

401(b)(7) | State option to Deny Assistance For Children Born to Families Receiving Assistance. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, does not count. States may deny assistance for a minor child born to a recipient of assistance. |

401(b)(8) | Grant increased to Reward States that Reduce Out-Of-Wedlock Births. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, does not count. States may deny assistance for a minor child born to a recipient of assistance. |

410 | Performance Bonus and High Performance Bonus | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, covers. States with higher performance improvement receive a bonus. Note: this is paid for with previous year's penalties so in most claims it is not fairly neutral. However, it is a separate fund for current section. |

7202 | Services Provided by Charitable, Religious, or Private Organizations. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no cost impact. Allows States to provide services through contracts with charitable, religious, or private organizations. |

7207 | Disclosure of Receipt of Fed Funds | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no cost impact. |

Subtitle D. SSI:

Chapter 7: 7201 | Eligibility of Maintenance of Effort Requirements Applicable to Optional State Programs for Supplementation of SSI. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no cost impact. Savings offsets to the State. |

Chapter 8: 7205 | Eligibility for SSI Benefits Based on Sec. Sec. Relaxation Age. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no cost impact within the 7-year window. |

Subtitle G. Other welfare:

Chapter 1: 7472 | Reductions in Federal Barriers. | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no direct spending impact. Reduction is on the discretionary side of the budget. |

7487 | Self-Regarding Corrections of Cost of Living Adjustments | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no direct spending impact. Funds that the CPI overstates the cost of living in the U.S. and that the overstatement undermines the equitable administration of Federal benefits. Expresses the Sense of the Senate that Federal law should be corrected to accurately reflect changes in the cost of living. |

TITLE II—LABOR AND HUMAN RESOURCES

Section 10003(a)(1) (“f”(3)(i)) | Participation of Institutions and Administration of Last Programs, Limitation on Certain (Administrative) Expenses. | 313B(n)(V) | Total administrative funds are fixed in 2000 at 70% of the current level, therefore the limitation on indirect expenses and the use of funds for promotion does not save. |

Section 10003(b) | Loan Terms & Conditions. Use of Electronic Forms | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no direct spending impact. Funds that the CPI overstates the cost of living in the U.S. and that the overstatement undermines the equitable administration of Federal benefits. Expresses the Sense of the Senate that Federal law should be corrected to accurately reflect changes in the cost of living. |

Section 10003(c) | Clarifying use of electronic forms does not save. (Not in cost estimate.) | 313B(n)(V) | Excessive, no direct spending impact. Funds that the CPI overstates the cost of living in the U.S. and that the overstatement undermines the equitable administration of Federal benefits. Expresses the Sense of the Senate that Federal law should be corrected to accurately reflect changes in the cost of living. |
Mrs. MURRAY. President, we have been debating this budget reconciliation for several days now, and I must say it looks no better now than it did when we were debating the budget resolution 5 months ago. In fact, the details are more troubling than I could have imagined, and, not surprisingly, the concern in my home State is much greater than I ever predicted.

What worries me most is this budget seems to have no core values or principles that mean anything to American families. Its principles seem to be program cuts for the sake of program cuts, and tax cuts for the sake of tax cuts, with little regard for the consequences. I cannot understand the philosophy that prevails here that we have to somehow scorch the Earth in order to balance the budget.

Mr. President, I too, want to balance this Nation’s budget. In fact, I am proud to say I supported the 1993 budget package. That plan has this Nation on the right track; since its passage, our annual deficits have declined in each consecutive year. Earlier in this debate, I supported a balanced budget proposal put forth by my colleague from North Dakota, Senator CONRAD. His plan would have balanced our Nation’s deficit in a fair and equitable manner. It would have maintained a commitment to education, health care and retirees. It would have brought our spending in line with our national priorities, and it would have postponed the tax breaks until we can afford them. It was a responsible and realistic alternative: most importantly, it had core values and principles that are important to every citizen in this country.

And, I too, want to reduce taxes. Believe me, I know what it takes to raise a family, balance the family books and pay taxes. I know how badly my friends and neighbors want tax relief, and I understand how difficult it can be for families to cope with their tax burdens. I also know how expensive it is for small family businesses to lose businesses to large businesses in the family, and I believe targeted estate tax relief is an example of good tax reform: as is allowing first-time homebuyers to make tax-free IRA withdrawals for the purchase of a new home.

But, there is a right way and there is a wrong way to balance the budget, and the plan before us balances our budget the wrong way. We cannot afford to balance this Nation’s budget on the backs of our children and the elderly, so that those who are already better off can put more cash in their checking accounts. We cannot afford to give tax breaks to people who don’t need them, and then increase taxes on the working poor and health insurance on the elderly.

It is interesting to note that many of my colleagues argue on behalf of this budget package by claiming it will benefit our children and grandchildren in the long run. They claim we will give our children a better economy and lower interest rates tomorrow by balancing the budget today. They fail to note that this plan cuts our investments in the future to do so: programs like Head Start and WIC and college loans and AmeriCorps.

I ask, what good will lower interest rates do for my children and grandchildren if we reduce their access to higher education and vocational training, ultimately limiting their ability to acquire the skills they will need to find a family wage job?

Moreover, the proponents argue these tax breaks will enable families to save more now for the future. However, current estimates reveal that these tax breaks will increase our Nation’s debt by roughly $93 billion. That’s $93 billion our children and grandchildren will be paying back through higher taxes later. This sounds like the 1980’s all over again.

It is imperative that we understand how this budget plan really impacts our children and families. How does this impact average Americans? Does this budget provide hope, or does it tell hardworking Americans they’re on their own? Does it provide security and safety for our children and elderly, or does it lead to uncertainty and anxieties? These are just a few of the important questions I considered when looking at this budget reconciliation. We should be providing hope for the families that are struggling to pay their rent, feed their children and care for their elderly parents. Instead, we are showing these families and their children that the only way to address these difficult issues is to cut the heart out of what makes us great—education, health care and good jobs.

Last month, I held a forum back in Washington State to talk about the varied issues surrounding Medicare. I expected one or two dozen to attend. Instead, over 500 people showed up to express their views. People are concerned. They are anxious, and not quite certain what a $270 billion Medicare cut means to them. How much more money will be taken out of their Social Security check each month? And what are seniors on a fixed income going to get for their sacrifice? I hope it is more than a tax break for somebody else. This budget is not providing certainty or hope. My constituents see difficult times ahead. They are wondering how they will pay for health care.

And then there’s Medicaid. This program serves the elderly in nursing homes, the adult disabled, pregnant women, and children—the most vulnerable in our society, and the working families that support them and care for them every day. This budget will take $187 billion out of Medicaid, do away with the standards of care, block grant the program, and let States decide who won’t have their medical costs covered.

The fears that working families have about the Medicaid cuts can best be summed up by a letter I recently received from a worried mother:

What will happen to our family when my mother, who has Alzheimer’s disease and lives with us, has no more funds and we can no longer care for her at home? My children work at education departments. Does this cut mean to my husband and me working. If one of us becomes unemployed or must take on full-time care taking responsibilities, we risk grave financial consequences for all of us.

The lack of social priorities isn’t the only problem in this budget. It fundamentally stalls the best economic development initiatives this country has in order to compete in the global marketplace.

There are over 30,000 Boeing employees in my home State on strike as we speak. There No. 1 issue is job security. The global economy and increased competition has made these employees, and many others like them, uncertain about the future. They increasingly look to us for support. They want to know what the Federal Government will do to help them compete in the global marketplace.

This budget provides no security or hope. Instead, it proposes deep cuts in trade promotion programs and trade adjustment assistance. It demoralizes the Commerce Department at a time when Secretary Brown has maximized
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

October 27, 1995

Perhaps the most successful of the proposals introduced today, I think, is Senator Hollings’ amendment to fund the Corporation for National and Community Service, which provides an opportunity for young people to serve in the community and the country, as well as an opportunity for our nation to be served.

I am concerned about the impacts of this budget and the way that it is structured. It is not good public policy. It is not in the best interests of our nation to balance the budget in the manner that has been proposed.

The American people are entitled to a budget that is fair and balanced, that is just and equitable, and that is responsible. The budget that has been proposed today is not that kind of budget. It is a budget that is based on cuts and reductions, not on investments and growth.

The cuts that have been proposed in this budget will have a negative impact on our economy and on our nation’s future. They will lead to job losses, to reduced economic growth, and to lower standards of living for all Americans.

I am concerned about the impact of these cuts on our nation’s investment in education, in health care, in research and development, and in our nation’s infrastructure.

We cannot afford to cut back on these investments. We need to invest in our nation’s future, not to cut it off.

The cuts that have been proposed in this budget will have a negative impact on our nation’s public services. They will lead to reductions in funding for programs that are essential to the well-being of our nation’s citizens.

The cuts that have been proposed in this budget will have a negative impact on our nation’s environment. They will lead to reductions in funding for programs that are essential to the protection of our nation’s natural resources.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, an independent study of the Bureau of Reclamation's Government-owned, Government-operated aircraft service in Boise, ID, found that it saves more tax dollars than other options, including contracting out. Would the chairman agree that the committee did not intend to eliminate truly cost-effective programs that happened to be Government-owned and operated, such as that of the Bureau of Reclamation in Idaho?

Mr. MURKOWSKI. The Senator is correct. Let me assure the Senators from Idaho that we are committed to achieving the best and fairest deal for American taxpayers. We will work in conference to further clarify the changes in S. 1357 to address the concerns of my colleagues from Idaho.

Mr. KEMPThORNE. Mr. President, I think the chairman for making a clarification that I believe will serve the best interests of taxpayers and the efficient delivery of Government services.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I also think we might be accommodating our concerns while preserving the fairness and cost savings of the Energy Committee's provisions.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I am pleased that this bill contains the essential elements of S. 359, the Capital Formation Act of 1995.

That bill, which I cosponsored with Senator HATCH, had over 40 cosponsors. I am pleased that the bill before us contains a broad-based capital gains tax cut as well as a targeted provision which provides a sweetened incentive to invest in small businesses. I would have liked it if the real estate loss provision had been included in the Senate Finance Committee and I intend to work to see that that provision is included in conference.

I think it is important to understand that the benefits of a capital gains cut are not limited to the wealthy. Anyone who has stock, who has money invested in a mutual fund, who has investment property, who has a stock option plan has a state in this debate. We are talking about millions and millions of American families.

Unlike most other industrialized nations, we stifle savings and investment and are robbing that savings and investment.

This capital gains bill rewards those who are willing to invest their money and not spend it. It rewards people who put their money in places where it will add to our national pool of savings. Businesses can draw on this pool of savings to meet their capital needs, expand their businesses, and hire more workers.

Of course, people who are wealthy can benefit from this proposal capital gains cut but only because they are willing to put their money in places where that money will create wealth. I would like to close with a quote from this year's Nobel Prize winner in economics, Robert Lucas. He said, and I quote, "When I left graduate school in 1963, I believed that the single most desirable change in the U.S. tax structure would be the taxation of gains as ordinary income. I now believe that neither capital gains nor any of the income from capital should be taxed at all." Professor Lucas goes on to say that his analysis shows that even under conservative assumptions, eliminating capital gains taxes would increase available capital in this country by about 35 percent.

I could not agree more on the need to increase available capital and I would invite anyone who does not think we have a problem with available capital to visit any of the thousands of economically distressed urban and rural countries across this country. While the capital gains provision before us reduces, but does not eliminate the tax on capital gains as Professor Lucas would prefer. I hope that you will join in supporting this provision.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I voted for the resolution offered by the senior Senator from Pennsylvania which expresses the sense of the Senate that this body should enact a flat tax.

Our current Tax system is complicated and almost incomprehensible to many of our citizens who must comply with its provisions.
It is high time that we simplify the Tax Code. Simplification should and must be on the front burner. We need to consider a flat tax in our search for simplification. But, whatever we do, we must not abandon fundamental fairness and progressivity.

A number of questions remain to be answered with respect to the flat tax. What will be the impact of distorting the mortgage interest deduction or the charitable deduction? If companies can no longer deduct their contributions to employee pension plans or health care plans—will they continue to make those contributions? There are a lot of questions that need to be answered about a flat tax. But it does have one thing going for it. It has to be simpler than our current code.

As we develop an alternative to the current tax structure, we want to keep an eye on simplicity and fairness. We need an alternative to our current Tax Code. This sense-of-the-Senate resolution starts us on our way to structuring a simplified tax system.

EMPOWERMENT ZONE AND ENTERPRISE COMMUNITIES

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President. I had intended to offer an amendment with Senator Abraham to supercharge the enterprise communities and empowerment zones that were created in 1993. This amendment builds on S. 1252, the Enhanced Enterprise Zone Act of 1995, which I have introduced with Senator Abraham. Our effort has been very bipartisan—Senator Santorum, Morseley-Braun, DeWine-Breaux, and Frist have all agreed to sign on as cosponsors of S. 1252.

Across this country, there are differing views on the state of race relations, affirmative action, and minority set-aside programs like the 8(a) program. Racial divisions in this country have been highlighted by the O.J. Simpson trial and to some extent, I believe, by the Million Man March that came out of the Million Man March.

The differences across America on issues like affirmative action and 8(a) also exist among Members of the U.S. Senate. That being said, I believe that each and every Member of the Senate believes the following: that regardless of what we each believe we should do about the racial divisions in this country, what to do about affirmative action, and what to do about minority set-aside programs, we all believe that not enough is being done to help those people who live and work in and want to start business in the economically distressed urban and rural areas of this country. Any response to the economic distress in urban and rural areas which does not include a mechanism to attract businesses and jobs back to these areas is a response that is destined for failure.

Last week the Senate Small Business Committee held a hearing on S. 1252 and former Housing Secretary Jack Kemp had this to say:

"In my week in office so much the inability to reconcile the differences between the House and the Senate over the budget..."
one exception: children would be allowed to take a 10-year loan against this money for their higher education. Thanks to the wonders of compound interest, the amount would more than double, making it a potential source of economic growth unless we act now to block this potential. I believe Kid$ave helps us meet that challenge in an affordable, responsible way. If there is going to be a tax credit to help families with children, I believe there is no better way to provide that help than to offer parents the opportunity to ensure a sound financial future for their children.

That is good news for the future. But Kid$ave is not the only proposal on the table today by creating a pool of savings available for investment. As you know, savings and investment rates in the United States are at historic lows: our household savings rate is 4.6 percent of disposable income, compared to Japan's 14.8 percent and Germany's 12.3 percent. When government deficits are factored in, U.S. net national savings is less than 2 percent of GDP. When our current trade deficits are added to our plummeting savings rates, the result is an immense disinvestment in our economic future.

While the Social Security trust fund is a credit to future generations, Kid$ave would create a savings pool that would soon be the largest in the country, available for investment directly in our economy. It would deal directly with our national savings problem. It would work for a long-term solution to the social and economic problems we face today, and for the long-term interests of all our children.

The proposal speaks to the problems we will face from changing national demographics. Because the baby boom is such a large population group, we will be imposing a vast financial burden on our children's generation to fund upcoming social security, pension and health care obligations, jeopardizing the long term availability of those programs to the following generations of America.

This will create what Profcsew Rudy Dornbusch of MIT calls a true crunch in world capital markets, since we share that demographics problem with our industrial competitors in Europe and Asia. That capital shortages—which means higher government and private sector borrowing to meet social and pension obligations and resulting sky high interest rates—will have serious ramifications for future economic growth unless we act now to head it off. The best course to take is to encourage a large buildup in private savings rates. Kid$ave tackles that problem head on.

One additional advantage of Kid$ave should be noted, although it is harder to quantify at this time. This is the effect of encouraging Americans to save. Not only will Kid$ave help families to have a tax cut in their lifetime, but it has been lost in recent decades, replaced by a credit card mentality. We would compound our problems if we pass such bad habits on to future generations. Kid$ave can help us turn the tide of in-debtedness into a groundswell of savings and can transform our whole attitude toward money and how to use it to best advantage. That will yield in-calculable dividends for our nation and our children.

I would like to offer Kid$ave to all children in America. But I understand that revenue targets may require limits on who receives the credit. At least at the outset. I also understand that the Senate is divided between those who would like to cut taxes for middle-class families now and those who would prefer to balance the budget first. I believe Kid$ave can divide the Kid$ave advocates because it is a better kind of tax cut, one that helps us address the Nation's savings and investment crisis even as it provides tax relief.

But best of all, unlike any other proposal on the table, Kid$ave gives our children a tangible, financial head start on the rest of their lives.

In closing, let me say that whether or not a childhood tax cut is a good idea at this time, this is an idea that improves on that credit. Last week's Baltimore Sun carried an article coauthored by an unlikely pair: John Roher of the AARP and Martha Phillips of the Concord Coalition. As they point out, they do not agree on much, but they do agree that a Kid$ave-like approach to a tax cut makes sense. Mr. President, ask unanimous consent that the text of their article be printed in the RECORD and I would encourage my colleagues to take a close look at this idea.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Baltimore Sun, Oct. 17, 1995]

IF WE MUST HAVE A TAX CREDIT FOR CHILDREN, DO IT THIS WAY

(BY MARTHA PHILLIPS AND JOHN ROTHER)

WASHINGTON—You can probably count on half the fingers of one hand the number of times recently that the Concord Coalition, which works with Congress, the American Association of Retired Persons, which advocates for the elderly, have been under the same umbrella policy battle. The current debate over the child tax credit is one of those rare instances of common ground.

We are dismayed at the prospect of enacting an unnecessary and large tax cut at this time—even one benignly labeled a "child tax credit." A benign" tax cut is the job of reducing the deficit that much tougher and leads to deeper program cuts than otherwise would be necessary, including cuts in programs that help children. The economy is not faltering, so there is little justification for stimulating it by pumping another $500 a year per child into consumer spending. Over the long term, a little more savings means more savings, which is the chief rationale for balancing the budget in the first place.

Congress and the president nevertheless have signed on to the child tax credit notion, so some version seems likely to be enacted. This is not to be a new children's Social Security, but I think we can think of an idea that Senators Bob Kerrey and Joe Lieberman and several others have been working on is much better than anything else we have seen.

Although the specific details remain to be worked out, their central idea is simple. A tax credit of $500 a year per child under age 18 only if the money is invested in qualified retirement accounts for that child's old-age security. Funds in the account would not be liquidated or withdrawn by the child at retirement age.

If the child saves the $500 credit every year from birth for 18 years, that would be a retirement nest egg of $8,000, plus another $4,000 to $18,000 in compounded earnings by the time the child reached age 18. That's nice, but it gets much better. Over every 40-year period since the Great Depression, diversified equity funds have generated returns of somewhere between 8 percent and 10 percent. So, if another $500 is added to the account after age 18, by the time the child reaches age 65, the account would be worth a quarter of a million dollars at a 6 percent real rate of return over three quarters of a million dollars at 8 percent. Leaving the initial $9,000 untouched until age 65 could result in $11.1 million at an average age 8 percent return.

These savings would be available to fuel long-term economic growth and could help provide not only future jobs but an improving standard of living for today's children when they are grown. The impressive results of compounding earnings of 8 percent would help assure old-age economic security for a generation whose prospects today appear uncertain. Since private pensions today cover fewer than half of all workers and since economic surveys show most households with inadequate levels of private retirement savings, it is clear that we need a new approach. The income from these individually-owned retirement savings would permit everyone in future generations to supplement Social Security benefits, as originally intended.

In order to minimize unnecessary risk and overhead, these retirement accounts could be administered by the same government-run employee retirement-savings program. There could be a wide range of investment options combined with the efficiencies and safety of large-scale investments in government bonds.

There will inevitably be pressure to permit non-retirement withdrawals from such accounts. Withdrawals for education or health-care needs may very well be in the child's best long-term interests, but any exceptions permitting early withdrawals must be narrow. The full retirement-income benefit to the individual will be at risk for early withdrawal, and one exception leads to pressures for others. Sensing the long-term benefit of this approach.

A PHASE-OUT FOR THE RICH

There is no need, of course, to give a $500-per-child contribution to children whose parents are already providing for retirement security, so the tax credit should be phased out for higher-income families with the option for those parents to contribute $500 yearly on an after-tax basis.

The intangible benefits of this approach may be hard to measure, but may ultimately be more important. Children who see a little prospect for their future will have a tangible stake in thinking longer term. The fact that these accounts exist in their names from birth over the years will carry, in the importance of other types of deferred-gratification behavior. We shouldn't discount the impact that such accounts will have on our children, even though they cannot use them immediately.

Any legislative proposal must be evaluated in context as part of a budget package. We need to be especially sensitive to the impact of legislation on long-term reductions in tax changes on programs for children, working families, and vulnerable seniors. Again, our organizations do not think we should be cutting major tax cuts at this point. But if Congress is determined to enact a tax cut, we think it should consider this proposal first. It is good for our children, for the economic security and well-being it would provide for the next generation of Americans.

Lieberman and others are working on a proposal that would give children their retirement-age Americans. If Congress is determined to enact a tax cut, we need to be especially sensitive to the impact of any tax changes on programs for children, working families, and vulnerable seniors. Again, our organizations do not think we should be cutting major tax cuts at this point. But if Congress is determined to enact a tax cut, we think it should consider this proposal first. It is good for our children, for the economic security and well-being it would provide for the next generation of Americans. If we may disagree with the particulars they have introduced as legislation, and we may well disagree with the particulars they finally devise. But at bottom, the general proposal remains a very compelling option.

Properly structured, the children's saving credit offers a way to leave a legacy of savings, responsibility, and security to American families of all ages and income levels.

STOP THE BILLION DOLLAR GOLDEN GIVEAWAY:

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, the reconciliation bill promises to cut corporate welfare, save taxpayers' money and improve our national budget. It not only staked away, deep in the more than 2,000 pages of the bill, is a golden give-away of billions of taxpayers' dollars to a powerful special interest lobby.

Initially passed to encourage settlement of the West, the anachronistic 1872 mining law enables gigantic mining interests—many of which are foreign-owned—to purchase the right to mine Federal land for as little as $5 per acre. Literally, for the price of a McDonald's value meal you can buy an acre of Federal land, loaded with gold, silver, platinum and palladium. If this was not enough of a ripoff, the law does not require mining concerns to pay any royalties to American taxpayers for these minerals, an annual loss of roughly $100 million. The net effect of this law is simple: Foreign mining concerns benefit, and American taxpayers get the shaft.

The sham reform contained in the bill does little to change the current situation. Though the bill requires that fair market value be paid, it only applies this standard to the surface of what is often times, barren desert land. No consideration is given to the minerals, to the gold, silver and platinum, which are buried underneath the ground. It sounds good on its face—paying fair market value—but this alleged reform is nothing more than face-saving.

Our conservative colleagues argue endlessly that we need to run the Federal Government more like a business. But how could any business survive, even for a day, by opening its warehouse doors and giving away its product for free?

On top of these fraudulent prospects, the bill's grand fathering provisions guarantee the status quo for over 200 claims currently pending with the Minerals Management Service. These provisions include all manner of incentives—many of which are for mining conglomerates which abandoned the land, often times we are left with dangerous, toxic abandoned mines, which require millions of taxpayers' dollars to clean up. In fact, the Superfund national priority list of hazardous waste sites contains 99 properties associated with mining. The cosmetic mining law reform in this bill is exactly the type of nonsensical policy that has angered many Americans and caused them to lose faith in Government's ability to improve the lives of ordinary people. It ought to be rejected. The pot of gold should be found at the end of the rainbow, not at the end of a patent application. Americans deserve better.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I rise with a few thoughts on this bill overall. And on the cuts we are contemplating in the earned income tax credit (EITC) in particular.

This bill has a lot to recommend it. It provides incentives in the tax code for positive goals. The super IRA provisions will encourage savings. That is a constructive step forward. The capital gains piece will encourage people to put money where it will create wealth—that is to say it will encourage investment. While I've supported a middle-class tax credit, I think we could have made the credit even better by giving it to parents who set up retirement accounts for the kids. Those accounts would be governed by IRA rules with one exception—children under age 18 would be allowed to take a 10-year loan against their account for higher education. And I'm not enthusiastic about what this bill does to Medicare—not because this bill does too much, but because it does too little to change the built-in flaws in this program.

Overall, I'm encouraged by what this bill does to provide incentives for savings and investment and the creation of jobs and capital. However, in terms of incentives it falls woefully short in one area. That is in the dramatic and misguided cuts this bill makes in the earned income tax credit (EITC).

Let me be clear why I think the EITC and why I think that the Republican Party should embrace, not eviscerate this program. Put simply, the EITC provides an incentive to work. It promotes work over welfare and it does so through the Tax Code. Not through a new social service program run by bureaucrats in Washington. That is something the both parties should support and indeed, in the past, both supported the EITC.

President Reagan championed this program as the "best antipoverty, the best pro-family, the best job-creation measure to come out of Congress."

Last week in testimony before the Senate Small Business Committee, former HUD Secretary Kemp cautioned not putting back too far on the EITC "because that is a tax increase on low income workers and the poor which is unconscionable at this time."

I am particularly troubled that the Senate has cut $43 billion out of this program over 7 years, and it is nearly double what the House has cut from the EITC in their reconciliation package. And this cut of $43 billion is a dramatic increase in the cuts this Chamber agreed on during consideration of the budget resolution 5 months ago. That resolution assumed $21 billion in EITC cuts. I found that proposed cut distressing. We are now talking about nearly tripling that cut.

I find that downright alarming.

Here are the people we will hurt the most with this program: Workers without children who receive the EITC. These are workers with incomes under $20,000 a year, and families with incomes above $12,000 and; EITC families with two or more children regardless of how low their income.

In practical terms, about 17 million low- and moderate-income families—including nearly 13 million low-income families with children will feel the impact of these changes. In my home State of Connecticut alone, these changes would amount to an average cut of $311 for over 92,000 families. This simply makes no sense. It takes us further away from our goal of encouraging work and self-sufficiency.

Of course we ought to get rid of waste and fraud in this program. I believe the administration has done a commendable job in helping in that effort. But the increase in this program in recent years has been by design not by fraud and devisiveness. Congress voted against this program in 1986, 1990, and 1993. When the changes we made to the program in 1993 are fully phased in at the end of fiscal year 1996, the EITC will actually grow by very modest rate of 4.5 percent a year.

This program has had bipartisan support because both sides of this aisle have been able to agree that we should use both hands to applaud those who are working their way out of poverty and then use one of those hands to give them the help and support they deserve.

The Democratic Leadership Council with Mr. Lott, pleased to chair, has a long history of support for this program. The research and writing arm of the DLC, the Progressive Policy Institute
This year, both House and Senate have proposed reforms to the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) with the intent to save money relative to increasing the minimum wage. The EITC—which helps millions of low-income working families escape poverty—is an excellent example of the good that can come from political compromise, as well as the bad in its quest to reduce social welfare spending.

This is a program that should not go quietly into the night. Unlike the traditional welfare programs, the EITC is based on the principle of reciprocal responsibility: it says that the government is there to help, but only if you give something back or help yourself in the process. Republicans have supported the credit in the past, in fact, its biggest one-year boost occurred under President Reagan, in 1986. Why change now?

Specifically, the EITC assists low-wage workers by providing a wage supplement up to a certain level of earnings, at which the credit reaches a maximum and then begins to phase out. President Clinton’s five-year, $21 billion expansion of the EITC, approved in 1993, was designed to guarantee that families with full-time, year-round workers would not live in poverty.

But as the program grows— beware welfare with virtually no overhead costs or added bureaucracy, the EITC provides the foundation for any serious effort at welfare reform. The program could use some fine-tuning, but most of the charges leveled by critics are exaggerated or plainly incorrect.

Critics of the EITC, most notably Sen. Don Nickles, Oklahoma Republican, depict it as another out-of-control entitlement program, since its costs have doubled since it was extended. The EITC is one of the fastest-growing government programs, period.”

Mr. Nickles said. “It's growing much faster than Medicare.”

Detractors conveniently ignore, however, that Congress voted to expand the program in 1986, 1990, and 1993, in part as an alternative to increasing the minimum wage. This is in stark contrast to the major entitlement programs such as Medicare, which automatically grow every year with no congressional action. To depict the EITC as simply another exploding entitlement program is simply wrong.

White-Collar Fraud and Abuse. Critics of the EITC claim the program has a fraud rate of 35 to 45 percent, costing taxpayers billions of dollars. This statistic is based on a January 1994 IRS study and is inaccurate and misleading for several reasons.

First, that statistic is an error rate, not a fraud rate. If a worker claimed the credit but was $1 off, or claimed too little, this was included in the error rate statistic. Any of these inadvertent mistakes are corrected by the IRS. Nearly half of the supposed “fraudulent” claims were unintentional errors of this type.

Second, some taxpayers who claimed the credit in error (i.e., when they did not qualify) have been due, uncorrected, due to the complicated tax laws, and therefore failed to claim the credit, in error (i.e., when they did not qualify) have been due, uncorrected, due to the complicated tax laws. Third, the study was based on 1993 returns. Since then, the IRS has implemented new procedures to cut down on fraud, such as double-checking the Social Security numbers of all dependents claimed. Thus, the fraud and error rates will be much lower for 1994 and future tax years.

Work Disincentive. Some critics assert that the EITC is a net work disincentive, because the phase-out of the credit in effect applies an additional 16 to 21 percent tax to earnings within the phase-out range.

It is true that effective marginal tax rates are high in this range, and that the maximum allowable income to be eligible for the credit may be reduced. Nonetheless, recent research shows that the EITC still provides a large net positive work incentive. One study estimates shows that if market entrants worked only 40 hours annually, the expanded credit will increase the labor supply of low-income workers by 20 million hours per year. Since the average EITC recipient worked 1,300 hours in 1993, the final net benefit is probably much larger.

Suggested Reforms. We can get people to move from welfare to work, says the EITC and the EITC ensures that it will. This is why many Republican governors insist that the EITC is an indispensable part of welfare reform. Furthermore, the program is not perfect. Sensible reforms include:

Adjusting the phase-in and phase-out ranges to better serve families in the former and minimize the number in the latter. These changes will place more families in the work incentive range of the EITC without increasing its total cost. Shortening the phase-out will increase the marginal tax rate within the range, but it will affect fewer families. Texas Republican Bill Archer—which passed the Ways and Means Committee last Tuesday—does shorten the phase-out range.) Implementing further policies designed to cut down on fraud, such as requiring valid Social Security numbers for all applicants to prevent undocumented workers from claiming the credit. Finally, requiring firms to notify their low-wage workers that the credit can be applied to each paycheck, rather than collecting the credit at year’s end, can increase the EITC utilization by 5 percent. These changes will place more families in the work incentive range of the EITC without increasing its total cost.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

October 27, 1995

Mr. DAMATO. Mr. President, I rise today to discuss Senator OLYMPIA SNOWE's bill that my colleagues sponsored and the Senate passed last night as part of the Budget Reconciliation bill.

With prostate cancer striking 1 out of every 11 American men and breast cancer attacking 1 out of every 8 American women, we have an obligation to do everything we can to ensure that the best, most effective treatments are available to as many patients as possible.

The amendment expresses the sense of the Senate that Medicare should cover oral hormonal cancer drugs. Oral hormonal drug therapy is critical in treating cancers that have hormonal receptors beyond the prostate and in treating estrogen-receptor-positive breast cancer tumors. These drugs can play a vital role in the postsurgical treatment of this type of breast and prostate cancer because they help prevent the recurrence of these tumors and improve the quality of life for thousands of cancer patients each year.

In the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1993, we directed Medicare to cover several oral cancer drugs. However, the statute requires that those drugs be chemotherapeutic in nature and have been available in injectable or intra-venous form. Oral hormonal cancer drugs do not fall within this category. I believe this is an unintended result of a well-intentioned provision.

The result is that Medicare currently designates against half of all women afflicted with breast cancer by denying coverage for postsurgical drug treatments to those with estrogen receptor positive tumors. Because estrogen-sensitive tumors are more likely to strike post-menopausal women, this type of cancer disproportionately affects Medicare beneficiaries. Denying Medicare coverage for orally administered hormonal therapy is an obvious case of being penny-wise and pound-foolish. Hormonal therapy is a less expensive treatment option when measured against the cost of treating new tumors which can result in the absence of such therapy.

This relatively simple and straightforward amendment puts the Senate on record as expressing its concern about the oversight from the 1993 reconciliation bill. I believe that the conference report on the 1995 reconciliation bill should include a provision to cover oral cancer drugs used in hormonal therapy. I am glad that the Finance Committee raised this amendment, and I am glad to have been an original cosponsor.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I am delighted to learn that the Finance Committee included a provision that would allow tax exempt organizations to be eligible to maintain pensions under section 401(k). It is my understanding that tribal governments would be allowed to sponsor 401(k) plans under the budget reconciliation proposal reported by the Finance Committee.

In order to ensure that I am clear that tribal governments would, in fact, be included under this provision I would like to ask the distinguished chairman of the Finance Committee a question to clarify the Finance Committee's budget reconciliation proposal.

Mr. ROTH. I thank Senator CAMPBELL. I would be happy to answer his question.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Is my understanding correct that tribal governments are eligible to sponsor 401(k) plans under the Finance Committee budget reconciliation proposal?

Mr. ROTH. Yes; that is a correct statement.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I note the presence of the chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee, Senator MCCAIN, and ask if he would have any comments.

Mr. MCCAIN. Senator CAMPBELL, has long been a great advocate for Indian people. I would also like to extend my thanks to Senator ROTH for his efforts to clarify this portion of the pension simplification proposal included in the budget reconciliation measure.

I also wish to thank this opportunity to thank Chairman ROTH for including language affecting section 403(b) plans in the pension simplification section of the bill that will remove a very difficult problem that arose from a misunderstanding about earlier authority provided to tribal education organizations. Several years ago some tribal governments began to purchase plans provided under section 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and experienced some difficulties. Those retirement funds, affecting several tribes and the retirement savings of thousands of tribal employees, are now in jeopardy. I introduced S. 1304 to fix this problem. Chairman ROTH included a similar provision in section 12941 of the bill, and I thank him for that.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I am pleased that this amendment has been agreed to. I hope it will be a step towards ensuring that every Puerto Rican man, woman, and child in America is more than $20,000 in debt. The current trends are not sustainable.
Mr. President, our balanced budget plan is not perfect. If there was an easy solution to our fiscal problems, you can rest assured that Congress would have already found it. I do agree with every provision in the bill before the Senate. If I could pick and choose, there are many priorities that I would change. On the balance, however, I think the product is a good one. It gets the job done. To my colleagues who disagree, I would say the following: you can’t beat something with nothing. If you do not like our balanced budget, you have an obligation to produce an alternative. President Clinton’s plan was recently rejected by the Senate. It is now.

The benefits of a balanced budget far outweigh any temporary pain. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that a balanced budget will result in a reduction of long-term interest rates between 1 and 2 percent. On a typical student loan, that reduction would save American students $8,885. On a typical car loan, it would save the consumer $3,100. On a 30-year fixed mortgage, lower interest rates would save the homeowner $38,653 over the life of the mortgage.

The bill before the Senate will balance the Federal budget in 7 years. That fact has been certified by the Congressional Budget Office. The budget will save Medicare from bankruptcy, and strengthen and protect the program for future generations. The legislation completely overhauls our broken welfare system. It transfers power away from Washington bureaucrats and returns it to State and local officials.

Mr. President, the Senate bill also provides significant tax relief. I know that many of my colleagues have expressed disdain at the idea of cutting taxes. They find it offensive to let American taxpayers keep more of their money. To stand as the only solution, to our Nation’s fiscal problems. The time for talking is over. The time for acting is now.

USEC PRIVATIZATION

Mr. WARNER. In title V of the bill before the Senate there are provisions that will provide for the privatization of the U.S. Enrichment Corporation. I understand the Energy Committee is also reporting this language out as a substitute to S. 755, a bill originally introduced by Senator DOMENICI to accomplish the same purpose.

Mr. President. I commend Senators DOMENICI, MURkowski, JOHNSTON, and others for their efforts to produce legislation that balances our country’s need for a private uranium enrichment company with a nonproliferation solution that assists Russia in its weapons dismantlement. However, as well as your assurance, that the language in the reconciliation bill will allow the Russian Federation an opportunity to be able to fulfill its obligations easily with options, perhaps those offered by U.S. private industry to assist where possible.

With regard to section 5007(c) of the reconciliation bill, the exclusion of U.S. Department of Energy facilities from production of highly enriched uranium. I want to urge the U.S. Enrichment Corporation to make use of sector services and facilities prior to making any contractual work agreements with the corporation.

Mr. MURkowski. Mr. President, it is true that our language allows USEC to contract with existing DOE facilities for activities and services other than the production of highly enriched uranium. To the extent that there is a longstanding government policy that the Federal Government not compete for work that the private industry can supply, I agree that the DOE should defer opportunities to the private sector.

Mr. WARNER. I thank the Senator. I wish now for clarification of section 5007(c), regarding USEC. Does this language provide for contingency private industry provisions to assist the Russians in meeting their obligations in the government-to-government agreement proposed in the United States with low enriched uranium derived from highly enriched uranium?

Mr. MURkowski. The government-to-government agreement for the 500 metric tons of highly enriched uranium contemplates the participation of the United States private sector and Russian enterprises in implementation of the agreement. Section 5012(b) facilitates this implementation by providing mechanisms for private sector entities to purchase the natural uranium component of LEU derived from Russian HEU either directly from Russia or in any auction process, in an open and competitive manner. The United States and Russia also have the ability to increase the quantities delivered in any given year and accelerate the delivery schedule of this material to the United States, provided that this material is introduced into the U.S. commercial fuel market in full accordance with this legislation.

Furthermore, neither this legislation nor the government-to-government agreement limits the ability of Russia to sell additional quantities of enriched uranium, in excess of 500 metric tons called for by the government-to-government agreement to third parties for delivery to the United States, subject to the market restrictions as stated in the bill before us and other applicable law.

All this legislation and its provisions will: First, advance the world’s nonproliferation goals; second, provide the Russian Federation immediate hard currency and, third, assist the Russian Federation in meeting future continuing obligations.

Mr. WARNER. Again, I commend you on this legislation that will promote the United States and Russia’s nonproliferation goals, offer each country an opportunity to use private industry to meet these goals, and present to the world a concerted effort to demilitarize.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I would like to set the record straight on the need to reform the corporate alternative minimum tax. As we have under current law is a nightmare for investment for businesses of all sizes. The AMT is not working as Congress intended when it was adopted in 1986. We never intended the AMT to be a punitive tax that коmpanies that have no profit to borrow money to pay their AMT. Yet this is effectively what current law does to some companies.

There is bipartisan agreement on the need to fix AMT. President Clinton in 1993 recognized the need to fix the AMT and proposed shortening AMT depreciation recovery periods. To date, we have not adopted the President’s proposal in full. For this reason, earlier this year, I joined with Democrats and Republican cosponsors of S. 1000, a reasonable piece of legislation, to help correct this antiinvestment tax system.

While I commend the Finance Committee for taking some action on this issue, that action falls short of what ultimately needs to be done. There are two parts to AMT depreciation—method and recovery period. This bill fixes the first, but like the legislation of the United States or the State of Colorado. This legislation directs the Committee for taking some action on this issue.

Mr. CAMPBELL. The transfer of the Collbran project to the Collbran Conservancy District and Ute Water Conservancy District in the last fiscal quarter of 1990 in return for the payment of $12.9 million by the districts to the United States. The transfer to the districts includes the listed facilities and other assets that comprise the Collbran area, but excludes the Vega recreation facilities owned by the United States or the State of Colorado. Several questions have been regarding the legislation. First, some have raised a concern that it may impact or affect the Plateau Creek pipeline replacement project which has been proposed independently by the Ute Water Conservancy District.

Mr. CAMPBELL. The Committee carefully defined the scope of the transfer so that this legislation will have no affect on the proposed Plateau Creek pipeline replacement project, which will be subject to all requirements of the State and would exist if the transfer did not occur.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Another issue that has arisen is regarding the relationship between the legislation and the Endangered Species Act. In particular, questions have been raised regarding the effect of the payment of $800,000 by the districts for use as a part of the Colorado River Endangered Species Fish Recovery Program, and whether a section 7 consultation will be required for the transfer. My understanding of the legislation is that it has no effect on the Endangered Species Act, and that no determination has been made regarding the existence of any obligation or liability of the Colbran project or other existing water supply projects in the Colorado River Basin in Colorado with respect to species listed and critical habitat designated under the Endangered Species Act. In addition, because the transfer is mandatory, and will not involve any change in project operations or additional review or approval by any Federal agency, there is no need for a section 7 consultation on the transfer.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. That is correct. The legislation provides that, as a condition of the mandatory transfer, $800,000 of the total payment of $12.9 million be provided to the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service for use in the Recovery Implementation Program for the endangered fish species in the Upper Colorado River Basin, which is intended to serve as a reasonable and prudent alternative for water depictions from any existing and future water projects in the Colorado River Basin in Colorado. In the event that any such determination is made in the future, and if the Recovery Implementation Program no longer serves its intended purpose, the Colbran project will be treated the same as any other existing, similarly situated nonfederal project in western Colorado, and the districts will be able to claim credit for this contribution to the same extent as any other entities which have made cash contributions to the Recovery Implementation Program.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. The transfer of the Colbran project to the State and other purposes. However, the lands to be conveyed to the districts do not include the undeveloped lands surrounding Vega Reservoir, as these lands are to be conveyed to the State of Colorado.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I thank my colleagues from Alaska the committee’s intent with respect to part E, subpart III of S. 1357, which provides for the sale and transfer of the Collbran project located in western Colorado. This legislation directs the Secretary of the Interior to transfer the Colbran project to the Colbran Conservancy District and Ute Water Conservancy District. The transfer of the Colbran project to the State and other purposes.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. The Committee has no affect on the proposed Plateau Creek pipeline replacement project, which will be subject to all requirements of the State and would exist if the transfer did not occur.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Another issue that has arisen is regarding the relationship between the legislation and the Endangered Species Act. Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President. I wanted to express my concerns about our proposal that the Senate Committee was unable to include in its final tax package. It is a provision that was contained in the bipartisan capital gains legislation that Senator HATCH and I introduced. S. 959. The provision would change current law in ways that would be extremely helpful to families in my region of the country.

Under current law, when an individual or family sells its principal residence for a gain, and for whatever reason, does not reinvest all of the proceeds in another home, any gain from that transaction is generally treated as a capital gain, and is taxed at more favorable capital gains rates. Special rules apply to individuals over age 55. They are permitted to completely exclude from tax up to $125,000 of their gains from sales of their residences. By contrast, if an individual or family sells a personal residence at a loss, the loss is treated as a non-capital loss, and no part of the loss may be recovered. No capital loss rules for losses on residences are provided under current law. No way presently exists for a family to be made whole from a genuine economic loss.

S. 959, a bipartisan bill that has 45 cosponsors, included a provision to provide some relief to individuals who have experienced the true losses of S. 959 would permit capital losses treatment for loss on the sale of a principal residence. This provision is fair, because it provides that both losses and gains on sale will be treated as capital, not ordinary.

Until the 1980's, the possibility of suffering a loss on the sale of a principal residence was all but unthinkable. Then, starting with the oil price shocks of 1979, we have experienced a series of regional economic slowdowns and recessions that have caused the prices of housing to fall. These occurred first in the Southwestern states, and more recently in California and New England.

Several things—all bad—can happen when the value of a residence falls. In southern California and in New England in the early 1980's, homeowners began to experience what came to be known as the upside-down mortgage. Homeowners found that the value of their homes had fallen so much that the loan they had incurred had exceeded the outstanding debt of the mortgage. Thus, if the homeowners were forced to sell, they would come out of the deal actually owing their lender more money than they had from the sale. Then if the banker foreclosed on the portion of the debt, the homeowners actually owned income tax on the transaction. In 1992, it was estimated that 41 percent of the sales in California were in this upside-down position. The problem of upside-down mortgages in resolving itself in California, but it is a disaster for people caught in that bind. In New England, the downward trend in home values continues; thus, the problem of upside-down mortgages persists.

In my home State of Connecticut, many areas have experienced steep price declines since 1989. The median sales price for an existing home in Hartford was $165,900 in 1989. The median home price has since declined to $133,400. The purchaser of a median priced home in Hartford, in 1989, has lost, on average $32,500 or over 24 percent of their home value over a 5-year period. This represents a loss of roughly $6,500 per year.

Similarly, the median purchase price for an existing home in the New Haven-Meriden Metropolitan Area was $163,400 in 1989. The median home price in New Haven-Meriden metro areas has since declined to $139,600. The purchaser of a median priced home in New Haven-Meriden, in 1989 would have lost $23,800 or slightly more than 17 percent of their home value by 1994. This represents an average annual decline in home equity of $4,780. If people sell their homes at a loss, they have suffered a true economic loss. Moreover, it is a loss that may represent the loss of their biggest source of savings. People who experience a loss on the sale of their homes are often wiped out financially. The provision that Senator HATCH and I included in S. 959 permits capital loss treatment for these painful situations. Because of the mechanical operation of the capital loss rules, it may take many years for a family to recoup the true losses they have experienced. Still, the relief in S. 959 is only partial relief for some individuals. Because of the serious impact on families of these losses, it is only fair that we provide at least the capital loss relief as a form of rough justice so that these families can have some relief from the true losses they have suffered.

This important provision is contained in the House bill. It is my hope that the chairman and the conferees will be able to accept this provision during the conference. It would provide critical relief to families that have sustained genuine losses, and is in the best interests of fairness and family.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I understand the concerns of my friend and colleague from Connecticut and am sympathetic to his position. This provision is an important one and is the right thing to do. A home is often the biggest and most valuable investment that most families ever make. It is only fair that an economic loss on that investment be treated the same as economic losses on other investments. I am personally confident that this provision will provide additional benefits to people who choose to regain a home sale of that home. Like Senator LIEBERMAN, I urge the chairman and the conferees to adopt this provision when it is considered in conference.

AMENDMENT NO. 287

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, there are a number of good things in this amendment, which was offered by my colleague from Arizona. JOHN MCCAIN.
the amendment were drafted differently and was more limited in scope. I would support it.

For example, they have consistently supported efforts to eliminate funding for the Market Promotion Program [MPP], a program that provides subsidies to companies that advertise American agricultural products abroad. Such programs are a reasonable and fundamental cost of doing business for any industry.

If the return on every dollar spent on export promotion is as good as MPP proponents suggest, as it is in terms of jobs and exports, then it would seem to be in the industry's own best interest to bear that cost itself.

I understand that the industry's resources are finite. One more dollar could always be spent on promotional activities, particularly if each dollar produces significant gains in sales. But at some point, the agricultural industry, like any other industry, decides that it cannot costs any more; that the marginal gains do not justify the additional cost. Once the industry defines that point of diminishing returns, it is not appropriate to ask taxpayers to subsidize additional promotional efforts that the industry itself is unwilling to finance.

The amendment also eliminates funding for 266 highway demonstration projects. I strongly support that. Earmarks for well-connected projects is one of the most unfair, least efficient, ways of allocating scarce transportation dollars.

The earmarkings in the House version of last year's National Highway System bill totaled more than $2 billion—funds that would otherwise have been allocated according to the more equitable distribution formula established by ISTEA. I am talking about the 16064 amendment because I served in the House version because I served in the Transportation Committee which, according to the ISTEA formula instead, Arizona would have gotten between $800,000 and $7.6 million more than it did under the bill. The three Arizona projects would most certainly be funded under this alternative approach—they all have merit, and are all of high priority—but the State would have had more to devote to other worthy projects as well. Twenty-seven other States would also have done better under the formula than they did under earmarking.

The Senate refrained from such earmarking last year, and I am pleased that both the House and Senate have refrained from support the provisions of the McCain amendment that would terminate 266 unstarted highway demonstration projects that were authorized or appropriated in prior years. The amendment also eliminates funding for North America. Tourism Administration [USTTA]. Like the Market Promotion Program that offers subsidies to the agricultural industry, the USTTA offers subsidies to the travel industry for promotional activities that I believe the industry ought to bear on its own.

There are other programs, however, that, in my opinion, should not be a part of this package. They are not pork. They are not corporate subsidies. I am talking primarily about the B-2 bomber. This is a program that is in the national interest. This is not an Arizona project, so I am not here to defend it because my State has a major economic interest in its production. I do not differ with my colleague from Arizona very often, but on this issue, I must.

Mr. President. the Nation's long-range bomber force consists primarily of two aircraft: the B-52 and the B-1. The 95 B-52's are all over thirty years old, and their ability to penetrate modern air defenses is doubtful. The 96 B-1's were procured as an interim bomber until B-2's were available.

For forty years, the United States relied on forward presence, or the deployment of large forces in bases around the world. Engagement in almost constant constant maneuvers and exercises. With the decline in defense spending and the withdrawal of U.S. forces for overseas bases, the United States will rely increasingly on smaller military forces, operating principally in association with our allies. In the past six years alone, the U.S. Air Force has reduced its major overseas bases from 38 to 15—a reduction of 81 percent.

Rather than forward presence, current strategy calls for American power to be projected abroad in response to aggression in regional conflicts. The combination of a bomber with stealthy low observable, long-range, and precision strike capabilities provides the Nation with a competency never before achieved. With its range and large payload, B-2's can penetrate enemy air defenses and disrupt enemy advances in the critical early hours of conflict. Before other forces arrive. Later in the conflict, B-2's can strike deep to interdict enemy follow-on forces or high-value strategic targets without fighter escort.

I have two letters that I ask unanimous consent be printed in the RECORD—one from seven former Secretaries of Defense, and the other from the former air commander of the Desert Shield/Desert Storm Air Forces—that further expand on the vital importance of the B-2 bomber to the future Armed Forces of the United States.

For these reasons, I believe that the B-2 remains an integral component of our future national security, and I must, therefore, oppose the amendment.

There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:
The President. The White House, Washington, D.C.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: We are writing you to express our concern about the impending termination of the B-2 bomber program line. After spending over $20 billion to develop this revolutionary aircraft, current plans call for closing out the program with a total of only twenty B-2's. The B-2's are capable of surviving in modern combat environments and offer long-range, and precise strike capabilities that are currently unmatched, and the eventual need to retire the B-2's. As the number of forward-deployed aircraft carriers declines and the U.S. gradually withdraws from its overseas bases.

The 96 B-1's were procured as an interim bomber until B-2's were available. Even after all twenty B-2's are delivered, the inventory of long-range bombers will total barely 200 aircraft. This is not enough to meet future requirements, particularly in view of the attrition that would occur in a nuclear war and the eventual need to retire the B-2's. The number of forward-deployed aircraft carriers declines and the U.S. gradually withdraws from its overseas bases. This will become increasingly difficult to use tactical aircraft in bombing missions. It therefore is essential that steps be taken now to preserve an adequate long-range bomber force.

The B-2 was originally conceived to be the nation's next-generation bomber, and it remains the most effective means of projecting force over great distances. Its range will enable it to reach any point on earth within hours after launch while being deployed at only three secure bases around the world. Its payload and array of munitions will permit it to destroy numerous time-sensitive targets in a single sortie. And perhaps most importantly, its low-observable characteristics will allow it to reach intended targets without fear of interception.

The logic of continuing low-rate production of the B-2 thus is both fiscal and operational. It is already apparent that the end of the Cold War was neither the end of his story nor the end of danger. We hope it also was. It is already apparent that the end of the Cold War was neither the end of history nor the end of danger. We hope it also the end of the Cold War was neither the end of history nor the end of danger. We hope it also

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: We are writing you to express our concern about the impending termination of the B-2 bomber program line. After spending over $20 billion to develop this revolutionary aircraft, current plans call for closing out the program with a total of only twenty B-2's. The B-2's are capable of surviving in modern combat environments and offer long-range, and precise strike capabilities that are currently unmatched, and the eventual need to retire the B-2's. As the number of forward-deployed aircraft carriers declines and the U.S. gradually withdraws from its overseas bases. the B-2 program. The debate has now shifted to the Senate and my concern with our future. How to finance vital national defense policy—has not once or twice, but continually—has not once or twice, but continually been a concern of mine in the past. I am deeply concerned with the future of the B-2 program and the United States. At the heart of the matter is the issue of whether or not to purchase this highly sophisticated weapon system.

The B-2 stealth fighter is the most advanced piece of technology in the world. It is designed to penetrate enemy air defenses and deliver a deadly payload to any target in the world. The B-2 can fly at high speed and at high altitude, making it difficult for enemy fighter jets to intercept. It is also designed to carry a large payload of up to 70,000 pounds, making it capable of carrying a variety of weapons, including cruise missiles.

The B-2 program was initiated in the near term. The Defense Department planned to purchase and field the B-2 in a few years. However, the program was delayed and the cost increased significantly. In the end, the B-2 was not ready for deployment until the mid-1990s. The cost of the program was estimated at $60 billion, making it one of the most expensive weapons programs in history.

The B-2 program was a joint venture between the United States and the United Kingdom. The United States contributed 70% of the cost, while the United Kingdom contributed 30%. The United States was responsible for the development, production, and deployment of the B-2.

The B-2 program was cut by the Bush administration in 1992. The program was then reduced to a single aircraft, which was delivered in 1995. The B-2 program was then suspended indefinitely.

I have always thought that our men and women in service deserve the best possible equipment. The B-2 is a superb weapon system, and I believe that it is a necessary part of our national defense strategy. However, the cost of the program has been a major concern. The B-2 program has been a significant drain on our defense budget, and it is important that we find a way to finance the program without compromising our national defense strategy.
Mr. D'AMATO. Mr. President, I would like to express to Chairman Portz and Senator Moynihan. I certainly understand and sympathize with the concerns raised by Senators D'AMATO and MOYNIHAN. I have received a number of letters from Members on both sides of the aisle that reflect the concerns you have voiced today. In addition, I have received many letters from Governors noting their strong opposition to terminating the low-income housing tax credit.

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. President, I strongly support the provisions of this legislation opening the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska for oil and gas leasing, exploration and development.

Mr. President, the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge [ANWR] is seen by many as a place of great beauty. It is a place of vastness, a place where the land stretches farther than the eye can see. It provides important habitat for muskoxen, brown bears, polar bears, wolves, and millions of birds. The area contains wildlife in coastal plain are well adapted to the extreme Arctic environment. Biological evidence does not support the popular notion that wildlife and plants in the region are fragile things, living on the edge of survival. After a decade of study, there is no evidence that oil development at Prudhoe Bay had an adverse effect on significant numbers of wildlife. The central area of the caribou herd uses Prudhoe Bay and the surrounding area for calving. This herd has grown from 3,000 to 18,000 animals since oil development ceased. During the years of exploration and production, the coastal plain region will still support wildlife, provide recreational opportunities, and be home to the Inupiat Eskimo.

Mr. President, the vegetation and wildlife in coastal plain are well adapted to the extreme Arctic environment. Biological evidence does not support the popular notion that wildlife and plants in the region are fragile things, living on the edge of survival. After a decade of study, there is no evidence that oil development at Prudhoe Bay had an adverse effect on significant numbers of wildlife. The central area of the caribou herd uses Prudhoe Bay and the surrounding area for calving. This herd has grown from 3,000 to 18,000 animals since oil development activities began at Prudhoe Bay in the early 1970's. The caribou live alongside the structures related to oil and gas activity, such as roads, pipelines, and drilling pads, with no ill effects. In fact, while it is true that the porcupine caribou herd uses a portion of the coastal plain for 6 to 8 weeks each year, it is not true that this area contains core calving areas critical to the survival of the 150,000 animals which currently use the herd. In the first place, the herd calves throughout a huge expanse of territory in Canada and Alaska, including portions of ANWR. In some years, probably as a result of snow conditions or the presence of predators, only a very few caribou calve in the coastal plain at all. In other years, there is a higher concentration of calving in the isochronous area of the coastal plain. The widespread and annually variable distribution of calving strongly suggests that no one small portion of this huge calving area is critical to maintaining the viability of the porcupine caribou herd.

Finally, the human activity resulting from oil production would not be new to the coastal plain. Although human presence in the coastal plain region has been relatively light, there has been, and continues to be, evidence of man in the area. There have been three DEW line stations—one of which is still active—there is a Native village, Kaktovik, which has been relocated in the 1960's and three times in the past 10 years, and there have been, and continue to be, salary jobs in the area.

Mr. President, let me now turn to the crucial importance to our Nation of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. For the foreseeable future, oil will remain a critical fuel for the United States and other industrialized nations. Currently, the United States consumes approximately 17 million barrels of oil per day. The Department of Energy projects that under current policies, this may well increase to almost 23 million barrels per day by the year 2010. At the same time, domestic production will decline, resulting in a significant increase in foreign oil imports. DOE projects that domestic production of crude oil will fall from today's level of 6.8 million barrels per day to 5.4 million barrels per day in 2010, a decrease of 21 percent.

Imports of foreign oil are projected to increase substantially by the year 2010, making our Nation dependent on foreign oil for more than 60 percent of our oil needs. This level of import dependence is to our economic vulnerability, it is extremely dangerous for our country.

More significantly, as the Persian Gulf war tragically demonstrated, oil is an important strategic resource, and the struggle to control that region's vast oil reserves can disrupt the delicate balance of peace in the Middle East.

United States oil imports are so massive, and the use of oil is so ingrained in our economy, that a substantial demand for oil will exist for the foreseeable future—certainly well into the early decades of the 21st century. This conclusion remains firm in the face of the current, modest concern about increases in energy efficiency and the substitution of alternative fuels. These policies alone will not suffice. Unless domestic oil production is encouraged and pursued, oil imports may continue to rise, and rise significantly.

By any measure, the coastal plain of ANWR represents the primary prospect... for domestic onshore oil and gas exploration in the United States. The opponents of opening the coastal plain argue that the amount of oil at stake is significant enough to warrant an additional 1002 area supply. However, a single field large enough to supply this country with all of the oil it consumes for 200 days represents a huge reservoir of oil. Eighty percent of all onshore oil fields discovered in the lower 48 States over the last 100 years have contained less than 1 day's supply.

According to the BLM, the mean estimate of oil thought to be economically recoverable from the 1002 area is 3.2 billion barrels. The range of estimated economically recoverable reserves runs from 400 million barrels to over 9 billion barrels. The probability of discovering economically recoverable oil has been estimated by that agency at 46 percent. The oil industry routinely considers probabilities of discovery in the range of 10 percent worth the payment of substantial bonuses for the right to explore for oil.

As many of my colleagues know, the USGS has recently completed its 1995 assessment of onshore oil and gas resources for the United States. In general, the assessment shows an increase in the amount of natural gas thought to be present in northern Alaska and a decrease in the amount of oil thought to be present in that area. The USGS has prepared a preliminary analysis of the oil potential of the coastal plain and has concluded in a draft memorandum that the mean estimate for oil in the 1002 area is slightly less than a billion barrels, with a 1 in 20 chance that some 4 billion barrels are present. The agency is currently in the process of gathering more information from the 1002 area to refine its very preliminary estimates. The BLM, it should be noted, continues to have confidence in its earlier mean estimate of 3.2 billion barrels for the 1002 area.

Since 1980, when we began to debate the issue of opening the coastal plain of ANWR, there have been numerous studies and estimates of the amount of oil likely to be found if the area is opened to leasing. These estimates have been made by the BLM, USGS, the Energy Information Administration, the GAO, the State of Alaska, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, and others. These estimates vary considerably due to different methodologies employed, different interpretations of geologic data, and differing geologic engineering and economic assumptions that are made relative to the methodology.

As a result, it is difficult to directly compare these estimates. However, two important conclusions can be drawn from these estimates.

First, they all reflect a wide range of uncertainty, which is expected for an area that has not been drilled. Until we have reliable well data from the 1002 area, we simply have no way of knowing how great the potential of the area is. Second, all these estimates show a very large potential for oil and gas, with even the lowest estimates that have been made having an upside potential of an economic order of magnitude.

In addition to the benefits to the country provided by the oil itself, the Federal Treasury will also benefit. Under the ANWR provisions contained in the bill currently before the Senate, the CBO estimates that two lease sales in the coastal plain will occur between now and the year 2000, which will result in bonus bids totalling $2.6 billion. The legislation also continues to allow revenue from oil development with the State of Alaska—the same as other western States—which will mean that the Federal Treasury will receive $1.3 billion in new revenue during the next 7 years if the coastal plain is leased. Should oil be discovered and produced from ANWR in significant amounts, a steady stream of royalty income will also accrue to the Federal Treasury for many years to come.

In addition to the direct budget surplus for the Treasury, this measure provides that the Federal share—50%—of bonus bid revenues in excess of $2.6 billion will be made directly available for maintenance, repair, and rehabilitation projects at our Nation's national parks and refuges. This provision will provide a significant funding source for our parks that so desperately need more money.

Mr. President, oil and gas development on the coastal plain is a step that must not be postponed any longer. Most experts agree that it will take up to 10 or 15 years before commercial production could begin if the area is leased this year. Sometime between 2008 and 2014, the DOE estimates that production from Prudhoe Bay and adjacent fields, which currently account for 100% of our domestic oil production, is projected to decline to approximately 300,000 barrels per day. The minimum level needed to operate the Trans-Alaska Pipeline System [TAPS]. If we continue to delay exploration for oil on the coastal plain and develop what we find there, the TAPS could be forced to shut down, and we will have lost our ability to transport billions of barrels of Alaskan oil to waiting consumers.

When Congress enacted the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act in 1980, we declined to designate a portion of ANWR as wilderness and specifically reserved for ourselves the decision on whether that area should be made available for oil and gas leasing. We directed the Secretary of the Interior to study the area and to make recommendations on whether to allow oil and gas development. In 1987, the Secretary recommended that oil and gas development be allowed to take place. Since that report was issued, the issue has been before us—which will cut projected Medicare spending by $270 billion and Medicaid spending by $182 billion—goes far beyond what should be done to achieve this goal, and instead will jeopardize the very programs the reductions are intended to protect. This drastic level of cuts would require that Medicare spending per beneficiary be held to a growth rate of 4.9 percent, while private health insurance will continue to grow at a rate of 7.6 percent per person. It is just not reasonable to expect Medicare to grow by such a small amount, especially when we consider that 200,000 Americans become eligible for the program each month. Just within the 7 years covered by this budget reconciliation bill, Medicare will insure 3.7 million more people than the legislation currently specifies.

We have been told repeatedly by the majority that these $450 billion in cuts are necessary, particularly to save the Medicare program from insolvency.
But according to Medicare actuaries, only $89 billion is needed to extend the Medicare trust fund for 10 years. So why does this bill cut Medicare by $181 billion more than the experts say is necessary—and cut Medicaid by $182 billion? Because this budget reconciliation bill also contains $245 billion in new tax breaks. This will largely benefit the wealthiest in our country.

It is wrong to be making an unprecedented level of cuts to Medicare, Medicaid, and other critical programs while granting tax relief to people making over $100,000 a year. There are many low-income seniors and their families who have no choice but to shift the burden of their uncompensated costs onto their other patients in the form of a block grant and repeals Medicaid funding over to the States in the form of a block grant and repeals Medicaid program over to the states in the form of a block grant. This will force hundreds of thousands of middle-income seniors and their families to pay more for their uncompensated costs onto their other patients in the form of a block grant.

The IMPACT OF THIS BILL ON SENIORS

Under this bill, older Americans will be asked to pay more for their health care but can expect to get less for their money. The premiums that seniors pay out of their Social Security checks will double and could exceed $100 per month in the year 2002. On top of that, their deductible would go up by $100 each year.

I fear that these premium and deductible increases could make Medicare coverage out of reach for some seniors. Most older Americans have very modest incomes. Seventy-five percent of seniors on Medicare live on less than $25,000 a year. And in North Dakota, older Americans get by on even less: 70 percent of our state’s seniors have incomes of under $15,000.

Already, seniors spend 21 percent of their income for health care. In 1994, the average older American spent $2,500 for medical care, prescription drugs, and other health care expenses not covered by Medicare—and this figure does not even include the cost of long-term nursing home care, which averages nearly $40,000 a year.

In addition to costing more, the availability and quality of Medicare that older Americans receive could very well decline. That is because the portion of the cuts that do not fall directly on beneficiaries will be borne by doctors, hospitals, and other health care providers, who will be reimbursed at only 68 percent of the amount they get from private payors. As a result, these cuts could create a second-class health care system for the elderly.

This budget bill, with its $182 billion cut in projected Medicaid spending, could force hundreds of thousands of middle-income seniors and their families to choose between the substantial burden of nursing home costs also. It turns the Medicaid program over to the states in the form of a block grant and repeals the Federal guarantee for nursing home care for the 60 percent of nursing home care for the 60 percent of nursing home care beneficiaries who are eligible for Medicaid—many of whom have already used up their life savings in paying for their care.

CONSEQUENCES OF MEDICARE’S “NEW BLOCK GRANT” FOR THE NEEDY

Our Nation’s seniors are not the only ones who are being asked to pay the bill for tax breaks for wealthy individuals and corporations. Children will also lose under this plan to turn Medicare over to the States as a block grant. One in five children currently receive 22 percent less Medicaid funding over the next 7 years than our State is projected to need. Cutting provider reimbursement rates and enrolling more beneficiaries in managed care will not generate enough savings to offset the loss in Federal funding, so States will have no choice but to terminate coverage for some current recipients or to reduce the benefits offered.

IMPACT ON THE HEALTH CARE SYSTEM

I believe the cuts of the magnitude called for under this bill will also devastate the health care system, particularly in rural areas. The majority of the savings achieved in Medicare will come through reducing payments to hospitals, nursing homes, and other health care professionals.

One-quarter of all rural hospitals are already operating at a loss and are in danger of being shut down if their payments are reduced further. Rural hospitals are dependent largely on Medicare and Medicaid patients for their livelihood. Between 1983 and 1993, the number of rural hospitals dropped by 17 percent, compared to a 2 percent drop in urban hospitals. Patients and providers who are ready suffer from a lack of access to medical care, and additional hospital closings in rural areas will further exacerbate this problem.

Cuts of this magnitude cannot be absorbed within the Medicare system alone, so health care providers may have no choice but to shift the burden for their uncompensated costs onto their other patients in the form of higher fees. I do not think it makes much sense to force higher costs for medical bills and health insurance onto the rest of the population, thereby pricing health care out of reach for even more Americans.

A RESPONSIBLE MEDICARE ALTERNATIVE

I believe it is possible to balance the budget and protect Medicare at the same time, and I supported Senator ROCKEFELLER’s amendment that would have protected Medicare. But as with the Rockefeller amendment, Medicare’s projected spending would have been reduced by $85 billion, ensuring the solvency of the Medicare trust fund through 2006. This $85 billion is a far more moderate reduction and could have been achieved without new increases in costs for people who simply cannot afford to pay more for health care and without damaging our world-class health care system.

Senator ROCKEFELLER’s amendment would have been paid for by scaling back the tax breaks provided in this bill for wealthy Americans. It was the responsible course of action, but unfortunately, a majority of my colleagues did not agree. And the Rockefeller amendment was rejected by a 34-58 vote.

A BETTER CHOICE FOR MEDICARE

As with Medicare, I agree that we must control Medicaid’s rate of growth, but I cannot support the block grant approach provided for in this bill. As an alternative, I voted for Senator BOB GRAHAM of Florida’s amendment to reduce Medicaid’s projected spending by $181 billion more than the experts say is necessary.

IMPACT ON MEDICAID

Under this bill, older Americans will also lose the Medicaid benefit they represent 50 percent of all Medicaid beneficiaries but receive only 15 percent of the benefits—but it is important. The immunizations and preventive care that these kids receive help them to grow up to be healthy, productive adults. I think it is also worthwhile to note that fully half of the kids now covered by Medicaid are members of working families.

Under a Medicaid-block-grant plan, North Dakota will receive 22 percent less Medicaid funding over the next 7 years than our State is projected to need. Cutting provider reimbursement rates and enrolling more beneficiaries in managed care will not generate enough savings to offset the loss in Federal funding, so States will have no choice but to terminate coverage for some current recipients or to reduce the benefits offered.

President Clinton has indicated that he will veto this bill unless these severe cuts are moderated. But it reaches his desk. It is my sincere hope that, after this bill is vetoed, Congress and the President will be able to work together to achieve a reasonable compromise that will provide the fiscal discipline the American people want from the Federal Government without sacrificing the health security they deserve.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President. In my view, every United States Senator will be making a statement about their fundamental priorities as they cast their vote on this reconciliation package. While each and every vote cast on this floor is key, today’s vote on the reconciliation bill is a pivotal one about the future of our country, and the role that our Federal Government can and should play in the lives and well-being of American families.

While most of our debates have focused on budget numbers, it is important to talk about the families and the real people who depend on Medicare, Medicaid, student loans and all the other major programs affected by this legislation. And many Americans want to see a balanced approach. The provisions of this bill will have enormous impact on children, families, and seniors in West Virginia and every State.
in this Nation. We should be mindful of them as we cast our votes.

I want to be clear. I believe we can and should restructure Federal spending and eliminate the Federal deficit. This is a vital goal, but it is equally important to ensure that the burdens of achieving a balanced budget are responsibly and fairly shared among all Americans. I pay 21 strong feel that we should not balance the budget on the backs of seniors, poor children, and working families.

The programs that would be drastically changed by this reconciliation bill often are the difference between security and insecurity, health and illness, and sometimes life or death for seniors and American families who depend on Federal programs for their health care security.

I was proud to take the lead in offering the first major amendment to this budget, designed to save Medicare, a historic program that has provided seniors with health care security since 1965.

But the solvency of the trust fund does not require cutting Medicare by $270 billion. Such extreme cuts will threaten the health care for 30 million seniors—$30,000 of them living in West Virginia—and further erode our health care system.

For seniors, the reconciliation package means that their Medicare deductibles will double and their premiums will skyrocket. When the average income of seniors citizens is $17,750, and they are concerned about the income on health care, they are incredulous and petrified to hear that their Medicare is being used to pay for tax breaks and tax give-aways to far, far wealthier Americans and every imaginable kind of corporation.

I cannot go back to West Virginia and hold town meetings in senior centers as I often do, and justify a vote to slash Medicare by $270 billion in order to finance tax breaks for the wealthy.

West Virginians believe in fairness and common sense, and this attack on Medicare flunks that test.

Our amendment was not to retain the status quo. We know we must make changes in the system to restore the solvency of the Medicare trust fund. But the solvency of the trust fund does not require cutting Medicare by $270 billion. Such extreme cuts will threaten the health care for 30 million seniors. No one should have to choose between a home and a hospital.

Medicaid funding by a whopping $187 billion over 7 years...

People need to understand what such harsh cuts mean. Medicaid covers poor children, the disabled, and low-income seniors who need nursing home care. What happens to these people and their families when we slash Medicaid funding?...If a working family gets a new child tax credit but loses Medicaid nursing home coverage for an aging parent, what is the overall effect on that family?

For example, Julie Sayres of Charleston, WV cared for her mother who suffers with Alzheimer’s Disease as long as she could at home. But as her mother’s illness got worse, she had to move to a local nursing home where Julie can visit her daily. Julie may get a partial child tax credit of $500 under this package, but if she cannot get Medicaid coverage for her mother in the nursing home when her mother’s meager savings are exhausted, Julie may only get a partial tax credit and her mother will be forced to give up her nursing home care. What happens to these people and their families when we slash Medicaid funding?...

A real family, like the Helmick family of New Milton, WV, will be worse off. The child tax credit will not cover even a month of nursing home care for her mother. This is real story about a family hurt, not helped by drastic health care cuts in this package. In my State of West Virginia, over 21 percent of our residents rely on Medicaid so their are countless more stories and fears about what will happen to aging parents. And it won’t just be individual families hurst by the Medicaid cuts. The health care system in my State is fragile, rural hospitals are already closing, and West Virginia cannot absorb more than $270 billion in cuts without cutting necessary health care services, including basic issues like infant mortality.

A recent newspaper article made this point, clearly with a headline: "[Medicaid] Cuts may affect infant mortality." The article reports that my State, thanks to Medicaid-funded programs, has reduced its infant mortality death rate from 18.4 deaths per 1,000 in 1975 to 7.2 deaths per 1,000 in 1984 which is even better than the national rate of 8.0 deaths per 1,000 births. As Governor, I helped start the effort to reduce infant mortality, and I must protest any action that turns back the clock.

We should be making backwards steps on basic health care objectives like reducing infant mortality.

I understand that Medicaid needs reform and Democrats offered an amendment to help its families, like the Helmick family of New Milton, WV, and be worse off. The Helmick family has 6 children, ranging in age from 15 to 44. Mr. Helmick works full-time as a... truck driver for a local construction company, and Mrs. Helmick is a full-time homemaker. In the past, they have used their EITC for baby formula and used trucks, so Mr. Helmick has reliable transportation to get to work. Mr. Helmick will not get to claim the full tax credit for his children, and he will lose EITC benefits under the Republican plan.

This is a real working family that will be hurt, not helped. Families like the Helmicks cannot claim all of the child tax credit, and they will be hurt by the cuts in EITC; and I doubt that they will be able to get capital gains tax breaks either. For them, this package does little more than renew their cynicism since it re- neat on promises made just two years ago when we told families to play by the rules, go to work instead of on welfare, and we will offset your payroll taxes so that you do not have to raise your children in poverty.

Mr. President, I am not against the idea of tax relief. In fact, I would support a limited tax cut for the most needy families and some relief from burdensome taxes for companies that need it. But when you look at this bill, while it is artfully crafted to appear to have something for everyone, it is really a farce. It is full of tax pork for the wealthy and goodies for those who do not really need it. On the surface, how can anyone oppose tax relief for families? The Republican rhetoric is, as always, good—tax relief for families, and help for companies to create jobs. It sounds so tempting to give hundreds of billions of dollars away, but when you look at what Republicans are reality doing, and how they are doing it, you say “wait a minute.” Their rhetoric is one thing, but reality is another.

They are balancing the budget, but they will add nearly a trillion dollars to our national debt in the next seven years. They say the tax cut is “paid-for” by an economic dividend of $5,600 per family. But that is a lie. They are saying $224 billion to our accumulated debt over the next 7 years. In fact, if you add interest, the total is more like $268 billion. Republicans are borrowing money from the middle class they claim to be champi- oning in order to give money away to their fat-cat friends.

Think of it as a new credit card with a $1,500 a month. Every month you take home $1,500 after taxes and spend $1,600. You can do that because you have the credit card. You are charging $100 every month to your credit line. Well, after 5 months, you owe the $500 you owe the credit card interest. Then you decide, you don’t like spending more than you are making, so you force yourself to spend less. For the next 7 months, you bring your spending down from $1,600 a month to $1,585 a month, then $1,570 a month, then $1,570 a month, and so on until at the end of the year, you are spending $1,500 a month. You have a Balanced Budget. You are making $1,500 a month and spending $1,500 a month. Then you look at your balance you owe on your credit card, and guess what—you owe $500 plus interest. How did that happen? You went on a path to balance in June when you owed $500 plus interest, but in December you owe more than $800. It is because every month on the way to balance, you borrowed more to cover the interest you orded. So $55 dollars one month, $70 the next, $55 the month after that, and so on.

That is what this bill does. Sure, it gets us to balance by 2002, but along the way, we are going to overspend what we take in by nearly $1 trillion. Every year between now and 2002 we spend more than we take in. We borrow more to pay for this tax cut. That is $1 trillion added to our accumulated debt. And of that capital gains tax cut, $224 billion is this tax cut ($268 billion, if you add the interest). If we got rid of this tax cut, or reduced the tax cut to $5,600, our deficit every year would be nearly $5,600 billion. But what will the amount the American people owe, would be less.

This debate is about priorities. Do we want to run up the bill on all of us in order to give money to the wealthy to buy goodies? We are running up our national credit card so the richest Americans could buy goodies? We are running up our national debt. The amount the American people owe, would be less.

Another disturbing provision tucked into this package is the proposal to eliminate the 30 percent interest exclusion on loans to purchase employees stock ownership plans (ESOPs). As Governor of West Virginia. I worked closely with the workers of Weirton Steel to establish an ESOP that kept the mill open, and the community alive. Weirton officials question if they could have secured the financing necessary in the early 1980’s to create this ESOP without this tax incentive. Weirton Steel is the largest private employer in West Virginia in my State. Despite my earlier concerns, the able American steel industry has faced, Weirton Steel has not only survived, and the company alive. Weirton officials question if they could have secured the financing necessary in the early 1980’s to create this ESOP without this tax incentive. Weirton Steel is the largest private employer in West Virginia in my State. Despite the rocky roads that the Ameri- can steel industry has faced, Weirton Steel has not only survived, it has invested almost half a billion dollars in modernization so that it will be internationally competitive in the next century—and it remains an ESOP with involved employee owners. There are other successful ESOPs in West Vir- ginia, and I hope there will be more in future. We should not slam the door shut on such future ESOPs by elim- inating the incentives for start-up loans, in my view.

Mr. President, this legislation is nearly one thousand pages long—shudder to think about all the legislation considered quietly into this bill. It was presented to the Senate on October 23, 1995, and we are expected to vote on the legislation with only four days of review. There has not been time to carefully analyze this massive legislation or to learn that every detail about their health care will be there for them when they need it. I am not willing to gamble with the health security of 92,000 miners and their widows.

I cannot abide such a tawdry provision in this or any reconciliation package. I appeal to whatever sense of justice my Republican colleagues have. I ask them to give up this corporate pay-off for coal miners and damage is done. This cruel little provision might have escaped the notice of many. In a package that gives away billions, this provision only deals with tens of million of dollars. But these millions mean security to the older miners and their widows. This small trust fund is all they have, and it stands between their security and a peace of mind, and financial ruin and destitution when illness strikes these aging miners.

This is a complicated issue with a long history, and I could go into excruciating detail. But the bottom line is that we cannot ignore the fact that the money that is keeping the retired miners’ health trust fund solvent to a group of special interests represented by high priced lobbyists. If I have said earlier, I want my colleagues to think about the real families that could be truly hurt by this package.

The day after the Finance Committee reported out their hard work that demolished the health security of more than 92,000 miners and their widows for the sake of a few of the biggest and most profitable companies in this country, I went back to West Virginia. I went back to tell miners and their wives what happened.

The miners I met with were reserved, as many miners are, especially older ones who have seen it all, strikes and cave-ins, shut-downs and lay-offs. They have suffered the loss of their own lungs and limbs. They do not have a lot to pass onto their families in temporal terms, but they have good hearts and an incomparable work ethic. They have lived and worked with the emphasis is on community and family and caring. And until the Senate Finance Committee action, they had their UMWA health card to get their health benefits and knew that it would protect their wives if they died too hard and too soon.

One miner who worked for decades in the mines told me starkly, “We’re worried to death.” He said, “Now it seems like the company is the one running the whole show. They want to do away with us when we were the ones that worked and built everything else.” His question was this, “What’s going to happen to me if I lose my benefits?” He answered his own question with, “They’ll probably put me in my grave before my time.”

Another miner, characteristically, worried about his wife who is a diabetic. “If she becomes ill and can’t continue the medicine, I do not know what would happen.” Today retired miners’ health benefits pay for prescription drug medication after they meet a modest deductible.

Under this reconciliation package, on page 1851, we are taking away the health care security of these miners, and we are reneging on a promise made more than 40 years ago by President Truman. In 1954, President Truman signed into law an act of Congress.

If this Senate and this society renege on this promise to a group of old frail miners, their wives and their widows, what are we worth? Does a promise have no meaning? Does a contract not matter? Can a law be repealed when it becomes inconvenient for a profitable, influential businesses?

Promises do have meaning for me. When I was elected by the people of West Virginia, I made promises to West Virginians that I would put their health care needs and their priorities and do my best to serve them and respond to their concerns.

This reconciliation bill simply does not respond to the real needs of West Virginia families, their wives and their widows, are we worth?

The Republican rhetoric is good, but the reality is that this bill will undermine health care for seniors, raise taxes on working families, and jeopardizes the health care for retired coal miners and their families.

This is a harsh package that hurts real people, and I strongly oppose it. With this legislation, we are walking from here on the wrong track for so many of the most needy individuals in our society, and the debate over this package has saddened me greatly. We can, and we should, do better as public servants.

I will vote no. And continue to fight against such unfair legislation.

Mr. Frist. Mr. President, before we vote on final passage of S. 1327, a historic piece of legislation, I wanted to submit for the RECORD materials presented to me by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber of Commerce is an ardent supporter of S. 1327, but believe that the final product is necessary to balance the Federal budget, streamline government programs and, importantly, save the Medicare Program. Included in these materials is a study prepared by the Chamber of Commerce regarding the economic impacts of Medicare. I commend this study to my colleagues and thank the chair.

I ask unanimous consent that the material be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Economic Policy Division]

The MEDICARE CRISIS: THE TAX SOLUTION IS NO SOLUTION

The only solution detailed by the Medicare Board of Trustees for achieving financial balance in the Medicare Program is an income tax. Unfortunately, this is no solution at all. Higher taxes will rob working individuals of their hard-won dollars, significantly increase the cost of health care, and bring the economy to the brink of recession.

The Trustees calculate that balancing the Medicare trust fund for the long-term requires us to immediately hike the Medicare payroll tax from 2.90% to 6.42%. While the tax increase may seem to amount to only a few percentage points, it amounts to hundreds of dollars to the typical worker, thousands of dollars to the small business, and billions of dollars for the economy.

The Chamber of Commerce suggests the following impacts on individuals, businesses and the economy:

For a worker making $30,000 a year, total Medicare payroll taxes paid would jump to $1,818 from the current $787. A small business employing 25 such workers would be liable for an additional $13,300 tax payment per year.

Aggregated across the entire economy, the effect would be to lower real GDP by $179.4 billion within two years and hold GDP about $9 billion below its 1994 level. This amount to a 3.1% decline in GDP in the short run. With economic growth projected to average less than 3% over the next five years, this decline could easily result in a recession.

These results are even more startling when you consider that you represent an optimistic evaluation, not a worst-case scenario.

OVERVIEW OF MEDICARE: WHY REFORM IS NECESSARY

Medicare is a nationwide health insurance program for older Americans and certain disabled persons. It is composed of two parts: Part A, the hospital insurance (HI) program, and Part B, the supplementary medical insurance (SMI) program.

Part A covers expenses for the first sixty days of inpatient care less a deductible ($116 in 1995) for those age 65 and older and for the long-term disabled. It also covers skilled nursing care, home health care and hospice care. Part B requires beneficiaries to pay a deductible of $716 in 1995, and then 20% of the plan charges after the deductible is paid. However, the HI earnings caps were eliminated. As a result, the HI tax applies to all payroll earnings.

Part B is a voluntary program which pays for physicians' services, outpatient hospital services, and other medical expenses for persons aged 65 and over and for the long-term disability.
disabled. It generally pays 80% of the approved amount for covered services in excess of the deductible. Medicare is a means-tested program. That is, income is not a factor in determining an individual’s eligibility or, for Part B, premiums paid. The program also extends to qualified disabled individuals younger than 65.

Over the years, tax revenues for Medicare Part A have exceeded disbursements, and so the remaining revenues have been credited to the Medicare HI Trust Fund. At the end of 1994, the trust fund held $128.2 billion.

CONCLUSION OF THE TRUSTEES

Each year, trustees of Medicare’s Hospital Insurance Trust Fund analyze the current status and the long-term outlook for the trust fund, and their findings are published in an annual report. The 1995 edition, issued in April, demonstrated that the Medicare system is in serious financial trouble. The program’s six trustees—four of whom are Clinton appointees (cabinet secretaries Bob Rubin, Robert Reich and Donna Shalala, and chairman of Social Security, Shirley Chater)—reported the following conclusions.

Based on the financial projections developed for this report, the Trustees apply an explicit test of short-range financial adequacy. The HI trust fund fails this test by a wide margin. In particular, the trust fund is projected to become insolvent within the next 6 to 11 years. (HI Annual Report, pg. 2)

The program is severely out of financial balance and substantial measures will be required to increase revenues and/or reduce expenditures. (pg. 18)

The HI program is severely out of financial balance and the Trustees believe that Congress must take timely action to establish long-term financial stability for the program. (pg. 28)

The Trustees believe that prompt, effective and decisive action is necessary. (pg. 3)

Obviously, the Trustees believe that the Medicare program deserves our careful, immediate attention. The following pages present the figures that led the Trustees to their conclusions.

WHERE MEDICARE STANDS TODAY

Medicare is a huge federal program. In 1994, Medicare expenditures reached $166 billion, just over half the size of Social Security: Expenditures grew 11.4% from 1993: Eleven cents of every dollar spent by the federal government is spent in Medicare: The HI trust fund represented one-fifth of total entitlement spending.

Between 1990 and 1994, Medicare grew at a 10.4% average annual rate, almost twice the 3% average inflation rate over the same period and twice the 5.1% average annual growth of the economy as a whole.

Medicare spending must be addressed as part of the solution to balancing the federal budget. That’s because spending on federal entitlements—Medicare in this case—and Social Security—soared 8.4% annually on average between 1990 and 1994. Spending on discretionary, annually appropriated programs—such as defense, education and infrastructure—increased 2.2%, which is less than the rate of inflation. Coming decades will see even more pressure for entitlement growth as the leading edge of the Baby Boomer generation reaches 65 in 2011.

Entitlements are not only the fastest growing portion of the federal budget; they’re already its largest component, as shown in the accompanying chart. Just over half of all federal expenditures are spent on entitlements. (pg. 28) In recent years, we’ve seen entitlements go to discretionary programs. If we are going to balance the federal budget—and keep it in balance over the long term—entitlement reform must be part of the solution.

WHERE MEDICARE IS HEADED IF WE DO NOTHING

Under current law, Medicare is projected by the Congressional Budget Office to grow at a 10.4% average annual rate over the next seven years. In 2002, the CBO projects Medicare spending will reach $344 billion, claiming almost 16 cents of every dollar spent by the federal government.

Moreover, beginning next year, Medicare HI expenditures will exceed the program’s revenues. The HI Trust fund, which at year-end 1994 held $132.8 billion, will have to be tapped to cover the projected $867 million difference.

However, according to the Trustees’ Annual Report, this shortfall isn’t temporary. Instead, it will balloon to be about seven times larger in 1997. Which is just the following year, and more than twenty times larger by 1999. Under assumptions reflecting the most likely demographic and economic trends, 1999 will be the first year of hemorrhage that will deplete the entire trust fund by 2002—just seven years away.

The optimistic set of assumptions buys us only a little time, with trust fund depletion projected in 2008. Under the pessimistic scenario, the fund is exhausted as early as 2017. Of course, within the next 6 to 11 years, it’s virtually certain that Medicare will be insolvent—unless we take action.

The danger was made clear last winter when the President’s Bipartisan Commission on Entitlement and Tax Reform, chaired by Sen. Bob Kerrey and then-Sen. John Danforth, issued its final report. The focus of the report was to look not years ahead, but decades ahead to assess the impact of federal budget trends. The report is sobering. Under current trends, virtually all federal government revenues are absorbed by entitlement spending and net interest by 2010, as shown in Chart 2. Deficit-financing will be required to cover almost all of the discretionary programs, including defense, health care, the FBI, support for education, and the federal judicial system.

Ten years later, this scenario is worse. Growth in entitlements is so explosive that not only would the government have to borrow to pay for discretionary expenses, it would have to borrow funds to pay the lion’s share of interest payments on the national debt.

MEDICARE’S IMPACT ON THE PAY STUB

In addition to detailing the projected disipation of Trust Fund under current law, the Trustees’ Report also describes the measures that would be necessary to shore up the trust fund over the next 25, 50 and 75 years. If the expenditure formulas are not altered, then preserving the trust fund can only be done through increases in the payroll tax or additional subsidies from general revenues. Table 1 illustrates the payroll tax increases that would be necessary to balance the trust fund.

CURRENT LAW

Currently, the combined (employee and employer) Medicare tax rate is 2.90%. Applied to all payroll earnings. A worker earning $30,000 a year in 1995, for instance, is directly taxed 1.45% or $435 annually, for Medicare Part A. the hospital insurance program. Employers then match that, for a total of $870 of tax revenue earmarked for the Medicare HI trust fund generated by having that worker on the payroll.

The Medicare contributions from both the worker and the firm don’t stop there, however. Because two-thirds of Medicare Part B (SMI) is financed through general revenues (the other third coming from Medicare premiums in excess of the deductible, is directly taxed 1.45% or $435 annually, for Medicare Part A. the hospital insurance program. Employers then match that, for a total of $870 of tax revenue earmarked for the Medicare HI trust fund generated by having that worker on the payroll.

To Balance the Medicare HI Trust Fund for the Next 25 Years (through 2019): According to the Trustees' analysis, the hospital insurance payroll tax rate would have to rise from 2.90% to 4.23% (a 46% increase) to keep the HI trust fund in balance for the next 25 years. Further, the increase would have to be made immediately and maintained through the entire 25-year period.

For our $30,000/year worker for whom $870 is currently provided to Medicare HI, this increase means an additional tax of $399, bringing total annual hospital insurance payroll taxes to $1,269. And that's before any other federal and state payroll taxes (such as unemployment insurance and Social Security) or federal and state income taxes.

However, even this increase in payroll taxes still leaves the trust fund exhausted in 2019, with the oldest of the baby boomers just shy of reaching their life expectancy. Because of this demographic bulge, balancing the HI trust fund over a longer period would require even higher payroll taxes.

To Balance the Medicare HI Trust Fund for the Next 50 Years (through 2044): Balancing the trust fund over the next 50 years—a span long enough to see most of the Baby Boomers through their lifetimes—would require virtually doubling the hospital insurance payroll tax from 2.90% to 5.58%. The increase would have to be made immediately and remain permanent through the entire 50-year period. Again, for the worker earning $30,000 a year, the total HI payroll tax rises from $870 to $1,674, an increase of 92.4%.

To Balance the Medicare HI Trust Fund for the Next 75 Years (through 2069): Balancing the trust fund over the next seventy-five years—roughly through the life expectancy of an individual born this year, and the usual period for long-term fiscal solvency—would require an immediate boost in the Medicare tax rate of 121.4%, from 2.90% to 6.42%. Total HI payroll taxes for a worker earning $30,000 a year would rise from $870 to $1,926.

MEDICARE'S IMPACT ON THE ECONOMY

Raising payroll taxes to keep the Medicare Hospital Insurance trust fund afloat imposes substantial burdens on both workers and firms. To measure what that means for the economy as a whole, we conducted several policy simulations using the highly respected Washington University Macro Model from Laurence H. Meyer & Associates of St. Louis, MO.

The results are striking: The economy would suffer through sharply slower economic growth and higher unemployment in the near term. Over a longer period, the economy is saddled with a permanent loss of production and employment. As shown in Tables 3 and 4, the degree of severity for GDP and employment depends on the increase in Medicare taxes enacted.

The tables compare each of three alternative tax simulations specified in the Trustees' Annual Report to LHM&A's June 1995 baseline forecast. To demonstrate the policy change working its way through the economy, we display the results for three of the ten years of our simulation: 1997, 2000, and 2004. This gives us snapshots of the short-term, intermediate-term and long-term impacts on output and employment. In each case, the imposition of the Medicare payroll tax increase takes place in the fourth quarter of 1995.

As shown in Table 3, if the government imposed the most modest payroll tax increase—enough to keep the Medicare trust fund in balance for the next 25 years—production in the economy would be 1.2%, or almost $70 billion, lower in 1997 than it would have been otherwise. By 2000, the percentage-point gap between the alternative closes to within 0.5% of the baseline level. Medicare production, but that distance is maintained even ten years after the tax increase took effect.

The short-term loss in output translates into 1.2 million fewer jobs relative to what we would have had otherwise, as shown in Table 4. While this decline, amounting to about 1% of the economy's jobs, moderates over time, the economy appears to have lost over 0.5% of its jobs permanently.

Of course, all of this economic turbulence puts Medicare HI trust fund in actuarial balance for only the next 25 years. To generate long-term actuarial balance for the full 75-year period, the Medicare payroll tax rate would have to jump from 2.90% to 6.42%, triggering even stronger economic impacts than those described above. Production in the economy would be about 3% lower in 1997 than it would have been otherwise, with the long-term loss in output projected at 1.5%. Over 3 million jobs would be eliminated in 1997 relative to the baseline, with a projected permanent loss of about 1.5% of total employment over the long term.

As dramatic as these figures are, there's good reason to believe that they are optimistic estimates. Because the macro model used in these simulations treats the Medicare payroll tax like the Social Security payroll tax, the increases in the tax rates apply only to the first $41,200 earned (in 1995, and rising after the sixth). Spence is not picking up the economic impact of applying the higher tax rates to incomes over the taxable base. Thus, these results should be considered a minimum measure of the economic impact of raising Medicare payroll taxes. Attempts to account for this problem yield significantly larger costs, and lower GDP. These results are available from the Economic Policy Division of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

It is important to note that, even with the set of numbers presented here with its inherent bias toward underestimating the economic impact, we can see that uniting payroll taxes to balance the Medicare trust fund imposes severe costs on the U.S. economy. These results clearly indicate that the Medicare problem must be solved by fundamental program reform, not tax increases.

U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—MEDICARE FAX POOL RESULTS

On October 11, 1995, the U.S. Chamber surveyed 9,700 business, chamber and association members on their attitudes concerning Medicare program reform and specific reform elements. Responses to the Chamber survey (nearly 10 percent responded, 68.9 percent of which employ fewer than 50 workers) indicated strong support for market-oriented Medicare reform comparable to the House and Senate Majority plans for Medicare reform. The complete survey and results are provided below.

Medicare is severely out of financial balance, and the Trustees believe that prompt, effective and decisive action is necessary.

Medicare reform has become a focal point of the budget debate. Medicare—the national health insurance program for seniors—will run out of money in seven years, according to the Trustees. Spence is not picking up the economic impact of applying the higher tax rates to incomes over the taxable base. Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, as the Congress moves toward final action on the budget reconciliation legislation for this year, I want to call special attention to an initiative by Gov. Pedro Rossello of Puerto Rico which seeks to establish a wage credit-based economic opportunity zone in Puerto Rico as an alternative to the current law section 936 tax credit.

Neither the House nor Senate was able to give the Governor's proposal an extensive examination before either body voted to send the section 936 credit to the President. Together with my colleague from New York, Senator D'Amato, I was pleased to ensure that the Senate version more appropriately recognizes the needs of that most American countries have on the Puerto Rican economy and the jobs they provide.

I commend Governor Rossello's efforts to enhance economic opportunity in Puerto Rico through the creation of new jobs, and I would hope that the Congress will continue to give serious consideration to the Rosello program as an alternative to programs such as the current section 936 credit. Together with my colleague from New York, we were the first to make this proposal.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge has been managed as one of the great wilderness systems on this continent since the Eisenhower administration. It is on par with other great places in our national history, including the Grand Canyon, Yellowstone, Jackson Hole, the Badlands, Glacier Bay, Denali, and others.

Opening the Arctic Refuge to oil and gas development would weaken our stewardship commitment to future generations, fails to use common sense about balancing the budget, and destroys a highly threatened piece of our American heritage and cultural treasure—land that must serve our entire nation for the next century, not just a few for the next few years.

Unnecessary development of significant Federal lands like the Arctic Refuge is not the way to balance the budget. The amount of oil that can potentially be recovered from the Arctic Refuge is simply too small to affect our energy security, and too destructive to the environment, to be worth it. The U.S. Geological Survey estimates over 148 million barrels of oil in the refuge. The Congressional Budget Office assumed 3.2 billion barrels in its budget scoring of oil and gas leases, more than 20 times this recent USGS estimate. Worse yet, CBO assumed oil prices of $38.60 in 2000, compared to Energy Information administration estimates of only $19.13—or less than half.

And, it is possible that 90 percent of the lease revenues could go to Alaska instead of balancing the Federal budget. Under the most favorable scenario, only 50 percent of the revenues go to balancing the budget.

Clearly, the $1.3 billion we have been promised by CBO in return for developing this pristine area is a massive fiction, like so many other official cost estimates. These revenues fall another 40 percent after the lease revenues could go to Alaska instead of balancing the Federal budget.

We all hope for another strike like Prudhoe Bay. But the simple reality is that a single well will not make up for the adverse affects on the local and national economy. The OMB has estimated oil and gas revenues more realistically to be between $750 million and $850 million, assuming Alaska does not sue for a 90 percent split. If the State does, these revenues fall another 40 percent.

All hope for another strike like Prudhoe Bay will be quickly patched together with little debate. The constraints imposed by the rules under which the budget reconciliation bill is being considered create an absurd situation in which important, complex, and difficult decisions are made without debate. In addition, because a long stack of votes are occurring at 7½ minute intervals, there is little time to properly consider each provision. This is exacerbated when amendments are quickly patched together with little warning on the floor.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I voted against the combined Harkin and Dorgan amendments. The constraints imposed by the rules under which the budget reconciliation bill is being considered create an absurd situation in which important, complex, and difficult decisions are made without debate. In addition, because a long stack of votes are occurring at 7½ minute intervals, there is little time to properly consider each provision. This is exacerbated when amendments are quickly patched together with little warning on the floor.

In this case, I oppose the capital gains portion of the Dorgan-Harkin combined amendment. While I do favor sweeping capital gains reform, focused on long-term capital gains investment, in my view, the provision goes too far by imposing a lifetime limit of $250,000 on capital gains deductions. The Tax Code... is complex enough without adding a restrictive difficult to administer, lifetime provision such as this.

In the Harkin portion of the amendment which attempts to further restrict the so-called Benedict Arnold loophole.

Because the two amendments were joined together as part of the Senate Floor, I could not vote on one and against the other. Therefore, I voted no on the amendment.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I would like to speak briefly in support of the anti-trust provisions of section 15021 of the House Medicare bill. While these provisions are not in the Senate Medicare bill, they are important, because they permit doctors to form their own networks without having to go through an institutional intermediary such as another HMO or an insurance company. I urge my colleagues to support the provisions when this bill goes into conference, as they are just the sort of law reforms that will improve the quality and lower the cost of our health care system.

I would first like to discuss how the House Medicare bill defines a Provider Service Network (PSN), as it is more commonly known, a "PSN"). In the House Medicare bill, a PSN is one of the new organizations that provides Medicare beneficiaries with an option called MedicarePlus. That option allows a beneficiary to select a health plan called a MedicarePlus Product that would be offered by a MedicarePlus Organization. A MedicarePlus Organization is a private sector organization, such as an HMO, that offers a health plan that meets Federal Medicare standards. A Provider Sponsored Organization or PSO is a type of MedicarePlus Organization which is owned and operated by affiliated providers, such as hospitals and physicians. A PSO is a health plan owned and operated by providers that contract with a Provider Sponsored Organization to provide services to Medicare beneficiaries.

The trust law effectively makes it illegal for a group of physicians to set up a PSN or Provider Sponsored Organization, yet permits insurance companies, HMO's and other nonphysicians to do so. This does not make sense.

Why do we want to reform the anti-trust restriction so that physicians can form PSN's and directly compete with insurers? HMO's for Medicare beneficiaries? Because permitting physicians to do so will bring physicians to the table and encourage increased competition that will provide Americans with better quality health care at a lower price. By permitting physicians—rather than just accountants—to oversee the treatment systems, Medicare beneficiaries will receive better quality care. By removing an insurance company's administrative costs from the picture, Medicare beneficiaries will likely see more of their health care premium dollars go to patient care and less to overhead.

It should be made clear that section 15021 of the House bill does not exempt physician networks from antitrust law. If, for one, would oppose it if it did. I too believe in competition. But we must be held accountable under the antitrust laws if they in any way engage in anti-competitive price fixing.

Under the House Medicare bill, physicians would remain subject to all of the antitrust statutes that currently exist. The only limitation on antitrust enforcement is that physician created networks which meet the standards for PSN's (as set forth in section 15021(b)(6) of the House bill) would not be considered automatically unlawful. If the formation or operation of these networks can be shown to harm competition, then the DOJ, FTC, or a private party could challenge them. This is precisely the same rule which applies to the formation and operation of joint ventures in other industries in America. This provision does not exempt physician networks from the law. It holds them accountable for their actions, while giving them the opportunity to compete.

I again urge all of my colleagues to support the antitrust provisions of section 15021 of the House Medicare bill.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, while we are considering the manager's amendment to S. 1357, the Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act, I want to take this opportunity to comment on the health provisions contained within the bill and on some of the changes made therein.

First of all, I know there is a great deal of consternation about the impact of the reductions in spending growth for Medicare and Medicaid contained within this bill.

Medicare and Medicaid have been tremendously successful programs by any measure, providing life-saving and life-sustaining services to literally millions of persons over the last three decades. These programs need to be continued.

What we cannot continue, though, is the high rate of growth in these entitlement programs. This growth, quite simply, is contributing significantly to the deficit situation which is bankrupting our country.

Mr. President, there is no disagreement on either of these points.

As I see it, the question before us today is not whether to act but, rather, how to act.

The question is not "Why?" as some assert, but rather the more critical "Who, what where, when, and how?" We bring these programs under fiscal control while preserving vital services for the people who need them. It is clear that we are poised to act on a bill with very far-reaching ramifications. This is not a responsibility I take lightly.

Indeed, the prospect of reforming programs which have become such an integral part of America's health care delivery infrastructure over the past 30 years is a daunting one. The implications are enormous—enormous for all participants in the health care system, be it patients or those who provide services to patients.

Consider how intertwined the Medicare and Medicaid programs have become with our health care delivery system.

A whole generation of facilities has been built based on funding from the Federal Government. A whole generation of health care professionals has been trained with funding from the Federal Government. With many academic health institutions continuing to rely heavily upon Medicare graduate medical education funds for their viability. Facilities providing care to the underserved in both rural and urban areas count on Medicare revenues to keep from closing their doors. And, coverage policy in every private health care plans and our military health care system have been designed around Medicare policy.

Viewed from another perspective, more than a generation of Americans have come to rely on the services provided under Medicare and Medicaid. This is true for our seniors and disabled who are eligible for Medicare, and for the pregnant women and children, the aged, the blind, and the disabled who receive services under Medicaid.

The prospect of the reforming this system can be threatening to all I have worked hard, because it represents a change, a change from the norm we have all come to accept.

But I ask you to consider how different the America of 1995 is from the America of 1965. The health care of today is very different from that of 30 years ago. We have come a long way. Life expectancy has improved dramatically thanks to the fruits of medical research and technology. Fee-for-service medical care is no longer the only option for delivery of services.

But we have paid a heavy price for those improvements. Continued increases in health care costs run rampant, have fueled the deficit, and have priced health care out of the reach of many, with a concomitant impact on the Medicare roles and the States' ability to provide services.

I implore my colleagues to see the changes in this bill today as an opportunity to make the system better and more responsive to our national needs, needs which extend beyond health care services to indeed, the health of our country as a whole.

The deficit situation cannot be ignored any longer. It is unfair to our children, and to their parents and grandparents.

The alternative to change is foreboding. The costs of these entitlement programs is running out of sight, endangering the future viability of the programs as well as the Federal and State budgets. The Medicare's hospitalization trust fund could go bankrupt, starting as early as next year. The work of the Medicare...

Trustees, reinforced by testimony the Finance Committee heard from the former Chief Actuary of Medicare, Guy King, indicates that we will need at least $157 billion on August 28, 2002, and fund alone to stave off bankruptcy by 2002. Payment for physician services under Medicare, funded 88.5 percent from tax revenues, is rising in double digits.

Medicaid spending also remains troublesome.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated that the Federal share of Medicare will grow over 10 percent a year beginning from next year, about 3 times the projected rate of inflation.

The changes made in S. 1357 are a good start to resolve these problems.

For Medicare, the bill provides greater opportunity for seniors and the disabled to participate in innovative care programs, many offering the possibility of benefits beyond the traditional Medicare package such as preventive services, eyeglasses, and prescription drugs.

It is clear that the health care marketplace has been undergoing dramatic changes over the last several years and that further changes will occur.

As new types of provider organizations and reimbursement practices have evolved over recent years, many observers note that the traditional doctor-patient relationship is being redefined.

There are complex and novel issues presented by the introduction of many new nonphysician decisionmakers in the care of patients.

Tensions often are apparent between the twin goals of providing high quality care and providing this care at reasonable costs. That became evident in our consideration of S. 1357, as we struggled to make certain that the bill allows Medicare beneficiaries to have the flexibility and the opportunity to participate more in the medical marketplace, while still maintaining a marketplace which allows doctors, nurses and other health care professionals to continue to practice traditional medicine.

There is no doubt that coordinated care offers abundant opportunities for our citizens, including those who participate in the Medicare and Medicaid programs, to receive quality health care services in the most cost-effective setting.

On the other hand, as we enter this new era in which managed care becomes the norm, it is imperative that the overriding goal be to save lives, not dollars.

What I am saying is that managed care is an important option in the health care continuum, but so is traditional medicine.

Fee-for-service medicine must be maintained as an option for patients who are more comfortable with that kind of care, as well as for providers who do not wish to join the managed care environment.

One of the major innovations in this reconciliation bill is that it will encourage the further participation of Medicare enrollees in managed care plans. A key feature of the legislation is that it allows individuals to choose care within the system in the form which best meets their needs. This bill allows American citizens, not the Federal Government, the freedom to make this choice.

I think it critical that Medicare beneficiaries be allowed to choose the provider of their choice, if this is important to them. In fact, the bill contains a provision I authored which will make certain that beneficiaries are provided with the information they need to gauge whether the choice plan they contemplate joining allows them this freedom.

At the same time, I do not think it is fair for the Congress to require that all managed care participants in Medicare do have flexibility under the current bill.

I also want to note, in turn, that health care providers will face individual choices in the future. Some aspects of health care delivery system best meets their career plans. Some will prefer a managed care environment, while others will not. They, too, must have the freedom to make that choice.

And that freedom must not be in name only.

For some time, I have been concerned that we are destroying the incentives for providers to practice good medicine in America. Limitation concerns, cost constraints, regulations which impede technology development, change in medical education reimbursement—all these can have a stifling effect on the ability of health care professionals to be satisfied with the work environment.

That is one reason I was so pleased about the House inclusion of a medical liability reform. The Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act (S 16077) contains a provision designed to act as a limit to the increase of health care delivery system development of the physician service network (PSN) provision contained in this bill. Doctors and hospitals were rightly concerned that because of time-consuming state certification requirements, they would not have the ability to form networks to compete as providers under the new choice plans.

On my own behalf, insurers were equally concerned that we not create a system which put them on an uneven footing, by allowing certain organizations to escape the solvency requirements and antitrust requirements in current law.

The challenge we face is to find the right balance between two competing interests—our intention to provide seniors with real health care choices, especially choices to escape the solvency requirements and antitrust requirements in current law.

One of the major innovations in this reconciliation bill is that it will enable beneficiaries to save catastrophic health insurance that pays for major expenses. Beneficiaries pay all medical bills up to the deductible with the MSA and out-of-pocket funds. Catastrophic insurance pays all expenses above the deductible.

Among the benefits of MSA's for seniors will be that they will have first-dollar coverage for drugs for Medicare beneficiaries. MSA's are personal, individual accounts used to pay for routine and preventive health care and are combined with high-deductible, catastrophic health insurance that pays for major expenses. Beneficiaries pay all medical bills up to the deductible with the MSA and out-of-pocket funds. Catastrophic insurance pays all expenses above the deductible.

Medical Savings Accounts incorporate sound economics while encouraging individual responsibility and choice.

Mr. President, I want to point out that, contrary to many reports, the Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995 does not cut Medicare spending. It does not reduce benefits. It does not breach our contract on Medicare.

And contrary to the assertions of many, Medicare spending will increase each year under this budget. It will rise from $181 billion this year, to $277 billion on fiscal year 2002, a $98 billion or 53 percent increase. Expressed differently, Medicare benefits will increase from an average of $4,800 per person this year, to $6,700 in fiscal year 2002, hardly a cut.

For Medicaid, S. 1357 allows a 5 percent rate of growth over the next 7 years, with the program rising from $157 billion this year to about $220 billion in 2002. I don’t believe this increase of 40 percent can be termed a "cut", either.

Many of my constituents have visited with me, offering both praise and criticism about the provisions in this bill.

On a positive note, I have received much positive feedback about the provisions in this bill which subject a greater measure of private market competition in Medicare. I have received warm endorsement of the provisions in the bill which allow the States to tailor their Medicaid programs to their own individual needs. In particular, many in my home state are pleased about the opportunity to work cooperatively together with our Governor to craft a Medicaid program which meets the needs of Utahns, not the needs of those in states across the Nation.

I have been troubled for some time about the inflexibility of the Medicaid program, and the innumerable, burdensome requirements placed on the programs at the Federal level. This has served to give rise to costs, as well as to hamstring innovators such as Utah Governor Mike Leavitt, who have some wonderfully creative ideas on how to deliver services in a cost-efficient manner.

I recall the story Governor Leavitt related to me about the Medicaid waiver he was trying to submit to the Health Care Financing Administration. Utah had determined that it could provide care to its citizens at the same cost as HCF which restricted the dental benefit to children and adult emergencies. HCFA turned him down cold.

As we debate this important legislation, there is a need to be sure that we do not lose sight of how these reforms will affect Native Americans. This is a subject in which I have a great interest.

Mr. President, I am especially pleased that the pending legislation contains provisions in which I sponsored in the Finance Committee, relating to the impact of Medicare and Medicaid reform on Native Americans. I want to discuss in a moment. I am hopeful that in the conference we can improve these arrangements remain in place in the new world of reformed Medicaid.

In addition, my language expands coverage for tribally owned Self-Directed Health Care facilities as well as urban Indian organizations that serve Medicaid eligible Indian patients.

Another issue in which I have a great interest is the Federal effort to prevent health care fraud and abuse. The problem of health care fraud and abuse is certainly troubling aspects in our Nation’s health care delivery system. By most estimates, the costs of health care in the United States approach $1 trillion annually. By the turn of the century, the figure will exceed $1.5 trillion annually, consuming up to 16 percent of the Nation's production of domestic products.

Even by the most conservative estimates, billions of dollars are lost to waste, fraud and abuse. Health insurance experts, the FBI and other agencies agree that fraud and abuse account for as much as 5 to 10 percent of total health care expenditures. As much as $27 billion taxpayer dollars are lost to fraud and abuse in the Medicare and Medicaid programs. These losses are clearly unacceptable.

Clearly, the Federal Government must take steps to put a halt to the deliberate and unscrupulous act of defrauding individuals, health care providers, and State and Federal Governments in the provision of health care.

The anti-fraud and abuse provisions contained in this legislation essentially represent the provisions contained in S. 1088, which was developed by my colleague from Maine, Senator Cohen.

I am extremely pleased that the final compromise addressed my concerns about provisions in S. 1088 which would have authorized the use of health care fraud related fines and penalties to finance investigative and enforcement efforts of the HHS IG's Office and efforts at the Justice Department.

I have long opposed this so-called bounty hunter provision, as I strongly feel it would create an incentive for Federal investigators to forgo prosecution or exclusion where warranted in favor of large civil penalties that would provide additional funding for investigators.

Under the new language as contained in the bill, all penalties, fines and damages collected will be deposited into the Treasury. Under the anti-fraud arrangement, the original purpose to strengthen the financial solvency of the Medicare program is further achieved. I strongly believe this approach serves to address my concerns as well as ensuring the integrity of the anti-fraud and abuse provisions.

I do have remaining concerns, which I will work to address in conference.

First, I would note that the bill does not uniformly punish those who would attempt to defraud a health care plan or provider or those who would conspire with others to do so. Nor does it appear to criminalize attempts or conspiracies to embezzle.

I think it is vitally important that those who conspire with others to cheat our health care plans should be punished to the full extent of the law. Otherwise, to defraud or embezzle will be uncovered before the crime is actually completed. Those situations should be addressed by this statute.

Second, while we provide for the forfeiture of property, real or personal of persons convicted of health care fraud, it is unclear whether the bill would also permit the forfeiture of the fraudulently obtained proceeds. While it is certainly important to obtain fraudulently obtained property, it is even more vital to divert criminals of their unlawful obtained proceeds.

I also have several technical concerns with the fraud and abuse provisions.

For example, section 7141 punishes those who commit health care fraud with a maximum 10-year penalty. If serious bodily injury results, the criminal can be punished for any term of years.

Unfortunately, the statute does not appear to address a crime leading to someone's death. Serious bodily injury is not defined to include death, so the possibility of a death occurring as a result of the crime must be taken into account.

Finally, we need to ensure that this bill does not improperly extend Federal criminal jurisdiction and that it conforms to accepted investigative demand procedures. In light of the Lopez decision in United States v. Lopez, last term, we must be careful to draft legislation that contains the proper legislative nexus to the Constitution's commerce clause. We must put an end to the days of federalizing crimes which are local in nature with the aim of reaching the legitimate prosecutorial interests of the States.

We must also guarantee that appropriate, established, investigative demand procedures are followed. The administrative subpoena is a powerful tool that should not be used unless accepted procedures are followed.

In addition, I have continuing concerns about the provisions relating to the anti-kickback statute. I have been concerned about the discount exception to the statute as currently interpreted, and the discount safe harbor regulation with its impact on Medicare anti-kickback legislation. I am not persuaded that the demonstration of commercially reasonable and non-abusive marketing practices are sufficient to establish that a discount is lawful.

One such practice is the combining for discount purposes of various products and services that are sold by a company to a provider. Another example involves the provision of discounts based upon the volume purchased during a fixed time period. The discount is allocated on a flat across-the-board basis for all products. Similarly, hospitals and health plans frequently purchase all products used for treatment of a particular disease from a supplier, at a fixed rate for all products.

In addition, manufacturers want to be certain that they can lawfully bundle products into a single procedure kit which contains all items needed to perform a specific procedure or treatment, and to offer the kit for purchase at a discount. Without the discount exceptions, such arrangements can be construed as a sale of one product tied to another, and, therefore, a kickback under Medicare law, even when practiced lawfully in the treatment of patients.

These arrangements are appropriate and create no potential for abuse so long as there is adequate disclosure of the financial parameters of these arrangements so that the Medicare and State health care programs can ascertain cost data for purposes of revising payment rates and are able to evaluate the impact of these arrangements.

Unfortunately, these arrangements may differ from pure time-of-sale price discounts on a single item or service, they are appropriate in the current health care environment.

Discount arrangements are, in fact, commonplace in the private sector and have resulted in substantial savings to hospitals, managed care companies and, most importantly, consumers.

Unfortunately, current Medicare law is heavily on the ability of health plans to purchase medical devices, pharmaceutical products and services directly from manufacturers, and manufacturers receive a percentage price discount on the total products purchased. The discount is allocated on a flat across-the-board basis for all products. Similarly, hospitals and health plans frequently purchase all products used for treatment of a particular disease from a supplier, at a fixed rate for all products.

under Medicare to the full extent of the scope of practice permitted under State law. The Committee agreed to accept this amendment subject to working out the financing provisions with the Congressional Budget Office. However, due to the press of business, it has not yet been possible to complete the task of fine tuning a mechanism that would achieve this goal without significantly increasing the cost to the Medicare program.

This is unfortunate because I believe that the time is ripe to discard the antiquated restrictions on chiropractors that permeate current law. Today, chiropractic is recognized by the medical profession, and, indeed, a recent government report concluded that chiropractic treatment is among the most effective for the treatment of certain type of ailments. Many of us in this Chamber did not need a government study to tell us what we already know.

I am committed to work with my colleagues on the Finance Committee to effectuate a change in the limitations on chiropractors. I believe—and I am confident that a majority of my colleagues both on the Finance Committee and in this chamber agree with me—that chiropractors should be allowed to be reimbursed under Medicare as long as the service they provided is an existing covered service, and that they are operating within the scope of their license as defined by State law.

ORTHOTIC AND PROSTHETIC SERVICES

I wanted to take this opportunity to mention another amendment I authored in Finance Committee, which was approved but later dropped because we could not find a suitable offset. That amendment would have allowed a 1 percent update in the reimbursement rate for orthotics and prosthetics providers in particular for artificial limbs and braces.

Orthotics and prosthetics providers design, fit and fabricate custom orthopedic braces and artificial limbs for a wide variety of persons with physical disabilities.

I understand that the O&P fee schedule has been frozen for a number of years, resulting in only a 1 percent update factor per year since 1985. The bill freezes the update.

I am sympathetic to concerns which have been raised about the growth in reimbursement for this industry, and I would point out that this is a highly specialized segment of the health care industry; where utilization controls should not be an issue. In addition, while the Congressional Budget Office cites large growth in O&P since 1980, part of this growth is due to the higher costs of medical care and enteral nutrition [PEN], urological supplies and other non-custom devices which would not have been covered by my amendment.

I hope that the final bill can include the one percent update.

ABSTINENCE EDUCATION

Providing education to young adults about the value of abstinence is extremely important and I applaud the effort that this bill makes in this area. Many of us share the belief that abstinence is the best and healthiest method for young people to avoid the risks associated with early sexual activity—dangers that have both physical and psychological manifestations.

I am concerned, however, that the language that I was education in section 7445 of S. 1357 may be interpreted by some as being so restrictive that some excellent abstinence-based programs, including some programs operating in my state, would not be eligible for funding. This program exists in 50 schools in Utah and has been successful in achieving abstinence by teaching and reinforcing it within the values of caring, respect, responsibility, trust and family. I would hope that the highly valued-based program this effective would not be excluded from funding.

PRESCRIPTION DRUG REBATES

Many of us opposed the Medicaid drug rebate program when it was first enacted in 1990, although I recognize that it has provided a valuable source of revenue for financially strapped State Medicaid programs. The theory behind this program is that it would constrain the costs of pharmaceuticals by guaranteeing State Medicaid programs the best price.

Because of the growing move toward Medicaid managed care, with its inherent cost containment strategies, the importance of the rebate program is now overstated.

I have been concerned that rebates are anticompetitive and constrain the ability of hospitals, HMOs, and other private sector purchasers of prescription drugs to negotiate discounts from pharmaceutical manufacturers. In addition, overly high rebates can act as a disincentive for some pharmaceutical companies to participate in Medicaid, as well as to the pharmaceutical research and development necessary to foster breakthrough drug products.

Under the current Medicaid program, states receive a manufacturer's best price for a drug, plus an additional rebate reflecting any differences between price increases and inflation—as measured by the Consumer Price Index. Under the original Finance bill, the Federal rebate program would have been retained for 3 years, after which the States could choose whether to implement programs on their own. An amendment adopted in committee removed that sunset.

I believe it is important to clarify what was intended by an amendment that I offered at the Senate Finance Committee on the topic of prescription drug rebates.

Currently, several States require rebates from prescription drug manufacturers over and above what is required under the Federal Medicaid program. The bill that we will ultimately send to the President will also be likely to restrict the authority for States to continue to collect rebates. My amendment noted that most of my colleagues on Finance would concur. It is that this authority should be along the lines of the original Finance Committee bill which included a transition period of 3 years allowed to States to integrate drug rebate programs into their overall health care programs.

At the Finance Committee there was discussion as to whether the language adopted would exclude States that choose to opt out of the Medigap Program from collecting supplemental or additional rebates on top of the rebate amount authorized under the program. The Senate Finance Committee voted to provide States with flexibility in collecting unlimited rebates. At the committee level the point was made that the pharmaceutical industry is expected to spend about $15 billion on research and development in 1995 alone. States may choose not to use the drug rebate program but will be prohibited from collecting unlimited rebates from this research and development-intensive industry.

FDA EXPORT

I was pleased to learn today the House adopted as part of its reconciliation bill legislation I authored with Representative FRED UPTON and Senator JUDD GREGG (H.R. 1300/S. 597) a bill which would dramatically expand export opportunities for American manufacturers of pharmaceuticals and medical devices.

That bill, the FDA Export Reform and Enhancement Act of 1995, will both create new markets in the United States, as well as provide incentives in the United States to increase our technological capacity to develop new medical products.

I intend to work concertedly to ensure that this provision becomes law. I commend my colleagues in the House, especially Representative UPTON, for their work in this area.

REIMBURSEMENT FOR EXPERIMENTAL MEDICAL DEVICES

On June 22, 1995, Senators GREGG, FRIST, KENNEDY, KASSEBAUM, GRAMS, WELLSTONE, CHAFEE, HUTCHISON, D'AMATO and I introduced the Medical Devices Access Assurance Act of 1995. A companion measure, H.R. 1744, was introduced in the House by Chairman BILL THOMAS, and I look forward to Congress to step forward in this area.

This legislation addresses two serious threats to our health care system: restricted access for our senior citizens to the latest medical technologies and our country's loss of clinical research activities to overseas facilities. This bill helps harmonize our reimbursement policies for experimental medical devices with those governing the payment for conventional drugs. This is good policy that is fair and advances the public health.
Because of ‘Byrd rule’ considerations we are not able to pursue this matter in the bill today, even though the House Ways and Means Committee reported a 20 percent reduction. While I recognize that these provisions, to a certain extent, mirror Health Care Financing Administration efforts under an inherent reasonableness proceeding. Nevertheless, I am concerned about the impact of such a significant reduction on patients in Utah who receive less than the usual level of services, particularly those patients in rural or remote areas of the State.

In addition, I have met with numerous small home oxygen providers who believe that with their slim profit margins they cannot possibly sustain a 40 percent payment reduction. And for many patients, the small provider may be the only nearby source of home oxygen therapy.

As the legislative process moves forward, I hope that we can reexamine this proposal.

HOSPICE CARE

I would also like to mention my deep interest in making sure that Federal support for hospice care remains as strong as possible. Hospice care provides palliative care for terminally ill individuals with a life expectancy of 6 months or less.

The terminal illness runs its normal course. Specifically, hospice care provides relief of pain and uncomfortable symptoms through a specially qualified interdisciplinary group of medical, psychosocial and spiritual professionals. Besides being certified as terminally ill, an individual must be entitled to part A of Medicare in order to be eligible for hospice care under Medicare. Under the Medicare hospice benefit, a terminally ill individual can receive comprehensive high-quality care at a lower cost.

While I recognize the need to hold back the growth in spending for all components of the Medicare program, I am concerned that the effective and efficient service of hospice care current to Medicare beneficiaries may be compromised by the proposed 2.5 percent budget reduction.

Hospice care is in effect comprehensive managed care for a specialized population, the terminally ill, since the current Medicare hospice benefit is reimbursed on a fixed, all-inclusive per diem basis.

As a recent Lewin-VHI study indicated, ‘efforts to control Medicare expenditures [that] discourage hospice providers from offering their services to Medicare beneficiaries. Medicare expenditures would likely increase.’ We must monitor this situation closely to ensure that the benefits of hospice care are not undermined by this proposal.

In addition, I also think we need to clarify how the hospice benefit will interact with the managed care opportunities provided in both the House and Senate bills. The House language is explicit in stating that Medicare contractors will assume full financial liability for services other than hospice care. The Senate language is silent on this point and I am hopeful this can be addressed in conference.

HOME HEALTH CARE

I am also concerned about the impact of this legislation on the provision of home health care. As my colleagues are aware, home health has long been a personal priority of mine. I have seen time after time how grateful Utah families are to be able to care for their loved ones in the home. This compassionate, caring alternative to institutionalization can make all the difference in the lives of those who are ill.

At the same time, I recognize that the rapid growth of these services in recent years attests to the fact that patients prefer home health care over traditional institutional care.

I have had the opportunity to talk to patients and their families who receive these services. Almost without exception the family setting enhances the patients morale and serves as a positive influence in speeding recovery or sustaining the critical nature of an illness.

Accordingly, as we reform Medicare, we should be careful not to limit access artificially.

The legislation before us today proposes significant changes to the home health care industry. One provision will require that home health care services be paid on a prospective payment basis. I have favored for a long time; I think this provision will serve to address concerns regarding costs as well as to promote cost efficiency and effectiveness among providers without compromising the quality of care.

While I support the enactment of a PPS for home health care, I do have concerns about some of the provisions contained in the Senate and House proposals which could have unintended consequences of erecting barriers to care for several categories of the elderly.

For instance, the greatest deficiency in the respective House and Senate plans, and one which will cause the greatest financial hardship to agencies as well as impact on patients, is the treatment of extended care/outlier cases; that is, patients who require more than 100 days of care.

According to some industry sources who have contacted me, as much as 30 percent of the national caseload falls into this category. The discrepancy between the per episode cap—based on the average regional cost of providing 120 days of care—and the per agency limit based on 165 days of care must be addressed to minimize the financial impact.

If the episode cap is limited to 120 days, then additional payments, where warranted and approved by the fiscal intermediary, should begin on day 121. Or, alternatively, the per episode cap could be based on the per episode average costs of providing 165 days of care.

The financial impact on providers of the discrepancy is obvious. The impact on patients is no less obvious. In the first place, the plan effectively—albeit certain—unintentionally—discriminates against patients with certain medical needs and conditions. While Medicare will pay providers the full cost of furnishing care to some patients whose needs fall within arbitrarily defined limits, it will pay for only part of the care for patients who are either more acutely ill or have chronic conditions.

Additionally, it is reasonable to assume that some agencies with large caseloads of patients needing care beyond 120 days—but less than 165—cannot long operate under this system. The logical result will be limited access to care in some areas as agencies are forced to determine.

With respect to the home health market basket updates, payment rates should be based on actual reasonable costs. The provision which would adjust payments by the home health market basket minus 2 percent is clearly unreasonable. Per visit payment directly affects per episode limits, so the limitation has a compounded effect.

Also punitive, particularly in light of the 45-day window of vulnerability/disruption, is the limitation of the savings share to 5 percent of an agency’s aggregate Medicare patients. I think this is something we may need to examine, especially since the limitation appears to be inconsistent with overall costs of a level that will yield savings greater than 5 percent.

The limitation could ultimately hurt the Medicare program, whose level of savings would increase if real incentives were in place for home health agencies to work to produce saving beyond the 5 percent limit.

Another issue regards the break in care between a particular illness or episodes. Any required break in the delivery of home health services before a new episode can begin would, by definition, be arbitrary. A 60-day break seems to be unnecessarily long, given the nature of the Medicare home health care population. I think that 45 days might be more reasonable.

Another question I have about our proposal is that it leaves open the question of what responsibility, if any, a home health agency would have for a patient who is discharged—for example, at 120 days—and then who needs services for another condition 50 days later. This issue needs to be clarified. If patients cannot receive the care they currently have access to, the quality of life will certainly suffer.
need through home health, it is reasonable to assume they will obtain it in a more costly institutional setting.

Faced with the House bill extending the waiver provision until the implementation of the PPS system on October 1, 1995, I hope this is something we can reexamine.

CHILDE'S HEALTH

Nothing can be more important to our future than the health of our children. Too often that fact is left out of our debate on entitlement programs.

This debate has underscored that there is a profound disagreement over whether Medicaid should remain an entitlement, but I am certain there is no disagreement that children should be a primary focus no matter how we restructure Medicaid.

In particular, children with special health care needs — those with serious chronic conditions or disabilities such as those with cerebral palsy, cystic fibrosis, cancer or heart conditions — are fortunately very well served in nurseries. In fact, they represent only 2 percent of all children. But, it will take special attention to make sure their needs are being met.

For example, managed care can offer these children and their families better access to care and better coordination of services, but as the managed care industry's own National Committee on Quality Assurance has recognized, managed care has little experience with children with special needs.

The bill we have before us today contains an amendment which would have States outline in their plans how they will serve children, and in particular, how they will serve children with special health care needs. While I am certain the Governors will devote appropriate attention to children with special needs, I am also certain that outlining how this will be accomplished in the State plans will give us all the peace of mind that these very vulnerable children will not fall through the cracks.

In addition, the bill contains a provision with Sen. Gramm to clarify that States are required within their Medicaid plans to describe the methodology to be used to determine disproportionate share payments to hospitals. An explicit methodology is important for hospitals such as Primary Children's in Salt Lake City, which receives 7 percent of its Medicaid revenues from disproportionate share payments.

NURSING HOMES

One of the reasons I have introduced S. 1177, the Quality Care for Life Act, is that I firmly believe we need to adopt a national policy for long-term care. The Home Act will not be a Federal-only solution. Indeed, any plan to provide comprehensive long-term care services for Americans citizens must embrace a mix of private and public solutions, including incentives for long-term care insurance development.

There are 17,000 nursing homes in this country, who serve 1.7 million residents. The care of two-thirds of these residents, some 1.13 million, is paid by Medicaid, and the care of 100,000 is paid by Medicare.

The impact of this bill on the provision of long-term care services is immeasurable, since we are reforming the Medicaid system which provides a good deal of the long-term care services in this country, as well as making substantial changes to Medicare reimbursement for skilled nursing facilities [SNF's].

There is no doubt that savings from SNF reimbursement should be included in a reconciliation bill. I think that all involved — providers, patients and policymakers — recognize that fact. However, I have had some concerns about the way the provisions were crafted in the proposal that we considered in Finance Committee.

I have very much appreciated the willingness of Chairman ROTH and his most capable staff, to work with me to address my concerns.

Two weeks ago, I received a letter from 28 hospital organizations, representing a broad spectrum of companies and health professionals providing care to 1 million Medicare beneficiaries. These organizations, which include nursing homes, subacute facilities, ancillary service providers and health care professionals serving nursing home patients, were opposed to the committee proposal which would have established a flat, per-stay reimbursement rate for all ancillary services based on a blend of a facility-specific and a national average rate.

The basis of concern was that the move toward a national average could cause wide shifts in reimbursement, which could jeopardize patient care especially for those with severe illnesses. In addition, the funding mechanism could jeopardize the trend toward using subacute care as a cost effective alternative to hospital care.

I also think that, despite the Health Care Financing Administration's lack of priority in developing a prospective payment system for SNF's, there is consensus that future payment must be made on a prospective basis. The only practical solution to the funding problem for nursing homes under the fee-for-service sector of the Medicare Program is to implement a prospective payment system that contains the necessary cost containment incentives. This will take some time to develop.

Under the most rosy scenario, such a PPS system could not be implemented before October 1, 1997.

To me, the goals in developing a SNF reimbursement proposal should be two-fold. We must make certain that any prospective payment proposal contains appropriate incentives for high quality services. At the same time, it must also provide reimbursement in the most equitable way, especially during the transition period as we move to a PPS system.

The key to designing a new system is to get a handle, not only on the price the Medicare Program is paying for the nursing home service package, but also on the amount of services provided in the coverage package. Control over the latter can only be accomplished by looking at SNF's prospectively on a per episode, per case, or per diem or per day basis — as opposed to the per diem or per day approach that has been traditionally employed in the nursing home industry.

Faced with prospective per episode payments, skilled nursing facilities will be able to economize on the amount of services provided during each Medicare-covered stay by adjusting schedules to cover services provided during each day of the patient's stay in the facility and by making sure that the Medicare-covered stay is no longer than necessary. Of course, other mechanisms outside of the payment system will have to be introduced to control the number of Medicare-covered admissions. But I expect we will be addressing these concerns through controls on coverage decisions, shifts to managed care, and modifications in eligibility rules.

These prospective episodic payments should cover all of the reasonable costs that skilled nursing facilities incur when providing Medicare-covered services, including both operating costs (both routine and non-routine) and property costs. The prospective episodic payments under this system are intended to cover the entire cost of care being provided during the period of Medicare part A coverage. This means that the payments are to cover both part A and part B services that are provided to the patients during their Medicare part A covered stays.

Additionally, the prospective episodic payments need not be the same for all patients in all facilities. For example, the prospective payments should be case-mix sensitive so that patients with varying certain needs are associated with varying levels of payments. Skilled nursing facilities operating in different labor markets also should have their prospective payment schedules adjusted to account for these market differences. Finally, special consideration should be given to the prospective payments for patients in skilled nursing facilities with very low volumes of Medicare activity so as to preserve the access to SNF services that these providers afford. This can be done either by preserving the current low volume prospective per diem Medicare SNF payment system or by adjusting the prospective episodic payment levels for these facilities to recognize their higher costs of operation. No payment adjustments should be authorized other than those just described.

With this kind of approach to prospective Medicare SNF payment, we can expect to finally get a handle on one of the most rapidly expanding sectors of the Medicare System. I am extremely appreciative of the efforts that Senator ROTH and his staff have made to work with me to address this issue.

S 16083

am extremely sensitive to the concerns
Medicaid as Federally-Qualified Health ment they would have received under eliminates the cost-based reimburseof the Social Security Act, Medicaid, it would allocate one percent of Federal objection a provision I authored with bill, plification, can be reexamined in con-
and services, a key regulatory reform goal which could needed administrative simplifications vision similar to the Ways and Means within this bill. I have no objection to sure that the Secretary will rebase the timely, accurate, and relevant data.

Another provision about which I have some concern is the provision on reimburses for lab services. There are several within this bill. I have no objection to reducing the level of spending under this category, and I am very appreciate of the fact that the bill does not contain the unwise proposal from 1993 to impose a copayment on lab services.
In committee, I had suggested a provision similar to the Ways and Means bill which would only freeze updates for lab services. The provision would also include unavoidable administrative simplification which could provide efficiency and cost-effectiveness in the delivery of lab services, a key regulatory reform goal of this Congress.
We were not able to work out the scoring on this proposal, but I am hopeful the issue of lab reimbursement, and especially administrative simplification, can be reexamined in conference.

FEDERALLY QUALIFIED HEALTH CENTERS

During Finance consideration of this bill, the committee adopted without objection a provision I authored with Senators CHAFEE and GRASSLEY which would allocate one percent of Federal Medicaid spending for the preservation of what I believe is really the Nation's primary care infrastructure—community and rural health centers. Since the bill rewrites title IX of the Social Security Act, Medicaid, it eliminates the cost-based reimbursement they would have received under
Medicaid as Federally-Qualified Health Centers (FQHCs).
Let me make perfectly clear that I am extremely sensitive to the concerns that our Nation's Governors have raised about using a Medicaid set-asides as a funding source for this amendment; I want to work to address these concerns as the process moves forward.
Under our amendment, one-half of the amount allocated would be used for payments to community health centers, and the other half for rural health clinics. The Secretary of HHS would determine the methodology for deter-rmining payments and who would make payments directly to the centers.
Payments made to centers by the Secretary would be in addition to any other revenues the centers receive from Medicaid, either directly from States or from managed care plans.
Mr. President, over 1000 community health centers and 2500 rural health clinics play a unique role in the health system. In inner-city areas, community health centers are often the only providers of care to Medicaid patients and the uninsured. In rural areas, community health centers and rural health clinics are often the only providers of care for the uninsured. As seen, whether they are on Medicaid or Medicare, have private insurance, or are uninsured.
Community health centers and rural health clinics serve over 16 percent of Medicaid patients nationwide. My colleagues might be surprised to know that 36 percent of community health center patients are on Medicaid: 44 percent are uninsured; 8 percent are on Medicare, and 12 percent have private insurance.
For rural health clinics, 27.7 percent of the patients are on Medicaid: 29.4 percent are on Medicare: 14.4 percent are uninsured; and 28.5 percent have private insurance.
The current Medicaid Program recognizes the unique role of these centers, and provides them with cost-based reimbursment, in order to assure that the payments made to them meet the health care needs of Medicaid patients they serve.
Unlike providers with large numbers of privately insured patients, these centers do not have reserves or available capital, and do not have the ability to cost-shift losses from insufficient payments under public programs.
Under many current Medicaid managed care programs, these centers have not received sufficient payments from managed care plans to meet their costs caring from Medicaid patients.
Some of my colleagues may ask why these centers are not special consideration. A major reason is that many will be forced to close their doors or reduce services if their reimbursement is not maintained.
Centers are committed to serve all in their communities. Without a sufficient flow of funds to meet the needs of their Medicaid patients, centers will be forced to substantially reduce their patient services and to go out of business. Other providers will not enter these underserved communities because the economic base will not support them, and the community will be left with no remaining health care infrastructure.
Another reason is that Medicaid patients (particularly those seen by centers) are not receiving equal payment than the privately insured patient enrolled in a managed care plan because Medicaid health center patients have more serious health conditions and poorer overall indicators of health status.
In addition to traditional medical services, centers provide other services (such as outreach, transportation, health education, and translation) compensating the Medicaid patients to better utilize care and comply with medical direction. These services are not generally included in a capitated payment which a health center receives from a health plan.
There are many benefits which would result from this legislation.
Since these centers must be located by law in underserved areas, access to cost-effective preventive and primary care services will be assured.
These centers deliver health care which is one of the best bargains anywhere. For example, the total annual cost of community health center comprehensive primary and preventive care is on average, less than $300 per person.
I would also like to reassure my colleagues that this provision could result in substantial savings for State Medic-ad funding programs. Several studies have found that Medicaid patients who regularly use health centers have lower total annual health care costs than Medicaid patients who use other primary care providers, such as HMOs, hospital outpatient units, or private physicians. This shows that health center patients were 22 percent to 33 percent less expensive overall and had between 27 percent to 44 percent lower inpatient costs and days.
Other providers could also benefit from this provision. These centers serve disproportionate numbers of high-risk patients, and adequately compensating the health centers for their care can make risk levels more reasonable for other providers in com-unities with more than one provider.
As we prepare to vote on this landmark legislation, I want to express my deep personal appreciation to the Fiance Committee health staff, who have labored long and hard under the most difficult circumstances to bring us a solid piece of legislation. In particular I want to cite the hard work of Julie James, Roy Ramthun, Alec Vachon, Susan Nestor, and Donna Norton. I would be remiss if I did not also mention the monumental efforts of Lindy Paull, Rick Grafmeyer, and last, but not least, Gioia Bonmartini.

In conclusion. Mr. President, unfortunately, there is no easy nor painless way to effect reductions to the growth of Medicare and Medicaid. But it has to be done.
My message is simple. I wish we lived in a world in which we had unlimited resources so that all—aged, disabled, poor—could have the services they deserve. But such a world does not exist. We may be fair to our Nation's disabled, to our seniors, and to the low-income. But we must also be fair to our children, and their children. In short, we just have to do the best we can and this bill is a good start.

BALANCED BUDGET RECONCILIATION ACT

Mr. PRESSLER. Mr. President, I am pleased to be voting today for the Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act. I am confident that the United States Senate will be voting to end fiscal irresponsibility. Today, we have the opportunity to leave the next generation not mountains of debt, but the prospect of a stronger economy and a better standard of living.

Many of us have fought this battle to end runaway deficit spending for decades. I have done what I can. I have kept a balanced budget. I have vetoed bills that bloated the federal government, and sent my staff budget by 15 percent. Those of us who believe in common sense budgeting fought tenaciously to reverse years of wasteful and largess that has left the United States a debtor nation. For years, the only things I have had to show for my efforts to balance the budget are awards from grassroots, fiscal watchdog organizations. Today, with passage of this legislation, I have my eyes on the ultimate prize: a balanced federal budget. It is about time.

Of course, the people who deserve most of the credit are the American people. As they have done in so many instances throughout our nation's history, the American people made the difference. Last November they said enough is enough. They sent home liberal caretakers of a run-down, bloated federal government, and sent to Washington a new corps of members that share my common sense approach to government. American families, working hard to provide for their children's future, knew that the federal debt stood as an ominous threat to their efforts and their way of life.

The people of South Dakota long ago made clear they do not tolerate wasteful deficit spending. South Dakotans believe that the federal government should live within its means—just like every family, every farm, and every business large and small. They are absolutely right.

No single act this Congress can take could have a more positive impact on more Americans than a vote to balance the federal budget. The facts are in the clear. A balanced federal budget and a lower debt free up investment dollars that have gone toward financing the debt or making interest payments on the debt.

In practical terms, a balanced budget would mean three key things: First, it would mean lower interest rates by up to two percent, making loans for new businesses, a new home or car, or a college education, such decisions seem as if it would mean at least $1.1 million new jobs; and third, it would mean a higher standard of living. In fact, a balanced budget would result in per-family incomes rising on average by $1,000 a year.

With all the clear benefits, it is no wonder that the American people strongly favor a balanced budget. Americans recognize that fiscal irresponsibility has been a stifling barrier to progress—a barrier that gets larger, more onerous and more oppressive unless we act. Today, we are acting. A balanced budget is not just a restoration of common sense government. It is nothing less than economic liberation for every American family and business.

The balanced budget bill we pass today maintains our commitment to vital programs, and to national security. It also preserves and improves outdated, costly social programs that threaten to spiral our country into bankruptcy. Chief among them is Medicare.

Medicare reform is critical. I support Medicare. It provides essential hospital and health care services to 37 million Americans, including 113,000 South Dakotans. My mother depends on Medicare for her health care.

As all of us know, earlier this year, we received troubling news from the trustees in charge of Medicare. They said that Medicare would be bankrupt in seven years. Without action by the year 2002, there would be no money to pay senior citizens' hospital bills. Seniors would be stuck for the entire bill because Medicare would not be around to help. If we enact the Medicare reforms contained in S. 1357, that will not happen.

This bill would save Medicare by making a number of key reforms. First, the bill would slow the rate at which Medicare is spending our tax dollars. At present, Medicare is growing at an annual rate of 10.4 percent. That is too fast. It is like forcing a person to run a marathon at a sprinter's pace. If allowed to grow at this pace, Medicare will burn out and run out of money in seven years. Like the marathon runner, we need to slow the pace of Medicare growth so it can run longer. That is just what this bill would do. It would slow Medicare growth to a more manageable 6.4 percent—still twice the rate of inflation, but at a pace that would enable Medicare to stay solvent for seven years.

In terms of dollars and cents, total Medicare spending would increase from $178 billion this year to $274 billion by the year 2002—that is a total of $1.6 trillion programs, such as student loans for college education. Much misinformation has been circulated by the liberals, but the reality is student financial aid enjoys wide bipartisan support. This was made evident just yesterday, when the Senate overwhelmingly approved an amendment I cosponsored to provide an additional $3 billion for student financial aid. This amendment would preserve the in-school interest subsidy for both undergraduate and graduate students. It also would prevent any increase in the interest rate on PLUS loans for parents and it eliminated a misguided $5 per cent fee on student loan volume on colleges and universities.

I am very pleased the Senate adopted this amendment. During the Senate Labor Committee's consideration of its version of the bill, I was concerned that the bill contained language. I contacted Chairman KASSEBAUM to express my opposition to any new fees on higher education institutions as a way to preserve our commitment to Federal student loan programs.

Frankly, we could do even more for our financial aid programs by repealing the wasteful direct lending program. This bill takes a step in that direction by capping the direct lending program and allowing the student loan package would provide a $500 per child tax loan deduction for up to 20 percent of interest—up to $500—paid on a student loan.

The bill would create an adoption credit to encourage and reward those who reach out to open their hearts and homes to a child in need of a home. We have a strong commitment to families by relieving the unfair burden of the marriage tax penalty.

The bill would encourage middle class families to save and invest by creating a new Individual Retirement Account. Current use of tax-deductible IRAs would be expanded through an increase in the income limits, which would encourage Americans to save more and secure their futures. Homeowners who have contributed to families by relieving the unfair burden of the marriage tax penalty.

Mr. President, the driving principle behind this entire legislation is fairness— fairness to hard-working Americans and particularly to our children. We want to protect this country. Without this legislation, Americans would be subjected to egregious forms of unfairness on many fronts. Unless we balance the budget, young Americans will inherit a nation submerged in debt. Today, already owes $187,000 just on interest on the Federal debt. That is more than $3,300 in taxes every year of her working life—a lifetime tax rate of 84 percent. This debt stands to threaten the very foundations of our economy and our country.

Without this legislation, Medicare will go bankrupt in the year 2002. Americans not yet of retirement age, who are contributing a significant portion of their pay to Medicare, deserve to know that Medicare will be there for them when they retire.

Without this legislation, hard-working Americans would be saddled with a tax system that punishes their ability to save, invest and provide for their families.

This legislation restores fairness to fiscal policy, seniors' health care and tax policy. Most Americans play by a common sense set of values. Americans work hard. They obey the law. They look out for their family and community. They try to provide for their future and their children's future. Under the Constitution, the Federal Government has stood in stark contrast to these values. The Federal Government taxes far too much and spends even more. It does not live within its means. It stifles individual initiative and ingenuity. This liberal tax and spend philosophy stands to threaten the livelihoods and the values that embody them of future generations.

Today, we take a significant step to right this wrong. To protect an indispensable legacy of tax and spend. It is a historic occasion. Today, we set the stage for a new legacy of fiscal responsibility and fairness to American families. The American people made history last November by giving the Republicans control of Congress for the first time in more than a generation. They called for fair, common sense government. Tonight, for the first time in more than a generation, we in the Republican party will give the American people what they asked for: A fair, common sense government that lives within its means.

NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, there was a point of order sustained against the provision in the bill providing for the sale of the naval petroleum reserves. This is a technical violation of the Byrd rule.

The budget resolution included a reconciliation instruction based on the gross proceeds from the sale of the naval petroleum reserves. However, in reconciliation purposes, the Senate Budget Committee has scored the gross proceeds to the Armed Services Committee consistent with the budget resolution.

Under reconciliation scoring, there is no violation under the Byrd rule.

For purposes of determining under sections 302 and 311 of the Budget Act and determining whether the budget is balanced we do take into account the forgone receipts from the sale of the naval petroleum reserve. So, under that point of order, there would be a net outlay increase in the out-years.

Even so, no one should be under the impression that the sale of the NPR will lose the Government money. Under the provision in the bill providing for the sale of the naval petroleum reserves [NPR] leads to three budgetary impacts: $1.6 billion increase in gross proceeds to the Government from the sale of the NPR: $2.5 billion in forgone receipts over the 7-year period of the reserve; and at least $1.0 billion in discretionary spending savings associated with the fact that the Government no longer will need to spend money to operate and maintain the reserves.

None of these figures take into account the interest savings the Government will earn or the tax revenues that will be generated by the private operation of this oil venture. Even without these additional savings, the sale still generates savings to the Federal Government over a 7-year time period.

The point of order against this provision is clearly a technical violation. I will work with the Senate Finance Committee and the Armed Services Committee to ensure that NPR's is incorporated into the conference report and there is no Byrd rule violation.

The irony here is that a Democratic point of order will defeat the President's proposal to sell the naval petroleum reserves. If we don't sell it, the President's plan is even more out of balance.

Mr. President, the NPR has outlived the original purpose for which it was established around the turn of the century—a fuel reserve for the Navy.

Since 1976, the Department of Energy has been operating NPR as a commercial oil field. The quality of oil produced from the NPR is not suitable for use by the modern Navy and instead is sold to the private market.

There is no national security rationale for the Federal Government to continue managing NPR oil production, either in terms of military or domestic energy requirements. The private sector can run NPR more efficiently than the Federal Government.

INTERNATIONAL SIMPLIFICATION

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I would like to state my support for including several international tax simplification measures in the conference report. There is an urgent need to address certain issues now before businesses make operational decisions that may negatively impact the growth of those industries for years to come, and, as a result, the American economy. I know that Senators HATCH, D'AMATO, CHAFFEE, GRASSLEY, and MACK also have strong concerns in this area, and I hope we can all work together to see that these issues are addressed in the conference report on this bill.

The provisions to which I refer include various international simplification measures, some of which are in the House bill, including a measure that would permit foreign tax credits to be applied to taxes paid by fourth, fifth and sixth-tier controlled foreign corporations (CFCs), as well as the repeal of Section 956A of the Internal Revenue Code, the application of the foreign sales corporation (FSC) rules with respect to software exports, and a reevaluation of the deferral rules for foreign shipping income of CFC's.

One of the provisions on which I believe we should act is section 956A, which was one of the tax increases included in President Clinton's 1993 tax bill. Contrary to the stated reason for enacting this provision, in many cases it created an incentive for U.S. multinationals to invest overseas rather than in the United States. This is because by having its foreign subsidiary invest in active foreign assets, a U.S. multinational reduces its tax liability. This section of the law essentially provides a 35 percent investment tax credit for foreign investment by U.S. companies. Similar problems arise from a provision that today could cause a CFC to be treated as a PFIC because current and future earnings are not recognized for the value of a company's intangible assets. These and other international tax simplification issues should be addressed in the conference agreement to this bill.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I share the concerns expressed by the majority leader regarding the need to repeal Section 956A and the application of the PFIC rules to CFC's in connection with intangible assets. I would also like to express my concern about the problem of the overlap between subpart F and the PFIC provisions in general. I look forward to working together with the leader to correct all of these problems in the conference report on this bill. These provisions have the effect of hindering competitiveness of U.S. multinationals and distorting investment decisions that properly should be governed by economic considerations alone. Thus, they put at risk U.S.-based jobs. The 956A and PFIC rules have an especially harsh effect on research-intensive companies, which tend to accumulate capital before making major investments. As a result, I am particularly concerned that research activities may be moved overseas in order to avoid the impact of these rules. I am concerned that we gradually lose its competitive edge in the technology field if through ill-conceived tax rules we provide incentives for this technology to be developed and owned outside the United States. As a result, these issues are very important to my State of Utah, and I am concerned about Tax Code provisions that have the effect of causing those industries to move their high-paying jobs out of the United States. For this reason, I would like to ask the leader's support for addressing in conference a problem that has arisen because of a narrow and ill-conceived IRS interpretation of the foreign sales corporation (FSC) provisions as they apply to exports of software, which I fear could also result in the movement of software development jobs overseas.

The FSC rules were enacted to address competitive disadvantages faced by U.S. companies vis-à-vis exports from other countries that have more favorable tax systems, particularly those that effectively exempt export sales from home country tax. The goal of the FSC provisions was to remove an incentive to move manufacturing and production jobs out of the United States. Unfortunately, a narrow IRS interpretation of these rules could preclude exports of software copyrights from being treated under the FSC rules when those exports are accompanied by a right to reproduce the software overseas. I am very concerned because software companies are already examining opportunities to move high-paying software development jobs overseas where highly skilled labor is available at much lower wages. FSC benefits help offset higher U.S. labor costs by providing benefits on the export of products developed in the United States. I believe it is very important to clarify these rules to prevent taxpayers from avoiding taxation on the repatriation of foreign earnings through disguised dividends in the form, for example, of loans to affiliates. In general, ordinary course of business financing transactions appropriately were exempted from this provision. Since section 956 first was introduced, however, the scope and complexity of international business have expanded, and therefore the ordinary course of business exceptions to section 956 have not been updated.

For example, U.S.-based securities firms typically had negligible foreign earnings at the time section 956 was introduced, and therefore the ordinary course of business exceptions to that provision did not reflect standard commercial practices in that industry. In recent years, however, many U.S.-based securities firms have transformed themselves into global institutions by developing substantial international operations (just as many foreign-based institutions now compete in the United States). Section 956 has never been updated to reflect this surge in the international activities of the U.S. securities industry, thus forcing the industry into complex uneconomic transactions.

This is just one example of how U.S. taxation has not kept up with the political, economic and technical changes that have created new opportunities and broken down old barriers as national markets are replaced with global markets. Our tax laws should reflect and support these changes in a similar fashion, or they will force undue complexity of tax compliance.

I join with the Senators from Kansas and Utah in supporting the principal of tax reform in the international area and the inclusion of international simplification and reform in the conference reconciliation.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I agree that we should try to address these measures in conference.
fields have far fewer calves than those away from the facilities.

If this is in fact the case, the adverse effects of oil activity would be magnified in the coastal plain. What will exploration bring? Hundreds of miles of roads and pipelines leading to dozens of oil fields, blocking wildlife migration. Toxic wastes leaking into the soil. Rivers and streams polluted with millions of tons of their gravel to construct roads and runways.

According to Interior Department estimates, oil exploration would likely result in a decrease or change in distribution of 20 to 25 percent in the caribou population, 50 percent in the numbers of snow geese, and 25 to 50 percent in the muskox populations.

And after the oil has dried up, after the companies have gone, what will be left? The footprint of industrial development: abandoned drilling equipment scarring the landscape; toxic contamination: lost wildlife: a horizon permanently altered.

I have heard proponents argue that the coastal plan is a critical step toward decreasing our dependence on foreign oil. Yet, many of these same proponents are now moving a bill through the Congress to start exporting the oil presently extracted from Alaska's North Slope.

Mysteriously, this concern about our dependence on foreign oil also seems to evaporate when it comes to investing in research and development of alternative fuels, such as solar and wind energy.

Protection of our wilderness should not be a Democratic issue, or a Republican issue. In fact, the entire National Wildlife Refuge System, or which the Arctic Refuge is a part, was begun in 1903 by one of the greatest conservationists in history, Teddy Roosevelt, a Republican. The coastal plain was part of the original wildlife refuge established by President Eisenhower in 1960. Regrettably, red ink is being added to Alaska's budget and the power of a few special interests have polarized this debate.

Every American has a stake in our National Wilderness Areas, in the preservation of the environment in which we all live. Every acre offering the possibility of oil ought not be drilled, every mountain offering the possibility of gold ought not be mined, every mile of coast ought not be stripped bare just because its value can be quantified, just because revenue can be raised.

Due to the fragile and complex interconnection of ecosystems, our future is inextricably linked to nature's vitality. If the scale is tipped too far by overdevelopment and we lose our balance, no amount of money will enable us to restore what we have lost.

We must remember that we are but visitors in this land, existing by the good grace of Mother Nature—a last, sustainable society for all future generations to come.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. President, I have enormous respect for my Republican colleagues for producing this historic budget. For the first time in a generation the Senate is presented with a plan that actually balances the budget.

Earlier this year, one part of this balanced budget amendment charged that the amendment was a gimmick designed to allow Members to say they support a balanced budget without having to explain exactly how to achieve this.

I am proud that these critics have been proven wrong. Despite the loss of the balanced budget amendment, this Republican Congress has persevered in producing a specific plan to balance the budget in 2002—the same year called for in the balanced budget amendment.

The spending cuts called for in this plan are significant, and many of them are with the American people. It is with the tax cuts. I do not think we should be cutting taxes at the same time we are trying to balance the budget.

Trying to do both at once is like driving with one foot on the gas and the other on the brake.

I think the tough cuts proposed in this plan would be more easily justified without the tax cuts.

Any way you look at it, because of these tax cuts, the Federal Government will have to borrow $245 billion more over the next 7 years than it otherwise would. This is particularly troubling in light of the fact that, if no changes are made in the Federal budget, children born today will face a lifetime tax burden of 82 percent. Such a tax burden is clearly unsustainable and intolerable.

Paying for tax cuts with borrowed money is really more of a tax deferral than a tax cut. At some point, future taxpayers will be forced to pay back the $245 billion and their tax burden will be higher than it otherwise might be.

If the effect of borrowing money for tax cuts today is to increase the tax burden on future generations, the entire purpose of balancing the budget is undermined. We will still be asking our children to foot the bill. Balancing the budget is itself a tax cut in that it would relieve families of the hidden taxes associated with servicing the national debt. Interest on this debt costs the average household over $800 a year.

Balancing the budget more quickly and forgoing a deficit-financed tax cut would ease the burden of these hidden taxes. Balancing the budget more quickly would also lower interest costs for mortgages and student loans—saving families thousands of dollars.

Congress must focus on increasing the national savings rate. The surest way to achieve this goal is by reducing the deficit and fundamentally reforming the tax code. The tax cuts proposed in the pending bill would frustrate both of these goals. The Tax Code would be complicated further and the deficit would be increased.

Let me be clear. If not for the budget deficit, I too would support a broad-based tax cut. I am no fan of higher taxes. I opposed President Clinton's deficit plan because it relied too heavily on tax increases and not enough on deficit cutting. It is one thing to oppose further tax increases. It is another, however, to support large tax cuts in the face of looming deficits.

While the size of the tax cuts prevent me from voting for this budget, I applaud the willingness of the majority leader, Senator DOMENICI and Senator ROTH to work with me and other Senators to make some important changes to the bill affecting the education and medical programs. In addition, important Federal nursing home standards were maintained. While these improvements were substantial, they could not offset my overarching concerns with cutting taxes by $245 billion.

I am confident that the Senate will have an opportunity to consider another balanced budget plan this year. The budget in its current form will almost certainly be the President.

Subsequent to this veto, I look forward to working with my colleagues to craft a new plan that maintains the goal of balancing the budget without cutting taxes by $245 billion.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I am voting in favor of final passage of the budget reconciliation bill because I believe the prospective benefits of balancing the budget outweigh the concerns expressed in my floor statement of October 24, 1995. As indicated by that statement and my votes on individual amendments, I believe the bill would have been fairer with more funding for Medicare, education, and Medicaid without the tax cuts. OK, the tax cuts should have gone to deficit reduction.

But, on balance, the bill should be passed.

Due to the insistence of our group of centrist Senators, this bill has been materially improved by floor amendments which did add some significant supplemental funding for Medicaid, Medicare, and education.

It is my expectation that further improvements are likely in the House-Senate conference with additional funding for Medicare and recipients of the earned income tax credit, because the House of Representatives has higher figures in those accounts.

After the House-Senate conference and the President's review, it is likely that the ultimate legislation will better address the fairness issue and provide better assurances that tax cuts will not undermine a balanced budget.

Passage of this bill by the Senate today will move the process forward and promote the primary objective of balancing the federal budget by the targeted date for the first time in our history.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, a nation's budget reveals its fundamental values, its priorities, the problems that most concern its people. A budget can tell us what we value—what we will be shared—what people, what activities will bear the tax burdens, and which people, which activities will be encouraged and rewarded.

We are debating here today perhaps the most important budget plan in my public career. This is the first time we have committed ourselves to a 7-year budget plan, and the first time we have committed ourselves to a path which ends in a balanced budget. If—and this is a big if—if we stick to it, this budget will control our actions through the end of this century and beyond.

What statement does this document make about our country? What does this reconciliation bill say about our country, what does it say about our values?

Mr. President, as we debate this bill we face a number of fundamental problems in our country. High on the list of worries of the middle-class men and women I talk to in my State of Delaware is the need to restore faith in the American dream—a belief that their own hard work will earn them a decent living today, that their mothers and fathers could secure and sustain a retirement, and that there will be a better world for their sons and daughters.

And just as high on that list of American concerns is a need to restore Americans' sense of fairness—a sense that we have a system that gives the average guy a fair shake, that does not turn its back on those who are less fortunate, a system in which the most fortunate have an obligation to contribute to our shared needs.

This is a value increasingly at risk today.

How does this budget respond to those concerns, Mr. President? How does it reflect those middle-class values?

I am sorry to say that this budget will give middle-class Americans more reason to worry about the future. It weakens the foundation of middle-class growth by making it harder for our children to get the education they need to become part of a high-wage, high-productivity, world-class work force.

The growth that is the inevitable result of this reconciliation bill will contribute to a further hollowing out of our middle-class—an expanding gap between the few whose families can afford a more expensive ticket to a better future and those who cannot.

A weakened middle class increases social instability, and leads to the very real concerns about the future that we now see in the polls, and in our streets.

It threatens Americans' ability to control their own fate—no matter how hard they work, a weaker, slower-growing economy will mean smaller wages and salaries, a bleaker future.

As unwise, as reckless as this bill is in its threat to our current and future standard of living, Mr. President, it is unconscionable. It is an abandonment of our commitment to our parents' generation.

It raises the cost of getting old in America. Mr. President. This reconciliation bill is a dark cloud over what should be the golden years of the generation that made us into a world power. that passed on to us the richest. Mr. President—thank God the history of the world. How do we repay their hard work and sacrifice on our behalf?

This bill raises the cost of Medicare and Medicaid, and removes nursing-home standards that demand basic human decency. It cuts more than $270 billion from Medicare over the next 7 years. Already today, seniors pay an average of 20 percent of their income for health care. This plan will increase the premiums of a senior couple an additional $2,800 over the next 7 years.

This reconciliation bill continues to dump the burden on a middle class that is already gifting clobbered. For more than a decade and a half, the median income in this country has been stuck in neutral—along with housing, the costs of education and health care are squeezing everything else out of middle-class income.

This bill increases health care costs of the retired parents of hard-working middle-class families. What are they going to do when grandma and grandpa come home and tell them that they will have to pay more out of their own fixed incomes to visit their own doctor? Will they turn their parents away? We all know the answer to that question.

Mr. President, there is no middle ground. The middle-class families are going to remember their parents' sacrifices for them and for this country, and they are going to reach into their pockets and cover the new costs imposed by this bill.

At the same time, they are going to have to pick up the tab for more expensive college loans. It is the old squeeze play, Mr. President, and guess who is in the middle?

The saddest thing about this reconciliation bill may well be the missed opportunity it represents. I voted for the balanced budget constitutional amendment. I supported those plans. I supported the balanced budget constitutional amendment.

I offered an alternative plan that offered real promise of a balanced budget by the year 2002, the same target at which this reconciliation bill is aimed.

I wished I could have voted for a plan that would reach that goal. There are many possible plans, many possible paths to that goal. Some of those paths to a balanced budget would leave us a stronger, more competitive, and fairer country. This one will not.

The question is not whether we should balance the budget. The question is not whether there must be sacrifice and change in the way we do business here. And for me, there is no room in any action plan that would make tax cuts, though more carefully drawn and targeted than those here before us today.

The question is how should we share the burden of the necessary sacrifice among the American people, and how should we allocate the necessary spending cuts to assure stronger, faster economic growth in the future.
future of our economy, and it does nothing to help us build the well-paid, high-productivity work force that will allow us to take control of our destiny. We can do better, Mr. President, and because the American people deserve better. I will vote against this bill.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, reconciliation bill is the culmination of the congressional budget process. It provides for a balanced budget within 7 years, a truly remarkable feat.

The next step will undoubtedly be direct negotiations between congressmen and the President to reach a final budget accord. However, that cannot occur until this legislation has been passed in final form, and sent to the President. And the quicker, the better, in my view.

While I do not agree with every aspect of this reconciliation bill, the objective of achieving a balanced budget far outweighs any misgivings I have about various of its provisions. We do not always get everything we want, in the legislative process. Achieving the greater good must also be a consideration: and, here, the greater good is to obtain a balanced budget.

For 33 straight years this Government has spent more than it has taken in. The cumulative consequence of our annual budgetary sins is an incredible $3 trillion national debt—literally, a mortgage on the economic future of our children and grandchildren. This is immoral, and must stop.

Every week, the Treasury Department must issue debt securities to keep the Government afloat. This past Monday, for example, Treasury borrowed $27 billion to cover maturing securities, and to raise needed cash. The Department must hold monthly, quarterly, and annual auctions just to maintain solvency. If we make no change now, as we are currently on, we will run $200 billion deficits each year well into the next century. Fully 15 percent of our annual Federal budget—$235 billion—must now go to paying the interest on this massive debt. To cut out a penny of that going to reduce the principal. Within 10 years annual interest costs will jump to $400 billion.

This must stop.

Those of us in Congress who have struggled over the years to reverse this ruinous course, are rightfully frustrated. In 1985, we passed the Emergency Deficit Control Act, also known as Gramm-Rudman-Hollings. That law was supposed to deliver a balanced budget by 1991. It did not happen. In 1990, we passed the Budget Enforcement Act, establishing the discretionary spending caps and the pay-as-you-go enforcement spending and tax cuts. The results are barely measurable. Despite our best efforts, deficit control continues to elude us.

Regrettably, we cannot balance the budget in the next 15 years, or next 30 years. However, with the bill before us, we will balance the budget by the year 2002. And, from there, we can hopefully go on to reconcile the staggering national debt that will remain.

Is this bill perfect? No, it is not. I am not aware of any Senator who is satisfied with every aspect of this 1,900-page bill. In my view, at a time when we are struggling to reduce the deficit and asking people to sacrifice, the tax cuts are ill-timed. Earlier this year, during the debate on the Budget Resolution, a number of moderate Republicans—myself included—voted to eliminate the tax cuts. That effort was complicated by the fact that the President’s own budget called for tax cuts totaling more than $105 billion. During the Finance Committee deliberations last week, I was the lone Republican voting to eliminate or scale-back the tax cuts. Unfortunately, my view did not prevail.

I have also been clear in my objections to block granting the Medicaid Program over the past in the Finance Committee to ensure that, at a minimum, pregnant women and children with incomes below the poverty level, as well as the disabled, retain some minimum guarantee of services.

In that same amendment I proposed my amendment to clarify the definition of “disability” passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 60-38. Similarly, I am gratified the Senate this morning rejected, by a vote of 21-78, an amendment to eliminate provisions for low-income pregnant women and children, as well as the disabled. These votes place the Senate squarely on record in support of requiring states to guarantee services to these vulnerable populations.

As a result of negotiations with the majority leader, moderate Republicans have been able to obtain a number of other improvements to the Medicaid package over the past in the Finance Committee, including extensions of Federal grants to states for block grants, increased Federal grants for the elderly, and provisions for covering the state of American Indians. These include retaining Federal standards for nursing homes, a set-aside for low-income Medicare beneficiaries, and requiring that the same solvency standards a state applies to private plans must also be applied to Medicare plans. We were also able to obtain a provision to permit the integration of services for elderly and disabled individuals who are both Medicare and Medicaid-eligible. Finally, we also won inclusion of an additional $10 billion in funding to the States under the revised Medicaid Program, and $2 billion more in Medicare payments to teaching hospitals.

I am also pleased that we were able to reach an agreement with the majority leader to eliminate the proposed reductions in Federal student loan programs that most directly effect students over the past in the Finance Committee, a number of moderate Republicans—myself included—voted to eliminate these adjustments for Federal retirees. These cuts are a cancer, and this bill is the chemotherapy. It’s painful medicine, but it is necessary.

During hearings earlier this year in the Finance Committee, a number of distinguished economists testified on fiscal policy and the state of our economy. Nearly everyone of these witnesses, including Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan, said that balancing the budget is the single most important step we in Congress can take to help the economy. The benefits that flow from balancing the budget include increased employment and wages, greater investment and productivity, and lower long term interest rates.

Once we get on a glide path to a balanced budget, which can only come from hard negotiations with the President, our economy will begin to see some of these improvements. As interest rates drop, borrowing to buy a house, or to finance a college education will become more affordable. With less government borrowing, there will be more capital available for small businesses to expand, and to hire more people. Real wages, now stagnant, will begin to grow again, and our standard of living will gradually begin to improve.

In summary, Mr. President, we must take bold steps now. We cannot continue to pile over greater debt burdens on our children and grandchildren. Thank goodness we finally have a legislative proposal that will reverse this ruinous course.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, the 2000 page reconciliation measure that the Senate passed is deeply flawed.

It is a massive work, and difficult to comment on in any kind of a well order way because making an assessment of the reconciliation bill really amounts... to assessing the individual components of the measure, as well as the proposal as a whole.

On both counts, this bill is troubling.

More importantly, I have voted for legislation that contained significant, specific changes to Medicare twice during the 103rd Congress.

The reconciliation legislation we passed as part of the President's deficit reduction package included nearly $60 billion in Medicare cuts.

I also voted for, and was proud to co-sponsor, the bipartisan Kerrey-Brown deficit reduction package which also included significant, specific Medicare cuts.

And, Mr. President, I am willing to vote for Medicare cuts again. But not the $270 billion in cuts that are proposed in this measure.

Mr. President, last May I laid out a number of specific areas in which I thought savings could be realized. I also pleased a number of those ideas included in the Medicare provisions of the reconciliation bills that have been made by the Senate Finance Committee.

These included changes in the reimbursement of capital-related costs of inpatient services, repairing the flawed reimbursement formula that results in overpayments for some outpatient services; and, establishing a new prospective payment approach for home health care services.

I was pleased as well to see that the Finance Committee proposal includes some improvement in the reimbursement formula for Medicare HMOs.

The current formula rewards inefficient health care markets and punishes efficient health care markets and those areas, like many rural areas, that have inadequate health care markets and punishes low-income seniors and disabled.

But those who have sought to avoid criticism of this and other Medicare changes have used the pretense of the impending insolvency of the Medicare trust fund. And in doing so they have done no favors to the cause of deficit reduction.

Far from it.

By misrepresenting the facts to the American people, they have undermined and jeopardized the already politically difficult, but nevertheless necessary task, of reforming Medicare.

Mr. President, the problem is created by deliberately misleading people about the real need for Medicare reforms are compounded by a number of flawed, even harsh provisions.

These include the across-the-board increases in part B premiums and deductibles.

Unlike the means-tested premium increase on upper income beneficiaries, which I support, the across the board increases in premiums and deductibles hits lower income seniors and disabled.

Mr. President, the median income of elderly households is less than half that of non-elderly households. And incomes for the oldest old are by far the lowest of any age group.

Households headed by someone aged 75 or older had annual median incomes of less than $13,622 in 1992—$4,000 lower than the next lowest income group.

And over one-fourth of the elderly households have incomes of less than $10,000 per year.

Mr. President, while the elderly are disproportionately poor, they also spend far more on health care as a group than anyone else, and this should not surprise us.

What may be surprising to some, however, is just how much our seniors do pay already even with Medicare. In 1995, the average older beneficiary will spend about $2,750 out-of-pocket for premiums, deductibles, copayments, and for services not covered by Medicare.

I proposed that very reform in 1992, as part of my 82+ point plan to reduce the deficit and balance the budget, and am glad to see it included in the two proposals.

Mr. President, I endorse this change. It should be made in order to help reduce the deficit.

But those who have sought to avoid criticism of this and other Medicare changes have used the pretense of the impending insolvency of the Medicare fund. and in doing so they have done no favors to the cause of deficit reduction.

Medicare changes were part of the 82+ point plan to reduce the deficit I offered during my campaign for the U.S. Senate in 1992.

I have sponsored legislation that includes Medicare changes.

Mr. President, last May I laid out a number of specific areas in which I thought savings could be realized. I also pleased a number of those ideas included in the Medicare provisions of the reconciliation bills that have been made by the Senate Finance Committee.

I might add, Mr. President, that these costs do not include the potentially crushing costs of long-term care which can total nearly $40,000 in some areas for nursing home care.

The across-the-board increases in premiums and deductibles will only add to these already high out-of-pocket costs.

Mr. President, let me add that under the current protections in our Medicaid program for lower income Medicare beneficiaries, some of the impact on these costs of the elderly would be softened, but the reconciliation measure eliminates the guarantee of help for those beneficiaries.
Mr. President, rural seniors are among the most at risk under this legislation. Because rural areas depend on Medicare to support an already inadequate health care service capacity, the massive Medicare cuts hit rural seniors and providers especially hard.

Making matters worse is the so-called Budget Expenditure Limit Tool, or "BELT" provision included in the bill which provides for automatic cuts in the traditional Medicare fee-for-service program if budget targets are not met.

Despite the improvements made to the Medicare HMO reimbursement formula, rural beneficiaries will continue to rely much more heavily on the traditional Medicare fee-for-service program than their urban counterparts, placing them at special risk because of the BELT provision.

Mr. President, as bad as the Medicare cuts are, the Medicaid cuts may be even worse.

Again, reforms to the current Medicaid program are clearly needed, not only to improve services for those lower income families needing health care, but also to reduce the pressure on our budget deficit.

But the $182 billion in cuts proposed in this bill are unacceptable, as is the loss of the current Federal protections that ensure safe nursing home care, guarantee help for the poorest Medicare and Medicaid beneficiaries, and provide the critical safety net of health care services to poor women, children, and the disabled of all ages.

Though spousal impoverishment protections were retained in the provisions reported by the Finance Committee, I am extremely concerned about the prospects for spousal impoverishment when this measure goes to conference.

Comments made by the Speaker indicate that spousal impoverishment protections are very much at risk. I am equally concerned about reports of a little known change in the law that permits States to bill the adult children of those elderly needing long-term care services.

This smacks of a return to the days when we established a population which is not able to provide for themselves. The answer, Mr. President, is not to turn Medicaid into a block grant program, imposing a unilateral cut, and showing responsibility for those left without services onto the States.

The answer is fundamental long-term care reform. Along with Senator PAUL SIMON, I introduced a comprehensive long-term care reform measure, S. 85, that would be an important first step in helping States deal with this growing problem. It is based on the bipartisan reforms we made in Wisconsin during the 1980's, where we established consumer-oriented and consumer-directed home and community-based services that allow those needing long-term care to remain in their own homes and communities.

Those reforms helped bring Wisconsin's Medicaid budget under control, and saved taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars. Between 1980 and 1993, while Medicare fee-for-service use increased by 47 percent nationally, in Wisconsin Medicaid nursing home use actually dropped 15 percent.

This is the kind of national long-term care reform that is needed to tame the Medicaid budget, offered a version of that proposal as an amendment to this bill, but that amendment was defeated.

Mr. President, other provisions of the reconciliation bill are significantly flawed.

According to the Treasury Department, the bill's cuts to the Earned Income Tax Credit amount to nothing more or less than a tax increase on 17 million low-income working Americans.

In my own State of Wisconsin, some 206,000 families will experience a tax increase of $330 on average in 2002, according to Treasury figures.

The assault on the Student Loan Program is also troubling.

The new limitation on direct lending programs adds real injury to this in- sult, making it even more difficult for families to send their children to college.

Mr. President, as disturbing as the provisions contained in the measure are those which are not such as the lack of effective change to the Federal Milk Marketing Order system.

Mr. President, the provisions in this bill with respect to dairy policy could not be any worse for the Upper Midwest. The provisions reported by the Agriculture Committee dramatically reduce the support price for milk, cutting the dairy price support program to a point more than 22 percent below manufacturing prices on a proportionate basis. The dairy program which accounted for less than two percent of commodity program spending in 1994, took 9% of the cuts made by the Agriculture Committee in this bill. Those dairy producers deserve an answer from Mr. President, if the inequities and market distortions of the Federal Milk Marketing Order system that have discriminated against the Upper Midwest had been addressed by the Committee.

Unfortunately, the Agriculture Committee abdicated their responsibility in the Senate and left the system intact, leaving in place a bill that pulled the rug out from under manufacturing prices for the Upper Midwest, and leaving in place the excessive subsidies for fluid milk in other regions of the country.

Unfortunately, Mr. President, this bill did not stop there. Instead, during floor action, the Senate granted its approval to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact which will allow six northeastern states to set artificially high prices for milk paid to their pro- ducers. Mr. President, to my knowledge, this is the first time that Congress has granted approval to a price-fixing Interstate Compact. The Compact erects walls around the Compact states, preventing lower cost milk pro- duced outside the Compact region from entering those six states. It is protectionism in its worst form. This compact also provides a subsidy to Com- pact dairy producers and reduces the price that pay this higher price for milk, in order to allow them to ship their products outside the compact and remain competitive. Those compact products, produced and exported with the subsidy, will then compete with products pro- duced by processors and producers in other states that have not been granted this special privilege.

The Compact, Mr. President, is inherently market distorting, regionally discriminatory, and overly regulatory. I think this body will regret providing its approval to this arrangement.

Unfortunately, the Senate included another provision during floor debate that further worsens the inequities of the dairy system. The bill approved a Class IV pricing scheme for inclusion in Federal Milk Marketing Orders which taxes all producers na- tionwide to support the overproduction of a couple of West Coast states. The Upper Midwest dairy producers and processors overwhelmingly oppose this provision because it adds just another layer of regulation to the already dis- criminatory milk marketing order sys- tem. It will reduce prices for all pro- ducers nationwide in order to pay for the surpluses produced on the west coast. Wisconsin producers, while being denied an opportunity to share in the benefits of the highest class of milk, Class I milk, will now be required to suffer the loss of the lowest priced class of milk, even though they are not responsible for its production.

Mr. President, this bill represents the worst possible outcome for the Upper Midwest dairy industry, and in particular, for Wisconsin dairy farmers. In short, Mr. President, the Senate ap- proved some very bad policy which ap- proves some very bad policy which took the view of many members of this chamber and which is completely out of step with the dairy marketing conditions of the 1990's. Another area in which this bill remains far too silent relates to the lack of mandatory buyback imposed on our U.S. tax code. I am particularly disappointed at the weak effort made to address the rapidly growing spending done through the tax code.

Furthermore, with tax cuts and defense spending, these tax loopholes are sacrosanct in this budget. At $400 billion and growing, these tax expenditures are among the most important areas of Federal spending, and they are hardly touched in the reconciliation bill before the body.

Mr. President, many of the tax expenditures are certainly worthy, but others are hard to justify. Just like the inappropriate subsidies many through direct appropriations, many tax expenditures not only put pressure on the budget deficit. They also distort the market place, lowering overall economic efficiency of the Nation.

But, despite the clear need for careful scrutiny in this area, made all the more timely by our common goal of reducing the deficit, tax expenditures are largely given a free pass.

Mr. President, it is obvious to all that the massive cuts to Medicare and Medicaid—nearly a half trillion dollars over the next 7 years—are far more than are necessary to address our budget problem. Perhaps it is time for us to make it more difficult to enact a budget plan that will balance the Federal books.

Nor can the health care system that provides care for the most vulnerable in our Nation be safely and prudently sustained with this kind of revenue loss. The question occurs—why are these harsh cuts being proposed to the health care programs for our most vulnerable? Why do these excusable and uncontroversial provisions contain the inescapable conclusion is to fund a fiscally irresponsible quarter of a trillion dollar tax cut.

Mr. President, this tax cut not only jeopardizes the fundamental missions of Medicare and Medicaid to provide health care for retirees, poor women, children, and the disabled of all ages, it also jeopardizes efforts to balance the Federal books.

Mr. President, if there were no quarter of a trillion dollar tax cut, we could develop a bipartisan budget plan, including reductions in Medicare and Medicaid, that would balance the Federal books by 2002 or even sooner.

Mr. President, if there were no quarter of a trillion dollar tax cut, Medicare and Medicaid beneficiaries, and other through direct receivable to calls for sacrifice, especially if they are told. Honestly and straightforwardly, that those sacrifices are intended not just to bolster the Trust Fund, but to help get our Federal budget out of the red.

More importantly, Mr. President, if there were no quarter of a trillion dollar tax cut, we could fashion a budget plan that would be politically sustainable for the time it takes to reach balance and eliminate the Federal budget deficit. I have no doubt that the deep flaws in the reconciliation measure before us jeopardize the very goal the supporters of that measure profess—a balanced Federal budget.

Mr. President, I find similar fault, though to a much lesser degree, with the President's original budget as well as his later offering, both of which retain a fiscally reckless tax cut, though one which, admittedly, is much more modest than is being proposed by the Republican leadership.

We cannot afford either the Democratic tax cut or the Republican tax cut, and we could go a long way toward reaching a politically sustainable budget agreement that would balance the Federal books by 2002, and even sooner. If both parties scrapped their tax cut proposals and instead focused on eliminating the deficit.

Mr. President, the image portrayed by the spin doctors, it is the Senate that has produced the most significant reform in this Congress. Bipartisan efforts in the area of gift bans, lobbying reform, and the beginnings of campaign finance reform all have their roots here, in the United States Senate. I earnestly hope this body will eventually put together the kind of sustainably balanced budget reduction plan that will balance the Federal budget before 2002, and do so without harming the most vulnerable in society. The key is to eliminate the absolutely irresponsible quarter of a trillion dollar tax cut.

If we can agree to do that, restrain the growth of tax loopholes, and put the defense budget back on the budget track, we could make it more long-term toward establishing a responsible glidepath to a balanced Federal budget, and elimination of the Federal budget deficit.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to this bill. Along with many others and offices, I oppose the large Medicare cuts contained in the reconciliation bill and am concerned about their impact on all Americans.

MEDICARE AND TAX CUTS

This bill calls for a $270 billion cut to the Medicare program yet gives away $245 billion in tax breaks—which dis-proportionately benefit wealthy Americans. I find it alarming that in order to achieve a $245 billion reduction in taxes, we will slash services for seniors who choose to keep their current Medicare coverage.

This enormous Medicare cut will not balance the budget because it goes for a $245 billion tax break. To keep its commitment to the elderly so that we can turn around and give $245 billion of it away in tax cuts.

Now we have heard a lot of talk about how this side of the aisle is just engaging in demagoguery and class war. The truth is that the tax cuts contained in the reconciliation bill before us will benefit the wealthiest 13 percent get 53 percent of the tax cuts. The wealthiest 13 percent get a $270 billion in Medicare savings by cutting spending in the areas of inpatient and outpatient services, home health, hospice and extended care. Physician and ambulatory facility services and diagnostic tests and durable medical equipment. For the people in my home state of Ohio, this means there will be $8.9 billion fewer dollars for health care. For beneficiaries, this cut will mean increased premiums, deductibles, and co-payments for Medicare Part B services—which include many of the services I just mentioned.

And how are we paying for it? We are going to cut taxes. We squeeze $270 billion from the elderly so that we can turn around and give $245 billion of it away in tax cuts.

The real horror story of this reconciliation bill lies in the numbers. And the numbers the other side has produced just do not add up. The numbers do not add up because not only does this proposal cut medical care for America's seniors, but it raises taxes on the working poor by gutting the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC). So you need to factor in the Republican EITC tax increase when making any distributional comparisons.

When you do that, you will find that people with less than $39,000 will actually be worse off, come tax time, under this plan. But very wealthy taxpayers would be big winners. The wealthiest 13 percent of taxpayers—those who make over $75,000—would receive 53 percent of the Senate tax cut. So the wealthiest 13 percent get 53 percent of the benefits. Those making more than $70,000 would gain an average of $3,000 per taxpayer in the year 2000. By contrast, those with incomes between $20,000 and $75,000 would receive an average tax cut of only $329.

MEDICAID

The budget reconciliation's treatment of Medicaid is truly alarming. Republicans would dismantle the Medicaid program and turn it over to the states as a fixed dollar amount block grant—eliminating the safety
The federal government and the State of Ohio currently share in the funding of the Medicaid program and provide more than 1.85 million poor, elderly and disabled Ohioans with physical, hospital and nursing home care. Under the Republican proposal, Ohio would lose nearly $8 billion in federal Medicaid dollars over the next seven years. To offset these cuts, Ohio would be forced to slash or eliminate health services for low-income families and seniors, divert resources from other important programs, or raise taxes.

Many people do not realize that nearly 70 percent of Medicaid spending goes to long-term care for the aged, blind, and disabled. These recipients are mostly middle-class Americans who are not aware that Medicare and most private insurance policies do not cover long-term care. Many become fugitives from care. The elderly and disabled quickly depleted their income and assets after entering a nursing home where costs average $3000 per month. Republican proposals would have abolished laws that protect spouses from having to sell their homes and assets to pay for nursing home bills, but due to widespread opposition both the House and the Senate wisely voted to retain spousal impoverishment protection.

However, the House version of the Republican Medicaid reform bill repeals federal standards for nursing home and institutional care. This plan repeals such essential standards as quality assurance systems, staffing requirements, restrictions on physical and chemical restraints, and nutrition guidelines. I was pleased to support a successful Senate amendment which provided for a transition in the implementation of nursing home regulations and I will urge conferees to maintain federal standards.

I support efforts to control the growth in federal health care spending, but I do not believe that Republicans should balance the budget, and give tax breaks, at the expense of our nation’s most vulnerable citizens. Reform of Medicare and Medicaid should concentrate on strengthening and improving these important programs, not on squeezing out the maximum amount of budget savings. Today, when millions of Americans face limited access to medical care and live with the fear that an illness or loss of a job will leave them without health care coverage and expose their families to financial ruin, I feel it is essential to expand, rather than limit, access to medical care.

There has been a great deal of debate about priorities in the Senate. I am not convinced the plan before the Senate is an expression of America’s priorities. In fact, it is Robin Hood in reverse. This plan to take from the poor and give to the rich might make the Sheriff of Nottingham proud, but it will not balance the budget.

I oppose the provision to allow oil and gas leasing of the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR).

The coastal plain of the ANWR is one of our remaining ecological treasures, containing 18 major rivers, and providing habitat for 36 species of land mammals and more than 30 fish species. This pristine wilderness cannot be replaced. The loss of oil and gas leasing would forever alter this region. While proponents of leasing the ANWR argue that America’s oil dependency requires this resource, they also advocate lifting the ban on exports of Alaska North Slope oil which is contained in this legislation.

Americans are committed to protecting national parks and public lands. This commitment extends to protecting the ANWR even if the revenues from leasing the area would be dedicated to deficit reduction. The U.S. Geological Survey recently reduced its estimate of the potential oil yield from the area; therefore, the revenue assumptions in this bill may be grossly overstated. However, Mr. President, the environmental value of this natural area is far greater than any short-term gain from oil and gas development. I am also opposed to provisions in the bill that will override existing environmental laws and cripple public health and environmental protections.

At the same time, this measure contains provisions that continue to provide millions of annual federal subsidies to timber, mining, and ranching industries. These subsidies not only lack economic justification but often cause environmental damage. Several of these provisions have been previously eliminated or have delayed consideration of other bills. Yet, in an effort to escape the notice of the American people and circumvent the legislative process these dangerous measures have been inserted into this massive reconciliation bill.

Although this bill contains provisions regarding the Mining Law of 1872, it fails to “reform” the patented process and continues to allow the taxpayer to receive millions in revenues from publicly owned lands. In contrast to federal coal, oil, and gas leases for which the government receives substantial royalty payments, hardrock minerals are virtually given away under a law that has not been significantly revised since 1872. This situation is unconscionable.

This measure also contains provisions from a federal grazing bill under consideration in the House. These provisions codify grazing regulations that were in place prior to Secretary Babbitt’s proposed grazing revisions. Again, the American taxpayer and our nation’s environment are the losers.

For all these reasons Mr. President, I have concluded that I cannot support the passage of this legislation and I urge my colleagues to oppose the bill.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, this debate has been lengthy and I will not delay a final vote much longer. But I do want to take a minute or two to comment on what is a very historic day for the U.S. Senate.

We have cast over 12,000 votes during my years in the Capitol. Many of those didn’t have a great deal of impact on Americans and are hard to recall. But some votes you remember forever—they are the votes that touch the life of every American, and that change the course of history.

I remember the vote on President Reagan’s historic tax cut bill—and the vote against President Clinton’s historic tax increase bill.

I remember the vote which made Martin Luther King’s birthday a Federal holiday—and I was pleased to lead the debate in favor of that bill.

And I vividly recall the vote authorizing President Bush to send troops to the Persian Gulf.

And no doubt about it, the vote we will cast in just a few minutes is one we will remember forever.

It is a vote for putting America on a path to a balanced budget. It is a vote for low interest rates, so more Americans can own a house, buy a car, and send their children to college.

It is a vote that will give new life to the 10th amendment because we are transferring power out of Washington, and returning it to the people, where it belongs.

It is a vote for cutting taxes, and allowing American families to keep more of their hard earned money, and to make their own decisions on how best they can spend it.

It is a vote for securing strengthening Medicare for the future. It is a vote for preserving the Medicare Program, on which so many of our seniors depend.

It is a vote for real, meaningful, and fundamental change.

And above all, Mr. President, it is a vote for America's future. For our children and grandchildren—and their children and grandchildren.

It is a vote for the teenager who was in my office a few years back with a group of high school students from across the country. And this young man said to me, “Senator, everyone has someone in Washington who represents them. Someone speaks for all the farmers, for business—but no one speaks for us. No one speaks for America’s future.”

I do not know where that young man is today, but if he happens to be listening, I want to tell him that at long last, someone is speaking for you. Some one is speaking for America’s future.

This Republican Congress had the courage to look beyond the next election, and ask what is best for the next generation. And this young man was speaking for the next generation. The President has been content to sit on the sidelines and ask what is best for the next generation.

President Clinton wants to cut taxes for the middle class, but his actions speak much louder than his words.

He says he wants to balance the budget, and at various times, he says he can do it in either 5 years, 10 years, 8 years, or 7 years—but each budget he has proposed doesn’t balance the budget in 100 years.

He says he wants to cut taxes for the middle class, but he inflicted the largest tax increase in history on the American people.

He says he wants to save Medicare from its impending bankruptcy, but he has refused again and again to join in a bipartisan effort to do so.

Instead of providing leadership, the President has been content to sit on the sidelines and use increasingly harsh rhetoric to scare the American people.

And that rhetoric reached new lows yesterday, with the sad remarks of the President’s press secretary, which I will not duplicate.

And there is no doubt that these past few days of debate on the Senate floor have created quite a few sound bites for the nightly news.

Some of my friends on the other side of the aisle would have you believe that each and every Republican Senator has it out for Americans in need.

I just wish that each time the media reported one of these phony accusations, they would follow it up by reporting the truth.

And that is why the Republican plan reins in government spending by slowing its rate of growth. The truth is, more than 70 percent of our tax cuts go to working families making less than $75,000 per year. The truth is, the Republican budget allows Medicare to grow by an average of 7 percent per year.

Medicare beneficiaries will receive more money next year than they do this year. And they will keep on receiving more money after year after year.

It truly shows you just how ingrained the status quo is here in Washington, how accustomed the liberals have become to spending American’s money, when they attack us for wanting to slow the rate of growth.

I remember a few years back, when we were having a serious national debate on the proposal by former Senators Rudman and Tsongas—one a Republican and one a Democrat—to freeze the Federal budget. Just think what the rhetoric would be like if we had proposed a freeze. But we have not. Instead, we’ve proposed limiting Government’s growth to $350 billion over the next 7 years.

So I say to my friends in the media: You have a duty to report the truth to the American people. Report that Medicare will grow, not get cut. Report that Republicans are giving working families a tax cut, and not a giveaway to the rich.

Let me close by saluting Senator Domenici for the outstanding job he has done throughout this debate. I know how much time and energy he has invested over the years in the quest for a balanced budget. And I like to think that I know how much this vote means to him.

Congratulations, as well, to Senator Roth, for his leadership in achieving the historic tax cuts contained in this budget, as well as the Medicare provisions, which involved a tremendous amount of work.

Mr. President, it’s no secret this vote is not the end of the budget process. We have repeatedly said that if President Clinton has constructive ideas to offer, we are ready to listen. But, without the President’s help, we’re determined to deliver the change the American people voted for, determined to move America forward, and determined to continue speaking for America’s future.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there any further amendment?

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask for third reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading and was read the third time.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on final passage.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is, Shall it pass? The yeas and nays were ordered. There is a sufficient second.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read the third time, and the Senate then voted on passage of the bill, with the above occurring without any intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. DOMENICI. Midnight.

Mr. DOLE. The PRESIDENT pro tempore.

The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading and was read the third time.

Mr. DOMENICI. I ask for the yeas and nays on final passage.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall it pass? The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 52, nays 47, as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 556 Leg.]

YEAS—52

NAYs—47
Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I want to end up tonight by taking a moment to recognize the tremendous effort and perseverance that has been exhibited by the members of the Budget Committee. They have been working on this issue for many weeks, and I want to express my appreciation to them.

I also want to recognize the hard work of the staff of the Budget Committee. They have been working tirelessly to help us get to this point.

This is a historic vote. We have to go forward with it. We need to pass the conference report. This is a major step in the process of getting a balanced budget. We need to do this for the country and for future generations.

Thank you, Mr. President.
we instructed you to save so many dol-ars and cut so many taxes. But the Finance Committee, led by BILL ROTH, did a magnificent job. That was obviously where we let him down, thanks to SPENCER ABRAHAM, a member of our committee, who worked hard. I asked him to do a special job for me, in a special way, and he did it very well. I thank him so much for that.

I want to begin by thanking my colleagues. I wish to thank the staff and all members of the Budget Committee for their hard work. I would also like to thank all of the committee chairmen who worked so diligently to meet the March 1 deadline of budget resolution and add flesh to its bones.

Also, I would thank the able ranking member, Senator Exon, he is a fine friend and an able adversary. The Senate will be a poorer institution when he departs next year.

And finally, I would like to take a moment to acknowledge the constant and determined leadership of the majority leader, Senator Dole. We all knew it was going to be a tough deal.
And his commitment to keeping his promise to the American people—to them the first balanced Federal budget in 26 years—is the reason we are here tonight. As always, he has kept his word and has provided this Nation the honest, effective, and steadfast leadership that has defined his tenure in this body.

I speak about Senator DOLE's leadership because that's what the vote we are about to cast is all about. Leadership. Honest leadership that protects America today, and tomorrow.

Leaders, it's been said, are the cusdodians of a nation. Of its ideals, its values, its hopes and aspirations. Those things which bind a nation, and make it more than a mere aggregation of individuals.

But governing for today is much easier than leading for the future. It does not take a great deal of talent or courage to solve the immediate need. It's not as hard to pave a pathway for the future.

Yet, we who serve in public office have a responsibility to protect the future. We must work on behalf of those who will follow us, our children and grandchildren. We are the trustees of their future, of their legacy of their opportunities.

Leadership requires courage. It requires boldness and foresight to safeguard a nation's ambitions and confront its challenges.

President John Kennedy put it this way when he said: "To those to whom much is given, much is required." And he reminded us that, as public servants, we would be judged, at least in part, by our courage.

I couldn't agree more. Eight months ago Republican colleagues and I began a courageous effort to throttle runaway Federal spending and give the American people the first bal-ced Federal budget in more than a quarter century.

We knew it would be difficult. We knew it would require determination and endurance. But we had promised the American people we would balance the budget and put an end to the persistent deficit spending that has been bleeding our Nation dry.

A deficit growing by $482 million a day: $333 thousand a minute; and $55 hundred every second. Let me repeat that last figure again—our deficit is currently growing at $5,900 a second.

Deficit spending is draining the economic lifeblood of our country.

It's heaping mountains of debt upon our children and which will drag them down. We are irresponsibly shackling
our children and which will drag them down. We are irresponsibly shackling

that throughout this debate we have had to drag this White House kicking and screaming toward a balanced budget.

The chronology is clear. This White House opposed the balanced budget constitutional amendment. Its first budget waved the white flag of surrender at the deficit, and, as I said, it only offered a fig-leaf balanced budget following the real thing.

I believe there is still hope. I am ready to meet with budget leaders at the White House anytime so they might join with us in fashioning a budget that gets to balance in 7 years. I'm ready to do it now. Tonight. This weekend. Yet the White House has its veto strategy and, apparently, feels we must go through this little mating dance before we get down to business.

So we can not be swayed by veto threats. We must continue to move forward.

Senators, this is a historic vote. I've waited years for this vote. It is one more step toward the balanced budget the American people have been screaming for. It is a vote for responsibility. It is a vote for accountability. And it's a vote to stop this Government from borrowing $5,500 a second to buy everything it wants and begin considering what it can afford.

Admiral Halsey told us: "There aren't great men. There are just great challenges that ordinary men like and me are forced by circumstances to meet."

Tonight this Senate faces a great challenge. Let us—ordinary men and women—have the courage to meet that challenge and, in doing so, preserve America's promise of opportunity.

I want to make clear that the bill that we passed be printed. We do not have it printed yet.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill is available for printing. It will appear in the RECORD of Monday, October 30, 1995.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, let me commend the distinguished Senator from Nebraska for the remarkable job that he did in representing our side during these very difficult days. He has worked with all of the Members of this caucus, as he always does, with professionalism and leadership.

I personally appreciate the contribution that he has made, along with his excellent staff. They have done all the work on this bill from our side in representing us and they have done an outstanding job. I applaud them as well.

Mr. President, the tragedy underlying the passage of this reconciliation bill is that it fails completely to reflect political consensus. We all agree on the need to balance the budget, but there has been no effort by the Republican majority to address Democrats' concerns and the very real concerns of the American people.

We have stated time and again that we want to work with the majority to produce a bipartisan solution to the deficit problem. The President of the United States has held out his hand in an offer of cooperation. Instead of cooperation, we have been cut out, shut out. And our concerns have been ignored.

Along with us, the American people have been shut out of this process, and their values have been trampled upon. As people are realizing how they and their families will be affected in a real way, they are increasingly rejecting the Republican budget plan.

The plain fact is that Democrats have a clear and successful track record as deficit cutters. In 1993, we achieved $600 billion in deficit reduction without a single Republican vote. The result is that the deficit, as a percentage of the economy, is this year at the lowest level since 1979.

The deficit has fallen for 3 years in a row for the first time since Harry Truman was President. In fact, the 1993 economic plan is working better than even the Administration or the Congressional Budget Office had projected. That is because the economy has performed better than projected since 1993 due to the success of the President's economic plan.

While we seek to balance the budget, we also understand that there is a right way and a wrong way to do it. The budget plan before us is the wrong way. Unlike the Republicans in 1993, this year we offered to cooperate in good faith so long as our basic concerns were on table.

We said $270 billion in Medicare cuts to pay for $245 billion in tax breaks for the wealthy was unacceptable. And we asked that the priorities in this budget be changed first. We wanted children, the elderly, those with disabilities, working families, rural America, and the environment. This debate is about people: seniors who need Medicare, young people who need an education, families who need a fair income—and greater stability, and rural people who want to preserve their way of life.

That is why we are here. It is what unites us. It is why we have fought so hard and so long against the harmful provisions of this bill.

None of our concerns was addressed. The majority did not budge one inch on any of the extreme proposals they made.

As a result, this budget is "DBA"—dead before arrival—and is certain to get the veto it so richly deserves.

The American people have been shut out of this bill in name only. Certainly there was no reconciliation with Democrats. There were no hearings, no consultation with Democrats, and virtually no time for debate.

Senators, if the Senate Republicans held a private markup in the Finance Committee, locking out committee Democrats for the first time in history. The congressional majority has exercised rigid party discipline, forcing every one of its members to march in lockstep even if they disagree with the fundamental direction of their leadership.

The Senate received its first look at this package only one week ago. It was not printed and available to all Senators and the public until this Tuesday. The result is a 2,000-page abomination we are only now beginning to understand.

This far-reaching, extreme package is being rushed through Congress before public opposition can bring it down. The authors of this budget have not built a consensus with anyone, except themselves. They claim a mandate for their radical course—as if wishing would make it so.

This budget does not reflect the hopes and needs of most Americans. Nor have we reconciled our problems with the deficit.

Under this budget. In the year 2002, there will still be a deficit of over $100 billion. Yet we will have to use Social Security money to pay it off. Maybe that is why 80 percent of the American people, in a recent poll, said they believe this bill will not balance the budget. They know it, and we know it.

The only reconciliation that has taken place has occurred in the Speaker's office—in backroom deals between the right and the far right—and between the Republican leadership and a line of special interests that just keeps getting longer. And longer.

Mr. President, our country deserves better than this. This is not what the American people voted for last year.

The American people did not vote last year to cut $475 billion in health benefits to give tax handouts to those who do not need them. They did not vote last year to cut education to millions of students so that some of America's wealthiest corporations could pay no taxes at all. The American people did not vote last year to raise taxes on American families making less than $30,000 so the richest Americans could pay $8,000 less. Nor did they vote not to have a farm bill for the first time in 80 years.

They did not vote for this budget plan then, and they do not support it now.

Mr. President, this bill is not a product of the reconciliation process. It is an abuse of the reconciliation process.

What is in this monstrous package? It contains the largest health care cuts in American history. Two hundred seventy billion dollars in Medicare cuts alone. The mask is off those who have argued that their intention is to "save" Medicare. Their real purpose is to dismantle Medicare.

Three days ago the Republican leaders of both Houses of Congress made clear their real intentions. One stated that creating Medicare was a mistake in the first place, and the other said that Medicare as we know it will "wither on the vine." Their recent statements help explain why they insist on cutting $270 billion from Medicare, when only $89 billion is needed to restore its solvency for the next eleven years. By doing so, Congress is abolishing the program, they are cutting Medicare three times more than necessary to pay for their "crown jewel"—offering to the special interests: $245 billion in tax breaks.

Mr. President, this attack on Medicare reveals how far out of touch with the American people the proponents of this bill have become. Medicare is one of the greatest success stories of our time. The American people know that even if some of their politicians have forgotten.

In 1965, before the creation of Medicare, 46 percent of seniors had health care coverage. Today, 99 percent are covered. Does the majority want to bring us back to the "good old days" when only half of our senior citizens had health insurance? It would be heartless to go back to the age when our older citizens suffered needlessly from disease and even premature death because they had no access to health care.

The consequences of these Medicare cuts will be severe. Hospitals will be forced to close. Couples will be forced to pay an average of $2,800 more for health care by 2002. Clearly, Medicare is being used as a piggy bank to fund tax cuts for the wealthiest Americans, with no regard to the damage to the health care of senior citizens in America.

This bill dismantles Medicare. At a time when we have unacceptably high numbers of Americans with no health care coverage, it would deprive an additional 38 million Americans guarantee health care coverage under Medicare.

A recent study by the Consumers Union and the National Health Law Program estimates that 12 million Americans—half of them children—would lose their health care coverage under this proposal. Surely the majority doesn't think the American people voted last year to increase the number of uninsured.

Older Americans and their families also have reason to fear the destruction of Medicaid. One-half of the nursing home patients in the U.S., including almost all of the senior citizens, rely on Medicaid. What will happen to the quality of their care under this bill? What justifies putting the spouses and adult children of nursing home residents at risk of bankruptcy?

That is not what the American people voted for last year either. The majority is telling these people and their families, "You're on your own."

Republicans say, "Don't worry about those details. Think about the tax relief in this bill." But there is no tax relief in this bill for average Americans. There are only new tax burdens for them.

Despite the Republican promises, the typical family in this country earning less than $30,000 will see their taxes increase under this bill. And half of all families in the U.S. have incomes below $30,000.

This bill represents the biggest transfer of income from the lower and middle income levels to the wealthy that we have ever seen. In one fell swoop, it destroys 30 years of investment in our people.

Most of the pain in the budget—affecting seniors, children, working families, rural America, and the environment—is driven by the insatiable greed on the part of the congressional majorities for tax breaks that benefit the wealthiest Americans and large corporations. The richest one percent of Americans—that earning over $350,000—will get an average tax break of $5,678.

Many large corporations will pay no taxes at all under this bill.

Not only do these generous handouts to the wealthy require huge cuts in education and health care and so many other areas they are local irresponsible. The tax breaks will add $293 billion to the debt over the next seven years—$293 billion in added debt that our children will have to pay off! The costs of those tax breaks will explode after the 7 years covered in this budget. To those who profess that this effort is intended to save our children from the crushing burden of our debts, I would ask them to explain this hyp-o-ocrisy.

For all the talk we have heard about how this plan is intended to benefit children and future generations, the actual provisions of the bill reveal a different story.

The bill launches an assault on education in this country. By cutting billions for student loans, this bill closes the door on a college education for many Americans.

Other program's priorities are sav-aged as well. By 2002, up to 6.5 million children could lose health coverage. Food stamps will be cut. Foster care payments will be capped, threatening to throw us back to dependence on the orphanages the Speaker proposes. Countless children threatened with abuse may never benefit from inves-tigations of their situations. This bill plays a shell game with the $3 billion in child care funds that were included in the Senate welfare reform bill. It cuts Title XX, the states' primary source of child care money, by $3.3 billion. It is "Home Alone II" for children whose families are trying to work their way off welfare.

Another giant item stuffed into this package is the 1995 farm bill, which rewards the rich and ravages the rest. It punishes families who need our help most to pay for tax breaks for those who need handouts the least.

It is the wrong plan, for the wrong people, on the wrong way to help the wrong people.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, much of what the minority leader just had to say has been said over and over again. It, I think, has been answered sufficiently. We will listen to it here and listen to that speech after all that we have been through for the last three days.
Mr. PRESSLER. Mr. President, I rise today to discuss the critically important issue of United States aviation relations with the Government of Japan.

Last month, the United States commenced talks with the Japanese aimed at liberalizing the transpacific cargo market. This is a welcome development and I hope an agreement liberalizing cargo service opportunities can be reached by no later than March of next year—the mutually agreed upon time frame. The Japanese carriers of cargo services on both sides of the Pacific would be the big winners if such an agreement is struck. Talks on more contentious passenger carrier issues have not been scheduled.

As should now be clear from the numerous floor statements I have made in this body in recent months, I have a keen interest in United States-Japan aviation relations. As Chairman of the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, I will continue to make it a priority. At the outset of my remarks today, let me emphasize several related points. Although these remarks refer primarily to passenger carrier issues, they directly relate to cargo relations with the Japanese.

First, from a long-term perspective and due to its key strategic location in the Asia-Pacific aviation market, aviation relations with the Japanese are a very important national trade issue. They are a very important national trade issue and a very important national trade relationship. At the same time service opportunities in Japan are expanding, air service markets in Asian countries best served through Japanese gateway airports are growing at an astounding rate.

Simply put, meaningful participation in the rapidly expanding Asia-Pacific market is critical to the long-term profitability of our airline industry. For instance, the International Air Transport Association estimates that between 1993 and 2010 scheduled international passenger service in Vietnam will grow at an average annual rate of 17.3 percent. International air service opportunities in China are expected to grow at an annual rate of 12.8 percent over the same period. Overall, it is expected the Asia-Pacific market will account for approximately 50 percent of world air traffic by 2010.

Second, geographic factors coupled with the limited range of commercial aircraft make it essential that carriers seeking to effectively serve these rapidly expanding Asia-Pacific markets can provide that service from Japan either directly or indirectly through a Japanese code-sharing partner. As distinguished from the bottleneck at London's Heathrow Airport, overflight to markets beyond Japan is not an option since the distances to these markets from the United States are too great. Moreover, as shown by recent unsuccessful experiences, serving the Pacific through other gateway countries and other gateway countries does not appear to be a viable alternative.

Third, aviation relations with Japan are a very important national trade issue and it is imperative they be treated as such. Indeed, discussion of air service opportunities to and beyond Japan is one of the United States' most important trade issues being discussed with any of our trading partners. The stakes in the Japan market are enormous. For example, the United States currently enjoys an approximately $5 billion net trade surplus with Japan for passenger air travel in the Asia-Pacific market.

I cannot emphasize strongly enough the importance of our current and future aviation negotiations with the Japanese. Handled properly, air service negotiations with the Japanese could enhance the ability of our passenger and cargo carriers to participate in the rapidly expanding Asia-Pacific market. Handled poorly, the adverse trade consequences could be colossal.

Fourth, what the Japanese are seeking in these negotiations is not to level the playing field as they suggest. Let there be no mistake, the Japanese are seeking no less than to tilt the competitive playing field in such a way as to enable their less efficient carriers to compete more effectively against our carriers. Our passenger carriers serving the Asia-Pacific market have operating costs approximately half those of their Japanese counterparts.

The Government of Japan claims the United States-Japan bilateral aviation agreement is fundamentally unfair and soley responsible for the greater market share our passenger carriers enjoy on service between the United States and Japan. The facts do not support such a position. Just 10 years ago, under the very same bilateral agreement the Government of Japan now criticizes, Japanese carriers had a large market share on transpacific routes than United States competitors. What is the truth? As a June 1994 report by Japan's Council for Civil Aviation noted, the fact is our carriers became more competitive by lowering operating costs while Japanese carriers continue to be high cost carriers.

Similarly, the Government of Japan claims our carriers have abused their beyond rights and unfairly dominate beyond markets. Again, a claim without merit. Currently, Japanese passenger carriers have a 34 percent share of the Japan-Asia market while United States passenger carriers have just 13 percent of that market. Moreover, our cargo carriers have only approximately 14 percent of the Japan-Asia market. The facts speak for themselves.

Having made these points—points I believe are critical to the United States-Japan aviation relations debate—let me turn to the question of what our goal should be in current and future negotiations with the Japanese. Uncharacteristically, our carriers seem to speak with one voice in saying we need to liberalize passenger and cargo carrier opportunities with the Japanese. There is disagreement, however, with regard to what strategy our negotiators should pursue to accomplish this goal.

In recent weeks it has become readily apparent the debate regarding negotiating strategy will be shaped by two fundamentally different views. To better understand these views, one must remember that our carriers which currently serve Japan can be separated into two distinct groups based on the types of service they are authorized to provide.

The first group of carriers are the so-called MOU carriers. These carriers—American Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Continental Airlines, and United Parcel Service—are permitted by a Memorandum of Understanding signed in 1985 to provide service from specific cities in the United States to specific Japanese cities. These MOU carriers are considered as a base of operation to directly serve emerging Asian markets beyond Japan. They can, however, participate in those markets through code-sharing alliances with Japanese carriers. In fact, Delta's recently announced alliance with All Nippon Airways will permit it to do precisely that.

The second group of carriers, whose rights are derived from the United States-Japan bilateral agreement signed in 1952, are permitted to fly to Japan, take on and unload passengers and/or cargo, and to fly on to cities throughout Asia. Unlike the MOU carriers, the so-called 1952 carriers—Northwest Airlines, United Airlines, and Federal Express Corporation—have beyond rights. Northwest was a party to the 1952 agreement. In 1983, United Airlines purchased its beyond rights from Pan Am in a $750 million transaction and Federal Express Corporation purchased beyond rights of Tiger International, Inc. in a 1989 transaction valued at more than $1 billion.

In a recent speech, Bob Crandall, the Chairman of American Airlines, set out a possible negotiating strategy for United States-Japan aviation relations. I anticipate other MOU carriers will embrace the strategy Mr. Crandall advocated and I therefore refer to it as the "MOU carrier approach."

Recognizing the Japanese are unlikely to grant beyond rights to MOU carriers, Mr. Crandall urged our negotiators to focus on increasing transpacific opportunities between the United States and Japan. In addition to... list of business organizations that are subject to the payment limitations. Under current law, general partnerships and joint ventures are not listed under the definition of legal "persons" and are thus exempt from the payment limitations. This exemption encourages partnerships and joint ventures to structuring their businesses under the aegis of a general partnership: the more "entities" included in the partnership, the more payments the operation can receive.

SECTION 4

This section would repeal the most flagrantly-abused provision in the payment limit laws: the "Three-Entity Rule." This rule was passed by Congress in 1987 purportedly to limit the number of sources from which a farmer could receive payments. In reality, though, it has mostly been an invitation for farmers to structure their operations in such a way as to maximize payments. This section would allow farmers to receive payments from any number of sources. But because of the strict $35,000 limit we establish in a direct attribution system, there will be few remaining incentives for farmers to form multiple corporations and "shell" entities that exist only on paper.

SECTION 5

For any payment limitation reforms to work, the loopholes in the rules defining who is "actively engaged in farming" need to be tightened. Otherwise, significant dollars will continue to flow to off-farm investors and big operations will continue to flout the payment limits.

This section contains several sensible changes in the eligibility rules. Among others, it would:

- Require any individual or majority shareholder's contribution to the overall significant contribution of "active personal management" and "active personal labor." Current rules require only one or the other.
- Require minority shareholders to contribute at least "active management" or "active labor" on the farm. Current rules allow too many passive stockholders to receive payments just by making a contribution of capital, land or equipment, i.e., money. If a minority shareholder does not meet this threshold, then his or her payments will be reduced in proportion to that shareholder's stake in the venture.
- Require "active personal management:" to demand a regular and consistent presence on the farm during the growing season, to guarantee that payees are closely involved in the day-to-day operations of the farming venture. The current definition is exceedingly vague, requiring only that the contribution be "critical to the farm's profitability."
- Toughen the requirements on landowners. Under current law, landowners are essentially exempt from the labor and management contribution requirements, as long as they are engaged in a true share-lease arrangement with a tenant. This provision would require that the tenant actually be "actively engaged" for the landowner to qualify for payments.
- Lastly, this section would expressly prohibit individuals or shareholders from using their subsidy payments to account for their required capital contribution. Under current rules, subsidy payments can offset efficiency payments toward their capital contribution, which undermines the legal requirement that a recipient be at risk.

This section would increase the penalties for engaging in a "scheme or device": creating bogus corporations, etc.—and defrauding the payment system.

Under current law, any individual or entity found by the USDA to be engaged in a scheme or device is prohibited from receiving payments for the rest of that crop year as well as the next crop year. This provision would ban payments for the succeeding five crop years. In addition, any individual or entity participating in commodity programs that is convicted of defrauding the government would be banned from receiving payments for the next 10 years. (There is currently no additional punishment for persons convicted of fraud.)

These steps are designed to create a real deterrent against attempts to milk the system and deceive the government. The existing penalties are clearly not having any impact.

SECTION 7

This section would establish the effective date of these changes as October 1, 1996.

ADDITIONAL COSPONSORS

S. 545

At the request of Mr. BUMPERS, the name of the Senator from Hawaii [Mrs. INOUYE] was added as a cosponsor of S. 545, a bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to extend permanently the exclusion for educational assistance provided by employers to employees.

S. 943

At the request of Mr. GRAHAM, the names of the Senator from Illinois [Mr. SIMON], the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. DODD], and the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. PRYOR] were added as cosponsors of S. 943, a bill to require the Secretary of the Treasury to mint $1 coins in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the death of George Washington.

S. 1095

At the request of Mr. MOYNIHAN, the name of the Senator from Illinois [Mr. SIMON], the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. DODD], and the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. PRYOR] were added as cosponsors of S. 1095, a bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to extend permanently the exclusion for educational assistance provided by employers to employees.

S. 1138

At the request of Mr. LEAHY, the name of the Senator from Illinois [Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN] was added as a cosponsor of S. 1138, a bill to control and prevent commercial counterfeiting, and for other purposes.

At the request of Ms. SNOWE, the name of the Senator from New York [Mr. D'AMATO] was added as a cosponsor of S. 1200, a bill to establish and implement efforts to eliminate restrictions on the use of the drug methadone by the residents of New York.

S. 1226

At the request of Mrs. FEINSTEIN, the name of the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. SANTORUM] was added as a cosponsor of S. 1226, a bill respecting the relationship between "Fourth Amendment" compensation benefits and the benefits available under the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act.

S. 1300

At the request of Mr. BENNETT, the name of the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. SIMPSON] was added as a cosponsor of S. 1300, a bill to ensure personal privacy with respect to medical records and health-care-related information, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 292

At the request of Mr. BYRD, the names of the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. DASCHLE], the Senator from Virginia [Mr. ROBB], the Senator from Illinois [Mr. SIMON], the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WELLSTONE], the Senator from Nevada [Mr. REID], the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. PRYOR], the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BUMPERS], the Senator from New Mexico [Mr. BINGCAMPAN], the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY], the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL], the Senator from Wisconsin [Mrs. MURRAY], the Senator from Montana [Mr. Baucus], the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. FEINGOLD], the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. ROCKEFELLER], the Senator from Hawaii [Mr. AKAKA], the Senator from Delaware [Mr. BIDEN], the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KERRY], the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. JOHNSEN], the Senator from Maryland [Ms. SARBANES], the Senator from Maryland [Ms. MIKULSKI], the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. DODD], the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. KOHL], the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. FORD], the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CONRAD], the Senator from Georgia [Mr. NUNN], and the Senator from California [Mrs. BOXER] were added as cosponsors of S. 1300. Amendment No. 292 proposed to S. 1307, an original bill to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 105 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 1996.

AMENDMENT NO. 2974

At the request of Mr. BYRD, the names of the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. FEINGOLD], the Senator from Illinois [Mr. SIMON], the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DORGAN], the Senator from Virginia [Mr. ROBB], and the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. HOLLINGS], and the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BUMPERS] were added as cosponsors of Amendment No. 2974 proposed to S. 1307, an original bill to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 105 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 1996.

SENATE RESOLUTION 188—NATIONAL DRUG AWARENESS DAY

Mr GRASSLEY submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. RES. 188

Whereas illegal drug use among the youth of America is on the increase:
Whereas illegal drug use is a major health problem, ruining thousands of lives and costing billions of dollars:
Whereas illegal drug use contributes to crime on the streets and in the homes of this nation:
Whereas national attention has turned from illegal drug use to other issues, and support for sustained programs has decreased:
Whereas public awareness and sustained programs are essential to combat an on-going social problem:
Whereas the answer to the illegal drug problem lies in America's communities, with local people involved in grass roots activities to keep their communities safe and drug free and to encourage personal responsibility;

Whereas the annual Red Ribbon Celebration in October involves the National Campaign Partnership and involving over 80,000,000 Americans in prevention activities each year, commemorates the sacrifices of people on the front lines in the war against illegal drug use;

Whereas substance abuse prevention, law enforcement, international narcotics control, and eliminating illegal drug use can contribute to preventing young people from starting illegal drug use; and

Whereas the American people have a continuing responsibility to combat illegal drug use: Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the Senate designate October 27, 1993, as 'National Drug Awareness Day'.

AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED

THE BALANCED BUDGET RECONCILIATION ACT OF 1995

SPECTER AMENDMENT NO. 2986

Mr. SPECTER proposed an amendment to the bill (S. 1357) to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 105 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 1996, as follows:

On page 538, line 16, strike all that follows through page 541, line 9.

SPECTER AMENDMENT NO. 2986

Mr. SPECTER proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section:

SEC. 1397. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE

(a) FINDINGS—The Senate finds that—

(1) The current Internal Revenue Code, with its myriad deductions, credits and schedules, and over 12,000 pages of rules and regulations, is long overdue for a complete overhaul;

(2) It is an unacceptable waste of our nation's productive resources when Americans spend an estimated 5.4 billion hours every year compiling information and filling out Internal Revenue Code tax forms, and in addition, spend hundreds of billions of dollars every year in tax code compliance. America's resources could be dedicated to far more productive pursuits.

(3) The primary goal of any tax reform must be to unleash growth and remove the inefficiencies of the current tax code, with a flat tax that taxes the income by an estimated $2 trillion over seven years;

(4) Another important goal of tax reform is to achieve fairness, with a single low flat tax rate for all individuals and businesses and an increase in personal and dependent exemptions, is preferable to the current tax code;

(5) Simplicity is another critically important goal of tax reform, and it is in the public interest to have a ten-lined tax form that fills on a postcard and takes 10 minutes to fill out.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that Congress should proceed expeditiously to adopt flat tax legislation which would replace the current tax code with a fairer, simpler, pro-growth and deficit neutral flat tax with a low, single rate and limited deductions, credits, and tax expenditures, and the home mortgage interest and charitable contributions.

GRASSLEY AMENDMENT NO. 2987

(Ordered to lie on the table.)

Mr. GRASSLEY submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

Before ‘;’ at the end of sec. 2111 (a)(1)(D), insert the following ‘;’

The payment of burial and/or funeral expenses of the individual shall be subject to 42 U.S.C. §1382(a)(2)(B) and 1382(b)(d).

BAUCUS (AND OTHERS) AMENDMENT NO. 2988

Mr. BAUCUS (for himself, Mr. ROTH, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. WELLSTONE, Mr. BIDEN, and Mr. LAUTENBERG) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

On page 272, strike line 21 and all that follows through page 273.

On page 161, strike line 3 and all that follows through page 178, line 7.

ABRAMAH (AND OTHERS) AMENDMENT NO. 2989

(Ordered to lie on the table.)

Mr. ABRAMAH (for himself, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. DEWINE, and Mr. BREAUX) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

At the end of title XII, add the following new subtitle:

Subtitle K—Enhanced Enterprise Zones SEC. 12971. SHORT TITLE

This subtitle may be cited as the "Enhanced Enterprise Zones Act of 1995".

SEC. 12972. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE

(a) Findings—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Many of the Nation's urban centers are places with high levels of poverty, high rates of welfare dependency, high crime rates, poor schools, and joblessness.

(2) Federal tax incentives and regulatory reforms can encourage economic growth, job creation and small business formation in many urban centers.

(3) Encouraging private sector investment in America's economically distressed urban and rural areas is essential to breaking the cycle of poverty and the related ills of crime, drug abuse, illiteracy, welfare dependency, and unemployment.

(4) The provisions creating empowerment zones that were enacted in 1993 should be enhanced by providing incentives to increase entrepreneurial growth, capital formation, job creation, educational opportunities, and homeownership in designated enterprise communities and empowerment zones.

(b) Purpose.—The purpose of this subtitle is to increase employment, small business expansion and formation, educational opportunities, and homeownership in economically depressed areas by providing Federal tax incentives, regulatory reforms, school reform pilot projects, and homeownership incentives.

CHAPTER 1—FEDERAL TAX INCENTIVES SEC. 12973. SUBTITLE U

(2) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter U of chapter 1 relating to designation and treatment of empowerment zones, enterprise communities, and rural development investment areas is amended—

(1) by redesigning part IV as part V,

(2) by redesigning section 1397D as section 1397F, and

(3) by inserting after part III the following new part:

PART IV—ADDITIONAL INCENTIVES FOR EMPOWERMENT ZONES AND ENTERPRISE COMMUNITIES

Sec. 1397D. Empowerment zone and enterprise community capital gain.

Sec. 1397E. Empowerment zone and enterprise community stock.

Sec. 1397D. EMPOWERMENT ZONE AND ENTERPRISE COMMUNITY CAPITAL GAIN.

(a) General rule.—Gross income does not include any qualified capital gain recognized on the sale or exchange of a qualified zone asset held for more than 5 years.

(b) Qualified zone asset.—For purposes of this section—

(i) in general.—The term 'qualified zone asset' means—

(A) any qualified zone stock;

(B) any qualified zone business property; and

(C) any qualified zone partnership interest;

(ii) during substantially all of the taxpayer's holding period for such stock, such corporation qualified as an enterprise zone business;

(iii) by exchange for cash or property (without a bona fide business purpose therefor), in the case of a corporation which made a substantial stock redemption or distribution;

(iv) by a qualified zone estate or trust,

(v) by debts owed to the taxpayer by the corporation.

(b) SPECIAL RULE FOR SUBSTANTIALLY IMPOVERISHED ENTERPRISE COMMUNITY.—

(1) in general.—The term 'substantially impoverished enterprise community' means—

(A) any qualified zone business property;

(B) any qualified zone partnership interest;

(C) any qualified zone asset held for more than 5 years;

(2) definitions.—The term 'substantially impoverished enterprise community' means—

(i) in general.—The term 'substantially impoverished enterprise community' means—

(A) any qualified zone business property;

(B) any qualified zone partnership interest;

(C) any qualified zone asset held for more than 5 years;

(D) by exchange for cash or property (without a bona fide business purpose therefor), in the case of a corporation which made a substantial stock redemption or distribution;

(ii) during substantially all of the taxpayer's holding period for such stock, such corporation qualified as an enterprise zone business;

(iii) by debts owed to the taxpayer by the corporation.
(ii) SUBSTANTIAL IMPROVEMENT.—For purposes of clause (i), property shall be treated as substantially improved by the taxpayer if, during any 24-month period beginning after the date on which the designation of the empowerment zone or enterprise community occurs, expires, or is revoked pursuant to section 139(b) on a date other than the last day of the taxable year, the improvement is one that (A) would not have been held by the taxpayer if such property were sold on the date of such asset by such pass-thru entity (other than an entity which was an enterprise zone business during substantially all of the period the taxpayer held such interest) for more than 5 years and (B) was held by such entity for more than 5 years and (C) during substantially all of the period the taxpayer held such interest (other than the first or last day of the taxable year) was treated as held under this subsection) by the taxpayer from the partnership solely in exchange for cash.

"(3) GAIN ATTRIBUTABLE TO PERIODS AFTER TERMINATION OF ZONE DESIGNATION NOT QUALIFIED.—The term qualified capital gain' shall not include any gain attributable, directly or indirectly, to such property in the hands of the taxpayer exceeding the greater of—

(I) an amount equal to the adjusted basis at the beginning of such 24-month period in the hands of the taxpayer; or

(II) $5,000.

(4) PROCEEDS MUST BE INVESTED IN QUALIFIED ENTERPRISE ZONE PROPERTY.—The term qualified enterprise zone property shall not include any gain attributable, directly or indirectly, to such property in the hands of the taxpayer exceeding the greater of—

(I) an amount equal to the adjusted basis at the beginning of such 24-month period in the hands of the taxpayer; or

(II) $5,000.

(5) ENTERPRISE ZONE BUSINESS.—The term 'enterprise zone business' has the meaning given such term by section 139(b)(3), except that—

(A) in paragraph (3)(A)(ii), the term 'qualified business' shall not include any trade or business of producing property of a type that would be treated as including references to enterprise communities, and

(B) in paragraph (3)(A)(iii), the term 'qualified business' shall not include any trade or business of producing property of a type that would be treated as including references to enterprise communities.

"(6) 10-YEAR SAFE-HARBOR.—If any property ceases to be a qualified zone asset by reason of paragraph (3)(A)(i), (3)(A)(ii), or (4)(A) in the hands of the taxpayer, such property shall be treated as having been sold on the date of such asset by such pass-thru entity (other than an entity which was an enterprise zone business during substantially all of the period the taxpayer held such interest) for more than 5 years and (C) after the 10-year period beginning on the date the taxpayer acquired such property, such property shall continue to be treated as meeting the requirements of such paragraph: except that the amount of gain to which such paragraph (3)(A)(ii), (3)(A)(iii), or (4)(C) applies on any sale or exchange of such property shall not exceed the amount which would be realized on the sale or exchange of such asset held under this subsection by the taxpayer from the partnership solely in exchange for cash.

"(7) TREATMENT OF ZONE TERMINATIONS.—The termination of any designation of an area as an empowerment zone or enterprise community shall be disregarded for purposes of determining whether any property is a qualified zone asset.

(c) OTHER DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) QUALIFIED CAPITAL GAIN.—Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the term 'qualified capital gain' means any long-term capital gain which is recognized on the sale or exchange of a qualified zone asset held for more than 5 years.

HUTCbHSON (AND OTHERS)

AMENDMENT NO. 2994

Mrs. HUTCbHSON (for herself, Mr. McCaIN, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. STEVENS, and Mr. LEVINE) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by them to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

(a) The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Human rights violations and atrocities continue unabated in the Former Yugoslavia.

(2) The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights recently reported that starting in mid-September and intensifying between October 6 and October 12, 1995 many thousands of Bosnian Muslims and Croats in Northwest Bosnia were systematically forced from their homes by paramilitary units, local police and in some instances, Bosnian Serb Army officials and soldiers.

(3) Despite the October 12, 1995 cease-fire which went into effect by agreement of the warring parties in the former Yugoslavia, Bosnian Serbs continue to conduct a brutal campaign to expel non-Serb civilians who remain in non-Serb areas subjecting non-Serbs to torture—murder, rape, robbery and other violence.

(4) The occasional examples of "ethnic cleansing" persist in Northern Bosnia. Some six thousand refugees recently reached Zenica and reported that nearly two thousand family members from this group are still unaccounted for.

(5) The U.N. spokesman in Zagreb reported that many refugees have been given only a barren landscape and that refugees are still fleeing against the will of the "girls as young as 17 are reported to have been taken into wooded areas and raped." (El-

(6) The War Crime Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia has collected volumes of evidence of atrocities, including the establishment of death camps, mass executions and systematic campaigns of rape and terror. This War Crimes Tribunal has already issued 43 indictments on the basis of this evidence.

(7) The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights has described the eye witness accounts as "prima facia evidence of war crimes which, if confirmed, could very well lead to further indictments by the War Crimes Tribunal."

(8) The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that more than 22,000 Muslims and Croats have been forced from their homes in the mid-September in Bosnia Serb controlled areas.

In opening the Dodd Center Symposium on the topic of "50 Years After Nuremburg" on October 16, 1995, President Clinton declared the "excellent progress" of the War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and said, "Those accused of war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide must be brought to justice. They must be tried and, if found guilty, they must be held accountable."

(10) President Clinton also observed on October 16, 1995, "Some people are concerned that pursuing peace in Bosnia and prosecuting war criminals is incompatible goals. I believe they are wrong. There must be peace for justice to prevail, but there must be justice when peace prevails."

(11) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) The Senate condemns the systematic human rights abuses against the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(2) With peace talks scheduled to begin in the United States on October 31, 1995, and with the President clearly indicating his willingness to send American forces into the heart of this conflict, these new reports of atrocities are of grave concern to all Americans.

(3) The Bosnian Serb leadership should immediately halt these atrocities, fully account for the missing, and allow those who have been separated to return to their families.

(4) The International Red Cross, United Nations agencies and human rights organizations should be granted full and complete access to all locations throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(5) The Bosnian Serb leadership should fully cooperate to facilitate the complete investigation of the above allegations so that those responsible may be held accountable under international treaties, conventions, obligations and law.

(6) The United States should continue to support the work of the War Crime Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia.

(7) The United States should ensure that any negotiated peace agreements in former Yugoslavia, particularly with respect to Bosnia, require all states of the former Yugoslavia to cooperate fully with the War Crimes Tribunal and apprehend and turn over to trial any indicted persons found in their countries.

(8) Ethnic cleansing" by any faction, group, leader, or government is unjustified, immoral and illegal and all perpetrators of war crimes against humanity and genocide and other human rights violations in former Yugoslavia must be held accountable.
HEFLIN (AND SHELBY) AMENDMENT NO. 2995
Mr. DOMENICI (for Mr. Heflin, for himself, and Mr. Shelby) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra as follows:

(c) SPECIAL RULE FOR STATES IN WHICH ONLY PUNITIVE DAMAGES MAY BE AWARDED IN WRONGFUL DEATH ACTIONS—Section 184 is amended by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (d) and by inserting after the subsection (b) the following new subsection:—

"(c) Restriction on punitive damages not to apply in certain cases.—The restriction on the application of subsection (b) to punitive damages shall not apply to punitive damages awarded in a civil action—

"(1) which is a wrongful death action, and

"(2) with respect to which applicable State law (as in effect on September 13, 1985 and without regard to any modification after such date) provides, or has been construed to provide by court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to a decision issued on or before September 13, 1985, that only punitive damages may be awarded in such an action.

This subsection shall cease to apply to any civil action after the first date on which the applicable State law ceases to provide (or is no longer construed to provide) the treatment described in paragraph (d).

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

KENNEDY AMENDMENT NO. 2996
Mr. KENNEDY proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra as follows:

On page 485 between lines 8 and 9, insert the following:

"(q) Prohibition of balance billing.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an individual who is enrolled in a Medicare choice plan under this part shall not be liable for a provider's charges for items or services furnished under the plan if such charges are in excess of the copayments, coinsurance and deductibles described in the plan that is applicable under the plan in accordance with subsection (c)."

FEINGOLD AMENDMENT NO. 3001
(Ordained to lie on the table.)
Mr. FEINGOLD submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 1357, supra as follows:

At the end of title VII add the following new subtitle:

Subtitle K—Home and Community-Based Services for Individuals with Disabilities

SECT. 7501. STATE PROGRAMS FOR HOME AND COMMUNITY-BASED SERVICES FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES.

(a) General.—(1) Each State that has a plan for home and community-based services for individuals with disabilities submitted to and approved by the Secretary under section 1915(c) may receive payment in accordance with section 1915(c).

(b) Entitlement to Services.—Nothing in this subtitle shall be construed to create a right to services for individuals or a requirement that a State assure financial arrangements to pay for personal assistance services. The amount for a fiscal year is an amount equal to the State maintenance of effort for that year determined under section 1902(a) minus the amount for such year of the sums provided under section 1915(b) minus any transfers made to any other program.

(c) Designation of Agency.—Not later than 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall designate an agency responsible for program administration under this subtitle.

SECT. 7502. STATE PLANS.

(a) Plan Requirements.—In order to be approved under subsection (b), a State plan for home and community-based services for individuals with disabilities must meet the following requirements:

(1) STATE MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—

(A) In General.—A State plan under this subtitle shall provide that the State will, during any fiscal year, spend all funds provided to the State under this subtitle for home and community-based services for individuals with disabilities. States that fail to meet the requirements of this section shall be subject to penalties under section 1915(c). State plans shall be approved by the Secretary under section 1915(c) of the Social Security Act.

(B) State Maintenance of Effort Amount.—

(A) in General.—The maintenance of effort amount for a State for a fiscal year is an amount equal to—

(i) for fiscal year 1997, the base amount for the State (as determined under clause (ii) updated through the midpoint of fiscal year 1997 by the estimated percentage change in the Producer Price Index for Construction (PPI) during the period beginning on October 1, 1995, and ending at that midpoint: and sin's long-term care reforms that have saved Wisconsin taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars; and the first bipartisan efforts to establish this kind of long-term care reform, including the excellent long-term care proposal included in President Clinton's health care reform bill last year, as well as the provisions establishing home and community-based long-term care benefits in the vetoed version of the President's bill that were reported out of the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources and the Senate Committee on Finance last session, provisions which had, in both cases, strong bipartisan support.

(b) Short Title.—This subtitle may be cited as the "Long-Term Care Reform and Deficit Reduction Act of 1995.'

(c) Table of Contents.—The table of contents of this subtitle is as follows:

Sec. 7500. Purposes. short title; table of contents.

For home and community-based services under the State Medicaid plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396 et seq.) as provided under such title, the provisions of this section shall be interpreted to provide that the plan will be allocated among covered individuals with disabilities and (as defined in section 7503(b)) to such individual an appropriate level of assistance for home and community-based services.

(c) Index described.—For purposes of clause (i), the Secretary shall develop an index that reflects the projected increases in spending for services under subparagraph (C), adjusted for differences among the States.

(d) Medicare services described.—The services described in this subparagraph are the following:

(i) personal care services (as described in section 7504(b)(1)(B) of the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill Rights Act (42 U.S.C. 6001 et seq.));

(ii) home and community-based services furnished under the State plan in accordance with section 7504(b)(1)(B) that includes informal care services furnished in a residential setting that is not an institutional setting (other than a hospital, nursing facility, intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded, or other institutional setting).

(e) Continuation of services.—The plan shall provide for services to recipients who wish to apply but whose disability limits the eligibility of individuals with disabilities, as determined by the State, for services to receive and the providers who are licensed, certified, or otherwise certified or approved for services that are covered under the plan, including eligibility prescreening, service coordination, and referrals for individuals with disabilities, or any combination of these methods. In the case of payment to consumer-directed providers of personal assistance services, including payment through the use of cash vouchers, the plan shall specify how the plan will assure compliance with applicable employment tax and health care coverage provisions.

(f) Payment rates.—The plan shall specify the methods and criteria to be used to set payment rates for services furnished under the plan.

(ii) agency administered services furnished under the plan.

(iii) consumer-directed personal assistance services furnished under the plan, including any payments or vouchers to individuals with disabilities, except that such payments shall be adequate to cover amounts required under applicable employment tax and health care coverage provisions.

(g) Coordination.—The plan shall require that the services under the plan be coordinated with each other and with other services available to such individual, except that through fiscal year 2005, the plan may permit a State to limit the eligibility of individuals with disabilities based on the definition of the term "institutional setting", as determined by the Secretary.

(h) Continuation of services.—The plan must provide assurances that, in the case of an individual receiving medical assistance for home and community-based services under the State Medicaid plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396 et seq.), as provided under such title, the provisions of this section shall be interpreted to provide that the plan will be allocated among covered individuals with disabilities and (as defined in section 7503(b)) to such individual an appropriate level of assistance for home and community-based services.

(i) Needs assessment.—Not later than the end of the second year of implementation, the plan or its amendments shall include the results of a statewide assessment of the needs of individuals with disabilities in a format required by the Secretary. The needs assessment shall include demographic data concerning the number of individuals within each category of disability described in this subtitle. and the services available to meet the needs of such individuals.

(j) Specific services.—In the case of a State plan consistent with section 7504, the plan shall specify:

(i) the services made available under the plan to individuals with disabilities;

(ii) the extent and manner in which such services are provided to individuals with disabilities;

(iii) the manner in which services under the plan are coordinated with each other and with health and long-term care services available to the individual;

(iv) the extent and manner in which such services are provided to individuals with disabilities;

(v) the proportion of the population of low-income individuals with disabilities in the State and the number of individuals in such categories of individuals with disabilities, the availability of informal care of these methods. In the case of payment to consumer-directed providers of personal assistance services, including payment through the use of cash vouchers, the plan shall specify how the plan will assure compliance with applicable employment tax and health care coverage provisions.

(k) Continuation of services.—The plan shall provide for services to recipients who wish to apply but whose disability limits the eligibility of individuals with disabilities, as determined by the Secretary, for services to receive.

(l) Continuation of services.—The plan shall provide for services to recipients who wish to apply but whose disability limits the eligibility of individuals with disabilities, as determined by the Secretary, for services to receive and the providers who are licensed, certified, or otherwise certified or approved for services that are covered under the plan, including eligibility prescreening, service coordination, and referrals for individuals with disabilities, or any combination of these methods. In the case of payment to consumer-directed providers of personal assistance services, including payment through the use of cash vouchers, the plan shall specify how the plan will assure compliance with applicable employment tax and health care coverage provisions.

(m) Payment rates.—The plan shall specify the methods and criteria to be used to set payment rates for services furnished under the plan.

(ii) agency administered services furnished under the plan.

(iii) consumer-directed personal assistance services furnished under the plan, including any payments or vouchers to individuals with disabilities, except that such payments shall be adequate to cover amounts required under applicable employment tax and health care coverage provisions.

(n) Coordination.—The plan shall require that the services under the plan be coordinated with each other and with other services available to such individual, except that through fiscal year 2005, the plan may permit a State to limit the eligibility of individuals with disabilities based on the definition of the term "institutional setting", as determined by the Secretary.

(o) Continuation of services.—The plan must provide assurances that, in the case of an individual receiving medical assistance for home and community-based services under the State Medicaid plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396 et seq.), as provided under such title, the provisions of this section shall be interpreted to provide that the plan will be allocated among covered individuals with disabilities and (as defined in section 7503(b)) to such individual an appropriate level of assistance for home and community-based services.

(p) Needs assessment.—Not later than the end of the second year of implementation, the plan or its amendments shall include the results of a statewide assessment of the needs of individuals with disabilities in a format required by the Secretary. The needs assessment shall include demographic data concerning the number of individuals within each category of disability described in this subtitle. and the services available to meet the needs of such individuals.

(q) Specific services.—In the case of a State plan consistent with section 7504, the plan shall specify:

(i) the services made available under the plan to individuals with disabilities;

(ii) the extent and manner in which such services are provided to individuals with disabilities;

(iii) the manner in which services under the plan are coordinated with each other and with health and long-term care services available to the individual;

(iv) the extent and manner in which such services are provided to individuals with disabilities;

(v) the proportion of the population of low-income individuals with disabilities in the State and the number of individuals in such categories of individuals with disabilities, the availability of informal care of these methods. In the case of payment to consumer-directed providers of personal assistance services, including payment through the use of cash vouchers, the plan shall specify how the plan will assure compliance with applicable employment tax and health care coverage provisions.

(r) Payment rates.—The plan shall specify the methods and criteria to be used to set payment rates for services furnished under the plan.

(ii) agency administered services furnished under the plan.

(iii) consumer-directed personal assistance services furnished under the plan, including any payments or vouchers to individuals with disabilities, except that such payments shall be adequate to cover amounts required under applicable employment tax and health care coverage provisions.

(s) Coordination.—The plan shall require that the services under the plan be coordinated with each other and with other services available to such individual, except that through fiscal year 2005, the plan may permit a State to limit the eligibility of individuals with disabilities based on the definition of the term "institutional setting", as determined by the Secretary.

(t) Continuation of services.—The plan must provide assurances that, in the case of an individual receiving medical assistance for home and community-based services under the State Medicaid plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396 et seq.), as provided under such title, the provisions of this section shall be interpreted to provide that the plan will be allocated among covered individuals with disabilities and (as defined in section 7503(b)) to such individual an appropriate level of assistance for home and community-based services.

(u) Needs assessment.—Not later than the end of the second year of implementation, the plan or its amendments shall include the results of a statewide assessment of the needs of individuals with disabilities in a format required by the Secretary. The needs assessment shall include demographic data concerning the number of individuals within each category of disability described in this subtitle. and the services available to meet the needs of such individuals.

(v) Specific services.—In the case of a State plan consistent with section 7504, the plan shall specify:

(i) the services made available under the plan to individuals with disabilities;

(ii) the extent and manner in which such services are provided to individuals with disabilities;

(iii) the manner in which services under the plan are coordinated with each other and with health and long-term care services available to the individual;
(iii) coordinate with health plans.

(C) ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENDITURES.—Effective for fiscal years after the 2004 fiscal year, the plan shall contain assurances that not more than 10 percent of expenditures under the plan for all quarters in any fiscal year shall be for administrative services.

(D) INFORMATION AND ASSISTANCE.—The plan shall provide for a single point of access to apply for services under the State program for individuals with disabilities. The State shall notify the Secretary of the name and address of the clearinghouse for information regarding successful practices in providing long-term care services.

(e) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall issue such regulations as may be appropriate to carry out this subtitle on a timely basis.

SECTION 7503. INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES DEFINED

(a) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, the term "individual with disabilities" means an individual who is within one or more of the following categories of individuals:

(I) INDIVIDUAL'S REQUIRING HELP WITH ACTIVITIES OF DAILY LIVING.—An individual of any age who

(A) requires hands-on or standby assistance, supervision, or cueing (as defined in regulations) to perform three or more activities of daily living (as defined in subsection (d)); and

(B) is expected to require such assistance, supervision, or cueing over a period of at least 90 days.

(II) INDIVIDUAL WITH SEVERE COGNITIVE OR MENTAL IMPAIRMENT.—An individual of any age who

(A) whose score, on a standard mental status protocol (or protocols) appropriate for measuring the individual's particular condition specification, indicates that the individual has either severe cognitive impairment or severe mental impairment, or both;

(B) who

(i) requires hands-on or standby assistance, supervision, or cueing with at least one or more activities of daily living;

(ii) requires hands-on or standby assistance, supervision, or cueing with at least such instrumental activity (or activities) of daily living related to cognitive or mental impairment as the Secretary specifies; or

(iii) displays symptoms of one or more serious behavioral problems (that is, a list of such problem specified by the Secretary) that create a need for supervision to prevent harm to self or others; and

(C) who is expected to meet the requirements of subparagraphs (A) and (B) over a period of at least 30 days.

Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall make such determination, in order to preserve the availability of ongoing technical assistance to States under this section.

SEC. 7504. HOME AND COMMUNITY-BASED SERVICES COVERED UNDER STATE PLAN

(a) SPECIFICATION.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the succeeding provisions of this section, the State plan under this subtitle shall specify—

(A) home and community-based services available under the plan to individuals with disabilities (or such categories of such individuals) and

(B) any limits with respect to such services.

(II) FLEXIBILITY IN MEETING INDIVIDUAL NEEDS.—Subject to subsection (e)(2), such services may be delivered in an individual's home, a range of community residential arrangements, or outside the home.

(b) REQUIREMENT FOR NEEDS ASSESSMENT AND PLAN OF CARE.

(I) IN GENERAL.—The State plan shall provide for home and community-based services to an individual with disabilities only if the following requirements are met:

(A) COMPREHENSIVE ASSESSMENT.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—A comprehensive assessment of an individual's need for home and community-based services shall be completed for each individual (regardless of whether all needed services are available under the plan) shall be made in accordance with a uniform, comprehensive assessment tool. Such an assessment tool shall be developed and promulgated by the Secretary in collaboration with the State and agencies (not a provider of home and community-based services under this subtitle).

(ii) REQUIREMENT TO WAIVE PROVISIONS OF CLAUSE (I) (F).—The State may elect to waive the provisions of clause (i) if—

(I) with respect to any area of the State, the State has determined that there is an insufficient pool of entities willing to perform comprehensive assessments in such area due to a low population of individuals eligible for home and community-based services under the State plan and residing in the area: and

(II) the State plan specifies procedures that the State will implement in order to avoid conflicts of interest.

(B) SPECIALIZED PLAN OF CARE.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—An individualized plan of care based on the assessment made under subparagraph (A) shall be developed by a public or nonprofit agency that is specified under the State plan and that is not a provider of home and community-based services under this subtitle. The State plan may elect to waive the provisions of this sentence if, with respect to any area of the State, the State has determined there is an infeasibility to develop individualized plans of care in such an area due to a low population of individuals eligible for home and community-based services under this subtitle residing in the area; and the State plan specifies procedures that the State will implement in order to avoid conflicts of interest.

(C) REQUIREMENT FOR CARE MANAGEMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A plan of care under this subpara-graph shall—

(i) specify how the provision of services to the individual under the plan will be coordinated with the provision of other health care services to the individual; and

(ii) be reviewed and updated every 6 months (or more frequently if there is a change in the individual's condition).

The State shall make reasonable efforts to identify individuals with disabilities described in subclause (II). Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as requiring a State (under the State plan or otherwise) to provide all the services specified in such a plan.

(II) INVOLVEMENT OF INDIVIDUALS.—The individualized plan of care under subparagraph (B) shall be—

(i) developed by qualified individuals (specified in subparagraph (B));

(ii) developed and implemented in close coordination with the individual (or the individual's designated representative); and

(iii) approved by the individual (or the individual's designated representative).

(III) REQUIREMENT FOR CARE MANAGEMENT.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—The State shall make available to each category of individuals with disabilities care management services that at a minimum include—

(A) arrangements for the provision of such services; and

(B) monitoring of the delivery of services.

(II) CARE MANAGEMENT SERVICES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the care management services described in paragraph (I) shall be provided by a public or private entity that—

(i) is not providing home and community-based services under this subtitle;

(ii) is not providing home and community-based services in an area where there is a low population of individuals eligible for home and community-based services under this subtitle residing in such an area; and

(iii) provides home and community-based services in the area.

(B) EXCEPTION.—A person who provides home and community-based services under this subtitle may provide care management services if—

(i) the State determines that there is an individual identified as being unwilling to provide such services in an area due to a low population of individuals eligible for home and community-based services under this subtitle residing in such area; and

(ii) the State plan specifies procedures that the State will implement in order to avoid conflicts of interest.

(D) MANDATORY COVERAGE OF PERSONAL AS-

ISTANCE SERVICES.—The State plan shall include, in the array of services made available to each category of individuals with disabilities, both agency-administered and consumer-directed personal assistance services (as defined in subsection (h)).

(E) ADDITIONAL SERVICES.—

(i) TYPE OF SERVICES.—Subject to subsection (f), services available under a State plan under this subtitle may include any (or all) of the following:

(A) Homemaker and chore assistance.

(B) Home modifications.

(C) Respite services.

(D) Assistive technology devices as defined in section 3(2) of the Technology-Related Assistance of Individuals With Disabilities Act of 1988 (29 U.S.C. 2001(2)).

(E) Adult day care services.

(F) Habilitation and rehabilitation.

(G) Supported employment.

(H) Home health services.

(I) Transportation.

(J) Any other care or assistive services specified by the State and approved by the Secretary that will help individuals with disabilities to remain in their homes and communities.

(II) CRITERIA FOR SELECTION OF SERVICES.—

The State electing services under paragraph (I) shall specify in the State plan—

(A) the methods and standards used to select the types and amount, and scope of services to be covered under the plan and to be available to each category of individuals with disabilities; and

(B) how the types, and the amount, duration, and scope of services specified within the limits of funding available, protect individuals from potential abuse, neglect, or exploitation, and individualize to individuals within each of the categories of individuals with disabilities.

(III) EXCLUSION OF ILLNATIONS.—A State plan may not provide for coverage of—

(A) room and board;

(B) services provided in a hospital, nursing facility, intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded, or other institutional setting, or

(C) services that are not consumer-directed, for purposes of paragraph (I), the term "personal assistance services" means those services specified under the State plan as personal assistance services and shall include at least hands-on and standby assistance, supervision, cueing with activities of daily living, and such instrumental activities of daily living as deemed necessary or appropriate, whether agency-administered or consumer-directed (as defined in paragraph (2)). Such services shall include services that are determined to be necessary to help all categories of individuals with disabilities, regardless of the age or stage of the individual and the nature of the disability (or disabilities), of such individuals with income not less than 150 percent, and less than 225 percent, of such official poverty level applicable to a family of the size involved (referred to in paragraph (2)).

(E) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term "consumer-directed personal assistance services" means those services specified under the State plan as personal assistance services and shall include at least hands-on and standby assistance, supervision, cueing with activities of daily living, and such instrumental activities of daily living as deemed necessary or appropriate, whether agency-administered or consumer-directed (as defined in paragraph (2)). Such services shall include services that are determined to be necessary to help all categories of individuals with disabilities, regardless of the age or stage of the individual and the nature of the disability (or disabilities), of such individuals with income not less than 150 percent, and less than 225 percent, of such official poverty level applicable to a family of the size involved.

(II) SLIDING SCALE FOR REMAINDER.—

A State plan shall impose cost sharing in the form of coinsurance (based on the amount paid under the State plan for a service)—

(A) at a rate of 10 percent for such individuals with disabilities with income not less than 150 percent, and less than 225 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(B) at a rate of 15 percent for such individuals with income not less than 175 percent, and less than 225 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied).

(C) at a rate of 25 percent for such individuals with income not less than 225 percent, and less than 325 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(D) at a rate of 30 percent for such individuals with income not less than 275 percent, and less than 325 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(E) at a rate of 35 percent for such individuals with income not less than 300 percent, and less than 400 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(F) at a rate of 40 percent for such individuals with income not less than 400 percent, and in excess of 400 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied).

(III) REQUIRED DEDUCTIBLE.—The State plan shall impose cost sharing in the form of an annual deductible—

(A) of $100 for individuals with disabilities with income not less than 150 percent, and less than 175 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(B) of $200 for such individuals with income not less than 175 percent, and less than 225 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(IV) REQUIRED COINSURANCE.—The State plan shall be construed as including" the provisions of this subsection, and the phrase "incorporate" shall be construed as including the provisions of this subsection.

(IV) REQUIRED COINSURANCE.—The State plan shall be construed as including the provisions of this subsection, and the phrase "incorporate" shall be construed as including the provisions of this subsection.

(IV) REQUIRED DEDUCTIBLE.—The State plan shall impose cost sharing in the form of an annual deductible—

(A) of $100 for individuals with disabilities with income not less than 150 percent, and less than 175 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(B) of $200 for such individuals with income not less than 175 percent, and less than 225 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(C) of $400 for such individuals with income not less than 225 percent, and less than 325 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied); and

(D) of $600 for such individuals with income not less than 325 percent, and less than 400 percent, of such official poverty level line (as so applied).
percent. of such official poverty line (as so applied); and $500 for such individuals with income less than 325 percent, and less than 400 percent. of such official poverty line (as so applied); and
(2) 25% for such individuals with income equal to at least 400 percent of such official poverty line (as so applied).

(c) REQUIREMENTS OF THE SECRETARY.—
(1) In general.—The Secretary shall make recommendations to the States as to how to reduce cost-sharing for individuals with extraordinary out-of-pocket costs. The cost-sharing provisions of this section could jeopardize their ability to take advantage of the services offered under this subtitle. The Secretary shall establish a methodology for reducing the cost-sharing burden for individuals with exceptionally high out-of-pocket costs under this subtitle.

(2) Determination of income for purposes of cost sharing.—The State plan shall specify the process to be used to determine the income of an individual for purposes of this section. Such standards shall include a uniform Federal definition of income and any allowable deductions from income.

(3) The development of a registry of providers who provide direct services under this subchapter shall be enforced:

(A) mandatory reporting of abuse, neglect, or exploitation;
(B) keeping a record of any complaints and investigations received.

(4) The development of a registry of providers who provide direct services under this subchapter.

(a) Quality assurance and safeguards.

(1) In general.—Each State plan shall specify how the State will ensure and monitor the quality of services, including—

(A) safeguards in cases where payment for services in the State is made by cash payments or vouchers given directly to individuals with disabilities. All providers of services shall be required to register with the State agency.

(2)_sanctions to be imposed on States or local authorities: and

(b) Federal standards.—

(1) Establishment.—The State plan shall provide that in furnishing home and community-based services under the plan the following individual rights are protected:

(i) The right to be fully informed in advance, timely and in a language of the care to be provided, to be fully informed in advance of any changes in care to be provided, and except with respect to an individual determined incompetent to participate in planning care or changes in care.

(ii) The right to confidentiality of personal and clinical records and the right to have access to such records.

(iii) The right to privacy and to have one's property treated with respect.

(iv) The right to refuse all or part of any care and to be informed of the likely consequences of such refusal.

(v) The right to free from physical or mental abuse, corporal punishment, and any physical or chemical restraints imposed for purposes of discipline or convenience and not included in an individual's plan of care.

(2) The right to be fully informed orally and in writing of the individual's rights.

(3) The right to a free choice of providers.

(4) The right to direct provider activities when an individual is competent and willing to direct such activities.

(5) The right to review, or to have a representative of one's family or household on the management of care.

(6) The right to be free from physical or mental abuse, corporal punishment, and any physical or chemical restraints imposed for purposes of discipline or convenience and not included in an individual's plan of care.

(b) In general.—Each State plan shall provide that

(1) the State agency shall establish a methodology for reducing the cost-sharing burden for individuals with disabilities.

(c) Determination of income for purposes of cost sharing.—The State plan shall provide that

(1) Case review of a specified sample of clients and beneficiaries to purposes directly connected with the administration of the plan.

(2) Safeguards against abuse.—The State plans shall provide safeguards against physical, emotional, or financial abuse or exploitation, including appropriate policies and procedures in cases where payment for program benefits is made by cash payments or

(d) In general.—Each State plan shall provide that

(1) the State agency shall establish a methodology for reducing the cost-sharing burden for individuals with disabilities. All providers of services shall be required to register with the State agency.

(2) Safeguards against abuse.—The State plans shall provide safeguards against physical, emotional, or financial abuse or exploitation, including appropriate policies and procedures in cases where payment for program benefits is made by cash payments or vouchers given directly to individuals with disabilities. All providers of services shall be required to register with the State agency.

(3) Regulations.—Not later than January 1, 1997, the Secretary shall promulgate regulations governing the application of the provisions of this section.

Sec. 7507. Advisory groups.

(a) Federal advisory group.—

(1) Establishment.—The Secretary shall establish an advisory group to advise the Secretary and States on all aspects of the State plan under this subtitle.

(2) Composition.—The group shall be composed of

(a) individuals with disabilities and their representatives, providers, Federal and State officials, and local community implementing agencies. A majority of its members shall be individuals with disabilities and their representatives.

(b) State advisory groups—

(1) In general.—Each State plan shall provide for the establishment and maintenance of an advisory group to advise the State on all aspects of the State plan under this subtitle.

(2) Composition.—Members of each advisory group shall be appointed by the Governor (or other chief executive officer of the State) and shall include individuals with disabilities and their representatives, providers, State officials, and local community implementing agencies. A majority of its members shall be individuals with disabilities and their representatives. The members of the committee representing the majority of its members shall be individuals with disabilities and their representatives. The members of the committee representing the majority of its members shall be individuals with disabilities and their representatives.

(3) Selection of members.—Each State shall establish a process whereby all residents of the State, including individuals with disabilities and their representatives, shall be given the opportunity to nominate individuals to serve on advisory groups.

(4) Particular concerns.—Each advisory group shall—payable to the public specifically the degree to which the groups recommendations and the plan:

(d) APPLICATION OF RULES REGARDING LIMITATIONS ON PROVIDER-RELATED DONATIONS AND HEALTH CARE-RELATED TAXES.—The provisions of section 1121(b) of the Social Security Act shall apply to payments to States under this section in the same manner as they apply to payments to States under section 1121(a) of such Act.

SEC. 7509. APPROPRIATIONS: ALLOTMENTS TO STATES

(a) APPROPRIATIONS.—

(1) FISCAL YEARS 1997 THROUGH 2005.—Subject to paragraph (5)(G), for purposes of this subtitle, the appropriation authorized under this section for any fiscal year through 2005 is the following:

(A) For fiscal year 1997, $7,200,000,000.

(B) For fiscal year 1998, $7,400,000,000.

(C) For fiscal year 1999, $7,600,000,000.

(D) For fiscal year 2000, $7,700,000,000.

(E) For fiscal year 2001, $7,800,000,000.

(F) For fiscal year 2002, $7,900,000,000.

(G) For fiscal year 2003, $8,200,000,000.

(H) For fiscal year 2004, $8,500,000,000.

(I) For fiscal year 2005, $12,100,000,000.

(2) SUBSEQUENT FISCAL YEARS.—For purposes of this subtitle, the appropriation authorized for States under this section for the preceding fiscal year multiplied by—

(A) a factor described in paragraph (b) reflecting the consumer price index for the fiscal year; and

(B) a factor described in paragraph (b) reflecting the change in the number of individuals with disabilities for the fiscal year.

(b) CPI INCREASE FACTOR.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(A), the factor described in this paragraph is the following:

(1) the annual average index of the consumer price index for the preceding fiscal year;

(2) such index, as so measured, for the second preceding fiscal year.

(c) DISABLED POPULATION FACTOR.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(A), the factor described in this paragraph for a fiscal year is 100 percent plus (or minus) the percentage increase (or decrease) in the disabled population of the United States (as determined for purposes of the most recent update under subsection (b)(3)(D)).

(d) ADDITIONAL FUNDS DUE TO MEDICAID OFFSETS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each participating State under this subtitle shall submit such reports to the Secretary as the Secretary may require in order to monitor compliance with subparagraph (A). The Secretary shall specify the format of such reports and establish uniform data reporting elements.

(2) REPORTS.—Each State with a program under this subtitle shall submit such reports to the Governor and make available to the public the extent practicable;

(e) REPORTS TO STATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year beginning with fiscal year 1997 and ending with fiscal year 2005, the revised appropriation authorized under this subsection for such fiscal year.

(f) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as requiring States to determine eligibility for medical assistance under the State medicaid plan on behalf of individuals receiving assistance under this subtitle.

SEC. 7510. APPROPRIATIONS: ALLOTMENTS TO STATES

(a) APPROPRIATIONS.—

(1) FISCAL YEARS 1997 THROUGH 2005.—Subject to paragraph (5)(G), for purposes of this subtitle, the appropriation authorized under this section for any fiscal year through 2005 is the following:

(A) For fiscal year 1997, $12,100,000,000.

(B) For fiscal year 1998, $12,300,000,000.

(C) For fiscal year 1999, $12,500,000,000.

(D) For fiscal year 2000, $12,700,000,000.

(E) For fiscal year 2001, $12,900,000,000.

(F) For fiscal year 2002, $13,100,000,000.

(G) For fiscal year 2003, $13,300,000,000.

(H) For fiscal year 2004, $13,500,000,000.

(I) For fiscal year 2005, $17,300,000,000.

(2) SUBSEQUENT FISCAL YEARS.—For purposes of this subtitle, the appropriation authorized for States under this section for the preceding fiscal year multiplies by—

(A) the percentage of the total number of individuals with disabilities in all States that reside in a particular State;

(B) the per capita costs of furnishing home and community-based services to individuals with disabilities in the State;

(C) the percentage of all individuals with incomes at or below 150 percent of the official poverty line as described in section 7503(a)(2) in all States that reside in a particular State.

(b) ALLOTMENTS TO STATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall allocate the amount available under the appropriation authorized for the fiscal year under paragraph (1) subsection (a) without regard to any adjustment to such amount under paragraph (5) of such subsection, to the States with plans approved under this section in accordance with an allocation formula established by the Secretary that takes into account—

(A) the percentage of the total number of individuals with disabilities in all States that reside in a particular State;

(B) the per capita costs of furnishing home and community-based services to individuals with disabilities in the State;

(C) the percentage of all individuals with incomes at or below 150 percent of the official poverty line as described in section 7503(a)(2) in all States that reside in a particular State.

(2) ALLOCATION FOR CLIENT ADVOCACY ACTIVITIES.—Each State with a plan approved under this subtitle shall allocate one-half of one percent of the amount the State’s total allotment under paragraph (1) for client advocacy activities as described in section 7506(c).

(3) NO DUPLICATE PAYMENT.—No payment may be made to a State under this section for any services provided to an individual to the extent that the State received payment for such services under section 1121(a) of the Social Security Act.

(4) REALLOCATIONS.—Any amounts allotted to States under this subsection for a year that are not expended in such year shall remain available for States under this subtitle and may be reallocated to States as the Secretary determines appropriate.

(5) MEANING OF CONSUMER PRICE INDEX.—(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), from the total amount of the increase in the amount available for a fiscal year under paragraph (1) of subsection shall allot to each State with a plan approved under section 1902(a) an amount equal to the Federal offsets and reductions in the State's medicaid plan for such fiscal year that would be reduced under subparagraph (a)(5), reduced or increased, as the case may be, by any amount by which the Secretary determines that any estimated Federal expenditures for medical assistance under the State's medicaid plan reported to the Secretary under subsection (a)(5) for the previous fiscal year were greater or less than the actual Federal expenditures and reductions in such State's medicaid plan.

(B) CAP ON STATE SAVINGS ALLOTMENT.—In no case shall the allotment made under this paragraph to any State for a fiscal year exceed the product of—

(i) the Federal medical assistance percentage for such State (as defined under section 1902(c) of the Social Security Act); multiplied by

(ii) 101 percent for fiscal year 1997, the base medical assistance amount for the State (as determined under subparagraph (C)) updated through the midpoint of fiscal year 1997 by the estimated percentage change in such index described in section 7502(a)(1)(B)(iii) during the period beginning on October 1, 1995, and ending at that midpoint; and

(iii) 100 percent for any fiscal year, any amount equal to the amount determined under this clause for the previous fiscal year updated through the midpoint of the year by the estimated percentage change in such index during the 12-month period ending at that midpoint, with appropriate adjustments to reflect price underestimations or overestimations under this clause in the projected percentage change in such index.

(c) BASE MEDICAL ASSISTANCE AMOUNT.—The base medical assistance amount for a State is an amount equal to the total expenditures from Federal and State funds made under the State plan under title XIX of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396 et seq.) during fiscal year 1995 with respect to medical assistance consisting of the services prescribed under this section.

(d) MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PLAN.—For purposes of this section, the term 'medical assistance plan' means the State plan under title XIX of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396 et seq.) as the term is applied by substituting $20,000 for $10,000.

(e) MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PLAN.—For purposes of this section—

(i) the qualified net farm gain for the taxable year on account of such tax-exempt assets held by the individual for such taxable year; or

(ii) an amount determined by multiplying the number of years the taxpayer is a qualified farmer by $10,000.

(f) DETERMINATION.—The determination under subparagraph (B) shall be made by the Secretary which is similar to the information described in section 408(o)(4)(B) and prescribed under this section with respect to a contribution to an asset rollover account.

(g) DISTRIBUTION RULES.—For purposes of this section—

(i) a distribution shall be allowed under section 1211 for the taxable year if the distribution is made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for such taxable year (not including extensions thereof); and

(ii) a distribution shall be allowed under section 1211 for the taxable year if the distribution is made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for such taxable year (not including extensions thereof).

(h) DISTRIBUTION RULES.—For purposes of this section—

(i) a distribution shall be allowed under section 1211 for the taxable year if the distribution is made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for such taxable year (not including extensions thereof); and

(ii) a distribution shall be allowed under section 1211 for the taxable year if the distribution is made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for such taxable year (not including extensions thereof).

(i) AMOUNTS.—For purposes of this section—

(i) the qualified net farm gain is the lesser of—

(A) the qualified net farm gain from the sale of the asset to the qualified farmer, reduced by the aggregate amount for all taxable years which may be contributed to all asset rollover accounts in such manner as the Secretary may prescribe.

(B) the amount by which the aggregate value of the assets held by the individual in individual retirement plans (other than asset rollover accounts) exceeds $100,000.

(j) IN GENERAL.—Any individual who—

(i) makes a contribution to an asset rollover account for any taxable year; or

(ii) receives any amount from an asset rollover account for any taxable year, shall include on the return of tax imposed by chapter I for such taxable year and any succeeding taxable year (or on such other form as the Secretary may prescribe) information described in paragraph (2).

(k) INFORMATION REQUIRED TO BE SUPPLIED.—The information described in this paragraph is information required by the Secretary which is similar to the information described in section 4973(a)(1)(B) and prescribed under this section with respect to a contribution to an asset rollover account.

(l) PENALTIES.—For penalties relating to reports under this section, see section 6693(b).
(2) Subparagraph (A) of section 408(d)(5) is amended by inserting "or qualified contributions under section 1033A" after "rollover contributions".

(3) (A) Subparagraph (A) of section 663(h)(2) is amended by inserting "or 1034A(d)(1)" after "408(o)(4)".

(B) Section 663(h)(2) is amended by inserting or 1034A(d)(1) after "408(o)(4)".

(C) COORDINATION WITH NONRECOGNITION PROVISIONS; ETC.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), no nonrecognition provisions shall apply for purposes of this section to a transaction only in the case of—

"(A) an exchange of stock in a domestic corporation for property the sale of which would be subject to taxation under this chapter, or

"(B) a distribution with respect to which gain or loss would not have been recognized under section 336 if the sale of the distributed property by the distributee would be subject to tax under this chapter.

(2) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe regulations (which are necessary or appropriate to prevent avoidance of Federal income taxes) providing—

"(1) transfers of property in a reorganization

and

Mr. LAUTENBERG to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

In lieu of the instructions offered by Mr. LAUTENBERG, insert the following with instructions to report the following amendment:

At the end of the bill, add the following title:

TITLE XIII: CREDIT FOR ADOPTION EXPENSES

(a) IN GENERAL—Subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to non-refundable personal credits), as amended by section 12001, is amended by inserting after section 23 the following new section:

SEC. 24. ADOPTION EXPENSES.

(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by this subtitle for the taxable year the amount of the qualified adoption expenses paid or incurred by the taxpayer during such taxable year.

(b) Limitation.

(1) DOLLAR LIMITATION.—The aggregate amount of qualified adoption expenses which may be taken into account under subsection (a) with respect to the adoption of a child shall not exceed $5,000.

(2) INCOME LIMITATION.—The amount allowable as a credit under subsection (a) for any taxable year shall be reduced (but not below zero) by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount so allowable (determined without regard to this paragraph but with regard to paragraph (1)) as—

SEC. 25. QUALIFIED ADOPTION EXPENSES.—

For purposes of this section, the term ‘qualified adoption expenses’ has the meaning given such term by section 24(d).

CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) The table of sections for subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1, as amended by section 12001, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 23 the following new item:

Sec. 24. Adoption expenses.

(2) The table of sections for part III of subchapter B of chapter 1 is amended by striking the item relating to section 137 and inserting the following:

Sec. 137. Adoption assistance programs.

Sec. 138. Cross reference to other Acts.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment shall be effective after January 2, 1995.

Mr. LAUTENBERG proposed an amendment to amendment No. 3005, proposed by Mr. CRAIG to the motion to commit proposed by Mr. LAUTENBERG to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

Strike all after instructions and insert the following: ‘to report the bill back to the Senate within 3 days and insert provisions to limit any individual income tax break provided in the bill to those with incomes under $1 million, and to apply any resulting savings to reduce proposed cuts in Medicare and Medicaid.’

Mr. NICKLES (for himself, Mr. DOLE and Mr. CHAFFE) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

On page 1322, beginning with line 5, strike all through page 1338, line 17.

Mr. MOYNIHAN proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

On page 341, strike line 10, and all that follows through page 342, line 8.

Mr. DOMENICI (for Mr. DOLE for himself, Mr. KOHL, Mr. GRASSLEY, Mr. ROTH, Mr. BOND, Mr. ASHCROFT and Mr. KEMPThorne) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

At the end of chapter 8 of subtitle I of title XII, insert the following new section:
INCREDIBLE REDUCTIONS IN BUSINESS MEAL EXPENSES FOR INDIVIDUALS SUBJECT TO FEDERAL LIMITATIONS ON HOURS OF SERVICE.

(a) In General.—Section 274(h) relating to only 50 percent meals for truckers, long-haul bus drivers and other persons subject to the hours of service regulations of the Department of Transportation, paragraph (a) shall be amended by striking '50 percent' for '50 percent'.

(b) Repeal of Special Transition Rule to Financial Institution Exception to Interest Allocation Rules.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

Mr. President, the amendment that I am offering will reduce the business meals deduction to 50 percent for truckers, long-haul bus drivers and other persons subject to Department of Transportation hours of service regulations. My amendment would cost $673 million over 7 years and would be offset by repealing the special transition rule to financial institution exception to interest allocation rules.

I urge my colleagues to support the amendment and I yield the floor.

HUTCHISON (AND OTHERS) AMENDMENT NO. 3015

Mr. DOMENICI (for Mrs. HUTCHISON for herself, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. LEVIN, Mr. COVERDELL, Ms. SNOWE, Mr. KERRY, Mr. THURMOND, and Mr. THOMAS) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra as follows:

(a) The Senate makes the following findings:

1. Human rights violations and atrocities continue unabated in the Former Yugoslavia.

2. The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs recently reported in mid-September and intensifying between October 8 and October 12, 1995 many thousands of Bosnian Muslims and Croats in Northwest Bosnia were systematically forced from their homes by paramilitary units. Local police and in some instances, Bosnian Serbs.

3. Despite the October 12, 1995 cease-fire which went into effect by agreement of the government of the Former Yugoslavia, Bosnian Serbs continue to conduct a brutal campaign to expel non-Serbs who remain in Northwest Bosnia. Some 6,000 refugees recently reached Zenica and reported that nearly two thousand family members from this group are still unaccounted for.

4. The U.N. spokesmen in Zagreb reported that many refugees have been given only a few minutes to leave their homes and that "many have been taken into wooded areas and raped." Elsewhere, sick and very young refugees have been driven to remote areas and forced to walk long distances on unsafe roads and cross rivers without bridges.

5. The War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia has collected volumes of evidence of atrocities, including the establishment of death camps, mass executions and systematic campaigns of rape. This War Crimes Tribunal has already issued 43 indictments on the basis of this evidence.

6. The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights has described the eye witness accounts as 'prime facia evidence of war crimes which, if confirmed, could very well lead to further indictments by the War Crimes Tribunal.'

7. The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees recently indicated that more than 28,000 Muslim Croats have taken refuge in countries outside their homes since mid-September in Bosnian Serb controlled areas.

8. The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that more than 22,000 people have crossed rivers without bridges.

9. The War Crimes Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia has collected volumes of evidence of atrocities, including the establishment of death camps, mass executions and systematic campaigns of rape. This War Crimes Tribunal has already issued 43 indictments on the basis of this evidence.

10. The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights has described the eye witness accounts as 'prime facia evidence of war crimes which, if confirmed, could very well lead to further indictments by the War Crimes Tribunal.'

11. The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that more than 28,000 Muslim Croats have taken refuge in countries outside their homes since mid-September in Bosnian Serb controlled areas.

12. The War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia has collected volumes of evidence of atrocities, including the establishment of death camps, mass executions and systematic campaigns of rape. This War Crimes Tribunal has already issued 43 indictments on the basis of this evidence.

SEC. 2. PAY OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS AND THE PRESIDENT DURING GOVERNMENT SHUTDOWN.

(a) In General.—Members of Congress and the President shall not receive basic pay for any period in which—

(1) there is more than a 24-hour lapse in appropriations for any Federal agency or department as a result of a failure to enact a regular appropriations bill or continuing resolution; or

(2) the Federal Government is unable to make payments or meet obligations because of a lapse in regular appropriations or continuing resolution.

(b) Retroactive Pay Prohibited.—No pay forfeited in accordance with subsection (a) may be paid retroactively.

GRAHAM AMENDMENT NO. 3014

Mr. DOMENICI (for Mr. GRAHAM) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra as follows:

(a) On page 476, strike line 20 and all that follows through page 477, line 3 and insert the following: such individuals have been approved for coverage by Medicare.

(b) On page 481, between lines 15 and 16, insert the following:

(1) Access to Process.—A Medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide access 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to such persons as the plan sponsor has determined must be made accessible to each such individual, within the Medicare service area of the plan, with reasonable promptness, and in a manner which assures continuity.

(c) Effectiveness Date.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.
October 27, 1995
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE S 16131

brought to justice. They must be tried and, if found guilty, they must be held accountable.

(10) President Clinton also observed on October 18, 1995, "some people are concerned about pursuing peace in Bosnia and prosecuting war criminals are incompatible goals. But I believe they are wrong. There must be peace for justice to prevail, but there must be justice when peace prevails." [6]

SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the Senate condemns the systematic human rights violations against the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(2) with peace talks scheduled to begin in the United Nations on October 31, 1995, these new reports of Serbian atrocities are of grave concern to all Americans.

(3) the Bosnian Serb leadership should immediately halt these atrocities, fully account for the missing, and allow those who have been separated to return to their families.

(4) the International Red Cross, United Nations agencies and human rights organizations should be granted full and complete access to all locations throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(5) the Bosnian Serb leadership should fully cooperate to facilitate the complete investigation of the above allegations so that those responsible may be held accountable under international treaties, conventions, obligations and law.

(6) the United States should continue to support the work of the War Crime Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia.

(7) ethnic cleansing" by any faction, group, leader, or government is unjustified, immoral, and illegal, and perpetuates war crimes, crimes against humanity, genocide and other human rights violations in former Yugoslavia must be held accountable.

KOHl AMENDMENT NO. 3016
Mr. DOMENICI (for Mr. Kohl) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

At the end of chapter 8 of subtitle I of title XII, insert the following new sections:

SEC. 12978. GAIN FROM SALE OF FARM ASSETS TO INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT PLANS.

(a) In General.—Part III of subchapter O of chapter 8 of subtitle I of title 26, as amended by section 8613, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 8613A. ROLLOVER OF GAIN ON SALE OF FARM ASSETS INTO ASSET ROLLOVER ACCOUNT.

(1) NONRECOGNITION OF GAIN.—Subject to the limits of subsection (c), if a taxpayer has a qualified net farm gain from the sale of a qualified farm asset, then, at the election of the taxpayer, gain (if any) from such sale shall be recognized only to the extent such gain (or loss) in connection with a disposition of a qualified farm asset.

(2) AGGREGATE CONTRIBUTION LIMITATION.—Except in the case of rollover contributions, the aggregate amount for all taxable years that may be contributed to any asset rollover account established on behalf of an individual shall not exceed—

(A) in the case of a separate return by a married individual, reduced by—

(B) the amount by which the aggregate value of the assets held by the individual (and spouse) in individual retirement plans (other than asset rollover accounts) exceeds $100,000.

The determination under subparagraph (B) shall be made as of the close of the taxable year for which the determination is being made.

(3) ANNUAL CONTRIBUTION LIMITATIONS.—

(A) GENERAL.—The aggregate contribution which may be made in any taxable year to all asset rollover accounts shall not exceed 100 percent of the lesser of—

(i) the qualified net farm gain for the taxable year, or

(ii) an amount determined by multiplying the number of years the taxpayer is a qualified farmer by $10,000.

(B) SPouse.—In the case of a married couple filing a joint return for such taxable year, subparagraph (A) shall be applied by substituting $20,000 for $10,000.

(4) ADJUSTMENT TO ANNUAL CONTRIBUTION LIMITATION.—The Secretary may reduce the percentage limitation in paragraph (3)(A) to such lower percentage as the Secretary determines necessary to assure that the aggregate amount of deductions for all individuals for a taxable year does not exceed the aggregate amount of the increases in receipts for the taxable year by reason of the amendments made by sections 12880 and 12881 of the Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995.

(5) TIME WHEN CONTRIBUTION DEEMED MADE.—For purposes of this section, a taxpayer shall be deemed to have made a contribution to an asset rollover account on the last day of the taxable year in which such contribution is made to an asset rollover account for any taxable year.

(6) QUALIFIED NET FARM GAIN; ETC.—For purposes of this section—

(1) QUALIFIED FARM ASSET.—The term "qualified net farm gain" means the lesser of—

(A) the net capital gain of the taxpayer for the taxable year, or

(B) the net capital gain for the taxable year determined by only taking into account the property disposed of (or lost) in connection with a disposition of a qualified farm asset.

(2) QUALIFIED FARM ASSET.—The term "qualified farm asset" means an asset used by a qualified farmer in the active conduct of the trade or business of farming (as defined in section 2032A(6)).

(3) QUALIFIED FARMER.—

(i) during the 5-year period ending on the date of the disposition of a qualified farm asset materially participated in the trade or business of farming, and

(ii) (w) with the taxpayer's spouse owned 50 percent or more of such trade or business during such 5-year period.

(B) MATERIAL PARTICIPATION.—For purposes of this paragraph, a taxpayer shall be treated as materially participating in a trade or business if the taxpayer meets the requirements of section 469.

(4) ROLLOVER CONTRIBUTIONS.—Rollover contributions to an asset rollover account may be made only from other asset rollover accounts.

(5) DISTRIBUTION RULES.—For purposes of this title, the rules of paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 408(d) shall apply to any distribution from an asset rollover account.

(6) INFORMATION REQUIRED TO BE SUPPLIED.—The information described in this paragraph is information required by the Secretary which is subject to the information described in section 6104.

(7) PENALTIES.—For penalties relating to reports under this paragraph, see section 6694.

(b) CONTRIBUTIONS NOT DEDUCTIBLE.—Section 219(d) (relating to other limitations and restrictions) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(8) ROLLOVER CONTRIBUTIONS.—For purposes of this section, in the case of an asset rollover account, any reduction (or loss) (within the meaning of section 1034A) shall be included in gross income for the taxable year in which such reduction (or loss) occurs.

(c) EXCESS CONTRIBUTIONS.—

(1) In General.—Section 4973 (relating to excess contributions to individual retirement accounts, certain section 403(b) contracts, and certain individual retirement annuities) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(3) ASSET ROLLOVER ACCOUNTS.—No deduction shall be allowed this section in respect to a contribution under section 1034A.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) In General.—Section 401(a)(23) is amended by striking "[asset rollover accounts," after 'contracts' in the item relating to section 401.

(B) The heading for section 4973 is amended by inserting "ASSET ROLLOVER ACCOUNTS," after "CONTRACTS.

(c) The table of sections for chapter 43 is amended by inserting "ASSET ROLLOVER ACCOUNTS," after "CONTRACTS," in the item relating to section 4973.

(d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Paragraph (1) of section 408(a) (defining individual retirement account) is amended by inserting "or a qualified contribution under section 1034A," before "or contribution.

(2) Subparagraph (A) of section 408(d)(5) is amended by inserting "or rollover contributions under section 1034A," after "rollover contributions.

(3) Paragraph (A) of section 6693(b)(1) is amended by striking "or" and inserting "an asset rollover account (within the meaning of section 1034A)," after "or.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to sales and exchanges after the date of the enactment of this Act.
SEC. 12890. DISPOSITION OF STOCK IN DOMESTIC CORPORATIONS BY 10-PERCENT FOREIGN SHAREHOLDERS.

(a) GENERAL RULE.—Subpart D of part II of subchapter N of chapter 1 (relating to miscellaneous provisions) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 898. DISPOSITION OF STOCK IN DOMESTIC CORPORATIONS BY 10-PERCENT FOREIGN SHAREHOLDERS."

"(a) GENERAL RULE.—

"(1) TREATMENT AS EFFECTIVELY CONNECTED WITH A FOREIGN TRADE OR BUSINESS.—For purposes of this title, if any nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation is a 10-percent shareholder in any domestic corporation, any gain or loss of such individual or foreign corporation from the disposition of any such stock in such domestic corporation shall be taken into account—

"(I) in the case of any nonresident alien individual, under section 871(b)(1), or

"(II) in the case of any foreign corporation, under section 872(a)(1), as if the taxpayer were engaged during the taxable year in a trade or business within the United States through a permanent establishment of the United States and as if such gain or loss were effectively connected with such trade or business and attributable to such permanent establishment.

"(2) TREATMENT OF GAINS.—Notwithstanding section 865, any such gain or loss shall be treated as from sources in the United States.

"(b) 10-PERCENT MINIMUM TAX ON NON-RESIDENT ALIEN INDIVIDUALS.—

"(1) In general.—In the case of any nonresident alien individual, the amount determined under section 55(b)(1)(A) shall not be less than 24 percent of the lesser of—

"(I) the individual's alternative minimum taxable income (as defined in section 55(b)(2)) for the taxable year, and

"(II) the individual's net taxable stock gain for the taxable year.

"(2) NET TAXABLE STOCK GAIN.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term 'net taxable stock gain' means the excess of—

"(I) the aggregate gains for the taxable year from dispositions of stock in domestic corporations with respect to which such individual is a 10-percent shareholder, over

"(II) the aggregate losses for the taxable year from dispositions of such stock.

"(C) COORDINATION WITH SECTION 871(2).—Section 897(a)(2)(A) shall not apply to any nonresident alien individual, for any taxable year for which such individual has a net taxable stock gain, but the amount of such net taxable stock gain shall be increased by the amount of such individual's net United States real property gain (as defined in section 897(a)(2)(B)) for such taxable year.

"(b) 10-PERCENT SHAREHOLDERS.—

"(1) In general.—For purposes of this section, the term '10-percent shareholder' means any person who at any time during the shorter of—

"(I) the period beginning on January 1, 1986, and ending on the date of the disposition, owned 10 percent or more (by vote or value) of the stock in the domestic corporation.

"(2) CONSTRUCTIVE OWNERSHIP.—(A) IN GENERAL.—Section 318(a) (relating to constructive ownership) shall apply for purposes of paragraph (1).

"(B) MODIFICATIONS.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)—

"(i) paragraph (2)(C) of section 318(a) shall be applied by substituting '10 percent' for '50 percent', and

"(ii) paragraph (1)(C) of section 318(a) shall be applied by substituting '10 percent' for '50 percent', and

"(II) in any case where such paragraph would not apply but for subparagraph (I), by considering a corporation as owning the stock (other than stock in such corporation) owned by or for any shareholder of such corporation in that proportion which the value of the stock of such corporation bears to the value of all stock in such corporation.

"(D) TREATMENT OF STOCK HELD BY CERTAIN PARTNERSHIPS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, if—

"(i) a partnership is a 10-percent shareholder in any domestic corporation, and

"(ii) 10 percent or more of the capital or profits interests in such partnership is held directly or indirectly by any nonresident alien individuals or foreign corporations,

"each partner in such partnership who is not otherwise a 10-percent shareholder in such corporation shall, with respect to stock in such corporation held by the partnership, be treated as a 10-percent shareholder in such corporation.

"(B) EXCEPTION.—

"(i) In general.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply with respect to stock in a domestic corporation held by any partnership if, at all times during the 5-year period ending on the date of the disposition involved—

"(I) the aggregate bases of the stock and securities owned in such corporation held by such partnership was less than 25 percent of the partnership's net adjusted asset cost, and

"(II) the partnership did not own 50 percent or more (by vote or value) of the stock in such domestic corporation.

"(B) EXEMPTION.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply with respect to stock in a domestic corporation held by any partnership if—

"(i) the aggregate bases of the stock and securities owned in such corporation held by such partnership was less than 25 percent of the partnership's net adjusted asset cost, and

"(ii) the partnership did not own 50 percent or more (by vote or value) of the stock in such domestic corporation.

"(C) EXCEPTION.—Subparagraph (B) shall not apply in the case of any pass-thru entity if—

"(i) the aggregate bases of the stock or securities owned in such corporation held by such partnership was less than 25 percent of the partnership's net adjusted asset cost, and

"(ii) the partnership did not own 50 percent or more (by vote or value) of the stock in such domestic corporation.

"(D) SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C)—

"(i) TREATMENT OF PREDECESSORS.—Any reference to a partnership or corporation shall be treated as including a reference to any predecessor thereof.

"(ii) PARTNERSHIP NOT IN EXISTENCE.—If any partnership was not in existence throughout the 5-year period ending on the date of the disposition, only the portion of such period during which the partnership (or any predecessor) was in existence shall be taken into account.

"(iii) OTHER PASS-THRU ENTITIES: TITLED ENTITIES.—Rules similar to the rules of the preceding paragraphs shall apply in the case of any other pass-thru entity (other than a partnership and in the case of tiered partnerships and other entities).

"(iv) COORDINATION WITH NONRECOGNITION PROVISIONS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), no nonrecognition provision shall apply for purposes of this section to a transaction only in the case of—

"(I) an exchange of stock in a domestic corporation for other property the sale of which was subject to taxation under this chapter, or

"(II) a distribution with respect to which gain or loss would not be recognized under this chapter, and any amount of such property distributed by the distributee would be subject to tax under this chapter.

"(B) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe regulations (which are necessary or appropriate to prevent the avoidance of Federal income taxes) providing—

"(i) the extent to which nonrecognition provisions shall, and shall not, apply for purposes of this section, and

"(ii) the extent to which—

"(I) transfers of property in a reorganization, and

"(II) changes in interests in, or distributions from, a partnership, trust, or estate, shall be treated as sales of property at fair market value.

"(C) NONRECOGNITION PROVISION.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term 'nonrecognition provision' includes any provision of the title for not recognizing gain or loss.

"(2) CERTAIN OTHER RULES APPLICABLE.—For purposes of this section, rules similar to the rules of subsections (g) and (i) of section 897 shall apply.

"(d) CERTAIN INTEREST TREATED AS STOCK.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) any option or other right to acquire stock in a domestic corporation.

"(2) the conversion feature of any debt instrument issued by a domestic corporation, and

"(3) to the extent provided in regulations, any other interest in a domestic corporation otherwise than as a shareholder, the proceeds of which would be treated as stock in such corporation.

"(e) TREATMENT OF CERTAIN GAIN AS A DIVIDEND.—In the case of any gain which would be subject to tax by reason of this section but for a treaty and which results from any distribution in liquidation or redemption, for purposes of this subsection, such gain shall be treated as a dividend to the extent of the earnings and profits of the domestic corporation attributable to the stock. Rules similar to the rules of section 1248(c) (determined with respect to paragraphs (1) and (2) thereof) shall apply for purposes of the preceding sentence.

"(f) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section, including—

"(1) regulations coordinating the provisions of this section with the provisions of section 897, and

"(2) regulations aggregating stock held by a group of persons acting together.

(2) WITHHOLDING OF TAX.—Subchapter A of chapter 3 is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 1417. WITHHOLDING OF TAX ON CERTAIN STOCK DISPOSITIONS.

"(a) GENERAL RULE.—Except as otherwise provided in this section, in the case of any disposition of stock in a domestic corporation by a foreign person who is a 10-percent shareholder in such corporation, the withholding agent shall deduct and withhold a tax equal to 10 percent of the amount realized on the disposition.

"(b) EXCEPTIONS.—

"(I) STOCK WHICH IS NOT REGULARLY TRADED.—In the case of a disposition of stock which is not regularly traded, a withholding agent shall not be required to deduct and withhold any amount under subsection (a) if—

"(A) the transferor furnishes to such withholding agent an affidavit by such transferor..." stating, under penalty of perjury, that section 899 does not apply to such disposition because—

(1) the transferor is not a foreign person, or

(2) such reduced amount will not jeopardize the amount to be withheld under this section if the Secretary determines that to substitute such reduced amount will not jeopardize the collection of the tax imposed by section 899.

(3) QUALIFIED RESIDENT.—For purposes of this subsection—

(a) DEFINITION.—The term 'qualified resident' means, with respect to any foreign country, any foreign entity which is a resident of such foreign country—

(i) 50 percent or more (by value) of the stock or beneficial interests in such entity are owned (directly or indirectly) by individuals who are not residents of such foreign country and who are not United States citizens or resident aliens, or

(ii) 50 percent or more of its income is earned (directly or indirectly) from activities regularly conducted in such foreign country and are not United States citizens or resident aliens.

(b) QUALIFIED DOMESTIC CORPORATIONS.—A foreign entity which is a resident of a foreign country shall be treated as a qualified resident of such foreign country if—

(1) such entity is not described in subparagraph (A)(i); and

(2) such entity is not a qualified resident of such foreign country if—

(a) such entity is not described in subparagraph (A)(ii); and

(b) such entity is wholly owned by another foreign entity which is organized in such foreign country and the interests in which are so traded.

(c) TERMINATION OF QUALIFIED RESIDENT Status.—Any qualified resident of a foreign country shall cease to be treated as a qualified resident of such foreign country if—

(1) its interests in such entity are primarily and regularly traded on an established securities market in such country, or

(2) such entity is not treated in such a manner consistent with the purposes of this subsection.

(4) FOREIGN ENTITY.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'foreign entity' means any corporation, partnership, trust, estate, or other entity which is not a United States person.

(5) QUALIFIED DOMESTIC CORPORATIONS.—A foreign entity which is a resident of a foreign country shall be treated as a qualified resident of such foreign country if—

(a) such entity is not described in subparagraph (A)(i); and

(b) such entity is not a qualified resident of such foreign country.

(6) TREATY SHOPPING.—No foreign entity that is a qualified resident of a foreign country shall enter into any treaty determined after January 1, 1996, and shall apply to any treaty entered into before, on, or after such date.

(7) GOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES.—The term 'governmental entity' includes any governmental entity which is not described in section 899(c).

(8) OTHER TERMS.—Except as provided in this section, terms used in this section shall have the same respective meanings as when used in section 899.
Mr. WELLS (for himself and Mr. CHAFEE) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra, as follows:

At the end of section 2117(b) of the Social Security Act, as added by section 719(a), insert the following:

"(ii) in subparagraph (C), extend the 12-month period described in paragraph (1) to the close of the first month in which the family ceases to include a child who is a needy child under part A of title IV.

(2) INCLUSION IN CERTAIN CASES UNTIL REDETERMINATION.—With respect to a child who is a member of the family and would be entitled to medical assistance because of clause (i) but who may be eligible for assistance under the State plan because the child is described in section 2117(a)(2) if the State discontinues such assistance under such clause until the State has determined that the child is not eligible for assistance under the plan.

(3) NOTIFICATION BEFORE MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION.—No modification or termination of assistance shall be effective under this paragraph until the State has provided the family with a 60-day notice of the grounds for the modification or termination. Such notice shall include (in the case of termination) a description of the circumstances under which the family may reestablish eligibility for medical assistance under the State plan. No such termination shall be effective earlier than 10 days after the date of mailing of such notice.

(4) SCOPE OF COVERAGE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraphs (B) through (D), the 12-month extension period under this subsection shall be applied under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act, as added by section 719(a). Add the following new section:

SEC. 2118. EXTENSION OF ELIGIBILITY FOR MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.

(a) 12-MONTH EXTENSION.—

(i) REQUIREMENT.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, each State plan approved under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act, as added by section 719(a), shall include a card or other evidence of eligibility for medical assistance under such plan approved under this title for the period provided in this section.

(ii) NOTICE OF BENEFITS.—Each State, in the notice of termination of assistance under part A of title IV sent to a family meeting the requirements of paragraph (1), shall include the family of its right to extended medical assistance under this subsection and include in the notice a description of the circumstances (described in paragraph (3)) under which such extension may be modified or terminated and the reporting requirements under paragraph (5) and shall include a card or other evidence of the family's entitlement to assistance under this title for the period provided in this section.

(iii) MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION OF EXTENSION.—

(A) MODIFICATION.—Subject to subparagraph (B), if the modification relates to the imposition of cost-sharing or premiums, subject to section 2113, the State may modify the terms of the extension of assistance during the 12-month period described in paragraph (1).

(B) TERMINATION.—...
'(d) CARETAKER RELATIVE DEFINED.--In this section, the term 'caretaker relative' has the meaning given to such term as used in part A of title IV.

At the end of title VII add the following new subtitle:

(C) the State has determined that there is an insufficient pool of entities willing to provide home and community-based services under the State plan to individuals designated representative (as determined according to a protocol established by the Secretary) for the assessment and plan described in section 7504(b) or for other purposes.

(2) CRITERIA FOR SELECTION OF SERVICES.—The State plan shall include the following: eating, toileting, dressing, bathing, and transferring.

SEC. 7504. HOME AND COMMUNITY-BASED SERVICES AVAILABLE UNDER STATE PLAN

(A) SPECIFICATION.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the succeeding provisions of this section, the State plan under this subtitile shall specify—

(A) the home and community-based services available under the plan to individuals with disabilities (or to such categories of such individuals):

(B) any limits with respect to such services:

(i) FLEXIBILITY IN MEETING INDIVIDUAL NEEDS.—Subject to subsection (e)(2), such services may be delivered in an individual's home, a range of community residential arrangements, or other settings in which the individual resides. The Secretary shall ensure that such services are delivered in a manner that is comparable in severity to the criteria described in paragraph (1) shall be made in accordance with a uniform, comprehensive assessment tool that shall be used by a State under this paragraph with the approval of the Secretary. The comprehensive assessment shall be made by a public or nonprofit agency that is specified under the State plan and that is not a provider of home and community-based services under this subtitile.

(ii) the Secretary may elect to waive the provisions of clause (i) if—

(I) with respect to any area of the State, the State has determined that there is an insufficient pool of entities willing to provide comprehensive assessments in such area due to a low population of individuals eligible for home and community-based services under this subtitile residing in the area; and

(ii) the State plan specifies procedures that the State will implement in order to avoid conflicts of interest.

(B) INDIVIDUALIZED PLAN OF CARE.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—An individualized plan of care described under subparagraph (A) shall be developed by a public or nonprofit agency that is specified under the State plan and that is not a provider of home and community-based services under this subtitile, except that the Secretary may, in such circumstances as the Secretary deems appropriate, direct the State to develop such a plan.

(II) IDENTIFICATION OF INDIVIDUALS.—The Secretary shall provide a plan of care for individuals with disabilities that are comparable in severity to the criteria described in paragraph (1) if such an individual meets the criteria in any single category under such paragraph.

(iii) REQUIREMENTS WITH RESPECT TO PLAN OF CARE.—The plan of care under this subparagaph shall—

(A) specify which services included under the individual plan will be provided under the State plan under this subtitile:

(B) identify (to the extent possible) how the individual will be provided services that are specified under the plan of care and not provided under the State plan;

(C) specify how the provision of services required in subparagraphs (A) and (B) will be coordinated with the provision of other health care services to the individual; and

(D) be reviewed and updated every 6 months (or for such longer period as the Secretary determines necessary).

(ii) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall report to the Congress on its finding under the preceding sentence and shall make such report available to the public.

(iv) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall provide for such services under this subtitile, except that the Secretary may, in such circumstances as the Secretary deems appropriate, direct the State to develop such a plan.

(C) INVOLVEMENT OF INDIVIDUALS.—The individualized plan of care under subparagraph (B) shall be developed with the participation of the individual with disabilities and of the individual's designated representative:

(i) in close consultation with the individual (or the individual's designated representative);

(ii) in accordance with the individual (or the individual's designated representative).
(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘consumer-directed’ means, with reference to personal assistance services or the provider of such services, services that are determined by an individual who is selected and managed (and, at the option of the service recipient, trained) by the individual receiving the service.

(B) a factor (described in paragraph (4)) reflecting the change in the number of individuals receiving assistance under this title and the CPI increase factor for the fiscal year of the previous fiscal year.

(3) CPI INCREASE FACTOR.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(A), the factor described in this paragraph for a fiscal year is the ratio of—

(A) the value of the CPI for the 12-month period ending with the preceding fiscal year to the value of the CPI for the fiscal year; and

(B) 100.

(4) DISABILITY POPULATION FACTOR.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(B), the factor described in this paragraph for a fiscal year is 100 percent plus (or minus) the percentage increase (or decrease) in the disabled population of the United States (as determined by the Secretary) that was reported to the Secretary under section 7102(a)(2) of such Act.

(5) ALLOCATION FOR CLIENT ADVOCACY ACTIVITIES.—Each State with a plan approved under this subtitle and with a population of the United States (as determined by the Secretary) that is an amount equal to the total estimated amount for such fiscal year under paragraph (1) of subsection (a) resulting from the application of paragraph (5) of such subsection, the Secretary shall allot to each State an amount equal to one-half of one percent of the State's total allotment under paragraph (1) for such fiscal year.

(6) NO DUPLICATE PAYMENT.—No payment may be made to a State under this section for any services provided to an individual to the extent that the State received payment for such services under section 1222(a) of the Social Security Act.

(7) REALLOCATIONS.—Any amounts allotted to States under this subsection for a fiscal year that are not expended in such year shall remain available for State programs under this subtitle and may be reallocated to States as the Secretary determines appropriate.

(8) SAVINGS DUE TO MEDICAID OFFSETS.—In no case may be any amount by which the Federal offsets and reductions in such State's medicaid plan for such fiscal year exceed the product of—

(A) the percentage of the total number of individuals with disabilities living under 100% of federal poverty level in any age group in the State; and

(B) the estimated percentage change in such index.

(A) the percentage of the total number of individuals with disabilities in all States that reside in a particular State; (B) the percent of the Federal funds, community-based services to individuals with disabilities in the State; and

(C) the number of individuals receiving assistance with incomes at or below 150 percent of the official poverty line (as described in section 7102(a)(2)) of all States that reside in a particular State.

(2) ALLOCATION FOR CLIENT ADVOCACY ACTIVITIES.—Each State with a plan approved under this subtitle shall allocate one-half of one percent of the State's total allotment under paragraph (1) for client advocacy activities as the Secretary determines appropriate.

(3) NO DUPLICATE PAYMENT.—No payment may be made to a State under this section for any services provided to an individual to the extent that the State received payment for such services under section 1222(a) of the Social Security Act.

(4) REALLOCATIONS.—Any amounts allotted to States under this subsection for a fiscal year that are not expended in such year shall remain available for State programs under this subtitle and may be reallocated to States as the Secretary determines appropriate.

(5) SAVINGS DUE TO MEDICAID OFFSETS.—In no case may be any amount by which the Federal offsets and reductions in such State's medicaid plan for such fiscal year exceed the product of—

(A) the percentage of the total number of individuals with disabilities living under 100% of federal poverty level in any age group in the State; and

(B) the estimated percentage change in such index.

(6) NO DUPLICATE PAYMENT.—No payment may be made to a State under this section for any services provided to an individual to the extent that the State received payment for such services under section 1222(a) of the Social Security Act.

(7) REALLOCATIONS.—Any amounts allotted to States under this subsection for a fiscal year that are not expended in such year shall remain available for State programs under this subtitle and may be reallocated to States as the Secretary determines appropriate.

(8) SAVINGS DUE TO MEDICAID OFFSETS.—In no case may be any amount by which the Federal offsets and reductions in such State's medicaid plan for such fiscal year exceed the product of—

(A) the percentage of the total number of individuals with disabilities living under 100% of federal poverty level in any age group in the State; and

(B) the estimated percentage change in such index.

(c) STATE ENTITLEMENT.—This subtitle constitutes budget authority in advance of appropriations Acts and represents the obligation of the Federal Government to provide for the payment to States of amounts described in subsection (a).

Section 12111 and chapter I of subtitle C of title XII of this Act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 123. It is the sense of the Senate that the Congress shall define a basic health benefit package for pregnant women, all children up to age 12 years, and individuals with disabilities living under 100% of federal poverty level in order to ensure that these individuals are entitled to a federal guarantee of health care services for a meaningful set of benefits.

HARKIN (AND OTHERS) AMENDMENT NO. 3020

Mr. HARKIN (for himself, Mr. DORIAN, Mr. WELLSTONE, Mr. DASCHLE, Mr. HEFLIN, and Mr. BUMPERS) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 1357, supra. as follows:

(a) In Title I strike Subtitles A. B. and C. and insert the following:

TITLE I.—COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE, NUTRITION, AND FORESTRY

SECTION 101. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "Farm Security Act of 1995."
(B) LIMITATION.—The quantity determined under subparagraph (A) shall be equal to the difference between a price established by the Secretary, of not to exceed $4.00 per bushel, and the greater of—

(1) the marketing loan rate for the crop of wheat; or

(2) the average domestic price for wheat for the crop for the calendar year in which the crop is harvested: and

(ii) the level at which a loan may be repaid under the subsection.

(B) DATE.—The date on which the calculation required under subparagraph (A) for the producers on a farm shall be determined by the Secretary is fair and reasonable in relation to the marketing loan rate for the crop under paragraph (A)(ii):

(1) the date the producers last beneficial interest in the crop; or

(2) the end of the marketing year for the crop.

(A) AMOUNT.—The Secretary shall make available to producers on a farm a crop loan for the crop at a level that is the lesser of—

(i) the loan level determined for the crop; or

(ii) the prevailing domestic market price for the commodity (adjusted to location and quality), as determined by the Secretary.

(B) PREVAILING DOMESTIC MARKET PRICE.—The Secretary shall prescribe by regulation—

(i) a formula to determine the prevailing domestic market price for each covered commodity; and

(ii) a mechanism by which the Secretary shall announce periodically the prevailing domestic market prices established under this subsection.

(2) LOAN DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may, for each of the 1996 through 2002 crops of covered commodities, make payments (referred to in this subsection as 'loan deficiency payments') available to producers who, although eligible to obtain a marketing loan under subsection (c), agree to forgo obtaining the loan in return for payments under this subsection.

(B) COMMISSIONER.—A payment under this subsection shall be computed by multiplying—

(i) the loan payment rate; by

(ii) the quantity of a covered commodity the producer is eligible to place under loan but for which the producer forgoes obtaining the loan in return for payments under this subsection.

(3) LOAN PAYMENT RATE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—For the purposes of this subsection, the loan payment rate shall be the amount by which—

(i) the marketing loan rate determined for the crop under subsection (c)(3); exceeds

(ii) the level at which a loan may be repaid under the subsection.

(B) DATE.—The date on which the calculation required under subparagraph (A) for the producers on a farm shall be determined by the Secretary is fair and reasonable in relation to the date not be later than the earlier of—

(i) the date the producers last beneficial interest in the crop; or

(ii) the end of the marketing year for the crop.

(4) APPLICATION.—Producers on a farm may apply for a loan for a covered commodity under this subsection at any time prior to the end of the marketing year for the commodity.

(e) PROGRAM COST LIMITATION.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary determines that the costs of providing marketing loans and loan deficiency payments for covered commodities under this section will exceed an amount of $9,000,000,000 for the 1996 through 2001 fiscal years, the Secretary shall carry out a program cost limitation program to ensure that the costs of providing marketing loans and loan deficiency payments do not exceed the amount.

(ii) TERMINATION.—The Secretary determines that a program cost limitation program is required for a crop year, the Secretary shall carry out for the crop year.

(2) TERMINATION.—The Secretary determines that a program cost limitation program is required for a crop year, the Secretary shall carry out for the crop year.

(3) LIMITATION.—The program cost limitation program may only be applied to a crop of a covered commodity for which the domestic price is projected, by the Secretary to, the 5-year average price for the commodity.

(4) ANNOUNCEMENTS.—If the Secretary elects to implement a program cost limitation program for a crop, the Secretary shall make an announcement of the program not later than—

(A) in the case of wheat, June 1 of the calendar year in which the crop is harvested; and

(B) in the case of feed grains and oilseeds, September 30 of the calendar year preceding the year in which the crop is harvested; and

(ii) the level at which a loan may be repaid under the subsection.

(f) EQUITABLE RELIEF.—If the failure of a producer to comply fully with the terms and conditions of programs conducted under this section precludes the making of loans and payments, the Secretary may, nevertheless, make the loans and payments in such amounts and at such rates as the Secretary determines are equitable in relation to the seriousness of the failure.

(g) COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION.—The Secretary shall carry out the program authorized by this section through the Commodity Credit Corporation.

(h) ASSIGNMENT OF PAYMENTS.—The provisions of section 8(g) of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act (16 U.S.C. 990g(h)) (relating to assignment of payments) shall apply to payments under this section.

(7) FEED GRAINS.—The term 'feed grains' means corn. grain sorghum. barley. oats. rye. or as designated by the Secretary.

(8) OILSEEDS.—The term 'oilseed' means a crop of soybeans. sunflower seed. rapeseed. canola. safflower. flaxseed. mustard seed. or, as designated by the Secretary. other oilseeds.

(3) LIMITATION—The program cost limitation program may only be applied to a crop of a covered commodity for which the domestic price is projected, by the Secretary to, the 5-year average price for the commodity.

(4) ANNOUNCEMENTS.—If the Secretary elects to implement a program cost limitation program for a crop, the Secretary shall make an announcement of the program not later than—

(A) in the case of wheat, June 1 of the calendar year in which the crop is harvested; and

(B) in the case of feed grains and oilseeds, September 30 of the calendar year preceding the year in which the crop is harvested; and

(ii) the level at which a loan may be repaid under the subsection.

(f) EQUITABLE RELIEF.—If the failure of a producer to comply fully with the terms and conditions of programs conducted under this section precludes the making of loans and payments, the Secretary may, nevertheless, make the loans and payments in such amounts and at such rates as the Secretary determines are equitable in relation to the seriousness of the failure.

(g) COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION.—The Secretary shall carry out the program authorized by this section through the Commodity Credit Corporation.

(h) ASSIGNMENT OF PAYMENTS.—The provisions of section 8(g) of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act (16 U.S.C. 990g(h)) (relating to assignment of payments) shall apply to payments under this section.

(7) FEED GRAINS.—The term 'feed grains' means corn. grain sorghum. barley. oats. rye. or as designated by the Secretary.

(8) OILSEEDS.—The term 'oilseed' means a crop of soybeans. sunflower seed. rapeseed. canola. safflower. flaxseed. mustard seed. or, as designated by the Secretary. other oilseeds.

(3) LIMITATION—The program cost limitation program may only be applied to a crop of a covered commodity for which the domestic price is projected, by the Secretary to, the 5-year average price for the commodity.

(4) ANNOUNCEMENTS.—If the Secretary elects to implement a program cost limitation program for a crop, the Secretary shall make an announcement of the program not later than—

(A) in the case of wheat, June 1 of the calendar year in which the crop is harvested; and

(B) in the case of feed grains and oilseeds, September 30 of the calendar year preceding the year in which the crop is harvested; and

(ii) the level at which a loan may be repaid under the subsection.

(f) EQUITABLE RELIEF.—If the failure of a producer to comply fully with the terms and conditions of programs conducted under this section precludes the making of loans and payments, the Secretary may, nevertheless, make the loans and payments in such amounts and at such rates as the Secretary determines are equitable in relation to the seriousness of the failure.

(g) COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION.—The Secretary shall carry out the program authorized by this section through the Commodity Credit Corporation.

(h) ASSIGNMENT OF PAYMENTS.—The provisions of section 8(g) of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act (16 U.S.C. 990g(h)) (relating to assignment of payments) shall apply to payments under this section.

(7) FEED GRAINS.—The term 'feed grains' means corn. grain sorghum. barley. oats. rye. or as designated by the Secretary.

(8) OILSEEDS.—The term 'oilseed' means a crop of soybeans. sunflower seed. rapeseed. canola. safflower. flaxseed. mustard seed. or, as designated by the Secretary. other oilseeds.
SEC. 1103. RICE PROGRAM.

(b) SUPPORT RATES FOR PERSONS.—Section 108B(b)(4) of the Agricultural Act of 1949 (7 U.S.C. 1465c(4)) is amended—

(1) by striking paragraphs (1)-(3) and inserting—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (a)(1), (a)(3), and (f), the Secretary shall obtain from each processor that sells or otherwise disposes of sugar beets or sugar beets products a letter of assurance that the sugar derived from the sugar beets will be used solely for the production of sugar for domestic edible use, as determined by the Secretary and not repaid under this section during the fiscal year shall be converted into a nonrecourse loan. Any recourse loan available to sugar producers. Any recourse loan previously made available by the Secretary and not repaid by the producer during the fiscal year shall be converted into a nonrecourse loan.

(b) PRICE SUPPORT.—The price of each of the 1996 through 2002 crops of sugar beets which would provide for adequate carryover stocks.

SEC. 1105. DAIRY PROGRAM.

(b) SUPPORT PRICE FOR BUTTER AND POWDERED MILK.—Section 204 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 (7 U.S.C. 1446e) is amended—

(1) in the section heading, by striking "support price" and inserting "price support":

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), the Secretary shall not reduce the level of price support under subparagraph (A) below a level that provides an equal measure of support to the level provided by the European Union or any other major country through domestic and export subsidies that are subject to reduction under the Agreement on Agriculture.

(b) PRICE SUPPORT.—The price of each of the 1996 through 2002 crops of domestically grown sugar beets through loans at the support price for each of the 1997 crop of domestically grown sugar beets.
receives a loan under this section such assurances as the Secretary considers adequate that, if the Secretary is required under paragraph (A) to extend a loan to a borrower, the loan will be nonrecourse and the borrower will not be liable to the Secretary for a civil penalty of not more than an amount determined by multi-ing—
(A) the quantity of sugar involved in the violation; by
(B) the loan level for the applicable crop year of sugarcane or sugar beets from which the sugar is produced.

For the purposes of this paragraph, refined sugar shall be treated as produced from sugar beets.

(6) ENFORCEMENT.—The Secretary may enforce this subsection in the courts of the United States.

(i) INFORMATION REPORTING.—

(1) DUTY OF PROCESSORS AND REFINERS TO REPORT.—A sugarcane processor, cane sugar refiner, and sugar beet processor shall furnish the Secretary, on a monthly basis, such information as the Secretary may require to administer sugar programs, including the quantity of purchases of sugarcane, sugar beets, and sugar, and sugar production, importation, distribution, and stock levels of sugar.

(2) DUTY OF PRODUCERS TO REPORT.—To efciently administer the programs under this section, the Secretary may require a producer of sugarcane or sugar beets to report, in the manner prescribed by the Secretary, the producer's production, sugar yields and acres planted to sugarcane or sugar beets, respectively.

(3) PENALTY.—Any person willfully failing or refusing to furnish the information, or furnishing willfully any false information, required under this subsection shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than $10,000 for each violation.

(4) MONTHLY REPORTS.—Taking into consideration the information received under paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subsection, the Sec-tary shall publish a monthly basis composite data on production, imports, distribution, and stock levels of sugar.

(m) SUGAR ESTIMATES.—

(1) DOMESTIC REQUIREMENTS.—Before the beginning of each fiscal year, the Secretary shall estimate the domestic sugar requirement of the United States in an amount that is equal to the total estimated disappearance, minus the quantity of sugar that will be available through the following means:

(2) QUARTERLY REESTIMATES.—The Sec-tary shall make quarterly reestimates of sugar consumption, stocks, production, and imports for each fiscal year, starting 3 months after the beginning of each of the second through fourth quarters of the fiscal year.

(n) CROPS—This section shall be effective only for the 1996 through 2002 crops of sugarcane and sugar beets.

(b) MARKETING QUOTAS.—Part VII of subtitle B of title III of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 (7 U.S.C. 1359a et seq.) is repealed.

SEC. 1107. SHEEP INDUSTRY TRANSITION PRO-GRAM—

Title II of the Agricultural Act of 1949 (7 U.S.C. 1446 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 119. SHEEP INDUSTRY TRANSITION PRO-GRAM.—

(a) LOSS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall, on presentation of warehouse receipts or other acceptable evidence of title as determined by the Secretary, make available for each of the 1996 through 1999 marketing years recourse loans for wool at a loan level, per pound, that is not less than the smaller of—
(A) the average price (weighted by mar-tex quality) for wool at the average location in the United States as quoted during the 5-marketing year period preceding the marketing year for which the loan is made; or

(B) the loan level determined under paragraph (b)(1) of this section, announced, excluding the year in which the average price was the highest and the year in which the average price was the lowest in the period; or

(B) 90 percent of the average price for wool sold under paragraph (b)(1) of this section, in which the loan level is announced, as determained by the Secretary.

(2) ADJUSTMENT FOR LOWER LOAN LEVEL.—

(A) LIMITATION ON DECREASE IN LOAN
LEVEL.—The loan level for any marketing year determined under paragraph (1) may not be reduced by more than 5 percent from the level determined for the preceding market year, and may not be reduced below 50 cents per pound.

(B) LIMITATION ON INCREASE IN LOAN
LEVEL.—If for any marketing year the average projected price determined under paragraph (1)(A) of this section is below the United States market price determined under paragraph (i)(A), the Secretary may increase the loan level to such level as the Secretary may consider appropriate, not in excess of the av-average United States market price determained under paragraph (i)(A).

(3) ADJUSTMENT FOR UPPERLoAN LEVEL.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding subparagraphs (A) and (B), the Secretary may adjust the loan level of a loan made under this section with respect to any quality of wool to more accurately reflect the quality of the wool, as determined by the Secretary.

(4) LIMITATION ON ADDITIONAL EXTENSIONS.—

The Secretary may not make additional extensions for more than 1 year for wool produced on a farm, the Secretary shall establish a grading system for wool, based on micron diameter of the fibers in the wool.

(iv) FEES.—The Secretary may charge each person that requests a grade a quantity of wool a fee to offset the cost of testing and establishing a grading for the wool.

(v) TESTING FACILITIES.—To the extent practicable, the Secretary shall accept local, private facilities to carry out the grading of wool for the purpose of carrying out this subparagraph.

(4) ANNOUNCEMENT OF LOAN LEVEL.—The loan level for any marketing year of wool shall be determined and announced by the Secretary not later than December 1 of the calendar year preceding the marketing year for which the loan is to be effective or, in the case of the 1996 marketing year, as soon as is promptly after December 1, 1995.

(4) TERMS OF LOAN.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Receivable loans provided for in this section may be made for an initial period of 1 year, extendible for an additional term of 8 months.

(B) EXTENSIONS.—Except as provided in sub-paragraph (B)(1), recourse loans provided for in this section shall, on request of the producer during the 9th month of the loan period for the wool, be made available for an additional term of 8 months.

(C) LIMITATION.—A request to extend the loan period shall not be approved in any year in which the average price of the base quality of wool, as determined by the Sec-tary, in the designated markets for the preceding month exceeded 130 percent of the average price of the base quality of wool in the designated United States markets for the preceding 36-month period.

(5) MARKETING LOAN PROVISIONS.—If the Secretary determines that the prevailing world market price for wool (adjusted to United States quality and location) is below the world market price for wool that is competitive, the Secretary shall permit a producer to repay a loan made for any marketing year at the loan level determined under paragraphs (1)(A) and (B).

(A) the loan level determined for the market year; or

(B) the higher of—

(1) the loan level determined for the market year multiplied by 70 percent; or

(2) the loan level determined for the preceding 36-month period.

(6) PENALTIES.—If any person fails to comply with an assessment required by this section, it shall be liable to the Secretary for a civil penalty of not more than an amount determined by multi-ing by the Secretary.

(7) COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION.—

The Secretary shall use the funds, fac-cilities, and authorities of the Commodity
Credit Corporation to carry out this section.

(8) MARKETING ASSESSMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Assessments shall be col-glected in accordance with this subsection with respect to all sugar marketed within the United States during the years 1996 through 2002.

(2) BEET SUGAR.—The first seller of beet sugar produced from domestic sugar beets or domestic sugar beets molasses shall remit to the Commodity Credit Corporation a non-refundable marketing assessment in an amount equal to 1.0844 percent of the loan level established under subsection (d) per pound of sugar marketed.

(3) CANE SUGAR.—The first seller of raw cane sugar produced from domestic sugar cane or domestic sugar cane molasses shall remit to the Commodity Credit Corporation a non-refundable marketing assessment in an amount equal to 1.0844 percent of the loan level established under subsection (d) per pound of sugar marketed.

(4) COLLECTION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall, on presentation of warehouse receipts or other acceptable evidence of title as determined by the Secretary, make available for each of the 1996 through 1999 marketing years recourse loans for cane sugar at a loan level, per pound, that is not less than the smaller of—
(A) the average price (weighted by mar-tex quality) for cane sugar at the average location in the United States as quoted during the 5-marketing year period preceding the marketing year for which the loan is made; or

(B) the loan level determined under paragraph (b)(1) of this section, announced, excluding the year in which the average price was the highest and the year in which the average price was the lowest in the period; or

(2) PENALTIES.—If any person fails to remit an assessment required by this subsection, it shall be liable to the Secretary for a civil penalty of not more than an amount determined by multi-ing by the Secretary.

(a) CLARIFICATION OF DEFINITION OF ROUTINE SERVICE COSTS—Section 1888 (42 U.S.C. 1395yy) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph: "(e) For purposes of this section, the ‘routine service costs’ of a skilled nursing facility are all costs which are attributable to nursing services, room and board, administrative costs, other overhead costs, and all other ancillary services (including supplies and equipment), excluding costs attributable to covered non-routine services and services attributable to payment amounts under section 188A."

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT—Section 1888 (42 U.S.C. 1395yy) is amended in the heading by inserting "AND CERTAIN ANCILLARY" after "SERVICE".

SEC. 7032. COST-EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT OF COVERED NON-Routine SERVICES OF SKILLED NURSING FACILITIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Title XVIII (42 U.S.C. 1395 et seq.), as amended by section 7025, is amended by inserting after section 1888 the following new section:

"SEC. 7033. COST-EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT OF COVERED NON-Routine SERVICES OF SKILLED NURSING FACILITIES.

(a) Definitions.—For purposes of this section:

(1) COVERED NON-Routine SERVICES.—The term ‘covered non-routine services’ means post-acute extended care services consisting of any of the following:

(A) Physical or occupational therapy or speech-language pathology services, or respiratory therapy.

(B) Pharmacare.

(C) Complex medical equipment.

(D) Laboratory and pathology services and solutions (including enteral and parenteral nutrients, supplies, and equipment).

(E) Radiation therapy.

(F) Diagnostic services, including laboratory, radiology (including computerized tomography services and imaging services), and pulmonary services.

(2) SNF MARKET BASKET PERCENTAGE INCREASE.—The term ‘SNF market basket percentage increase’ for a fiscal year means a percentage increase in the rate of change in the cost reporting period service costs for the year under section 1888(a).

(3) STAY.—The term ‘stay’, means, with respect to a covered non-routine service furnished by a skilled nursing facility, a period of continuous days during which the facility provides extended care services for which payment may be made under this title for the individual during the individual’s spell of illness.

(b) NEW PAYMENT METHOD FOR COVERED NON-Routine SERVICES BEGINNING IN FISCAL YEAR 1996.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—(A) The payment method established under this section shall apply with respect to covered non-routine services furnished during cost reporting periods ending on or before September 30, 1995.

(B) INTERIM PAYMENTS.—Subject to subsection (c), a skilled nursing facility shall receive interim payments under this title for covered non-routine services furnished during the individual during cost reporting periods (or portions of cost reporting periods) described in paragraph (1) of subsection (d) where the reasonable cost of providing such services in accordance with section 1811(v) is as follows: the Secretary may adjust such payments if the Secretary determines (on the basis of such estimated information as the Secretary considers appropriate) that payments to the facility under this section for a cost reporting period would substantially exceed the cost reporting period amount determined under subsection (c)(B).

(2) PROVISIONAL DETERMINATION OF FACILITY PER STAY AMOUNT.—In addition to the process for reducing payments described in paragraph (1), the Secretary may reduce payments made to a facility under this section for a cost reporting period if the Secretary determines that payments to the facility under this section for a cost reporting period would substantially exceed the cost reporting period amount determined under subsection (c)(B).

(3) RESPONSIBILITY OF SKILLED NURSING FACILITY TO MANAGE BILLS.—(A) CLARIFICATION OF REQUIREMENT TO PART A BILLING.—In the case of a covered non-routine service furnished to an individual who (at the time the service is furnished) is a resident of a skilled nursing facility who is entitled to coverage under section 1812(a)(10) for such service, the skilled nursing facility shall submit a claim for payment under this title for the amount of such service (with regard to whether or not the service was furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility). The Secretary shall reduce payments to the facility under this section if the Secretary finds necessary to meet the requirement of this subsection if the Secretary finds necessary to meet the requirement of this subsection.

(B) PART B BILLING.—In the case of a covered non-routine service furnished to an individual who (at the time the service is furnished) is a resident of a skilled nursing facility who is entitled to coverage under section 1812(a)(12) for such service but is entitled to coverage under part B for such service, the skilled nursing facility shall submit a claim for payment under this title for the amount of such service under part B (without regard to whether or not the service was furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise).

(c) NO PAYMENT IN EXCESS OF PRODUCT OF PER STAY AMOUNT AND NUMBER OF STAYS.—(1) IN GENERAL.—If a skilled nursing facility has received aggregate payments under subsection (b) for covered non-routine services furnished during a stay, the facility may reduce payments to the facility under this section for any covered non-routine service furnished during a stay if the aggregate payments made to the facility under this section for the stay amount determined under paragraph (2) exceed the product of the per stay amount applicable to the stay and the number of stays begun during the fiscal year for which payments were made under this title for covered non-routine services furnished during such stay.

(2) STAY AMOUNTS.—The facility-specific stay amount established under paragraph (2) instead of the per stay amount applicable to the stay.

(3) COST REPORTING PERIOD AMOUNT.—The cost reporting period amount determined under this subparagraph is the amount equal to the cost reporting period amount determined under paragraph (2), the Secretary shall reduce payments made to a facility under this section for covered non-routine services furnished during a cost reporting period beginning during the following fiscal year in an amount equal to the cost reporting period amount determined under paragraph (2), the Secretary shall reduce payments made to a facility under this section for covered non-routine services furnished during a cost reporting period beginning during the following fiscal year in an amount equal to such excess. The Secretary shall reduce payments made to a facility under this section for covered non-routine services furnished during a cost reporting period beginning during the following fiscal year in an amount equal to such excess. The Secretary shall reduce payments made to a facility under this section for covered non-routine services furnished during a cost reporting period beginning during the following fiscal year in an amount equal to such excess.

(d) DETERMINATION OF FACILITY PER STAY AMOUNT.—(1) AMOUNT FOR FISCAL YEAR 1996.—(A) IN GENERAL.—(i) ESTABLISHMENT.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B) and clause (ii), the Secretary shall establish a per stay amount for each nursing facility for the 12-month cost reporting period beginning during fiscal year 1996 that is the facility-specific stay amount for the facility (as determined under subsection (e)) for the last 12-month cost reporting period ending on or before September 30, 1995, increased (in a compounded manner) by the SNF market basket percentage increase as defined in section (a)(3) for each fiscal year through fiscal year 1996.

(ii) ADJUSTMENT IF IMPLEMENTATION DELAYED.—If the amount under clause (i) is not established to the cost reporting period described in clause (i), the Secretary shall adjust such amount for stays after such amount is established in such a manner so as to recover any amounts in excess of the amounts which would have been paid for stays before such date if the amount had been determined prior to such date.

(B) FACILITIES NOT HAVING PBN COST REPORTING PERIOD.—In the case of a skilled nursing facility for which payments were not made under this title for covered non-routine services for the last 12-month cost reporting period ending on or before September 30, 1995, the Secretary shall establish a per stay amount for a skilled nursing facility for 12-month cost reporting period beginning during fiscal year 1996 that is the average of all per stay amounts determined under subparagraph (A).

(ii) AMOUNT FOR FISCAL YEAR 1997 AND SUBSEQUENT FISCAL YEARS.—The per stay amount for a skilled nursing facility for a 12-month cost reporting period beginning during any fiscal year after 1996 is equal to the per stay amount established under this subsection for the 12-month cost reporting period beginning during the fiscal year (without regard to any adjustment under paragraph (i)(1)(iii)) increased by the greater of:

(A) The SNF market basket percentage increase for such subsequent fiscal year minus 2.5 percentage points; or

(B) 1.2 percent (1.1 percent for fiscal years after 1997).

(e) DETERMINATION OF FACILITY-SPECIFIC PER STAY AMOUNT.—The facility-specific per stay amount for a skilled nursing facility for a cost reporting period is—

(1) the sum of—

(A) the number of payments made to the facility under part A during the period which are attributable to covered non-routine services furnished during the period, and

(B) the Secretary's best estimate of the amount of payments made under part A during the period which were furnished to all residents of the facility to whom the facility provided extended care services for which payment was made under part A during the period (without regard to whether or not the services were furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise), as estimated by the Secretary divided by

(ii) the average number of days per stay for all residents of the skilled nursing facility.

(f) INTENSIVE NURSING OR THERAPY BILLING—(1) IN GENERAL.—In applying subsection (b) to covered non-routine services furnished during a stay beginning during a cost reporting period ending on or before September 30, 1995, to a resident of a skilled nursing facility who requires intensive nursing or therapy services, the per stay amount for such resident shall be the per stay amount determined under paragraph (b) divided by the number of days per stay determined under subsection (d)(1)(A).
(d) LIMITATION TO EXCEPTIONS PROCESS OF THE SECRETARY.—Section 1888(c) (42 U.S.C. 1395yy(c)) is amended—

(1) by striking "(2)" and inserting "(2) and section 1888(a)";

(2) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(3) For cost reporting periods beginning during fiscal year 1996, the total amount of the additional payments made under this title as a result of such exceptions and adjustments to the cost reporting periods occurring beginning in fiscal years 1996 through 2002.".

(2) EXCLUSION FOR ITEMS AND SERVICES NOT BILLED UNDER A CONTRACTING OR CONSULTING ARRANGEMENT.—Section 1882(a) (42 U.S.C. 1395a(a)) is amended—

(A) by striking "or" and inserting "or";

(B) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (1) and inserting ";";

and

(C) by inserting after paragraph (1) the following new paragraph:

"(2) In the case of a resident of a skilled nursing facility furnished appropriate extended health care services, the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall determine the non-routine per stay costs of such services furnished to such resident during the cost reporting period beginning during fiscal year 1996, increased by the amount of the additional payments made under this title as a result of such exceptions and adjustments to the cost reporting periods occurring beginning in fiscal years 1996 through 2002.".

Sec. 7032. PAYMENTS FOR ROUTINE COST LIMITS.

(2) REDUCTIONS IN PAYMENTS FOR ITEMS AND SERVICES FURNISHED BY OR UNDER ARRANGEMENTS WITH FACILITIES.—Section 1861(v)(1) (42 U.S.C. 1395u(v)(1)), as amended by section 7032, as if salary equivalence guidelines were in effect under section 1888A(a)(1) furnished to an individual who is a resident of a skilled nursing facility and for which the claim for payment under this title is not submitted by the facility.

(4) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 1833(a)(2)(B), as added by section 7037, as if salary equivalence guidelines were in effect under section 1888A(a)(1) furnished to an individual who is a resident of a skilled nursing facility and for which the claim for payment under this title is not submitted by the facility.
in effect for occupational, physical, respiratory, and speech pathology therapy services furnished for the 1-month cost reporting period of the facility ending on or before September 30, 1994.

SEC. 7038. REPORT BY PROSPECTIVE PAYMENT ASSESSMENT COMMISSION.

Not later than October 1, 1997, the Prospective Payment Assessment Commission shall submit to Congress a report on the system under which payment is made under the medicare program for extended care services furnished by skilled nursing facilities, and shall include in the report the following:

(A) IN GENERAL.—In no case shall the amount of the State outlay allotment under paragraph (2) for a fiscal year be less than the greatest of—

(1) 102 percent of the amount of the State outlay allotment under this subsection for the preceding fiscal year;

(2) 24 percent of the pool amount for such fiscal year or, in the case of a State or District with an outlay allotment under this subsection for fiscal year 1998 that exceeds 103.9 percent of such State's or District's outlay allotment for fiscal year 1997, the applicable percentage, as determined under clause (ii), of the amount of the State outlay allotment under this subsection for the fiscal year involved;

(3) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—The applicable percentage determined under this clause is as follows:

(I) For fiscal years 1999, 104.25 percent.

(II) For fiscal years 2000 and 2001, 104 percent.

(B) Ceiling.

(i) In general.—In no case shall the amount of the State outlay allotment under paragraph (2) for a fiscal year be greater than the product of—

(1) the State outlay allotment under this subsection for the State or the District of Columbia for the preceding fiscal year; and

(2) the applicable percentage of the national medicaid growth percentage (as determined under subsection (b)(2)) for the fiscal year involved;

(ii) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of clause (i)(II), the applicable percentage of the national medicaid growth percentage is 103.9 percent.

(iii) For fiscal year 1997, 125.5 percent.

(iv) For fiscal year 1998, 132 percent.

(v) For fiscal year 1999, 151 percent.

(vi) For fiscal year 2000, 156 percent.

(VI) for fiscal year 2001, 144 percent. On page 833, line 21, after "section 2121" insert "plus any additional amount available to such State under subsection (g) or (h)."

On page 858, before line 19, insert the following:

(g) CARRYOVER AMOUNTS AVAILABLE FOR PAYMENT.—

(A) CARRYOVER OF ALLOTMENT PERMITS.

(i) IN GENERAL.—If the amount of the payment to a State under this section for any fiscal year exceeds the amount of the allotment otherwise provided under section 2121 for such fiscal year, plus

(ii) subject to subparagraph (B), the amount available to the State for such fiscal year (other than amounts available under paragraph (2) resulting from the application of this subparagraph in the preceding fiscal year), then the amount of the difference shall be added to the amount of the allotment otherwise provided under section 2121 for the succeeding fiscal year.

(2) MAXIMUM CARRYOVER AMOUNT.—With respect to each fiscal year, the maximum amount of the difference determined in subparagraph (A) which may be added to the allotment otherwise provided under section 2121 for a State may not exceed the amount for the 2 immediately preceding fiscal years of the difference in such fiscal year between the payment to a State under this section and the amount of the allotment otherwise provided under section 2121.

(3) EXCESS AMOUNTS REALLOCATED.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The sum of the amounts in excess of the amounts determined under paragraph (1)(B) for any fiscal year for all of the 50 States and the District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico for any fiscal year shall be allocated among the States and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico according to the following formula:

[(V) for fiscal year 2000, 156 percent: (IV) for fiscal year 1999, 151 percent: (III) for fiscal year 1998, 156 percent: (II) for fiscal year 1997, 144 percent.

(IV) for fiscal year 1999, 151 percent: (III) for fiscal year 1998, 156 percent: (II) for fiscal year 1997, 144 percent.

(V) for fiscal year 2000, 156 percent: (IV) for fiscal year 1999, 151 percent: (III) for fiscal year 1998, 156 percent: (II) for fiscal year 1997, 144 percent.

(VI) for fiscal year 2001, 144 percent.
the District of Columbia shall be available for payment in such fiscal year to qualified States as may apply to the Secretary to make such an allocation for such fiscal year.

(B) QUALIFIED STATE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), in the case of any fiscal year, a qualified State is a State—

(ii) with a State outlay allotment under section 2121 which is—

(I) subject to the ceiling determined under section 2121(b)(1)(B) for the fiscal year,

(II) not subject to such ceiling or to the floor determined under section 2121(c)(3)(A), or

(III) subject to such floor:

(i) which has no amount of difference as determined under paragraph (I) for any preceding fiscal year which may be added to the amount of the allotment provided under section 2121 for the fiscal year; and

(ii) which applies for payments under subparagraph (A) in such manner as the Secretary determines.

(C) ALLOCATION RULES.—For any fiscal year, in the event the total amount of payments available for any qualified States under subparagraph (B) exceeds the excess amount available for such fiscal year under subparagraph (A), the Secretary shall allocate among such group of qualified States in the following order:

(I) All qualified States described in subparagraph (B)(i)(I).

(II) All qualified States described in subparagraph (B)(i)(II).

(III) All qualified States described in subparagraph (B)(i)(III).

If such excess amount is not sufficient with respect to any group of qualified States, the Secretary shall allocate such payments proportionately among the qualified States in such group.

(B) ADDITIONAL AMOUNTS AVAILABLE FOR PAYMENT.—

(I) APPROPRIATION.—There is hereby authorized to be appropriated additional amounts described in paragraph (2) which shall be paid to the States described in such paragraph and may be used without fiscal year limitation.

(2) ADDITIONAL AMOUNTS DESCRIBED.—The additional amounts described in this paragraph are as follows:

(A) For Arizona. $63,000,000.

(B) For Florida. $250,000,000.

(C) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, subsection (B) shall be effective on and after January 1, 1996.

"SEC. 2317. REQUIREMENTS FOR NURSING FACILITIES.

(a) REQUIREMENTS FOR NURSING FACILITIES.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), the provisions of section 1919, as in effect on the day of the enactment of this title shall apply to nursing facilities which furnish services under the State plan.

(2) WAIVER FOR STATES WITH STRICTER REQUIREMENTS.—

(A) AUTHORITY TO SEEK WAIVER.—Any State with State law requirements for nursing facilities that, as determined by the Secretary—

(i) are equivalent to or stricter than the requirements imposed under paragraph (I); and

(ii) contain State oversight and enforcement authority over nursing facilities, including penalty provisions, that are equivalent to or stricter than such oversight and enforcement authority in section 1919, as so in effect, may apply to the Secretary for a waiver of the requirements imposed under paragraph (I).

(B) 120-DAY APPROVAL PERIOD.—The Secretary shall approve or deny an application submitted under paragraph (A) not later than 120 days after the date the application is submitted.

(C) APPROVAL AFTER PUBLIC COMMENT.—The Secretary shall approve or deny an application for a waiver under subparagraph (A) after providing for public comment on such application during the 120-day approval period.

(D) NO WAIVER OF ENFORCEMENT.—A State granted a waiver under subparagraph (A) shall be subject to—

(i) the penalty described in subsection (b) if the waiver granted under subparagraph (A) is not effective on and after January 1, 1996.

(ii) suspension or termination, as determined by the Secretary, of the waiver granted under subparagraph (A); and

(iii) any other authority available to the Secretary to enforce the requirements of section 1919, as so in effect.

(b) PENALTY FOR NONCOMPLIANCE.—For any fiscal year, the Secretary shall withhold up to but not more than 3 percent of the amount available for such fiscal year under section 2121(c) for such fiscal year if the Secretary makes a determination that a State Medicaid plan has failed to comply with any provision of section 1919, as so in effect, or any State law requirements applicable to such plan under a waiver granted under section 1902(a)(2)(A).

On page 880, between lines 2 and 3, insert the following new sections:

SEC. 7196. STATE REVIEW OF MENTALLY ILL OR RETARDED NURSING FACILITY RESIDENTS UPON CHANGE IN PHYSICAL OR MENTAL CONDITION.

(a) STATE REVIEW ON CHANGE IN RESIDENT'S CONDITION.—Section 1919(e)(7)(B)(ii) (42 U.S.C. 1396r(e)(7)(B)(ii)) is amended to read as follows:

"(ii) REVIEW REQUIRED UPON CHANGE IN RESIDENT'S CONDITION.—A review and determination under clause (i) or (ii) shall be conducted promptly after a nursing facility has notified the State mental health authority or State mental retardation or developmental disability authority, with respect to a mentally ill or mentally retarded resident that there has been a significant change in the resident's physical or mental condition.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(I) Section 1919(b)(3)(E) (42 U.S.C. 1396r(b)(3)(E)) is amended by adding at the end the following new sentence: "In addition, a nursing facility shall notify the State mental health authority or State mental retardation or developmental disability authority, with respect to a mentally ill or mentally retarded resident, that there has been a significant change in the resident's physical or mental condition, as applicable, promptly after a significant change in the physical or mental condition of a resident who is mentally ill or mentally retarded.""

"(II) The heading for section 1919(e)(7)(B) (42 U.S.C. 1396r(e)(7)(B)) is amended by striking "ANNUAL".

"(III) The heading for section 1919(e)(7)(D)(I) (42 U.S.C. 1396r(e)(7)(D)(I)) is amended by striking "ANNUAL".

SEC. 7197. NURSE AIDE TRAINING IN NURSING FACILITIES.—In the ENQUIRY SURVEY AND UNDER CERTAIN OTHER CONDITIONS.

(a) DESCRIPTION OF PROJECTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services (in this section referred to as the "Secretary") shall conduct demonstration projects under this section to determine the extent in which States may use funds from the medicare program under title XVIII of the Social Security Act and the medicare program under title XXI of such Act (in this section referred to as the "medicare and medicaid programs") for the purpose of providing a more cost-effective full continuum of care for delivering services to the needs of chronically-ill elderly and disabled beneficiaries who are eligible for items and services under such programs, through the development of integrated approaches to care, with an emphasis on case management, prevention, and interventions designed to avoid institutionalization whenever possible. The Secretary may use funds from the amounts appropriated for the medicare and medicaid programs to make the payments required under subsection (d)(1).

(2) OPTION TO PARTICIPATE.—A State, or a coalition of States, may not require an individual eligible to receive items and services under the medicare and medicaid programs to participate in a demonstration project under this section.

(b) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary shall make payments in accordance with subsection (d) to not more than 19 States, or coalitions of States, for the conduct of demonstration projects that provide for integrated systems of care in accordance with subsection (c).

(c) APPLICATIONS.—Each State, or a coalition of States, desiring to conduct a demonstration project under this section shall prepare and submit to the Secretary an application at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may require, including an explanation of a plan for evaluating the project. The Secretary shall approve or deny an application not later than 90 days after the receipt of such application.

(d) PAYMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year occurring during a demonstration project conducted under this section, the Secretary shall pay to each State or coalition of States an amount equal to the Federal capitated payment rate determined under paragraph (3) for each participating resident who is mentally ill or mentally retarded.

(2) FEDERAL CAPITATED PAYMENT RATE.—The Secretary shall determine the Federal capitated payment rate for purposes of this section as the greater of the per diem cost of providing care to chronically-ill elderly and disabled beneficiaries who are eligible for items and services under the medicare and medicaid programs and who have opted to participate in a demonstration project under this section.

(3) DESIGNATION OF ENTITY. — (A) IN GENERAL.—Each State, or coalition of States, designated to receive the payments described in paragraph (1) of this section shall pay to the entities designated under paragraph (3) the State percentage, as defined in section 1905(b) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396d(b)) (as such section is in effect on the date before the date of enactment of this Act), of any items and services provided to chronically ill, elderly and disabled beneficiaries who have opted to participate in a demonstration project under this section.

(4) STATE PAYMENTS. — Each State conducting, or in the case of a coalition of States participating in a demonstration project under this section shall pay to the entities designated under paragraph (3) the State percentage, as defined in section 1905(b) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396d(b)) (as such section is in effect on the date before the date of enactment of this Act), of any items and services provided to beneficiaries under such programs for such fiscal year for items and services provided to beneficiaries under such programs but for the election of such beneficiaries to participate in a demonstration project under this section.

(5) BUDGET NEUTRALITY. — The aggregate amount of Federal payments to entities designated by a State, or coalition of States, under this section for any fiscal year shall not exceed the aggregate amount of such payments that would otherwise have been made under Medicare and Medicaid programs for such fiscal year for items and services provided to beneficiaries under such programs but for the election of such beneficiaries to participate in a demonstration project under this section.

(6) DURATION. — (i) IN GENERAL. — The demonstration projects conducted under this section shall be conducted for a 5-year period, subject to annual review and approval by the Secretary.

(ii) TERMINATION. — The Secretary may, with 90 days' notice, terminate any demonstration project conducted under this section that is not in substantial compliance with the conditions specified and approved by the Secretary under this section.

(iii) OVERSIGHT. — The Secretary shall establish a system for evaluating and monitoring the demonstration projects conducted under this section.

(iv) REPORTS. — (A) Not later than 90 days after the close of each fiscal year of any demonstration project conducted under this section, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress a report containing the following:

(A) A description of the demonstration project.

(B) An analysis of the quality of the services delivered under the project.

(C) A description of the savings to the medical care budgets of the recipients as a result of the demonstration project.

On page 1394, after line 19, insert the following:

SEC. 7412. COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENTS DURING FISCAL YEAR 1996.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary may adjust any amount within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Finance of the United States Senate which is adjusted for any increase in the consumer price index for urban consumers and clerical workers (CPI-W) for the United States city average for all items. any such adjustment which takes effect during fiscal year 1996 shall be equal to 1.6 percent. ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

COMMERCIAL AVIATION FUEL TAX EXEMPTION

● Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, on January 31, 1995, I introduced my first bill as a U.S. Senator, S. 3004, the Commercial Aviation Fuel Tax Repeal Act. We are now on the verge of passing a budget which, if passed, in 28 years will balance the Federal budget and eliminate the Federal deficit. I am proud to note that S. 304 has been incorporated to a great extent into this budget. As a result, I wish to take this time to mention the thousands of workers and the many unions and business professionals who have provided consistent support for this crucial piece of legislation.

First, let me provide for the record a resolution as passed by the National Aerospace Workforce Coalition. Throughout the debate on the aviation fuel tax issue, I worked closely with the National Aerospace Workforce Coalition. This organization consists of local unions and workforce associations. The coalition represents some 42 different unions in 29 States. Many of my colleagues have received letters and phone calls from coalition members in their States. The coalition believes, as I do, that a commercial aviation fuel tax will be extremely harmful to America's manufacturing base.

The resolution which I have submitted goes to the heart of the relationship between a tax on jet fuel and commercial aircraft orders, namely, that every increase in taxes on commercial jet fuel will be followed by more cancellations and deferred orders of American made engines and aircraft.

The labor unions supporting the repeal of this fuel tax include the spectrum of America's aerospace industry and have been passed by unions representing scientists and engineers, production workers, as well as unions engaged in casting and fabricating the specialized metals used in the production of modern aircraft.

Further, I wish to note that the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, District Lodge 141 passed a similarly worded resolution on October 24, 1995. This union represents 34,000 members at 13 airlines, and their delegates unanimously passed this resolution at their annual convention.

The balanced budget which the Senate will pass shortly relieves the airline industry from any unfair tax, but only for a limited time. Currently, the House of Representatives has extended the aviation tax relief for 2 years and the Senate shall extend it for only 17 months. I am pleased that in these difficult budgetary times both Chambers have recognized not only the unfairness of this unprecedented tax, but also the social and economic disadvantage. As a result, I ask that the National Aerospace Workforce Coalition resolution be refiled earlier to be printed in the RECORD.

The resolution follows:

AVIATION FUEL TAX RESOLUTION

Whereas our country's airline industry has suffered enormous losses over the last five years, reducing airline employment by more than 120,000 workers and forcing remaining workers to accept reductions in wages and benefits;

Whereas several years ago government directives required the airline industry to pay excise taxes and fees in lieu of a fuel tax. which today collectively amounts to more than 527 million a year, at a cost of $5.6 billion in 1995. Imposing a fuel tax absent any broader effort at reassessing these other taxes would be both unprecedented and unfair;

Hence, for both fiscal and fairness reasons, an extension of the aviation fuel tax exemption is greatly needed. While we in the Senate have taken steps in the right direction by incorporating S. 304, in place of the current tax's budget act, we must continue to ensure that the airline industry is taxed fairly. This industry is one of our Nation's last great manufacturing gains, and its success in the thousands of workers and hundreds of thousands of families depend on the right to continue to uphold America's predominance in this critical industry;

I ask that the National Aerospace Workforce Coalition resolution be referred to an earlier printed in the RECORD.

The resolution follows:
Following is the text of H.R. 2491, as passed on October 28, 1995:

Resolved. That the bill from the House of Representatives (H.R. 2491) entitled "An Act to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 305 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 1996", do pass with the following amendment:

Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

SECTION I. SHORT TITLE.

'(B) ALLOCATION.—The Secretary shall allocate the amounts reserved under subparagraph (A) using a formula (as determined by the Secretary) that gives consideration to the population in each State selected by section 6(d).

'(C) REALLOCATION.—On notification under clause (B), the Secretary shall reallocate the funds that the State agency will not expend as the Secretary considers appropriate and equitable.

'(D) MINIMUM ALLOCATION.—Notwithstanding subparagraphs (A) through (C), the Secretary shall ensure that each State agency operating an employment and training program shall receive not less than 500,000 for each fiscal year.

SEC. 1412. INCOME CALCULATION. Section 6(f) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015(f)) is amended by striking the third sentence and inserting the following: "The Secretary shall consider the indicated income for all income, and the financial resources of the individual rendered ineligible to participate in the food stamp program under this subsection, or the income of a member thereof, for the financial resources of the ineligible individual, to determine the eligibility and the value of the allotment of the household of which the individual is a member.'

SEC. 1413. COMPARABLE TREATMENT FOR DISQUALIFICATION. (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015(d)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(1) IN GENERAL.—At the option of a State agency, except as provided in paragraph (2), no individual shall be eligible to participate in the food stamp program as a member of any household during any month that the individual is delinquent in a payment due under a court order for the support of a child of the individual.

'(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply if—

'(A) a court is allowing the individual to delay payment or

'(B) the individual is complying with a payment plan approved by a court or the State agency designated under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.) to provide support for the child of the individual.

SEC. 1414. COOPERATION WITH CHILD SUPPORT AGENCIES. Section 6 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015(d)) is amended by striking the third sentence and inserting the following:

"(1) IN GENERAL.—At the option of a State agency subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), no natural or adoptive parent or other individual (collectively referred to in this subsection as 'the individual') who is living with and exercising parental control over a child under the age of 18 who has an absent parent shall be eligible to participate in the food stamp program unless the individual cooperates with the State agency administering the program established under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.) in establishing the paternity of the child (if the child is born out of wedlock); and

'(B) in obtaining support for—

'(i) the child; and

'(ii) the individual and the child.

'(2) GOOD CAUSE FOR NONCOOPERATION.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to the individual who is living with and exercising parental control over a child under the age of 18 who has an absent parent unless the individual is delinquent in a payment due under a court order for the support of a child of the individual.

'(3) FEES.—Paragraph (1) shall not require the payment of a fee or other cost for services provided under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.).

SEC. 1415. DISQUALIFICATION FOR CHILD SUPPORT ARREARS. Section 6 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015) (as amended by section 1414) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

'(A) IN GENERAL.—If a court determines that the State agency will not expend any household if the individual is delinquent in any payment due under a court order for the support of a child of the individual.

'(B) EXCEPTIONS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply if—

'(i) the individual is complying with a payment plan approved by a court or the State agency designated under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.) to provide support for the child of the individual.

SEC. 1416. PERMANENT DISQUALIFICATION FOR PARTICIPATING IN 2 OR MORE STATES. Section 6 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015) (as amended by section 1415) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

'(B) (D) 2 OR MORE STATES.—An individual shall be permanently ineligible to participate in the food stamp program of any household if the individual is found by a State agency to have made, or is convicted in Federal or State court of having made, a fraudulent application or representation with respect to the place of residence of the individual in order to receive benefits simultaneously from 2 or more States.

SEC. 1417. WORK REQUIREMENT. (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

'(B) WAIVER.—On the request of a State agency, the Secretary may waive the applicability of paragraph (2) to any group of individuals in the State if the Secretary makes a determination that the area in which the individuals reside—

'(A) has an unemployment rate of over 8 percent; or

'(B) does not have a sufficient number of jobs to provide employment for the individuals.

(b) TRANSITION PROVISIONS. Notwithstanding section 1417, the term "preceding 12-month period" in section 6(m) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015) means the preceding period that begins on October 1, 1995.

Section 8 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2017) is amended by striking subsection (d) and inserting the following:

"(A) ALLOCATION OF BENEFITS.—If the benefits of a household are reduced under a Federal, State, or local law regulating welfare or public assistance, or other law requiring the failure to perform an action required under the law or program, for the duration of the reduction:

(1) the household may not receive an increased allotment as a result of the decrease in the income of the household to the extent that the decrease is the result of the reduction; and

(2) the State agency may reduce the allotment of the household by not more than 25 percent.

SEC. 1423. ALLOTMENTS FOR HOUSEHOLDS RESIDING IN INSTITUTIONS.
Section 8 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2017) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(A) ALLOTMENTS FOR HOUSEHOLDS RESIDING IN INSTITUTIONS.—In the case of an individual who resides in a hospital, institution, or any institution or center for the purpose of a drug or alcohol treatment program, described in the last sentence of section 8(I), a State agency may provide an allotment for the individual to—

(1) the institution as an authorized representative for the individual for a period that is not to exceed the period provided under subparagraph (A) of section 1416,

(2) the individual, if the individual leaves the institution;

SEC. 1424. COLLECTION OF OVERISSUANCES.
(A) IN GENERAL.—Section 13 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2022) is amended—

(1) by striking subsection (b) and inserting the following:

"(B) COLLECTION OF OVERISSUANCES.—

(1) In General.—Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the State agency shall collect any overissuance of coupons issued to a household by—

(A) reducing the allotment of the household;

(B) withholding unemployment compensation from a member of the household under subsection (2);

(C) recovering from Federal pay or a Federal income tax refund under subsection (d); or

(D) any other means.

(2) COST EFFECTIVENESS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply if the State agency determines that the satisfaction of the Secretary that all of the means referred to in paragraph (1) are not cost effective.

(3) HARDSHIPS.—A State agency may not use an allotment reduction under paragraph (1) if the reduction would cause a hardship on the household, as determined by the State agency.

(4) MAXIMUM LENGTH OF ABSENCE FROM FAMILY.—If a household received an overissuance of coupons without any member of the household being found ineligible to participate in the program, the State agency may reduce the allotment of the household under paragraph (1) if, after 180 days, the individual fails to elect to reduce the allotment of the household under the food stamp program under paragraph (1) by the greater of—

(A) 10 percent of the monthly allotment of the household; or

(B) $10.

(5) PROCEDURES.—A State agency shall collect an overissuance of coupons issued to a household under paragraph (1) in accordance with requirements established by the State agency for providing notice, electing a means of payment, and establishing a time schedule for payment.

(6) In Subsection (d)—

(A) by striking "as determined under subsection (b)" and all that follows thereof as follows:

"(B) REQUIREMENT.—A State shall be eligible to carry out a private sector employment initiative under this subsection only if less than 90 percent of the households that received food stamp benefits during the summer of 1993 and received benefits under a States program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) during the summer of 1993.

(2) PROCEDURE.—A State that has elected to carry out a private sector employment initiative under paragraph (1) may use amounts equal to the food stamp allotments that would otherwise be allotted to a household under the food stamp program; but for the operation of this subsection, to provide the benefits described in paragraph (1);

If the supplemental benefits are agreed to by the individual enrolled in the sponsor's plan under this part, the additional premium amount shall be the same for all enrolled individuals in the Medicare payment area. Such benefits may be marketed and sold by the Medicare choice plan sponsor outside of the enrollment process described in section 1895d(b).

"(C) COST-SHARING.—

"(1) ENROLLEE COST-SHARING UNDER CHOICE PLAN MAY NOT EXCEED MEDICARE ENROLLEE COST.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), in no event shall the amount of covered deductible, coinsurance, and copayments charged an individual under a Medicare choice plan with respect to basic benefits described in subsection (a), be greater than the amount of the total amount of deductibles, coinsurance, and copayments charged an individual under the traditional Medicare program for a year.

"(2) HIGH DEDUCTIBLE PLANS.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to a high deductible plan described in section 1895a(b)(1)(B)(iii). (B) DETERMINATION ON OTHER BASIS.—If the Secretary determines that adequate data are not available to determine the average amount charged in any year exceed the average total amount of deductibles, coinsurance, and copayments charged an individual under the traditional Medicare program for a year.

"(D) NATIONAL COVERAGE DETERMINATION.—If there is a national coverage determination made by the Secretary for the provision of a service or benefit under section 1885(m) and ending on the date of the next announcement under such section and the Secretary determines that such determination will result in a significant change in the costs to the Medicare choice plan of providing the benefits that are the subject of such national coverage determination and that such change in costs was incorporated in the determination of the Medicare payment amount included in the announcement made at the beginning of such period—

"(i) such determination shall not apply to contracts under this part until the first contract year that begins after the end of such period, and

"(ii) if such coverage determination provides for coverage for additional benefits or coverage under additional circumstances, section 18951(b)(2) shall not apply to payment for such additional benefits or benefits provided under such additional circumstances until the first contract year that begins after the end of such period, unless otherwise required by law.

"(E) OVERLAPPING PERIODS OF COVERAGE.—A contract under this part shall provide that in the case of an individual who is receiving inpatient hospital services under section 1886(a) for the period beginning on the date of the individual's discharge (as defined in section 1886(g)(1)(B)) as of the effective date of the individual's—

"(1) enrollment with a Medicare choice plan under this part—

"(2) payment for such services during the individual's discharge shall not be made under section 1886(d), and

"(C) the plan sponsor shall not receive any payments with respect to the individual under this part during the period the individual is not enrolled.

"ORGANIZATION AS SECONDARY PAYER.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a Medicare choice plan sponsor may (in the case of the provision of services to an individual under this part) be treated as an insurer or other entity which under such law, plan, or policy is required to pay for the provision of such services, or (ii) such individual to the extent that the individual has been paid under such law, plan, or policy for such services.

"SEC. 1895I. LICENSING AND FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS.—

"(A) LICENSING REQUIREMENT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL. — A Medicare choice plan sponsor shall be organized and licensed under State law as an eligible entity which is capable of offering health insurance or health benefits coverage in each State in which the Medicare choice plan enrolls individuals under this part.

"(2) EXCEPTION FOR UNION, TAFT-HARTLEY, OR ASSOCIATION PLANS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to a union or an association plan described in section 1895A(b)(1) if such plan is exempt from such requirements under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

"(B) LICENSING REQUIREMENTS.—Paragraph (1) shall apply to a coordinated care plan except to the extent provided in section 1895p.

"(B) ASSUMPTION OF FULL FINANCIAL RISK. — A Medicare choice plan sponsor shall either be a Medicare or a long-term care provider which is capable of offering health care services for which beneficiary costs are required under section 1895g(a)(1), except that such plan sponsor may—

"(A) obtain insurance or make other arrangements for the cost of such health care services as to the aggregate value which exceeds $5,000 in any year,

"(B) obtain insurance or make other arrangements for the cost of such health care services provided to its enrolled members other than through the plan sponsor because medical necessity required their provision before they could be secured through the plan sponsor,

"(C) obtain insurance or make other arrangements for not more than 90 percent of the amount by which its costs for any of its fiscal years exceed 115 percent of its income for such fiscal year, and

"(D) make arrangements with physicians or other health professionals, health care institutions, or any combination of such individuals or institutions to pay the full amount otherwise payable to the plan sponsor under this part.

"(C) PROTECTION AGAINST RISK OF INSOLVENCY.—(1) IN GENERAL. — A Medicare choice plan sponsor shall make adequate provision against the risk of insolvency (including provision to prevent enrollees from being held liable to any person or entity for the plan sponsor's debts in the event of the plan sponsor's insolvency)—

"(A)" as determined by the Secretary, or

"(B)" as determined by a State which the Secreator chooses to establish or alter practice parameters.

(2) FACTORS TO CONSIDER.—In establishing establish or altering practice parameters, the Secretary shall consult with interested parties and shall take into account—

"(A)" a coordinated care plan sponsor's delivery system assets and its ability to provide services directly to enrollees through affiliated providers, and

"(B)" alternative means of protecting against insolvency, including reinsurance, unrestricted surplus, letters of credit, guarantees, organizational insurance coverage, and partnerships with other licensed entities.

The Secretary is not required to include alternative means described in subparagraph (B) in the regulations, unless he considers such alternative means consistent with the standards.

(3) PAYMENTS TO THE PLAN.—(I) If an individual who is a medicare choice plan sponsor is compensated (except for deductibles, coinsurance, and copayments) for the provision of health care services to individuals enrolled under this part by a payment by the Secretary (and if applicable, the individual) which is paid on a periodic basis without regard to the extent, or kind of health care service actually provided to a member.

(II) A Medicare choice plan sponsor shall meet the requirements of subsection (d) and (e) of section 1860K if an individual is enrolled under this part with a medicare choice plan, only the plan sponsor shall be enti-ted to receive payments from the Secretary under this title for services furnished to the individual.

SEC. 1635J. HEALTH PLAN STANDARDS.

(A) IN GENERAL.—Each medicare choice plan sponsor shall meet the requirements of this section.

(1) QUALITY ASSURANCE AND ACCREDITA-

TION—Quality assurance program established by a State which the Secretary consults with interested parties and shall take into account—

"(i) provide for the establishment of written protocols for utilization review, based on current standards of medical practice.

"(ii) provide for the establishment of written protocols for utilization review, based on current standards of medical practice.

"(iii) require that the health care service be provided at a site that is acceptable to the individual.

"(iv) take action to improve quality and assess the effectiveness of such action through peer review, and

"(v) make available information on quality and outcomes measures to facilitate beneficiary comparison and choice of health care coverage options, and on such quality and outcomes measures as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, and

"(v) provide that the program is evaluated on an ongoing basis as to its effectiveness.

"(C) CONSUMER PROTECTIONS—(i) NONDISCRIMINATION.—Each medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide assurances to the Secretary of the plan's agreement not to discriminate against an enrollee based on a beneficiary's race, gender, or religion, disability, or national origin.

(ii) Timely and Adequate Coverage.—Each medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide assurances to the Secretary that the plan will make the plan sponsor a party to a hearing a hearing before the Secretary to the same extent as is provided in section 205(b), and in any such hearing the Secretary shall make the plan sponsor a party. If the amount in controversy is $1,000 or more, the individual or plan sponsor shall, upon notifying the other party, be enti-ted to judicial review of the Secretary's final decision as provided in section 205(g), and both the individual and the plan sponsor shall be enti-ted to be parties to that judicial review. In appealing the Secretary's decision, the individual or plan sponsor shall provide an expedited review procedure under subparagraph (B) where a failure to receive any health care service or payment for such service would result in a significant harm.

(iii) Supplemental Coverage if Plan Terminates the Contract.—Each medicare choice plan sponsor that provides items and services pursuant to a contract under this part shall provide supplemental coverage to the Secretary in the event the contract is terminated. Where a medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide supplemental coverage of benefits under this title related to a pre-existing condition with respect to any exclusion period, to all individuals enrolled with the en-ity who receive benefits under this title, for the lesser of 6 months or the duration of such period.

(ii) Prompt Payment.—(I) In General.—Each medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide assurances to the Secretary that the plan will meet the requirements of paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 1842(c) of claims submitted for services furnished to individuals enrolled under this part. If the Secretary determines that the plan is not meeting the requirements of paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 1842(c) of such claims, the plan shall provide the Secretary with a written plan for the timely payment of such claims.

(ii) Supplemental Coverage if Plan Terminates the Contract.—Each medicare choice plan sponsor that provides items and services pursuant to a contract under this part shall provide supplemental coverage to the Secretary in the event the contract is terminated. Where a medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide supplemental coverage of benefits under this title related to a pre-existing condition with respect to any exclusion period, to all individuals enrolled with the en-ity who receive benefits under this title, for the lesser of 6 months or the duration of such period.

(i) DISCRIMINATION.—Each medicare choice plan sponsor shall provide assurances to the Secretary that the plan will not refuse to renew a beneficiary except in the case of fraud or nonpayment of premium amounts due the plan.
and services (other than emergency services) that a treating physician or other emergency department personnel identify, pursuant to a screening evaluation required under section 1877(a), as being needed promptly by an individual enrolled with the organization under this part.

(2) DEEMED APPROVAL.—A medicare choice plan sponsor is deemed to have approved a request for such promptly needed items and services if the physician or other emergency department personnel involved—

(A) has made a reasonable effort to contact such a person for authorization to provide an appropriate reference to such items and services, or to provide the items and services to the individual and access to the person has not been provided (as required in paragraph (1)), or

(B) has received from the person and the person has not denied the authorization within 30 minutes after the time the request is made.

(3) EFFECT OF APPROVAL.—Approval of a request for a prior authorization determination (including a deemed approval under paragraph (2)) shall constitute approval of a request for any items and services that are required to treat the medical condition identified pursuant to the required screening evaluation.

SEC. 1895N. DETERMINATION OF MEDICARE PAYMENT AMOUNTS FOR PURPOSES OF THIS PART. —

In this subsection, the term 'emergency services' means—

(1) all items and services furnished in the emergency department of a hospital (including a trauma center), and

(2) ancillary services routinely available to such department.

to the extent they are required to evaluate and treat an emergency medical condition (as defined in paragraph (3)) until the condition is stabilized.

(2) EMERGENCY MEDICAL CONDITION.—In paragraph (4), the term 'emergency medical condition' means a medical condition, the onset of which is sudden and unanticipated, that manifests itself by symptoms of sufficient severity, including severe pain, that a prudent layperson who possesses an average knowledge of health and medicine, could reasonably expect the absence of immediate medical attention to result in—

(A) placing the person's health in serious jeopardy,

(B) serious impairment to bodily functions, or

(C) serious dysfunction of any bodily organ or part.

Subpart 4—Determination of Medicare Payment Amounts and Rebates

SEC. 1895M. MEDICARE PAYMENT AMOUNTS.

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than July 1 of each calendar year (beginning with 1996), the Secretary shall determine, and announce in a manner intended to provide notice to interested parties, a standardized medicare payment amount determined in accordance with this section for the following calendar year for each medicare payment area.

(2) ESTABLISHMENT OF STANDARDIZED MEDICARE PAYMENT AMOUNTS.—For purposes of this part—

(1) 1997.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The standardized medicare payment amount for calendar year 1997 for a medicare payment area shall be equal to the sum of—

(i) 50 percent of the modified per capita rate for calendar year 1996, and

(ii) 50 percent of the adjusted average national per capita rate for calendar year 1996 increased by the percentage increase in the gross domestic product per capita for the 12-month period ending on June 30, 1996.

(B) MODIFIED PER CAPITA RATE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(i), the modified per capita rate for calendar year 1996 for a medicare payment area shall be equal to the per capita rate which would have been determined (without regard to class) under section 1876(a)(1)(C) for 1995 if—

(i) the applicable geographic area were the medicare payment area, and

(ii) 50 percent of any payments attributable to sections 1861, 1861(l), 1886, 1886(n), and 1886(c)(1)(C) attributable to the inpatient hospital and ancillary services, increased by the percentage increase in the Secretary estimates will occur in medicare expenditures per capita for 1996 over medicare expenditures per capita for 1995.

(C) ADJUSTED AVERAGE NATIONAL PER CAPITA RATE.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(ii), the adjusted average national per capita rate for a medicare payment area for calendar year 1996 shall be equal to the sum, for all types of medicare services (as classified by the Secretary), of the product for each such type of—

(I) the average national per capita rate for 1996,

(II) the proportion of such rate for the year which is attributable to such type of services,

and

(III) an index that reflects for 1996 and that type of service the relative input price of such services in the medicare payment area as compared to the national average input price of such services in the medicare payment area.

In applying subclause (III), the Secretary shall apply those indices that are used in applying (or updating) medicare payment rates for specific areas.

(ii) AVERAGE NATIONAL PER CAPITA RATE.—

For purposes of clause (i), the average national per capita rate for 1996 is the weighted average of the modified per capita rates determined under subparagraph (B) for all medicare payment areas for 1996.

(2) SUBSEQUENT YEARS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The standardized medicare payment amount for any calendar year after 1997 in a medicare payment area shall be an amount equal to the standardized medicare payment amount determined for such area for the preceding year, increased by the percentage increase in the gross domestic product per capita for the 12-month period ending on June 30 of the preceding calendar year.

(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR 1998.—In applying subparagraph (A), the standardized medicare payment amount for the following calendar year shall be the amount which would have been determined if clause (iii) of paragraph (1)(B) had been modified by substituting '100 per cent' for '50 percent'.

(C) SPECIAL RULE FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH END-STAGE RENAL DISEASE.—In computing the standardized medicare payment amount for any medicare payment area, there shall not be taken into account any individuals with end-stage renal disease or any medicare expenditures for such individuals.

(3) ADJUSTMENTS FOR PAYMENTS TO PLAN SPONSORS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The rate of payment under section 18850 to a medicare choice plan sponsor with respect to any individual enrolled in a medicare choice plan of the sponsor shall be equal to the standardized medicare payment amount for the medicare payment area, adjusted for such risk factors as age, disability status, gender, institutional status, health status, and such other factors as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, so as to ensure actuarial equivalence. The Secretary may add to, modify, or substitute for such factors as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, so as to ensure actuarial equivalence. The Secretary may add to, modify, or substitute for such factors as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, so as to ensure actuarial equivalence.

(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR END-STAGE RENAL DISEASE.—The Secretary shall establish a separate rate of payment under section 18850 to a medicare choice plan sponsor with respect to any individual with end-stage renal disease enrolled in a medicare choice plan of the sponsor. Such rate of payment shall be actuarially equivalent to rates paid to other enrollees in the medicare payment area for such other area as specified by the Secretary.

(4) GEOGRAPHICAL ADJUSTMENTS.—

(1) ANNUAL ADJUSTMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Unless Congress provides otherwise, beginning with 1999, the Secretary shall, based on the analysis under paragraph (2) and the extent the Secretary determines necessary, make annual differential adjustments to the standardized medicare payment amounts determined under subsec- tion (b)(2) for calendar years 2000 and 2001 in a manner designed to achieve appropriate and equitable variation in standardized medicare payment amounts across medicare payment areas by calendar year 2002. Such variation shall be reasonably related to measurable geographic differences in medicare payment areas.

(B) BUDGET NEUTRALITY.—The Secretary shall adjust the standardized medicare payment amount for a medicare payment area by a dollar amount in a manner that ensures that total payments under this section for a year are not greater than or less than total payments under such section would have been for fiscal year 1999 but for application of the adjustments under this part.

(2) ANALYSIS.—The Secretary, in consulta- tion with interested parties, shall conduct an analysis of the measurable input cost differences among medicare payment areas, including wage differentials, and other measurable variables identified by the Secretary. The Secretary shall also determine the extent to which medicare beneficiaries, including beneficiaries in rural and underserved areas, have access to more health plan choices by calendar year 2000 under the proposed changes to the standardized medicare payment amounts that have limited or enhanced such choices.

(REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Not later than March 1, 1999, the Secretary shall submit a report to the appropriate committees of Congress that includes the results of the analysis described in paragraph (2) and the annual differential adjustments to the standardized medicare payment amounts that the Secretary intends to implement under paragraph (1) for calendar years 2000 and 2001.

(2) EXPLANATION.—In each announcement made under subsection (a) for a year (beginning with the announcement for 1998), the Secretary shall provide for notice to medicare choice plans of proposed changes to the methodology for determining benefit coverage assumptions from the methodology and assumptions used in the previous announcement and shall provide such plans an opportunity to comment on such proposed changes.

(3) NOTICE IN CHANGES TO BENEFIT ASSUMPTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—At least 45 days before making the announcement under subsection (a) (beginning with the announcement for 1998), the Secretary shall provide for notice to medicare choice plans of proposed changes to the methodology and assumptions used in the announcement in sufficient detail so that independent medicare choice plans can compute medicare payment rates under subsection (d) (for classes of individuals located in each medicare payment area) area in which the announcement was made under subsection (a) for a year (beginning with the announcement for 1998), the Secretary shall provide for notice to medicare choice plans of proposed changes to the methodology and assumptions used in the previous announcement and shall provide such plans an opportunity to comment on such proposed changes.

(4) DEMONSTRATION PROJECT ON MARKET- BASED REMUNERATION AND COST STANDARDIZ- ING.—The Secretary shall establish 1 or more demonstration projects to determine the standardized medicare payment amounts described in subsection (b) that would be appropriate for medicare choice plans in a medicare payment area. Not later than December 31, 2001, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress on the process of standardizing medicare payment amounts that are reflective of market price.

(5) SEC. 1895N. PREMIUMS AND REBATES. —

S. 16207

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

October 30, 1995
"Subpart S—Contractual Authority: Temporary Certification: Regulations"

SEC. 1895P. GENERAL PERMISSION TO CONTRACT.

(1) In GENERAL.—Each Medicare choice plan sponsor shall file with the Secretary each year, in a form and manner and at a time specified by the Secretary, a temporary certification of the maximum amount for coverage under each Medicare choice plan it offers under this part in each Medicare payment area in which the plan is being offered.

(2) RETROACTIVE ADJUSTMENTS.—The premiums charged by a Medicare choice plan sponsor under this part may not vary among individuals who reside in the same Medicare payment area.

(3) THE AMOUNTS AS INCENTIVES.—Each Medicare choice plan sponsor shall permit the payment of monthly premiums on a prorated basis.

(4) A...
(35) INTERMEDIATE SANCTIONS.—In the case of a medical care plan sponsor for whom the Secretary makes a determination under section (b)(1) of the basis of which is not described in subparagraph (A) thereof, the Secretary may apply the following intermediate sanctions:

(A) Civil money penalties of not more than $25,000 for each determination under section (b)(1)(I) of the basis of which is the basis for the determination has directly adversely affected (or has the substantial likelihood of adversely affecting) an individual covered under the plan’s care plan and its sponsor as meeting the requirements of the standards and the review processes that take into account the fact that coordinated care plan sponsors provide services directly to enrollees through affiliated providers.

(B) Civil money penalties of not more than $10,000 for each week after the initiation of procedures by the Secretary under section (b)(2) during which the deficiency that is the basis for a determination under subsection (b)(1)(I) exists.

(C) Suspension of enrollment of individuals under this section after the date the Secretary notifies the plan sponsor of a determination under paragraph (I) and until the Secretary is satisfied that the basis for such determination has been corrected and is not likely to recur.

(4) PROCEEDINGS.—The provisions of sections 1128A (other than subsections (a) and (b)) and (2)(A) or (3)(A) in the same manner as they apply to civil money penalties or proceeding under section 1128A(a).

SEC. 1895R. TEMPORARY CERTIFICATION PROCESS FOR COORDINATED CARE PLANS.

(a) FEDERAL ACTION ON CERTIFICATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—If—

(A) a State fails to substantially complete an action on a licensing application of a coordinated care plan sponsor within 90 days of receipt of the completed application, or

(B) a State denies a licensing application and the Secretary determines that the State’s licensing standards or review process create an unreasonable barrier to market entry, the Secretary shall evaluate such application pursuant to the procedures established under subsection (b).

(2) UNREASONABLE BARRIERS TO MARKET ENTRANCE.—If the Secretary finds that an unreasonable barrier to market entry under paragraph (1)

(A) they are applied consistently to all coordinated care medicare choice plan applications,

(b) they are not directly in conflict, or inconsistent with, the Federal standards.

(a) FEDERAL CERTIFICATION PROCEDURES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall establish a process for the certification of a coordinated care plan and its sponsor as meeting the requirements of this part in cases described in subsection (a).

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—Such process shall—

(A) set forth the standards for certification,

(b) provide that final action will be taken on an application for certification within 120 business days of receipt of the completed application.

(c) provide that State law and regulations shall apply to the extent they have not been found to conflict with or to be inconsistent with the requirements of this part, to the extent they apply to plans sponsored by the Secretary, and to the extent they apply to plans certified by the Secretary.

(d) require any person receiving a certificate to provide the Secretary with all reasonable information in support of such certification.

(3) EFFECT OF CERTIFICATIONS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A certificate under this section shall remain in effect for more than 36 months and may not be renewed.

(B) COORDINATION WITH STATE.—A person receiving a certificate under this section shall continue to seek State licensure under subsection (a) during the period the certificate is in effect.

(C) SUNSET.—No certificate shall be issued under this section after December 31, 2000, and no certificate under this section shall remain in effect after December 31, 2001.

(5) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this subsection apply only with respect to contracts effective on and after January 1, 1997.
percentage increase which the Secretary estimates will occur in Medicare expenditures per capita for 1995 over Medicare expenditures per capita for 1994.

(c) PUBLICATION.—The Secretary shall publish the rates determined under subsection (a) no later than April 1 of the year after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Subchapter B—Tax Provisions Relating to Medicare Choice Plans

SEC. 1379F. MEDICARE CHOICE ACCOUNTS

(a) IN GENERAL.—Part III of subchapter B of chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to amounts specifically excluded from gross income) is amended by redesignating section 1372 as 1372A, and by inserting after section 1372 the following new section:

"SEC. 1372. MEDICARE CHOICE ACCOUNTS.

"(a) EXCLUSION.—(1) In general.—Gross income shall not include any payment to the Medicare choice account of an individual by the Secretary of Health and Human Services under section 1855(b)(2) of the Social Security Act.

"(2) No constructive receipt.—No amount shall be included in the gross income of an individual solely because the individual may choose between—

"(A) the payment described in paragraph (1) or a rebate under section 1855(b)(2) of the Social Security Act, or

"(B) the payment of the individual's premium for supplemental benefits described in section 1857(a) of such act as such rebate.

"(b) Definitions.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) MEDICARE CHOICE ACCOUNT.—The term "Medicare choice account" means a trust created in section 816. or another person who demonstrates the trust to be consistent with the requirements of this section.

"(2) ACCOUNT ASSETS TREATED AS DISTRIBUTED.—Subparagraph (A) shall apply to any account assets which are distributed out of a Medicare choice account to an account beneficiary which is used exclusively to pay qualified medical expenses shall not be includible in gross income. Any amount paid or distributed out of a Medicare choice account to an account beneficiary which is used exclusively to pay qualified medical expenses shall be included in the gross income of the account beneficiary.

"(3) PENALTY FOR DISTRIBUTIONS NOT USED FOR QUALIFIED MEDICAL EXPENSES.—(A) In general.—If a Medicare choice account is used in violation of paragraph (2) for any taxable year, the tax imposed by this chapter on such account shall cease to be a Medicare choice account as of the date of death, and any amount equal to the fair market value of a deceased individual's Medicare choice account on such date shall be includible—

"(i) if such person is not the estate of such beneficiary, in that person's gross income for the taxable year which includes such date, or

"(ii) if such person is the estate of such beneficiary, in such beneficiary's gross income for the taxable year which includes such date.

"(B) TREATMENT IF DESIGNATED BENEFICIARY IS NOT SPOUSE.—In the case of an account beneficiary's interest in a Medicare choice account which is payable to (or for the benefit of) any person other than such beneficiary's spouse upon such person's death the following rules shall apply—

"(i) such account shall cease to be a Medicare choice account as of the date of death, and

"(ii) any amount equal to the fair market value of such account as of the close of each calendar year, and

"(B) contributions, distributions, and other transfers of the account as of the date of death shall be includible.

"(c) TAX ON PROHIBITED TRANSACTIONS.—(1) REPORTS.—The reports required by this Act shall be furnished to the account beneficiary with respect to—

"(A) the fair market value of the assets in such account as of the close of each calendar year, and

"(B) contributions, distributions, and other transfers of such account as of the date of death shall be includible.

"(2) TIME AND MANNER OF REPORTS.—The reports required by this subsection—

"(A) shall be filed at such time and in such manner as the Secretary prescribes in such regulations, and

"(B) shall be furnished to the account beneficiary as required by this section.

"(d) TREATMENT OF ACCOUNT AFTER DEATH OF ACCOUNT BENEFICIARY.—(1) General.—When an account beneficiary dies, the following rules shall apply—

"(A) such account shall cease to exist as a Medicare choice account.

"(B) contributions, distributions, and other transfers of such account as of the date of death shall be includible.

"(2) Termination.—The Medicare choice account shall cease to exist as a Medicare choice account—

"(A) when an account beneficiary dies, or

"(B) when such account has ceased to be a Medicare choice account as of the date of death of any individual who is the account beneficiary.

"(3) Penalties.—When an account beneficiary dies, the account beneficiary's right to receive any distributions from such account shall cease.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this subsection shall apply after December 31, 1995.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this subsection shall apply after December 31, 1995.
(A) Physical or occupational therapy or speech-language pathology services, or respiratory therapy.

(B) Prescription drugs.

(C) Complex medical equipment.

(D) Intravenous therapy and solutions (including parenteral and enteral nutrition, supplies, and equipment).

(E) Radiation therapy.

(2) Diagnostic services, including laboratory, radiology, including computerized tomography services and imaging services, and pulmonary services.

(3) SNF market basket percentage increase. The term "SNF market basket percentage increase" for a fiscal year means a percentage change in the price change in routine service cost indexes for the year.

(3) Stay.—The term "stay" means, with respect to an individual who is a resident of a skilled nursing facility, the number of days during which the facility provides extended care services for which payment may be made under this title for the individual during the period for which payment was made under part D during the period after 1997.

(4) New payment method for covered non-routine services beginning in fiscal year 1998.—

(a) In general.—The payment method established under this section shall apply with respect to covered non-routine services furnished during a cost reporting period (or portions of cost reporting periods) beginning on or after October 1, 1995, and thereafter.

(b) Interim payments.—Subject to subsection (c), a skilled nursing facility shall receive interim payments under this title for covered non-routine services furnished to an individual during a cost reporting period (or portions of cost reporting periods) beginning on or after October 1, 1995, and thereafter.

(c) Responsibility of skilled nursing facility to manage billings.—

(A) Clarification relating to part A billing.—A skilled nursing facility receiving non-routine services furnished by an individual to whom the service is furnished is a resident of a skilled nursing facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise.

(B) Part B billing.—In the case of a covered non-routine service furnished to an individual under this title for which payment was made under part A during a fiscal year (beginning with fiscal year 1996) without regard to whether or not the services were furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise.

(c) No payment in excess of product of fiscal year 1996 per stay amount for facility per stay amount for intensive need residents.—

(A) In general.—The payment method established under this section shall apply with respect to covered non-routine services furnished by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise.

(B) New payment method for covered non-routine services beginning in fiscal year 1998.—

(a) In general.—The payment method established under this section shall apply with respect to covered non-routine services furnished during a cost reporting period (or portions of cost reporting periods) beginning on or after October 1, 1995, and thereafter.

(b) Interim payments.—Subject to subsection (c), a skilled nursing facility shall receive interim payments under this title for covered non-routine services furnished to an individual during a cost reporting period (or portions of cost reporting periods) beginning on or after October 1, 1995, and thereafter.

(c) Responsibility of skilled nursing facility to manage billings.—

(A) Clarification relating to part A billing.—A skilled nursing facility receiving non-routine services furnished by an individual to whom the service is furnished is a resident of a skilled nursing facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise.

(B) Part B billing.—In the case of a covered non-routine service furnished to an individual under this title for which payment was made under part A during a fiscal year (beginning with fiscal year 1996) without regard to whether or not the services were furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise.

(d) Part B amount for fiscal year 1998 and subsequent fiscal years.—The per stay amount for a skilled nursing facility for the 12-month cost reporting period beginning during fiscal year 1997 is the facility-specific stay amount for the facility (as described in subsection (b)) increased by the greater of—

(i) the product of—

(A) the per stay amount applicable to the facility under subsection (d) (for the period), and

(B) the number of stays beginning during the period for which payment was made to the facility for such services.

(ii) the prospective reduction in payments.

In addition to the process for reducing payments described in clause (i), the Secretary may reduce payments made to a facility under this section during a cost reporting period if the Secretary determines (on the basis of such estimated information as the Secretary considers appropriate) that payments to the facility under this paragraph for a cost reporting period would substantially exceed the cost reporting period amount determined under this paragraph for the facility.

(2) Determination of facility-stay amount.—The Secretary shall adjust payments made under part B during the period for covered non-routine services furnished to an individual under arrangement with the facility provided extended care services for which payment was made under part A during the period (without regard to whether or not the services were furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise), as estimated by the Secretary, divided by—

(a) the average number of days per stay for all residents of the skilled nursing facility.

(b) Per stay amount for intensive need residents.—The Secretary shall adjust payments under subsection (b) in a manner that ensures that total payments for covered non-routine services under this section are not greater than or less than total payments for such services would have been but for the application of paragraph (1).

(g) Exemptions and adjustments to amounts under this section.—

(A) The Secretary may make exceptions and adjustments to the cost reporting period amounts applicable to a skilled nursing facility for a cost reporting period, except that the total amount of any additional payments made under this section for covered non-routine services during the cost reporting period as a result of such exceptions and adjustments may not exceed 5 percent of the aggregate payments made to all skilled nursing facilities for covered non-routine services during the cost reporting period (determined without regard to this paragraph).

(B) Budget neutrality.—The Secretary shall adjust payments under subsection (b) in a manner that ensures that total payments for covered non-routine services under this section are not greater or less than total payments for such services would have been but for the application of paragraph (1).

(Volume skilled nursing facilities.—The Secretary shall adjust payments under subsection (b) in a manner that ensures that total payments for covered non-routine services under this section are not greater or less than total payments for such services would have been but for the application of paragraph (1).

SEC. 7036. MAINTAINING SAVINGS RESULTING FROM FISCAL YEAR 1993.—

(a) IN GENERAL.—The prospective payment system established under section 1889 of the Social Security Act as added by section 7032, as if salary equivalence guidelines were in effect for occupational, physical, respiratory, and speech pathology services for the last 12-month cost reporting period of the facility ending on or before September 30, 1994.

(b) REPORT BY PROSPECTIVE PAYMENT ASSESSMENT COMMISSION.

Not later than October 1, 1997, the Prospective Payment Assessment Commission shall transmit to Congress a report on the system under which payment is made under the Medicare program for extended care services furnished by skilled nursing facilities, and shall include in the report the following:

(1) An analysis of the effect of the methodology established under section 1889 of the Social Security Act (as added by section 7032) on the payments for, and the quality of, extended care services under the Medicare program.

(2) An analysis of the advisability of determining the amount of payment for covered non-routine services of facilities (as described in this section) on the basis of the amounts paid for such services when furnished by suppliers under part B of the Medicare program.

(3) An analysis of the desirability of maintaining a separate routine cost limits for hospital-based and freestanding facilities in the costs of extended care services recognized as reasonable under the Medicare program.

(4) An analysis of the quality of services furnished by skilled nursing facilities.

(5) An analysis of the adequacy of the process and standards used to provide exceptions to the limits described in paragraph (3).

(6) An analysis of the effect of the prospective payment methodology established under section 1889 of the Social Security Act (as added by section 7032) on the quality of, and cost of, extended care services furnished by skilled nursing facilities.

SEC. 7039. EFFECTIVE DATE.

Except as otherwise provided in this part, the amendments made by this part shall apply to services furnished during cost reporting periods (or portions of cost reporting periods) beginning on or after October 1, 1996.

"(C) COMMISSION REVIEW.—The Physician Payment Review Commission shall review the report submitted under subparagraph (A) in each year and shall submit to the Congress, by not later than May 15 of the year, a report including its recommendations respecting the update in the conversion factor for the following year.

(2) UPDATE.—Section 1848(d)(3) (42 U.S.C. 1395w-4(d)(3)) is amended to read as follows:

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Unless Congress otherwise provides, subject to subparagraph (E), for purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C), for fiscal year ending with June 30, 1995, the Secretary shall determine the update to the conversion factor for 1996 as follows:

"(i) 1 plus the Secretary's estimate of the percentage increase in the medicare economic index (described in the fourth sentence of section 1842(b)(3)) for the year (divided by 100), minus 1 and multiplied by 100; or

"(ii) less than 93 percent of 1 plus the Secretary's estimate of the percentage increase in the medicare economic index (described in the fourth sentence of section 1842(b)(3)) for the year (divided by 100), minus 1 and multiplied by 100; or

"(3) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this subsection shall apply to physicians' services furnished on or after January 1, 1997.

"(B) REPLACEMENT OF VOLUME PERFORMANCE STANDARD WITH SUSTAINABLE GROWTH RATE.—Section 1848(d)(4) (42 U.S.C. 1395w-4(d)(4)) is amended and read as follows:

"(1) SUSTAINABLE GROWTH RATE.—

"(i) PROCESS FOR ESTABLISHING SUSTAINABLE GROWTH RATE OF INCREASE.—

"(A) SECRETARY'S RECOMMENDATION.—By not later than April 15 of each year (beginning with 1996), the Secretary shall transmit to the Congress a recommendation on the sustainable growth rate for the fiscal year beginning in such year. In making the recommendation, the Secretary shall confer with organizations representing physicians and shall consider—

"(1) inflation;

"(ii) changes in numbers of enrollees (other than private plan enrollees) under this part, in the age composition of enrollees (other than private plan enrollees) under this part,

"(iii) changes in technology,

"(iv) evidence of inappropriate utilization of services,

"(v) evidence of lack of access to necessary physicians' services, and

"(vi) such other factors as the Secretary considers appropriate.

"(B) COMMISSION REVIEW.—The Physician Payment Review Commission shall review the recommendation transmitted during a year under subparagraph (A) and shall make its recommendation to Congress, by not later than May 15 of the year, respecting the sustainable growth rate for the fiscal year beginning in that year.

"(C) PUBLICATION OF SUSTAINABLE GROWTH RATE.—The Secretary shall have to the sustainable growth rate published in the Federal Register, in the last 15 days of October of each year (beginning with 1996), plus 2 percent points, and

"(D) RESTRICTION ON ACTUAL EXPENDITURES.—The term 'physicians' services' includes other items and services (such as clinical diagnostic laboratory tests and radiology services), performed by or on behalf of physicians, that are commonly specified by the Secretary, that are commonly performed or furnished by a physician or in a physician's office, but does not include services furnished to a private plan enrollee.

"(E) PRIVATE PLAN ENROLLEE.—The term 'private plan enrollee' means, with respect to a fiscal year, an individual enrolled under this part who has elected to receive benefits under this title for the fiscal year through a Medicare choice plan offered under part D or through enrollment with an eligible organization with a risk-sharing contract under section 1877.

"(3) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection:

"(A) SERVICES EXCLUDED FROM PHARMACISTS' SERVICES.—The term 'pharmacist's services' includes other items and services (such as clinical diagnostic laboratory tests and radiology services), performed by, or under the supervision of, a pharmacist, that are commonly performed or furnished by a pharmacist or in a pharmacist's office, but does not include services furnished to a private plan enrollee.

"(B) PRIVATE PLAN ENROLLEE.—The term 'private plan enrollee' means, with respect to a fiscal year, an individual enrolled under this part who has elected to receive benefits under this title for the fiscal year through a Medicare choice plan offered under part D or through enrollment with an eligible organization with a risk-sharing contract under section 1877.

"(4) ESTABLISHMENT OF SINGLE CONVERSION FACTOR FOR 1996.—

CHAPTER 6—HEALTH CARE FRAUD AND ABUSE PREVENTION

SEC. 7108. SHORT TITLE.

This chapter may be cited as the "Health Care Fraud and Abuse Prevention Act of 1996".

Subchapter A—Fraud and Abuse Control Programs

SEC. 7109. FRAUD AND ABUSE CONTROL PROGRAM

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—Title XI (42 U.S.C. 1395 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 1128B the following new section:

"FRAUD AND ABUSE CONTROL PROGRAM—

SEC. 1128C. (a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than January 1, 1996, the Secretary, acting through the Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services, and the Attorney General shall establish a program—

(A) to coordinate Federal, State, and local law enforcement programs to control fraud and abuse in the delivery of and payment for health care in the United States;

(B) to conduct investigations, audits, evaluations, and inspections relating to the delivery of and payment for health care in the United States,

(C) to facilitate the enforcement of the provisions of sections 1128, 1128A, and 1128B and other statutes applicable to health care fraud and abuse, and

(D) to provide for the modification and establishment of the barbs and to issue interpretative rulings and special fraud alerts pursuant to section 1128D.

(b) COORDINATION WITH HEALTH PLANS.—In carrying out the program established under paragraph (1), the Secretary and the Attorney General shall consult with, and arrange for the sharing of data with representatives of health plans.

(c) GUIDELINES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary and the Attorney General shall issue guidelines to carry out the program pursuant to paragraph (1). The provisions of sections 553, 556, and 557 of title 5, United States Code, shall not apply in the issuance of such guidelines.

(B) INFORMATION GUIDELINES.—

(U) IN GENERAL.—Such guidelines shall include guidelines relating to the furnishing of information by health plans, providers, and others to enable the Secretary and the Attorney General to carry out the program (including coordination with health plans pursuant to paragraph (2)).

(ii) CONFIDENTIALITY.—Such guidelines shall include procedures to assure that such information is furnished and utilized in a manner that appropriately protects the confidentiality of the information and the privacy of individuals receiving health care items and services.

(iii) QUALIFIED IMMUNITY FOR PROVIDING INFORMATION.—The provisions of section 1151(c) relating to limitation on liability shall apply to a provider furnishing information to the Secretary or the Attorney General in conjunction with their performance of duties under this section.

(4) ENSURING ACCESS TO DOCUMENTATION.—The Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services is authorized to require such reports as may be necessary to carry out the program established pursuant to this Act.

(5) AUTHORITY OF INSPECTOR GENERAL.—Nothing in this Act or in any other Act (including the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.)) shall be construed to diminish the authority of any Inspector General, including such authority as provided in the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.).

(b) ADDITIONAL USE OF FUNDS BY INSPECTOR GENERAL.—

(1) REIMBURSEMENTS FOR INVESTIGATIONS.—The Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services is authorized to receive and retain for current use reimbursement for the costs of conducting investigations and inspections relating to health care fraud and abuse control programs established under this Act.

(2) CREDITING.—Funds received by the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services shall be credited to the account established by title XI of the Social Security Act, and shall be used for the costs of conducting investigations and inspections, as provided in paragraph (1) and other expenses incurred in the performance of duties under this section.

(c) HEALTH PLAN DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term 'health plan' means a plan or program that provides health benefits, whether directly, through insurance, or otherwise, and includes—

(i) a policy of health insurance;

(ii) a contract of a service benefit organization; and

(iii) a membership agreement with a health maintenance organization or other prepaid health plan.

(d) ESTABLISHMENT OF HEALTH CARE FRAUD AND ABUSE CONTROL ACCOUNT IN FEDERAL HOSPITAL INSURANCE TRUST FUND.—Section 1817 (42 U.S.C. 1395w-3) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(k) HEALTH CARE FRAUD AND ABUSE CONTROL ACCOUNT.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is hereby established in the Trust Fund an expenditure account to be referred to as the 'Account'.

(2) APPROPRIATED AMOUNTS TO ACCOUNT.—

(B) The name (if known) of any health care entity with which a health care provider, supplier, or practitioner is affiliated or associated.
(C) The final adverse action and whether such action is on appeal.
(D) A description of the acts or omissions and injuries upon which the final adverse action was based, and such other information as the Secretary determines by regulation is required for appropriate interpretation of information reported under this section.

(3) CONFIDENTIALITY.—In determining what information is required, the Secretary shall include procedures to assure that the privacy of individuals receiving health care services is appropriately protected.

(4) TIMING AND FORM OF REPORTING.—The information required to be reported under this subsection shall be reported regularly (but not less often than monthly) and in such form and manner as the Secretary prescribes.

(5) TO WHOM REPORTED.—The information required to be reported under this section shall be reported to the Secretary.

(c) DISCLOSURE AND CORRECTION OF INFORMATION.

(1) DISCLOSURE.—With respect to the information about final adverse actions (not including settlements in which no findings of liability have been made) reported to the Secretary under this section, any health care provider, supplier, or practitioner shall, by regulation, provide for—
(A) disclosure of the information, upon request, to the health care provider, supplier, or licensed practitioner, and procedures in the case of disputed accuracy of the information.

(2) CORRECTIONS.—Each Government agency and health plan shall report corrections of incorrect or inaccurate information required to be reported under this section.

(d) ACCESS TO REPORTED INFORMATION.

(1) AVAILABILITY.—The information in this database shall be made available to Federal government agencies and health plans pursuant to procedures that the Secretary shall provide by regulation.

(2) FEES FOR DISCLOSURE.—The Secretary may establish or approve reasonable fees for the disclosure of information in this database (other than with respect to requests by Federal agencies). The amount of such a fee shall be sufficient to recover the full costs of operating the database, and any such final adverse action taken against a health care provider, supplier, or practitioner, in such form and manner as the Secretary prescribes by regulation.

(e) PROTECTION FROM LIABILITY FOR REPORTING.—No person or entity, including the agency designated by the Secretary in subsection (b), shall be held liable in any civil acc tion with respect to any report made as required by this section, without knowledge of the falsity of the information contained in the report.

(f) U.S. GOVERNMENT SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this section:

(i) FINAL ADVERSE ACTION.—The term "final adverse action" includes:
(A) Civil judgements against a health care provider, supplier, or practitioner in Federal, State, or local courts related to the delivery of a health care item or service.
(B) In a case involving a violation of Federal, State, or local law, regulations, rules, or standards that is the subject of a final adverse action, the term includes the penalty imposed under such law, regulation, rule, or standard, and whether such action is on appeal.
(C) A finding by a Government agency or health plan that such a provider, supplier, or practitioner failed to comply with Federal, State, or local law, regulations, rules, or standards that is the subject of a final adverse action, and whether such action is on appeal.

(ii) Health Care Provider, Supplier, or Practitioner.—The terms "health care provider," "health care supplier," and "health care practitioner" mean, with respect to a State or local government agency, the Secretary or Administrator of the Department of Health and Human Services, or any other individual authorized by the Secretary to provide health care services (or any individual who, without authority holds himself or herself out to be so licensed or an otherwise qualified practitioner).

(3) DISSEMINATION PROCESS.—The process used by the State under subsection (b) and otherwise to disseminate, before entering into a contract with a capitated health care organization, actuarial information to such organizations on the historical fee-for-service costs (or, if not available, other recent financial data associated with providing covered services) and utilization associated with individuals described in paragraph (1)(A).

(4) IDENTIFICATION OF ENROLLEES IN CAPITATED HEALTH CARE ORGANIZATIONS.—The method used by the State by which hospitals may identify enrollees in capitated health care organizations for the purposes of providing or billing for disproportionate share payments under the medicaid plan approved under this title as described in section 2111(b)(7).

(5) USE OF ACTUARIAL SCIENCE.—The extent and manner in which the State uses actuarial science—(A) to analyze and project health care expenditures and utilization for individuals enrolled in the capitated health care organization under the medicaid plan and (B) to develop capitation payment rates, including a brief description of the general methodology used by the State.

(6) QUALIFICATIONS OF ORGANIZATIONS.—The general qualifications, including any accreditation, State licensure or certification, or provider network standards, required by the State for participation of capitated health care organizations under the medicaid plan.

(7) DISSEMINATION PROCESS.—The process used by the State under subsection (b) and otherwise to disseminate, before entering into a contract with a capitated health care organization, actuarial information to such organizations on the historical fee-for-service costs (or, if not available, other recent financial data associated with providing covered services) and utilization associated with individuals described in paragraph (1)(A).

(8) IDENTIFICATION OF ENROLLEES IN CAPITATED HEALTH CARE ORGANIZATIONS.—The method used by the State by which hospitals may identify enrollees in capitated health care organizations for the purposes of providing or billing for disproportionate share payments under the medicaid plan approved under this title as described in section 2111(b)(7).

(9) USE OF ACTUARIAL SCIENCE.—The extent and manner in which the State uses actuarial science—(A) to analyze and project health care expenditures and utilization for individuals enrolled in the capitated health care organization under the medicaid plan and (B) to develop capitation payment rates, including a brief description of the general methodology used by the State.

(10) QUALIFICATIONS OF ORGANIZATIONS.—The general qualifications, including any accreditation, State licensure or certification, or provider network standards, required by the State for participation of capitated health care organizations under the medicaid plan.

(11) DISSEMINATION PROCESS.—The process used by the State under subsection (b) and otherwise to disseminate, before entering into a contract with a capitated health care organization, actuarial information to such organizations on the historical fee-for-service costs (or, if not available, other recent financial data associated with providing covered services) and utilization associated with individuals described in paragraph (1)(A).

(12) IDENTIFICATION OF ENROLLEES IN CAPITATED HEALTH CARE ORGANIZATIONS.—The method used by the State by which hospitals may identify enrollees in capitated health care organizations for the purposes of providing or billing for disproportionate share payments under the medicaid plan approved under this title as described in section 2111(b)(7).
Section 2115. Construction.

(a) State flexibility in benefits, provider payments, geographical coverage and other provisions in this title (other than subsections (c) and (d) of section 2111) shall be construed as requiring nothing to preclude:—

(1) to provide medical assistance for any particular items or services:

(2) to provide for any payments with respect to any specific health care providers or any level of payments for any services;

(3) to provide for the same medical assistance in all geographical areas or political subdivisions of the State.

(b) The term "institutionalized spouse" means—

(1) an institutionalized spouse (as defined in subparagraph (C) of subsection (1) of section 1902 of the Social Security Act) after the beginning of the first continuous period of institutionalization (beginning on or after September 30, 1989) of the institutionalized spouse; and

(2) any other provision of this title which is superseded to the extent that the amount of such resources exceeds the amount computed under subsection (f)(1) or (g)(1).

(c) The State determines that denial of eligibility would work an undue hardship.

Section 2116. Special treatment for institutionalized spouses.

(a) Special treatment for institutionalized spouses.—

(A) the total value of the resources to the extent that the amount of such resources exceeds the amount computed under subsection (f)(1) or (g)(1).

(B) Any other provision of this title which is superseded to the extent that the amount of such resources exceeds the amount computed under subsection (f)(1) or (g)(1).

(C) The State determines that denial of eligibility would work an undue hardship.

Section 1902. Construction.

(1) PERSONAL NEEDS ALLOWANCE.—
   (A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘personal needs allowance’ means any allowance that:
   (i) is for the benefit of an individual;
   (ii) is determined under the rules of the State;
   (iii) is subject to adjustment under subsections (c), (d), and (g); and
   (iv) for purposes of paragraph (A)(i) of subparagraph (B), the term ‘institutionalized spouse’ means a spouse who is institutionalized under subparagraph (A) and is entitled to a fair hearing with respect to such determination.

(2) COMMUNITY SPOUSE MONTHLY INCOME ALLOWANCE DEFINED.—
   (A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, except as provided in subparagraph (B), the community spouse monthly income allowance for a community spouse is an amount by which:
   (i) the applicable percent (described in subparagraph (B)) of the minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance (established under and in accordance with paragraph (4)) for the spouse exceeds
   (ii) the amount of monthly income otherwise available to the community spouse (determined without regard to such an allowance).

(3) ESTABLISHMENT OF MINIMUM MONTHLY MAINTENANCE NEEDS ALLOWANCE.—
   (A) IN GENERAL.—Each State shall establish a minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance for each community spouse which subject to subparagraph (C), is equal to or greater than:
   (i) the applicable percent (described in subparagraph (B)) of 1/3 of the poverty line applicable to a family unit consisting of 2 members;
   (ii) an excess shelter allowance (as defined in paragraph (5)), and
   (iii) the computation of the spousal share of monthly income otherwise available to the community spouse (determined without regard to such an allowance).

(4) CAP ON MINIMUM MONTHLY MAINTENANCE NEEDS ALLOWANCE.—
   (A) IN GENERAL.—The minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance established under subparagraph (A) may not exceed $1,500 (subject to adjustment under subsections (c) and (d)).

(5) CARRYOVER OF ALLOTMENT FOR THE NEXT FISCAL YEAR.—
   (A) IN GENERAL.—If the amount specified in clause (i)(II) of subsection (a) is less than the amount of any allotment under this section to the State for the preceding fiscal year, the amount so underprovided shall be held within 30 days of the date of the request for the hearing.

(6) FAIR HEARING.—
   (A) IN GENERAL.—If either the institutionalized spouse or the community spouse is dissatisfied with a determination of:
      (i) the community spouse’s personal needs allowance;
      (ii) the amount of income otherwise available to the community spouse (as applied under subsection (d)(1));
      (iii) the computation of the spousal share of resources under subsection (c)(1);
      (iv) the determination of resources under subsection (c)(2); or
      (v) the determination of the community spouse’s personal needs allowance as determined under subsection (d)(1), such spouse is entitled to a fair hearing with respect to such determination.

(7) LIMITATION ON OBLIGATIONS.—
   (A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), the Secretary shall not enter into obligations, with any State under this section, for a fiscal year in excess of the obligation amount for that State for the fiscal year under paragraph (5) of such obligation amounts for all States in any fiscal year (excluding amounts carried over under subparagraph (B) and excluding changes in allotments effected under this section) which are in excess of the ob- ligation amount for that State for the fiscal year under such paragraph (5) of such obligation amounts for all States in any fiscal year.

(8) LIMITATION ON AMOUNTS.—For services furnished during a calendar year after 1986, the dollar amounts specified in subsections (d)(3)(C), (d)(2)(A)(i), and (d)(2)(A)(ii) shall be increased by the same percentage as the percentage increase in the consumer price index for all urban consumers (all items: U.S. city average) between September 1988 and the September before the calendar year.

(9) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section:
   (A) INSTITUTIONALIZED SPOUSE.—The term ‘institutionalized spouse’ means an individual who is in a medical institution or nursing facility and is married to a spouse who is not in a medical institution or nursing facility.

(10) PAYMENTS TO STATES.—
   (A) ALLOTMENTS.—
      (i) IN GENERAL.—An institutionalized spouse may transfer an amount equal to the community spouse resource allowance (as determined under paragraph (1)) to the community spouse.

(11) IN GENERAL.—An institutionalized spouse may transfer an amount equal to the community spouse resource allowance (as determined under paragraph (1)) to the community spouse, but only to the extent the resources of the institutionalized spouse are transferred to, or for the sole benefit of, the community spouse. The transfer under the preceding sentence shall be made within 10 days of the date of the initial determination of eligibility, taking into account such time as may be necessary to obtain a court order under paragraph (11).
(ii) REDUCTION FOR POST-ENACTMENT OBLIGATIONS UNDER TITLE XIX IN FISCAL YEAR 1996.—The amount of the obligation allotment attributable to obligations provided under this section for fiscal year 1996 for a State shall be reduced by the amount of the obligations entered into with respect to the State under section 1903(a) after the date of the enactment of this title.

(iii) AGGREGATE LIMIT ON NEW OBLIGATION AUTHORITY BY TERRITORIES.—For purposes of this subsection, the aggregate limit on new obligation authority for a fiscal year is the pool amount under subsection (b) reduced by the amount of such adjustments.

(iv) PRE-ENACTMENT-OBLIGATION OUTLAWS DEFINED.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'pre-enactment obligation outlays' means, for a State, the outlays for Fiscal Year 1996 for the obligations that result from obligations that have been incurred under title XIX with respect to the State before the date of the enactment of this title, but for which payments to States have not been made as of such date of enactment.

(v) DISTRIBUTION OF MEDICAID GROWTH FUND AMOUNTS.—Any State that has elected an alternative growth formula under subsection (c)(4) which increases or decreases the dollar amount of an outlay allotment for a fiscal year is deemed to have increased or decreased, respectively, its obligation amount for such fiscal year by the amount of such increase or decrease.

(vi) POOL OF AVAILABLE FUNDS.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section and subject to subsection (b), the pool amount under this subsection for the fiscal year is the product of—

(A) fiscal year 1996 is $24,624 billion.

(B) OBLIGATION ALLOCATIONS.—

(I) GENERAL RULE FOR 50 STATES AND THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.—Except as provided in this paragraph, the obligation allocation for any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia for a fiscal year (beginning with fiscal year 1997) is an amount that bears the same ratio to the outlay allotment under subsection (c)(2) for such State or District (not taking into account any adjustment due to an election under paragraph (a)) for the fiscal year as the ratio of—

(i) the aggregate limit on new obligation authority (less the total of the obligation allocations under subparagraph (B)) for the fiscal year to

(ii) the pool amount for such fiscal year: reduced by

(iii) the obligation amount for the preceding fiscal year.

(C) TRANSITIONAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEAR 1996.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—The obligation amount for fiscal year 1996 for any State, including the District of Columbia, a Commonwealth, or territory, is determined according to the formula: A = B - C - D.

(ii) A is the obligation amount for such State.

(iii) B is the outlay allotment of such State for fiscal year 1996 (as determined under subsection (c)).

(iv) C is the amount of the pre-enactment-obligation outlays (as established for such State under clause (ii)); and

(v) D is the payout adjustment factor for such fiscal year (as defined in paragraph (b)).

(vi) PRE-ENACTMENT-OBLIGATION OUTLAWS AMOUNTS.—Within 30 days after the date of the enactment of this title, the Secretary of the Treasury shall publish in the Federal Register the amount of the pre-enactment-obligation outlays (as defined in clause (iii) of this section for the District of Columbia, Commonwealths, and territories. The total of such amounts shall equal the dollar amount of the pre-enactment-obligation outlays under paragraph (C)(ii).

(vii) AGREEMENT.—The submission of a medicaid plan by a State under this title is deemed to constitute the State's acceptance of the obligation allocation limitations under this subsection, including the formula for computing the amount of such obligation allocation.

(viii) COMPUTATION OF STATE OBLIGATION ALLOWANCES.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the succeeding provisions of this section, the amount of the State obligation allotment under this subsection for each of the 50 States and the District of Columbia for a fiscal year (beginning with fiscal year 1997) is equal to

(i) the needs-based amount determined under subparagraph (B) for such State or District for that fiscal year;

(ii) the scalar factor described in subparagraph (C) for the fiscal year.

(iiid) NEEDS-BASED AMOUNT.—The needs-based amount under this subparagraph for a fiscal year is equal to the product of

(I) the State's or District's aggregate expenditures need for the fiscal year (as determined under subsection (d)); and

(ii) the State's or District's Federal medical assistance percentage (as determined under section 1916(c) (without regard to paragraph (3)(A)(i)(I) thereof)) for the previous fiscal year (or, in the case of fiscal year 1997, the Federal medical assistance percentage determined under section 1905(b) for fiscal year 1998).

(iii) SCALAR FACTOR.—(1) For fiscal year 1999, the scalar factor shall be computed using the formula: F = S / R.

(2) In each case the scalar factor shall be equal to 1 for any fiscal year.

(iv) FLOOR AND CEILINGS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In no case shall the amount of the State obligation allotment under paragraph (2) for a fiscal year be less than the greatest of—

(i) 82 percent of the amount of the State obligation allotment under this subsection for the preceding fiscal year;

(ii) 76 percent of the amount of such fiscal year; or

(iii) 103 percent of the dollar amount of Federal expenditures made to such State or District under title XIX for the 4 quarters in fiscal year 1995.

(B) COMPUTATION OF EXPENDITURES.—The amount of Federal expenditures made to such State or District under title XIX for the 4 quarters in fiscal year 1995, multiplied by the scalar factor described in subparagraph (D).

(v) COMPARATIVE PERCENTAGE.—(1) For fiscal year 1999, 104.25 percent.

(2) For fiscal years 2000 and 2001, 104 percent.

(3) For fiscal year 2002, 104.4 percent.

(4) CEILING.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In no case shall the amount of the State obligation allotment under paragraph (2) for a fiscal year be greater than the product of—

(i) the State obligation allotment under this subsection for such State or District (as determined under clause (ii)); and

(ii) the applicable percentage of the national medicaid growth percentage (as determined under section 1916(c)) for the fiscal year involved.

(iv) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of clauses (i) and (ii), the applicable percentage is

(i) for fiscal year 1997, 125.5 percent;

(ii) for fiscal year 1998, 130.3 percent;

(iii) for fiscal year 1999, 135 percent;

(iv) for fiscal year 2000, 135 percent; and

(v) for fiscal year 2001, 144 percent.
(‘V’ for fiscal year 2002, 148 percent.

(‘W’ for fiscal year 2001, 146 percent.

(‘X’ for fiscal year 2000, 145 percent.

(‘Y’ for fiscal year 1999, 144 percent.

(‘Z’ for fiscal year 1998, 143 percent.

(A) ELECTION.—In order to reduce variations in increases or decreases in outlay allotments over time, any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia or the Commonwealth or territory may notify the Secretary by not later than April 1, 1996, to adopt an alternative growth rate formula under this paragraph for the determination of such State or the District of Columbia’s outlay allotment in fiscal year 1996 and for the increase or decrease in the amount of such allotment in subsequent fiscal years. In the case of the District of Columbia, the determination of such State shall be determined under paragraph (i).

(B) FORMULA.—The alternative growth formula under this paragraph may be any formula under which—

(i) a portion of the State outlay allotment for fiscal year 1996 under paragraph (I) is deferred and applied to increase the amount of its outlay allotment for one or more subsequent fiscal years, so long as the total amount of such increases for all such subsequent fiscal years does not exceed the amount of the outlay allotment determined for fiscal year 1996, or

(ii) a portion of the State outlay allotment for one or more of the 3 fiscal years immediately following fiscal year 1996 under paragraph (I) is applied to defray the amount of its outlay allotment for fiscal year 1996, so long as the total amount of such increase does not exceed 25 percent of the amount of the outlay allotment for fiscal year 1996 otherwise determined under paragraph (I).

(2) COMMONWEALThS AND TERRITORIES.—The outlay allotment for each of the Commonwealths and territories for a fiscal year is the maximum amount that could have been certified under section 1108(c) with respect to the Commonwealth with the fiscal year, the national medicaid growth percentage (as determined under subsection (B)) for the fiscal year (1996), and the national medicaid growth percentage (as determined under subparagraph (B)) for the fiscal year (1997) for the percentage increase referred to in section 1108(c)(1)(B).

(3) SPECIAL RULE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding the preceding paragraphs of this subsection, the State outlay allotment for—

(i) New Hampshire for each of the fiscal years 1996 through 2000, is $380,000,000; and

(ii) the fiscal year 1996 through 2000, is $2,622 billion.

(B) EXCEPTION.—A State described in subparagraph (A) may apply to the Secretary for use of the national medicaid growth percentage determined under this subsection for any fiscal year, if such State notifies the Secretary not later than March 1 of the fiscal year that such State will be able to exceed sufficient State funds in such fiscal year to qualify for such allotment.

(C) AGGREGATE EXPENDITURE NEED DETERMINED—

(I) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of subsection (c), the aggregate expenditure need for a State or the District of Columbia for a fiscal year is equal to the product of the following 4 factors:

[A] the average annual number of recipients in poverty of such State or the District of Columbia with respect to the fiscal year (as determined under paragraph (2));

[B] the national average spending per recipient for the fiscal year involved.

[C] the national average expenditure per recipient for a fiscal year is equal to—

(i) the sum of—

(A) the per recipient expenditures with respect to elderly individuals in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under subparagraph (B));

(B) the per recipient expenditures with respect to blind and disabled individuals in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under subparagraph (C));

(C) the per recipient expenditures with respect to other individuals in such State or District (determined under subparagraph (D));

and

(ii) 0.85 multiplied by the ratio of (I) the annual average wages for hospital employees in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under paragraph (3)) to (II) the annual average wages for hospital employees in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the fiscal year referred to in clause (i).

[D] the per recipient expenditures with respect to other individuals in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under subparagraph (D)) divided by—

(i) the national average spending per recipient determined under subparagraph (E) for the fiscal year involved;

(ii) the national average per recipient expenditures under this title in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for a fiscal year is equal to the product of—

(A) the national average per recipient expenditures under this title in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the most recent fiscal year for which data are available for individuals who have attained retirement age;

(B) the proportion, of all individuals who received medical assistance under this title in such State or District in the most recent fiscal year referred to in clause (i), that were individuals described in such clause;

(C) the national average expenditures per recipient and the proportions referred to in subparagraphs (B) and (C) respectively, of subparagraph (A) for fiscal year 1995.

(E) the per recipient expenditures for the elderly, for purposes of subparagraph (B), the per recipient expenditures with respect to elderly individuals in such State or the District of Columbia for a fiscal year is equal to the product of—

(i) the national average per recipient expenditures under this title in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the most recent fiscal year for which data are available for individuals who have attained retirement age;

(ii) the proportion, of all individuals who received medical assistance under this title in such State or District in the most recent fiscal year referred to in clause (i), that were individuals described in such clause;

and

(iii) 0.85 multiplied by the ratio of (I) the annual average wages for hospital employees in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under paragraph (3)) to (II) the national average annual wages for hospital employees in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the fiscal year involved.

(F) DETERMINATION OF NATIONAL AVERAGES AND PROPORTIONS.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—The national averages per recipient and the proportions referred to in clauses (i) and (ii), respectively, of subparagraphs (B), (C), and (D) and subparagraph (E) shall be determined by the Secretary using the most recent data available.

(II) USE OF MEDICARE DATA.—If for a fiscal year involved there is inadequate data to compute such averages and proportions based on expenditures and numbers of individuals receiving medical assistance under this title, the Secretary may compute such averages based on expenditures and numbers of individuals under title XIX for the most recent fiscal year for which data are available, and, for this purpose, any reference in this section to ‘individuals whose basis for eligibility for medical assistance is based on having attained retirement age’ shall be deemed to include individuals described in such clause.

(II) the reference in subparagraph (C)(i) to ‘individuals whose basis for eligibility for medical assistance is based on having attained retirement age’ shall be deemed to include individuals described in such clause.

(III) the national average per recipient expenditures for the elderly, for purposes of subparagraph (B), the per recipient expenditures with respect to elderly individuals in such State or the District of Columbia for a fiscal year is equal to the product of—

(i) the national average per recipient expenditures under this title in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the most recent fiscal year for which data are available for individuals who have attained retirement age;

(ii) the proportion, of all individuals who received medical assistance under this title in such State or District in the most recent fiscal year referred to in clause (i), that were individuals described in such clause;

and

(iii) 0.85 multiplied by the ratio of (I) the annual average wages for hospital employees in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under paragraph (3)) to (II) the national average annual wages for hospital employees in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the fiscal year involved.

(III) EXPENDITURE DEFINED.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘expenditure’ means medical assistance payments made under the medicare plan, other than medical assistance attributable to disproportionate share payments, as well as any payments made under any other program.

(IV) INCOME LIMITS.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘income limits’ means income limits determined under subsection (a).

(V) MEDICARE DETERMINATIONS.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘medicare plan’ means the medicare plan of the Secretary determined under this section.

(W) NATIONAL AVERAGE SPENDING PER RESIDENT IN POVERTY.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, the national average spending per resident in poverty means the ratio of—

(i) the national average expenditures per recipient for a fiscal year is equal to—

(ii) the product of (I) the national average spending per resident in poverty (as determined under subparagraph (B)) for the fiscal year (determined under paragraph (3)) for the 3 most recent fiscal years for which such data are available; and

(iii) the proportion, of all individuals who received medical assistance under this title in any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia in the fiscal year referred to in such subparagraph, who are described in such subparagraph.

(B) RESIDENT IN POVERTY DEFINED.—The term resident in poverty means an individual described in section 16140(1)(B)(1)(I) whose family income does not exceed 100 percent of the poverty line for the year involved applicable to a family of the size described in such clause.

(C) CASE MIX INDEX.—The average of the commonwealths and territories, the national average spending per recipient for a fiscal year is equal to—

(i) the sum of—

(A) the per recipient expenditures with respect to elderly individuals in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under subparagraph (B));

(B) the per recipient expenditures with respect to blind and disabled individuals in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under subparagraph (C));

(C) the per recipient expenditures with respect to other individuals in such State or District (determined under subparagraph (D));

and

(ii) 0.85 multiplied by the ratio of (I) the annual average wages for hospital employees in such State or District for the fiscal year (determined under paragraph (3)) to (II) the annual average wages for hospital employees in the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the fiscal year referred to in such subparagraph.

(D) RESIDENTS IN POVERTY DEFINED.—The term residents in poverty means an individual described in section 16140(1)(B)(1)(I) whose family income does not exceed 100 percent of the poverty line for the year involved applicable to a family of the size described in such clause.

(E) CASE MIX INDEX.—The average of the

(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, the national average spending per recipient for a fiscal year is equal to—

(i) the product of (I) the national average spending per resident in poverty (as determined under subparagraph (B)) for the fiscal year (determined under paragraph (3)) for the 3 most recent fiscal years for which such data are available; and

(ii) the proportion, of all individuals who received medical assistance under this title in any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia in the fiscal year referred to in such subparagraph, who are described in such subparagraph.

(B) RESIDENT IN POVERTY DEFINED.—The term resident in poverty means an individual described in section 16140(1)(B)(1)(I) whose family income does not exceed 100 percent of the poverty line for the year involved applicable to a family of the size described in such clause.

(C) CASE MIX INDEX.—The average of the

(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, the national average spending per recipient for a fiscal year is equal to—

(i) the product of (I) the national average spending per resident in poverty (as determined under subparagraph (B)) for the fiscal year (determined under paragraph (3)) for the 3 most recent fiscal years for which such data are available; and

(ii) the proportion, of all individuals who received medical assistance under this title in any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia in the fiscal year referred to in such subparagraph, who are described in such subparagraph.
Sec. 2122. Payments to States.

(a) Amount of payment. — From the allotment of a State under section 2121, plus any additional amount to be paid to such State under subsection (g) or (h), for a fiscal year, subject to the succeeding provisions of this section, the Secretary shall pay to each State which has a plan, the Secretary shall submit to Congress, by not later than October 30, 1995, a report analyzing the final allotments under this section (not taking into account subsection (a)(2)(B)) for the fiscal year. The Secretary shall include in the notice a description of the methodology used in deriving such allotments for the year.

(b) Review by GAO. — The Comptroller General shall submit to Congress by not later than July 1 of each such fiscal year, a report analyzing such allotments and the extent to which such allotments comply with the precise requirements of this section.

(II) donations described in paragraph (2)(c);

(II) the sum (for each of the 50 States and the District of Columbia) of the total of the Federal and State expenditures under title XIX for medical assistance for calendar quarters in fiscal year 1995 (other than such expenditures under section 1923), increased by the percentage specified in subsection (c)(2)(A)(iii), divided by the product of 4 and the average number of residents in poverty (as defined in paragraph (2)(A) for all of the 50 States and the District of Columbia for the 3 most recent fiscal years for which data are available.

(3) LIMITATION ON RANGE.—In no case shall the Federal medical assistance percentage be less than 50 percent, or 10 percent, or 83 percent. In no case shall the Federal medical assistance percentage be less than 50 percent, or 10 percent, or 83 percent.

(II) definitions in paragraph (2)(A), other than

(II) from provider-related donations (as defined in subsection (c)(2));

(II) from health care related taxes (as defined in paragraph (3)(A)), other than broad-based health care related taxes (as defined in paragraph (2)(C)).
"(ii) from a broad-based health care related tax, if there is in effect a hold harmless provision described in paragraph (4) with respect to the tax."

(B) REDUCTION IN ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENDITURES.—Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, for purposes of determining the amount of such payment under subsection (a) for a unit of local government, the area over which the unit has jurisdiction (or is imposed with respect to all non-Federal, nonpublic providers in the class) are to be taken into account for purposes of this subsection, and

(ii) is imposed uniformly (in accordance with subparagraph (C)).

(C) UNIFORM PROVISION OF TAX.—In general, a tax is considered to be uniform with respect to a class of items or services (or providers of such items or services), if the amount of the tax imposed is the same for each provider providing items or services within the class:

(1) In the case of a tax consisting of a licensing fee or similar tax on a class of health care items or services (or providers of such items or services), the amount of the tax imposed is the same for every provider providing items or services within the class:

(II) in the case of a tax consisting of a licensing fee or similar tax imposed on a class of health care items or services (or providers of such items or services) on the basis of the number of beds (licensed or otherwise) of the provider, the amount of such fee or tax is determined on the basis of—

(A) the amount of the tax imposed on each bed of the provider, or

(B) the amount of the tax imposed on each unit (or portion of the tax paid in a manner that is inversely proportional to) to a State or unit of local government by—

(i) a tax (as defined in paragraph (5)(F)) that—

(iii) Nursing facility services

(iv) Services of intermediate care facilities for the mentally retarded

(v)scripts of the costs of the tax.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph, a hold harmless shall be found to be in effect with respect to a tax enacted or extended prior to October 1, 1993, because of the existence in the State of a program of financial aid or of tax credits for recipients of health care items or services from providers that are subject to an otherwise valid health care related tax.

(D) DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this subsection:

(i) Each of the following shall be considered a separate class of health care items and services:

(ii) The State or other unit of government imposing the tax provides (directly or indirectly) for a payment (other than under a medicaid plan approved under this title) to taxpayers and the amount of such payment is positively correlated either to the amount of such tax or to the difference between the amount of the tax and the amount of payment under the medicaid plan.

(ii) All or any portion of the payment made under this title by the taxpayer varies based only on the amount of the tax.

(iii) The State or other unit of government imposing the tax provides (directly or indirectly) for a hold harmless (or for any other arrangement) in a manner that guarantees to hold taxpayers harmless for any portion of the costs of the tax.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph, a hold harmless shall be found to be in effect with respect to a tax enacted or extended prior to October 1, 1993, because of the existence in the State of a program of financial aid or of tax credits for recipients of health care items or services from providers that are subject to an otherwise valid health care related tax.

(E) WAIVER APPLICATION FOR TREATMENT AS NONUNIFORMITY DETERMINATION. —For purposes of paragraph (1)(A)(ii), there is in effect a hold harmless provision with respect to a broad-based health care related tax imposed with respect to a class of items or services if the Secretary determines that any of the following applies:

(i) The State or other unit of government has made a finding that the tax, with respect to a class of items or services if the Secretary determines that any of the following applies:

PART E—ESTABLISHMENT AND AMENDMENT OF MEDICARE PLANS

SEC. 2131. SUBMITTAL AND APPROVAL OF MEDICARE PLANS

(a) SUBMITTAL.—As a condition of receiving funding under part C, each State shall submit to the Secretary a Medicaid plan that meets the applicable requirements of this title.

(b) APPROVAL.—Except as may be provided under section 2153, a Medicaid plan submitted under subsection (a) shall be approved for purposes of this section and shall be effective as provided in subsection (c) if the Secretary makes a determination that the plan meets the requirements of this section.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATES FOR AMENDMENTS.—

(1) shall be approved for purposes of this title; and

(2) shall be effective as provided in subsection (b) if the Secretary makes a determination that the plan meets the requirements of this section.

(3) EFFECTIVE DATES FOR AMENDMENTS.—

(a) AUTHORITY TO SEEK WAIVER.—Any State may apply for a waiver of any law, regulation, or requirement of the Secretary that is inconsistent with the requirements of this title.

(b) REQUIREMENTS FOR WAIVER APPLICATION.—An application for a waiver of any State law, regulation, or requirement of the Secretary shall include—

(i) a statement of the circumstances under which the waiver is sought;

(ii) a statement of the nature and extent of the waiver sought;

(iii) a statement of the expected benefits to the State that would result from the waiver;

(iv) a statement of the proposed use of the waiver funds;

(v) a statement of any limitations on the use of the waiver funds;

(vi) a statement of any conditions attached to the waiver;

(vii) a statement of any other information required by the Secretary.

(c) APPROVAL OF WAIVER APPLICATION.—The Secretary shall approve or deny an application for a waiver as provided in subsection (b) if the Secretary makes a determination that the plan meets the requirements of this section.

(4) NOTICE REQUIREMENT.—Any plan amendment that eliminates or restricts eligibility or benefits under the plan may not take effect unless the State certifies that it has provided prior or contemporaneous public notice of the changes and any related administrative procedures provided under applicable State law.

"(B) TIMELY TRANSMITAL.—Any plan amendment or changes to the plan on which a Medicaid plan or plan amendment has been transmitted to the Secretary for review shall be submitted to the Secretary not later than 30 days after the date of the Secretary's receipt of the notice of the determination.

"(C) TIMELINESS IN ADMINISTRATION OF PLAN.—

"(1) In General.—If the Secretary, during the 30-day period beginning on the date of submission of a Medicaid plan or plan amendment, determines that the plan or amendment substantially violates an applicable provision of this part, the Secretary shall issue a written notice of such determination to the State.

"(2) Effect of Notice.—In the case of a determination that the plan or amendment substantially violates an applicable provision of this part, the Secretary shall issue a written notice of such determination to the State. Such a written notice shall not be effective, except as provided in this subsection, until the date on which the written notice is delivered to the State, unless the Secretary determines and notifies the State in writing that the State has failed to correct the violation.

"(3) Time Periods.—The time periods specified in paragraph (2) may be extended by written agreement of the Secretary and the State involved.

"(4) Violations in the Administration of the Medicaid Plan.—

"(A) In General.—If the Secretary determines that the plan or amendment substantially violates a requirement of this part, the Secretary shall provide the State with written notice of the determination and with an order to remedy such violation. Such an order shall be effective upon the date of the written notice, unless the Secretary determines and notifies the State in writing that the State has failed to correct the violation.

"(B) Effectiveness.—As the Secretary issues and implements the plan or amendment, the order to remedy such violation shall be effective, except as provided in subsection (C), beginning at the end of the period specified in the written notice. Such an order may include the withholding of funds, consistent with subsection (B), for part of the Medicaid plan affected by such violation, until the Secretary is satisfied that the violation has been corrected.

"(C) Effectiveness.—As the Secretary issues and implements the plan or amendment, the order to remedy such violation shall be effective, except as provided in subsection (B), beginning at the end of the period specified in the written notice. Such an order may include the withholding of funds, consistent with subsection (B), for part of the Medicaid plan affected by such violation, until the Secretary is satisfied that the violation has been corrected.

"(D) Revision Retroactive.—If the revision provides for substantial compliance, the revision may be treated, at the option of the Secretary, as being effective either as of the effective date of the provision to which it relates or such later date as the Secretary may agree.

"(E) STATE RESPONSE BY SEEKING RECONSIDERATION OR AN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING.—The Secretary may respond to an order under subsection (D) by submitting a request for a reconsideration or a hearing under paragraph (2).

"(F) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—

"(1) GENERAL.—A State which is dissatisfied with a final determination made by the Secretary under subsection (d)(1) or a final determination of an administrative law judge under subsection (d)(2) may, within 60 days after it has been notified of such determination, file with the United States court of appeals for the circuit in which the State is located a petition for the judicial review of such determination. The petition shall be forthwith transmitted by the clerk of the circuit court to the Secretary and, in the case of a determination under subsection (d)(2), to the administrative law judge involved. The Secretary (or judge involved) thereupon shall file in the court the record of the proceedings on which the final determination was based as provided in section 2121 of title 28, United States Code.

"(2) STANDARDS FOR REVIEW.—The findings of fact by the Secretary or an administrative law judge, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive, but the court, for good cause shown, may set aside the order of the Secretary or judge to take further evidence, and the Secretary or judge may thereupon make new or modified findings of fact and may make a premodified determination, and shall certify to the court the transcript and record of the further proceedings. Such new or modified findings of law shall likewise be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence.

SEC. 2151. SECRETARIAL AUTHORITY.

(a) NEGOTIATED AGREEMENT AND DISPUTE RESOLUTION.—Nothing in this part shall be construed as preventing the Secretary and a State from at any time negotiating a satisfactory agreement concerning the approval of a Medicaid plan (or amendments to a Medicaid plan) or the compliance of a Medicaid plan (including its administration) with requirements of this title.

(b) LIMITATIONS ON DELEGATION OF DECISION-MAKING AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may not delegate (other than to the Administrator of the Health Care Financing Administration) the authority to make determinations or reconsiderations respecting the approval of Medicaid plans (or amendments to such plans) or the compliance of a Medicaid plan (including its administration) with requirements of this title. Such authority may not be further delegated by the Secretary to any other individual, including any regional official of such Administration.

(c) REQUIRING FORMAL RULEMAKING FOR CHANGES IN SECRETARIAL ADMINISTRATION.—The Secretary shall carry out the administration of the program under this title only through a procedure for formal rulemaking process, including issuing notices of proposed rule making, publishing proposed rules or modifications to rules in the Federal Register, and soliciting public comment.

SEC. 1192. MEDICAID DRUG REBATE PROGRAM

(a) IN GENERAL.—Title XIX, as added by section 7111, is amended—

(1) by inserting after section 2173, by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 2175. MEDICAID DRUG REBATE AGREEMENTS.

(a) REQUIREMENT FOR REBATE AGREEMENT.—

In general.—Pursuant to section 2121(g), in order for payment to be made to a State under part C for medical assistance for covered outpatient drugs of a manufacturer, the manufacturer shall first enter into a rebate agreement described in subsection (b) with the Secretary, on behalf of States (except that, the Secretary may authorize a State to enter directly into agreements with a manufacturer), and must meet the requirements of paragraphs (2) with respect to drugs purchased on or after the first day of the month that begins after the date of the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992 and paragraph (6). Any such agreement entered into after the date of the enactment of this Act shall be deemed to have been entered into on January 1, 1991, and the amount of the rebate to be paid or credited to the manufacturer under such agreement shall be calculated as if the agreement had been entered into on January 1, 1991. If a manufacturer has not entered into such an agreement, such amounts shall be paid or credited directly to the State and used for such purposes as the State determines.
the first day of the calendar quarter that begins more than 60 days after the date the agreement is entered into.

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Paragraph (1) shall apply to drugs dispensed under this title on or after January 1, 1991, except that such paragraph shall not apply to drugs purchased by a covered entity on or after the first day of the calendar quarter that begins more than 60 days after the date of the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992.

(3) AUTHORIZING PAYMENT FOR DRUGS NOT COVERED UNDER REBATE AGREEMENTS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to the dispensing of a covered outpatient drug to a beneficiary under the medicare plan if (A) the State has made a determination that the availability of such drug is essential to the health of beneficiaries under the medicare plan; (B) the State has entered into an agreement with the Secretary that meets the requirements of this paragraph; and (i) the physician has obtained approval for the use of the drug in advance of dispensing such drug in accordance with a prior authorization program described in subsection (d)(3), (d)(4), or (d)(5) and the State has reviewed and approved the State’s determination under subparagraph (A); or (ii) the physician has obtained approval for use of the drug in advance of its dispensing in accordance with a prior authorization program described in subsection (d), (ii) the State has made a determination that in the first calendar quarter of 1991, there were extenuating circumstances.

(4) EFFECT ON EXISTING AGREEMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a rebate agreement in effect between a State and a manufacturer on the date of the enactment of title IV of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, such agreement shall remain in effect until the expiration of the period specified therein, shall be considered to be a rebate agreement in effect under this section, and shall be reviewed by the Secretary in accordance with subsection (d).

(B) TERM OF ALTERNATIVE MECHANISM TO ENSURE AGAINST DUPLICATE DISCOUNTS OR REBATES.—If the Secretary does not establish a mechanism under section 340B(a)(5)(A) of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 within 12 months of the date of the enactment of such section, the following requirements shall apply—

(i) Each manufacturer shall inform the single State agency under this title that it is seeking reimbursement from the medicare plan for medical assistance with respect to a unit of any covered outpatient drug so that it is subject to an agreement under section 340B(a) of such title.

(ii) Each such single State agency shall provide a means by which a covered entity shall determine whether the unit of a drug that is subject to the rebate is subject to an agreement under section 340B of such title. The Secretary shall not permit any manufacturer a claim for a rebate payment under subsection (b) with respect to such a drug.

(C) EFFECT OF SUBSEQUENT AMENDMENTS.—In determining whether an agreement under subparagraph (A) meets the requirements of section 340B of the Public Health Service Act, the Secretary shall not take into account any amendments to such section that are enacted after the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992.

(D) DETERMINATION OF COMPLIANCE.—A manufacturer is deemed to meet the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the manufacturer would comply (and has offered to comply) with the provisions of section 340B of the Public Health Service Act (as in effect immediately after the enactment title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992, and would have entered into an agreement under such section (as such section was in effect at such time), but for a legislative change in such section after such enactment.

(E) RECORD KEEPING RELATING TO MASTER AGREEMENTS FOR DRUGS PROCURED BY DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS AND CERTAIN OTHER FEDERAL AGENCIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A manufacturer meets the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer complies with the provisions of section 1126 of title 38, United States Code, including the requirement of entering into a master agreement with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs under such section.

(2) EFFECT OF SUBSEQUENT AMENDMENTS.—In determining whether a master agreement described in subparagraph (A) meets the requirements of section 1126 of title 38, United States Code, the Secretary shall not take into account any amendments to such section that are enacted after the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992.

(F) CERTIFICATION OF COMPLIANCE.—A manufacturer is deemed to meet the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the manufacturer would comply (and has offered to comply) with the provisions of section 1126 of title 38, United States Code (as in effect immediately after the enactment title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992).

(G) DETERMINATION OF COMPLIANCE.—A manufacturer is deemed to meet the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the manufacturer would comply (and has offered to comply) with the provisions of section 1126 of title 38, United States Code (as in effect immediately after the enactment title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992, and would have entered into an agreement under such section (as such section was in effect at such time), but for a legislative change in such section after such enactment).

(H) DETERMINATION OF COMPLIANCE.—A manufacturer is deemed to meet the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the manufacturer would comply (and has offered to comply) with the provisions of section 1126 of title 38, United States Code (as in effect immediately after the enactment title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992, and would have entered into an agreement under such section (as such section was in effect at such time), but for a legislative change in such section after such enactment).

(I) PENAL TIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A rebate agreement under this subsection shall require the manufacturer to provide, to each medicaid plan approved under this title, a rebate agreement for each drug in an amount specified in subsection (c) for covered outpatient drugs of the manufacturer dispensed after December 31, 1990, for which payment was made under the plan for such period. Such rebate shall be paid by the manufacturer not later than 30 days after the date of receipt of the information described in paragraph (2) for the period to which such agreement relates. (B) OFFSET AGAINST MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.—

Amounts received by a State under this section from a manufacturer under an agreement described in subsection (a)(1) or an agreement described in subsection (a)(4) in any quarter shall be considered to be a reduction in the amount expended under the medical assistance program in the quarter for medical assistance for purposes of this title.

(3) AUTHORIZING PROVISIONS OF PRICE INFORMATION.—

(A) STATE RESPONSIBILITY.—Each State agency under this title shall report to each manufacturer not later than 60 days after the end of each calendar quarter for medical assistance in its medical assistance plan an agreement with the Secretary or with the manufacturer under this subsection.

(B) REPORTS TO MANUFACTURERS.—Each State agency under this title shall report any rebate information provided to the Secretary pursuant to the agreement, and such report shall be made under a standard format reporting established by the Secretary. The Secretary shall not take into account any information that indicates that utilization was greater or less than the amount previously specified.

(4) MANUFACTURER PROVISION OF PRICE INFORMATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Each manufacturer with an agreement in effect under this section shall report to the Secretary—

(i) not later than 30 days after the last day of each rebate period under the agreement (beginning on or after January 1, 1991), on the average manufacturer price (as defined in subsection (b)) for each covered outpatient drug for which the manufacturer would comply (and has offered to comply) with the provisions of section 340B of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, for which payment was made under the plan for the period, and shall promptly transmit a copy of such report to the Secretary.

(B) AUDITS.—A manufacturer may audit the information provided (or required to be provided) under subparagraph (A). Adjustments to rebates shall be made to the extent that information indicates that utilization was greater or less than the amount previously specified.

(5) LIMITATION ON PRICES OF DRUGS PURCHASED BY COVERED ENTITIES.

(A) AGREEMENT WITH SECRETARY.—A manufacturer may enter into a rebate agreement with the Secretary if the manufacturer has entered into an agreement with the Secretary that meets the requirements of section 340B of the Public Health Service Act with respect to covered outpatient drugs purchased by a covered entity on or after the first day of the calendar quarter that begins more than 60 days after the date of the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992.

(B) TERMS OF REBATE AGREEMENT.—

(B) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE DEFINED.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(ii), the 'applicable percentage' is 11 percent.
(d) LIMITATIONS ON COVERAGE OF DRUGS.—

(1) PERMISSIBLE RESTRICTIONS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A State may subject to prior authorization any covered outpatient drug. Any such prior authorization program shall comply with the requirements of paragraph (2) or (3).

(B) ADDITIONAL RESTRICTIONS.—A State may exclude or otherwise restrict coverage of a covered outpatient drug if—

(i) the drug is subject to such restrictions pursuant to an agreement between a manufacturer and a State authorized by the Secretary under subsection (a)(1) or in effect pursuant to subsection (a)(4); or

(ii) the formulary includes the covered outpatient drug in its formulary established in accordance with paragraph (4).

(2) LIST OF DRUGS SUBJECT TO RESTRICTION.—The following drugs or classes of drugs, or their medical uses, may be excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted:

(A) Agents used for anorexia, weight loss, or weight gain.

(B) Agents when used to promote fertility.

(C) Agents when used for cosmetic purposes or hair growth.

(D) Agents when used for the symptomatic relief of cough and colds.

(E) Agents when used to promote smoking cessation.

(F) Prescription vitamins and mineral products, except prenatal vitamins and fluoride preparations.

(G) Nonprescription drugs.

(H) Covered outpatient drugs which the manufacturer seeks to require as a condition of sale that associated tests or monitoring services be purchased exclusively from the manufacturer or its designee.

(I) Barbiturates.

(J) Benzodiazepines.

(3) ADDITIONS TO DRUG LISTINGS.—The Secretary shall, by regulation, periodically add to the list of drugs or classes of drugs described in paragraph (2), or their medical uses, which the Secretary has determined to be subject to clinical abuse or inappropriate use.

(4) REQUIREMENTS FOR FORMULARIES.—A State may establish a formulary if the formulary meets the following requirements:

(A) The formulary is developed by a committee consisting of physicians, pharmacists, and other appropriate individuals appointed by the Governor of the State (or, at the option of the State, by the appropriate board established under subsection (f)(3)).

(B) Except as provided in subparagraph (C), the formulary includes the covered outpatient drugs of any manufacturer which has entered into and complies with an agreement under subsection (a)(2) (other than any drug excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted under paragraph (2)).

(C) A covered outpatient drug may be excluded from the formulary in connection with the treatment of a specific disease or condition for an identified population (if any) only if, based on the drug's labeling (or, in the case of a drug the prescription use of which is not approved under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act but is medically accepted indication, based on information from the appropriate regulatory agency or other source of information, the excluded drug does not have a significant, clinically meaningful therapeutic advantage in terms of safety, effectiveness, or clinical outcome of such treatment or condition over other drugs included in the formulary and there is a written explanation (available to the public) of the reasons for the exclusion.

(D) The State shall permit coverage of a drug excluded from the formulary (other than any drug excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted under paragraph (2)) pursuant to a prior authorization program that is consistent with paragraph (3).

(E) The formulary meets such other requirements as the Secretary may impose in order to achieve program savings consistent with protecting the health of the beneficiaries. A prior authorization program established by a State under paragraph (3) is not a formulary subject to such program.

(5) REQUIREMENTS OF PRIOR AUTHORIZATION PROGRAMS.—A Medicaid plan approved under this title may require, as a condition of coverage and payment of a nonprescription drug for which Federal financial participation is available in accordance with this section, with respect to drugs dispensed on or after July 1, 1991, the prior approval of the Secretary for any medically accepted indication (as defined in subsection (j)(6)) only if the system providing for such approval—

(A) provides response by telephone or other telecommunication device within 24 hours of a request for prior authorization; and

(B) shall comply with the requirements of paragraph (2), or their medical uses, which the State has determined to be subject to clinical abuse or inappropriate use, or severe adverse reactions to drugs.

(E) Estabishment of upper payment limit.—The Health Care Financing Administration shall establish a Federal upper reimbursement limit for each multiple source drug for which the FDA has rated three or more products therapeutically and pharmacologically equivalent, regardless of whether all such additional formulations are rated as such and shall use only such formulations when determining any such upper limit.

(D) Drug Use Review.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A State participating in the Medicare Part D program may require the prescription drug claims program, in connection with coverage for a prescription drug, to submit to the Secretary reports of drug use patterns that may be a cause of waste, fraud, or abuse.

(2) AVERAGE MANUFACTURER PRICE—The program shall calculate the average manufacturer price for each drug on the formulary, in accordance with section 16250 of this title, and report to the Secretary the average manufacturer price of each drug on the formulary.

(E) Barbell limitation agreements under this section shall not be enforced against any person, including a State, in any manner authorized under this Act.

(2) CONSTRUCTION IN DETERMINING BEST PRICE.—Nothing in section 16250 is intended to prohibit a State from providing for such approval, and any manner authorized under this Act.

(F) EXPENDITURE FOR CAPITALIZED HEALTH CARE ORGANIZATIONS, HOSPITALS, AND NURSING FACILITIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the requirements of the Medicaid rebate agreement under this section shall not apply with respect to covered outpatient drugs dispensed by or through State hospitals or any entity financed in whole or in part with Federal funds.

(2) CONSTRUCTION IN DETERMINING BEST PRICE.—Nothing in paragraph (1) shall be construed as excluding amounts paid by the entities described in such paragraph for covered outpatient drugs.

(3) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

(A) AVERAGE MANUFACTURER PRICE.—The term 'average manufacturer price' means, with respect to covered outpatient drugs, the average price paid to the manufacturer for each drug in the United States by wholesalers for drugs distributed to the retail pharmacy class of trade, after deducting customary prompt pay discounts available to wholesalers.

(B) COVERED OUTPATIENT DRUG.—Except as the exceptions in paragraph (3), the term 'covered outpatient drug' means—

(i) those drugs which are treated as prescription drugs for purposes of this title, a drug which may be dispensed only upon prescription (except as provided in subparagraph (D)); and—

(ii) which is approved as a prescription drug under section 351 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(4) (i) which was commercially used or sold in the United States before the date of the enactment of the Drug Amendments of 1962 or which is identical, similar, or related (within the meaning of section 310 of the Code of Federal Regulations) to such a drug, and (ii) which has not been the subject of a final determination by the Secretary that it is a new drug (within the meaning of section 201(p) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act) or an action brought by the Secretary under section 301(a) or 302(a) of such Act, or

(5) (i) which is described in section 107(c)(3) of the Drug Amendments of 1962 and for which the manufacturer has determined there is a compelling justification for its medical need, or is identical, similar, or related (within the meaning of section 310(b)(1) of title 21 of the Code of Federal Regulations) to such a drug, and (ii) which the Secretary has not issued a notice of an opportunity for a hearing under section 301(a) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act on a proposed order of the Secretary to withdraw approval of an application for such drug.
drug under such section because the Secretary has determined that the drug is less than effective for some or all conditions of use prescribed, recommended, or suggested in its labeling.

(ii) a biological product, other than a vaccine which—

(iii) may only be dispensed upon prescription.

(iv) is licensed under section 351 of the Public Health Service Act.

(v) is produced at an establishment licensed under section 357 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; and

(w) the product, or insulin provided as part of a covered outpatient drug, is administered or supervised by a physician (or other person authorized to prescribe under State law).

(B) LIMITING DEFINITION.—The term 'covered outpatient drug' does not include any drug, biological product, or insulin provided as part of a covered outpatient drug, for which there are 2 or more drug products to be rated as therapeutically equivalent.

(ii) MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUG; INNOVATOR DRUG; GENERIC DRUG; NONINNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUG; SINGLE SOURCE DRUG.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than June 1, 1998, the Secretary shall establish national listing of average wholesale prices for the fiscal year.

(2) IN IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (1), the Secretary shall make available to the public through retail pharmacies in that State.

(3) RETROACTIVE APPLICATION OF CERTAIN AMENDMENTS.—

(a) SEC. 2175. Medicaid drug rebate agreement.

S 16252
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
October 30, 1995

Secretary of Health and Human Services (in this section referred to as the "Secretary") shall, through the Health Care Financing Administration, designate a system to identify children with special health care needs.

(1) CHILDREN WITH SPECIAL HEALTH CARE NEEDS—For purposes of this section, children with special health care needs are children—

(A) with conditions which are, or can be anticipated to be, of such a nature as to require chronic or ongoing infant, child, and youth care beyond that required by children generally; or

(B) who require services significantly greater than those which are typically required by children generally.

(2) REQUIREMENTS OF CLASSIFICATION SYSTEM—The classification system developed in accordance with this section—

(A) shall be based on commonly recognized diagnosis and condition categories; and

(B) shall be compatible with State and health plan data systems.

(3) APPLICATIONS—Each State desiring to conduct a demonstration project in accordance with this section shall—

(A) submit to the Secretary a plan containing the following:

(i) A description of the conditions which are likely to require significant expenditures for care for children with special health care needs; and

(ii) plans to develop a national, quantifiable classification system to identify children with special health care needs.

(B) APPROPRIATE REPRESENTATIVES—The design and implementation of such a project shall include representatives of providers of services to children, the Secretary, and appropriate State agencies and programs.

(3) APPLICATIONS—Each State desiring to conduct a demonstration project under this subsection, including programs which are statewide, state, or coalition of States, shall—

(A) describe the conditions which are likely to require significant expenditures for care for children with special health care needs.

(B) describe the plans to develop a national, quantifiable classification system to identify children with special health care needs.

(C) submit to the Secretary a plan containing the following:

(i) Adequate representation of providers of services to children, the State and appropriate State agencies and programs.

(ii) Plans to develop a national, quantifiable classification system to identify children with special health care needs.

In addition, the plan shall describe the criteria to be used to identify children with special health care needs.

(4) FUNDING—Each State, or coalition of States, shall designate entities to directly receive and deliver services to children with special health care needs.

(5) BUDGET NEUTRALITY—The aggregate amount of Federal funds that would otherwise have been made under the Medicare and Medicaid programs to participate in demonstration projects under this section is estimated at not more than $190,000,000 in fiscal year 1997.

(6) DURATION—The demonstration projects conducted under this section shall be conducted for a 3-year period, subject to annual review and approval by the Secretary.
(2) TERMINATION.—The Secretary may, with 90 days’ notice, terminate any demonstration project conducted under this section that is not in substantial compliance with the terms of the application approved by the Secretary under this section.

(3) REPORTS.—Not later than 90 days after the conclusion of a demonstration project conducted under this section, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress a report containing the following:

(1) An analysis of the quality of the services delivered under the project.

(2) An analysis of the quality of the services delivered under the project.

(3) An analysis of the quality of the services delivered under the project.

(4) A description of the savings to the Medicaid and Medicare programs as a result of the demonstration project.

Subpart C—Grant Agreements for Temporary Assistance for Needy Families

SEC. 7200. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Work Opportunity Act of 1998”.

SEC. 7201. BLOCK GRANTS TO STATES.

(a) REPEALS.

(1) IN GENERAL.—Parts A and F of title IV (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq. and 682 et seq.) are hereby repealed.

(b) RULES AND REGULATIONS.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall ensure that any rules and regulations relating to the provisions of law repealed in paragraph (1) shall cease to have effect on and after the due date of the repeal of such provisions.

(2) BLOCK GRANTS TO STATES FOR TEMPORARY ASSISTANCE FOR NEedy FAMILIES WITH MINOR CHILDREN—Title IV (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) is amended by inserting before part B the following:

“PART A—BLOCK GRANTS TO STATES FOR TEMPORARY ASSISTANCE FOR NEEDED FAMILIES WITH MINOR CHILDREN

SEC. 400. NO INDIVIDUAL ENTITLEMENT.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no individual is entitled to any assistance under this part.

SEC. 401. PURPOSE.

The purpose of this part is to increase the flexibility of States in operating a program designed to—

(1) provide assistance to needy families with minor children;

(2) provide job preparation and opportunities for such families; and

(3) prevent and reduce the incidence of out-of-wedlock pregnancies, with special emphasis on teenage pregnancies, and establish annual goals for preventing and reducing such pregnancies with respect to fiscal years 1998 through 2000.

SEC. 402. ELIGIBLE STATES: STATE PLAN.

(a) IN GENERAL.—As used in this part, the term “eligible States” means, with respect to a fiscal year, a State that has submitted to the Secretary a plan that includes the following:

(1) OUTLINE OF FAMILY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—A written document that outlines how the State intends to do the following:

(A) Conduct a program designed to serve all political subdivisions in the State to—

(i) provide assistance to needy families with not less than 1 minor child (or any expectant family), and

(ii) provide a parent or caretaker in such families with work experience, assistance in finding employment, and other work preparation activities and support services that the State considers appropriate to enable such families to leave the program and become self-sufficient.

(B) Require a parent or caretaker receiving assistance under the program to engage in work (as defined by the State) when the State determines that the parent or caretaker is ready to engage in work, or after 24 months (whether or not consecutive) of receiving assistance under the program, whichever is earlier.

(C) Satisfy the minimum participation rates specified in section 404.

(D) Treat—

(i) families with minor children moving into the State from another State, and

(ii) noncitizens of the United States.

(E) Specify and restrict the use and disclosure of information about individuals and families receiving assistance under the program.

(F) Establish a system of program evaluation to prevent and reduce the incidence of out-of-wedlock pregnancies, with special emphasis on teenage pregnancies.

(G) COMMUNITY SERVICE.—Not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, consistent with the exception provided in section 404(g), require participation by, and offer to, unless the State opts out of this provision by notifying the Secretary, a parent or caretaker receiving assistance under the program, after receiving such assistance for 3 months—

(i) is not exempt from work requirements; and

(ii) is not exempt from work requirements.

(H) PROVIDE ACCESS TO INDIANS.—In recognition of the Federal Government’s trust responsibility to, and government-to-government relationship with, Indian tribes, the Secretary shall ensure that States receive at least the equivalent of the funding to which they are entitled under the State plan by requiring by a certification by the chief executive officer of each State described in paragraph (2) that, during the fiscal year, the State shall provide Indian children in each Indian tribe that does not have a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 414 for a fiscal year with equitable access to a child support enforcement program under the State plan.

(II) IN GENERAL.—In recognition of the Federal Government’s trust responsibility to, and government-to-government relationship with, Indian tribes, the Secretary shall ensure that States receive at least the equivalent of the funding to which they are entitled under the State plan by requiring by a certification by the chief executive officer of each State described in paragraph (2) that, during the fiscal year, the State shall provide Indians in each Indian tribe that does not have a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 414 for a fiscal year with equitable access to a child support enforcement program under the State plan.

(III) DISTRIBUTION OF STATE PLAN.—(1) PUBLIC AVAILABILITY OF SUMMARY.—The State shall make available to the public a summary of the State plan submitted under this section.

(II) CERTIFICATION THAT THE STATE WILL OPERATE A CHILD PROTECTION PROGRAM.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that, during the fiscal year, the State will operate a foster care and adoption assistance program under the State plan approved under part E.

(III) CERTIFICATION THAT THE STATE WILL OPERATE A FOSTER CARE AND ADOPTION ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that, during the fiscal year, the State will operate a foster care and adoption assistance program under the State plan approved under part E.

(IV) CERTIFICATION THAT THE STATE WILL PARTICIPATE IN THE INCOME AND ELIGIBILITY VERIFICATION SYSTEM.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that, during the fiscal year, the State will participate in the income and eligibility verification system required by section 1137.

(5) CERTIFICATION OF THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE PROGRAM.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State specifying which State agency or agencies are responsible for the administration and supervision of the State program for the fiscal year, and which local governments and private sector organizations have been consulted regarding the plan and design of welfare services in the State so that services are provided in a manner appropriate to local populations.

(6) CERTIFICATION THAT REQUIRED REPORTS WERE SUBMITTED TO THE SECRETARY.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State shall provide the Secretary with any reports required under this part.

(7) CERTIFICATION THAT THE STATE WILL PROVIDE ACCESS TO INDIANS.—In general, in recognition of the Federal Government’s trust responsibility to, and government-to-government relationship with, Indian tribes, the Secretary shall ensure that States receive at least the equivalent of the funding to which they are entitled under the State plan by requiring by a certification by the chief executive officer of each State described in paragraph (2) that, during the fiscal year, the State shall provide Indians in each Indian tribe that does not have a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 414 for a fiscal year with equitable access to a child support enforcement program under the State plan.

(II) STATE DESCRIBED.—For purposes of paragraph (1), “State” means a State in which there is an Indian tribe that does not have a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 414 for a fiscal year.

(III) DISTRIBUTION OF STATE PLAN.—(1) PUBLIC AVAILABILITY OF SUMMARY.—The State shall make available to the public a summary of the State plan submitted under this section.

(II) COPY TO AUDITOR.—The State shall provide the approved entity conducting the audit under section 688 with a copy of the State plan submitted under this section.

(9) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this part, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) ADULT.—The term “adult” means an individual who is not a minor child.

(2) Minor Child.—The term “minor child” means an individual—

(A) who has not attained 18 years of age; or

"(3) AVAILABILITY.—Amounts in the fund are authorized to remain available until September 30, 2000, for the purposes of making loans and grants to eligible Indian tribes and providing assistance to such States on such loans, in accordance with this subsection.

(A) USE OF FUND.—The Secretary shall make loans from the fund to the eligible Indian tribe, as defined in subsection (D), for a period of not more than 3 years.

(B) RATE OF INTEREST.—The Secretary shall charge and collect interest on any loan made under subparagraph (A) at a rate equal to the average of the market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States with an average life greater than 10 years, as determined by the Secretary, at the time of eachDrawing.

(C) LIMITATION ON USE OF LOAN.—A loan shall be used, and the proceeds thereof shall be used, only for the purpose of operating a program to make work activities available to members of the Indian tribe.

(D) ELIGIBLE INDIAN TRIBE.—For purposes of paragraphs (1) and (2), the term ‘eligible Indian tribe’ means an Indian tribe in Alaska Native organization that conducted a job opportunities and basic skills training program in fiscal year 1996 and has a poverty rate for 1995 of 30 percent or less, as determined by the Secretary in accordance with paragraph (1).
penalty described in paragraph (1)(A) or (2)(A) of subsection (d) but have not been subject to such penalty for more than 3 months within the preceding 12-month period (whether or not consecutive); and

(III) the number of all families that received assistance under a Tribal or State program during this part of the previous 12-month period that have become ineligible to receive assistance during such period because of employment and which include an adult who is employed for the month divided by

(i) the total number of all families receiving assistance under the State program funded under a major grant during the month that include an adult receiving assistance.

(2) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—For purposes of subsection (a)(2), the participation rate for 2-parent families of a State for a fiscal year is the average of the participation rates for 2-parent families of the State for each month in the fiscal year.

(3) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—For purposes of subsection (a)(2), an adult is engaged in work in a month if the adult is participating in work for at least the minimum average number of hours per week specified in the following table during the month, not fewer than 30 hours per week of which are attributable to a work activity:

- If the month is:
  - 1996:
    - 1997: 20
    - 1998: 20
    - 1999: 20
  - 2000: 35
  - 2001: 35
  - 2002: 35

(4) LIMITATION ON VOCATIONAL EDUCATION ACTIVITIES COUNTED AS WORK.—For purposes of subsection (d)(2), vocational educational training shall be counted as work if the individual meets the following criteria:

- Under the State plan approved under section (c), the individual is participating in a work activity described in paragraph (2) of section 402(a)(7).
- The individual is not a minor child.
- The individual is engaged in work for at least 30 hours per week of which are attributable to a work activity.

(5) ENGAGED IN WORK.—(1) ALL FAMILIES.—For purposes of subsection (b)(2)(B)(i), an adult is engaged in work if the adult is participating in work for at least the minimum number of hours per week specified in the following table during the month, not fewer than 30 hours per week of which are attributable to a work activity:

(6) PENALTIES AGAINST INDIVIDUALS.—(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraphs (3) and (4), a State may not reduce or terminate assistance under the State program funded under this part to a family that has entered into the plan in accordance with the State plan approved under section (c) if such individual provides child care services to other individuals participating in the community service program in the manner, and for the period of time each week, determined appropriate by the State.

(7) MINOR CHILD EXCEPTION.—If an individual received assistance under the State program

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE October 30, 1995 operated under this part as a minor child in a needy family, any period during which such individual's family received assistance shall not be controlled for the purposes of applying the limitation described in paragraph (1) to an application for assistance under such program by such individual as the head of a household of a needy family or household.

(2) HARDSHIP EXCEPTION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The State may exempt a familiar from the application of paragraph (1) by reason of hardship.

(B) LIMITATION.—The number of families with respect to which an exemption made by a State under paragraph (A) in effect for any fiscal year shall not exceed 20 percent of the av-ge monthly number of families to which the State is providing assistance under the program operated under this part.

(C) DENIAL OF ASSISTANCE FOR 10 YEARS TO A PERSON FOUND TO HAVE FRATULently MIS-REPRESENTED—In general, a State may deny assistance to a minor child, if the State determines, for purposes of applying the limitation desdcribed in paragraph (1) to an application for assistance under such program by such individual, that the child or the individual, upon whom the individual is dependent, fraudulently misrepresented on an application for assistance the information necessary for the State to make an accurate determination, or that the child is a member of a family of which the individual is excluded or has misrepresented the information necessary for the determination of assistance for the family.

(3) RESTRICTIONS.—

(A) Young women 17 and under who give birth out of wedlock are more likely to experience low verbal cognitive attainments and a greater likelihood of becoming teenage parents themselves.

(B) The increase in the number of children born out-of-wedlock was 6.200,000 in 1970;
and

(C) children born out-of-wedlock are more likely to experience low birth weight.

(4) In 1992, only 54 percent of single-parent families, nearly ½ of the mothers who never married received AFDC while only ½ of divorced mothers received AFDC.

(5) The number of individuals receiving aid to families with dependent children (hereafter in this subsection referred to as "AFDC") has more than tripled since 1965. More than two-thirds of these recipients were single parents, and 90.8 percent of children receiving AFDC benefits now live in homes in which no father is present.

(A) The average monthly number of children receiving AFDC benefits

... (ii) has information that is necessary for the State to make an accurate determination, ...

(B) Young women 17 and under who give birth outside of marriage are more likely to go on public assistance and to spend more years on welfare once enrolled. These combined effects of 'younger and longer' increase total AFDC costs by 25 percent to 30 percent for 17-year-olds.

(B) Children born out-of-wedlock have a substantially higher risk of being born at a very low birth weight.

(C) Children born out-of-wedlock are more likely to experience low verbal cognitive attainments, as well as more child abuse, and neglect.

(D) Children born out-of-wedlock were more likely to have lower cognitive scores, lower educational aspirations, and a greater likelihood of becoming teenage parents themselves.

(E) Being born out-of-wedlock significantly reduces the chances of the child growing up to have an intact marriage.

(F) Children born out-of-wedlock are 3 more times likely to be on welfare when they grow up.

(G) Currently 35 percent of children in single-parent families have less than the same percentage as that of children in single-parent homes whose parents are divorced (37 percent).

(H) Among single-parent families, nearly ½ of the mothers who never married received AFDC while only ¼ of divorced mothers received AFDC.

(I) Mothers under 20 years of age are at the greatest risk of bearing low birth-weight babies.

(J) The younger the single parent mother,
the less likely she is to finish high school.

(K) Children from single-parent homes are very likely to fail and repeat a year in grade school than are children from intact two-parent families.

(L) Children from single-parent homes are more likely to be expelled or suspended from school.

(M) Neighborhoods with larger percentages of younger people are more likely to be affected by, the large numbers of children born out of wedlock.

(N) Of these youth held for criminal offenses within the State juvenile justice system, only 29.8 percent lived primarily in a home with both parents. In contrast to these incarcerated youth, 90.8 percent of the Nation's resident population were living with both parents.

(O) Therefore, in light of this demonstration of the crisis in our Nation's family, it is up to the Congress that prevention of out-of-wedlock pregnancy and reduction in out-of-wedlock birth are very important Government interests and the policy contained in provisions of this title is intended to address the crisis.
(B) REQUIREMENT THAT TEENAGE PARENTS LIVE IN ADULT-SUPERVISED SETTINGS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year beginning after fiscal year 1992, the Secretary shall impose on any State that provides assistance under the State program (or in an alternative arrangement as the amount of the State grant described in subparagraph (A) on the basis of the degree of noncompliance.

"(2) FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH PATERNITY ESTABLISHMENT AND CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT REQUIREMENTS UNDER PART D.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, if the Secretary determines that a State agency that administers a program funded under this part does not enforce the penalties requested by the agency administering part D against recipients who fail to cooperate in establishing paternity in accordance with such part, the Secretary shall reduce by not more than 5 percent the amount of the grant that would (in the absence of this section) be payable to the State under section 403 for the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"(3) FOR FAILURE TO TIMELY REPAY A FEDERAL LOAN FUND FOR STATE WELFARE PROGRAMS.—If the Secretary determines that a State has failed to repay any amount borrowed from the Federal Loan Fund for State Welfare Programs, the Secretary shall—

"(A) FOR FAILURE TO SATISFY MINIMUM PARTICIPATION RATES.—If the Secretary determines that a State program funded under this part is not participating during a fiscal year in the income and eligibility verification system, the Secretary shall not reduce the amount of the grant that would (in the absence of this section) be payable to the State under section 403 for the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"(B) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT OF PENALTY.—The Secretary may not impose a penalty on a State under subparagraph (A) for a fiscal year if the State submits the report before the end of the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"(C) FOR FAILURE TO SATISFY UNRECOVERED PENALTIES.—To the extent that subparagraph (A) prevents the Secretary from recovering during a fiscal year the full amount of all penalties imposed on a State under subsection (a) for a prior fiscal year, the Secretary shall apply any remaining amount of such penalties to the grant otherwise payable to the State under section 403 for the immediately succeeding fiscal year (or, if a fiscal year in the income and eligibility verification system, the Secretary shall reduce by not more than 5 percent the amount of the grant that would (in the absence of this section) be payable to the State under section 403 for the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"(D) REASONABLE CAUSE FOR NONCOMPLIANCE.—The Secretary may not impose a penalty... on a State under subsection (a) if the Secretary determines that the State has reasonable cause for believing that the State is not complying with a requirement of this part for which a penalty is imposed under such subsection.

'CERTIFICATION OF AMOUNT OF PENALTIES.—If the Secretary is required to reduce the amount of any grant under this section, the Secretary shall certify the amount of such reduction in the Treasury. The Secretary of the Treasury shall reduce the amount paid to the State under section 403 by such amount.

'(E) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

'(1) IN GENERAL.—The penalties described in paragraphs (2) through (6) of subsection (a) shall apply—

'(a) with respect to periods beginning 6 months after the Secretary issues final rules with respect to such penalties; or

'(b) with respect to fiscal years beginning on or after October 1, 1989, whichever is later.

'(F) MISUSE OF FUNDS.—The penalties described in subsection (a)(1) through (a)(6) shall apply with respect to fiscal years beginning on or after October 1, 1995.

'SEC. 406. AUDITS.

'(a) IN GENERAL.—Each State shall, not less than annually, audit the State expenditures from amounts received under this part. Such audit shall—

'(1) determine the extent to which such expenditures were or were not expended in accordance with this part; and

'(2) be conducted by an approved entity (as defined in subsection (b)) in accordance with generally accepted auditing principles.

'(b) APPROVED ENTITY.—For purposes of subsection (a), the term "approved entity" means an entity that—

'(1) is approved by the Secretary of the Treasury;

'(2) is independent of any agency administering activities funded under this part;

'(3) is approved by the chief executive officer of the State; and

'(4) is approved by the head of each agency administering activities under this part.

'(c) AUDIT REPORT.—Not later than 30 days following the completion of an audit under this subsection, a State shall submit a copy of the audit to the State legislature, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

'SEC. 406A. ADDITIONAL ACOUNTING REQUIREMENTS.—The provisions of chapter 7 of title 31, United States Code, shall apply to the audit requirements provided in subsection (a).

'SEC. 406B. DATA COLLECTION AND REPORTING.

(d) Distribution of Report.—Copies of the report described in this subsection along with a facsimile of the prototype card as described in subsection (a) shall be submitted to the Committees on Finance of the Senate and the House of Representatives and the Committees on Ways and Means and Judiciary of the House of Representatives within 1 year of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(e) Modifications to the Job Opportunities for Certain Low-income Individuals Program.—Section 505 of the Family Support Act of 1988 (42 U.S.C. 1313 note) is amended—

(f) Use of Funds.—The grants made under subsection (b), in order that school facilities can be more fully utilized, shall be used to provide for, among other things—

(1) extending the length of the school day, expanding the scope of student programs offered before and after existing school hours, enabling parents and others paid from other sources to teach, tutor, coach, organize, advise, or monitor students before and after existing school hours, and providing supplies, uniforms, and tutorial services before and after existing school hours for these programs;

(2) in the school facilities available for community and neighborhood clubs, civic associations and organizations. Boy and Girl Scouts and similar organizations. adult education classes, organized sports, parent education classes, and other educational, recreational, and social activities.

None of the funds provided under this section can be used to supplant funds already provided to a school facility for services, equipment, personnel, or utilities nor can funds be used to pay costs associated with operating school facilities engaged in activities already available for student or community use.

(e) Applications.—

(1) In General.—The Governor of each State shall prepare a demonstration project under this section and shall apply for such grants to the Secretary for the purposes of conducting demonstration projects under this section.

(f) Approval.—The Secretary shall approve applications received from States desiring to conduct demonstration projects under this section. The Secretary shall approve such applications in a number of States to be determined by the Secretary to promote the overall funding levels available under this section.

(g) Duration.—A demonstration project under this section shall be conducted for not more than 4 years plus an additional time period of up to 2 months for final evaluation and reporting. The Secretary may terminate a project if the Secretary determines that the project is not in substantial compliance with the terms of the application approved by the Secretary under this section.

(h) Evaluation Plan.—

(i) Standards.—Not later than 3 months after the date of enactment of this section, the Secretary shall develop and publish the effectiveness of each demonstration project in contributing toward meeting the objectives set forth in subsection (a), which shall include the requirement that an independent expert entity selected by the Secretary provide a comprehensive evaluation of all demonstration projects, which evaluations shall be included in the appropriate State's annual and final reports to the Secretary under subsection (b)(1).

(j) Submission of Plan.—Each State conducting a demonstration project under this section shall submit an evaluation plan (meeting the standards developed by the Secretary under paragraph (i)) to the Secretary within 90 days after the State is notified of the Secretary's approval for such project. A State shall not receive any Federal funds for the operation of the evaluation plan until the Secretary approves such evaluation plan.

(k) Reports.—

(1) In General.—A State that conducts a demonstration project under this section shall prepare and submit to the Secretary and annual and final reports in accordance with the State's evaluation plan set forth in subsection (a)(2) for such demonstration project.

(2) Secretary.—The Secretary shall prepare and submit to the Congress annual reports concerning each demonstration project under this section.

(including the names, social security numbers or other uniform identification numbers, and State case identification numbers) to identify the individual or entity, as determined pursuant to paragraph (2). (b) The Secretary shall prescribe standards to ensure that the confidentiality of any information described in this subsection is maintained.

2. Subject to subparagraph (A), the Secretary shall ensure that the State or Federal agency that previously supplied information to the Secretary pursuant to subparagraph (A) shall—

(a) establish and implement safeguards with respect to the entities established under this section designed to—

(i) ensure the accuracy and completeness of information in the Federal Parent Locator Service, and

(ii) restrict access to confidential information contained in the Federal Parent Locator Service to authorized persons.

(b) Each department, agency, and instrumentality of the United States shall, as appropriate, and within a reasonable time after such a comparison reveals a match with respect to an individual, report the information to the State agency responsible for the case.

3. To the extent and with the frequency that the Secretary determines to be necessary for accurate compliance with the requirements of this section, the Secretary may, by rule, prescribe standards for the collection and maintenance of such information as the Secretary determines to be necessary to ensure that such information is collected and maintained accurately.

4. The Secretary shall provide the National Directory of New Hires within 2 business days of receipt pursuant to section 453A(g)(1). (d) The Secretary of the Treasury shall have access to the information in the National Directory of New Hires for purposes of administering section 3506 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, or the advance payment of the earned income tax credit under section 3307 of such Code, and verifying a claim with respect to employment in a reasonable manner.

(2) The Secretary shall maintain within the National Directory of New Hires a list of matched cases for purposes of matching newly hired employees pursuant to section 453A(g)(2), and the State which each such employer has designated to receive such information.

(3) The Secretary shall transmit information on individuals and employers maintained under this section to the Social Security Administration in a form and manner necessary for verification in accordance with subparagraph (B).

(B) The Social Security Administration shall verify the data on the extent possible, and report to the Secretary, the following information supplied by the Secretary pursuant to subparagraph (A):

(i) The name, Social Security number, and birth date of each such individual.

(ii) The employer identification number of each such employer.

(3) For the purpose of locating individuals in a paternity establishment case or a case involving the collection of child support, the Secretary shall—

(a) compare information in the National Directory of New Hires with support case abstracts in the Federal Case Registry of Child Support Orders not less often than every 2 business days; and

(b) within 2 business days after such a comparison reveals a match with respect to an individual, report the information to the State agency responsible for the case.

(4) To the extent and with the frequency that the Secretary determines to be necessary for accurate compliance with the requirements of this section, the Secretary shall—

(a) compare the information in each component of the National Parent Locator Service maintained under this section against the information in each other such component (other than the comparison required by paragraph (2)), and report instances in which such a comparison reveals a match with respect to an individual to State agencies operating such programs; and

(b) disclose information in such registry to assist State agencies in determining whether a new hire's wages should be subject to withholding for purposes of section 453A(b) for research purposes found by the Secretary to be likely to contribute to achieving the purposes of part A or this part, but without personal identifying information.

(5) The Secretary shall reimburse the Commissioner of Social Security, at a rate to be established by the Commissioner, for the costs incurred by the Commissioner in performing the verification services described in this subsection.

(6) The Secretary shall reimburse costs incurred by State directories of new hires in furnishing information as required by subsection (j)(2), at rates which the Secretary determines to be reasonable and will not include the cost of obtaining, compiling, or maintaining such information.

(7) A State that receives information from the Secretary pursuant to this section shall reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary in furnishing the information to be reasonable (which rates shall include payment for the costs of obtaining, verifying, maintaining, and comparing the information).

(8) In the Federal Parent Locator Service, and information resulting from comparisons using such information, shall not be used or disclosed except as expressly provided in this section, subject to section 6103 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

(9) The Secretary shall establish and implement safeguards with respect to the entities established under this section designed to—

(i) ensure the accuracy and completeness of information in the Federal Parent Locator Service; and

(ii) restrict access to confidential information contained in the Federal Parent Locator Service to authorized persons.

(10) Each department, agency, and instrumentality of the United States shall, as appropriate, and within a reasonable basis report to the Federal Parent Locator Service the name and social security number of each employee and the wages paid to the employee during the previous quarter, except that no report shall be filed with respect to an employee of a department, agency, or instrumentality if the Secretary determines that the keeping of such records would not be in the public interest.

(11) The Federal Parent Locator Service shall notify such State agency that further payment will not be made to the State until the Secretary of Labor is satisfied that there is no longer any such failure. Until the Secretary of Labor is so satisfied, the Secretary shall make no further certification to the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to the State.

(2) For purposes of this subsection—

(A) the term 'wage information' means information regarding wages paid to an individual, the time and place of their payment, the amount of such compensation being received (or to be received by such individual), and the individual's current (or most recent) address, and the name, address, State, and the Federal employer identification number of the employer paying such wages to such individual; and

(B) the term 'claim information' means information regarding whether an individual is receiving, has received, or has made application for unemployment compensation, the amount of unemployment compensation, the amount of earnings will not be made to the State until the Secretary of Labor is satisfied that there is no longer any such failure. Until the Secretary of Labor is so satisfied, the Secretary shall make no further certification to the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to the State.

3. To make the wage information and claim information available to the State agencies charged with the administration of the Social Security Act, the Social Security Administration shall provide the wage and claim information contained in the records of such agency.

(2) The wage and unemployment compensation information contained in the records of such agency shall be furnished to the Secretary of Health and Human Services, with the concurrence of the Secretary of Labor, may be reasonable (which rates shall include payment for the costs of obtaining, verifying, maintaining, and comparing the information).

(3) Whenever the Secretary of Labor, after reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing, determines to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that the wage information and claim information contained in the records of such agency is necessary for purposes of the Social Security Act, the Social Security Administration shall provide such wage and claim information contained in the records of such agency.

(4) The Secretary of Labor or the Secretary of the Treasury shall have access to the information in the National Directory of New Hires for purposes of administering section 3506 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, or the advance payment of the earned income tax credit under section 3307 of such Code, and verifying a claim with respect to employment in a reasonable manner.
each party named in the certificate or license to furnish to the State (or political subdivision thereof), or any State agency having administrative responsibility for the law involved, the social security number of each party to the decree, order, determination, or acknowledgment in the records relating to the matter, for the purpose of responding to requests for information from an agency operating pursuant to part D of title IV.

CHAPTER 3—STREAMLINING AND UNIFORMITY OF PROCEDURES

SEC. 7321. ADOPTION OF UNIFORM STATE LAWS.

Section 454(a)(2)(A) of the Social Security Act is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

(1) in order to satisfy section 454(a)(2)(A) on or after January 1, 1997, each State must have in effect the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act as approved by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in August 1992 (with the modifications and additions specified in this subsection), and the procedures required to implement such Act.

(2) The State law enacted pursuant to paragraph (1) may be applied to any case involving an order which is established or modified in a State and which is sought to be modified or enforced in another State.

(3) The State law enacted pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection shall contain the following provision in lieu of section 61(a)(1) of the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act:

(1) the following paragraph:

(II) the child, the individual obligee, and the obligor;

(II) do not reside in the issuing State; and

(II) either reside in this State or are subject to the jurisdiction of this State pursuant to section 201; and

(II) in any case where another State is exercising or seeks to exercise jurisdiction to modify the order, the conditions of section 201 are met to the same extent as required for proceeding to establish orders or:

(4) The State law enacted pursuant to paragraph (1) shall provide that, in any proceeding subject to the law, process may be served (and

SEC. 7322. IMPROVEMENTS TO FULL FAITH AND CREDIT FOR CHILD SUPPORT OR- DERS.

Section 1738B of title 28, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(2), by striking "subsection (b) and inserting "subsections (e), (f), and (I);

(2) in subsection (b), by inserting after the 2nd undesignated paragraph the following:

(II) means the State in which a child lived with a parent or a person acting as parent for at least 6 consecutive months immediately preceding the time of filing of a petition or comparable pleading for support and, if a child is less than 6 months old, the State in which the child was born with any of them. A period of temporary absence of any of them is counted as part of the 6-month period.

(3) in subsection (c), by inserting "by a court of a State" before "is made";

(4) in subsection (d)(1), by inserting "and subsections (e)" after "located";

(5) in subsection (d)—

(A) by inserting "individual" before "contestant"; and

(B) by striking "section (e) and inserting "subsections (e) and (f)";

(6) in subsection (e), by striking "make a none of the of due support order with respect to a child that is made" and inserting "modify a child support order issued";

(7) in subsection (e)(1), by inserting "pursuant to subsection (f)" before the semicolon;

(8) in subsection (e)(2)—

(A) by inserting "individual" before "contestant";

(B) by striking "to that that effect making the modification and assuming" and inserting "State with the continuing, exclusive jurisdiction for the other State to modify the order and assume";

(9) by redesignating subsections (f) and (g) as subsections (g) and (h), respectively;

(10) by inserting after subsection (e) the following new subsection:

(1) RECOGNITION OF CHILD SUPPORT OR-

DERS.—If 1 or more child support orders have been issued in this or another State with respect to an obligor and a child, a court shall apply the following rules in determining which order to recognize for purposes of continuing, exclusive jurisdiction and enforcement:

(1) if only 1 court has issued a child support order, the order of that court must be recognized;

(2) if 2 or more courts have issued child support orders for the same obligor and child, and only 1 of the courts would have continuing, exclusive jurisdiction under this section, the order of that court must be recognized.

(3) if 2 or more courts have issued child support orders for the same obligor and child, and more than 1 of the courts would have continuing, exclusive jurisdiction under this section, an order issued by a court in the current home State of the child must be recognized, but if an order has not been issued in the current home State of the child, the order most recently issued must be recognized;

(4) if 2 or more courts have issued child support orders for the same obligor and child, and none of the courts would have continuing, exclusive jurisdiction under this section, a court may issue a child support order, which must be recognized.

(5) the court that has issued an order recognized under this subsection is the court having continuing, exclusive jurisdiction:

(11) in subsection (a) (as so redesignated)—

(A) by striking "PROV" a converting "MODI-FIED"; and

(B) by striking "subsection (e) and inserting "subsections (e) and (f)";

(12) in subsection (b) (as so redesignated)—

(A) in paragraph (2), by inserting "including the "duration of support proceedings and other obligations of support" before the comma; and

(B) in paragraph (3), by inserting "arrears under" after "enforce"; and

(13) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

(1) REGISTRATION FOR MODIFICATION.—If there is no individual contestant or child resisting in the proceeding, the enforcement agency seeking to modify, or to modify and enforce, a child support order issued in any other State shall notify the court in that State with jurisdiction over the nonmovant for the purpose of modification.

SEC. 7323. ADMINISTRATIVE ENFORCEMENT IN INTERSTATE CASES.

Section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)), as amended by sections 7315 and 7317(a), is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(a) Procedures under which a State shall conduct within 5 business days to a request made by another State to enforce a support order: and

(b) the term "business day" means a day on which State offices are open for regular business;

(6) the State may, by electronic or other means, transmit to another State a request for assistance in a case involving the enforcement of a support order, which request—

(1) shall include such information as will enable the State to which the request is transmitted to compare the information about the case to the information in the data bases of the State;

(2) shall constitute a certification by the requesting State—

(I) of the amount of support under the order the State is entitled to enforce; and

(II) that the requesting State has compiled with all procedural due process requirements applicable to the case;

(3) if the State provides assistance to another State pursuant to this paragraph with respect to a case, neither State shall consider the case to be transferred to the caseload of such other State; and

(4) the State shall maintain records of—

(a) the number of such requests for assistance received by the State;

(b) the number of cases for which the State collected support in response to such a request;

(c) the number of cases for which the State provided assistance; and

(d) the number of requests for assistance that were not answered.

SEC. 7324. USE OF FORMS IN INTERSTATE EN.

(a) PROMULGATION.—Section 452(a) (42 U.S.C. 652(a)) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (9),

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (10) and inserting ";" and,

(3) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

SEC. 7325. STATE LAWS PROVIDING EXPEDITED PROCEEDURES.

(a) STATE LAW REQUIREMENTS.—Section 466 (42 U.S.C. 666), as amended by section 7315, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(2), by striking the 1st sentence and inserting the following:

"Expedit-
The procedures specified in this subsection are the following:

(i) Procedures which give the State agency the ability to effect the following actions relating to establishment or enforcement of support orders, without the necessity of obtaining an order of a court, administrative tribunal, or local jurisdiction, and to recognize and enforce the authority of State agencies of other States to take the following actions:

(a) Procedures under which—

(i) each party to any paternity or child support proceeding is required (subject to privacy safeguards) to file with the tribunal and the State case registry upon entry of an order, and to update as appropriate, information on location and identity of the party, including social security number, residential and mailing address, telephone number, driver's license number, and the name and telephone number of employer; and

(ii) in any subsequent child support enforcement action, which is supported by sufficient evidence showing that diligent effort has been made to ascertain the location of such a party, the tribunal may deem State due process requirements for notice and opportunity to appear with respect to the party, upon delivery of written notice to the most recent residential or employer address filed with the tribunal pursuant to clause (i).

(b) Procedures under which—

(ii) in all orders are issued by courts or administrative tribunals, a case may be transferred between local jurisdictions in the State without need for any additional filing by the petitioner, or service of process upon the respondent, to retain jurisdiction over the parties.

(c) Procedures for a simple civil process.

(II) pursuant to an order issued in a judicial or administrative proceeding.

(III) if the father and mother have signed an affidavit as provided in subsection (a)(2), the father may deem State due process requirements for notice and opportunity to appear with respect to the party, upon delivery of written notice to any recent residential or employer address filed with the tribunal pursuant to clause (i).

(IV) automatic procedures for a simple civil process.

(V) upon sufficient notice to the party, to develop and use an affidavit for the voluntary acknowledgment of paternity which includes—

(a) the name of the party; and

(b) a statement of the alternatives to the legal consequences of the refusal to cooperate; or

(c) the information required for the filer to verify the accuracy of the information submitted.

(VI) an order requiring the party, upon sufficient notice to the party, to develop and use an affidavit for the voluntary acknowledgment of paternity.

(VII) upon sufficient notice to the party, to develop and use an affidavit for the voluntary acknowledgment of paternity.

(VIII) in a case in which the party is a minor, any rights afforded by the minor status and responsibilities that arise from the nonexistence of sexual contact between the parties.

(iii) Procedures which require the State agency to obtain an admission of paternity in a case in which the agency orders genetic testing—

(I) to pay costs of such tests, subject to recoupment (where the State so elects) from the party; or

(ii) to obtain additional testing in any case where an original test result is contested, upon request and advance payment by the contestant.

(iv) Procedures for a simple civil process for effecting the voluntary acknowledgment of paternity which the State must provide that, before a mother and a putative father can sign an acknowledgment of paternity, the mother and the putative father must be given notice, orally and in writing, of the alternatives to, the legal consequences of, and the rights (including, if I parent is a minor, any rights afforded by the minor status) and responsibilities that arise from, signing the acknowledgment.

(v) Procedures which must include a hospital-based program for the voluntary establishment of paternity focusing on the period immediately before or after the birth of a child, subject to such good cause and other exceptions as may be necessary to bring the child into account the best interests of the child.

(vi) Such procedures must require the State agency responsible for maintaining birth record services to offer voluntary paternity establishment services.

(II) (a) The Secretary shall prescribe regulations governing voluntary paternity establishment services offered by hospitals and birth record agencies.

(b) The Secretary shall prescribe regulations specifying the types of other entities that may offer voluntary paternity establishment services and governing the provision of such services, which shall include a requirement that such an entity must use the same notice provisions used by, use the same materials used by, provide the personnel providing such services with the same training provided by, and evaluate the provision of such services in the same manner as the provision of such services is evaluated by, voluntary paternity establishment programs of hospitals and birth record agencies.

(III) (a) If the State agency determines that it is infeasible, to implement the expedited administrative procedures required by section 452(a)(7) for the voluntary acknowledgment of paternity, and to give full faith and credit to such an affidavit signed in any other State according to its procedures.

(b) Procedures under which the name of the father shall be included on the record of birth of the child only—

(I) if the father and mother have signed a voluntary acknowledgment of paternity; or

(ii) pursuant to an order issued in a judicial or administrative proceeding.

Nothing in this clause shall preclude a State agency from obtaining an admission of paternity from the father for submission in a judicial or administrative proceeding, or prohibit an proceeding which bases a legal finding of paternity on an admission of paternity by the father and any other additional showing required by State law.

(iii) Procedures under which—

(I) a voluntary acknowledgment of paternity is considered a legal finding of paternity, subject to the right of any party to rescind the acknowledgment within 60 days.

(II) after the 60-day period referred to in clause (I), a signed voluntary acknowledgment of paternity shall not be valid on the basis of fraud, duress, or material mistake of fact, with the burden of proof upon

CHAPTER 8—MEDICAL SUPPORT

SEC. 7378. TECHNICAL CORRECTION TO ERISA
DEFINITION OF MEDICAL CHILD SUPPORT ORDER

(1) by striking "issued by a court of competent jurisdiction";

(2) by striking the period at the end of clause (i) and inserting in its place a colon; and

(3) by adding, after and below clause (ii), the following: "if such judgment, decree, or order (I) is issued by a court of competent jurisdiction or (II) is issued through an administrative process established under State law and has the force and effect of law under applicable State law."

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) PLAN AMENDMENTS NOT REQUIRED UNTIL JANUARY 1, 1996.—Any amendment to a plan required to be made by an amendment made by this section shall be made by the employer, which shall not be required to be made before the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1996.

(3) DURING THE PERIOD AFTER THE DATE BEFORE THE DATE OF THE ENACTMENT OF THIS ACT AND BEFORE SUCH 1ST PLAN YEAR, THE PLAN IS OPERATED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE AMENDMENTS MADE BY THIS SECTION AND SUCH PLAN AMENDMENT APPLIES RETROACTIVELY TO THE PERIOD AFTER THE DATE BEFORE THE DATE OF THE ENACTMENT OF THIS ACT AND BEFORE SUCH 1ST PLAN YEAR.

A plan shall not be treated as failing to be operated in accordance with the provisions of the plan merely because it operates in accordance with the provisions of this Act and such plan amendment applies retroactively to the period after the date before the date of the enactment of this Act and before such 1st plan year.

Chapter 9—Enhancing Responsibility and Opportunity for Nonresident Parents

SEC. 7381. GRANTS TO STATES FOR ACCESS AND VISITATION PROGRAMS

Part D of title IV (42 U.S.C. 651-669) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 7494A. GRANTS TO STATES FOR ACCESS AND VISITATION PROGRAMS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administration for Children and Families shall make grants under this section to States to establish and administer programs to support and facilitate access to and visitation of children by means of activities including mediation (both voluntary and mandatory), counseling, education, development of parenting plans, visitation enforcement (including monitoring, support enforcement, and courtroom-assisted and noncourt assister), and development of guidelines for visitation and alternative custody arrangements.

"(b) AMOUNT OF GRANT.—The amount of the grant under this section for a fiscal year shall be an amount equal to the lesser of—

(1) 20 percent of State expenditures during the fiscal year for activities described in subsection (a); or

(2) the allotment of the State under section (c) for the fiscal year.

"(c) ALLOTMENTS TO STATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each grant to a State for a fiscal year is the amount that bears the same ratio to the amount appropriated for grants under this section for such fiscal year as the number of children in the State living with only 1 biological parent bears to the total number of such children in all States.

"(2) MINIMUM AMOUNT.—The Administration for Children and Families shall adjust allotments to States under paragraph (1) as necessary to ensure that no State is allotted less than—

(A) $50,000 for fiscal year 1996, or

(B) $100,000 for any succeeding fiscal year.

"(d) NO SUPPLANTATION OF STATE EXPENDITURES FOR SIMILAR ACTIVITIES.—A State to which a grant is made under this section may not use the grant to supplant expenditures by the State for activities specified in subsection (a), but shall use the grant to supplement such expenditures at a level at least equal to the level of such expenditures for fiscal year 1996.

"(e) GRACE PERIOD FOR STATE LAW CHANGES.—

(1) the provision of this subsection requiring the amendment or enactment of State laws under section 468 of the Social Security Act, or revision of State plans under section 454 of such Act, shall be effective with respect to periods beginning on and after October 1, 1996; and

(2) all other provisions of this subsection shall become effective upon the date of the enactment of this Act.

"(f) GRACE PERIOD FOR STATE LAW CHANGES.—The provisions of this subsection shall become effective with respect to a State on the later of—

(1) the date specified in subsection (e), or

(2) the effective date of laws enacted by the legislature of such State implementing such provisions.

"(g) IN GENERAL.—If a determination described in paragraph (a) is made, the amount of income and resources of any person who, as a sponsor of such individual's entry into the United States, is able to provide support for the person in the United States, and the amount of income and resources described in subsection (b) shall, notwithstanding any other provision of law, be deemed to be the income and resources of such individual.

Chapter 10—Effect of Enactment

SEC. 7391. EFFECTIVE DATES

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise specifically provided (but subject to subsections (b) and (c)),—

(1) the provisions of this subsection requiring the amendment or enactment of State laws under section 468 of the Social Security Act, or revision of State plans under section 454 of such Act, shall be effective with respect to periods beginning on and after October 1, 1996; and

(2) all other provisions of this subsection shall become effective upon the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) GRACE PERIOD FOR STATE LAW CHANGES.—

The provisions of this subsection shall become effective with respect to a State on the later of—

(1) the date specified in subsection (c), or

(2) the effective date of laws enacted by the legislature of such State implementing such provisions.

"(i) IN GENERAL.—If a determination described in paragraph (a) is made, the amount of income and resources of any person who, as a sponsor of such individual's entry into the United States, is able to provide support for the person in the United States, and the amount of income and resources described in subsection (b) shall, notwithstanding any other provision of law, be deemed to be the income and resources of such individual.

Chapter 11—Deemed Income and Resources

SECTION 10001. REFERENCES: GENERAL EFFECTIVE-DATE

(a) REFERENCES.—Except as otherwise expressly provided, wherever in this title an amendment or repeal is expressed in terms of an amendment to, or repeal of, a section or other provision, the reference shall be considered to be made to a section or other provision of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.).

(b) GENERAL EFFECTIVE DATE.—Unless otherwise specifically in this title, the amendments made by this title shall take effect on January 1, 1996. becomes a member of the Armed Forces or enters on active duty during any fiscal year beginning on or after October 1, 1996, and before September 30, 1997, and who does not make an election under subsection (d)(1) of this section, shall be reduced, for each of the first 12 months that such individual is on active duty, by an amount equal to the amount of the reduction required under this subsection during the preceding fiscal year increased by the percentage, if any, of amounts payable for educational assistance are increased under section 301(g) of this title with respect to the fiscal year during which the individual first becomes a member of the Armed Forces or enters on active duty.

(2) Any amount by which the basic pay of an individual is reduced under this chapter shall result in the same manner and shall not for purposes of any Federal law be considered to have been received by or to be within the control of such individual.

Subtitle D—Miscellaneous

SEC. 11441. CLARIFICATION OF ENTITLEMENT FOR BENEFITS FOR DISABILITY RESULTING FROM TREATMENT OR VACCINATION SERVICES PROVIDED BY DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AF

(a) CLARIFICATION.—The text of section 1151 of title 38, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(a) Disability or death compensation shall be increased under this chapter, and dependency and indemnity compensation shall be awarded under chapter 13 of this title, for additional disability or death of a veteran in the same manner as if such additional disability or death, as the case may be, were service-connected if such additional disability or death—" (A) is the result of the veteran's willful misconduct; and

(B) results from—"

"(i) gross negligence, lack of proper skill, error in judgment, or similar instance of fault in any hospital care, medical or surgical treatment, or examination furnished either by a Department employee or in a Department facility under any of the laws administered by the Secretary;

"(ii) an event in such hospital care, medical or surgical treatment, or examination that is not reasonably foreseeable or"

"(iii) the provision of training and rehabilitative services by or for a service provider by the Secretary for such provision under section 1115 of this title as part of an approved rehabilitation program under chapter 31 of this title.

"(2) For purposes of paragraph (1), the term 'Department facility' means a facility over which the Secretary has direct jurisdiction.

"(b) Where an individual is, on or after December 1, 1996, awarded a judgment against the United States in a civil action brought pursuant to section 1346 of title 28 or, on or after December 1, 1996, enters into a settlement or compromise on account of a disability or death treated pursuant to this section as if it were service-connected, no benefit shall be paid to such individual for any month beginning after the date such judgment, settlement, or compromise on account of such disability or death becomes final until the aggregate amount of benefits which would be paid but for this subsection equals the total amount included in such judgment, settlement, or compromise.

Effect of Date.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and apply to claims filed (including original claims and applications to reopen previously denied claims) on or after that date, regardless of the date of the occurrence of an additional disability or death upon which the claims are based.
SEC. 12001. CREDIT FOR ADOPTION EXPENSES.

(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by this subtitle for the taxable year beginning after December 31, 1995, an amount determined under section 21(a). In the case of a joint return, the credit allowable under this subsection shall be determined by subtracting the sum of the credits allowable under section 21(a) for such taxable years of the individuals filing the joint return.

(b) LIMITATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the credit which would [but for this subsection] be allowed by subsection (a) shall be reduced (but not below zero) by $25 for each $1,000 (or fraction thereof) by which the taxpayer’s adjusted gross income exceeds the threshold amount.

(2) THRESHOLD AMOUNT.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the term ‘threshold amount’ means—

- For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995:
  - 1996: $8,000
  - 1997: 7,500
  - 1998: 7,500
  - 1999: 7,500
  - 2000: 8,200
  - 2001: 8,600
  - 2002: 9,100
  - 2003: 9,100
  - 2004: 9,500
  - 2005 and thereafter: 10,800

(c) LIMITATION OF ADDITIONS TO EXCESSIVE APPLICABLE DOLLAR AMOUNT.—The amount of the credit allowable under subsection (a) shall be reduced (but not below zero) by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount so allowable (determined without regard to this paragraph but with regard to paragraph (1)) as—

- The amount (if any) by which the taxpayer’s tax liability exceeds $15,000, bears to
- $10,000.

(d) QUALIFIED ADOPTION EXPENSES.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘qualified adoption expenses’ means reasonable and necessary adoption fees, court costs, attorney fees, and other expenses—

- Which are directly related to, and the principal purpose of which is, the final adoption of an eligible child by the taxpayer, and
- Which are not incurred in violation of State or Federal law or in carrying out any surrogate parenting arrangement.

(e) EXCEPTIONS FOR ADOPTION OF SPOUSE’S CHILD NOT ELIGIBLE.—The term ‘qualified adoption of a child by an employee if such amounts are furnished pursuant to an adoption assistance program.

(f) LIMITATIONS.—

(1) DOLLAR LIMITATION.—The aggregate amount allowable under subsection (a) for any taxable year shall be reduced (but not below zero) by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount so allowable (determined without regard to this paragraph but with regard to paragraph (1)) as—

- The amount (if any) by which the taxpayer’s tax liability exceeds $15,000, bears to
- $10,000.

(g) DOUBLE BENEFIT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—No credit shall be allowed under subsection (a) for any expense for which a deduction or credit is allowable under any other provision of this chapter.

(2) GRANTS.—No credit shall be allowed under subsection (a) for any expense which is eligible for the credit under section 25A, or for purposes of this section.

(h) REIMBURSEMENT.—No credit shall be allowed under subsection (a) for any expense to the extent that reimbursement is excluded from gross income under section 137.

(i) CARRYFOWARDS OF UNUSED CREDIT.—If the credit allowed under subsection (a) for any taxable year exceeds the limitation imposed by section 256(a) for such taxable year, the excess shall be carried forward to the succeeding taxable year.

(j) QUALIFIED ADOPTION EXPENSES.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘qualified adoption expenses’ has the meaning given such term by section 24(d).
(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to years beginning after December 31, 1994.

SEC. 12965. CHURCH PLANS MAY ANNUNITIZE BENEFITS.

(a) In General.—A retirement income account described in section 403(b)(9) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, a church plan (within the meaning of section 414(e)) that is a church plan (within the meaning of section 414(e)) under paragraph (1) of section 401(a) (or 401(a)(9)), or an account which consists of qualified voluntary employee contributions described in section 219(e)(2) of such Code (as in effect before the date of the enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1986) and earnings thereon, shall not fail to be described in such sections merely because it pays benefits to participants (and their beneficiaries) from a pool of assets to which contributions are made under such section 403(b)(9) or such Code, or an account which consists of qualified voluntary employee contributions described in section 414(e)(3)(A) of such Code, rather than through the purchase of annuities from an insurance company.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This provision shall be effective for years beginning after December 31, 1994.

SEC. 12966. CHURCH PLANS MAY INCREASE BENEFITS.

(a) In General.—A retirement income account described in section 403(b)(9) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, a church plan (within the meaning of section 414(e)) that is a plan described in section 401(a) or 401A of such Code, or an account which consists of qualified voluntary employee contributions described in section 219(e)(2) of such Code (as in effect before the date of the enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1986) and earnings thereon, shall not fail to be described in such sections merely because it pays benefits to participants (and their beneficiaries) from a pool of assets to which contributions are made under such section 403(b)(9) or such Code, or an account which consists of qualified voluntary employee contributions described in section 414(e)(3)(A) of such Code, rather than through the purchase of annuities from an insurance company.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This provision shall be effective for years beginning after December 31, 1994.

SEC. 12967. RULES APPLICABLE TO SELF-INSURED MEDICAL REIMBURSEMENT PLANS NOT TO APPLY TO PLANS OF CHURCHES.

(a) In General.—Section 105(h) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(ii) except in the case of elective deferrals under a retirement income account described in section 403(b)(9), the excess of $5,000 multiplied by the number of years of service of the employee with the qualified organization over the employer contributions described in paragraph (3) made by the organization on behalf of such employee for prior taxable years (determined in the manner prescribed by the Secretary)."

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to years beginning after December 31, 1994.

SEC. 12968. RETIREMENT BENEFITS OF MINORS—IMMUNITY FROM TAX ON NET EARNINGS FROM SELF-EMPLOYMENT.

(a) In General.—Section 1402(a)(3) (defining net earnings from self-employment) is amended by inserting "but shall not include in such net earnings from self-employment any retirement benefits described in subsection (d) from a church plan (as defined in section 414(f)(6)) before the standard calendar year at the end of which the employee attained age 21", before the semicolon at the end.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning before, on, or after December 31, 1994.
recently reached Zenica and reported that nearly 2,000 family members from this group are still unaccounted for.

(5) The United Nations spokesman in Zagreb reported that many refugees have been given only a few minutes to leave their homes and that "girls as young as 17 are reported to have been taken into wooded areas and raped". Elderly, sick and very young refugees have been driven to remote areas and forced to walk long distances on unsafe roads and cross rivers without bridges.

(6) The War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia has collected volumes of evidence of atrocities, including the establishment of death camps, mass executions and systematic campaigns of rape and terror. This War Crimes Tribunal has already issued 43 indictments on the basis of this evidence.

(7) The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights has described the eyewitness accounts as "prima facie evidence of war crimes which, if confirmed, could very well lead to further indictments by the War Crimes Tribunal".

(8) The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that more than 22,000 Muslims and Croats have been forced from their homes since mid-September in Bosnian Serb controlled areas.

(9) In opening the Dodd Center Symposium on the topic of "50 Years After Nuremberg" on October 16, 1995, President Clinton cited the "excellent progress of the War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and said, "Those accused of war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide must be brought to justice. They must be tried and, if found guilty, they must be held accountable."

(10) President Clinton also observed on October 16, 1995, "Some people are concerned that pursuing peace in Bosnia and prosecuting war criminals are incompatible goals. But I believe they are wrong. There must be peace for justice to prevail, but there must be justice when peace prevails."

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the Senate condemns the systematic human rights abuses against the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(2) with peace talks scheduled to begin in the United States on October 31, 1995, these new reports of Serbian atrocities are of grave concern to all Americans.

(3) the Bosnian Serb leadership should immediately halt these atrocities, fully account for the missing, and allow those who have been separated to return to their families.

(4) the International Red Cross, United Nations agencies and human rights organizations should be granted full and complete access to all locations throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(5) the Bosnian Serb leadership should fully cooperate to facilitate the complete investigation of the above allegations so that those responsible may be held accountable under international treaties, conventions, obligations and law.

(6) the United States should continue to support the work of the War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia.

(7) "Ethnic cleansing" by any faction, group, leader, or government is unjustified, immoral and illegal and all perpetrators of war crimes, crimes against humanity, genocide and other human rights violations in the former Yugoslavia must be held accountable.

SEC. 12101. BLOCK GRANTS TO STATES.

Part A of title IV (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) is amended to read as follows:

"PART A—BLOCK GRANTS TO STATES FOR TEMPORARY ASSISTANCE FOR NEEDY FAMILIES"

"SEC. 401. ELIGIBLE STATES; STATE PLAN.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—As used in this part, the term 'eligible State' means, with respect to a fiscal year, a State that, during the 2-year period immediately preceding the fiscal year, has submitted to the Secretary a plan that includes the following:

"(i) OUTLINE OF FAMILY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—

"(A) GENERAL PROVISIONS.—A written document that outlines how the State intends to do the following:

"(i) Conduct a program, designed to serve all political subdivisions in the State, that provides assistance to needy families with (or expecting) children and provides parents with job preparation, work, and support services to enable them to leave the program and become self-sufficient.

"(ii) Require a parent or caretaker receiving assistance under the program to engage in work (as defined by the State) once the State determines the parent or caretaker is ready to engage in work, or once the parent or caretaker has received assistance under the program for 24 months (whether or not consecutive), whichever is earlier.

"(iii) Ensure that parents and caretakers receiving assistance under the program engage in work activities in accordance with section 406.

"(iv) Take such reasonable steps as the State deems necessary to restrict the use and disclosure of information about individuals and families receiving assistance under the program.

"(v) Establish goals and take action to prevent and reduce the incidence of out-of-wedlock pregnancies, with special emphasis on teenage pregnancies, and establish numerical goals for reducing the illegitimacy ratio of the State (as defined in section 402(a)(2)(B)) for calendar years 1996 through 2005.

"(B) SPECIAL PROVISIONS.—

"(i) The document shall indicate whether the State intends to treat families moving into the State from another State differently than other families under the program, and if so, how the State intends to treat such families under the program.

"(ii) The document shall indicate whether the State intends to provide assistance under the program to individuals who are not citizens of the United States, and if so, shall include an overview of such assistance.

"(2) CERTIFICATION THAT THE STATE WILL OPERATE A CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT PROGRAM.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that, during the fiscal year, the State will operate a child support enforcement program under the State plan approved under part D.

"(3) CERTIFICATION THAT THE STATE WILL OPERATE A CHILD PROTECTION PROGRAM.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that, during the fiscal year, the State will operate a child protection program under the State plan approved under part B.

"(4) CERTIFICATION OF THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE PROGRAM.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State specifying which State agency or agencies will administer and supervise the program referred to in paragraph (1) for the fiscal year, which shall include assurances that local governments and private sector organizations—

"(A) have been consulted regarding the plan and design of welfare services in the State so that services are provided in a manner appropriate to local populations; and

"(B) have had at least 60 days to submit comments on the plan and the design of such services.

"(5) CERTIFICATION THAT THE STATE WILL PROVIDE INDIANS WITH EQUITABLE ACCESS TO ASSISTANCE.—A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that, during the fiscal year, the State will provide each Indian who is a member of an Indian tribe in the State that does not have a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 411 with equitable access to assistance under the State program funded under this part.

"(b) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEAR 1996.—Notwithstanding subsection (a), the term 'eligible State' means, with respect to fiscal year 1996, a State that has submitted to the Secretary a plan described in subsection (a) within 3 months after the date of the enactment of this part.

"(c) PUBLIC AVAILABILITY OF STATE PLAN SUMMARY.—The State shall make available to the public a summary of any plan submitted by the State under this section.

"SEC. 402. PAYMENTS TO STATES.

"(a) GRANTS.—

"(1) FAMILY ASSISTANCE GRANT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Each eligible State shall be entitled to receive from the Secretary, for each of fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000, a grant in an amount equal to the State family assistance grant. The payment of these grants to States shall not be deemed to entitle any individual or family to any assistance under any State program funded under this part.
(B) STATE FAMILY ASSISTANCE GRANT DEFINED.—As used in this part, the term "State family assistance grant" means the greatest of—

(i) $\frac{1}{3}$ of the total amount required to be paid to the State under section 403 of this title (as in effect on September 30, 1995) for fiscal years 1992, 1993, and 1994 (other than with respect to amounts expended by the State for child care under subsection (g) or (i) of section 402 (as so in effect));

(ii) the total amount required to be paid to the State under such section 403 for fiscal year 1994 (other than with respect to amounts expended by the State for child care under subsection (g) or (i) of section 402 (as so in effect)); or

(iii) $\frac{4}{3}$ of the total amount required to be paid to the State under such section 403 for the 1st 3 quarters of fiscal year 1995 (other than with respect to amounts expended by the State under the State plan approved under part F (as so in effect) or for child care under subsection (g) or (i) of section 402 (as so in effect)), plus the total amount required to be paid to the State for fiscal year 1995 under section 403(l) (as so in effect).

(2) GRANT TO REWARD STATES THAT REDUCE OUT-OF-WEDLOCK BIRTHS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any grant under paragraph (1), each eligible State shall be entitled to receive from the Secretary for fiscal year 1998 or any succeeding fiscal year, a grant in an amount equal to the State family assistance grant multiplied by—

(i) 5 percent if—

(I) the illegitimacy ratio of the State for the fiscal year is at least 1 percentage point lower than the illegitimacy ratio of the State for fiscal year 1995; and

(II) the rate of induced pregnancy terminations in the State for the fiscal year is less than the rate of induced pregnancy terminations in the State for fiscal year 1995; or

(ii) 10 percent—

(I) if the illegitimacy ratio of the State for the fiscal year is at least 2 percentage points lower than the illegitimacy ratio of the State for fiscal year 1995; and

(II) the rate of induced pregnancy terminations in the State for the fiscal year is less than the rate of induced pregnancy terminations in the State for fiscal year 1995.

(B) ILLEGITIMACY RATIO.—As used in this paragraph, the term 'illegitimacy ratio' means, with respect to a State and a fiscal year—

(i) the number of out-of-wedlock births that occurred in the State during the most recent fiscal year for which such information is available; divided by
"(ii) the number of births that occurred in the State during the most recent fiscal year for which such information is available.

"(C) DISREGARD OF CHANGES IN DATA DUE TO CHANGED REPORTING METHODS.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the Secretary shall disregard—

"(i) any difference between the illegitimacy ratio of a State for a fiscal year and the illegitimacy ratio of the State for fiscal year 1995 which is attributable to a change in State methods of reporting data used to calculate the illegitimacy ratio; and

"(ii) any difference between the rate of induced pregnancy terminations in a State for a fiscal year and such rate for fiscal year 1995 which is attributable to a change in State methods of reporting data used to calculate such rate.

"(3) SUPPLEMENTAL GRANT FOR POPULATION INCREASES IN CERTAIN STATES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any grant under paragraph (1), each qualifying State shall, subject to subparagraph (E), be entitled to receive from the Secretary for each of fiscal years 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000, a grant in an amount equal to the sum of—

"(i) the amount (if any) required to be paid to the State under this paragraph for the immediately preceding fiscal year; and

"(ii) 2.5 percent of the sum of—

"(I) the total amount required to be paid to the State under part A (as in effect during fiscal year 1994) for fiscal year 1994; and

"(II) the amount (if any) required to be paid to the State under this paragraph for the fiscal year preceding the fiscal year specified in the matter preceding clause (i).

"(B) QUALIFYING STATE.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this paragraph, a State is a qualifying State for a fiscal year if—

"(I) the level of welfare spending per poor person by the State for the immediately preceding fiscal year is less than the national average level of State welfare spending per poor person for such preceding fiscal year; and

"(II) the population growth rate of the State (as determined by the Bureau of the Census for the most recent fiscal year for which information is available) exceeds the average population growth rate for all States (as so determined) for such most recent fiscal year.

"(ii) STATE MUST QUALIFY IN FISCAL YEAR 1997.—Notwithstanding clause (i), a State shall not be a qualifying State for any fiscal year after 1997 by reason of clause (i) if the State is not a qualifying State for fiscal year 1997 by reason of clause (i).

"(iii) CERTAIN STATES DEEMED QUALIFYING STATES.—For purposes of this paragraph, a State is deemed to be a qualifying State for fiscal years 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 if—
"(I) the level of welfare spending per poor person by the State for fiscal year 1996 is less than 35 percent of the national average level of State welfare spending per poor person for fiscal year 1996; or

"(II) the population of the State increased by more than 10 percent from April 1, 1990 to July 1, 1994, as determined by the Bureau of the Census.

"(C) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this paragraph:

"(i) LEVEL OF WELFARE SPENDING PER POOR PERSON.—The term 'level of State welfare spending per poor person' means, with respect to a State and a fiscal year—

"(I) the sum of—

"(aa) the total amount required to be paid to the State under part A (as in effect during fiscal year 1994) for fiscal year 1994; and

"(bb) the amount (if any) paid to the State under this paragraph for the immediately preceding fiscal year; divided by

"(II) the number of individuals, according to the 1990 decennial census, who were residents of the State and whose income was below the poverty line.

(ii) NATIONAL AVERAGE LEVEL OF STATE WELFARE SPENDING PER POOR PERSON.—The term 'national average level of State welfare spending per poor person' means, with respect to a fiscal year, an amount equal to—

"(I) the total amount required to be paid to the States under part A (as in effect during fiscal year 1994) for fiscal year 1994; divided by

"(II) the number of individuals, according to the 1990 decennial census, who were residents of any State and whose income was below the poverty line.

(iii) STATE.—The term 'State' means each of the 50 States of the United States and the District of Columbia.

"(D) APPROPRIATION.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated for fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 such sums as are necessary for grants under this paragraph, in a total amount not to exceed $800,000,000.

"(E) GRANTS REDUCED PRO RATA IF INSUFFICIENT APPROPRIATIONS.—If the amount appropriated pursuant to this paragraph for a fiscal year is less than the total amount of payments otherwise required to be made under this paragraph for the fiscal year, then the amount otherwise payable to each qualifying State for the fiscal year under this paragraph shall be reduced by a percentage equal to the amount so appropriated divided by such total amount.

"(b) CONTINGENCY FUND.—
"(1) Establishment.—There is hereby established in the Treasury of the United States a fund which shall be known as the 'Contingency Fund for State Welfare Programs' (in this section referred to as the 'Fund').

"(2) Deposits into Fund.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated for fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 such sums as are necessary for payment to the Fund in a total amount not to exceed $800,000,000.

"(3) Computation of Grant.—

"(A) In General.—Subject to subparagraph (B), the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to each eligible State for a fiscal year an amount equal to the Federal medical assistance percentage for the State for the fiscal year (as defined in section 1905(b), as in effect on the date of the enactment of this part) of so much of the expenditures by the State in the fiscal year under the State program funded under this part as exceed the historic State expenditures (as defined in section 408(a)(7)(B)(iii)) for the State.

"(B) Limitation.—The total amount paid to a State under subparagraph (A) for any fiscal year shall not exceed an amount equal to 20 percent of the State family assistance grant for the fiscal year.

"(C) Method of Reconciliation.—If, at the end of any fiscal year, the Secretary finds that a State to which amounts from the Fund were paid in the fiscal year did not meet the maintenance of effort requirement under paragraph (4)(B) for the fiscal year, the Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under subsection (a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year by such amounts.

"(4) Eligible State.—

"(A) In General.—For purposes of this subsection, a State is an eligible State for a fiscal year, if—

"(i) (I) the average rate of total unemployment in such State (seasonally adjusted) for the period consisting of the most recent 3 months for which data for all States are published equals or exceeds 6.5 percent; and

"(II) the average rate of total unemployment in such State (seasonally adjusted) for the 3-month period equals or exceeds 110 percent of such average rate for either (or both) of the corresponding 3-month periods ending in the 2 preceding calendar years; and

"(ii) has met the maintenance of effort requirement under subparagraph (B) for the State program funded under this part for the fiscal year.

"(B) Maintenance of Effort.—The maintenance of effort requirement for any State under this subparagraph for any fiscal year is the expenditure by the State during the fiscal year of an amount at least equal to 100 percent of the level of historic State expenditures for the State (as determined under section 408(e)).

"(5) State.—As used in this subsection, the term 'State' means each of the 50 States of the United States and the District of Columbia.

"(c) Condition of Grant.—
"(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, as a condition of receiving a grant under this section, a State shall not provide cash assistance to a family that includes an adult who has received assistance under any State program funded under this part for 60 months (whether or not consecutive) after September 30, 1995, except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3).

"(2) MINOR CHILD EXCEPTION.—In determining the number of months for which an individual who is a parent or pregnant, as the case may be, has received assistance under the State program funded under this part, there shall be disregarded any month for which such assistance was provided with respect to the individual and throughout which the individual was—

"(A) a minor child; and

"(B) not the head of a household or married to the head of a household.

"(3) HARDSHIP EXCEPTION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The State may exempt a family from the application of paragraph (1) by reason of hardship or if the family includes an individual who has been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty.

"(B) LIMITATION.—The number of families with respect to which an exemption made by a State under subparagraph (A) is in effect for a fiscal year shall not exceed 15 percent of the average monthly number of families to which the State is providing assistance under the program funded under this part.

"(C) BATTERED OR SUBJECT TO EXTREME CRUELTY DEFINED.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), an individual has been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty if the individual has been subjected to—

"(i) physical acts that resulted in, or threatened to result in, physical injury to the individual;

"(ii) sexual abuse;

"(iii) sexual activity involving a dependent child;

"(iv) being forced as the caretaker relative of a dependent child to engage in nonconsensual sexual acts or activities;

"(v) threats of, or attempts at, physical or sexual abuse;

"(vi) mental abuse; or

"(vii) neglect or deprivation of medical care.

"(4) RULE OF INTERPRETATION.—Paragraph (1) shall not be interpreted to require any State to provide assistance to any individual for any period of time under the State program funded under this part.

"SEC. 403. USE OF GRANTS.

“(a) GENERAL RULES.—Subject to this part, a State to which a grant is made under section 402 may use the grant—

“(1) in any manner that is reasonably calculated to increase the flexibility of States in operating a program designed to—

“(A) provide assistance to needy families so that children may be cared for in their own homes or in the homes of relatives;
“(B) end the dependence of needy parents on government benefits by promoting job preparation, work, and marriage;

“(C) prevent and reduce the incidence of out-of-wedlock pregnancies and establish annual numerical goals for preventing and reducing the incidence of these pregnancies; and

“(D) encourage the formation and maintenance of two-parent families; and

“(2) in any manner that the State was authorized to use amounts received under part A or F of this title, as such parts were in effect on September 30, 1995.

“(b) LIMITATION ON USE OF GRANT FOR ADMINISTRATIVE PURPOSES.—

“(1) LIMITATION.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 shall not expend more than 15 percent of the grant for administrative purposes.

“(2) EXCEPTION.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to the use of a grant for information technology and computerization needed for tracking or monitoring required by or under this part.

“(c) AUTHORITY TO USE PORTION OF GRANT FOR OTHER PURPOSES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—A State may use not more than 30 percent of the amount of the grant made to the State under section 402 for a fiscal year to carry out a State program pursuant to any or all of the following provisions of law:

“(A) Part B of this title.

“(B) Title XX of this Act.

“(C) The Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990.

“(2) APPLICABLE RULES.—Any amount paid to the State under this part that is used to carry out a State program pursuant to a provision of law specified in paragraph (1) shall not be subject to the requirements of this part, but shall be subject to the requirements that apply to Federal funds provided directly under the provision of law to carry out the program.

“(d) AUTHORITY TO RESERVE CERTAIN AMOUNTS FOR ASSISTANCE.—A State may reserve amounts paid to the State under this part for any fiscal year for the purpose of providing, without fiscal year limitation, assistance under the State program funded under this part.

“(e) AUTHORITY TO OPERATE EMPLOYMENT PLACEMENT PROGRAM.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may use the grant to make payments (or provide job placement vouchers) to State-approved public and private job placement agencies that provide employment placement services to individuals who receive assistance under the State program funded under this part.

“(f) IMPLEMENTATION OF ELECTRONIC BENEFIT TRANSFER SYSTEM.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 is encouraged to implement an electronic benefit transfer system for providing assistance under the State program funded under this part, and may use the grant for such purpose.
"SEC. 404. ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS.

(a) QUARTERLY.—The Secretary shall pay each grant payable to a State under section 402 in quarterly installments.

(b) NOTIFICATION.—Not later than 3 months before the payment of any such quarterly installment to a State, the Secretary shall notify the State of the amount of any reduction determined under section 411(a)(1)(B) with respect to the State.

(c) COMPUTATION AND CERTIFICATION OF PAYMENTS TO STATES.—

(1) COMPUTATION.—The Secretary shall estimate the amount to be paid to each eligible State for each quarter under this part, such estimate to be based on a report filed by the State containing an estimate by the State of the total sum to be expended by the State in the quarter under the State program funded under this part and such other information as the Secretary may find necessary.

(2) CERTIFICATION.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount estimated by the Secretary under paragraph (1) with respect to a State.

(d) PAYMENT METHOD.—Upon receipt of a certification under subsection (c)(2) with respect to a State, the Secretary of the Treasury shall, through the Fiscal Service of the Department of the Treasury and before audit or settlement by the General Accounting Office, pay to the State, at the time or times fixed by the Secretary of Health and Human Services, the amount so certified.

"SEC. 405. FEDERAL LOANS FOR STATE WELFARE PROGRAMS.

(a) LOAN AUTHORITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall make loans to any loan-eligible State, for a period to maturity of not more than 3 years.

(2) LOAN-ELIGIBLE STATE.—As used in paragraph (1), the term 'loan-eligible State' means a State against which a penalty has not been imposed under section 408(a)(1) at any time before the loan is to be made.

(b) RATE OF INTEREST.—The Secretary shall charge and collect interest on any loan made under this section at a rate equal to the current average market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States with remaining periods to maturity comparable to the period to maturity of the loan.

(c) USE OF LOAN.—A State shall use a loan made to the State under this section only for any purpose for which grant amounts received by the State under section 402(a) may be used including—

(1) welfare anti-fraud activities; and

(2) the provision of assistance under the State program to Indian families that have moved from the service area of an Indian tribe with a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 411.

(d) LIMITATION ON TOTAL AMOUNT OF LOANS TO A STATE.—The cumulative dollar amount of all loans made to a State under this section during fiscal years 1996 through 2000 shall not exceed 10 percent of the State family assistance grant.

(e) LIMITATION ON TOTAL AMOUNT OF OUTSTANDING LOANS.—The total dollar amount of loans outstanding under this section may not exceed $1,700,000,000.
"(f) APPROPRIATION.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated such sums as may be necessary for the cost of loans under this section.

"SEC. 406. MANDATORY WORK REQUIREMENTS."

"(a) PARTICIPATION RATE REQUIREMENTS.—

"(1) ALL FAMILIES.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 for a fiscal year shall achieve the minimum participation rate specified in the following table for the fiscal year with respect to all families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

"(2) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 for a fiscal year shall achieve the minimum participation rate specified in the following table for the fiscal year with respect to 2-parent families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

"(b) CALCULATION OF PARTICIPATION RATES.—

"(1) ALL FAMILIES.—

"(A) AVERAGE MONTHLY RATE.—For purposes of sub-section (a)(1), the participation rate for all families of a State for a fiscal year is the average of the participation rates for all families of the State for each month in the fiscal year.

"(B) MONTHLY PARTICIPATION RATES.—The participation rate of a State for all families of the State for a month, expressed as a percentage, is—

(i) the number of families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part that include an adult who is engaged in work for the month; divided by

(ii) the amount by which—

(I) the number of families receiving such assistance during the month that include an adult receiving such assistance; exceeds

(II) the number of families receiving such assistance that are subject in such month to a reduction or termination of assistance pursuant to section 408(a)(2) but have not been subject to such penalty for more than 3 months within the preceeding 12-month period (whether or not consecutive).

"(2) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—

"(A) AVERAGE MONTHLY RATE.—For purposes of subsection (a)(2), the participation rate for 2-parent families of a State for a fiscal year is the average of the participation rates for 2-parent families of the State for each month in the fiscal year.

"(B) MONTHLY PARTICIPATION RATES.—The participation rate of a State for 2-parent families of the State for a month shall be calculated by use of the formula set forth in paragraph (1)(B), except that in the formula the term 'number of 2-parent families' shall be substituted for the term 'number of families' each place such latter term appears.

"(3) PRO RATA REDUCTION OF PARTICIPATION RATE DUE TO CASELOAD REDUCTIONS NOT REQUIRED BY FEDERAL LAW.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall prescribe regulations for reducing the minimum participation rate otherwise required by this section for a fiscal year by the number of percentage points equal to the number of percentage points (if any) by which—

"(i) the number of families receiving assistance during the fiscal year under the State program funded under this part is less than

"(ii) the number of families that received aid under the State plan approved under part A of this title (as in effect on September 30, 1995) during the fiscal year immediately preceding such effective date.

The minimum participation rate shall not be reduced to the extent that the Secretary determines that the reduction in the number of families receiving such assistance is required by Federal law.

"(B) ELIGIBILITY CHANGES NOT COUNTED.—The regulations described in subparagraph (A) shall not take into account families that are diverted from a State program funded under this part as a result of differences in eligibility criteria under a State program funded under this part and eligibility criteria under such State's plan under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, as such plan was in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995. Such regulations shall place the burden on the Secretary to prove that such families were diverted as a direct result of differences in such eligibility criteria.

"(4) STATE OPTION TO INCLUDE INDIVIDUALS RECEIVING ASSISTANCE UNDER A TRIBAL FAMILY ASSISTANCE PLAN.—For purposes of paragraphs (1)(B) and (2)(B), a State may, at its option, include families receiving assistance under a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 411.

"(c) ENGAGED IN WORK.—

"(1) ALL FAMILIES.—For purposes of subsection (b)(1)(B)(i), a recipient is engaged in work for a month in a fiscal year if the recipient is participating in such activities for at least the minimum average number of hours per week specified in the following table during the month, not fewer than 20 hours per week of which are attributable to an activity described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (7), or (8) of subsection (d) (or, in the case of the first 4 weeks for which the recipient is required under this section to participate in work activities, an activity described in subsection (d)(6));

"(2) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—For purposes of subsection (b)(2)(B)(i), an adult is engaged in work for a month in a fiscal year if the adult is making progress in such activities for at least 35 hours per week during the month, not fewer than 30 hours per week of which are attributable to an activity described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (7), or (8) of subsection (d) (or, in the case of the first 4 weeks for which the recipient is required under this section to participate in work activities, an activity described in subsection (d)(6)).

"(3) LIMITATION ON VOCATIONAL EDUCATION ACTIVITIES COUNTED AS WORK.—For purposes of determining monthly participation rates under paragraphs (1)(B)(i) and (2)(B)(i) of subsection (b), not more than 20 percent of adults in all families and in 2-parent families determined to be engaged in work in the State for a month may meet the work activity requirement through participation in vocational educational training.

"(d) WORK ACTIVITIES DEFINED.—As used in this section, the term 'work activities' means—

"(1) unsubsidized employment;
"(2) subsidized private sector employment;
"(3) subsidized public sector employment;
"(4) work experience (including work associated with the refurbishing of publicly assisted housing) if sufficient private sector employment is not available;
"(5) on-the-job training;
"(6) job search and job readiness assistance;
"(7) community service programs;
"(8) vocational educational training (not to exceed 12 months with respect to any individual);
"(9) job skills training directly related to employment;
"(10) education directly related to employment, in the case of a recipient who has not attained 20 years of age, and has not received a high school diploma or a certificate of high school equivalency; and
"(11) satisfactory attendance at secondary school, in the case of a recipient who—

"(A) has not completed secondary school; and
"(B) is a dependent child, or a head of household who has not attained 20 years of age.

"SEC. 407. PROHIBITIONS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—

"(1) NO ASSISTANCE FOR FAMILIES WITHOUT A MINOR CHILD.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide assistance to a family, unless the family includes—

"(A) a minor child who resides with a custodial parent or other adult caretaker relative of the child; or

"(B) a pregnant individual.

"(2) REDUCED ASSISTANCE FOR FAMILY IF ADULT REFUSES TO WORK.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not fail to—

"(i) reduce the amount of assistance otherwise payable to a family receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part, pro rata (or more, at the option of the State) with respect to any period during a month in which an adult member of the family refuses to engage in work required in accordance with this section; or subject to such good cause and other exceptions as the State may establish.

"(ii) terminate such assistance.

"(B) EXCEPTION.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), a State may not reduce or terminate assistance under the State program funded under this part based on a refusal of an adult to work if the adult is a single custodial parent caring for a child who has not attained 6 years of age, and the adult proves that the adult has a demonstrated inability (as determined by the State) to obtain needed child care, for 1 or more of the following reasons:

"(i) Unavailability of appropriate child care within a reasonable distance from the individual's home or work site.

"(ii) Unavailability or unsuitability of informal child care by a relative or under other arrangements.

"(iii) Unavailability of appropriate and affordable formal child care arrangements.

"(3) REDUCTION OR ELIMINATION OF ASSISTANCE FOR NONCOOPERATION IN CHILD SUPPORT.—If the agency responsible for administering the State plan approved under part D determines that an individual is not cooperating with the State in establishing, modifying, or enforcing a support order with respect to a child of the individual, then the State—

"(A) shall deduct from the assistance that would otherwise be provided to the family of the individual under the State program funded under this part the share of such assistance attributable to the individual; and

"(B) may deny the family any assistance under the State program.

"(4) NO ASSISTANCE FOR FAMILIES NOT ASSIGNING CERTAIN SUPPORT RIGHTS TO THE STATE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not fail to require, as a condition of providing assistance to a family under the State program funded under this part, that a member of the family assign to the State any rights the family member may have (on behalf of the family member or of any other person for whom the family member has applied for or is receiving such assistance) to support from any other person, not exceeding the total amount of assistance so provided to the family, which accrue (or have accrued) before the date the family leaves the program, which assignment, on and after the date the family leaves the program, shall not apply with respect to—

(i) if the assignment occurs on or after October 1, 1997, and before October 1, 2000, any support (other than support collected pursuant to section 464) which accrued before the family received such assistance and which the State has not collected by September 30, 2000; or

(ii) if the assignment occurs on or after October 1, 2000, any support (other than support collected pursuant to section 464) which accrued before the family received such assistance and which the State has not collected by the date the family leaves the program.

(B) LIMITATION.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not require, as a condition of providing assistance to any family under the State program funded under this part, that a member of the family assign to the State any rights to support described in subparagraph (A) which accrue after the date the family leaves the program.

(5) No ASSISTANCE FOR TEENAGE PARENTS WHO DO NOT ATTEND HIGH SCHOOL OR OTHER EQUIVALENT TRAINING PROGRAM.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide assistance to an individual who has not attained 18 years of age, is not married, has a minor child at least 12 weeks of age in his or her care, and has not successfully completed a high school education (or its equivalent), if the individual does not participate in—

(A) educational activities directed toward the attainment of a high school diploma or its equivalent; or

(B) an alternative educational or training program that has been approved by the State.

(6) No ASSISTANCE FOR TEENAGE PARENTS NOT LIVING IN ADULT-SUPERVISED SETTINGS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—

(i) REQUIREMENT.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide assistance to an individual described in clause (ii) of this subparagraph if the individual and the minor child referred to in clause (ii) do not reside in a place of residence maintained by a parent, legal guardian, or other adult relative of the individual as such parent's, guardian's, or adult relative's own home.

(ii) INDIVIDUAL DESCRIBED.—For purposes of clause (i), an individual described in this clause is an individual who—

(I) has not attained 18 years of age; and

(II) is not married, and has a minor child in his or her care.

(B) EXCEPTION.—
"(i) Provision of, or assistance in locating, adult-supervised living arrangement.—In the case of an individual who is described in clause (ii), the State agency referred to in section 401(a)(4) shall provide, or assist the individual in locating, a second chance home, maternity home, or other appropriate adult-supervised supportive living arrangement, taking into consideration the needs and concerns of the individual, unless the State agency determines that the individual's current living arrangement is appropriate, and thereafter shall require that the individual and the minor child referred to in subparagraph (A)(ii)(II) reside in such living arrangement as a condition of the continued receipt of assistance under the State program funded under this part (or in an alternative appropriate arrangement, should circumstances change and the current arrangement cease to be appropriate).

"(ii) Individual described.—For purposes of clause (i), an individual is described in this clause if the individual is described in subparagraph (A)(ii), and—

"(I) the individual has no parent, legal guardian or other appropriate adult relative described in subclause (II) of his or her own who is living or whose whereabouts are known;

"(II) no living parent, legal guardian, or other appropriate adult relative, who would otherwise meet applicable State criteria to act as the individual's legal guardian, of such individual allows the individual to live in the home of such parent, guardian, or relative;

"(III) the State agency determines that—

"(aa) the individual or the minor child referred to in subparagraph (A)(ii)(II) is being or has been subjected to serious physical or emotional harm, sexual abuse, or exploitation in the residence of the individual's own parent or legal guardian; or

"(bb) substantial evidence exists of an act or failure to act that presents an imminent or serious harm if the individual and the minor child lived in the same residence with the individual's own parent or legal guardian; or

"(IV) the State agency otherwise determines that it is in the best interest of the minor child to waive the requirement of subparagraph (A) with respect to the individual or the minor child.

"(iii) Second-chance home.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the term 'second-chance home' means an entity that provides individuals described in clause (ii) with a supportive and supervised living arrangement in which such individuals are required to learn parenting skills, including child development, family budgeting, health and nutrition, and other skills to promote their long-term economic independence and the well-being of their children.
"(7) No medical services.—

"(A) In general.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide medical services.

"(B) Exception for family planning services.—As used in subparagraph (A), the term 'medical services' does not include family planning services.

"(8) Denial of assistance for 10 years to a person found to have fraudulently misrepresented residence in order to obtain assistance in 2 or more states.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide cash assistance to an individual during the 10-year period that begins on the date the individual is convicted in Federal or State court of having made a fraudulent statement or representation with respect to the place of residence of the individual in order to receive assistance simultaneously from 2 or more States under programs that are funded under this title, title XIX, or the Food Stamp Act of 1977, or benefits in 2 or more States under the supplemental security income program under title XVI.

"(9) Denial of assistance for fugitive felons and probation and parole violators.—

"(A) In general.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide assistance to any individual who is—

"(i) fleeing to avoid prosecution, or custody or confinement after conviction, under the laws of the place from which the individual flees, for a crime, or an attempt to commit a crime, which is a felony under the laws of the place from which the individual flees, or which, in the case of the State of New Jersey, is a high misdemeanor under the laws of such State; or

"(ii) violating a condition of probation or parole imposed under Federal or State law.

"(B) Exchange of information with law enforcement agencies.—If a State to which a grant is made under section 402 establishes safeguards against the use or disclosure of information about applicants or recipients of assistance under the State program funded under this part, the safeguards shall not prevent the State agency administering the program from furnishing a Federal, State, or local law enforcement officer, upon the request of the officer, with the current address of any recipient if the officer furnishes the agency with the name of the recipient and notifies the agency that—"(i) such recipient—

"(i) is fleeing to avoid prosecution, or custody or confinement after conviction, under the laws of the place from which the recipient flees, for a crime, or an attempt to commit a crime, which is a felony under the laws of the place from which the recipient flees, or which, in the case of the State of New Jersey, is a high misdemeanor under the laws of such State;
“(II) is violating a condition of probation or parole imposed under Federal or State law; or “(III) has information that is necessary for the officer to conduct the official duties of the officer; and “(ii) the location or apprehension of the recipient is within such official duties.
“(10) DENIAL OF ASSISTANCE FOR MINOR CHILDREN WHO ARE ABSENT FROM THE HOME FOR A SIGNIFICANT PERIOD.—
“(A) IN GENERAL.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide assistance for a minor child who has been, or is expected by a parent (or other caretaker relative) of the child to be, absent from the home for a period of 45 consecutive days or, at the option of the State, such period of not less than 30 and not more than 90 consecutive days as the State may provide for in the State plan submitted pursuant to section 401.
“(B) STATE AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH GOOD CAUSE EXCEPTIONS.—The State may establish such good cause exceptions to subparagraph (A) as the State considers appropriate if such exceptions are provided for in the State plan submitted pursuant to section 401.
“(C) DENIAL OF ASSISTANCE FOR RELATIVE WHO FAILS TO NOTIFY STATE AGENCY OF ABSENCE OF CHILD.—A State to which a grant is made under section 402 may not use any part of the grant to provide assistance for an individual who is a parent (or other caretaker relative) of a minor child and who fails to notify the agency administering the State program funded under this part, of the absence of the minor child from the home for the period specified in or provided for under subparagraph (A), by the end of the 5-day period that begins with the date that it becomes clear to the parent (or relative) that the minor child will be absent for such period so specified or provided for.
“(11) INCOME SECURITY PAYMENTS NOT TO BE DISREGARDED IN DETERMINING THE AMOUNT OF ASSISTANCE TO BE PROVIDED TO A FAMILY.—If a State to which a grant is made under section 402 uses any part of the grant to provide assistance for any individual who is receiving a payment under a State plan for old-age assistance approved under section 2, a State program funded under part B that provides cash payments for foster care, or the supplemental security income program under title XVI, then the State may not disregard the payment in determining the amount of assistance to be provided to the family of which the individual is a member under the State program funded under this part.

“SEC. 408. PENALTIES.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsections (b), (c), and (d):
“(1) FOR USE OF GRANT IN VIOLATION OF THIS PART.—
“(A) GENERAL PENALTY.—If an audit conducted under chapter 75 of title 31, United States Code, finds that an amount paid to a State under section 402 for a fiscal year has been used in violation of this part, the Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year quarter by the amount so used.

"(B) ENHANCED PENALTY FOR INTENTIONAL VIOLATIONS.—If the State does not prove to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the State did not intend to use the amount in violation of this part, the Secretary shall further reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year quarter by an amount equal to 5 percent of the State family assistance grant.

"(2) FOR FAILURE TO SUBMIT REQUIRED REPORT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary determines that a State has not, within 6 months after the end of a fiscal year, submitted the report required by section 410 for the fiscal year, the Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year by an amount equal to 4 percent of the State family assistance grant.

"(B) RESCISSION OF PENALTY.—The Secretary shall rescind a penalty imposed on a State under subparagraph (A) with respect to a report for a fiscal year if the State submits the report before the end of the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"(3) FOR FAILURE TO SATISFY MINIMUM PARTICIPATION RATES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary determines that a State to which a grant is made under section 402 for a fiscal year has failed to comply with section 406(a) for the fiscal year, the Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year by an amount equal to not more than 5 percent of the State family assistance grant.

"(B) PENALTY BASED ON SEVERITY OF FAILURE.—The Secretary shall impose reductions under subparagraph (A) based on the degree of noncompliance.

"(4) FOR FAILURE TO PARTICIPATE IN THE INCOME AND ELIGIBILITY VERIFICATION SYSTEM.—If the Secretary determines that a State program funded under this part is not participating during a fiscal year in the income and eligibility verification system required by section 1137, the Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year by an amount equal to not more than 2 percent of the State family assistance grant.

"(5) FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH PATERNITY ESTABLISHMENT AND CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT REQUIREMENTS UNDER PART D.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, if the Secretary determines that the State agency that administers a program funded under this part does not enforce the penalties requested by the agency administering part D against recipients of assistance under the State program who fail to cooperate in establishing paternity in accordance with such part, the Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year (without regard to this section) by not more than 5 percent.

"(6) FOR FAILURE TO TIMELY REPAY A FEDERAL LOAN FUND FOR STATE WELFARE PROGRAMS.—If the Secretary determines that a State has failed to repay any amount borrowed from the Federal Loan Fund for State Welfare Programs established under section 405 within the period of maturity applicable to the loan, plus any interest owed on the loan, the Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year quarter (without regard to this section) by the outstanding loan amount, plus the interest owed on the outstanding amount. The Secretary may not forgive any outstanding loan amount or interest owed on the outstanding amount.

"(7) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for fiscal year 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, or 2000 by the amount (if any) by which State expenditures under the State program funded under this part for the then immediately preceding fiscal year is less than the applicable percentage of historic State expenditures.

"(B) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this paragraph:

"(i) STATE EXPENDITURES UNDER THE STATE PROGRAM FUNDED UNDER THIS PART.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—The term 'State expenditures under the State program funded under this part' means, with respect to a State and a fiscal year, the sum of the expenditures by the State under the program for the fiscal year for—

"(aa) cash assistance;

"(bb) child care assistance;

"(cc) education, job training, and work;

"(dd) administrative costs; and

"(ee) any other use of funds allowable under section 403(a)(1).

"(II) EXCLUSION OF TRANSFERS FROM OTHER STATE AND LOCAL PROGRAMS.—Such term does not include funding supplanted by transfers from other State and local programs.

"(ii) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—The term 'applicable percentage' means—

"(I) for fiscal year 1996, 75 percent; and

"(II) for fiscal years 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000, 75 percent reduced (if appropriate) in accordance with subparagraph (C)(iii).

"(iii) HISTORIC STATE EXPENDITURES.—The term 'historic State expenditures' means, with respect to a State, the lesser of—

"(I) the expenditures by the State under parts A and F of this title (as in effect during fiscal year 1994) for fiscal year 1994; or

"(II) the amount which bears the same ratio to the amount described in subclause (I) as—

"(aa) the State family assistance grant for the immediately preceding fiscal year; bears to

"(bb) the total amount of Federal payments to the State under section 403 (as in effect during fiscal year 1994) for fiscal year 1994.
"(iv) Expenditures by the State.—The term 'expenditures by the State' does not include any expenditures from amounts made available by the Federal Government, State funds expended for the medicaid program under title XIX or the MediGrant program under title XXI, or any State funds which are used to match Federal funds or are expended as a condition of receiving Federal funds under Federal programs other than under title I.

"(C) Applicable Percentage Reduced for States with Best or Most Improved Performance in Certain Areas.—

"(i) Scoring of State Performance.—Beginning with fiscal year 1997, the Secretary shall assign to each State a score that represents the performance of the State for the fiscal year in each category described in clause (ii).

"(ii) Categories.—The categories described in this clause are the following:

"(I) Increasing the number of families that received assistance under a State program funded under this part in the fiscal year, and that, during the fiscal year, become ineligible for such assistance as a result of unsubsidized employment.

"(II) Reducing the percentage of families that, within 18 months after becoming ineligible for assistance under the State program funded under this part, become eligible for such assistance.

"(III) Increasing the amount earned by families that receive assistance under this part.

"(IV) Reducing the percentage of families in the State that receive assistance under the State program funded under this part.

"(iii) Reduction of Maintenance of Effort Threshold.—

"(I) Reduction for States with 5 Greatest Scores in Each Category of Performance.—The applicable percentage for a State for a fiscal year shall be reduced by 2 percentage points, with respect to each category described in clause (ii) for which the score assigned to the State under clause (i) for the fiscal year is 1 of the 5 highest scores so assigned to States.

"(II) Reduction for States with 5 Greatest Improvement in Scores in Each Category of Performance.—The applicable percentage for a State for a fiscal year shall be reduced by 2 percentage points for a State for a fiscal year, with respect to each category described in clause (ii) for which the difference between the score assigned to the State under clause (i) for the fiscal year and the score so assigned to the State for the immediately preceding fiscal year is 1 of the 5 greatest such differences.

"(III) Limitation on Reduction.—The applicable percentage for a State for a fiscal year may not be reduced by more than 8 percentage points pursuant to this clause.

"(8) PENALTIES FOR SUBSTANTIAL NONCOMPLIANCE OF STATE CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT PROGRAM WITH REQUIREMENTS OF PART D.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If a State program operated under part D is found as a result of a review conducted under section 452(a)(4) not to have complied substantially with the requirements of such part for any quarter, and the Secretary determines that the program is not complying substantially with such requirements at the time the finding is made, the Secretary shall, subject to paragraph (2), reduce the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the quarter and each subsequent quarter that ends before the 1st quarter throughout which the program is found not to be in substantial compliance with such requirements by—

"(i) not less than 1 nor more than 2 percent;

"(ii) not less than 2 nor more than 3 percent, if the finding is the 2nd consecutive such finding made as a result of such a review; or

"(iii) not less than 3 nor more than 5 percent, if the finding is the 3rd or a subsequent consecutive such finding made as a result of such a review.

"(B) DISREGARD OF NONCOMPLIANCE WHICH IS OF A TECHNICAL NATURE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A) and section 452(a)(4), a State which is not in full compliance with the requirements of this part shall be determined to be in substantial compliance with such requirements only if the Secretary determines that any noncompliance with such requirements is of a technical nature which does not adversely affect the performance of the State's program operated under part D.

"(9) FOR FAILURE TO EXPEND ADDITIONAL STATE FUNDS TO REPLACE GRANT REDUCTIONS.—If the grant payable to a State under section 402(a)(1) for a fiscal year is reduced by reason of any of the preceding paragraphs of this subsection, the State shall, during the immediately succeeding fiscal year, expend under the State program funded under this part an amount equal to the sum of—

"(A) the applicable percentage of the historic State expenditures; and

"(B) 105 percent of the total amount of such reductions under such preceding paragraphs.

"(b) REASONABLE CAUSE EXCEPTION.—The Secretary may not impose a penalty on a State under subsection (a) with respect to a requirement if the Secretary determines that the State has reasonable cause for failing to comply with the requirement.

"(c) CORRECTIVE COMPLIANCE PLAN.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—

"(A) NOTIFICATION OF VIOLATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Federal Government shall, before assessing a penalty against a State under subsection (a), notify the State of the violation of law for which the penalty would be assessed and allow the State the opportunity to enter into a corrective compliance plan in accordance with this subsection which outlines how the State will correct any such violations and how the State will insure continuing compliance with the requirements of this part.

"(B) 60-DAY PERIOD TO PROPOSE A CORRECTIVE COMPLI-ANCE PLAN.—Any State notified under subparagraph (A) shall have 60 days in which to submit to the Federal Government a corrective compliance plan to correct any violations described in subparagraph (A).

"(C) ACCEPTANCE OF PLAN.—The Federal Government shall have 60 days to accept or reject the State's corrective compliance plan and may consult with the State during this period to modify the plan. If the Federal Government does not accept or reject the corrective compliance plan during the period, the corrective compliance plan shall be deemed to be accepted.

"(2) FAILURE TO CORRECT.—If a corrective compliance plan is accepted by the Federal Government, no penalty shall be imposed with respect to a violation described in paragraph
(1) if the State corrects the violation pursuant to the plan.
If a State has not corrected the violation in a timely manner under the plan, some or all of the penalty shall be assessed.

"(d) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT OF PENALTY.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In imposing the penalties described in subsection (a), the Secretary shall not reduce any quarterly payment to a State by more than 25 percent.

"(2) CARRYFORWARD OF UNRECOVERED PENALTIES.—To the extent that paragraph (1) prevents the Secretary from recovering during a fiscal year the full amount of all penalties imposed on a State under subsection (a) for a prior fiscal year, the Secretary shall apply any remaining amount of such penalties to the grant payable to the State under section 402(a)(1) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"SEC. 409. APPEAL OF ADVERSE DECISION.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—Within 5 days after the date any adverse decision is made or action is taken under this part with respect to a State, the Secretary shall notify the chief executive officer of the State of the adverse decision or action, including any decision with respect to the State plan submitted under section 401 or the imposition of a penalty under section 408.

"(b) ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW OF ADVERSE DECISION—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Within 60 days after the date a State receives notice under this section of an adverse decision, the State may appeal the decision, in whole or in part, to the Departmental Appeals Board established in the Department of Health and Human Services (in this section referred to as the 'Board') by filing an appeal with the Board.

"(2) PROCEDURAL RULES.—The Board shall consider a State's appeal on the basis of such documentation as the State may submit and as the Board may require to support the final decision of the Board. In deciding whether to uphold an adverse decision or any portion of such a decision, the Board shall conduct a thorough review of the issues and take into account all relevant evidence. The Board shall make a final determination with respect to an appeal filed under this paragraph not less than 60 days after the date the appeal is filed.
"(c) Judicial Review of Adverse Decision.—

"(1) In General.—Within 90 days after the date of a final decision by the Board with respect to an adverse decision regarding a State under this section, the State may obtain judicial review of the final decision (and the findings incorporated into the final decision) by filing an action in—

(A) the district court of the United States for the judicial district in which the principal or headquarters office of the State agency is located; or

(B) the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

"(2) Procedural Rules.—The district court in which an action is filed shall review the final decision of the Board on the record established in the administrative proceeding, in accordance with the standards of review prescribed by subparagraphs (A) through (E) of section 706(2) of title 5, United States Code. The review shall be on the basis of the documents and supporting data submitted to the Board.

SEC. 410. DATA COLLECTION AND REPORTING.

"(a) General Reporting Requirement.—Beginning July 1, 1996, each State shall collect on a monthly basis, and report to the Secretary on a quarterly basis, the following information on the families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part:

"(1) The county of residence of the family.

"(2) Whether a child receiving such assistance or an adult in the family is disabled.

"(3) The ages of the members of such families.

"(4) The number of individuals in the family, and the relation of each family member to the youngest child in the family.

"(5) The employment status and earnings of the employed adult in the family.

"(6) The marital status of the adults in the family, including whether such adults have never married, are widowed, or are divorced.

"(7) The educational status of each adult in the family.

"(8) The educational status of each child in the family.

"(9) Whether the family received subsidized housing, assistance under the State MediGrant plan approved under title XXI, food stamps, or subsidized child care, and if the latter 2, the amount received.

"(10) The number of months that the family has received each type of assistance under the program.

"(11) If the adults participated in, and the number of hours per week of participation in, the following activities:

(A) Education.

(B) Subsidized private sector employment.

(C) Unsubsidized employment.

(D) Public sector employment, work experience, or community service.

(E) Job search.

(F) Job skills training or on-the-job training.

(G) Vocational education.

"(12) Information necessary to calculate participation rates under section 406.
"(13) The type and amount of assistance received under the program, including the amount of and reason for any reduction of assistance (including sanctions).

"(14) From a sample of closed cases, whether the family left the program, and if so, whether the family left due to—
(A) employment;
(B) marriage;
(C) the prohibition set forth in section 407(a)(8);
(D) sanction; or
(E) State policy.

"(15) Any amount of unearned income received by any member of the family.

"(16) The citizenship of the members of the family.

"(b) USE OF ESTIMATES.—

"(1) AUTHORITY.—A State may comply with subsection (a) by submitting an estimate which is obtained through the use of scientifically acceptable sampling methods approved by the Secretary.

"(2) SAMPLING AND OTHER METHODS—The Secretary shall provide the States with such case sampling plans and data collection procedures as the Secretary deems necessary to produce statistically valid estimates of the performance of State programs funded under this part. The Secretary may develop and implement procedures for verifying the quality of data submitted by the States.

"(c) REPORT ON USE OF FEDERAL FUNDS TO COVER ADMINISTRA-TIVE COSTS AND OVERHEAD.—The report required by subsection
(a) for a fiscal quarter shall include a statement of the percentage of the funds paid to the State under this part for the quarter that are used to cover administrative costs or overhead.

"(d) REPORT ON STATE EXPENDITURES ON PROGRAMS FOR NEEDY FAMILIES.—The report required by subsection (a) for a fiscal quarter shall include a statement of the total amount expended by the State during the quarter on programs for needy families.

"(e) REPORT ON NONCUSTODIAL PARENTS PARTICIPATING IN WORK ACTIVITIES.—The report required by subsection (a) for a fiscal quarter shall include the number of noncustodial parents in the State who participated in work activities (as defined in section 406(d)) during the quarter.

"(f) REPORT ON TRANSITIONAL SERVICES.—The report required by subsection (a) for a fiscal quarter shall include the total amount expended by the State during the quarter to provide transitional services to a family that has ceased to receive assistance under this part because of employment, along with a description of such services.

"(g) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Not later than 6 months after the end of fiscal year 1997, and each fiscal year thereafter, the Secretary shall transmit to the Congress a report describing—
"(1) whether the States are meeting—
(A) the participation rates described in section 406(a); and

"(B) the objectives of—
(i) increasing employment and earnings of needy families, and child support collections; and
(ii) decreasing out-of-wedlock pregnancies and child poverty;
"(2) the demographic and financial characteristics of families applying for assistance, families receiving assistance, and families that become ineligible to receive assistance;

“(3) the characteristics of each State program funded under this part; and “(4) the trends in employment and earnings of needy families with minor children living at home.

"SEC. 411. DIRECT FUNDING AND ADMINISTRATION BY INDIAN TRIBES.

“(a) GRANTS FOR INDIAN TRIBES.—

“(I) TRIBAL FAMILY ASSISTANCE GRANT.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—For each of fiscal years 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000, the Secretary shall pay to each Indian tribe that has an approved tribal family assistance plan a tribal family assistance grant for the fiscal year in an amount equal to the amount determined under subparagraph (B), and shall reduce the grant payable under section 402(a)(1) to any State in which lies the service area or areas of the Indian tribe by that portion of the amount so determined that is attributable to expenditures by the State.

“(B) AMOUNT DETERMINED.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The amount determined under this subparagraph is an amount equal to the total amount of the Federal payments to a State or States under section 403 for fiscal year 1994 (as in effect during such fiscal year) attributable to expenditures by the State or States under parts A and F of this title (as so in effect) for Indian families residing in the service area or areas identified by the Indian tribe pursuant to subsection (b)(1)(C).

“(ii) USE OF STATE SUBMITTED DATA.—

“(I) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall use State submitted data to make each determination under clause (i).

“(II) DISAGREEMENT WITH DETERMINATION.—

If an Indian tribe or tribal organization disagrees with State submitted data described under subclause (I), the Indian tribe or tribal organization may submit to the Secretary such additional information as may be relevant to making the determination under clause (i) and the Secretary may consider such information before making such determination.

“(2) GRANTS FOR INDIAN TRIBES THAT RECEIVED JOBS FUNDS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall pay to each eligible Indian tribe for each of fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 a grant in an amount equal to the amount received by the Indian tribe in fiscal year 1994 under section 482(i) (as in effect during fiscal year 1994).

“(B) ELIGIBLE INDIAN TRIBE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term 'eligible Indian tribe' means an Indian tribe or Alaska Native organization that conducted a job opportunities and basic skills training program in fiscal year 1995 under section 482(i) (as in effect during such fiscal year).
"(C) USE OF GRANT.—Each Indian tribe to which a grant is made under this paragraph shall use the grant for the purpose of operating a program to make work activities available to members of the Indian tribe.

"(D) APPROPRIATION.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated $7,638,474 for each fiscal year specified in subparagraph (A) for grants under subparagraph (A).

"(b) 3-YEAR TRIBAL FAMILY ASSISTANCE PLAN.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Any Indian tribe that desires to receive a tribal family assistance grant shall submit to the Secretary a 3-year tribal family assistance plan that—

"(A) outlines the Indian tribe's approach to providing welfare-related services for the 3-year period, consistent with this section;

"(B) specifies whether the welfare-related services provided under the plan will be provided by the Indian tribe or through agreements, contracts, or compacts with intertribal consortia, States, or other entities;

"(C) identifies the population and service area or areas to be served by such plan;

"(D) provides that a family receiving assistance under the plan may not receive duplicative assistance from other State or tribal programs funded under this part;

"(E) identifies the employment opportunities in or near the service area or areas of the Indian tribe and the manner in which the Indian tribe will cooperate and participate in enhancing such opportunities for recipients of assistance under the plan consistent with any applicable State standards; and

"(2) APPROVAL.—The Secretary shall approve each tribal family assistance plan submitted in accordance with paragraph (1).

"(3) CONSORTIUM OF TRIBES.—Nothing in this section shall preclude the development and submission of a single tribal family assistance plan by the participating Indian tribes of an intertribal consortium.

"(c) MINIMUM WORK PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS AND TIME LIMITS.—The Secretary, with the participation of Indian tribes, shall establish for each Indian tribe receiving a grant under this section minimum work participation requirements, appropriate time limits for receipt of welfare-related services under the grant, and penalties against individuals—

"(1) consistent with the purposes of this section;

"(2) consistent with the economic conditions and resources available to each tribe; and

"(3) similar to comparable provisions in section 406(d).

"(d) EMERGENCY ASSISTANCE.—Nothing in this section shall preclude an Indian tribe from seeking emergency assistance from any Federal loan program or emergency fund.
"(e) ACCOUNTABILITY.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the ability of the Secretary to maintain program funding accountability consistent with—

"(1) generally accepted accounting principles; and

"(2) the requirements of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450 et seq.).

"(f) PENALTIES.—

"(1) Subsections (a)(1), (a)(6), and (b) of section 408, shall apply to an Indian tribe with an approved tribal assistance plan in the same manner as such subsections apply to a State.

"(2) Section 408(a)(3) shall apply to an Indian tribe with an approved tribal assistance plan by substituting 'meet minimum work participation requirements established under section 411(c)' for 'comply with section 406(a)'.

"(g) DATA COLLECTION AND REPORTING.—Section 410 shall apply to an Indian tribe with an approved tribal family assistance plan.

"(h) SPECIAL RULE FOR INDIAN TRIBES IN ALASKA.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, and except as provided in paragraph (2), a tribal organization in the State of Alaska that receives a tribal family assistance grant under this section shall use the grant to operate a program in accordance with the requirements comparable to the requirements applicable to the program of the State of Alaska funded under this part. Comparability of programs shall be established on the basis of program criteria developed by the Secretary in consultation with the State of Alaska and the tribal organizations.

"(2) WAIVER.—An Indian tribe described in paragraph (1) may apply to the appropriate State authority to receive a waiver of the requirement of paragraph (1).

"SEC. 412. RESEARCH, EVALUATIONS, AND NATIONAL STUDIES.

"(a) RESEARCH.—The Secretary shall conduct research on the benefits, effects, and costs of operating different State programs funded under this part, including time limits relating to eligibility for assistance. The research shall include studies on the effects of different programs and the operation of such programs on welfare dependency, illegitimacy, teen pregnancy, employment rates, child well-being, and any other area the Secretary deems appropriate. The Secretary shall also conduct research on the costs and benefits of State activities under section 406.

"(b) DEVELOPMENT AND EVALUATION OF INNOVATIVE APPROACHES TO REDUCING WELFARE DEPENDENCY AND INCREASING CHILD WEL-BEING.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may assist States in developing, and shall evaluate, innovative approaches for reducing welfare dependency and increasing the well-being of minor children living at home with respect to recipients of assistance under programs funded under this part. The Secretary may provide funds for training and technical assistance to carry out the approaches developed pursuant to this paragraph.

"(2) EVALUATIONS.—In performing the evaluations under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall, to the maximum extent feasible, use random assignment as an evaluation methodology.

"(c) DISSEMINATION OF INFORMATION.—The Secretary shall develop innovative methods of disseminating information on any research, evaluations, and studies conducted under this section, including the facilitation of the sharing of information and best practices among States and localities through the use of computers and other technologies.

"(d) ANNUAL RANKING OF STATES AND REVIEW OF MOST AND LEAST SUCCESSFUL WORK PROGRAMS.—

"(1) ANNUAL RANKING OF STATES.—The Secretary shall rank annually the States to which grants are paid under section 402 in the order of their success in placing recipients of assistance under the State program funded under this part into long-term private sector jobs, reducing the overall welfare caseload, and, when a practicable method for calculating this information becomes available, diverting individuals from formally applying to the State program and receiving assistance. In ranking States under this subsection, the Secretary shall take into account the average number of minor children living at home in families in the State that have incomes below the poverty line and the amount of funding provided each State for such families.

"(2) ANNUAL REVIEW OF MOST AND LEAST SUCCESSFUL WORK PROGRAMS.—The Secretary shall review the programs of the 3 States most recently ranked highest under paragraph (1) and the 3 States most recently ranked lowest under paragraph (1) that provide parents with work experience, assistance in finding employment, and other work preparation activities and support services to enable the families of such parents to leave the program and become self-sufficient.

"(e) ANNUAL RANKING OF STATES AND REVIEW OF ISSUES RELATING TO OUT-OF-WEDLOCK BIRTHS.—

"(1) ANNUAL RANKING OF STATES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall annually rank States to which grants are made under section 402 based on the following ranking factors:

"(i) ABSOLUTE OUT-OF-WEDLOCK RATIOS.—The ratio represented by—

"(I) the total number of out-of-wedlock births in families receiving assistance under the State program under this part in the State for the most recent fiscal year for which information is available; over

"(II) the total number of births in families receiving assistance under the State program under this part in the State for such year.

"(ii) NET CHANGES IN THE OUT-OF-WEDLOCK RATIO.—The difference between the ratio described in subparagraph (A)(i) for the most recent fiscal year for which information is available and such State's ratio determined for the preceding year.

"(2) ANNUAL REVIEW.—The Secretary shall review the programs of the 5 States most recently ranked highest under paragraph (1) and the 5 States most recently ranked the lowest under paragraph (1).

"(f) STATE-INITIATED STUDIES.—A State shall be eligible to receive funding to evaluate the State's family assistance program funded under this part if—

"(1) the State submits a proposal to the Secretary for such evaluation, “(2) the Secretary determines that the design and approach of the evaluation is rigorous and is likely to yield information that is credible and will be useful to other States, and

“(3) unless otherwise waived by the Secretary, the State provides a non-Federal share of at least 10 percent of the cost of such study.

“(g) FUNDING OF STUDIES AND DEMONSTRATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated $15,000,000 for each fiscal year specified in section 402(a)(1) for the purpose of paying—

“(A) the cost of conducting the research described in subsection (a);

“(B) the cost of developing and evaluating innovative approaches for reducing welfare dependency and increasing the well-being of minor children under subsection (b);

“(C) the Federal share of any State-initiated study approved under subsection (f); and “(D) an amount determined by the Secretary to be necessary to operate and evaluate demonstration projects, relating to this part, that are in effect or approved under section 1115 as of September 30, 1995, and are continued after such date.

“(2) ALLOCATION.—Of the amount appropriated under paragraph (1) for a fiscal year—

“(A) 50 percent shall be allocated for the purposes described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph (1), and “(B) 50 percent shall be allocated for the purposes described in subparagraphs (C) and (D) of paragraph (1).

“SEC. 413. STUDY BY THE CENSUS BUREAU.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Bureau of the Census shall expand the Survey of Income and Program Participation as necessary to obtain such information as will enable interested persons to evaluate the impact of the amendments made by subtitle A of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995 on a random national sample of recipients of assistance under State programs funded under this part and (as appropriate) other low-income families, and in doing so, shall pay particular attention to the issues of out-of-wedlock birth, welfare dependency, the beginning and end of welfare spells, and the causes of repeat welfare spells.

“(b) APPROPRIATION.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated $10,000,000 for each of fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 for payment to the Bureau of the Census to carry out subsection (a).

“SEC. 414. WAIVERS.

“(a) CONTINUATION OF WAIVERS—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), if any waiver granted to a State under section 1115 or otherwise which relates to the provision of assistance under a State plan under this part is in effect or approved by the Secretary as of October 1, 1995, the amendments made by the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995 shall not apply with respect to the State before the expiration (determined without regard to any extensions) of the waiver to the extent such amendments are inconsistent with the terms of the waiver.

"(2) FINANCING LIMITATION. — Notwithstanding any other provision of law, beginning with fiscal year 1996, a State operating under a waiver described in paragraph (1) shall receive the payment described for such State for such fiscal year under section 402, in lieu of any other payment provided for in the waiver.

"(b) STATE OPTION TO TERMINATE WAIVER. —

"(1) IN GENERAL. — A State may terminate a waiver described in subsection (a) before the expiration of the waiver.

"(2) REPORT. — A State which terminates a waiver under paragraph (1) shall submit a report to the Secretary summarizing the waiver and any available information concerning the result or effect of such waiver.

"(3) HOLD HARMLESS PROVISION. —

"(A) IN GENERAL. — Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a State that, not later than the date described in subparagraph (B), submits a written request to terminate a waiver described in subsection (a) shall be held harmless for accrued cost neutrality liabilities incurred under the terms and conditions of such waiver.

"(B) DATE DESCRIBED. — The date described in this subparagraph is the later of—

"(i) January 1, 1996; or

"(ii) 90 days following the adjournment of the first regular session of the State legislature that begins after the date of the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995.

"(c) SECRETARIAL ENCOURAGEMENT OF CURRENT WAIVERS. — The Secretary shall encourage any State operating a waiver described in subsection (a) to continue such waiver and to evaluate, using random sampling and other characteristics of accepted scientific evaluations, the result or effect of such waiver.

"(d) CONTINUATION OF INDIVIDUAL WAIVERS. — A State may elect to continue one or more individual waivers described in subsection (a)(1).

"SEC. 415. ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR FAMILY SUPPORT.

The programs under this part and part D shall be administered by an Assistant Secretary for Family Support within the Department of Health and Human Services, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and who shall be in addition to any other Assistant Secretary of Health and Human Services provided for by law.

"SEC. 416. LIMITATION ON FEDERAL AUTHORITY.

No officer or employee of the Federal Government may regulate the conduct of States under this part or enforce any provision of this part, except to the extent expressly provided in this part.

"SEC. 417. DEFINITIONS.

"As used in this part:

"(1) ADULT. — The term 'adult' means an individual who is not a minor child.

"(2) MINOR CHILD. — The term 'minor child' means an individual who—
“(A) has not attained 18 years of age; or
(B) has not attained 19 years of age and is a full-time student in a secondary school (or in the equivalent level of vocational or technical training).

“(3) FISCAL YEAR.—The term ‘fiscal year’ means any 12-month period ending on September 30 of a calendar year.

“(4) INDIAN, INDIAN TRIBE, AND TRIBAL ORGANIZATION.—
(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the terms ‘Indian’, ‘Indian tribe’, and ‘tribal organization’ have the meaning given such terms by section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b).

(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR INDIAN TRIBES IN ALASKA.—
The term ‘Indian tribe’ means, with respect to the State of Alaska, only the following Alaska Native regional nonprofit corporations:

(i) Arctic Slope Native Association.
(ii) Kawerak, Inc.
(iii) Maniilaq Association.
(iv) Association of Village Council Presidents.
(v) Tanana Chiefs Conference.

“(5) STATE.—Except as otherwise specifically provided, the term ‘State’ includes the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa.”.

SEC. 12102. REPORT ON DATA PROCESSING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Within 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall prepare and submit to the Congress a report on—

(1) the status of the automated data processing systems operated by the States to assist management in the administration of State programs under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (whether in effect before or after October 1, 1995); and

(2) what would be required to establish a system capable of—

(A) tracking participants in public programs over time; and

(B) checking case records of the States to determine whether individuals are participating in public programs of 2 or more States.

(b) PREFERRED CONTENTS.—The report required by subsection (a) should include—

(1) a plan for building on the automated data processing systems of the States to establish a system with the capabilities described in subsection (a)(2); and

(2) an estimate of the amount of time required to establish such a system and of the cost of establishing such a system.

SEC. 12106. EFFECTIVE DATE; TRANSITION RULE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, this subtitle and the amendments made by this subtitle shall take effect on October 1, 1995.
(b) PENALTIES.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—Paragraphs (2) through (7) and paragraph (9) of section 408(a) of the Social Security Act (as added by section 12101 of this Act) shall apply with respect to fiscal years beginning on or after October 1, 1996.
(2) MISUSE OF FUNDS.—Paragraphs (1) and (8) of section 408(a) of the Social Security Act (as added by section 12101 of this Act, shall apply with respect to fiscal years beginning on or after October 1, 1995.
(c) TRANSITION RULES.—
(1) STATE OPTION TO CONTINUE AFDC PROGRAM.—
(A) 9-MONTH EXTENSION.—A State may elect to continue the State AFDC program until June 30, 1996.
(B) NO INDIVIDUAL OR FAMILY ENTITLEMENT UNDER CONTINUED STATE AFDC PROGRAMS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law or any rule of law, no individual or family is entitled to aid under any State AFDC program on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.
(C) LIMITATIONS ON FEDERAL OBLIGATIONS.—
(i) UNDER AFDC PROGRAM.—If a State elects to continue the State AFDC program pursuant to subparagraph (A), the total obligations of the Federal Government to the State under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (as in effect on September 30, 1995) after the date of the enactment of this Act shall not exceed an amount equal to—

(I) the State family assistance grant (as defined in section 402(a)(1)(B) of the Social Security Act (as in effect pursuant to the amendment made by section 12101 of this Act)); minus

(II) any obligations of the Federal Government to the State under such part (as in effect on September 30, 1995) with respect to expenditures by the State during the period that begins on October 1, 1995, and ends on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act.

(ii) UNDER TEMPORARY FAMILY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—Notwithstanding section 402(a)(1) of the Social Security Act (as in effect pursuant to the amendment made by section 12101 of this Act), the total obligations of the Federal Government to the State under such section 402(a)(1) for fiscal year 1996 after the termination of the State AFDC program shall not exceed an amount equal to—

(I) the amount described in clause (i)(I) of this subparagraph; minus

(II) any obligations of the Federal Government to the State under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (as in effect on September 30, 1995) with respect to expenditures by the State on or after October 1, 1995.

(D) SUBMISSION OF STATE PLAN FOR FISCAL YEAR 1996 DEEMED ACCEPTANCE OF GRANT LIMITATIONS AND FORMULA.—The submission of a plan by a State under section 401(a) of the Social Security Act (as in effect pursuant to the amendment made by section 12101 of this Act) for fiscal year 1996 is deemed to constitute the State's acceptance of the grant reductions under subparagraph (C)(ii) of this paragraph (including the formula for computing the amount of the reduction).

(E) STATE AFDC PROGRAM DEFINED.—As used in this paragraph, the term “State AFDC program” means the State program under parts A and F of title IV of the Social Security Act (as in effect on September 30, 1995).

(2) CLAIMS, ACTIONS, AND PROCEEDINGS.—The amendments made by this subtitle shall not apply with respect to—

(A) powers, duties, functions, rights, claims, penalties, or obligations applicable to aid, assistance, or services provided before the effective date of this subtitle under the provisions amended; and

(B) administrative actions and proceedings commenced before such date, or authorized before such date to be commenced, under such provisions.

(3) CLOSING OUT ACCOUNT FOR THOSE PROGRAMS TERMINATED OR SUBSTANTIALLY MODIFIED BY THIS SUBTITLE.—In closing out accounts, Federal and State officials may use scientifically acceptable statistical sampling techniques. Claims made under programs which are repealed or substantially amended in this subtitle and which involve State expenditures in cases where assistance or services were provided during a prior fiscal year, shall be treated as expenditures during fiscal year 1995 for purposes of reimbursement even if payment was made by a State on or after October 1, 1995. States shall complete the filing of all claims no later than September 30, 1997.

Federal department heads shall—

(A) use the single audit procedure to review and resolve any claims in connection with the closeout of programs, and

(B) reimburse States for any payments made for assistance or services provided during a prior fiscal year from funds for fiscal year 1995, rather than the funds authorized by this subtitle.

(4) CONTINUANCE IN OFFICE OF ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR FAMILY SUPPORT.—The individual who, on the day before the effective date of this subtitle, is serving as Assistant Secretary for Family Support within the Department of Health and Human Services shall, until a successor is appointed to such position—

(A) continue to serve in such position; and

(B) except as otherwise provided by law—

(i) continue to perform the functions of the Assistant Secretary for Family Support under section 417 of the Social Security Act (as in effect before such effective date); and

(ii) have the powers and duties of the Assistant Secretary for Family Support under section 415 of the Social Security Act (as in effect pursuant to the amendment made by section 12101 of this Act).

(d) SUNSET.—The amendment made by section 12101 shall be effective only during the 6-year period beginning on October 1, 1995.

(c) TREATMENT REFERRALS FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH AN ALCOHOLISM OR DRUG ADDICTION CONDITION.—Title XVI (42 U.S.C. 1381 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"TREATMENT REFERRALS FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH AN ALCOHOLISM OR DRUG ADDICTION CONDITION

"SEC. 1636. In the case of any eligible individual whose benefits under this title by reason of disability are paid to a representative payee pursuant to section 1631(a)(2)(A)(ii)(II), the Commissioner of Social Security shall refer such individual to the appropriate State agency administering the State plan for substance abuse treatment services approved under subpart II of part B of title XIX of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300x—21 et seq.)."

(d) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 1611(e) (42 U.S.C. 1382(e)) is amended by striking paragraph (3).

(2) Section 1634 (42 U.S.C. 1383c) is amended by striking subsection (e).

(3) Section 201(c)(1) of the Social Security Independence and Program Improvements Act of 1994 (42 U.S.C. 425 note) is amended—

(A) by striking "to—" and all that follows through "in cases in which" and inserting "to individuals who are entitled to disability insurance benefits or child's, widow's, or widower's insurance benefits based on disability under title II of the Social Security Act, in cases in which";

(B) by striking "either subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B)" and inserting "the preceding sentence"; and

(C) by striking "subparagraph (A) or (B)" and inserting "the preceding sentence".

(e) SUPPLEMENTAL FUNDING FOR ALCOHOL AND SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT PROGRAMS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, there are hereby appropriated to supplement State and Tribal programs funded under section 1933 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300x—33), $50,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 1997 and 1998.

(2) ADDITIONAL FUNDS.—Amounts appropriated under paragraph (1) shall be in addition to any funds otherwise appropriated for allotments under section 1933 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300x—33) and shall be allocated pursuant to such section 1933.

(3) USE OF FUNDS.—A State or tribal government receiving an allotment under this subsection shall consider as priorities, for purposes of expending funds allotted under this subsection, activities relating to the treatment of the abuse of alcohol and other drugs.

(f) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3), the amendments made by this section shall apply to applicants for benefits for months beginning on or after the date of the enactment of this Act, without regard to whether regulations have been issued to implement such amendments.

(2) APPLICATION TO CURRENT RECIPIENTS.—

(A) APPLICATION AND NOTICE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in the case of an individual who is receiving supplemental security income benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act as of the date of the enactment of this Act and whose eligibility for such benefits would terminate by reason of the amendments made by this section, such amendments shall apply with respect to the benefits of such individual, including such individual's treatment (if any) provided pursuant to such title as in effect on the day before the date of such enactment, for months beginning on or after January 1, 1997, and the Commissioner of Social Security shall so notify the individual not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(B) REAPPLICATION.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, each individual notified pursuant to subparagraph (A) who desires to reapply for benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act, as amended by this title, may reapply to the Commissioner of Social Security.

(ii) DETERMINATION OF ELIGIBILITY.—Not later than January 1, 1997, the Commissioner of Social Security shall complete the eligibility redetermination of each individual who reapplies for benefits under clause (i) pursuant to the procedures of title XVI of such Act.

(3) ADDITIONAL APPLICATION OF PAYEE REPRESENTATIVE AND TREATMENT REFERRAL REQUIREMENTS.—The amendments made by subsections (b) and (c) shall also apply—

(A) in the case of any individual who is receiving supplemental security income benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act as of the date of the enactment of this Act, on and after the date of such individual's first continuing disability review occurring after such date of enactment, and

(B) in the case of any individual who receives supplemental security income benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act and has attained age 65, in such manner as determined appropriate by the Commissioner of Social Security.

SEC. 12202. DENIAL OF SSI BENEFITS FOR 10 YEARS TO INDIVIDUALS FOUND TO HAVE FRAUDULENTLY MISREPRESENTED RESIDENCE IN ORDER TO OBTAIN BENEFITS SIMULTANEOUSLY IN 2 OR MORE STATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1614(a) (42 U.S.C. 1382c(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:
H. R. 2491—750

“(5) An individual shall not be considered an eligible individual for the purposes of this title during the 10-year period that begins on the date the individual is convicted in Federal or State court of having made a fraudulent statement or representation with respect to the place of residence of the individual in order to receive assistance simultaneously from 2 or more States under programs that are funded under title IV, title XXI, or the Food Stamp Act of 1977, or benefits in 2 or more States under the supplemental security income program under this title.”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 12203. DENIAL OF SSI BENEFITS FOR FUGITIVE FELONS AND PROBATION AND PAROLE VIOLATORS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1611(e) (42 U.S.C. 1382(e)), as amended by section 12201(d)(1), is amended by inserting after paragraph (2) the following new paragraph:

“(3) A person shall not be considered an eligible individual or eligible spouse for purposes of this title with respect to any month if during such month the person is—

“(A) fleeing to avoid prosecution, or custody or confinement after conviction, under the laws of the place from which the person flees, for a crime, or an attempt to commit a crime, which is a felony under the laws of the place from which the person flees, or which, in the case of the State of New Jersey, is a high misdemeanor under the laws of such State; or

“(B) violating a condition of probation or parole imposed under Federal or State law.”.

(b) EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION WITH LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES.—Section 1611(e) (42 U.S.C. 1382(e)), as amended by section 12201(d)(1) and subsection (a), is amended by inserting after paragraph (3) the following new paragraph:

“(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Commissioner shall furnish any Federal, State, or local law enforcement officer, upon the request of the officer, with the current address, Social Security number, and photograph (if applicable) of any recipient of benefits under this title, if the officer furnishes the Commissioner with the name of the recipient and notifies the Commissioner that—

“(A) the recipient—

“(i) is described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph (3); or “(ii) has information that is necessary for the officer to conduct the officer's official duties; and

“(B) the location or apprehension of the recipient is within the officer's official duties.”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.

CHAPTER 2—BENEFITS FOR DISABLED CHILDREN

SEC. 12211. DEFINITION AND ELIGIBILITY RULES.

(a) DEFINITION OF CHILDHOOD DISABILITY.—Section 1614(a)(3) (42 U.S.C. 1382c(a)(3)), as amended by section 7251(a), is amended—
(1) in subparagraph (A), by striking "An individual" and inserting "Except as provided in subparagraph (C), an individual";
(2) in subparagraph (A), by striking "(or, in the case of an individual under the age of 18, if he suffers from any medically determinable physical or mental impairment of comparable severity)";
(3) by redesignating subparagraphs (C) through (I) as subparagraphs (D) through (J), respectively;
(4) by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following new subparagraph:
"(C) An individual under the age of 18 shall be considered disabled for the purposes of this title if that individual has a medically determinable physical or mental impairment, which results in marked and severe functional limitations, and which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, no individual under the age of 18 who engages in substantial gainful activity (determined in accordance with regulations prescribed pursuant to subparagraph (E)) may be considered to be disabled."; and
(5) in subparagraph (F), as redesignated by paragraph (3), by striking "(D)" and inserting "(E)".

(b) CHANGES TO CHILDHOOD SSI REGULATIONS.—
(1) MODIFICATION TO MEDICAL CRITERIA FOR EVALUATION OF MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL DISORDERS.—The Commissioner of Social Security shall modify sections 112.00C.2. and 112.02B.2.c.(2) of appendix 1 to subpart P of part 404 of title 20, Code of Federal Regulations, to eliminate references to maladaptive behavior in the domain of personal/behavioral function.
(c) MEDICAL IMPROVEMENT REVIEW STANDARD AS IT APPLIES TO INDIVIDUALS UNDER THE AGE OF 18.—Section 1614(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 1382(a)(4)) is amended—
(1) by redesignating subclauses (I) and (II) of clauses (i) and (ii) of subparagraph (B) as subclauses (aa) and (bb), respectively;
(2) by redesignating clauses (i) and (ii) of subparagraphs (A) and (B) as subclauses (I) and (II), respectively;
(3) by redesignating subparagraphs (A) through (C) as clauses (i) through (iii), respectively, and by moving their left hand margin 2 ems to the right;
(4) by inserting before clause (i) (as redesignated by paragraph (3)) the following:
"(A) in the case of an individual who is age 18 or older—";
(5) at the end of subparagraph (A)(iii) (as redesignated by paragraphs (3) and (4)), by striking the period and inserting "; or";
(6) by inserting after and below subparagraph (A)(iii) (as so redesignated) the following:
"(B) in the case of an individual who is under the age of 18—

"(i) substantial evidence which demonstrates that there has been medical improvement in the individual's impairment or combination of impairments, and that such impairment or combination of impairments no longer results in marked and severe functional limitations; or

"(ii) substantial evidence which demonstrates that, as determined on the basis of new or improved diagnostic techniques or evaluations, the individual's impairment or combination of impairments, is not as disabling as it was considered to be at the time of the most recent prior decision that he or she was under a disability or continued to be under a disability, and such impairment or combination of impairments does not result in marked or severe functional limitations; or."

(7) by redesignating subparagraph (D) as subparagraph (C) and by inserting in such subparagraph "in the case of any individual," before "substantial evidence"; and

(8) in the first sentence following subparagraph (C) (as redesignated by paragraph (7)), by—

(A) inserting "(i)" before "to restore"; and

(B) inserting ", or (ii) in the case of an individual under the age of 18, to eliminate or improve the individual's impairment or combination of impairments so that it no longer results in marked and severe functional limitations" immediately before the period.

(d) AMOUNT OF BENEFITS.—Section 1611(b) (42 U.S.C. 1382(b)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(3)(i) Except with respect to individuals described in clause (ii), the benefit under this title for an individual described in section 1614(a)(3)(C) shall be payable at a rate equal to 75 percent of the rate otherwise determined under this subsection.

"(ii) An individual is described in this clause if such individual is described in section 1614(a)(3)(C), and—

"(I) in the case of such an individual under the age of 6, such individual has a medical impairment that severely limits the individual's ability to function in a manner appropriate to individuals of the same age and who without special personal assistance would require specialized care outside the home; or

"(II) in the case of such an individual who has attained the age of 6, such individual requires personal care assistance with—

"(aa) at least 2 activities of daily living;

"(bb) continual 24-hour supervision or monitoring to avoid causing injury or harm to self or others; or

"(cc) the administration of medical treatment; and who without such assistance would require full-time or part-time specialized care outside the home.

"(iii)(I) For purposes of clause (ii), the term 'specialized care' means medical care beyond routine administration of medication.

"(II) For purposes of clause (ii)(II)—

"(aa) the term 'personal care assistance' means at least hands-on and stand-by assistance, supervision, or cueing; and “(bb) the term ‘activities of daily living’ means eating, toileting, dressing, bathing, and mobility.”.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATES, ETC.—

(1) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The provisions of, and amendments made by, subsections (a), (b), and (c) shall apply to applicants for benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act for months beginning on or after the date of the enactment of this Act, without regard to whether regulations have been issued to implement such provisions and amendments.

(B) ELIGIBILITY RULES.—The amendments made by subsection (d) shall apply to—

(i) applicants for benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act for months beginning on or after January 1, 1997; and

(ii) with respect to continuing disability reviews of eligibility for benefits under such title occurring on or after such date.

(2) APPLICATION TO CURRENT RECIPIENTS.—

(A) ELIGIBILITY DETERMINATIONS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Commissioner of Social Security shall redetermine the eligibility of any individual under age 18 who is receiving supplemental security income benefits based on a disability under title XVI of the Social Security Act as of the date of the enactment of this Act and whose eligibility for such benefits may terminate by reason of the provisions of, and amendments made by, subsections (a), (b), and (c).

With respect to any redetermination under this subparagraph—

(i) section 1614(a)(4) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1382c(a)(4)) shall not apply;

(ii) the Commissioner of Social Security shall apply the eligibility criteria for new applicants for benefits under title XVI of such Act;

(iii) the Commissioner shall give such redetermination priority over all continuing eligibility reviews and other reviews under such title; and

(iv) such redetermination shall be counted as a review or redetermination otherwise required to be made under section 208 of the Social Security Independence and Program Improvements Act of 1994 or any other provision of title XVI of the Social Security Act.

(B) GRANDFATHER PROVISION.—The provisions of, and amendments made by, subsections (a), (b), and (c), and the redetermination under subparagraph (A), shall only apply with respect to the benefits of an individual described in subparagraph (A) for months beginning on or after January 1, 1997.

(C) NOTICE.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Commissioner of Social Security shall notify an individual described in subparagraph (A) of the provisions of this paragraph.

(3) REGULATIONS.—The Commissioner of Social Security shall submit for review to the committees of jurisdiction in SEC. 12212. ELIGIBILITY REDETERMINATIONS AND CONTINUING DISABILITY REVIEWS.

(a) CONTINUING DISABILITY REVIEWS RELATING TO CERTAIN CHILDREN.—Section 1614(a)(3)(H) (42 U.S.C. 1382c(a)(3)(H)), as redesignated by section 12211(a)(3), is amended—

(1) by inserting "(i)" after "(H)"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new clause:

"(ii)(I) Not less frequently than once every 3 years, the Commissioner shall review in accordance with paragraph (4) the continued eligibility for benefits under this title of each individual who has not attained 18 years of age and is eligible for such benefits by reason of an impairment (or combination of impairments) which may improve (or, at the option of the Commissioner, which is unlikely to improve).

(II) A representative payee of a recipient whose case is reviewed under this clause shall present, at the time of review, evidence demonstrating that the recipient is, and has been, receiving treatment, to the extent considered medically necessary and available, of the condition which was the basis for providing benefits under this title.

(III) If the representative payee refuses to comply without good cause with the requirements of subclause (II), the Commissioner of Social Security shall, if the Commissioner determines it is in the best interest of the individual, promptly terminate payment of benefits to the representative payee, and provide for payment of benefits to an alternative representative payee of the individual or, if the interest of the individual under this title would be served thereby, to the individual.

(IV) Subclause (II) shall not apply to the representative payee of any individual with respect to whom the Commissioner determines such application would be inappropriate or unnecessary. In making such determination, the Commissioner shall take into consideration the nature of the individual's impairment (or combination of impairments). Section 1631(c) shall not apply to a finding by the Commissioner that the requirements of subclause (II) should not apply to an individual's representative payee."

(b) Disability Eligibility Redeterminations Required for SSI Recipients Who Attain 18 Years of Age.—

(1) In General.—Section 1614(a)(3)(H) (42 U.S.C. 1382c(a)(3)(H)), as amended by subsection (a), is amended by adding at the end the following new clause:

"(iii) If an individual is eligible for benefits under this title by reason of disability for the month preceding the month in which the individual attains the age of 18 years, the Commissioner shall redetermine such eligibility—

"(I) during the 1-year period beginning on the individual's 18th birthday; and

"(II) by applying the criteria used in determining the initial eligibility for applicants who are 18 or older.

With respect to a redetermination under this clause, paragraph (4) shall not apply and such redetermination shall be considered a substitute for a review or redetermination otherwise required under any other provision of this subparagraph during that 1-year period."

(c) Continuing Disability Review Required for Low Birth Weight Babies.—Section 1614(a)(3)(H) (42 U.S.C. 1382c(a)(3)(H)), as amended by subsections (a) and (b), is amended by adding at the end the following new clause:

"(iv)(I) Not later than 12 months after the birth of an individual, the Commissioner shall review in accordance with paragraph (4) the continuing eligibility for benefits under this title by reason of disability of such individual whose low birth weight is a contributing factor material to the Commissioner's determination that the individual is disabled.

"(II) A review under subclause (I) shall be considered a substitute for a review otherwise required under any other provision of this subparagraph during that 12-month period.

"(III) A representative payee of a recipient whose case is reviewed under this clause shall present, at the time of review, evidence demonstrating that the recipient is, and has been, receiving treatment, to the extent considered medically necessary and available, of the condition which was the basis for providing benefits under this title.

"(IV) If the representative payee refuses to comply without good cause with the requirements of subclause (III), the Commissioner of Social Security shall, if the Commissioner determines it is in the best interest of the individual, promptly terminate payment of benefits to the representative payee, and provide for payment of benefits to an alternative representative payee of the individual or, if the interest of the individual under this title would be served thereby, to the individual.

"(V) Subclause (III) shall not apply to the representative payee of any individual with respect to whom the Commissioner determines such application would be inappropriate or unnecessary. In making such determination, the Commissioner shall take into consideration the nature of the individual's impairment (or combination of impairments). Section 1631(c) shall not apply to a finding by the Commissioner that the requirements of subclause (III) should not apply to an individual's representative payee.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to benefits for months beginning on or after the date of the enactment of this Act, without regard to whether regulations have been issued to implement such amendments.

SEC. 12213. ADDITIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY REQUIREMENTS.

(a) DISPOSAL OF RESOURCES FOR LESS THAN FAIR MARKET VALUE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 1613(c) (42 U.S.C. 1382b(c)) is amended to read as follows:

"(c) DISPOSAL OF RESOURCES FOR LESS THAN FAIR MARKET VALUE.—(1)(A)(i) If an individual who has not attained 18 years of age (or any person acting on such individual's behalf) disposes of resources of the individual for less than fair market value on or after the look-back date specified in clause (ii)(I), the individual is ineligible for benefits under this title for months during the period beginning on the date specified in clause (iii) and equal to the number of months specified in clause (iv).

(ii)(I) The look-back date specified in this subclause is a date that is 36 months before the date specified in subclause (II).

(ii) The date specified in this subclause is the date on which the individual applies for benefits under this title or, if later, the date on which the disposal of the individual's resources for less than fair market value occurs.

(iii) The date specified in this clause is the first day of the first month that follows the month in which the individual's resources were disposed of for less than fair market value and that does not occur in any other period of ineligibility under this paragraph.

(iv) The number of months of ineligibility under this clause for an individual shall be equal to—

(I) the total, cumulative uncompensated value of all the individual's resources so disposed of on or after the look-back date specified in clause (ii)(I), divided by

(II) the amount of the maximum monthly benefit payable under section 1611(b) to an eligible individual for the month in which the date specified in clause (ii)(II) occurs.

(B) An individual shall not be ineligible for benefits under this title by reason of subparagraph (A) if the Commissioner determines that—

(i) the individual intended to dispose of the resources at fair market value;

(ii) the resources were transferred exclusively for a purpose other than to qualify for benefits under this title;

(iii) all resources transferred for less than fair market value have been returned to the individual; or

(iv) the denial of eligibility would work an undue hardship on the individual (as determined on the basis of criteria established by the Commissioner in regulations).

"(C) For purposes of this paragraph, in the case of a resource held by an individual in common with another person or persons in a joint tenancy, tenancy in common, or similar arrangement, the resource (or the affected portion of such resource) shall be considered to be disposed of by such individual when any action is taken, either by such individual or by any other person, that reduces or eliminates such individual's ownership or control of such resource.

"(D)(i) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), this subsection shall not apply to a transfer of a resource to a trust if the portion of the trust attributable to such resource is considered a resource available to the individual pursuant to subsection (e)(3) (or would be so considered, but for the application of subsection (e)(4)).

(ii) In the case of a trust established by an individual (within the meaning of paragraph (2)(A) of subsection (e)), if from such portion of the trust (if any) that is considered a resource available to the individual pursuant to paragraph (3) of such subsection (or would be so considered but for the application of paragraph (2) of such subsection) or the residue of such portion upon the termination of the trust—

"(I) there is made a payment other than to or for the benefit of the individual, or

"(II) no payment could under any circumstance be made to the individual, then the payment described in subclause (I) or the foreclosure of payment described in subclause (II) shall be considered a disposal of resources by the individual subject to this subsection, as of the date of such payment or foreclosure, respectively.

"(2)(A) At the time an individual (and the individual's eligible spouse, if any) applies for benefits under this title, and at the time the eligibility of an individual (and such spouse, if any) for such benefits is redetermined, the Commissioner of Social Security shall—

"(i) inform such individual of the provisions of paragraph (1) providing for a period of ineligibility for benefits under this title for individuals who make certain dispositions of resources for less than fair market value, and inform such individual that information obtained pursuant to clause (ii) will be made available to the State agency administering a State plan under title XXI (as provided in subparagraph (B)); and

"(ii) obtain from such individual information which may be used in determining whether or not a period of ineligibility for such benefits would be required by reason of paragraph (1).

"(B) The Commissioner of Social Security shall make the information obtained under subparagraph (A)(ii) available, on request, to any State agency administering a State plan approved under title XXI.

"(3) For purposes of this subsection—

"(A) the term 'trust' includes any legal instrument or device that is similar to a trust; and

"(B) the term 'benefits under this title' includes supplementary payments pursuant to an agreement for Federal administration under section 1616(a), and payments pursuant to an agreement entered into under section 212(b) of Public Law 93–56."

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this subsection shall be effective with respect to transfers of resources for less than fair market value that occur at least 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) TREATMENT OF ASSETS HELD IN TRUST.—
H. R. 2491—758

(1) TREATMENT AS RESOURCE.—Section 1613 (42 U.S.C. 1382) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"TRUSTS"

"(e)(1) In determining the resources of an individual who has not attained 18 years of age, the provisions of paragraph (3) shall apply to a trust established by such individual.

"(2)(A) For purposes of this subsection, an individual shall be considered to have established a trust if any assets of the individual were transferred to the trust.

"(B) In the case of an irrevocable trust to which the assets of an individual and the assets of any other person or persons were transferred, the provisions of this subsection shall apply to the portion of the trust attributable to the assets of the individual.

"(C) This subsection shall apply without regard to—

"(i) the purposes for which the trust is established;
"(ii) whether the trustees have or exercise any discretion under the trust;
"(iii) any restrictions on when or whether distributions may be made from the trust; or
"(iv) any restrictions on the use of distributions from the trust.

"(3)(A) In the case of a revocable trust, the corpus of the trust shall be considered a resource available to the individual.

"(B) In the case of an irrevocable trust, if there are any circumstances under which payment from the trust could be made to or for the benefit of the individual, the portion of the corpus from which payment to or for the benefit of the individual could be made shall be considered a resource available to the individual.

"(4) The Commissioner may waive the application of this subsection with respect to any individual if the Commissioner determines, on the basis of criteria prescribed in regulations, that such application would work an undue hardship on such individual.

"(5) For purposes of this subsection—

"(A) the term 'trust' includes any legal instrument or device that is similar to a trust;

"(B) the term 'corpus' means all property and other interests held by the trust, including accumulated earnings and any other addition to such trust after its establishment (except that such term does not include any such earnings or addition in the month in which such earnings or addition is credited or otherwise transferred to the trust);

"(C) the term 'asset' includes any income or resource of the individual, including—

"(i) any income otherwise excluded by section 1612(b);
"(ii) any resource otherwise excluded by this section; and

"(iii) any other payment or property that the individual is entitled to but does not receive or have access to because of action by—

"(I) such individual;
"(II) a person or entity (including a court) with legal authority to act in place of, or on behalf of, such individual; or “(III) a person or entity (including a court) acting at the direction of, or upon the request of, such individual; and

“(D) the term ‘benefits under this title’ includes supplementary payments pursuant to an agreement for Federal administration under section 1616(a), and payments pursuant to an agreement entered into under section 212(b) of Public Law 93–66.”.

(2) TREATMENT AS INCOME.—Section 1612(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1382a(a)(2)) is amended—

(A) by striking “and” at the end of subparagraph (E);

(B) by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (F) and inserting “; and”;

(C) by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

“(C) any earnings of, and additions to, the corpus of a trust (as defined in section 1613(f)) established by an individual (within the meaning of paragraph (2)(A) of section 1613(e)) and of which such individual is a beneficiary (other than a trust to which paragraph (4) of such section applies): except that in the case of an irrevocable trust, there shall exist circumstances under which payment from such earnings or additions could be made to, or for the benefit of, such individual.’’.

(3) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this subsection shall take effect on January 1, 1996, and shall apply to trusts established on or after such date.

(c) REQUIREMENT TO ESTABLISH ACCOUNT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 1631(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1383(a)(2)) is amended—

(A) by redesignating subparagraphs (F) and (G) as subparagraphs (G) and (H), respectively; and

(B) by inserting after subparagraph (E) the following new subparagraph:

“(F)(i)(I) Each representative payee of an eligible individual under the age of 18 who is eligible for the payment of benefits described in subclause (II) shall establish on behalf of such individual an account in a financial institution into which such benefits shall be paid, and shall thereafter maintain such account for use in accordance with clause (ii).

“(II) Benefits described in this subclause are past-due monthly benefits under this title (which, for purposes of this subclause, include State supplementary payments made by the Commissioner pursuant to an agreement under section 1616 or section 212(b) of Public Law 93–66) in an amount (after any withholding by the Commissioner for reimbursement to a State for interim assistance under subsection (g)) that exceeds the product of—

“(aa) 6, and

“(bb) the maximum monthly benefit payable under this title to an eligible individual.

“(ii)(I) A representative payee may use funds in the account established under clause (i) to pay for allowable expenses described in subclause (II).

“(II) An allowable expense described in this subclause is an expense for—“(aa) education or job skills training;

“(bb) personal needs assistance;
“(cc) special equipment;
“(dd) housing modification;
“(ee) medical treatment;
“(ff) therapy or rehabilitation; or “(gg) any other item or service that the Commissioner determines to be appropriate; provided that such expense benefits such individual and, in the case of an expense described in division (cc), (dd), (ff), or (gg), is related to the impairment (or combination of impairments) of such individual.

“(III) The use of funds from an account established under clause (i) in any manner not authorized by this clause—

“(aa) by a representative payee shall constitute misuse of benefits for all purposes of this paragraph, and any representative payee who knowingly misuses benefits from such an account shall be liable to the Commissioner in an amount equal to the total amount of such misused benefits; and “(bb) by an eligible individual who is his or her own representative payee shall be considered an overpayment subject to recovery under subsection (b).

“(IV) This clause shall continue to apply to funds in the account after the child has reached age 18, regardless of whether benefits are paid directly to the beneficiary or through a representative payee.

“(iii) The representative payee may deposit into the account established pursuant to clause (i)—

“(I) past-due benefits payable to the eligible individual in an amount less than that specified in clause (i)(II), and “(II) any other funds representing an underpayment under this title to such individual, provided that the amount of such underpayment is equal to or exceeds the maximum monthly benefit payable under this title to an eligible individual.

“(iv) The Commissioner of Social Security shall establish a system for accountability monitoring whereby such representative payee shall report, at such time and in such manner as the Commissioner shall require, on activity respecting funds in the account established pursuant to clause (i).”.

CHAPTER 1—ELIGIBILITY FOR SERVICES; DISTRIBUTION OF PAYMENTS

SEC. 12301. STATE OBLIGATION TO PROVIDE CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT SERVICES.

(a) STATE PLAN REQUIREMENTS.—Section 454 (42 U.S.C. 654) is amended—

(1) by striking paragraph (4) and inserting the following new paragraph:

"(4) provide that the State will—

(A) provide services relating to the establishment of paternity or the establishment, modification, or enforcement of child support obligations, as appropriate, under the plan with respect to—

(i) each child for whom (I) assistance is provided under the State program funded under part A of this title, (II) benefits or services for foster care maintenance and adoption assistance are provided under the State program funded under part B of this title, or
(III) medical assistance is provided under the State plan approved under title XXI, unless the State agency administering the plan determines (in accordance with paragraph (29)) that it is against the best interests of the child to do so; and
(ii) any other child, if an individual applies for such services with respect to the child; and
(B) enforce any support obligation established with respect to—
(i) a child with respect to whom the State provides services under the plan; or
(ii) the custodial parent of such a child.; and
(2) in paragraph (6)—
(A) by striking "provide that" and inserting "provide that—"
(B) by striking subparagraph (A) and inserting the following new subparagraph:
(A) services under the plan shall be made available to residents of other States on the same terms as to residents of the State submitting the plan;
(C) in subparagraph (B), by inserting "on individuals not receiving assistance under any State program funded under part A" after "such services shall be imposed"
(D) in each of subparagraphs (B), (C), (D), and (E)—
(i) by indenting the subparagraph in the same manner as, and aligning the left margin of the subpara-graph with the left margin of, the matter inserted by subparagraph (B) of this paragraph; and
(ii) by striking the final comma and inserting a semicolon; and
(E) in subparagraph (E), by indenting each of clauses
(i) and (ii) 2 additional ems.

SEC. 12302. DISTRIBUTION OF CHILD SUPPORT COLLECTIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 457 (42 U.S.C. 657) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 457. DISTRIBUTION OF COLLECTED SUPPORT.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—An amount collected on behalf of a family as support by a State pursuant to a plan approved under this part shall be distributed as follows:

"(1) FAMILIES RECEIVING ASSISTANCE.—In the case of a family receiving assistance from the State, the State shall—

"(A) retain, or distribute to the family, the State share of the amount so collected; and

"(B) pay to the Federal Government the Federal share of the amount so collected.

"(2) FAMILIES THAT FORMERLY RECEIVED ASSISTANCE.—In the case of a family that formerly received assistance from the State:

"(A) CURRENT SUPPORT PAYMENTS.—To the extent that the amount so collected does not exceed the amount required to be paid to the family for the month in which collected, the State shall distribute the amount so collected to the family.

"(B) PAYMENTS OF ARREARAGES.—To the extent that the amount so collected exceeds the amount required to be paid to the family for the month in which collected, the State shall distribute the amount so collected as follows:

"(i) DISTRIBUTION OF ARREARAGES THAT ACCRUED AFTER THE FAMILY CEASED TO RECEIVE ASSISTANCE.—

"(I) PRE-OCTOBER 1997.—The provisions of this section (other than subsection (b)(1)) as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of section 12302 of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995 shall apply with respect to the distribution of support arrearages that—

"(aa) accrued after the family ceased to receive assistance, and

"(bb) are collected before October 1, 1997.

"(II) POST-SEPTEMBER 1997.—With respect to amounts collected on or after October 1, 1997—

"(aa) IN GENERAL.—The State shall distribute any amount collected (other than amounts described in clause (iv)) to the family to the extent necessary to satisfy any support arrearages with respect to the family that accrued after the family ceased to receive assistance from the State.

"(bb) REIMBURSEMENT OF GOVERNMENTS FOR ASSISTANCE PROVIDED TO THE FAMILY.—To the extent that division (aa) does not apply to the amount, the State shall retain the State share of the amount so collected, and pay to the Federal Government the Federal share (as defined in subsection (c)(2)(A)) of the amount so collected, to the extent necessary to reimburse amounts paid to the family as assistance by the State.

“(ii) DISTRIBUTION OF ARREARAGES THAT ACCRUED BEFORE THE FAMILY RECEIVED ASSISTANCE.—

“(I) PRE-OCTOBER 2000.—The provisions of this section (other than subsection (b)(1)) as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of section 12302 of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995 shall apply with respect to the distribution of support arrearages that—

“(aa) accrued before the family received assistance, and

“(bb) are collected before October 1, 2000.

“(II) POST-SEPTEMBER 2000.—Unless based on the report required by paragraph (4), the Congress determines otherwise, with respect to amounts collected on or after October 1, 2000—

“(aa) IN GENERAL.—The State shall first distribute any amount collected (other than amounts described in clause (iv)) to the family to the extent necessary to satisfy any support arrears with respect to the family that accrued before the family received assistance from the State.

“(bb) REIMBURSEMENT OF GOVERNMENTS FOR ASSISTANCE PROVIDED TO THE FAMILY.—The State shall retain the State share of the amounts so collected in excess of those distributed pursuant to division (aa) and pay to the Federal Government the Federal share (as defined in subsection (c)(2)) of the amount so collected, to the extent necessary to reimburse all or part of the amounts paid to the family as assistance by the State.

“(cc) DISTRIBUTION OF THE REMAINDER TO THE FAMILY.—To the extent that neither division (aa) nor division (bb) applies to the amount so collected, the State shall distribute the amount to the family.

“(iii) DISTRIBUTION OF ARREARAGES THAT ACCRUED WHILE THE FAMILY RECEIVED ASSISTANCE.—In the case of a family described in this subparagraph, the provisions of paragraph (I) shall apply with respect to the distribution of support arrearages that accrued while the family received assistance.
“(iv) AMOUNTS COLLECTED PURSUANT TO SECTION 464.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, any amount of support collected pursuant to section 464 shall be retained by the State to the extent necessary to reimburse amounts paid to the family as assistance by the State. The State shall pay to the Federal Government the Federal share of the amounts so retained. To the extent the amount collected pursuant to section 464 exceeds the amount so retained, the State shall distribute the excess to the family.

“(v) ORDERING RULES FOR DISTRIBUTIONS.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the State shall treat any support arrearages collected as accruing in the following order:

“(I) to the period after the family ceased to receive assistance;

“(II) to the period before the family received assistance; and “(III) to the period while the family was receiving assistance.

“(3) FAMILIES THAT NEVER RECEIVED ASSISTANCE.—In the case of any other family, the State shall distribute the amount so collected to the family.

“(4) STUDY AND REPORT.—Not later than October 1, 1998, the Secretary shall report to the Congress the Secretary’s findings with respect to—

“(A) whether the distribution of post-assistance arrearages to families has been effective in moving people off of welfare and keeping them off of welfare;

“(B) whether early implementation of a pre-assistance arrearage program by some States has been effective in moving people off of welfare and keeping them off of welfare;

“(C) what the overall impact has been of the amendments made by the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995 with respect to child support enforcement in moving people off of welfare and keeping them off of welfare; and “(D) based on the information and data the Secretary has obtained, what changes, if any, should be made in the policies related to the distribution of child support arrearages.

“(b) CONTINUATION OF ASSIGNMENTS.—Any rights to support obligations, which were assigned to a State as a condition of receiving assistance from the State under part A and which were in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995, shall remain assigned after such date.

“(c) DEFINITIONS.—As used in subsection (a):

“(1) ASSISTANCE.—The term ‘assistance from the State’ means—

“(A) assistance under the State program funded under part A or under the State plan approved under part A of this title (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995); or
"(B) benefits under the State plan approved under part E of this title (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995).

"(2) FEDERAL SHARE.—The term ‘Federal share’ means—

'(A) if the amounts collected and retained by the State (to the extent necessary to reimburse amounts paid to families as assistance by the State) are equal to or greater than such amounts collected in fiscal year 1995 (reduced by amounts not retained by the State in fiscal year 1995 as a result of the application of subsection (b)(1) of this section as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995), the highest Federal medical assistance percentage in effect for the State in fiscal year 1995 or any succeeding year of the amount so collected; or

'(B) if the amounts so collected and retained by the State are less than such amounts collected in fiscal year 1995 (reduced by amounts not retained by the State in fiscal year 1995 as a result of the application of subsection (b)(1) of this section as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1995), the amounts so collected and retained less the State share in fiscal year 1995.

"(3) FEDERAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PERCENTAGE.—The term ‘Federal medical assistance percentage’ means—

'(A) the Federal medical assistance percentage (as defined in section 1118), in the case of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa; or

'(B) the Federal medical assistance percentage (as defined in section 2122(c)) in the case of any other State.

"(4) STATE SHARE.—The term ‘State share’ means 100 percent minus the Federal share.

"(d) CONTINUATION OF SERVICES FOR FAMILIES CEASING TO RECEIVE ASSISTANCE UNDER THE STATE PROGRAM FUNDED UNDER PART A.—When a family with respect to which services are provided under a State plan approved under this part ceases to receive assistance under the State program funded under part A, the State shall provide appropriate notice to the family and continue to provide such services, subject to the same conditions and on the same basis as in the case of individuals to whom services are furnished under section 454, except that an application or other request to continue services shall not be required of such a family and section 454(6)(B) shall not apply to the family."

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 464(a)(1) (42 U.S.C. 664(a)(1)) is amended by striking "section 457(b)(4) or (d)(3)" and inserting "section 457".

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall be effective on October 1, 1996, or earlier at the State’s option.

SEC. 12303. PRIVACY SAFEGUARDS.

(a) STATE PLAN REQUIREMENT.—Section 454 (42 U.S.C. 654), as amended by section 12301(b) of this Act, is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (24); and

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (25) and inserting “; and”;

and
(3) by adding after paragraph (25) the following new paragraph:

"(26) will have in effect safeguards, applicable to all confidential information handled by the State agency, that are designed to protect the privacy rights of the parties, including—

"(A) safeguards against unauthorized use or disclosure of information relating to proceedings or actions to establish paternity, or to establish or enforce support;

"(B) prohibitions against the release of information on the whereabouts of 1 party to another party against whom a protective order with respect to the former party has been entered; and

"(C) prohibitions against the release of information on the whereabouts of 1 party to another party if the State has reason to believe that the release of the information may result in physical or emotional harm to the former party.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall become effective on October 1, 1997.

CHAPTER 2—LOCATE AND CASE TRACKING

SEC. 12311. STATE CASE REGISTRY.

Section 454A, as added by section 12344(a)(2) of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsections:

"(e) STATE CASE REGISTRY.—

"(1) CONTENTS.—The automated system required by this section shall include a registry (which shall be known as the 'State case registry') that contains records with respect to—

"(A) each case in which services are being provided by the State agency under the State plan approved under this part; and

"(B) each support order established or modified in the State on or after October 1, 1998.

"(2) LINKING OF LOCAL REGISTRIES.—The State case registry may be established by linking local case registries of support orders through an automated information network, subject to this section.

"(3) USE OF STANDARDIZED DATA ELEMENTS.—Such records shall use standardized data elements for both parents (such as names, social security numbers and other uniform identification numbers, dates of birth, and case identification numbers), and contain such other information (such as on-case status) as the Secretary may require.

"(4) PAYMENT RECORDS.—Each case record in the State case registry with respect to which services are being provided under the State plan approved under this part and with respect to which a support order has been established shall include a record of—

"(A) the amount of monthly (or other periodic) support owed under the order, and other amounts (including arrearages, interest or late payment penalties, and fees) due or overdue under the order;

"(B) any amount described in subparagraph (A) that has been collected;

"(C) the distribution of such collected amounts:
"(D) the birth date of any child for whom the order requires the provision of support; and
"(E) the amount of any lien imposed with respect to the order pursuant to section 466(a)(4).

"(5) UPDATING AND MONITORING.—The State agency operating the automated system required by this section shall promptly establish and maintain, and regularly monitor, case records in the State case registry with respect to which services are being provided under the State plan approved under this part, on the basis of—

"(A) information on administrative actions and administrative and judicial proceedings and orders relating to paternity and support;
"(B) information obtained from comparison with Federal, State, or local sources of information;
"(C) information on support collections and distributions; and
"(D) any other relevant information.

"(6) INFORMATION COMPARISONS AND OTHER DISCLOSURES OF INFORMATION.—The State shall use the automated system required by this section to extract information from (at such times, and in such standardized format or formats, as may be required by the Secretary), to share and compare information with, and to receive information from, other data bases and information comparison services, in order to obtain (or provide) information necessary to enable the State agency (or the Secretary or other State or Federal agencies) to carry out this part, subject to section 6103 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. Such information comparison activities shall include the following:

"(1) FEDERAL CASE REGISTRY OF CHILD SUPPORT ORDERS.—Furnishing to the Federal Case Registry of Child Support Orders established under section 453(h) (and update as necessary, with information including notice of expiration of orders) the minimum amount of information on child support cases recorded in the State case registry that is necessary to operate the registry (as specified by the Secretary in regulations).

"(2) FEDERAL PARENT LOCATOR SERVICE.—Exchanging information with the Federal Parent Locator Service for the purposes specified in section 453.

"(3) TEMPORARY FAMILY ASSISTANCE AND MEDIGRANT AGENCIES.—Exchanging information with State agencies (of the State and of other States) administering programs funded under part A, programs operated under State plans under title XXI, and other programs designated by the Secretary, as necessary to perform State agency responsibilities under this part and under such programs.

"(4) INTRASTATE AND INTERSTATE INFORMATION COMPARISONS.—Exchanging information with other agencies of the State, agencies of other States, and interstate information networks, as necessary and appropriate to carry out (or assist other States to carry out) the purposes of this part.”.

SEC. 12312. COLLECTION AND DISBURSEMENT OF SUPPORT PAYMENTS.

(a) STATE PLAN REQUIREMENT.—Section 454 (42 U.S.C. 654), as amended by sections 12301(b) and 12303(a) of this Act, is amended—
(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (25);
(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (26) and inserting "; and"; and
(3) by adding after paragraph (26) the following new paragraph:

"(27) provide that, on and after October 1, 1998, the State agency will—

"(A) operate a State disbursement unit in accordance with section 454B; and

"(B) have sufficient State staff (consisting of State employees) and (at State option) contractors reporting directly to the State agency to—

"(i) monitor and enforce support collections through the unit (including carrying out the automated data processing responsibilities described in section 454A(g)); and

"(ii) take the actions described in section 466(c)(1) in appropriate cases.")."

(b) ESTABLISHMENT OF STATE DISBURSEMENT UNIT.—Part D of title IV (42 U.S.C. 651—669), as amended by section 12344(a)(2) of this Act, is amended by inserting after section 454A the following new section:

"SEC. 454B. COLLECTION AND DISBURSEMENT OF SUPPORT PAYMENTS.

"(a) STATE DISBURSEMENT UNIT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In order for a State to meet the requirements of this section, the State agency must establish and operate a unit (which shall be known as the 'State disbursement unit') for the collection and disbursement of payments under support orders in all cases being enforced by the State pursuant to section 454(4).

"(2) OPERATION.—The State disbursement unit shall be operated—

"(A) directly by the State agency (or 2 or more State agencies under a regional cooperative agreement), or (to the extent appropriate) by a contractor responsible directly to the State agency; and

"(B) in coordination with the automated system established by the State pursuant to section 454A.

"(3) LINKING OF LOCAL DISBURSEMENT UNITS.—The State disbursement unit may be established by linking local disbursement units through an automated information network, subject to this section, if the Secretary agrees that the system will not cost more nor take more time to establish or operate than a centralized system. In addition, employers shall be given 1 location to which income withholding is sent.

"(b) REQUIRED PROCEDURES.—The State disbursement unit shall use automated procedures, electronic processes, and computer-driven technology to the maximum extent feasible, efficient, and economical, for the collection and disbursement of support payments, including procedures—

"(1) for receipt of payments from parents, employers, and other States, and for disbursements to custodial parents and other obligees, the State agency, and the agencies of other States;

"(2) for accurate identification of payments;
“(3) to ensure prompt disbursement of the custodial parent’s share of any payment; and “(4) to furnish to any parent, upon request, timely information on the current status of support payments under an order requiring payments to be made by or to the parent.
“(c) TIMING OF DISBURSEMENTS.—
“(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the State disbursement unit shall distribute all amounts payable under section 457(a) within 2 business days after receipt from the employer or other source of periodic income, if sufficient information identifying the payee is provided.
“(2) PERMISSIVE RETENTION OF ARREARAGES.—The State disbursement unit may delay the distribution of collections toward arrearages until the resolution of any timely appeal with respect to such arrearages.
“(d) BUSINESS DAY DEFINED.—As used in this section, the term ‘business day’ means a day on which State offices are open for regular business.’.
“(e) USE OF AUTOMATED SYSTEM.—Section 454A, as added by section 12344(a)(2) and as amended by section 12311 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:
“(g) COLLECTION AND DISTRIBUTION OF SUPPORT PAYMENTS.—
“(1) IN GENERAL.—The State shall use the automated system required by this section, to the maximum extent feasible, to assist and facilitate the collection and disbursement of support payments through the State disbursement unit operated under section 454B, through the performance of functions, including, at a minimum—
“(A) transmission of orders and notices to employers (and other debtors) for the withholding of wages and other income—
“(i) within 2 business days after receipt from a court, another State, an employer, the Federal Parent Locator Service, or another source recognized by the State of notice of, and the income source subject to, such withholding; and “(ii) using uniform formats prescribed by the Secretary;
“(B) ongoing monitoring to promptly identify failures to make timely payment of support; and “(C) automatic use of enforcement procedures (including procedures authorized pursuant to section 466(c)) if payments are not timely made.
“(2) BUSINESS DAY DEFINED.—As used in paragraph (1), the term ‘business day’ means a day on which State offices are open for regular business.’.
“(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall become effective on October 1, 1998.

SEC. 12313. STATE DIRECTORY OF NEW HIRES.

(a) STATE PLAN REQUIREMENT.—Section 454 (42 U.S.C. 654), as amended by sections 12301(b), 12303(a) and 12312(a) of this Act, is amended—
“(1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (26);
“(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (27) and inserting “; and”;

(3) by adding after paragraph (27) the following new paragraph:

"(28) provide that, on and after October 1, 1997, the State will operate a State Directory of New Hires in accordance with section 453A."

(b) STATE DIRECTORY OF NEW HIRES.—Part D of title IV (42 U.S.C. 651-669) is amended by inserting after section 453 the following new section:

"SEC. 453A. STATE DIRECTORY OF NEW HIRES.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—

(A) REQUIREMENT FOR STATES THAT HAVE NO DIRECTORY.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), not later than October 1, 1997, each State shall establish an automated directory (to be known as the 'State Directory of New Hires') which shall contain information supplied in accordance with subsection (b) by employers on each newly hired employee.

(B) STATES WITH NEW HIRE REPORTING IN EXISTENCE.—A State which has a new hire reporting law in existence on the date of the enactment of this section may continue to operate under the State law, but the State must meet the requirements of this section (other than subsection (1)) not later than October 1, 1997.

(2) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section:

(A) EMPLOYEE.—The term 'employee'—

(i) means an individual who is an employee within the meaning of chapter 24 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986; and

(ii) does not include an employee of a Federal or State agency performing intelligence or counterintelligence functions, if the head of such agency has determined that reporting pursuant to paragraph (1) with respect to the employee could endanger the safety of the employee or compromise an ongoing investigation or intelligence mission.

(B) EMPLOYER.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—The term 'employer' has the meaning given such term in section 3401(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1996 and includes any governmental entity and any labor organization.

(ii) LABOR ORGANIZATION.—The term 'labor organization' shall have the meaning given such term in section 2(5) of the National Labor Relations Act, and includes any entity (also known as a 'hiring hall') which is used by the organization and an employer to carry out requirements described in section 8(l)(3) of such Act of an agreement between the organization and the employer.

(b) EMPLOYER INFORMATION.—

(1) REPORTING REQUIREMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraphs (B) and (C), each employer shall furnish to the Directory of New Hires of the State in which a newly hired employee works, a report that contains the name, address, and Social Security number of the employee, and the name of, and identifying number assigned under section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to, the employer.

"(B) MULTISTATE EMPLOYERS.—An employer that has employees who are employed in 2 or more States and that transmits reports magnetically or electronically may comply with subparagraph (A) by designating 1 State in which such employer has employees to which the employer will transmit the report described in subparagraph (A), and transmitting such report to such State. Any employer that transmits reports pursuant to this subparagraph shall notify the Secretary in writing as to which State such employer designates for the purpose of sending reports.

"(C) FEDERAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYERS.—Any department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States shall comply with subparagraph (A) by transmitting the report described in subparagraph (A) to the National Directory of New Hires established pursuant to section 453.

"(2) TIMING OF REPORT.—Each State may provide the time within which the report required by paragraph (1) shall be made with respect to an employee, but such report shall be made not later than 20 days after the date the employer hires the employee.

"(c) REPORTING FORMAT AND METHOD.—Each report required by subsection (b) shall be made on a W-4 form or, at the option of the employer, an equivalent form, and may be transmitted by 1st class mail, magnetically, or electronically.

"(d) CIVIL MONEY PENALTIES ON NONCOMPLYING EMPLOYERS.—The State shall have the option to set a State civil money penalty which shall be less than—

"(1) $25; or

"(2) $500 if, under State law, the failure is the result of a conspiracy between the employer and the employee to not supply the required report or to supply a false or incomplete report.

"(e) ENTRY OF EMPLOYER INFORMATION.—Information shall be entered into the data base maintained by the State Directory of New Hires within 5 business days of receipt from an employer pursuant to subsection (b).

"(f) INFORMATION COMPARISONS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than May 1, 1998, an agency designated by the State shall, directly or by contract, conduct automated comparisons of the Social Security numbers reported by employers pursuant to subsection (b) and the Social Security numbers appearing in the records of the State case registry for cases being enforced under the State plan.

"(2) NOTICE OF MATCH.—When an information comparison conducted under paragraph (1) reveals a match with respect to the Social Security number of an individual required to provide support under a support order, the State Directory of New Hires shall provide the agency administering the State plan approved under this part of the appropriate State with the name, address, and Social Security number of the employee to whom the Social Security number is assigned, and the name of, and identifying number assigned under section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to, the employer.

"(g) TRANSMISSION OF INFORMATION.—
"(1) Transmission of Wage Withholding Notices to Employers.—Within 2 business days after the date information regarding a newly hired employee is entered into the State Directory of New Hires, the State agency enforcing the employee's child support obligation shall transmit a notice to the employer of the employee directing the employer to withhold from the wages of the employee an amount equal to the monthly (or other periodic) child support obligation (including any past due support obligation) of the employee, unless the employee's wages are not subject to withholding pursuant to section 466(b)(3).

"(2) Transmissions to the National Directory of New Hires.—

"(A) New Hire Information.—Within 3 business days after the date information regarding a newly hired employee is entered into the State Directory of New Hires, the State Directory of New Hires shall furnish the information to the National Directory of New Hires.

"(B) Wage and Unemployment Compensation Information.—The State Directory of New Hires shall, on a quarterly basis, furnish to the National Directory of New Hires extracts of the reports required under section 303(a)(6) to be made to the Secretary of Labor concerning the wages and unemployment compensation paid to individuals, by such dates, in such format, and containing such information as the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall specify in regulations.

"(3) Business Day Defined.—As used in this subsection, the term 'business day' means a day on which State offices are open for regular business.

"(h) Other Uses of New Hire Information.—

"(1) Location of Child Support Obligors.—The agency administering the State plan approved under this part shall use information received pursuant to subsection (f)(2) to locate individuals for purposes of establishing paternity and establishing, modifying, and enforcing child support obligations.

"(2) Verification of Eligibility for Certain Programs.—A State agency responsible for administering a program specified in section 1137(b) shall have access to information reported by employers pursuant to subsection (b) of this section for purposes of verifying eligibility for the program.

"(3) Administration of Employment Security and Workers' Compensation.—State agencies operating employment security and workers' compensation programs shall have access to information reported by employers pursuant to subsection (b) for the purposes of administering such programs.

(f) NEW COMPONENTS.—Section 453 (42 U.S.C. 653), as amended by subsection (d) of this section, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsections:

"(h) FEDERAL CASE REGISTER OF CHILD SUPPORT ORDERS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than October 1, 1998, in order to assist States in administering programs under State plans approved under this part and programs funded under part A, and for the other purposes specified in this section, the Secretary shall establish and maintain in the Federal Parent Locator Service an automated registry (which shall be known as the 'Federal Case Registry of Child Support Orders'), which shall contain abstracts of support orders and other information described in paragraph (2) with respect to each case in each State case registry maintained pursuant to section 454A(e), as furnished (and regularly updated), pursuant to section 454A(f), by State agencies administering programs under this part.

"(2) CASE INFORMATION.—The information referred to in paragraph (1) with respect to a case shall be such information as the Secretary may specify in regulations (including the names, social security numbers or other uniform identification numbers, and State case identification numbers) to identify the individuals who owe or are owed support (or with respect to or on behalf of whom support obligations are sought to be established), and the State or States which have the case.

"(i) NATIONAL DIRECTORY OF NEW HIRES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In order to assist States in administering programs under State plans approved under this part and programs funded under part A, and for the other purposes specified in this section, the Secretary shall, not later than October 1, 1996, establish and maintain in the Federal Parent Locator Service an automated directory to be known as the National Directory of New Hires, which shall contain the information supplied pursuant to section 453A(g)(2).

"(2) ENTRY OF DATA.—Information shall be entered into the data base maintained by the National Directory of New Hires within 2 business days of receipt pursuant to section 453A(g)(2).

"(3) ADMINISTRATION OF FEDERAL TAX LAWS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall have access to the information in the National Directory of New Hires for purposes of administering section 32 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, or the advance payment of the earned income tax credit under section 3507 of such Code, and verifying a claim with respect to employment in a tax return.

"(4) LIST OF MULTISTATE EMPLOYERS.—The Secretary shall maintain within the National Directory of New Hires a list of multistate employers that report information regarding newly hired employees pursuant to section 453A(b)(1)(B), and the State which each such employer has designated to receive such information.

"(j) INFORMATION COMPARISONS AND OTHER DISCLOSURES.—

"(1) VERIFICATION BY SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall transmit information on individuals and employers maintained under this section to the Social Security Administration to the extent necessary for verification in accordance with subparagraph (B).

"(B) VERIFICATION BY SSA.—The Social Security Administration shall verify the accuracy of, correct, or supply to the extent possible, and report to the Secretary, the following information supplied by the Secretary pursuant to subparagraph (A):

"(i) The name, social security number, and birth date of each such individual.

"(ii) The employer identification number of each such employer.

"(2) INFORMATION COMPARISONS.—For the purpose of locating individuals in a paternity establishment case or a case involving the establishment, modification, or enforcement of a support order, the Secretary shall—
“(A) compare information in the National Directory of New Hires against information in the support case abstracts in the Federal Case Registry of Child Support Orders not less often than every 2 business days; and

“(B) within 2 such days after such a comparison reveals a match with respect to an individual, report the information to the State agency responsible for the case.

“(3) INFORMATION COMPARISONS AND DISCLOSURES OF INFORMATION IN ALL REGISTRIES FOR TITLE IV PROGRAM PURPOSES.—To the extent and with the frequency that the Secretary determines to be effective in assisting States to carry out their responsibilities under programs operated under this part and programs funded under part A, the Secretary shall—

“(A) compare the information in each component of the Federal Parent Locator Service maintained under this section against the information in each other such component (other than the comparison required by paragraph (2)), and report instances in which such a comparison reveals a match with respect to an individual to State agencies operating such programs; and “(B) disclose information in such registries to such State agencies.

“(4) PROVISION OF NEW HIRE INFORMATION TO THE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION.—The National Directory of New Hires shall provide the Commissioner of Social Security with all information in the National Directory, which shall be used to determine the accuracy of payments under the supplemental security income program under title XVI and in connection with benefits under title II.

“(5) RESEARCH.—The Secretary may provide access to information reported by employers pursuant to section 453A(b) for research purposes found by the Secretary to be likely to contribute to achieving the purposes of part A or this part, but without personal identifiers.

“(k) FEES.—

“(1) FOR SSA VERIFICATION.—The Secretary shall reimburse the Commissioner of Social Security, at a rate negotiated between the Secretary and the Commissioner, for the costs incurred by the Commissioner in performing the verification services described in subsection (j).

“(2) FOR INFORMATION FROM STATE DIRECTORIES OF NEW HIRES.—The Secretary shall reimburse costs incurred by State directories of new hires in furnishing information as required by subsection (j)(3), at rates which the Secretary determines to be reasonable (which rates shall not include payment for the costs of obtaining, verifying, maintaining, and comparing the information).

“(3) FOR INFORMATION FURNISHED TO STATE AND FEDERAL AGENCIES.—A State or Federal agency that receives information from the Secretary pursuant to this section shall reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary in furnishing the information, at rates which the Secretary determines to be reasonable (which rates shall include payment for the costs of obtaining, verifying, maintaining, and comparing the information).

“(l) RESTRICTION ON DISCLOSURE AND USE.—Information in the Federal Parent Locator Service, and information resulting from comparisons using such information, shall not be used or disclosed except as expressly provided in this section, subject to section 6103 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

"(m) INFORMATION INTEGRITY AND SECURITY.—The Secretary shall establish and implement safeguards with respect to the entities established under this section designed to—

"(1) ensure the accuracy and completeness of information in the Federal Parent Locator Service; and

"(2) restrict access to confidential information in the Federal Parent Locator Service to authorized persons, and restrict use of such information to authorized purposes.

"(n) FEDERAL GOVERNMENT REPORTING.—Each department, agency, and instrumentality of the United States shall on a quarterly basis report to the Federal Parent Locator Service the name and social security number of each employee and the wages paid to the employee during the previous quarter, except that such a report shall not be filed with respect to an employee of a department, agency, or instrumentality performing intelligence or counterintelligence functions, if the head of such department, agency, or instrumentality has determined that filing such a report could endanger the safety of the employee or compromise an ongoing investigation or intelligence mission."

(g) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) TO PART D OF TITLE IV OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT.—

(A) Section 454(8)(B) (42 U.S.C. 654(8)(B)) is amended to read as follows:

"(B) the Federal Parent Locator Service established under section 453;"

(B) Section 454(13) (42 U.S.C. 654(13)) is amended by inserting "and provide that information requests by parents who are residents of other States be treated with the same priority as requests by parents who are residents of the State submitting the plan" before the semicolon.

(C) by striking "and" at the end of subparagraph (A);

(D) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as subparagraph (C); and

(E) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the following new subparagraph:

"(B) wage and unemployment compensation information contained in the records of such agency shall be furnished to the Secretary of Health and Human Services (in accordance with regulations promulgated by such Secretary) as necessary for the purposes of the National Directory of New Hires established under section 453(i) of the Social Security Act, and".

(3) TO STATE GRANT PROGRAM UNDER TITLE III OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT.—Subsection (h) of section 303 (42 U.S.C. 503) is amended to read as follows:
‘(h)(1) The State agency charged with the administration of the State law shall, on a reimbursable basis—

“(A) disclose quarterly, to the Secretary of Health and Human Services wage and claim information, as required pursuant to section 453(i)(1), contained in the records of such agency;

“(B) ensure that information provided pursuant to subparagraph (A) meets such standards relating to correctness and verification as the Secretary of Health and Human Services, with the concurrence of the Secretary of Labor, may find necessary; and

“(C) establish such safeguards as the Secretary of Labor determines are necessary to insure that information disclosed under subparagraph (A) is used only for purposes of section 453(i)(1) in carrying out the child support enforcement program under title IV.

“(2) Whenever the Secretary of Labor, after reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing to the State agency charged with the administration of the State law, finds that there is a failure to comply substantially with the requirements of paragraph (1), the Secretary of Labor shall notify such State agency that further payments will not be made to the State until the Secretary of Labor is satisfied that there is no longer any such failure. Until the Secretary of Labor is so satisfied, the Secretary shall make no future certification to the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to the State.

“(3) For purposes of this subsection—

“(A) the term 'wage information' means information regarding wages paid to an individual, the social security account number of such individual, and the name, address, State, and the Federal employer identification number of the employer paying such wages to such individual; and

“(B) the term 'claim information' means information regarding whether an individual is receiving, has received, or has made application for, unemployment compensation, the amount of any such compensation being received (or to be received by such individual), and the individual's current (or most recent) home address.”.

(4) DISCLOSURE OF CERTAIN INFORMATION TO AGENTS OF CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (6) of section 6103(l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to disclosure of return information to Federal, State, and local child support enforcement agencies) is amended by redesignating subparagraph (B) as subparagraph (C) and by inserting after subparagraph (A) the following new subparagraph:

“(B) DISCLOSURE TO CERTAIN AGENTS.—The address and social security account number (or numbers) of an individual with respect to whom child support obligations are sought to be established or enforced may be disclosed by any child support enforcement agency to any agent of such agency which is under contract with such agency to carry out the purposes described in subparagraph (C).”

(13) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(i) REGISTRATION FOR MODIFICATION.—If there is no individual contestant or child residing in the issuing State, the party or support enforcement agency seeking to modify, or to modify and enforce, a child support order issued in another State shall register that order in a State with jurisdiction over the nonmovant for the purpose of modification."

SEC. 12323. ADMINISTRATIVE ENFORCEMENT IN INTERSTATE CASES.

Section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)), as amended by sections 12315 and 12317(a) of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(14) ADMINISTRATIVE ENFORCEMENT IN INTERSTATE CASES.—Procedures under which—

"(A)(i) the State shall respond within 5 business days to a request made by another State to enforce a support order; and
"(ii) the term 'business day' means a day on which State offices are open for regular business;

"(B) the State may, by electronic or other means, transmit to another State a request for assistance in a case involving the enforcement of a support order, which request—

"(i) shall include such information as will enable the State to which the request is transmitted to compare the information about the case to the information in the data bases of the State; and

"(ii) shall constitute a certification by the requesting State—

"(I) of the amount of support under the order the payment of which is in arrears; and

"(II) that the requesting State has complied with all procedural due process requirements applicable to the case;

"(C) if the State provides assistance to another State pursuant to this paragraph with respect to a case, neither State shall consider the case to be transferred to the case-load of such other State; and

"(D) the State shall maintain records of—

"(i) the number of such requests for assistance received by the State;

"(ii) the number of cases for which the State collected support in response to such a request; and

(1) by striking “and” at the end of subparagraph (C);
(2) by inserting “and” at the end of subparagraph (D); and
(3) by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:
“(E) no later than October 1, 1996, in using the forms promulgated pursuant to section 452(a)(11) for income withholding, imposition of liens, and issuance of administrative subpoenas in interstate child support cases.”.

SEC. 12325. STATE LAWS PROVIDING EXPEDITED PROCEDURES.

(a) STATE LAW REQUIREMENTS.—Section 466 (42 U.S.C. 666), as amended by section 12314 of this Act, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(2), by striking the 1st sentence and inserting the following: “Expedited administrative and judicial procedures (including the procedures specified in subsection (c)) for establishing paternity and for establishing, modifying, and enforcing support obligations.”; and
(2) by inserting after subsection (b) the following new subsection:

“(c) EXPEDITED PROCEDURES.—The procedures specified in this subsection are the following:

“(1) ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION BY STATE AGENCY.—Procedures which give the State agency the authority to take the following actions relating to establishment or enforcement of support orders, without the necessity of obtaining an order from any other judicial or administrative tribunal, and to recognize and enforce the authority of State agencies of other States:
“(A) GENETIC TESTING.—To order genetic testing for the purpose of paternity establishment as provided in section 466(a)(5).
“(B) FINANCIAL OR OTHER INFORMATION.—To subpoena any financial or other information needed to establish, modify, or enforce a support order, and to impose penalties for failure to respond to such a subpoena.
“(C) RESPONSE TO STATE AGENCY REQUEST.—To require all entities in the State (including for-profit, nonprofit, and governmental employers) to provide promptly, in response to a request by the State agency of that or any other State administering a program under this part, information on the employment, compensation, and benefits of any individual employed by such entity as an employee or contractor, and to sanction failure to respond to any such request.
“(D) ACCESS TO CERTAIN RECORDS.—To obtain access, subject to safeguards on privacy and information security, to the following records (including automated access, in the case of records maintained in automated data bases):
“(I) Records of other State and local government agencies, including—
“(i) vital statistics (including records of marriage, birth, and divorce):
“(II) State and local tax and revenue records (including information on residence address, employer, income and assets);

“(III) records concerning real and titled personal property;

“(IV) records of occupational and professional licenses, and records concerning the ownership and control of corporations, partnerships, and other business entities;

“(V) employment security records;

“(VI) records of agencies administering public assistance programs;

“(VII) records of the motor vehicle department; and “(VIII) corrections records.

“(ii) Certain records held by private entities, including—

“(I) customer records of public utilities and cable television companies; and “(II) information (including information on assets and liabilities) on individuals who owe or are owed support (or against or with respect to whom a support obligation is sought) held by financial institutions (subject to limitations on liability of such entities arising from affording such access), as provided pursuant to agreements described in subsection (a)(18).

“(E) CHANGE IN PAYEE.—In cases in which support is subject to an assignment in order to comply with a requirement imposed pursuant to part A or section 1912, or to a requirement to pay through the State disbursement unit established pursuant to section 454B, upon providing notice to obligor and obligee, to direct the obligor or other payor to change the payee to the appropriate government entity.

“(F) INCOME WITHHOLDING.—To order income withholding in accordance with subsections (a)(1) and (b) of section 466.

“(G) SECURING ASSETS.—In cases in which there is a support arrearage, to secure assets to satisfy the arrearage by—

“(i) intercepting or seizing periodic or lump-sum payments from—

“(II) a State or local agency, including unemployment compensation, workers’ compensation, and other benefits; and “(II) judgments, settlements, and lotteries;

“(ii) attaching and seizing assets of the obligor held in financial institutions;

“(iii) attaching public and private retirement funds; and

“(iv) imposing liens in accordance with subsection (a)(4) and, in appropriate cases, to force sale of property and distribution of proceeds.

“(H) INCREASE MONTHLY PAYMENTS.—For the purpose of securing overdue support, to increase the amount of monthly support payments to include amounts for arrearages, subject to such conditions or limitations as the State may provide.

Such procedures shall be subject to due process safeguards, including (as appropriate) requirements for notice, opportunity to contest the action, and opportunity for an appeal on the record to an independent administrative or judicial tribunal.

"(2) SUBSTANTIVE AND PROCEDURAL RULES.—The expedited procedures required under subsection (a)(2) shall include the following rules and authority, applicable with respect to all proceedings to establish paternity or to establish, modify, or enforce support orders:

"(A) LOCATOR INFORMATION; PRESUMPTIONS CONCERNING NOTICE.—Procedures under which—

"(i) each party to any paternity or child support proceeding is required (subject to privacy safeguards) to file with the tribunal and the State case registry upon entry of an order, and to update as appropriate, information on location and identity of the party, including social security number, residential and mailing addresses, telephone number, driver's license number, and name, address, and name and telephone number of employer; and

"(ii) in any subsequent child support enforcement action between the parties, upon sufficient showing that diligent effort has been made to ascertain the location of such a party, the tribunal may deem State due process requirements for notice and service of process to be met with respect to the party, upon delivery of written notice to the most recent residential or employer address filed with the tribunal pursuant to clause (i).

"(B) STATEWIDE JURISDICTION.—Procedures under which—

"(i) the State agency and any administrative or judicial tribunal with authority to hear child support and paternity cases exerts statewide jurisdiction over the parties; and

"(ii) in a State in which orders are issued by courts or administrative tribunals, a case may be transferred between local jurisdictions in the State without need for any additional filing by the petitioner, or service of process upon the respondent, to retain jurisdiction over the parties.

"(3) COORDINATION WITH ERISA.—Notwithstanding subsection (d) of section 514 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (relating to effect on other laws), nothing in this subsection shall be construed to alter, amend, modify, invalidate, impair, or supersede subsections (a), (b), and (c) of such section 514 as it applies with respect to any procedure referred to in paragraph (1) and any expedited procedure referred to in paragraph (2), except to the extent that such procedure would be consistent with the requirements of section 206(d)(3) of such Act (relating to qualified domestic relations orders) or the requirements of section 609(a) of such Act (relating to qualified medical child support orders) if the reference in such section 206(d)(3) to a domestic relations order and the reference in such section 609(a) to a medical child support order were a reference to a support order referred to in paragraphs (1) and (2) relating to the same matters, respectively."

(b) AUTOMATION OF STATE AGENCY FUNCTIONS.—Section 454A, as added by section 12344(a)(2) and as amended by sections 12311 and 12312(c) of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(h) EXPEDITED ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES.—The automated system required by this section shall be used, to the maximum extent feasible, to implement the expedited administrative procedures required by section 466(c)."

CHAPTER 4—PATERNITY ESTABLISHMENT

SEC. 12331. STATE LAWS CONCERNING PATERNITY ESTABLISHMENT.

(a) STATE LAWS REQUIRED.—Section 466(a)(5) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)(5)) is amended to read as follows:

"(5) PROCEDURES CONCERNING PATERNITY ESTABLISHMENT.—

"(A) ESTABLISHMENT PROCESS AVAILABLE FROM BIRTH UNTIL AGE 18.—

"(i) Procedures which permit the establishment of the paternity of a child at any time before the child attains 18 years of age.

"(ii) As of August 16, 1984, clause (i) shall also apply to a child for whom paternity has not been established or for whom a paternity action was brought but dismissed because a statute of limitations of less than 18 years was then in effect in the State.

"(B) PROCEDURES CONCERNING GENETIC TESTING.—

"(i) GENETIC TESTING REQUIRED IN CERTAIN CONTESTED CASES.—Procedures under which the State is required, in a contested paternity case (unless otherwise barred by State law) to require the child and all other parties (other than individuals found under section 454(29) to have good cause for refusing to cooperate) to submit to genetic tests upon the request of any such party, if the request is supported by a sworn statement by the party—

"(I) alleging paternity, and setting forth facts establishing a reasonable possibility of the requisite sexual contact between the parties; or

"(II) denying paternity, and setting forth facts establishing a reasonable possibility of the nonexistence of sexual contact between the parties.

"(ii) OTHER REQUIREMENTS.—Procedures which require the State agency, in any case in which the agency orders genetic testing—

"(I) to pay costs of such tests, subject to recoupment (if the State so elects) from the alleged father if paternity is established; and

"(II) to obtain additional testing in any case if an original test result is contested, upon request and advance payment by the contestant.

"(C) VOLUNTARY PATERNITY ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—

"(i) SIMPLE CIVIL PROCESS.—Procedures for a simple civil process for voluntarily acknowledging paternity under which the State must provide that, before
(B) the costs (including attorney's fees) of the action.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

(1) FINANCIAL INSTITUTION.—The term "financial institution" means—

(A) a depository institution, as defined in section 3(c) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1813(c));

    3(u) of such Act (12 U.S.C. 1813(v));
(C) any Federal credit union or State credit union, as defined in section 101 of the Federal Credit Union Act (12 U.S.C. 1752), including an institution-affiliated party of such a credit union, as defined in section 206(r) of such Act (12 U.S.C. 1786(r)); and
(D) any benefit association, insurance company, safe deposit company, money-market mutual fund, or similar entity authorized to do business in the State.

(2) FINANCIAL RECORD.—The term "financial record" has the meaning given such term in section 1101 of the Right

(3) STATE CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT AGENCY.—The term "State child support enforcement agency" means a State agency which administers a State program for establishing and enforcing child support obligations.

CHAPTER 7—ENFORCEMENT OF SUPPORT ORDERS

SEC. 12361. INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE COLLECTION OF ARREARAGES.

(a) COLLECTION OF FEES.—Section 6305(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to collection of certain liability) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (3);
(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (4) and inserting "; and"
(3) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:
    "(5) no additional fee may be assessed for adjustments to an amount previously certified pursuant to such section 452(b) with respect to the same obligor."; and
(4) by striking "Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare" each place it appears and inserting "Secretary of Health and Human Services".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall become effective October 1, 1997.

SEC. 12362. AUTHORITY TO COLLECT SUPPORT FROM FEDERAL EMPLOYEES.

(a) CONSOLIDATION AND STREAMLINING OF AUTHORITIES.—Section
459 (42 U.S.C. 659) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 459. CONSENT BY THE UNITED STATES TO INCOME WITHHOLDING, GARNISHMENT, AND SIMILAR PROCEEDINGS FOR ENFORCEMENT OF CHILD SUPPORT AND ALIMONY OBLIGATIONS.

"(a) CONSENT TO SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law (including section 207 of this Act and section 5301 of title 38, United States Code), effective January 1, 1975, moneys (the entitlement to which is based upon remuneration for employment) due from, or payable by, the United States or the District of Columbia (including any agency, subdivision, or instrumentality thereof) to any individual, including members of the Armed Forces of the United States, shall be subject, in like manner and to the same extent as if the United States or the District of Columbia were a private person, to withholding in accordance with State law enacted pursuant to subsections (a)(1) and (b) of section 466 and regulations of the Secretary under such subsections, and to any other legal process brought, by a State agency administering a program under a State plan approved under this part or by an individual obligee, to enforce the legal obligation of the individual to provide child support or alimony.

"(b) CONSENT TO REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO PRIVATE PERSON.—With respect to notice to withhold income pursuant to subsection (a)(1) or (b) of section 466, or any other order or process to enforce support obligations against an individual (if the order or process contains or is accompanied by sufficient data to permit prompt identification of the individual and the moneys involved), each governmental entity specified in subsection (a) shall be subject to the same requirements as would apply if the entity were a private person, except as otherwise provided in this section.

"(c) DESIGNATION OF AGENT; RESPONSE TO NOTICE OR PROCESS.—

"(1) DESIGNATION OF AGENT.—The head of each agency subject to this section shall—

"(A) designate an agent or agents to receive orders and accept service of process in matters relating to child support or alimony; and

"(B) annually publish in the Federal Register the designation of the agent or agents, identified by title or position, mailing address, and telephone number.

"(2) RESPONSE TO NOTICE OR PROCESS.—If an agent designated pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection receives notice pursuant to State procedures in effect pursuant to subsection (a)(1) or (b) of section 466, or is effectively served with any order, process, or interrogatory, with respect to an individual's child support or alimony payment obligations, the agent shall—

"(A) as soon as possible (but not later than 15 days) thereafter, send written notice of the notice or service (together with a copy of the notice or service) to the individual at the duty station or last-known home address of the individual;

"(B) within 30 days (or such longer period as may be prescribed by applicable State law) after receipt of a notice pursuant to such State procedures, comply with all applicable provisions of section 466; and

"(C) within 30 days (or such longer period as may be prescribed by applicable State law) after effective service of any other such order, process, or interrogatory, respond to the order, process, or interrogatory.

"(d) PRIORITY OF CLAIMS.—If a governmental entity specified in subsection (a) receives notice or is served with process, as provided in this section, concerning amounts owed by an individual to more than 1 person—

"(1) support collection under section 466(b) must be given priority over any other process, as provided in section 466(b)(7):
“(2) allocation of moneys due or payable to an individual among claimants under section 466(b) shall be governed by section 466(b) and the regulations prescribed under such section; and

“(3) such moneys as remain after compliance with paragraphs (1) and (2) shall be available to satisfy any other such processes on a first-come, first-served basis, with any such process being satisfied out of such moneys as remain after the satisfaction of all such processes which have been previously served.

‘(e) No Requirement to Vary Pay Cycles.—A governmental entity that is affected by legal process served for the enforcement of an individual's child support or alimony payment obligations shall not be required to vary its normal pay and disbursement cycle in order to comply with the legal process.

“(f) Relief From Liability.—

“(1) Neither the United States, nor the government of the District of Columbia, nor any disbursing officer shall be liable with respect to any payment made from moneys due or payable from the United States to any individual pursuant to legal process regular on its face, if the payment is made in accordance with this section and the regulations issued to carry out this section.

“(2) No Federal employee whose duties include taking actions necessary to comply with the requirements of subsection (a) with regard to any individual shall be subject under any law to any disciplinary action or civil or criminal liability or penalty for, or on account of, any disclosure of information made by the employee in connection with the carrying out of such actions.

“(g) Regulations.—Authority to promulgate regulations for the implementation of this section shall, insofar as this section applies to moneys due from (or payable by)—

“(1) the United States (other than the legislative or judicial branches of the Federal Government) or the government of the District of Columbia, be vested in the President (or the designee of the President);

“(2) the legislative branch of the Federal Government, be vested jointly in the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives (or their designees), and

“(3) the judicial branch of the Federal Government, be vested in the Chief Justice of the United States (or the designee of the Chief Justice).

“(h) Moneys Subject to Process.—

“(1) In General.—Subject to paragraph (2), moneys paid or payable to an individual which are considered to be based upon remuneration for employment, for purposes of this section—

“(A) consist of—

“(i) compensation paid or payable for personal services of the individual, whether the compensation is denominated as wages, salary, commission, bonus, pay, allowances, or otherwise (including severance pay, sick pay, and incentive pay);

“(ii) periodic benefits (including a periodic benefit as defined in section 228(h)(3)) or other payments—
“(I) under the insurance system established by title II;
“(II) under any other system or fund established by the United States which provides for the payment of pensions, retirement or retired pay, annuities, dependents’ or survivors’ benefits, or similar amounts payable on account of personal services performed by the individual or any other individual;
“(III) as compensation for death under any Federal program;
“(IV) under any Federal program established to provide black lung benefits; or “(V) by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs as pension, or as compensation for a service-connected disability or death; and “(iii) worker’s compensation benefits paid under Federal or State law; but “(B) do not include any payment—
“(i) by way of reimbursement or otherwise, to defray expenses incurred by the individual in carrying out duties associated with the employment of the individual; or “(ii) as allowances for members of the uniformed services payable pursuant to chapter 7 of title 37, United States Code, as prescribed by the Secretaries concerned (defined by section 101(5) of such title) as necessary for the efficient performance of duty.

“(2) CERTAIN AMOUNTS EXCLUDED.—In determining the amount of any moneys due from, or payable by, the United States to any individual, there shall be excluded amounts which—
“(A) are owed by the individual to the United States;
“(B) are required by law to be, and are, deducted from the remuneration or other payment involved, including Federal employment taxes, and fines and forfeitures ordered by court-martial;
“(C) are properly withheld for Federal, State, or local income tax purposes, if the withholding of the amounts is authorized or required by law and if amounts withheld are not greater than would be the case if the individual claimed all dependents to which he was entitled (the withholding of additional amounts pursuant to section 3402(i) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 may be permitted only when the individual presents evidence of a tax obligation which supports the additional withholding);
“(D) are deducted as health insurance premiums;
“(E) are deducted as normal retirement contributions (not including amounts deducted for supplementary coverage); or “(F) are deducted as normal life insurance premiums from salary or other remuneration for employment (not including amounts deducted for supplementary coverage).

“(i) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—
“(I) UNITED STATES.—The term ‘United States’ includes any department, agency, or instrumentality of the legislative, judicial, or executive branch of the Federal Government, the United States Postal Service, the Postal Rate Commission, any Federal corporation created by an Act of Congress that is wholly owned by the Federal Government, and the governments of the territories and possessions of the United States.

"(2) CHILD SUPPORT.—The term 'child support', when used in reference to the legal obligations of an individual to provide such support, means amounts required to be paid under a judgment, decree, or order, whether temporary, final, or subject to modification, issued by a court or an administrative agency of competent jurisdiction, for the support and maintenance of a child, including a child who has attained the age of majority under the law of the issuing State, or a child and the parent with whom the child is living, which provides for monetary support, health care, arrearages or reimbursement, and which may include other related costs and fees, interest and penalties, income withholding, attorney's fees, and other relief.

"(3) ALIMONY.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'alimony', when used in reference to the legal obligations of an individual to provide the same, means periodic payments of funds for the support and maintenance of the spouse (or former spouse) of the individual, and (subject to and in accordance with State law) includes separate maintenance, alimony pendente lite, maintenance, and spousal support, and includes attorney's fees, interest, and court costs when and to the extent that the same are expressly made recoverable as such pursuant to a decree, order, or judgment issued in accordance with applicable State law by a court of competent jurisdiction.

"(B) EXCEPTIONS.—Such term does not include—

"(i) any child support; or

"(ii) any payment or transfer of property or its value by an individual to the spouse or a former spouse of the individual in compliance with any community property settlement, equitable distribution of property, or other division of property between spouses or former spouses.

"(4) PRIVATE PERSON.—The term 'private person' means a person who does not have sovereign or other special immunity or privilege which causes the person not to be subject to legal process.

"(5) LEGAL PROCESS.—The term 'legal process' means any writ, order, summons, or other similar process in the nature of garnishment—

"(A) which is issued by—

"(i) a court or an administrative agency of competent jurisdiction in any State, territory, or possession of the United States;

"(ii) a court or an administrative agency of competent jurisdiction in any foreign country with which the United States has entered into an agreement which requires the United States to honor the process; or

"(iii) an authorized official pursuant to an order of such a court or an administrative agency of competent jurisdiction or pursuant to State or local law; and
"(B) which is directed to, and the purpose of which is to compel, a governmental entity which holds moneys which are otherwise payable to an individual to make a payment from the moneys to another party in order to satisfy a legal obligation of the individual to provide child support or make alimony payments."

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) TO PART D OF TITLE IV.—Sections 461 and 462 (42 U.S.C. 661 and 662) are repealed.

(2) TO TITLE 5, UNITED STATES CODE.—Section 5520a of title 5, United States Code, is amended, in subsections (b)(2) and (i), by striking "sections 459, 461, and 462 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 659, 661, and 662)" and inserting "section 459 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 659)".

(c) MILITARY RETIRED AND RETAINER PAY.—

(1) DEFINITION OF COURT.—Section 1408(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(A) by striking "and' at the end of subparagraph (B);

(B) by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (C) and inserting "; and"

(C) by adding after subparagraph (C) the following new subparagraph:

"(D) any administrative or judicial tribunal of a State competent to enter orders for support or maintenance (including a State agency administering a program under a State plan approved under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act), and, for purposes of this subparagraph, the term 'State' includes the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa."

(2) DEFINITION OF COURT ORDER.—Section 1408(a)(2) of such title is amended—

(A) by inserting "or a support order, as defined in section 453(p) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 653(p))", before "which—";

(B) in subparagraph (B)(i), by striking "(as defined in section 462(b) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 662(b)))" and inserting "(as defined in section 459(i)(2) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 662(i)(2)))";

(C) in subparagraph (B)(ii), by striking "(as defined in section 462(c) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 662(c)))" and inserting "(as defined in section 459(i)(3) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 662(i)(3)))".

(3) PUBLIC PAYEE.—Section 1408(d) of such title is amended—

(A) in the heading, by inserting "(OR FOR BENEFIT OF" before "SPOUSE OR"; and

(B) in paragraph (1), in the 1st sentence, by inserting "(or for the benefit of such spouse or former spouse to a State disbursement unit established pursuant to section 454B of the Social Security Act or other public payee designated by a State, in accordance with part D of title IV of the Social Security Act, as directed by court order, or as otherwise directed in accordance with such part D)" before "in an amount sufficient".
H. R. 2491—808

(4) RELATIONSHIP TO PART D OF TITLE IV.—Section 1408 of such title is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(j) RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER LAWS.—In any case involving an order providing for payment of child support (as defined in section 459(i)(2) of the Social Security Act) by a member who has never been married to the other parent of the child, the provisions of this section shall not apply, and the case shall be subject to the provisions of section 459 of such Act."

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall become effective 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 12363. ENFORCEMENT OF CHILD SUPPORT OBLIGATIONS OF MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES.

(a) AVAILABILITY OF LOCATOR INFORMATION.—

(1) MAINTENANCE OF ADDRESS INFORMATION.—The Secretary of Defense shall establish a centralized personnel locator service that includes the address of each member of the Armed Forces under the jurisdiction of the Secretary. Upon request of the Secretary of Transportation, addresses for members of the Coast Guard shall be included in the centralized personnel locator service.

(2) TYPE OF ADDRESS.—

(A) RESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the address for a member of the Armed Forces shown in the locator service shall be the residential address of that member.

(B) DUTY ADDRESS.—The address for a member of the Armed Forces shown in the locator service shall be the duty address of that member in the case of a member—

(i) who is permanently assigned overseas, to a vessel, or to a routinely deployable unit; or

(ii) with respect to whom the Secretary concerned makes a determination that the member's residential address should not be disclosed due to national security or safety concerns.

(3) UPDATING OF LOCATOR INFORMATION.—Within 30 days after a member listed in the locator service establishes a new residential address (or a new duty address, in the case of a member covered by paragraph (2)(B)), the Secretary concerned shall update the locator service to indicate the new address of the member.

(4) AVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION.—The Secretary of Defense shall make information regarding the address of a member of the Armed Forces listed in the locator service available, on request, to the Federal Parent Locator Service established under section 453 of the Social Security Act.

(b) FACILITATING GRANTING OF LEAVE FOR ATTENDANCE AT HEARINGS.—

(1) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary of each military department, and the Secretary of Transportation with respect to the Coast Guard when it is not operating as a service in the Navy, shall prescribe regulations to facilitate the granting of leave to a member of the Armed Forces under the jurisdiction of that Secretary in a case in which—
(A) the leave is needed for the member to attend a hearing described in paragraph (2);

(B) the member is not serving in or with a unit deployed in a contingency operation (as defined in section 101 of title 10, United States Code); and

(C) the exigencies of military service (as determined by the Secretary concerned) do not otherwise require that such leave not be granted.

(2) COVERED HEARINGS.—Paragraph (1) applies to a hearing that is conducted by a court or pursuant to an administrative process established under State law, in connection with a civil action—

(A) to determine whether a member of the Armed Forces is a natural parent of a child; or

(B) to determine an obligation of a member of the Armed Forces to provide child support.

(3) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this subsection—

(A) The term "court" has the meaning given that term in section 1408(a) of title 10, United States Code.

(B) The term "child support" has the meaning given such term in section 459(i) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 659(i)).

(c) PAYMENT OF MILITARY RETIRED PAY IN COMPLIANCE WITH CHILD SUPPORT ORDERS.—

(1) DATE OF CERTIFICATION OF COURT ORDER.—Section 1408 of title 10, United States Code, as amended by section 362(c)(4) of this Act, is amended—

(A) by redesignating subsections (i) and (j) as subsections (j) and (k), respectively; and

(B) by inserting after subsection (h) the following new subsection:

"(i) CERTIFICATION DATE.—It is not necessary that the date of a certification of the authenticity or completeness of a copy of a court order for child support received by the Secretary concerned for the purposes of this section be recent in relation to the date of receipt by the Secretary.".

(2) PAYMENTS CONSISTENT WITH ASSIGNMENTS OF RIGHTS TO STATES.—Section 1408(d)(1) of such title is amended by inserting after the 1st sentence the following new sentence:

"In the case of a spouse or former spouse who, pursuant to section 407(a)(4) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 607(a)(4)), assigns to a State the rights of the spouse or former spouse to receive support, the Secretary concerned may make the child support payments referred to in the preceding sentence to that State in amounts consistent with that assignment of rights.".

(3) ARREARAGES OWED BY MEMBERS OF THE UNIFORMED SERVICES.—Section 1408(d) of such title is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(6) In the case of a court order for which effective service is made on the Secretary concerned on or after the date of the enactment of this paragraph and which provides for payments from the disposable retired pay of a member to satisfy the amount of child support set forth in the order, the authority provided in paragraph (1) to make payments from the disposable retired pay of a member to satisfy the amount of child support set forth in a court order shall apply to payment of any amount of child..."
support arrearages set forth in that order as well as to amounts of child support that currently become due.

(4) PAYROLL DEDUCTIONS.—The Secretary of Defense shall begin payroll deductions within 30 days after receiving notice of withholding, or for the 1st pay period that begins after such 30-day period.

SEC. 12364. VOIDING OF FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS.

Section 466 (42 U.S.C. 666), as amended by section 321 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(g) LAWS VOIDING FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS.—In order to satisfy section 454(20)(A), each State must have in effect—

'(1)(A) the Uniform Fraudulent Conveyance Act of 1981;

'(B) the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act of 1984;

or

'(C) another law, specifying indicia of fraud which create a prima facie case that a debtor transferred income or property to avoid payment to a child support creditor, which the Secretary finds affords comparable rights to child support creditors; and

'(2) procedures under which, in any case in which the State knows of a transfer by a child support debtor with respect to which such a prima facie case is established, the State must—

'(A) seek to void such transfer; or

'(B) obtain a settlement in the best interests of the child support creditor.

SEC. 12365. WORK REQUIREMENT FOR PERSONS OWING PAST-DUE CHILD SUPPORT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 466(a) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 666(a)), as amended by sections 12315, 12317(a), and 12323 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(15) PROCEDURES TO ENSURE THAT PERSONS OWING PAST-DUE SUPPORT WORK OR HAVE A PLAN FOR PAYMENT OF SUCH SUPPORT.—

'(A) IN GENERAL.—Procedures under which the State has the authority, in any case in which an individual owes past-due support with respect to a child receiving assistance under a State program funded under part A, to seek a court order that requires the individual to—

'(i) pay such support in accordance with a plan approved by the court, or, at the option of the State, a plan approved by the State agency administering the State program under this part; or

'(ii) if the individual is subject to such a plan and is not incapacitated, participate in such work activities (as defined in section 406(d)) as the court, or, at the option of the State, the State agency administering the State program under this part, deems appropriate.

'(B) PAST-DUE SUPPORT DEFINED.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term 'past-due support' means the amount of a delinquency, determined under a court order, or an order of an administrative process established under
H. R. 2491—811

State law, for support and maintenance of a child, or of a child and the parent with whom the child is living.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The flush paragraph at the end of section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)) is amended by striking “and (7)” and inserting “(7), and (15)”.

SEC. 12366. DEFINITION OF SUPPORT ORDER.

Section 453 (42 U.S.C. 653) as amended by sections 12316 and 12345(b) of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(p) SUPPORT ORDER DEFINED.—As used in this part, the term 'support order' means a judgment, decree, or order, whether temporary, final, or subject to modification, issued by a court or an administrative agency of competent jurisdiction, for the support and maintenance of a child, including a child who has attained the age of majority under the law of the issuing State, or a child and the parent with whom the child is living, which provides for monetary support, health care, arrearages, or reimbursement, and which may include related costs and fees, interest and penalties, income withholding, attorneys' fees, and other relief.”.

SEC. 12367. REPORTING ARREARAGES TO CREDIT BUREAUS.

Section 466(a)(7) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)(7)) is amended to read as follows:

“(7) REPORTING ARREARAGES TO CREDIT BUREAUS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Procedures (subject to safeguards pursuant to subparagraph (B)) requiring the State to report periodically to consumer reporting agencies (as defined in section 603(f) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681a(f)) the name of any noncustodial parent who is delinquent in the payment of support, and the amount of overdue support owed by such parent.

“(B) SAFEGUARDS.—Procedures ensuring that, in carrying out subparagraph (A), information with respect to a noncustodial parent is reported—

“(i) only after such parent has been afforded all due process required under State law, including notice and a reasonable opportunity to contest the accuracy of such information; and

“(ii) only to an entity that has furnished evidence satisfactory to the State that the entity is a consumer reporting agency (as so defined).”.

SEC. 12368. LIENS.

Section 466(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)(4)) is amended to read as follows:

“(4) LIENS.—Procedures under which—

“(A) liens arise by operation of law against real and personal property for amounts of overdue support owed by a noncustodial parent who resides or owns property in the State; and

“(B) the State accords full faith and credit to liens described in subparagraph (A) arising in another State, without registration of the underlying order.”.
SEC. 12369. STATE LAW AUTHORIZING SUSPENSION OF LICENSES.

Section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)), as amended by sections 12315, 12317(a), 12323, and 12365 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(16) AUTHORITY TO WITHHOLD OR SUSPEND LICENSES.—Procedures under which the State has (and uses in appropriate cases) authority to withhold or suspend, or to restrict the use of driver's licenses, professional and occupational licenses, and recreational licenses of individuals owing overdue support or failing, after receiving appropriate notice, to comply with subpoenas or warrants relating to paternity or child support proceedings.".

SEC. 12370. INTERNATIONAL CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT.

(a) AUTHORITY FOR INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS.—Part D of title IV, as amended by section 362(a) of this Act, is amended by adding after section 459 the following new section:

"SEC. 459A. INTERNATIONAL CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT.

"(a) AUTHORITY FOR DECLARATIONS.—"

"(1) DECLARATION.—The Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Secretary of Health and Human Services, is authorized to declare any foreign country (or a political subdivision thereof) to be a foreign reciprocating country if the foreign country has established, or undertakes to establish, procedures for the establishment and enforcement of duties of support owed to obligees who are residents of the United States, and such procedures are substantially in conformity with the standards prescribed under subsection (b).

"(2) REVOCATION.—A declaration with respect to a foreign country made pursuant to paragraph (1) may be revoked if the Secretaries of State and Health and Human Services determine that—"

"(A) the procedures established by the foreign nation regarding the establishment and enforcement of duties of support have been so changed, or the foreign nation's implementation of such procedures is so unsatisfactory, that such procedures do not meet the criteria for such a declaration; or"

"(B) continued operation of the declaration is not consistent with the purposes of this part.

"(3) FORM OF DECLARATION.—A declaration under paragraph (1) may be made in the form of an international agreement, in connection with an international agreement or corresponding foreign declaration, or on a unilateral basis.

"(b) STANDARDS FOR FOREIGN SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURES.—"

"(1) MANDATORY ELEMENTS.—Child support enforcement procedures of a foreign country which may be the subject of a declaration pursuant to subsection (a)(1) shall include the following elements:

"(A) The foreign country (or political subdivision thereof) has in effect procedures, available to residents of the United States—"

"(i) for establishment of paternity, and for establishment of orders of support for children and custodial parents; and"
“(ii) for enforcement of orders to provide support to children and custodial parents, including procedures for collection and appropriate distribution of support payments under such orders.

“(B) The procedures described in subparagraph (A), including legal and administrative assistance, are provided to residents of the United States at no cost.

“(C) An agency of the foreign country is designated as a Central Authority responsible for—

“(i) facilitating child support enforcement in cases involving residents of the foreign nation and residents of the United States; and “(ii) ensuring compliance with the standards established pursuant to this subsection.

“(2) ADDITIONAL ELEMENTS.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services and the Secretary of State, in consultation with the States, may establish such additional standards as may be considered necessary to further the purposes of this section.

“(c) DESIGNATION OF UNITED STATES CENTRAL AUTHORITY.—It shall be the responsibility of the Secretary of Health and Human Services to facilitate child support enforcement in cases involving residents of the United States and residents of foreign nations that are the subject of a declaration under this section, by activities including—

“(1) development of uniform forms and procedures for use in such cases;

“(2) notification of foreign reciprocating countries of the State of residence of individuals sought for support enforcement purposes, on the basis of information provided by the Federal Parent Locator Service; and

“(3) such other oversight, assistance, and coordination activities as the Secretary may find necessary and appropriate.

“(d) EFFECT ON OTHER LAWS.—States may enter into reciprocal arrangements for the establishment and enforcement of child support obligations with foreign countries that are not the subject of a declaration pursuant to subsection (a), to the extent consistent with Federal law.”.

(b) STATE PLAN REQUIREMENT.—Section 454 (42 U.S.C. 654), as amended by sections 12301(b), 12303(a), 12312(b), 12313(a), 12333, and 12343(b) of this Act, is amended—

“(1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (29);

“(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (30) and inserting “; and”;

“(3) by adding after paragraph (30) the following new paragraph:

“(31)(A) provide that any request for services under this part by a foreign reciprocating country or a foreign country with which the State has an arrangement described in section 459A(d)(2) shall be treated as a request by a State;

“(B) provide, at State option, notwithstanding paragraph (4) or any other provision of this part, for services under the plan for enforcement of a spousal support order not described in paragraph (4)(B) entered by such a country (or subdivision); and

“(C) provide that no applications will be required from, and no costs will be assessed for such services against, the foreign reciprocating country or foreign obligee (but costs may at State option be assessed against the obligor)."

SEC. 12371. FINANCIAL INSTITUTION DATA MATCHES.

Section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)), as amended by sections 12315, 12317(a), 12323, 12365, and 12369 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(17) FINANCIAL INSTITUTION DATA MATCHES.—
"(A) IN GENERAL.—Procedures under which the State agency shall enter into agreements with financial institutions doing business in the State—
"(i) to develop and operate, in coordination with such financial institutions, a data match system, using automated data exchanges to the maximum extent feasible, in which each such financial institution is required to provide for each calendar quarter the name, record address, social security number or other taxpayer identification number, and other identifying information for each noncustodial parent who maintains an account at such institution and who owes past-due support, as identified by the State by name and social security number or other taxpayer identification number; and
"(ii) in response to a notice of lien or levy, encumber or surrender, as the case may be, assets held by such institution on behalf of any noncustodial parent who is subject to a child support lien pursuant to paragraph (4).
"(B) REASONABLE FEES.—The State agency may pay a reasonable fee to a financial institution for conducting the data match provided for in subparagraph (A)(i), not to exceed the actual costs incurred by such financial institution.
"(C) LIABILITY.—A financial institution shall not be liable under any Federal or State law to any person—
"(i) for any disclosure of information to the State agency under subparagraph (A)(i);
"(ii) for encumbering or surrendering any assets held by such financial institution in response to a notice of lien or levy issued by the State agency as provided for in subparagraph (A)(ii); or
"(iii) for any other action taken in good faith to comply with the requirements of subparagraph (A).
"(D) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this paragraph—
"(i) FINANCIAL INSTITUTION.—The term 'financial institution' means any Federal or State commercial savings bank, including savings association or cooperative bank, Federal- or State-chartered credit union, benefit association, insurance company, safe deposit company, money-market mutual fund, or any similar entity authorized to do business in the State; and
"(ii) ACCOUNT.—The term 'account' means a demand deposit account, checking or negotiable withdrawal order account, savings account, time deposit account, or money-market mutual fund account."
SEC. 12372. ENFORCEMENT OF ORDERS AGAINST PATERNAL OR MATERNAL GRANDPARENTS IN CASES OF MINOR PARENTS.

Section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)), as amended by sections 12315, 12317(a), 12323, 12365, 12369, and 12371 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(18) ENFORCEMENT OF ORDERS AGAINST PATERNAL OR MATERNAL GRANDPARENTS.—Procedures under which, at the State's option, any child support order enforced under this part with respect to a child of minor parents, if the custodial parents of such child are receiving assistance under the State program under part A, shall be enforceable, jointly and severally, against the parents of the noncustodial parents of such child.".

CHAPTER 8—MEDICAL SUPPORT

SEC. 12376. CORRECTION TO ERISA DEFINITION OF MEDICAL CHILD SUPPORT ORDER.

(1) by striking "issued by a court of competent jurisdiction";
(2) by striking the period at the end of clause (ii) and inserting a comma; and
(3) by adding, after and below clause (ii), the following: "if such judgment, decree, or order (I) is issued by a court of competent jurisdiction or (II) is issued through an administrative process established under State law and has the force and effect of law under applicable State law.".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.
(2) PLAN AMENDMENTS NOT REQUIRED UNTIL JANUARY 1, 1996.—Any amendment to a plan required to be made by an amendment made by this section shall not be required to be made before the 1st plan year beginning on or after January 1, 1996, if—

(A) during the period after the date before the date of the enactment of this Act and before such 1st plan year, the plan is operated in accordance with the requirements of the amendments made by this section; and
(B) such plan amendment applies retroactively to the period after the date before the date of the enactment of this Act and before such 1st plan year.

A plan shall not be treated as failing to be operated in accordance with the provisions of the plan merely because it operates in accordance with this paragraph.

SEC. 12377. ENFORCEMENT OF ORDERS FOR HEALTH CARE COVERAGE.

Section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)), as amended by sections 12315, 12317(a), 12323, 12365, 12369, 12371, and 12372 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(19) HEALTH CARE COVERAGE.—Procedures under which all child support orders enforced pursuant to this part shall include a provision for the health care coverage of the child, and in the case in which a noncustodial parent provides such coverage and changes employment, and the new employer provides health care coverage, the State agency shall transfer notice of the provision to the employer, which notice shall operate to enroll the child in the noncustodial parent's health plan, unless the noncustodial parent contests the notice."

CHAPTER 9—ENHANCING RESPONSIBILITY AND OPPORTUNITY FOR NON-RESIDENTIAL PARENTS

SEC. 12381. GRANTS TO STATES FOR ACCESS AND VISITATION PROGRAMS.

Part D of title IV (42 U.S.C. 651-669) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 469A. GRANTS TO STATES FOR ACCESS AND VISITATION PROGRAMS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administration for Children and Families shall make grants under this section to enable States to establish and administer programs to support and facilitate noncustodial parents' access to and visitation of their children, by means of activities including mediation (both voluntary and mandatory), counseling, education, development of parenting plans, visitation enforcement (including monitoring, supervision and neutral drop-off and pickup), and development of guidelines for visitation and alternative custody arrangements.

"(b) AMOUNT OF GRANT.—The amount of the grant to be made to a State under this section for a fiscal year shall be an amount equal to the lesser of—

"(1) 90 percent of State expenditures during the fiscal year for activities described in subsection (a); or
"(2) the allotment of the State under subsection (c) for the fiscal year.

"(c) ALLOTMENTS TO STATES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The allotment of a State for a fiscal year is the amount that bears the same ratio to the amount appropriated for grants under this section for the fiscal year as the number of children in the State living with only 1 biological parent bears to the total number of such children in all States.

"(2) MINIMUM ALLOTMENT.—The Administration for Children and Families shall adjust allotments to States under paragraph (1) as necessary to ensure that no State is allotted less than—

"(A) $50,000 for fiscal year 1996 or 1997; or
"(B) $100,000 for any succeeding fiscal year.

"(d) No SUPPLANTATION OF STATE EXPENDITURES FOR SIMILAR ACTIVITIES.—A State to which a grant is made under this section may not use the grant to supplant expenditures by the State for activities specified in subsection (a), but shall use the grant to supplement such expenditures at a level at least equal to the level of such expenditures for fiscal year 1995.

"(e) STATE ADMINISTRATION.—Each State to which a grant is made under this section—

"(1) may administer State programs funded with the grant, directly or through grants to or contracts with courts, local public agencies, or non-profit private entities;"
"(2) shall not be required to operate such programs on a statewide basis; and

"(3) shall monitor, evaluate, and report on such programs in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary.”.

CHAPTER 10—EFFECT OF ENACTMENT

SEC. 12391. EFFECTIVE DATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise specifically provided (but subject to subsections (b) and (c))—

(1) the provisions of this subtitle requiring the enactment or amendment of State laws under section 466 of the Social Security Act, or revision of State plans under section 454 of such Act, shall be effective with respect to periods beginning on and after October 1, 1996; and

(2) all other provisions of this subtitle shall become effective upon the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) GRACE PERIOD FOR STATE LAW CHANGES.—The provisions of this subtitle shall become effective with respect to a State on the later of—

(1) the date specified in this subtitle, or

(2) the effective date of laws enacted by the legislature of such State implementing such provisions, but in no event later than the 1st day of the 1st calendar quarter beginning after the close of the 1st regular session of the State legislature that begins after the date of the enactment of this Act. For purposes of the previous sentence, in the case of a State that has a 2-year legislative session, each year of such session shall be deemed to be a separate regular session of the State legislature.

(c) GRACE PERIOD FOR STATE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.—A State shall not be found out of compliance with any requirement enacted by this subtitle if the State is unable to so comply without amending the State constitution until the earlier of—

(1) 1 year after the effective date of the necessary State constitutional amendment; or

(2) 5 years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Subtitle D—Restricting Welfare and Public Benefits for Aliens

CHAPTER 1—ELIGIBILITY FOR FEDERAL BENEFITS

SEC. 12401. ALIENS WHO ARE NOT QUALIFIED ALIENS INELIGIBLE FOR FEDERAL PUBLIC BENEFITS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law and except as provided in subsection (b), an alien who is not a qualified alien (as defined in section 12431) is not eligible for any Federal public benefit (as defined in subsection (c)).

(b) EXCEPTIONS.—Subsection (a) shall not apply with respect to the following Federal public benefits:

(1) Emergency medical services under title XIX or XXI of the Social Security Act.

(2) Short-term, non-cash, in-kind emergency disaster relief.

(3)(A) Public health assistance for immunizations.
(B) Public health assistance for testing and treatment of a serious communicable disease if the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines that it is necessary to prevent the spread of such disease.

(4) Programs, services, or assistance (such as soup kitchens, crisis counseling and intervention, and short-term shelter) specified by the Attorney General, in the Attorney General’s sole and unreviewable discretion after consultation with appropriate Federal agencies and departments, which (A) deliver in-kind services at the community level, including through public or private nonprofit agencies; (B) do not condition the provision of assistance, the amount of assistance provided, or the cost of assistance provided on the individual recipient’s income or resources; and (C) are necessary for the protection of life or safety.

(5) Programs for housing or community development assistance or financial assistance administered by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, any program under title V of the Housing Act of 1949, or any assistance under section 306C of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act, to the extent that the alien is receiving such a benefit on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) FEDERAL PUBLIC BENEFIT DEFINED.—

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), for purposes of this subtitle, the term “Federal public benefit” means a Federal public benefit providing direct spending for—

(A) any grant, contract, loan, professional license, or commercial license provided by an agency of the United States or by appropriated funds of the United States; and

(B) any retirement, welfare, health, disability, public or assisted housing, post-secondary education, food assistance, unemployment benefit, or any other similar benefit for which payments or assistance are provided to an individual, household, or family eligibility unit by an agency of the United States or by appropriated funds of the United States.

(2) Such term shall not apply—

(A) to any contract, professional license, or commercial license for a nonimmigrant whose visa for entry is related to such employment in the United States; or

(B) with respect to benefits for an alien who as a work authorized nonimmigrant or as an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence under the Immigration and Nationality Act qualified for such benefits and for whom the United States under reciprocal treaty agreements is required to pay benefits, as determined by the Attorney General, after consultation with the Secretary of State.

SEC. 12402. LIMITED ELIGIBILITY OF CERTAIN QUALIFIED ALIENS FOR CERTAIN FEDERAL PROGRAMS.

(a) LIMITED ELIGIBILITY FOR SPECIFIED FEDERAL PROGRAMS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law and except as provided in paragraph (2), an alien who is a qualified alien (as defined in section 12431) is not eligible for any specified Federal program (as defined in paragraph (3)).
(2) EXCEPTIONS.—

(A) TIME-LIMITED EXCEPTION FOR REFUGEES AND ASYLEES.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to an alien until 5 years after the date—

(i) an alien is admitted to the United States as a refugee under section 207 of the Immigration and Nationality Act;

(ii) an alien is granted asylum under section 208 of such Act; or

(iii) an alien's deportation is withheld under section 243(h) of such Act.

(B) CERTAIN PERMANENT RESIDENT ALIENS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to an alien who—

(i) is lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence under the Immigration and Nationality Act; and

(ii)(I) has worked 40 qualifying quarters of coverage as defined under title II of the Social Security Act, and (II) did not receive any Federal means-tested public benefit (as defined in section 12403(c)) during any such quarter.

(C) VETERAN AND ACTIVE DUTY EXCEPTION.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to an alien who is lawfully residing in any State and is—

(i) a veteran (as defined in section 101 of title 38, United States Code) with a discharge characterized as an honorable discharge and not on account of alienage,

(ii) on active duty (other than active duty for training) in the Armed Forces of the United States, or

(iii) the spouse or unmarried dependent child of an individual described in clause (i) or (ii).

(D) TRANSITION FOR ALIENS CURRENTLY RECEIVING BENEFITS.—Paragraph (1) shall apply to the eligibility of an alien for a program for months beginning on or after January 1, 1997, if, on the date of the enactment of this Act, the alien is lawfully residing in any State and is receiving benefits under such program on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(3) SPECIFIED FEDERAL PROGRAM DEFINED.—For purposes of this subtitle, the term "specified Federal program" means any of the following:

(A) SSI.—The supplemental security income program under title XVI of the Social Security Act.

(B) FOOD STAMPS.—The food stamp program as defined in section 3(h) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977.

(b) LIMITED ELIGIBILITY FOR DESIGNATED FEDERAL PROGRAMS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law and except as provided in section 12403 and paragraph (2), a State is authorized to determine the eligibility of an alien who is a qualified alien (as defined in section 12431) for any designated Federal program (as defined in paragraph (3)).

(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Qualified aliens under this paragraph shall be eligible for any designated Federal program.
(A) Time-limited Exception for Refugees and Asylees.—

(i) An alien who is admitted to the United States as a refugee under section 207 of the Immigration and Nationality Act until 5 years after the date of an alien’s entry into the United States.

(ii) An alien who is granted asylum under section 208 of such Act until 5 years after the date of such grant of asylum.

(iii) An alien whose deportation is being withheld under section 243(h) of such Act until 5 years after such withholding.

(B) Certain Permanent Resident Aliens.—An alien who—

(i) is lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence under the Immigration and Nationality Act; and

(ii)(I) has worked 40 qualifying quarters of coverage to be a fully insured individual for old-age retirement benefits under title II of the Social Security Act, (II) did not receive any Federal means-tested public benefit (as defined in section 12403(c)) during any such quarter, and (III) at the time of application is otherwise eligible for such benefits.

(C) Veteran and Active Duty Exception.—An alien who—

(i) a veteran (as defined in section 101 of title 38, United States Code) with a discharge characterized as an honorable discharge and not on account of alienage,

(ii) on active duty (other than active duty for training) in the Armed Forces of the United States, or

(iii) the spouse or unmarried dependent child of an individual described in clause (i) or (ii).

(D) Transition for Those Currently Receiving Benefits.—An alien who on the date of the enactment of this Act is lawfully residing in any State and is receiving benefits under such program on the date of the enactment of this Act shall continue to be eligible to receive such benefits until January 1, 1997.

(3) Designated Federal Program Defined.—For purposes of this subtitle, the term “designated Federal program” means any of the following:

(A) Temporary Assistance for Needy Families.—The program of block grants to States for temporary assistance for needy families under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act.

(B) Social Services Block Grant.—The program of block grants to States for social services under title XX of the Social Security Act.

(C) Medicaid and Medicare.—The program of medical assistance under title XIX and XXI of the Social Security Act.
SEC. 12403. FIVE-YEAR LIMITED ELIGIBILITY OF QUALIFIED ALIENS FOR FEDERAL MEANS-TESTED PUBLIC BENEFIT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law and except as provided in subsection (b), an alien who is a qualified alien (as defined in section 12431) and who enters the United States on or after the date of the enactment of this Act is not eligible for any Federal means-tested public benefit (as defined in subsection (c)) for a period of five years beginning on the date of the alien's entry into the United States with a status within the meaning of the term "qualified alien".

(b) EXCEPTIONS.—The limitation under subsection (a) shall not apply to the following aliens:

(1) EXCEPTION FOR REFUGEES AND ASYLLEES.—

(A) An alien who is admitted to the United States as a refugee under section 207 of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

(B) An alien who is granted asylum under section 208 of such Act.

(C) An alien whose deportation is being withheld under section 243(h) of such Act.

(2) VETERAN AND ACTIVE DUTY EXCEPTION.—An alien who is lawfully residing in any State and is—

(A) a veteran (as defined in section 101 of title 38, United States Code) with a discharge characterized as an honorable discharge and not on account of alienage;

(B) on active duty (other than active duty for training) in the Armed Forces of the United States, or

(C) the spouse or unmarried dependent child of an individual described in subparagraph (A) or (B).

(c) FEDERAL MEANS-TESTED PUBLIC BENEFIT DEFINED.—

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), for purposes of this subtitle, the term "Federal means-tested public benefit" means a Federal public benefit providing direct spending (including cash, medical, housing, and food assistance and social services) by the Federal Government in which the eligibility of an individual, household, or family eligibility unit for benefits, or the amount of such benefits, or both are determined on the basis of income, resources, or financial need of the individual, household, or unit.

(2) Such term does not include the following:

(A) Emergency medical services under title XIX or XXI of the Social Security Act.

(B) Short-term, non-cash, in-kind emergency disaster relief.

(C) Assistance or benefits under the National School Lunch Act.

(D) Assistance or benefits under the Child Nutrition Act of 1966.

(E)(i) Public health assistance for immunizations.

(ii) Public health assistance for testing and treatment of a serious communicable disease if the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines that it is necessary to prevent the spread of such disease.

(F) Payments for foster care and adoption assistance under part B of title IV of the Social Security Act for a child who would, in the absence of subsection (a), be eligible to have such payments made on the child's behalf.
under such part, but only if the foster or adoptive parent or parents of such child are not described under subsection (a).

(G) Programs, services, or assistance (such as soup kitchens, crisis counseling and intervention, and short-term shelter) specified by the Attorney General, in the Attorney General's sole and unreviewable discretion after consultation with appropriate Federal agencies and departments, which (i) deliver in-kind services at the community level, including through public or private nonprofit agencies; (ii) do not condition the provision of assistance, the amount of assistance provided, or the cost of assistance provided on the individual recipient's income or resources; and (iii) are necessary for the protection of life or safety.

CHAPTER 2—ATTRIBUTION OF INCOME AND AFFIDAVITS OF SUPPORT

SEC. 12421. ATTRIBUTION OF SPONSOR'S INCOME AND RESOURCES TO ALIEN.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law and except as provided in subsection (c), in determining the eligibility and the amount of benefits of an alien for any means-tested public benefits program (as defined in subsection (e)) the income and resources of the alien shall be deemed to include the following:

(1) The income and resources of any person who executed an affidavit of support pursuant to section 213A of the Immigration and Nationality Act (as added by section 12422) on behalf of such alien.

(2) The income and resources of the spouse (if any) of the person.

(b) APPLICATION.—Subsection (a) shall apply with respect to an alien until such time as the alien achieves United States citizenship through naturalization pursuant to chapter 2 of title III of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

(c) EXCEPTIONS.—Subsection (a) shall not apply with respect to the following Federal public benefits:

(1) Emergency medical services under title XIX or XXI of the Social Security Act.

(2) Short-term, non-cash, in-kind emergency disaster relief.

(3) Assistance or benefits under the National School Lunch Act.

(4) Assistance or benefits under the Child Nutrition Act of 1966.

(5)(A) Public health assistance for immunizations.

(B) Public health assistance for testing and treatment of a serious communicable disease if the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines that it is necessary to prevent the spread of such disease.

(6) Payments for foster care and adoption assistance under part B of title IV of the Social Security Act for a child who would, in the absence of subsection (a), be eligible to have such payments made on the child's behalf under such part, but only if the foster or adoptive parent or parents of such child are not described under subsection (a).

(7) Programs, services, or assistance (such as soup kitchens, crisis counseling and intervention, and short-term shelter) specified by the Attorney General, in the Attorney General's sole and unreviewable discretion after consultation with appropriate Federal agencies and departments, which (A) deliver in-kind services at the community level, including through public or private nonprofit agencies; (B) do not condition the provision of assistance, the amount of assistance provided, or the cost of assistance provided on the individual recipient's income or resources; and (C) are necessary for the protection of life or safety.

(d) REVIEW OF INCOME AND RESOURCES OF ALIEN UPON REAPPLICATION.—Whenever an alien is required to reapply for benefits under any means-tested public benefits program, the applicable agency shall review the income and resources attributed to the alien under subsection (a).

(e) MEANS-TESTED PUBLIC BENEFITS PROGRAM DEFINED.—The term "means-tested public benefits program" means a program of Federal public benefits providing direct spending (including cash, medical, housing, and food assistance and social services) by the Federal government in which the eligibility of an individual, household, or family eligibility unit for benefits, or the amount of such benefits, or both are determined on the basis of income, resources, or financial need of the individual, household, or unit.

(f) APPLICATION.—

(1) If on the date of the enactment of this Act, a means-tested public benefits program attributes a sponsor's income and resources to an alien in determining the alien's eligibility and the amount of benefits for an alien, this section shall apply to any such determination beginning on the day after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) If on the date of the enactment of this Act, a means-tested public benefits program does not attribute a sponsor's income and resources to an alien in determining the alien's eligibility and the amount of benefits for an alien, this section shall apply to any such determination beginning 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 12422. REQUIREMENTS FOR SPONSOR'S AFFIDAVIT OF SUPPORT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Title II of the Immigration and Nationality Act is amended by inserting after section 213 the following new section:

"REQUIREMENTS FOR SPONSOR'S AFFIDAVIT OF SUPPORT

"SEC. 213A. (a) ENFORCEABILITY.—(1) No affidavit of support may be accepted by the Attorney General or by any consular officer to establish that an alien is not excludable as a public charge under section 212(a)(4) unless such affidavit is executed as a contract—

"(A) which is legally enforceable against the sponsor by the sponsored alien, the Federal Government, and by any State (or any political subdivision of such State) which provides any means-tested public benefits program, but not later than 10 years after the alien last receives any such benefit;

"(B) in which the sponsor agrees to financially support the alien, so that the alien will not become a public charge; and

"(C) in which the sponsor agrees to submit to the jurisdiction of any Federal or State court for the purpose of actions brought under subsection (e)(2).

"(2) A contract under paragraph (1) shall be enforceable with respect to benefits provided to the alien until such time as the alien achieves United States citizenship through naturalization pursuant to chapter 2 of title III.

"(b) FORMS.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this section, the Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Health and Human Services, shall formulate an affidavit of support consistent with the provisions of this section.

"(c) REMEDIES.—Remedies available to enforce an affidavit of support under this section include any or all of the remedies described in section 3201, 3203, 3204, or 3205 of title 28, United States Code, as well as an order for specific performance and payment of legal fees and other costs of collection, and include corresponding remedies available under State law. A Federal agency may seek to collect amounts owed under this section in accordance with the provisions of subchapter II of chapter 37 of title 31, United States Code.

"(d) NOTIFICATION OF CHANGE OF ADDRESS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The sponsor shall notify the Attorney General and the State in which the sponsored alien is currently a resident within 30 days of any change of address of the sponsor during the period specified in subsection (a)(2).

"(2) PENALTY.—Any person subject to the requirement of paragraph (1) who fails to satisfy such requirement shall be subject to a civil penalty of—

"(A) not less than $250 or more than $2,000, or

"(B) if such failure occurs with knowledge that the alien has received any means-tested public benefit, not less than $2,000 or more than $5,000.

"(e) REIMBURSEMENT OF GOVERNMENT EXPENSES.—(1)(A) Upon notification that a sponsored alien has received any benefit under any means-tested public benefits program, the appropriate Federal, State, or local official shall request reimbursement by the sponsor in the amount of such assistance.

"(B) The Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out subparagraph (A).

"(2) If within 45 days after requesting reimbursement, the appropriate Federal, State, or local agency has not received a response from the sponsor indicating a willingness to commence payments, an action may be brought against the sponsor pursuant to the affidavit of support.

"(3) If the sponsor fails to abide by the repayment terms established by such agency, the agency may, within 60 days of such failure, bring an action against the sponsor pursuant to the affidavit of support.
"(4) No cause of action may be brought under this subsection later than 10 years after the alien last received any benefit under any means-tested public benefits program.

"(5) If, pursuant to the terms of this subsection, a Federal, State, or local agency requests reimbursement from the sponsor in the amount of assistance provided, or brings an action against the sponsor pursuant to the affidavit of support, the appropriate agency may appoint or hire an individual or other person to act on behalf of such agency acting under the authority of law for purposes of collecting any moneys owed. Nothing in this subsection shall preclude any appropriate Federal, State, or local agency from directly requesting reimbursement from a sponsor for the amount of assistance provided, or from bringing an action against a sponsor pursuant to an affidavit of support.

"(6) DEFINITIONS.—For the purposes of this section—

"(1) SPONSOR.—The term 'sponsor' means an individual who—

"(A) is a citizen or national of the United States or an alien who is lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence;

"(B) is 18 years of age or over;

"(C) is domiciled in any State; and

"(D) is the person petitioning for the admission of the alien under section 204.

"(2) MEANS-TESTED PUBLIC BENEFITS PROGRAM DEFINED.—
The term 'means-tested public benefits program' means a program of Federal public benefits providing direct spending (including cash, medical, housing, and food assistance and social services) by the Federal Government in which the eligibility of an individual, household, or family eligibility unit for benefits, or the amount of such benefits, or both are determined on the basis of income, resources, or financial need of the individual, household, or unit.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 213 the following:

"Sec. 213A. Requirements for sponsor's affidavit of support.”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Subsection (a) of section 213A of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as inserted by subsection (a) of this section, shall apply to affidavits of support executed on or after a date specified by the Attorney General, which date shall be not earlier than 60 days (and not later than 90 days) after the date the Attorney General formulates the form for such affidavits under subsection (b) of such section.

(d) BENEFITS NOT SUBJECT TO REIMBURSEMENT.—Requirements for reimbursement by a sponsor for benefits provided to a sponsored alien pursuant to an affidavit of support under section 213A of the Immigration and Nationality Act shall not apply with respect to the following:

(1) Emergency medical services under title XIX or XXI of the Social Security Act.

(2) Short-term, non-cash, in-kind emergency disaster relief.

(3) Assistance or benefits under the National School Lunch Act.
(4) Assistance or benefits under the Child Nutrition Act of 1966.

(5)(A) Public health assistance for immunizations.
(B) Public health assistance for testing and treatment of a serious communicable disease if the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines that it is necessary to prevent the spread of such disease.

(6) Payments for foster care and adoption assistance under part B of title IV of the Social Security Act for a child who would, in the absence of subsection (a), be eligible to have such payments made on the child's behalf under such part, but only if the foster or adoptive parent or parents of such child are not described under subsection (a).

(7) Programs, services, or assistance (such as soup kitchens, crisis counseling and intervention, and short-term shelter) specified by the Attorney General, in the Attorney General's sole and unreviewable discretion after consultation with appropriate Federal agencies and departments, which (A) deliver in-kind services at the community level, including through public or private nonprofit agencies; (B) do not condition the provision of assistance, the amount of assistance provided, or the cost of assistance provided on the individual recipient's income or resources; and (C) are necessary for the protection of life or safety.

SEC. 12423. COSIGNATURE OF ALIEN STUDENT LOANS.

Section 484(b) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1091(b)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(6) Notwithstanding sections 427(a)(2)(C), 428B(a), 428C(b)(4)(A), and 464(c)(1)(E), a student who is an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence under the Immigration and Nationality Act shall not be eligible for a loan under this title unless the loan is endorsed and cosigned by the alien's sponsor under section 213A of the Immigration and Nationality Act or by another individual who is a United States citizen."

CHAPTER 3—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 12431. DEFINITIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, the terms used in this subtitle have the same meaning given such terms in section 101(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

(b) QUALIFIED ALIEN.—For purposes of this subtitle, the term "qualified alien" means an alien who, at the time the alien applies for, receives, or attempts to receive a Federal public benefit, is—

(1) an alien who is lawfully admitted for permanent residence under the Immigration and Nationality Act,
(2) an alien who is granted asylum under section 208 of such Act,
(3) a refugee who is admitted to the United States under section 207 of such Act,
(4) an alien who is paroled into the United States under section 212(d)(5) of such Act for a period of at least 1 year,
(5) an alien whose deportation is being withheld under section 243(h) of such Act, or
(6) an alien who is granted conditional entry pursuant to section 203(a)(7) of such Act as in effect prior to April 1, 1980.

SEC. 12432. REAPPLICATION FOR SSI BENEFITS.

(a) APPLICATION AND NOTICE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in the case of an individual who is receiving supplemental security income benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act as of the date of the enactment of this Act and whose eligibility for such benefits would terminate by reason of the application of section 12402(a)(2)(D), the Commissioner of Social Security shall so notify the individual not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) REAPPLICATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, each individual notified pursuant to subsection (a) who desires to reapply for benefits under title XVI of the Social Security Act shall reapply to the Commissioner of Social Security.

(2) DETERMINATION OF ELIGIBILITY.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Commissioner of Social Security shall determine the eligibility of each individual who reapplies for benefits under paragraph (1) pursuant to the procedures of such title XVI.

SEC. 12433. STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.

(a) LIMITATION.—

(1) Nothing in this subtitle may be construed as an entitlement or a determination of an individual's eligibility or fulfillment of the requisite requirements for any Federal, State, or local governmental program, assistance, or benefits. For purposes of this subtitle, eligibility relates only to the general issue of eligibility or ineligibility on the basis of alienage.

(2) Nothing in this subtitle may be construed as addressing alien eligibility for a basic public education as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States under Plyler v. Doe (457 U.S. 202)(1982).

(b) NOT APPLICABLE TO FOREIGN ASSISTANCE.—This subtitle does not apply to any Federal, State, or local governmental program, assistance, or benefits provided to an alien under any program of foreign assistance as determined by the Secretary of State in consultation with the Attorney General.

(c) SEVERABILITY.—If any provision of this subtitle or the application of such provision to any person or circumstance is held to be unconstitutional, the remainder of this subtitle and the application of the provisions of such to any person or circumstance shall not be affected thereby.
authority provided by law regarding the materials specified in such subsection.

(e) TERMINATION OF DISPOSAL AUTHORITY.—The President may not use the disposal authority provided in subsection (a)(2) after the date on which the total amount of receipts specified in subparagraph (C) of such subsection is achieved.

Subtitle G—Child Protection Block Grant Program and Foster Care and Adoption Assistance

SEC. 12701. ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.

Title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) is amended by striking subpart 2 of part B and inserting the following:

"Subpart 2—Block Grants to States for the Protection of Children and Matching Payments for Foster Care and Adoption Assistance

"SEC. 430. ELIGIBLE STATES.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—As used in this subpart, the term 'eligible State' means a State that has submitted to the Secretary, not later than October 1, 1996, and every 3 years thereafter, a plan which has been signed by the chief executive officer of the State and that includes the following:

"(1) OUTLINE OF CHILD PROTECTION PROGRAM.—A written document that outlines the activities the State intends to conduct to achieve the child protection goals of the program funded under this subpart, including the procedures to be used for—

"(A) receiving and assessing reports of child abuse or neglect;

"(B) investigating such reports;

"(C) with respect to families in which abuse or neglect has been confirmed, providing services or referral for services for families and children where the State makes a determination that the child may safely remain with the family;

"(D) protecting children by removing them from dangerous settings and ensuring their placement in a safe environment;

"(E) providing training for individuals mandated to report suspected cases of child abuse or neglect;

"(F) protecting children in foster care;

"(G) promoting timely adoptions;

"(H) protecting the rights of families, using adult relatives as the preferred placement for children separated from their parents where such relatives meet the relevant State child protection standards;

"(I) providing services to individuals, families, or communities, either directly or through referral, that are aimed at preventing the occurrence of child abuse and neglect; and

"(J) establishing and responding to citizen review panels under section 434.

"(2) CERTIFICATION OF STATE LAW REQUIRING THE REPORTING OF CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT.—A certification that the State has in effect laws that require public officials and other professionals to report, in good faith, actual or suspected instances of child abuse or neglect.

"(3) CERTIFICATION OF PROCEDURES FOR SCREENING, SAFETY ASSESSMENT, AND PROMPT INVESTIGATION.—A certification that the State has in effect procedures for receiving and responding to reports of child abuse or neglect, including the reports described in paragraph (2), and for the immediate screening, safety assessment, and prompt investigation of such reports.

"(4) CERTIFICATION OF STATE PROCEDURES FOR REMOVAL AND PLACEMENT OF ABUSED OR NEGLECTED CHILDREN.—A certification that the State has in effect procedures for the removal from families and placement of abused or neglected children and of any other child in the same household who may also be in danger of abuse or neglect.

"(5) CERTIFICATION OF PROVISIONS FOR IMMUNITY FROM PROSECUTION.—A certification that the State has in effect laws requiring immunity from prosecution under State and local laws and regulations for individuals making good faith reports of suspected or known instances of child abuse or neglect.

"(6) CERTIFICATION OF PROVISIONS AND PROCEDURES FOR EXPUNGEMENT OF CERTAIN RECORDS.—A certification that the State has in effect laws and procedures requiring the facilitation of the prompt expungement of any records that are accessible to the general public or are used for purposes of employment or other background checks in cases determined to be unsubstantiated or false.

"(7) CERTIFICATION OF PROVISIONS AND PROCEDURES RELATING TO APPEALS.—A certification that not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this subpart, the State shall have laws and procedures in effect affording individuals an opportunity to appeal an official finding of abuse or neglect.

"(8) CERTIFICATION OF STATE PROCEDURES FOR DEVELOPING AND REVIEWING WRITTEN PLANS FOR PERMANENT PLACEMENT OF REMOVED CHILDREN.—A certification that the State has in effect procedures for ensuring that a written plan is prepared for children who have been removed from their families. Such plan shall specify the goals for achieving a permanent placement for the child in a timely fashion, for ensuring that the written plan is reviewed every 6 months (until such placement is achieved), and for ensuring that information about such children is collected regularly and recorded in case records, and include a description of such procedures.

"(9) CERTIFICATION OF STATE PROGRAM TO PROVIDE INDEPENDENT LIVING SERVICES.—A certification that the State has in effect a program to provide independent living services, for assistance in making the transition to self-sufficient adulthood, to individuals in the child protection program of the State who are 16, but who are not 20 (or, at the option of the State, 22), years of age, and who do not have a family to which to be returned.
"(10) Certification of state procedures to respond to reporting of medical neglect of disabled infants.—

"(A) In General.—A certification that the State has in place for the purpose of responding to the reporting of medical neglect of infants (including instances of withholding of medically indicated treatment from disabled infants with life-threatening conditions), procedures or programs, or both (within the State child protective services system), to provide for—

"(i) coordination and consultation with individuals designated by and within appropriate health-care facilities;

"(ii) prompt notification by individuals designated by and within appropriate health-care facilities of cases of suspected medical neglect (including instances of withholding of medically indicated treatment from disabled infants with life-threatening conditions); and

"(iii) authority, under State law, for the State child protective service to pursue any legal remedies, including the authority to initiate legal proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction, as may be necessary to prevent the withholding of medically indicated treatment from disabled infants with life-threatening conditions.

"(B) Withholding of Medically Indicated Treatment.—As used in subparagraph (A), the term 'withholding of medically indicated treatment' means the failure to respond to the infant's life-threatening conditions by providing treatment (including appropriate nutrition, hydration, and medication) which, in the treating physician's or physicians' reasonable medical judgment, will be most likely to be effective in ameliorating or correcting all such conditions, except that such term does not include the failure to provide treatment (other than appropriate nutrition, hydration, or medication) to an infant when, in the treating Physician's or physicians' reasonable medical judgment—

"(i) the infant is chronically and irreversibly comatose;

"(ii) the provision of such treatment would—

"(I) merely prolong dying;

"(II) not be effective in ameliorating or correcting all of the infant's life-threatening conditions; or

"(III) otherwise be futile in terms of the survival of the infant; or

"(iii) the provision of such treatment would be virtually futile in terms of the survival of the infant and the treatment itself under such circumstances would be inhumane.

"(11) Identification of child protection goals.—The quantitative goals of the State child protection program.

"(12) Certification of child protection standards.—With respect to fiscal years beginning on or after April 1, 1996, a certification that the State—

"(A) has completed an inventory of all children who, before the inventory, had been in foster care under the responsibility of the State for 6 months or more, which determined—

"(i) the appropriateness of, and necessity for, the foster care placement;

"(ii) whether the child could or should be returned to the parents of the child or should be freed for adoption or other permanent placement; and

"(iii) the services necessary to facilitate the return of the child or the placement of the child for adoption or legal guardianship;

"(B) is operating, to the satisfaction of the Secretary—

"(i) a statewide information system from which can be readily determined the status, demographic characteristics, location, and goals for the placement of every child who is (or, within the immediately preceding 12 months, has been) in foster care;

"(ii) a case review system for each child receiving foster care under the supervision of the State;

"(iii) a service program designed to help children—

"(I) where appropriate, return to families from which they have been removed; or

"(II) be placed for adoption, with a legal guardian, or if adoption or legal guardianship is determined not to be appropriate for a child, in some other planned, permanent living arrangement; and

"(iv) a preplacement preventive services program designed to help children at risk for foster care placement remain with their families; and

"(C)(i) has reviewed (or not later than October 1, 1997, will review) State policies and administrative and judicial procedures in effect for children abandoned at or shortly after birth (including policies and procedures providing for legal representation of such children); and

"(ii) is implementing (or not later than October 1, 1997, will implement) such policies and procedures as the State determines, on the basis of the review described in clause (i), to be necessary to enable permanent decisions to be made expeditiously with respect to the placement of such children.

"(13) CERTIFICATION OF REASONABLE EFFORTS BEFORE PLACEMENT OF CHILDREN IN FOSTER CARE.—A certification that the State in each case will—

"(A) make reasonable efforts prior to the placement of a child in foster care, to prevent or eliminate the need for removal of the child from the child's home, and to make it possible for the child to return home; and

"(B) with respect to families in which abuse or neglect has been confirmed, provide services or referral for services for families and children where the State makes a determination that the child may safely remain with the family.

"(14) CERTIFICATION OF COOPERATIVE EFFORTS.—A certification by the State, where appropriate, that all steps will be taken, including cooperative efforts with the State agencies administering the plans approved under parts A and D, to secure an assignment to the State of any rights to support on behalf of each child receiving foster care maintenance payments under this subpart.
"(b) DETERMINATIONS.—The Secretary shall determine whether a plan submitted pursuant to subsection (a) contains the material required by subsection (a), other than the material described in paragraph (10) of such subsection. The Secretary may not require a State to include in such a plan any material not described in subsection (a).

"SEC. 431. GRANTS TO STATES FOR CHILD PROTECTION AND PAYMENTS FOR FOSTER CARE AND ADOPTION ASSISTANCE.

"(a) FUNDING OF BLOCK GRANTS.—Each eligible State shall be entitled to receive from the Secretary for each fiscal year specified in subsection (c)(1) a grant in an amount equal to the State share of the child protection amount for the fiscal year.

"(b) MAINTENANCE PAYMENTS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In addition to the grants described in subsection (a), each eligible State shall be entitled to receive from the Secretary for each quarter of each fiscal year specified in subsection (c)(1) an amount equal to the sum of—

"(A) an amount equal to the Federal medical assistance percentage (as defined in section 1905(b) of this Act as in effect on the day before the date of enactment of this subpart) of the total amount expended during such quarter as foster care maintenance payments under the child protection program under this subpart for children in foster family homes or child-care institutions; plus

"(B) an amount equal to the Federal medical assistance percentage (as defined in section 1905(b) of this Act (as so in effect)) of the total amount expended during such quarter as adoption assistance payments under the child protection program under this subpart pursuant to adoption assistance agreements.

"(2) ESTIMATES BY THE SECRETARY.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall, prior to the beginning of each quarter, estimate the amount to which a State will be entitled to receive under paragraph (1) for such quarter, such estimates to be based on—

"(i) a report filed by the State containing its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter in accordance with paragraph (1), and stating the amount appropriated or made available by the State and its political subdivisions for such expenditures in such quarter, and if such amount is less than the State's proportionate share of the total sum of such estimated expenditures, the source or sources from which the difference is expected to be derived;

"(ii) records showing the number of children in the State receiving assistance under this subpart; and

"(iii) such other information as the Secretary may find necessary.

"(B) PAYMENTS.—The Secretary shall pay to the States the amounts so estimated under subparagraph (A), reduced or increased to the extent of any overpayment or underpayment which the Secretary determines was made under this subsection to such State for any prior quarter and with respect to which adjustment has not already been made under this paragraph.
"(C) PRO RATA SHARE.—The pro rata share to which the United States is equitably entitled, as determined by the Secretary, of the net amount recovered during any quarter by the State or any political subdivision thereof with respect to foster care and adoption assistance furnished under this subpart shall be considered an overpayment to be adjusted under this paragraph.

"(3) ALLOWANCE OR DISALLOWANCE OF CLAIM.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Within 60 days after receipt of a State claim for expenditures pursuant to paragraph (2)(A), the Secretary shall allow, disallow, or defer such claim.

"(B) NOTICE.—Within 15 days after a decision to defer a State claim, the Secretary shall notify the State of the reasons for the deferral and of the additional information necessary to determine the allowability of the claim.

"(C) DECISION.—Within 90 days after receiving such necessary information (in readily reviewable form), the Secretary shall—

"(i) disallow the claim, if able to complete the review and determine that the claim is not allowable; or

"(ii) in any other case, allow the claim, subject to disallowance (as necessary)—

"(I) upon completion of the review, if it is determined that the claim is not allowable; or

"(II) on the basis of findings of an audit or financial management review.

"(c) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section:

"(1) CHILD PROTECTION AMOUNT.—The term 'child protection amount' means—

"(A) $1,936,000,000 for fiscal year 1996;

"(B) $1,942,000,000 for fiscal year 1997;

"(C) $2,063,000,000 for fiscal year 1998;

"(D) $2,167,000,000 for fiscal year 1999;

"(E) $2,297,000,000 for fiscal year 2000;

"(F) $2,432,000,000 for fiscal year 2001; and

"(G) $2,593,000,000 for fiscal year 2002.

"(2) STATE SHARE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'State share' means the qualified child protection expenses of the State divided by the sum of the qualified child protection expenses of all of the States.

"(B) QUALIFIED CHILD PROTECTION EXPENSES.—The term 'qualified child protection expenses' means, with respect to a State the greater of—

"(i) the total amount of—

"(I) 1/3 of the total obligations to the State under the provisions of law specified in clauses (i), (ii), and (iii) of subparagraph (C) for fiscal years 1992, 1993, and 1994; and

"(II) 1/3 of the total claims submitted by the State (without regard to disputed claims) under the provision of law specified in subparagraph (C)(iv) for fiscal years 1992, 1993, and 1994; or

"(ii) the total amount of—

"(I) the total obligations to the State under the provisions of law specified in clauses (i), (ii), (iii), and (iv) of subparagraph (C) for fiscal years 1992, 1993, and 1994; and

"(II) the total claims submitted by the State (without regard to disputed claims) under the provision of law specified in subparagraph (C)(iv) for fiscal years 1992, 1993, and 1994; or and (iii) of subparagraph (C) for fiscal year 1995; and

"(II) the total claims submitted by the State (without regard to disputed claims) under the provision of law specified in subparagraph (C)(iv) for fiscal year 1995.

"(C) PROVISIONS OF LAW.—The provisions of law specified in this subparagraph are the following (as in effect on the day before the date of enactment of this subpart):

"(i) Section 434 of this Act.
"(ii) Section 474(a)(4) of this Act.
"(iii) Section 474(a)(3) of this Act.

"(d) USE OF GRANT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A State to which a grant is made under this section may use the grant in any manner that the State deems appropriate to accomplish the child protection goals of the State program funded under this subpart.

"(2) TIMING OF EXPENDITURES.—A State to which a grant is made under this section for a fiscal year shall expend the total amount of the grant not later than the end of the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"(3) RULE OF INTERPRETATION.—This subpart shall not be interpreted to prohibit short- and long-term foster care facilities operated for profit from receiving funds provided under this subpart.

"(e) TIMING OF PAYMENTS.—The Secretary shall pay each eligible State the amount of the grant payable to the State under this section in quarterly installments.

"(f) PENALTIES.—

"(1) FOR USE OF GRANT IN VIOLATION OF THIS SUBPART.—

If an audit conducted pursuant to chapter 75 of title 31, United States Code, finds that an amount paid to a State under this section for a fiscal year has been used in violation of this subpart, then the Secretary shall reduce the amount of the grant that would (in the absence of this paragraph) be payable to the State under this section for the immediately succeeding fiscal year by the amount so used, plus 5 percent of the grant paid under this section to the State for such fiscal year.

"(2) FOR FAILURE TO MAINTAIN EFFORT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If an audit conducted pursuant to chapter 75 of title 31, United States Code, finds that the amount expended by a State (other than from amounts provided by the Federal Government) during the fiscal years specified in subparagraph (B), to carry out the State program funded under this subpart is less than the applicable percentage specified in such subparagraph of the total amount expended by the State (other than from amounts provided by the Federal Government) during fiscal year 1995 under subpart 2 of part B and part E of this title (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this subpart), then the Secretary shall reduce the amount of the grant that would (in the absence of this paragraph) be payable to the State under this section for the immediately succeeding fiscal year by the amount of the difference, plus 5 percent of the grant paid under this section to the State for such fiscal year.
“(B) Specification of Fiscal Years and Applicable Percentages.—The fiscal years and applicable percentages specified in this subparagraph are as follows:

“(i) For fiscal years 1996 and 1997, 100 percent.
“(ii) For fiscal years 1998 through 2002, 75 percent.

“(3) For Failure to Submit Required Report.—
“(A) In General.—The Secretary shall reduce by 3 percent the amount of the grant that would (in the absence of this paragraph) be payable to a State under this section for a fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the State has not submitted the report required by section 436(b) for the immediately preceding fiscal year, within 6 months after the end of the immediately preceding fiscal year.
“(B) Rescission of Penalty.—The Secretary shall rescind a penalty imposed on a State under subparagraph (A) with respect to a report for a fiscal year if the State submits the report before the end of the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

“(4) For Failure to Comply with Sampling Methods Requirements.—The Secretary may reduce by not more than 1 percent the amount of the grant that would (in the absence of this paragraph) be payable to a State under this section for a succeeding fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the State has not complied with the Secretary’s sampling methods requirements under section 436(c)(2) during the prior fiscal year.

“(5) State Funds to Replace Reductions in Grant.—
A State which has a penalty imposed against it under this subsection for a fiscal year shall expend additional State funds in an amount equal to the amount of the penalty for the purpose of carrying out the State program under this subpart during the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

“(6) Reasonable Cause Exception.—The Secretary may not impose a penalty on a State under this subsection with respect to a requirement if the Secretary determines that the State has reasonable cause for failing to comply with the requirement.

“(7) Corrective Compliance Plan.—
“(A) In General.—
“(i) Notification of Violation.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Federal Government shall, before assessing a penalty against a State under this subsection, notify the State of the violation of law for which the penalty would be assessed and allow the State the opportunity to enter into a corrective compliance plan in accordance with this subsection which outlines how the State will correct any such violations and how the State will insure continuing compliance with the requirements of this subpart.
“(ii) 60-Day Period to Propose a Corrective Compliance Plan.—Any State notified under clause (i) shall have 60 days in which to submit to the Federal Government a corrective compliance plan to correct any violations described in clause (i).
“(iii) Acceptance of Plan.—The Federal Government shall have 60 days to accept or reject the State’s corrective compliance plan and may consult with the State during this period to modify the plan. If the Federal Government does not accept or reject the corrective compliance plan during the period, the corrective compliance plan shall be deemed to be accepted.

"(B) FAILURE TO CORRECT.—If a corrective compliance plan is accepted by the Federal Government, no penalty shall be imposed with respect to a violation described in this subsection if the State corrects the violation pursuant to the plan. If a State has not corrected the violation in a timely manner under the plan, some or all of the penalty shall be assessed.

"(8) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT OF PENALTY.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In imposing the penalties described in this subsection, the Secretary shall not reduce any quarterly payment to a State by more than 25 percent.

"(B) CARRYFORWARD OF UNRECOVERED PENALTIES.—To the extent that subparagraph (A) prevents the Secretary from recovering during a fiscal year the full amount of all penalties imposed on a State under this subsection for a prior fiscal year, the Secretary shall apply any remaining amount of such penalties to the grant payable to the State under section 431(a) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year.

"(g) TREATMENT OF TERRITORIES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A territory, as defined in section 1108(b)(1), shall carry out a child protection program in accordance with the provisions of this subpart.

"(2) PAYMENTS.—Each territory, as so defined, shall be entitled to receive from the Secretary for any fiscal year an amount, in accordance with section 1108, which shall be used for the purpose of carrying out a child protection program in accordance with the provisions of this subpart.

"(h) LIMITATION ON FEDERAL AUTHORITY.—Except as expressly provided in this Act, the Secretary may not regulate the conduct of States under this subpart or enforce any provision of this subpart.

"SEC. 432. REQUIREMENTS FOR FOSTER CARE MAINTENANCE PAYMENTS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—Each State operating a program under this subpart shall make foster care maintenance payments under section 431(b) with respect to a child who would meet the requirements of section 406(a) or of section 407 (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this subpart) but for the removal of the child from the home of a relative (specified in section 406(a) (as so in effect)), if—

"(1) the removal from the home occurred pursuant to a voluntary placement agreement entered into by the child's parent or legal guardian, or was the result of a judicial determination to the effect that continuation therein would be contrary to the welfare of such child and that reasonable efforts of the type described in section 430(a)(13) have been made;

"(2) such child's placement and care are the responsibility of—

"(A) the State; or
"(B) any other public agency with whom the State has made an agreement for the administration of the State program under this subpart which is still in effect;
"(3) such child has been placed in a foster family home or child-care institution as a result of the voluntary placement agreement or judicial determination referred to in paragraph (1); and
"(4) such child—
"(A) would have been eligible to receive aid under the eligibility standards under the State plan approved under section 402 (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this subpart and adjusted for inflation, in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary) in or for the month in which such agreement was entered into or court proceedings leading to the removal of such child from the home were initiated; or
"(B) would have received such aid in or for such month if application had been made therefore, or the child had been living with a relative specified in section 406(a) (as so in effect) within 6 months prior to the month in which such agreement was entered into or such proceedings were initiated, and would have received such aid in or for such month if in such month such child had been living with such a relative and application therefore had been made.
"(b) LIMITATION ON FOSTER CARE PAYMENTS.—Foster care maintenance payments may be made under this subpart only on behalf of a child described in subsection (a) of this section who is—
"(1) in the foster family home of an individual, whether the payments therefore are made to such individual or to a public or private child-placement or child-care agency; or
"(2) in a child-care institution, whether the payments therefore are made to such institution or to a public or private child-placement or child-care agency, which payments shall be limited so as to include in such payments only those items which are included in the term 'foster care maintenance payments' (as defined in section 437(6)).
"(c) VOLUNTARY PLACEMENTS.—
"(1) SATISFACTION OF CHILD PROTECTION STANDARDS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, Federal payments may be made under this subpart with respect to amounts expended by any State as foster care maintenance payments under this subpart, in the case of children removed from their homes pursuant to voluntary placement agreements as described in subsection (a), only if (at the time such amounts were expended) the State has fulfilled all of the requirements of section 435(b) or 430(a)(12).
"(2) REMOVAL IN EXCESS OF 180 DAYS.—No Federal payment may be made under this subpart with respect to amounts expended by any State as foster care maintenance payments, in the case of any child who was removed from such child's home pursuant to a voluntary placement agreement as described in subsection (a) and has remained in voluntary placement for a period in excess of 180 days, unless there has been a judicial determination by a court of competent jurisdiction (within the first 180 days of such placement) to the effect that such placement is in the best interests of the child.

"(3) DEEMED REVOCATION OF AGREEMENTS.—In any case where—

"(A) the placement of a minor child in foster care occurred pursuant to a voluntary placement agreement entered into by the parents or guardians of such child as provided in subsection (a); and

"(B) such parents or guardians request (in such manner and form as the Secretary may prescribe) that the child be returned to their home or to the home of a relative, the voluntary placement agreement shall be deemed to be revoked unless the State opposes such request and obtains a judicial determination, by a court of competent jurisdiction, that the return of the child to such home would be contrary to the child's best interests.

"SEC. 433. REQUIREMENTS FOR ADOPTION ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—A State operating a program under this subpart shall enter into adoption assistance agreements with the adoptive parents of children with special needs.

"(b) PAYMENTS UNDER AGREEMENTS.—Under any adoption assistance agreement entered into by a State with parents who adopt a child with special needs who meets the requirements of subsection (c), the State may make adoption assistance payments to such parents or through another public or nonprofit private agency, in amounts determined under subsection (d).

"(c) CHILDREN WITH SPECIAL NEEDS.—For purposes of subsection (b), a child meets the requirements of this subsection if such child—

"(1)(A) at the time adoption proceedings were initiated, met the requirements of section 406(a) or section 407 (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this subpart) or would have met such requirements except for such child's removal from the home of a relative (specified in section 406(a) (as so in effect)), either pursuant to a voluntary placement agreement with respect to which Federal payments are provided under section 431(b) (or 403 (as so in effect)) or as a result of a judicial determination to the effect that continuation therein would be contrary to the welfare of such child;

"(B) meets all of the requirements of title XVI with respect to eligibility for supplemental security income benefits;

"(C) is a child whose costs in a foster family home or child-care institution are covered by the foster care maintenance payments being made with respect to his or her minor parent;

"(2)(A) would have received aid under the eligibility standards under the State plan approved under section 402 (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this subpart, adjusted for inflation, in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary) in or for the month in which such agreement was entered into or court proceedings leading to the removal of such child from the home were initiated;

"(B) would have received such aid in or for such month if application had been made therefore, or had been living with a relative specified in section 406(a) (as so in effect) within 6 months prior to the month in which such agreement was entered into or such proceedings were initiated, and would have received such aid in or for such month if in such month such child had been living with such a relative and application therefore had been made; or

"(C) is a child described in subparagraph (A) or (B); and

"(3) has been determined by the State, pursuant to subsection (g) of this section, to be a child with special needs.

"(d) DETERMINATION OF PAYMENTS.—The amount of the payments to be made in any case under subsection (b) shall be determined through agreement between the adoptive parents and the State or a public or nonprofit private agency administering the program under this subpart, which shall take into consideration the circumstances of the adopting parents and the needs of the child being adopted, and may be readjusted periodically, with the concurrence of the adopting parents (which may be specified in the adoption assistance agreement), depending upon changes in such circumstances. However, in no case may the amount of the adoption assistance payment exceed the foster care maintenance payment which would have been paid during the period if the child with respect to whom the adoption assistance payment is made had been in a foster family home.

"(e) PAYMENT EXCEPTION.—Notwithstanding subsection (d), no payment may be made to parents with respect to any child who has attained the age of 18 (or, where the State determines that the child has a mental or physical disability which warrants the continuation of assistance, the age of 21), and no payment may be made to parents with respect to any child if the State determines that the parents are no longer legally responsible for the support of the child or if the State determines that the child is no longer receiving any support from such parents. Parents who have been receiving adoption assistance payments under this subpart shall keep the State or public or nonprofit private agency administering the program under this subpart informed of circumstances which would, pursuant to this section, make them ineligible for such assistance payments, or eligible for assistance payments in a different amount.

"(f) PRE-ADOPTION PAYMENTS.—For purposes of this subpart, individuals with whom a child who has been determined by the State, pursuant to subsection (g), to be a child with special needs is placed for adoption in accordance with applicable State and local law shall be eligible for adoption assistance payments during the period of the placement, on the same terms and subject to the same conditions as if such individuals had adopted such child.

"(g) DETERMINATION OF CHILD WITH SPECIAL NEEDS.—For purposes of this section, a child shall not be considered a child with special needs unless—

"(1) the State has determined that the child cannot or should not be returned to the home of the child's parents; and

"(2) the State had first determined—

"(A) that there exists with respect to the child a specific factor or condition such as the child's ethnic background, age, or membership in a minority or sibling group, or the presence of factors such as medical conditions or physical, mental, or emotional handicaps because of which it is reasonable to conclude that such child cannot be placed with adoptive parents without providing adoption assistance under this subpart or medical assistance under title
XIX or XXI; and

“(B) that, except where it would be against the best interests of the child because of such factors as the existence of significant emotional ties with prospective adoptive parents while in the care of such parents as a foster child, a reasonable, but unsuccessful, effort has been made to place the child with appropriate adoptive parents without providing adoption assistance under this section or medical assistance under title XIX or XXI.

“SEC. 434. CITIZEN REVIEW PANELS.

“(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—Each State to which a grant is made under section 431(a) shall establish at least 3 citizen review panels.

“(b) COMPOSITION.—Each panel established under subsection
(a) shall be broadly representative of the community from which drawn.

“(c) FREQUENCY OF MEETINGS.—Each panel established under subsection (a) shall meet not less frequently than quarterly.

“(d) DUTIES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Each panel established under subsection
(a) shall, by examining specific cases, determine the extent to which the State and local agencies responsible for carrying out activities under this subpart are doing so in accordance with the State plan, with the child protection standards set forth in section 430(a)(12) and 435, and with any other criteria that the panel considers important to ensure the protection of children.

“(2) CONFIDENTIALITY.—The members and staff of any panel established under subsection (a) shall not disclose to any person or government any information about any specific child protection case with respect to which the panel is provided information.

“(e) STATE ASSISTANCE.—Each State that establishes a panel under subsection (a) shall afford the panel access to any information on any case that the panel desires to review, and shall provide the panel with staff assistance in performing its duties.

“(f) REPORTS.—Each panel established under subsection (a) shall make a public report of its activities after each meeting.

“SEC. 435. FOSTER CARE PROTECTION REQUIRED FOR ADDITIONAL FEDERAL PAYMENTS.

“(a) REDUCTION OF GRANT.—A State shall not receive a grant under section 431(a) unless such State—

“(1) has conducted an inventory of all children who have been in foster care under the responsibility of the State for a period of 6 months preceding the inventory, and determined the appropriateness of, and necessity for, the current foster placement, whether the child can be or should be returned to his parents or should be freed for adoption, and the services necessary to facilitate either the return of the child or the placement of the child for adoption or legal guardianship; and “(2) has implemented and is operating to the satisfaction of the Secretary—

“(A) a statewide information system from which the status, demographic characteristics, location, and goals for the placement of every child in foster care or who has been in such care within the preceding 12 months can readily be determined:

"(B) a case review system (as defined in section 437(4)) for each child receiving foster care under the supervision of the State; and

"(C) a service program designed to help children, where appropriate, return to families from which they have been removed or be placed for adoption or legal guardianship.

"(b) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS.—A State shall not receive a grant under section 431(a) unless such State—

"(1) has completed an inventory of the type specified in subsection (a)(1);

"(2) has implemented and is operating the program and systems specified in subsection (a)(2); and

"(3) has implemented a preplacement preventive service program designed to help children remain with their families.

"(c) PRESUMPTION FOR EXPENDITURES.—Any amounts expended by a State for the purpose of complying with the requirements of subsection (a) or (b) shall be conclusively presumed to have been expended for child welfare services.

"SEC. 436. DATA COLLECTION AND REPORTING.

"(a) ANNUAL REPORTS ON STATE CHILD WELFARE GOALS.—On the date that is 3 years after the effective date of this subpart and annually thereafter, each State to which a grant is made under section 431(a) shall submit to the Secretary a report that contains quantitative information on the extent to which the State is making progress toward achieving the goals of the State child protection program.

"(b) STATE DATA REPORTS.—

"(1) BIANNUAL REPORTS.—Each State to which a grant is made under section 431(a) shall biannually submit to the Secretary a report that includes the following information with respect to each child within the State receiving publicly-supported child welfare services under the State program funded under this subpart:

"(A) Whether the child received services under the program funded under this subpart.

"(B) The age, gender, and family income of the parents and child.

"(C) The county of residence of the child.

"(D) Whether the child was removed from the family.

"(E) Whether the child entered foster care under the responsibility of the State.

"(F) The type of out-of-home care in which the child was placed (including institutional care, group home care, family foster care, or relative placement).

"(G) The child's permanency planning goal, such as family reunification, kinship care, adoption, or independent living.

"(H) Whether the child was released for adoption.

"(I) Whether the child exited from foster care, and, if so, the reason for the exit, such as return to family, placement with relatives, adoption, independent living, or death.

"(J) Other information as required by the Secretary and agreed to by a majority of the States, including information necessary to ensure a smooth transition of data from the Adoption and Foster Care Analysis and Reporting Systems and the National Center on Abuse and Neglect Data System to the data reporting system required under this section.
H. R. 2491—857

"(2) ANNUAL REPORTS.—Each State to which a grant is made under section 431(a) shall annually submit to the Secretary a report that includes the following information:

"(A) The number of children reported to the State during the year as alleged victims of abuse or neglect.

"(B) The number of children for whom an investigation of alleged maltreatment resulted in a determination of substantiated abuse or neglect, the number for whom a report of maltreatment was unsubstantiated, and the number for whom a report of maltreatment was determined to be false.

"(C) The number of families that received preventive services.

"(D) The number of infants abandoned during the year, the number of such infants who were adopted, and the length of time between abandonment and adoption.

"(E) The number of deaths of children resulting from child abuse or neglect.

"(F) The number of deaths occurring while children were in the custody of the State.

"(G) The number of children served by the State independent living program.

"(H) Quantitative measurements demonstrating whether the State is making progress toward the child protection goals identified by the State.

"(I) The types of maltreatment suffered by victims of child abuse and neglect.

"(J) The number of abused and neglected children receiving services.

"(K) The average length of stay of children in out-of-home care.

"(L) The response of the State to the findings and recommendations of the citizen review panels established under section 434.

"(M) Other information as required by the Secretary and agreed to by a majority of the States, including information necessary to ensure a smooth transition of data from the Adoption and Foster Care Analysis and Reporting Systems and the National Center on Abuse and Neglect Data System to the data reporting system required under this section.

"(c) AUTHORITY OF STATES TO USE ESTIMATES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A State may comply with a requirement to provide precise numerical information described in subsection (b) by submitting an estimate which is obtained through the use of scientifically acceptable sampling methods.

"(2) SECRETARIAL REVIEW OF SAMPLING METHODS.—The Secretary shall periodically review the sampling methods used by a State to comply with a requirement to provide information described in subsection (b). The Secretary may require a State to revise the sampling methods so used if such methods do not meet scientific standards and shall impose the penalty described in section 431(f)(4) upon a State if a State has not cомplied with such requirements.

"(d) SCOPE OF STATE PROGRAM FUNDED UNDER THIS SUBPART.—
As used in subsection (b), the term 'State program funded under this subpart' includes any equivalent State program.

"SEC. 437. DEFINITIONS.

"For purposes of this subpart, the following definitions shall apply:

"(1) ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW.—The term 'administrative review' means a review open to the participation of the parents of the child, conducted by a panel of appropriate persons at least one of whom is not responsible for the case management of, or the delivery of services to, either the child or the parents who are the subject of the review.

"(2) ADOPTION ASSISTANCE AGREEMENT.—The term 'adoption assistance agreement' means a written agreement, binding on the parties to the agreement, between the State, other relevant agencies, and the prospective adoptive parents of a minor child which at a minimum—

"(A) specifies the nature and amount of any payments, services, and assistance to be provided under such agreement; and

"(B) stipulates that the agreement shall remain in effect regardless of the State of which the adoptive parents are residents at any given time.

The agreement shall contain provisions for the protection (under an interstate compact approved by the Secretary or otherwise) of the interests of the child in cases where the adoptive parents and child move to another State while the agreement is effective.

"(3) CASE PLAN.—The term 'case plan' means a written document which includes at least the following:

"(A) A description of the type of home or institution in which a child is to be placed, including a discussion of the appropriateness of the placement and how the agency which is responsible for the child plans to carry out the voluntary placement agreement entered into or judicial determination made with respect to the child in accordance with section 432(a)(1).

"(B) A plan for assuring that the child receives proper care and that services are provided to the parents, child, and foster parents in order to improve the conditions in the parents' home, facilitate return of the child to his or her own home or the permanent placement of the child, and address the needs of the child while in foster care, including a discussion of the appropriateness of the services that have been provided to the child under the plan.

"(C) To the extent available and accessible, the health and education records of the child, including—

"(i) the names and addresses of the child's health and educational providers;

"(ii) the child's grade level performance;

"(iii) the child's school record;

"(iv) assurances that the child's placement in foster care takes into account proximity to the school in which the child is enrolled at the time of placement;
“(v) a record of the child’s immunizations;
“(vi) the child’s known medical problems;
“(vii) the child’s medications; and
“(viii) any other relevant health and education information concerning the child determined to be appropriate by the State.

Where appropriate, for a child age 16 or over, the case plan must also include a written description of the programs and services which will help such child prepare for the transition from foster care to independent living.

“(4) CASE REVIEW SYSTEM.—The term ‘case review system’ means a procedure for assuring that—

“(A) each child has a case plan designed to achieve placement in the least restrictive (most family like) and most appropriate setting available and in close proximity to the parents’ home, consistent with the best interest and special needs of the child, which—

“(i) if the child has been placed in a foster family home or child-care institution a substantial distance from the home of the parents of the child, or in a State different from the State in which such home is located, sets forth the reasons why such placement is in the best interests of the child; and

“(ii) if the child has been placed in foster care outside the State in which the home of the parents of the child is located, requires that, periodically, but not less frequently than every 12 months, a caseworker on the staff of the State in which the home of the parents of the child is located, or of the State in which the child has been placed, visit such child in such home or institution and submit a report on such visit to the State in which the home of the parents of the child is located;

“(B) the status of each child is reviewed periodically but no less frequently than once every 6 months by either a court or by administrative review (as defined in paragraph (1)) in order to determine the continuing necessity for and appropriateness of the placement, the extent of compliance with the case plan, and the extent of progress which has been made toward alleviating or mitigating the causes necessitating placement in foster care, and to project a likely date by which the child may be returned to the home or placed for adoption or legal guardianship;

“(C) with respect to each such child, procedural safeguards will be applied, among other things, to assure each child in foster care under the supervision of the State of a dispositional hearing to be held, in a family or juvenile court or another court (including a tribal court) of competent jurisdiction, or by an administrative body appointed or approved by the court, no later than 18 months after the original placement (and not less frequently than every 12 months thereafter during the continuation of foster care), which hearing shall determine the future status of the child (including whether the child should be returned to the parent, should be continued in foster care for a specified period, should be placed for adoption, or should (because of the child’s special needs or circumstances) be continued in foster care on a permanent or long-term basis) and, in the case of a child described in subparagraph (A)(ii), whether the out-of-State placement continues to be appropriate and in the best interests of the child, and, in the case of a child who has attained age 16, the services needed to assist the child to make the transition from foster care to independent living; and procedural safeguards shall also be applied with respect to parental rights pertaining to the removal of the child from the home of his parents, to a change in the child's placement, and to any determination affecting visitation privileges of parents; and

"(D) a child's health and education record (as described in paragraph (3)(C)) is reviewed and updated, and supplied to the foster parent or foster care provider with whom the child is placed, at the time of each placement of the child in foster care.

(5) CHILD-CARE INSTITUTION.—The term 'child-care institution' means a private child-care institution, or a public child-care institution which accommodates no more than 25 children, which is licensed by the State in which it is situated or has been approved, by the agency of such State responsible for licensing or approval of institutions of this type, as meeting the standards established for such licensing, but the term shall not include detention facilities, forestry camps, training schools, or any other facility operated primarily for the detention of children who are determined to be delinquent.

(6) FOSTER CARE MAINTENANCE PAYMENTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'foster care maintenance payments' means payments to cover the cost of (and the cost of providing) food, clothing, shelter, daily supervision, school supplies, a child's personal incidentals, liability insurance with respect to a child, and reasonable travel to the child's home for visitation. In the case of institutional care, such term shall include the reasonable costs of administration and operation of such institution as are necessarily required to provide the items described in the preceding sentence.

"(B) SPECIAL RULE.—In cases where—

"(i) a child placed in a foster family home or child-care institution is the parent of a son or daughter who is in the same home or institution; and

"(ii) payments described in subparagraph (A) are being made under this subpart with respect to such child, the foster care maintenance payments made with respect to such child as otherwise determined under subparagraph (A) shall also include such amounts as may be necessary to cover the cost of the items described in that subparagraph with respect to such son or daughter.

(7) FOSTER FAMILY HOME.—The term 'foster family home' means a foster family home for children which is licensed by the State in which it is situated or has been approved, by the agency of such State having responsibility for licensing homes of this type, as meeting the standards established for such licensing.

(8) STATE.—The term 'State' means the 50 States and the District of Columbia.
"(9) VOLUNTARY PLACEMENT.—The term 'voluntary placement' means an out-of-home placement of a minor, by or with participation of the State, after the parents or guardians of the minor have requested the assistance of the State and signed a voluntary placement agreement.

"(10) VOLUNTARY PLACEMENT AGREEMENT.—The term 'voluntary placement agreement' means a written agreement, binding on the parties to the agreement, between the State, any other agency acting on its behalf, and the parents or guardians of a minor child which specifies, at a minimum, the legal status of the child and the rights and obligations of the parents or guardians, the child, and the agency while the child is in placement.

SEC. 12702. CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.

(a) REPEAL OF PART E OF TITLE IV OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT.—Part E of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 671–679) is hereby repealed.

(b) REPEAL OF SECTION 13712 OF THE OMNIBUS BUDGET RECONCILIATION ACT OF 1993.—Section 13712 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 (42 U.S.C. 670 note) is hereby repealed.

(c) REPEAL OF SECTION 435.—Section 435 of the Social Security Act, as amended by section 12701, is repealed on April 1, 1996.

SEC. 12703. EFFECTIVE DATE; TRANSITION RULE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, this subtitle and the amendments made by this subtitle shall take effect as if enacted on October 1, 1995.

(b) TRANSITION RULE.—

(1) STATE OPTION TO CONTINUE PROGRAMS.—

(A) 9-MONTH EXTENSION.—A State may continue the State programs under subpart 2 of part B and part E of title IV of the Social Security Act, as in effect on September 30, 1995 (for purposes of this paragraph, the "State programs") until June 30, 1996.

(B) NO INDIVIDUAL OR FAMILY ENTITLEMENT UNDER CONTINUED STATE PROGRAMS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law or any rule of law, no individual or family is entitled to aid under the State programs of any State on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(C) LIMITATIONS ON FEDERAL OBLIGATIONS.—If a State elects to continue the State programs pursuant to subparagraph (A), the total obligations of the Federal Government to the State under subpart 2 of part B and part E of title IV of the Social Security Act (as such subpart and part are in effect on September 30, 1995) after the date of the enactment of this Act shall not exceed an amount equal to—

(i) the grant to the State under section 431(a)

(as in effect pursuant to the amendment made by section 12701 of this Act)); minus

(ii) any obligations of the Federal Government to the State under such subpart and part (as in effect on September 30, 1995) with respect to expenditures by the State during the period that begins on October 1, 1995, and ends on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act.
(D) Submission of State Plan for Fiscal Year 1996 Deemed Acceptance of Grant Limitations and Formula.—The submission of a plan by a State under section 430(a) of the Social Security Act (as in effect pursuant to the amendment made by section 12701 of this Act) for fiscal year 1996 is deemed to constitute the State's acceptance of the grant reduction under subparagraph (C) of this paragraph (including the formula for computing the amount of the reduction).

(2) Claims, Actions, and Proceedings.—The amendments made by this subtitle shall not apply with respect to—
   (A) powers, duties, functions, rights, claims, penalties, or obligations applicable to aid, assistance, or services provided before the effective date of this subtitle under the provisions amended; and
   (B) administrative actions and proceedings commenced before such date, or authorized before such date to be commenced, under such provisions.

(3) Closing Out Account for Those Programs Terminated or Substantially Modified by This Subtitle.—In closing out accounts, Federal and State officials may use scientifically acceptable statistical sampling techniques. Claims made under programs which are repealed or substantially amended in this subtitle and which involve State expenditures in cases where assistance or services were provided during a prior fiscal year, shall be treated as expenditures during fiscal year 1995 for purposes of reimbursement even if payment was made by a State on or after October 1, 1995. States shall complete the filing of all claims no later than September 30, 1997. Federal department heads shall—
   (A) use the single audit procedure to review and resolve any claims in connection with the close out of programs; and
   (B) reimburse States for any payments made for assistance or services provided during a prior fiscal year from funds for fiscal year 1995, rather than the funds authorized by this subtitle.

Subtitle H—Child Care

SEC. 12801. SHORT TITLE AND REFERENCES.

(a) Short Title.—This subtitle may be cited as the "Child Care and Development Block Grant Amendments of 1995".

(b) References.—Except as otherwise expressly provided, whenever in this subtitle an amendment or repeal is expressed in terms of an amendment to, or repeal of, a section or other provision, the reference shall be considered to be made to a section or other provision of the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 9858 et seq.).

SEC. 12802. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS AND ENTITLEMENT AUTHORITY.

(a) In General.—Section 658B (42 U.S.C. 9858) is amended to read as follows:
Subtitle J—Food Stamps and Commodity Distribution

SEC. 13001. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the "Food Stamp Reform and Commodity Distribution Act of 1995".

CHAPTER 1—FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

SEC. 13011. DEFINITION OF CERTIFICATION PERIOD.

Section 3(c) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2012(c)) is amended by striking "Except as provided" and all that follows and inserting the following: "The certification period shall not exceed 12 months, except that the certification period may be up to 24 months if all adult household members are elderly or disabled. (B) in paragraph (2), by striking subparagraph (C) and inserting the following:

"(C) a payment or allowance described in subsection (d)(11);"; and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

"(4) THIRD-PARTY ENERGY ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS.—

"(A) ENERGY ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS.—For purposes of subsection (d)(1), a payment made under a Federal or State law to provide energy assistance to a household shall be considered money payable directly to the household.

"(B) ENERGY ASSISTANCE EXPENSES.—For purposes of subsection (e)(7), an expense paid on behalf of a household under a Federal or State law to provide energy assistance shall be considered an out-of-pocket expense incurred and paid by the household."

(2) Section 2605(f) of the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Act of 1981 (42 U.S.C. 8624(f)) is amended—

(A) by striking '(f)(1) Notwithstanding" and inserting "(f) Notwithstanding";

(B) in paragraph (1), by striking "food stamps,"; and

(C) by striking paragraph (2).

SEC. 13020. DEDUCTIONS FROM INCOME.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 5 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2014) is amended by striking subsection (e) and inserting the following:

"(e) DEDUCTIONS FROM INCOME.—

"(1) STANDARD DEDUCTION.—The Secretary shall allow a standard deduction for each household in the 48 contiguous States and the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States of $134, $229, $189, $269, and $118, respectively.

"(2) EARNED INCOME DEDUCTION.—

"(A) DEFINITION OF EARNED INCOME.—In this paragraph, the term 'earned income' does not include income excluded by subsection (d) or any portion of income earned under a work supplementation or support program, as defined under section 16(b), that is attributable to public assistance.

"(B) DEDUCTION.—Except as provided in subparagraph (C), a household with earned income shall be allowed a deduction of 20 percent of all earned income (other than income excluded by subsection (d)) to compensate for taxes, other mandatory deductions from salary, and work expenses.
“(C) EXCEPTION.—The deduction described in subparagraph (B) shall not be allowed with respect to determining an overissuance due to the failure of a household to report earned income in a timely manner.

“(3) DEPENDENT CARE DEDUCTION.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—A household shall be entitled, with respect to expenses (other than excluded expenses described in subparagraph (B)) for dependent care, to a dependent care deduction, the maximum allowable level of which shall be $200 per month for each dependent child under 2 years of age and $175 per month for each other dependent, for the actual cost of payments necessary for the care of a dependent if the care enables a household member to accept or continue employment, or training or education that is preparatory for employment.

“(B) EXCLUDED EXPENSES.—The excluded expenses referred to in subparagraph (A) are—

“(i) expenses paid on behalf of the household by a third party;

“(ii) amounts made available and excluded for the expenses referred to in subparagraph (A) under subsection (d)(3); and “(iii) expenses that are paid under section 6(d)(4).

“(4) DEDUCTION FOR CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—A household shall be entitled to a deduction for child support payments made by a household member to or for an individual who is not a member of the household if the household member is legally obligated to make the payments.

“(B) METHODS FOR DETERMINING AMOUNT.—The Secretary may prescribe by regulation the methods, including calculation on a retrospective basis, that a State agency shall use to determine the amount of the deduction for child support payments.

“(5) HOMELESS SHELTER ALLOWANCE.—A State agency may develop a standard homeless shelter allowance, which shall not exceed $139 per month, for such expenses as may reasonably be expected to be incurred by households in which all members are homeless individuals but are not receiving free shelter throughout the month. A State agency that develops the allowance may use the allowance in determining eligibility and allotments for the households, except that the State agency may prohibit the use of the allowance for households with extremely low shelter costs.

“(6) EXCESS MEDICAL EXPENSE DEDUCTION.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—A household containing an elderly or disabled member shall be entitled, with respect to expenses other than expenses paid on behalf of the household by a third party, to an excess medical expense deduction for the portion of the actual costs of allowable medical expenses, incurred by the elderly or disabled member, exclusive of special diets, that exceeds $35 per month.

“(B) METHOD OF CLAIMING DEDUCTION.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A State agency shall offer an eligible household under subparagraph (A) a method of claiming a deduction for recurring medical expenses that are initially verified under the excess medical expense deduction in lieu of submitting information or verification on actual expenses on a monthly basis.

"(ii) METHOD.—The method described in clause (i) shall—

"(I) be designed to minimize the burden for the eligible elderly or disabled household member choosing to deduct the recurrent medical expenses of the member pursuant to the method;

"(II) rely on reasonable estimates of the expected medical expenses of the member for the certification period (including changes that can be reasonably anticipated based on available information about the medical condition of the member, public or private medical insurance coverage, and the current verified medical expenses incurred by the member); and

"(III) not require further reporting or verification of a change in medical expenses if such a change has been anticipated for the certification period.

"(7) EXCESS SHELTER EXPENSE DEDUCTION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A household shall be entitled, with respect to expenses other than expenses paid on behalf of the household by a third party, to an excess shelter expense deduction to the extent that the monthly amount expended by a household for shelter exceeds an amount equal to 50 percent of monthly household income after all other applicable deductions have been allowed.

"(B) MAXIMUM AMOUNT OF DEDUCTION.—In the case of a household that does not contain an elderly or disabled individual, the excess shelter expense deduction shall not exceed—

"(i) in the 48 contiguous States and the District of Columbia, $247 per month; and

"(ii) in Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States, $429, $353, $300, and $182 per month, respectively.

"(C) STANDARD UTILITY ALLOWANCE.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—In computing the excess shelter expense deduction, a State agency may use a standard utility allowance in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Secretary, except that a State agency may use an allowance that does not fluctuate within a year to reflect seasonal variations.

"(ii) RESTRICTIONS ON HEATING AND COOLING EXPENSES.—An allowance for a heating or cooling expense may not be used in the case of a household that—"(I) does not incur a heating or cooling expense, as the case may be;

"(II) does incur a heating or cooling expense but is located in a public housing unit that has central utility meters and charges households, with regard to the expense, only for excess utility costs; or

"(III) shares the expense with, and lives with, another individual not participating in the food stamp program, another household participating in the food stamp program, or both, unless the allowance is prorated between the household and the other individual, household, or both.

"(iii) MANDATORY ALLOWANCE.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—A State agency may make the use of a standard utility allowance mandatory for all households with qualifying utility costs if—

"(aa) the State agency has developed 1 or more standards that include the cost of heating and cooling and 1 or more standards that do not include the cost of heating and cooling; and

"(bb) the Secretary finds that the standards will not result in an increased cost to the Secretary.

"(II) HOUSEHOLD ELECTION.—A State agency that has not made the use of a standard utility allowance mandatory under subclause (I) shall allow a household to switch, at the end of a certification period, between the standard utility allowance and a deduction based on the actual utility costs of the household.

"(iv) AVAILABILITY OF ALLOWANCE TO RECIPIENTS OF ENERGY ASSISTANCE.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subclause (II), if a State agency elects to use a standard utility allowance that reflects heating or cooling costs, the standard utility allowance shall be made available to households receiving a payment, or on behalf of which a payment is made, under the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Act of 1981 (42 U.S.C. 8621 et seq.) or other similar energy assistance program, if the household still incurs out-of-pocket heating or cooling expenses in excess of any assistance paid on behalf of the household to an energy provider.

"(II) SEPARATE ALLOWANCE.—A State agency may use a separate standard utility allowance for households on behalf of which a payment described in subclause (I) is made, but may not be required to do so.

"(III) STATES NOT ELECTING TO USE SEPARATE ALLOWANCE.—A State agency that does not elect to use a separate allowance but makes a single standard utility allowance available to households incurring heating or cooling expenses (other than a household described in subclause (I) or (II) of subparagraph (C)(ii)) may not be required to reduce the allowance due to the provision (directly or indirectly) of assistance under the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Act of 1981 (42 U.S.C. 8621 et seq.).

"(IV) PRORATION OF ASSISTANCE.—For the purpose of the food stamp program, assistance provided under the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Act of 1981 (42 U.S.C. 8621 et seq.) shall be considered to be prorated over the entire heating or cooling season for which the assistance was provided."

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 11(e)(3) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 2020(e)(3)) is amended by striking ". Under rules prescribed" and all that follows through "verifies higher expenses".

Section 5(g) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2014(g)) is amended by striking paragraph (2) and inserting the following:

"(2) INCLUDED ASSETS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the other provisions of this paragraph, the Secretary shall, in prescribing inclusions in, and exclusions from, financial resources, follow the regulations in force as of June 1, 1982 (other than those relating to licensed vehicles and inaccessible resources).

"(B) ADDITIONAL INCLUDED ASSETS.—The Secretary shall include in financial resources—

"(i) any boat, snowmobile, or airplane used for recreational purposes;

"(ii) any vacation home;

"(iii) any mobile home used primarily for vacation purposes;

"(iv) subject to subparagraph (C), any licensed vehicle that is used for household transportation or to obtain or continue employment to the extent that the fair market value of the vehicle exceeds $4,600; and

"(v) any savings or retirement account (including an individual account), regardless of whether there is a penalty for early withdrawal.

"(C) EXCLUDED VEHICLES.—A vehicle (and any other property, real or personal, to the extent the property is directly related to the maintenance or use of the vehicle) shall not be included in financial resources under this paragraph if the vehicle is—

"(i) used to produce earned income;

"(ii) is necessary for the transportation of a physically disabled household member; or

"(iii) is depended on by a household to carry fuel for heating or water for home use and provides the primary source of fuel or water, respectively, for the household.".

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6(d) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015(d)) is amended by striking "(d)(1) Unless otherwise exempted by the provisions" and all that follows through the end of paragraph (1) and inserting the following:
"(d) CONDITIONS OF PARTICIPATION.—

"(I) WORK REQUIREMENTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—No physically and mentally fit individual over the age of 15 and under the age of 60 shall be eligible to participate in the food stamp program if the individual—
"(i) refuses, at the time of application and every 12 months thereafter, to register for employment in a manner prescribed by the Secretary;
"(ii) refuses without good cause to participate in an employment and training program under paragraph (4), to the extent required by the State agency;
"(iii) refuses without good cause to accept an offer of employment, at a site or plant not subject to a strike or lockout at the time of the refusal, at a wage not less than the higher of—
"(I) the applicable Federal or State minimum wage; or
"(II) 80 percent of the wage that would have governed had the minimum hourly rate under section 6(a)(1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 206(a)(1)) been applicable to the offer of employment;
"(iv) refuses without good cause to provide a State agency with sufficient information to allow the State agency to determine the employment status or the job availability of the individual;
"(v) voluntarily and without good cause—
"(I) quits a job; or
"(II) reduces work effort and, after the reduction, the individual is working less than 30 hours per week; or
"(vi) fails to comply with section 20.

"(B) HOUSEHOLD INELIGIBILITY.—If an individual who is the head of a household becomes ineligible to participate in the food stamp program under subparagraph (A), the household shall, at the option of the State agency, become ineligible to participate in the food stamp program for a period, determined by the State agency, that does not exceed the lesser of—

"(i) the duration of the ineligibility of the individual determined under subparagraph (C); or

"(ii) 180 days.

"(C) DURATION OF INELIGIBILITY.—

"(i) FIRST VIOLATION.—The first time that an individual becomes ineligible to participate in the food stamp program under subparagraph (A), the individual shall remain ineligible until the later of—

"(I) the date the individual becomes eligible under subparagraph (A);

"(II) the date that is 1 month after the date the individual became ineligible; or

"(III) a date determined by the State agency that is not later than 3 months after the date the individual became ineligible.

"(ii) SECOND VIOLATION.—The second time that an individual becomes ineligible to participate in the food stamp program under subparagraph (A), the individual shall remain ineligible until the later of—

"(I) the date the individual becomes eligible under subparagraph (A);

"(II) the date that is 3 months after the date the individual became ineligible; or

"(III) a date determined by the State agency that is not later than 6 months after the date the individual became ineligible.

"(iii) THIRD OR SUBSEQUENT VIOLATION.—The third or subsequent time that an individual becomes ineligible to participate in the food stamp program under subparagraph (A), the individual shall remain ineligible until the later of—

"(I) the date the individual becomes eligible under subparagraph (A);

"(II) the date that is 6 months after the date the individual became ineligible;

"(III) a date determined by the State agency;

or

"(IV) at the option of the State agency, permanently.

"(D) ADMINISTRATION.—

"(i) GOOD CAUSE.—The Secretary shall determine the meaning of good cause for the purpose of this paragraph.

"(ii) VOLUNTARY QUIT.—The Secretary shall determine the meaning of voluntarily quitting and reducing work effort for the purpose of this paragraph.

"(iii) DETERMINATION BY STATE AGENCY.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subclause (II) and clauses (i) and (ii), a State agency shall determine—

"(aa) the meaning of any term in subparagraph (A);
(bb) the procedures for determining whether an individual is in compliance with a requirement under subparagraph (A); and

(cc) whether an individual is in compliance with a requirement under subparagraph (A).

(II) NOT LESS RESTRICTIVE.—A State agency may not determine a meaning, procedure, or determination under subclause (I) to be less restrictive than a comparable meaning, procedure, or determination under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.).

(iv) STRIKE AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.—For the purpose of subparagraph (A)(v), an employee of the Federal Government, a State, or a political subdivision of a State, who is dismissed for participating in a strike against the Federal Government, the State, or the political subdivision of the State shall be considered to have voluntarily quit without good cause.

(v) SELECTING A HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—For the purpose of this paragraph, the State agency shall allow the household to select any adult parent of a child in the household as the head of the household if all adult household members making application under the food stamp program agree to the selection.

(II) TIME FOR MAKING DESIGNATION.—A household may designate the head of the household under subclause (I) each time the household is certified for participation in the food stamp program, but may not change the designation during a certification period unless there is a change in the composition of the household.

(vi) CHANGE IN HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD.—If the head of a household leaves the household during a period in which the household is ineligible to participate in the food stamp program under subparagraph (B)—

(I) the household shall, if otherwise eligible, become eligible to participate in the food stamp program; and

(II) if the head of the household becomes the head of another household, the household that becomes headed by the individual shall become ineligible to participate in the food stamp program for the remaining period of ineligibility.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—

“(l) CUSTODIAL PARENT’S COOPERATION WITH CHILD SUPPORT AGENCIES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—At the option of a State agency, subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), no natural or adoptive parent or other individual (collectively referred to in this subsection as ‘the individual’) who is living with and exercising parental control over a child under the age of 18 who has an absent parent shall be eligible to participate in the food stamp program unless the individual cooperates with the State agency administering the program established under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.)—

“(A) in establishing the paternity of the child (if the child is born out of wedlock); and

“(B) in obtaining support for—

“(i) the child; or

“(ii) the individual and the child.

“(2) GOOD CAUSE FOR NONCOOPERATION.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to the individual if good cause is found for refusing to cooperate, as determined by the State agency in accordance with standards prescribed by the Secretary in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services. The standards shall take into consideration circumstances under which cooperation may be against the best interests of the child.

“(3) FEES.—Paragraph (1) shall not require the payment of a fee or other cost for services provided under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.).

“(m) NON-CUSTODIAL PARENT’S COOPERATION WITH CHILD SUPPORT AGENCIES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—At the option of a State agency, subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), a putative or identified non-custodial parent of a child under the age of 18 (referred to in this subsection as ‘the individual’) shall not be eligible to participate in the food stamp program if the individual refuses to cooperate with the State agency administering the program established under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C.
651 et seq.)—

"(A) in establishing the paternity of the child (if the child is born out of wedlock); and
"(B) in providing support for the child.

"(2) REFUSAL TO COOPERATE.—

"(A) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, shall develop guidelines on what constitutes a refusal to cooperate under paragraph (1).

"(B) PROCEDURES.—The State agency shall develop procedures, using guidelines developed under subparagraph (A), for determining whether an individual is refusing to cooperate under paragraph (1).

"(3) FEES.—Paragraph (1) shall not require the payment of a fee or other cost for services provided under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.).

"(4) PRIVACY.—The State agency shall provide safeguards to restrict the use of information collected by a State agency administering the program established under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.) to purposes for which the information is collected.”.

after subsection (m) the following:

"(n) DISQUALIFICATION FOR CHILD SUPPORT ARREARS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—No individual shall be eligible to participate in the food stamp program as a member of any household during any month that the individual is delinquent in any payment due under a court order for the support of a child of the individual.

"(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply if—

"(A) a court is allowing the individual to delay payment; or
"(B) the individual is complying with a payment plan approved by a court or the State agency designated under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C.
651 et seq.) to provide support for the child of the individual.”.

SEC. 13033. WORK REQUIREMENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977
(7 U.S.C. 2015), as amended by section 13032, is further amended by inserting after subsection (n) the following:

"(o) WORK REQUIREMENT.—

"(1) DEFINITION OF WORK PROGRAM.—In this subsection, the term 'work program' means—

"(A) a program under the Job Training Partnership Act (29 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.);
"(B) a program under section 236 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2296); or
"(C) a program of employment or training operated or supervised by a State or political subdivision of a State that meets standards approved by the Governor of the State, including a program under section 6(d)(4), other than a job search program or a job search training program.

(2) Work Requirement.—Subject to the other provisions of this subsection, no individual shall be eligible to participate in the food stamp program as a member of any household if, during the preceding 12-month period, the individual received food stamp benefits for not less than 4 months during which the individual did not—

(A) work 20 hours or more per week, averaged monthly; or

(B) participate in and comply with the requirements of a work program for 20 hours or more per week, as determined by the State agency; or

(C) participate in a program under section 20 or a comparable program established by a State or political subdivision of a State.

(3) Exception.—Paragraph (2) shall not apply to an individual if the individual is—

(A) under 18 or over 50 years of age;

(B) medically certified as physically or mentally unfit for employment;

(C) a parent or other member of a household with responsibility for a dependent child;

(D) otherwise exempt under section 6(d)(2); or

(E) a pregnant woman.

(4) Waiver.—

(A) In General.—On the request of a State agency, the Secretary may waive the applicability of paragraph (2) to any group of individuals in the State if the Secretary makes a determination that the area in which the individuals reside—

(i) has an unemployment rate of over 10 percent; or

(ii) does not have a sufficient number of jobs to provide employment for the individuals.

(B) Report.—The Secretary shall report the basis for a waiver under subparagraph (A) to the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry of the Senate.

(5) Subsequent Eligibility.—

(A) In General.—Paragraph (2) shall cease to apply to an individual if, during a 30-day period, the individual—

(i) works 80 or more hours;

(ii) participates in and complies with the requirements of a work program for 80 or more hours, as determined by a State agency; or

(iii) participates in a program under section 20 or a comparable program established by a State or political subdivision of a State.

(B) Limitation.—During the subsequent 12-month period, the individual shall be eligible to participate in the food stamp program for not more than 4 months during which the individual does not—

(i) work 20 hours or more per week, averaged monthly;
(ii) participate in and comply with the requirements of a work program for 20 hours or more per week, as determined by the State agency; or

(iii) participate in a program under section 20 or a comparable program established by a State or political subdivision of a State."

(b) TRANSITION PROVISION.—Prior to 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the term "preceding 12-month period" in section 6(o) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended by subsection (a), means the preceding period that begins on the date of enactment of this Act.

The first sentence of section 19(a)(1)(A) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2028(a)(1)(A)) is amended by striking “$974,000,000” and all that follows through “fiscal year 1995” and inserting “$1,143,000,000 for each of fiscal years 1995 and 1996, $1,182,000,000 for fiscal year 1997, $1,223,000,000 for fiscal year 1998, $1,266,000,000 for fiscal year 1999, $1,310,000,000 for fiscal year 2000, $1,357,000,000 for fiscal year 2001, and $1,404,000,000 for fiscal year 2002”.

SEC. 13055. SIMPLIFIED FOOD STAMP PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Act (7 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 24. SIMPLIFIED FOOD STAMP PROGRAM.

“(a) DEFINITION OF FEDERAL COSTS.—In this section, the term ‘Federal costs’ does not include any Federal costs incurred under section 17.
“(b) ELECTION.—Subject to subsection (d), a State agency may elect to carry out a Simplified Food Stamp Program (referred to in this section as a ‘Program’) in accordance with this section.
“(c) OPERATION OF PROGRAM.—If a State agency elects to carry out a Program, within the State or a political subdivision of the State—
“(1) a household in which all members receive assistance under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) shall automatically be eligible to participate in the Program; and
“(2) subject to subsection (f), benefits under the Program shall be determined under rules and procedures established by the State under—“(A) a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.);
“(B) the food stamp program (other than section 25);

or
“(C) a combination of a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C.
H. R. 2491—910

601 et seq.) and the food stamp program (other than section 25).

"(d) APPROVAL OF PROGRAM.—

"(1) STATE PLAN.—A State agency may not operate a Program unless the Secretary approves a State plan for the operation of the Program under paragraph (2).

"(2) APPROVAL OF PLAN.—The Secretary shall approve any State plan to carry out a Program if the Secretary determines that the plan—

"(A) complies with this section; and

"(B) contains sufficient documentation that the plan will not increase Federal costs for any fiscal year.

"(e) INCREASED FEDERAL COSTS.—

"(1) DETERMINATION.—During each fiscal year and not later than 90 days after the end of each fiscal year, the Secretary shall determine whether a Program being carried out by a State agency is increasing Federal costs under this Act above the Federal costs incurred under the food stamp program in operation in the State or political subdivision of the State for the fiscal year prior to the implementation of the Program, adjusted for any changes in—

"(A) participation;

"(B) the income of participants in the food stamp program that is not attributable to public assistance; and

"(C) the thrifty food plan under section 3(o).

"(2) NOTIFICATION.—If the Secretary determines that the Program has increased Federal costs under this Act for any fiscal year or any portion of any fiscal year, the Secretary shall notify the State agency not later than 30 days after the Secretary makes the determination under paragraph (1).

"(3) ENFORCEMENT.—

"(A) CORRECTIVE ACTION.—Not later than 90 days after the date of a notification under paragraph (2), the State agency shall submit a plan for approval by the Secretary for prompt corrective action that is designed to prevent the Program from increasing Federal costs under this Act.

"(B) TERMINATION.—If the State agency does not submit a plan under subparagraph (A) or carry out a plan approved by the Secretary, the Secretary shall terminate the approval of the State agency to operate a Program and the State agency shall be ineligible to operate a future Program.

"(f) RULES AND PROCEDURES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In operating a Program, a State or political subdivision of a State may follow the rules and procedures established by the State or political subdivision under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) or under the food stamp program.

"(2) STANDARDIZED DEDUCTIONS.—In operating a Program, a State may standardize the deductions provided under section 5(e). In developing the standardized deduction, the State shall consider the work expenses, dependent care costs, and shelter costs of participating households.

"(3) REQUIREMENTS.—In operating a Program, a State or political subdivision shall comply with the requirements of—"(A) subsections (a) through (g) of section 7; “(B) section 8(a) (except that the income of a household may be determined under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.));

“(C) subsection (b) and (d) of section 8;
“(D) subsections (a), (c), (d), and (n) of section 11;
“(E) paragraphs (8), (12), (17), (19), (21), (26), and (27) of section 11(e); “(F) section 11(e)(10) (or a comparable requirement established by the State under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.)); and “(G) section 16.
“(4) LIMITATION ON ELIGIBILITY.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a household may not receive benefits under this section as a result of the eligibility of the household under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), unless the Secretary determines that any household with income above 130 percent of the poverty guidelines is not eligible for the program.”.

(b) STATE PLAN PROVISIONS.—Section 11(e) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 2020(e)), as amended by section 13028(b), is further amended by adding at the end the following:
“(27) if a State agency elects to carry out a Simplified Food Stamp Program under section 24, the plans of the State agency for operating the program, including—
“(A) the rules and procedures to be followed by the State to determine food stamp benefits;
“(B) how the State will address the needs of households that experience high shelter costs in relation to the incomes of the households; and
“(C) a description of the method by which the State will carry out a quality control system under section 16(c).”.

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—
(1) Section 8 of the Act (7 U.S.C. 2017), as amended by section 13039, is further amended—
(A) by striking subsection (e); and
(B) by redesignating subsection (f) as subsection (e).
(2) Section 17 of the Act (7 U.S.C. 2026) is amended—
(A) by striking subsection (i); and
(B) by redesignating subsections (j) through (l) as subsections (i) through (k), respectively.

SEC. 13056. STATE FOOD ASSISTANCE BLOCK GRANT.
(a) IN GENERAL.—The Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.), as amended by section 13055, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 25. STATE FOOD ASSISTANCE BLOCK GRANT.
“(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:
“(1) FOOD ASSISTANCE.—The term ‘food assistance’ means assistance that may be used only to obtain food, as defined in section 3(g).
“(2) STATE.—The term ‘State’ means each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States.
(b) Establishment.—The Secretary shall establish a program to make grants to States in accordance with this section to provide—

'(1) food assistance to needy individuals and families residing in the State; and

'(2) funds for administrative costs incurred in providing the assistance.

(c) Election.—

'(1) In general.—A State may annually elect to participate in the program established under subsection (b) if the State—

'(A) has fully implemented an electronic benefit transfer system that operates in the entire State;

'(B) has a payment error rate under section 16(c) that is not more than 6 percent as announced most recently by the Secretary; or

'(C) has a payment error rate in excess of 6 percent and agrees to contribute non-Federal funds for the fiscal year of the grant, for benefits and administration of the State's food assistance program, the amount determined under paragraph (2).

'(2) State mandatory contributions.—

'(A) In general.—In the case of a State that elects to participate in the program under paragraph (1)(C), the State shall agree to contribute, for a fiscal year, an amount equal to—

'(i) the benefits issued in the State; multiplied by

'(ii) the payment error rate of the State; minus

'(B) the benefits issued in the State; multiplied by

'(ii) 6 percent.

'(B) Determination.—Notwithstanding sections 13 and 14, the calculation of the contribution shall be based solely on the determination of the Secretary of the payment error rate.

'(C) Data.—For purposes of implementing subparagraph (A) for a fiscal year, the Secretary shall use the data for the most recent fiscal year available.

'(3) Election limitation.—

'(A) Re-entering Food Stamp Program.—A State that elects to participate in the program under paragraph (1) may in a subsequent year decline to elect to participate in the program and instead participate in the food stamp program in accordance with the other sections of this Act.

'(B) Limitation.—Subsequent to re-entering the food stamp program under subparagraph (A), the State shall only be eligible to participate in the food stamp program in accordance with the other sections of this Act and shall not be eligible to elect to participate in the program established under subsection (b).

'(4) Program exclusive.—

'(A) In general.—A State that is participating in the program established under subsection (b) shall not be subject to, or receive any benefit under, this Act except as provided in this section.

'(B) Contract with Federal Government.—Nothing in this section shall prohibit a State from contracting with the Federal Government for the provision of services or materials necessary to carry out a program under this section.
“(d) LEAD AGENCY.—A State desiring to receive a grant under this section shall designate, in an application submitted to the Secretary under subsection (e)(1), an appropriate State agency responsible for the administration of the program under this section as the lead agency.

“(e) APPLICATION AND PLAN.—

“(1) APPLICATION.—To be eligible to receive assistance under this section, a State shall prepare and submit to the Secretary an application at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary shall by regulation require, including—

“(A) an assurance that the State will comply with the requirements of this section;

“(B) a State plan that meets the requirements of paragraph (3); and “(C) an assurance that the State will comply with the requirements of the State plan under paragraph (3).

“(2) ANNUAL PLAN.—The State plan contained in the application under paragraph (1) shall be submitted for approval annually.

“(3) REQUIREMENTS OF PLAN.—

“(A) LEAD AGENCY.—The State plan shall identify the lead agency.

“(B) USE OF BLOCK GRANT FUNDS.—The State plan shall provide that the State shall use the amounts provided to the State for each fiscal year under this section—

“(i) to provide food assistance to needy individuals and families residing in the State, other than residents of institutions who are ineligible for food stamps under section 3(i); and “(ii) to pay administrative costs incurred in providing the assistance.

“(C) GROUPS SERVED.—The State plan shall describe how and to what extent the program will serve specific groups of individuals and families and how the treatment will differ from treatment under the food stamp program under the other sections of this Act of the individuals and families, including—

“(i) elderly individuals and families;

“(ii) migrants or seasonal farmworkers;

“(iii) homeless individuals and families;

“(iv) individuals and families who live in institutions eligible under section 3(i);

“(v) individuals and families with earnings; and

“(vi) members of Indian tribes or tribal organizations.

“(D) ASSISTANCE FOR ENTIRE STATE.—The State plan shall provide that benefits under this section shall be available throughout the entire State.

“(E) NOTICE AND HEARINGS.—The State plan shall provide that an individual or family who applies for, or receives, assistance under this section shall be provided with notice of, and an opportunity for a hearing on, any action under this section that adversely affects the individual or family.
"(F) ASSESSMENT OF NEEDS.—The State plan shall assess the food and nutrition needs of needy persons residing in the State.

"(G) ELIGIBILITY STANDARDS.—The State plan shall describe the income, resource, and other eligibility standards that are established for the receipt of assistance under this section.

"(H) RECEIVING BENEFITS IN MORE THAN 1 JURISDICTION.—The State plan shall establish a system for the exchange of information with other States to verify the identity and receipt of benefits by recipients.

"(I) PRIVACY.—The State plan shall provide for safeguarding and restricting the use and disclosure of information about any individual or family receiving assistance under this section.

"(J) OTHER INFORMATION.—The State plan shall contain such other information as may be required by the Secretary.

"(4) APPROVAL OF APPLICATION AND PLAN.—The Secretary shall approve an application and State plan that satisfies the requirements of this section.

"(g) BENEFITS FOR ALIENS.—

"(1) ELIGIBILITY.—No individual who is an alien shall be eligible to receive benefits under a State plan approved under subsection (e)(4) if the individual is not eligible to participate in the food stamp program due to the alien status of the individual.

"(2) INCOME.—The State plan shall provide that the income of an alien shall be determined in accordance with section 5(i).

"(h) EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING.—

"(1) WORK REQUIREMENTS.—No individual or household shall be eligible to receive benefits under a State plan funded under this section if the individual or household is not eligible to participate in the food stamp program under subsection (d) or (o) of section 6.

"(2) WORK PROGRAMS.—Each State shall implement an employment and training program in accordance with the terms and conditions of section 6(d)(4) for individuals under the program and shall be eligible to receive funding under section 16(h).

"(i) ENFORCEMENT.—

"(1) REVIEW OF COMPLIANCE WITH STATE PLAN.—The Secretary shall review and monitor State compliance with this section and the State plan approved under subsection (e)(4).

"(2) NONCOMPLIANCE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary, after reasonable notice to a State and opportunity for a hearing, finds that—"(i) there has been a failure by the State to comply substantially with any provision or requirement set forth in the State plan approved under subsection (e)(4); or

"(iii) in the operation of any program or activity for which assistance is provided under this section, there is a failure by the State to comply substantially with any provision of this section;

the Secretary shall notify the State of the finding and that no further grants will be made to the State under this section (or, in the case of noncompliance in the operation of a program or activity, that no further grants to the State will be made with respect to the program or activity) until the Secretary is satisfied that there is no longer any failure to comply or that the noncompliance will be promptly corrected.

"(B) OTHER PENALTIES.—In the case of a finding of noncompliance made pursuant to subparagraph (A), the Secretary may, in addition to, or in lieu of, imposing the penalties described in subparagraph (A), impose other appropriate penalties, including recoupment of money improperly expended for purposes prohibited or not authorized by this section and disqualification from the receipt of financial assistance under this section.

"(C) NOTICE.—The notice required under subparagraph (A) shall include a specific identification of any additional penalty being imposed under subparagraph (B).

"(3) ISSUANCE OF REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall establish by regulation procedures for—

"(A) receiving, processing, and determining the validity of complaints made to the Secretary concerning any failure of a State to comply with the State plan or any requirement of this section; and

"(B) imposing penalties under this section.

"(j) GRANT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year, the Secretary shall pay to a State that has an application approved by the Secretary under subsection (e)(4) an amount that is equal to the grant of the State under subsection (m) for the fiscal year, adjusted for any reduction required under subsection (m)(2).

"(2) METHOD OF GRANT.—The Secretary shall make a grant to a State for a fiscal year under this section by issuing 1 or more letters of credit for the fiscal year, with necessary adjustments on account of overpayments or underpayments, as determined by the Secretary.

"(3) SPENDING OF GRANTS BY STATE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a grant to a State determined under subsection (m)(1) for a fiscal year may be expended by the State only in the fiscal year.

"(B) CARRYOVER.—The State may reserve up to 10 percent of a grant determined under subsection (m)(1) for a fiscal year to provide assistance under this section in subsequent fiscal years, except that the reserved funds may not exceed 30 percent of the total grant received under this section for a fiscal year.

"(4) FOOD ASSISTANCE AND ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENDITURES.—In each fiscal year, not more than 6 percent of the Federal and State funds required to be expended by a State under this section shall be used for administrative expenses.

"(5) PROVISION OF FOOD ASSISTANCE.—A State may provide food assistance under this section in any manner determined appropriate by the State, such as electronic benefit transfer limited to food purchases, coupons limited to food purchases, or direct provision of commodities.

"(k) QUALITY CONTROL.—Each State participating in the program established under this section shall maintain a system in accordance with, and shall be subject to section 16(c), including sanctions and eligibility for incentive payment under section 16(c).

"(l) NONDISCRIMINATION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall not provide financial assistance for any program, project, or activity under this section if any person with responsibilities for the operation of the program, project, or activity discriminates with respect to the program, project, or activity because of race, religion, color, national origin, sex, or disability.

"(2) ENFORCEMENT.—The powers, remedies, and procedures set forth in title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000d et seq.) may be used by the Secretary to enforce paragraph (1).

"(m) GRANT CALCULATION.—

"(1) STATE GRANT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), from the amounts made available under section 18 for each fiscal year, the Secretary shall provide a grant to each State participating in the program established under this section an amount that is equal to the sum of—

"(i) the greater of, as determined by the Secretary—

"(I) the total dollar value of all benefits issued under the food stamp program established under this Act by the State during fiscal year 1994; or

"(II) the average per fiscal year of the total dollar value of all benefits issued under the food stamp program by the State during each of fiscal years 1992 through 1994; and

"(ii) the greater of, as determined by the Secretary—

"(I) the total amount received by the State for administrative costs under section 16 for fiscal year 1994; or

"(II) the average per fiscal year of the total amount received by the State for administrative costs under section 16 for each of fiscal years 1992 through 1994.

"(B) INSUFFICIENT FUNDS.—If the Secretary finds that the total amount of grants to which States would otherwise be entitled for a fiscal year under subparagraph (A) will exceed the amount of funds that will be made available to provide the grants for the fiscal year, the Secretary shall reduce the grants made to States under this subsection, on a pro rata basis, to the extent necessary.
"(2) REDUCTION.—The Secretary shall reduce the grant of a State by the amount a State has agreed to contribute under subsection (c)(1)(C).".

(b) EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING FUNDING.—Section 16(h) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 2025(a)), as amended by section 13027(d)(2), is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(6) BLOCK GRANT STATES.—Each State electing to operate a program under section 25 shall—

"(A) receive the greater of—

"(i) the total dollar value of the funds received under paragraph (1) by the State during fiscal year 1994; or

"(ii) the average per fiscal year of the total dollar value of all funds received under paragraph (1) by the State during each of fiscal years 1992 through 1994; and

"(B) be eligible to receive funds under paragraph (2), within the limitations in section 6(d)(4)(K).".

(c) RESEARCH ON OPTIONAL STATE FOOD ASSISTANCE BLOCK GRANT.—Section 17 of the Act (7 U.S.C. 2026), as amended by section 13055(c)(2), is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(1) RESEARCH ON OPTIONAL STATE FOOD ASSISTANCE BLOCK GRANT.—The Secretary may conduct research on the effects and costs of a State program carried out under section 25.".

SEC. 13057. AMERICAN SAMOA.
The Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.), as amended by section 13056, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 26. TERRITORY OF AMERICAN SAMOA.

"From amounts made available to carry out this Act, the Secretary may pay to the Territory of American Samoa not more than $5,300,000 for each of fiscal years 1996 through 2002 to finance 100 percent of the expenditures for the fiscal year for a nutrition assistance program extended under section 601(c) of Public Law 96–597 (48 U.S.C. 1469d(c)).".

SEC. 13058. ASSISTANCE FOR COMMUNITY FOOD PROJECTS.
The Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.), as amended by section 13057, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 27. ASSISTANCE FOR COMMUNITY FOOD PROJECTS.

"(a) DEFINITION OF COMMUNITY FOOD PROJECTS.—In this section, the term 'community food project' means a community-based project that requires a 1-time infusion of Federal assistance to become self-sustaining and that is designed to—

"(1) meet the food needs of low-income people;

"(2) increase the self-reliance of communities in providing for their own food needs; and

"(3) promote comprehensive responses to local food, farm, and nutrition issues.

"(b) AUTHORITY TO PROVIDE ASSISTANCE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—From amounts made available to carry out this Act, the Secretary may make grants to assist eligible private nonprofit entities to establish and carry out community food projects.

"(2) LIMITATION ON GRANTS.—The total amount of funds provided as grants under this section for any fiscal year may not exceed $2,500,000.

"(c) ELIGIBLE ENTITIES.—To be eligible for a grant under subsection (b), a private nonprofit entity must—

"(1) have experience in the area of—

"(A) community food work, particularly concerning small and medium-sized farms, including the provision of food to people in low-income communities and the development of new markets in low-income communities for agricultural producers; or

"(B) job training and business development activities for food-related activities in low-income communities;

"(2) demonstrate competency to implement a project, provide fiscal accountability, collect data, and prepare reports and other necessary documentation; and

"(3) demonstrate a willingness to share information with researchers, practitioners, and other interested parties.

"(d) PREFERENCE FOR CERTAIN PROJECTS.—In selecting community food projects to receive assistance under subsection (b), the Secretary shall give a preference to projects designed to—

"(1) develop linkages between 2 or more sectors of the food system;

"(2) support the development of entrepreneurial projects;

"(3) develop innovative linkages between the for-profit and nonprofit food sectors; or

"(4) encourage long-term planning activities and multi-system, interagency approaches.

"(e) MATCHING FUNDS REQUIREMENTS.—

"(1) REQUIREMENTS.—The Federal share of the cost of establishing or carrying out a community food project that receives assistance under subsection (b) may not exceed 50 percent of the cost of the project during the term of the grant.

"(2) CALCULATION.—In providing for the non-Federal share of the cost of carrying out a community food project, the entity receiving the grant shall provide for the share through a payment in cash or in kind, fairly evaluated, including facilities, equipment, or services.

"(3) SOURCES.—An entity may provide for the non-Federal share through State government, local government, or private sources.

"(f) TERM OF GRANT.—

"(1) SINGLE GRANT.—A community food project may be supported by only a single grant under subsection (b).

"(2) TERM.—The term of a grant under subsection (b) may not exceed 3 years.

"(g) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE AND RELATED INFORMATION.—

"(1) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—In carrying out this section, the Secretary may provide technical assistance regarding community food projects, processes, and development to an entity seeking the assistance.

"(2) SHARING INFORMATION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may provide for the sharing of information concerning community food projects and issues among and between government, private for-profit and nonprofit groups, and the public through publications, conferences, and other appropriate forums.

"(B) OTHER INTERESTED PARTIES.—The Secretary may share information concerning community food projects with researchers, practitioners, and other interested parties.

"(h) EVALUATION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall provide for the evaluation of the success of community food projects supported using funds under this section.

"(2) REPORT.—Not later than January 30, 2002, the Secretary shall submit a report to Congress regarding the results of the evaluation."

CHAPTER 2—COMMODITY DISTRIBUTION PROGRAMS

SEC. 13071. EMERGENCY FOOD ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—Section 201A of the Emergency Food Assistance Act of 1983 (Public Law 98–8; 7 U.S.C. 612c note) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 201A. DEFINITIONS.

"In this Act:

"(1) ADDITIONAL COMMODITIES.—The term 'additional commodities' means commodities made available under section 214 in addition to the commodities made available under sections 202 and 203D.

"(2) AVERAGE MONTHLY NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED PERSONS.—The term 'average monthly number of unemployed persons' means the average monthly number of unemployed persons in each State in the most recent fiscal year for which information concerning the number of unemployed persons is available, as determined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor.

"(3) ELIGIBLE RECIPIENT AGENCY.—The term 'eligible recipient agency' means a public or nonprofit organization—

"(A) that administers—

"(i) an emergency feeding organization;

"(ii) a charitable institution (including a hospital and a retirement home, but excluding a penal institution) to the extent that the institution serves needy persons;

"(iii) a summer camp for children, or a child nutrition program providing food service;

"(iv) a nutrition project operating under the Older Americans Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3001 et seq.), including a project that operates a congregate nutrition site and a project that provides home-delivered meals; or

"(v) a disaster relief program;

"(B) that has been designated by the appropriate State agency, or by the Secretary; and

"(C) that has been approved by the Secretary for participation in the program established under this Act.

"(4) EMERGENCY FEEDING ORGANIZATION.—The term 'emergency feeding organization' means a public or nonprofit organization that administers activities and projects (including the activities and projects of a charitable institution, a food bank, a food pantry, a hunger relief center, a soup kitchen, or a similar public or private nonprofit eligible recipient agency) providing nutrition assistance to relieve situations of emergency and distress through the provision of food to needy persons, including low-income and unemployed persons.

"(5) FOOD BANK.—The term 'food bank' means a public or charitable institution that maintains an established operation involving the provision of food or edible commodities, or the products of food or edible commodities, to food pantries, soup kitchens, hunger relief centers, or other food or feeding centers that, as an integral part of their normal activities, provide meals or food to feed needy persons on a regular basis.

"(6) FOOD PANTRY.—The term 'food pantry' means a public or private nonprofit organization that distributes food to low-income and unemployed households, including food from sources other than the Department of Agriculture, to relieve situations of emergency and distress.

"(7) POVERTY LINE.—The term 'poverty line' has the same meaning given the term in section 673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C. 9902(2)).

"(8) SOUP KITCHEN.—The term 'soup kitchen' means a public or charitable institution that, as an integral part of the normal activities of the institution, maintains an established feeding operation to provide food to needy homeless persons on a regular basis.

"(9) TOTAL VALUE OF ADDITIONAL COMMODITIES.—The term 'total value of additional commodities' means the actual cost of all additional commodities made available under section 214 that are paid by the Secretary (including the distribution and processing costs incurred by the Secretary).

"(10) VALUE OF ADDITIONAL COMMODITIES ALLOCATED TO EACH STATE.—The term 'value of additional commodities allocated to each State' means the actual cost of additional commodities made available under section 214 and allocated to each State that are paid by the Secretary (including the distribution and processing costs incurred by the Secretary)."

(b) STATE PLAN.—Section 202A of the Act (7 U.S.C. 612c note) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 202A. STATE PLAN.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—To receive commodities under this Act, a State shall submit a plan of operation and administration every 4 years to the Secretary for approval. The plan may be amended at any time, with the approval of the Secretary.

"(b) REQUIREMENTS.—Each plan shall—

"(1) designate the State agency responsible for distributing the commodities received under this Act;

"(2) set forth a plan of operation and administration to expeditiously distribute commodities under this Act;

"(3) set forth the standards of eligibility for recipient agencies; and

"(4) set forth the standards of eligibility for individual or household recipients of commodities, which shall require—

"(A) individuals or households to be comprised of needy persons; and

"(B) individual or household members to be residing in the geographic location served by the distributing agency at the time of applying for assistance."
(c) STATE ADVISORY BOARD.—The Secretary shall encourage each State receiving commodities under this Act to establish a State advisory board consisting of representatives of all interested entities, both public and private, in the distribution of commodities received under this Act in the State.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FOR ADMINISTRATIVE FUNDS.—Section 204(a)(1) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 612c note) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence—
   (A) by striking “1991 through 1995” and inserting “1996 through 2002”; and
   (B) by striking “for State and local” and all that follows through “under this title” and inserting “to pay for the direct and indirect administrative costs of the State related to the processing, transporting, and distributing to eligible recipient agencies of commodities provided by the Secretary under this Act and commodities secured from other sources”; and
   (2) by striking the fourth sentence.

(d) DELIVERY OF COMMODITIES.—Section 214 of the Act (7 U.S.C. 612c note) is amended—

(1) by striking subsections (a) through (e) and (j);
(2) by redesignating subsections (f) through (i) as subsections (a) through (d), respectively;
(3) in subsection (b), as redesignated by paragraph (2)—
   (A) in the first sentence, by striking “subsection (f) or subsection (j) if applicable,” and inserting “subsection (a)”; and
   (B) in the second sentence, by striking “subsection (f)” and inserting “subsection (a)”;
(4) by striking subsection (c), as redesignated by paragraph (2), and inserting the following:

"(c) ADMINISTRATION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Commodities made available for each fiscal year under this section shall be delivered at reasonable intervals to States based on the grants calculated under subsection (a), or reallocated under subsection (b), before December 31 of the following fiscal year.

"(2) ENTITLEMENT.—Each State shall be entitled to receive the value of additional commodities determined under subsection (a).”; and
(5) in subsection (d), as redesignated by paragraph (2), by striking "or reduce" and all that follows through "each fiscal year".

(e) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—The Act (7 U.S.C. 612c note) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence of section 203B(a), by striking "203 and 203A of this Act" and inserting "203A";
(2) in section 204(a), by striking "title" each place it appears and inserting "Act";
(3) in the first sentence of section 210(e), by striking "(except as otherwise provided for in section 214(j))"; and
(4) by striking section 212.

(f) REPORT ON EFAP.—Section 1571 of the Food Security Act of 1985 (Public Law 99–198; 7 U.S.C. 612c note) is repealed.

(g) AVAILABILITY OF COMMODITIES UNDER THE FOOD STAMP PROGRAM.—The Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.).
as amended by section 13058, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 28. AVAILABILITY OF COMMODITIES FOR THE EMERGENCY FOOD ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.

"(a) PURCHASE OF COMMODITIES.—From amounts appropriated under this Act, for each of fiscal years 1997 through 2002, the Secretary shall purchase $300,000,000 of a variety of nutritious and useful commodities of the types that the Secretary has the authority to acquire through the Commodity Credit Corporation or under section 32 of the Act entitled 'An Act to amend the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and for other purposes', approved August 24, 1935 (7 U.S.C. 612c), and distribute the commodities to States for distribution in accordance with section 214 of the 612c note).

"(b) BASIS FOR COMMODITY PURCHASES.—In purchasing commodities under subsection (a), the Secretary shall, to the extent practicable and appropriate, make purchases based on—

"(1) agricultural market conditions;
"(2) preferences and needs of States and distributing agencies; and
"(3) preferences of recipients."

"(h) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection
(d) shall become effective on October 1, 1996.

Subtitle K—Miscellaneous

SEC. 13101. FOOD STAMP ELIGIBILITY.

Section 6(f) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2015(f)) is amended by striking the third sentence and inserting the following: "The State agency shall, at its option, consider either all income and financial resources of the individual rendered ineligible to participate in the food stamp program under this subsection, or such income, less a pro rata share, and the financial resources of the ineligible individual, to determine the eligibility and the value of the allotment of the household of which such individual is a member."

SEC. 13102. REDUCTION IN BLOCK GRANTS FOR SOCIAL SERVICES.

Section 2003(c) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1397b) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (4); and
(2) by striking paragraph (5) and inserting the following:

"(5) $2,800,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 1990 through 1996; and
"(6) $2,240,000,000 for each fiscal year after fiscal year 1996."

ment to, or repeal of, a section or other provision, the reference shall be considered to be made to a section or other provision

SEC. 13201. EARNED INCOME CREDIT DENIED TO INDIVIDUALS NOT AUTHORIZED TO BE EMPLOYED IN THE UNITED STATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 32(c)(1) (relating to individuals eligible to claim the earned income credit) is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(F) IDENTIFICATION NUMBER REQUIREMENT.—The term
'eligible individual' does not include any individual who does not include on the return of tax for the taxable year—
"(i) such individual's taxpayer identification number, and
"(ii) if the individual is married (within the meaning of section 7703), the taxpayer identification number of such individual's spouse.".

(b) SPECIAL IDENTIFICATION NUMBER.—Section 32 is amended
by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(l) IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS.—Solely for purposes of sub-sections (c)(1)(F) and (c)(3)(D), a taxpayer identification number means a social security number issued to an individual by the Social Security Administration (other than a social security number issued pursuant to clause (II) (or that portion of clause (III) that relates to clause (II)) of section 205(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Social Security Act)".

(c) EXTENSION OF PROCEDURES APPLICABLE TO MATHEMATICAL OR CLERICAL ERRORS.—Section 6213(g)(2) (relating to the definition of mathematical or clerical errors) is amended by striking "and" at the end of subparagraph (D), by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (E) and inserting a comma, and by inserting after subparagraph (E) the following new subparagraphs:

"(F) an omission of a correct taxpayer identification number required under section 32 (relating to the earned income credit) to be included on a return, and
"(G) an entry on a return claiming the credit under section 32 with respect to net earnings from self-employment described in section 32(c)(2)(A) to the extent the tax imposed by section 1401 (relating to self-employment tax) on such net earnings has not been paid.".

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

SEC. 13202. REPEAL OF EARNED INCOME CREDIT FOR INDIVIDUALS WITHOUT CHILDREN.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subparagraph (A) of section 32(c)(1) (defining eligible individual) is amended to read as follows:

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'eligible individual' means any individual who has a qualifying child for the taxable year.".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Each of the tables contained in paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 32(b) are amended by striking the items relating to no qualifying children.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.
SEC. 13203. MODIFICATION OF EARNED INCOME CREDIT AMOUNT AND PHASEOUT.

(a) Modification of Phaseout.—Subparagraph (B) of section 32(a)(2) is amended to read as follows:

"(B) the sum of—

"(i) the initial phaseout percentage of so much of the adjusted gross income (or, if greater, the earned income) of the taxpayer for the taxable year as exceeds the initial phaseout amount but does not exceed the final phaseout amount, plus

"(ii) the final phaseout percentage of so much of the adjusted gross income (or, if greater, the earned income) of the taxpayer for the taxable year as exceeds the final phaseout amount."

(b) Percentages and Amounts.—

(1) In General.—Subsection (b) of section 32, as amended by section 1102(b), is amended to read as follows:

"(b) PERCENTAGES AND AMOUNTS.—

"(1) PERCENTAGES.—The credit percentage, the initial phaseout percentage, and the final phaseout percentage shall be determined as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>In the case of an eligible individual with:</th>
<th>The credit percentage is:</th>

(2) Increase in Credit for Lower-Income Families Having 2 or More Qualifying Children.—Subsection (d) of section 32 is amended to read as follows:

"(d) INCREASE IN CREDIT FOR LOWER-INCOME FAMILIES HAVING 2 OR MORE QUALIFYING CHILDREN.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—If an eligible individual has 2 or more qualifying children, for purposes of applying paragraphs (1) and (2)(A) of subsection (a)—

"(A) the amount of the taxpayer's earned income shall be treated as being equal to 16% of such income (determined without regard to this paragraph), and
H. R. 2491—925

"(B) the earned income amount shall be treated as being equal to \(\frac{10}{9}\) of such amount (determined without regard to this paragraph).

"(2) PHASEOUT OF BENEFIT.—If the applicable income of the taxpayer for the taxable year exceeds $14,000 ($17,000 in the case of a joint return), the amount of each increase under paragraph (1) shall be reduced (but not below zero) by an amount which bears the same ratio to such increase (determined without regard to this subparagraph) as such excess bears to $4,000.

"(3) APPLICABLE INCOME.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'applicable income' means adjusted gross income or, if greater, earned income."

(3) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) Subsection (j) of section 32 is amended—

(i) by striking "subsection (b)(2)(A)" and inserting "subsection (b) (2) or (d)”,

(ii) by striking "1994" and inserting "1996", and

(iii) by striking "1993" and inserting "1995".

(B) Subsection (e) of section 32 is amended to read as follows:

"(e) OTHER SPECIAL RULES.—

"(1) MARRIED INDIVIDUALS.—In the case of an individual who is married (within the meaning of section 7703), this section shall apply only if a joint return is filed for the taxable year.

"(2) TAXABLE YEAR MUST BE FULL TAXABLE YEAR.—Except in the case of a taxable year closed by reason of the death of an individual, no credit shall be allowable under this section in the case of a taxable year covering a period of less than 12 months.”

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

SEC. 13204. RULES RELATING TO DENIAL OF EARNED INCOME CREDIT ON BASIS OF DISQUALIFIED INCOME.

(a) DEFINITION OF DISQUALIFIED INCOME.—Paragraph (2) of section 32(i) (defining disqualified income) is amended by striking "and" at the end of subparagraph (B), by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (C) and inserting ", and", and by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(D) the excess (if any) of—

"(i) the aggregate income from all passive activities for the taxable year (determined without regard to any amount described in a preceding subparagraph), over

"(ii) the aggregate losses from all passive activities for the taxable year (as so determined).

For purposes of subparagraph (D), the term 'passive activity' has the meaning given such term by section 469.”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

SEC. 13205. MODIFICATION OF ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME DEFINITION FOR EARNED INCOME CREDIT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsections (a)(2), (c)(1)(C), (d), and (f)(2)(B) of section 32, as amended by the preceding sections of this subtitle, are each amended by striking "adjusted gross income" each place it appears and inserting "modified adjusted gross income".

(b) MODIFIED ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME DEFINED.—Section 32(c) (relating to definitions and special rules) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(5) MODIFIED ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'modified adjusted gross income' means adjusted gross income—

"(i) increased by the sum of the amounts described in subparagraph (B), and

"(ii) determined without regard to—

"(I) the amounts described in subparagraph (C), or

"(II) the deduction allowed under section 172.

"(B) NONTAXABLE INCOME TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT.—Amounts described in this subparagraph are—

"(i) social security benefits (as defined in section 86(d)) received by the taxpayer during the taxable year to the extent not included in gross income,

"(ii) amounts which—

"(I) are received during the taxable year by (or on behalf of) a spouse pursuant to a divorce or separation instrument (as defined in section 71(b)(2)), and

"(II) under the terms of the instrument are fixed as payable for the support of the children of the payor spouse (as determined under section 71(c)), but only to the extent such amounts exceed $6,000.

"(iii) interest received or accrued during the taxable year which is exempt from tax imposed by this chapter, and

"(iv) amounts received as a pension or annuity, and any distributions or payments received from an individual retirement plan, by the taxpayer during the taxable year to the extent not included in gross income. Clause (iv) shall not include any amount which is not includible in gross income by reason of section 402(c), 403(a)(4), 403(b)(8), 408(d) (3), (4), or (5), or 457(e)(10).

"(C) CERTAIN AMOUNTS DISREGARDED.—An amount is described in this subparagraph if it is—

"(i) the amount of losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets in excess of gains from such sales or exchanges to the extent such amount does not exceed the amount under section 1211(b)(1),

"(ii) the net loss from the carrying on of trades or businesses, computed separately with respect to—

"(I) trades or businesses (other than farming) conducted as sole proprietorships,

"(II) trades or businesses of farming conducted as sole proprietorships, and

"(III) other trades or business,

"(iii) the net loss from estates and trusts, and

"(iv) the excess (if any) of amounts described in subsection (i)(2)(C)(iii) over the amounts described in subsection (i)(2)(C)(i) (relating to nonbusiness rents and royalties).
H.R. 2491—927

For purposes of clause (ii), there shall not be taken into account items which are attributable to a trade or business which consists of the performance of services by the taxpayer as an employee."

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

SEC. 13206. PROVISIONS TO IMPROVE TAX COMPLIANCE.

(a) INCREASE IN PENALTIES FOR RETURN PREPARERS.—

(1) UNDERSTATEMENT PENALTY.—Section 6694 (relating to understatement of income tax liability by income tax return preparer) is amended—

(A) by striking "$250" in subsection (a) and inserting "$500", and

(B) by striking "$1,000" in subsection (b) and inserting "$2,000".

(2) OTHER ASSESSABLE PENALTIES.—Section 6695 (relating to other assessable penalties) is amended—

(A) by striking "$50" and "$25,000" in subsections (a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) and inserting "$100" and "$50,000", respectively, and

(2) by striking "$10,000" in paragraph (2) and inserting "$20,000".

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to penalties with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1995.

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Vice President of the United States and President of the Senate.
For Immediate Release

December 6, 1995

TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

I am returning herewith without my approval H.R. 2491, the budget reconciliation bill adopted by the Republican majority, which seeks to make extreme cuts and other unacceptable changes in Medicare and Medicaid, and to raise taxes on millions of working Americans.

As I have repeatedly stressed, I want to find common ground with the Congress on a balanced budget plan that will best serve the American people. But, I have profound differences with the extreme approach that the Republican majority has adopted. It would hurt average Americans and help special interests.

My balanced budget plan reflects the values that Americans share -- work and family, opportunity and responsibility. It would protect Medicare and retain Medicaid's guarantee of coverage; invest in education and training and other priorities; protect public health and the environment; and provide for a targeted tax cut to help middle-income Americans raise their children, save for the future, and pay for postsecondary education. To reach balance, my plan would eliminate wasteful spending, streamline programs, and end unneeded subsidies; take the first, serious steps toward health care reform; and reform welfare to reward work.

By contrast, H.R. 2491 would cut deeply into Medicare, Medicaid, student loans, and nutrition programs; hurt the environment; raise taxes on millions of working men and women and their families by slashing the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC); and provide a huge tax cut whose benefits would flow disproportionately to those who are already the most well-off.

Moreover, this bill creates new fiscal pressures. Revenue losses from the tax cuts grow rapidly after 2002, with costs exploding for provisions that primarily benefit upper-income taxpayers. Taken together, the revenue losses for the 3 years after 2002 for the individual retirement account (IRA), capital gains, and estate tax provisions exceed the losses for the preceding 6 years.

Title VIII would cut Medicare by $270 billion over 7 years -- by far the largest cut in Medicare's 30-year history. While we need to slow the rate of growth in Medicare spending, I believe Medicare must keep pace with anticipated increases in the costs of medical services and the growing number of elderly Americans. This bill would fall woefully short and would hurt beneficiaries, over half of whom are women. In addition, the bill introduces untested, and highly questionable, Medicare "choices" that could increase risks and costs for the most vulnerable beneficiaries.

Title VII would cut Federal Medicaid payments to States by $163 billion over 7 years and convert the program into a block grant, eliminating guaranteed coverage to millions of Americans and putting States at risk during economic downturns. States would face untenable choices: cutting benefits, dropping coverage for millions of beneficiaries, or reducing provider payments to a level that would undermine quality service to children, people with disabilities, the elderly, pregnant women, and others who depend on Medicaid. I am also concerned that the bill has inadequate quality and income protections for nursing home residents, the developmentally disabled, and their families; and that it would eliminate a program that guarantees immunizations to many children.

Title IV would virtually eliminate the Direct Student Loan Program, reversing its significant progress and ending the participation of over 1,300 schools and hundreds of thousands of students. These actions would hurt middle— and low-income families, make student loan programs less efficient, perpetuate unnecessary red tape, and deny students and schools the free—market choice of guaranteed or direct loans.

Title V would open the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR) to oil and gas drilling, threatening a unique, pristine ecosystem, in hopes of generating $1.3 billion in Federal revenues — a revenue estimate based on wishful thinking and outdated analysis. I want to protect this biologically rich wilderness permanently. I am also concerned that the Congress has chosen to use the reconciliation bill as a catch-all for various objectionable natural resource and environmental policies. One would retain the notorious patenting provision whereby the government transfers billions of dollars of publicly owned minerals at little or no charge to private interests; another would transfer Federal land for a low—level radioactive waste site in California without public safeguards.

While making such devastating cuts in Medicare, Medicaid, and other vital programs, this bill would provide huge tax cuts for those who are already the most well—off. Over 47 percent of the tax benefits would go to families with incomes over $100,000 — the top 12 percent. The bill would provide unwarranted benefits to corporations and new tax breaks for special interests. At the same time, it would raise taxes, on average, for the poorest one—fifth of all families.

The bill would make capital gains cuts retroactive to January 1, 1995, providing a windfall of $13 billion in about the first 9 months of 1995 alone to taxpayers who already have sold their assets. While my Administration supports limited reform of the alternative minimum tax (AMT), this bill's cuts in the corporate AMT would not adequately ensure that profitable corporations pay at least some Federal tax. The bill also would encourage businesses to avoid taxes by stockpiling foreign earnings in tax havens. And the bill does not include my proposal to close a loophole that allows wealthy Americans to avoid taxes on the gains they accrue by giving up their U.S. citizenship. Instead, it substitutes a provision that would prove ineffective.

While cutting taxes for the well—off, this bill would cut the EITC for almost 13 million working families. It would repeal part of the scheduled 1996 increase for taxpayers with two or more children, and end the credit for workers who do not live with qualifying children. Even after accounting for other tax cuts in this bill, about eight million families would face a
The bill would threaten the retirement benefits of workers and increase the exposure of the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation by making it easy for companies to withdraw tax-favored pension assets for nonpension purposes. It also would raise Federal employee retirement contributions, unduly burdening Federal workers. Moreover, the bill would eliminate the low-income housing tax credit and the community development corporation tax credit, which address critical housing needs and help rebuild communities. Finally, the bill would repeal the tax credit that encourages economic activity in Puerto Rico. We must not ignore the real needs of our citizens in Puerto Rico, and any legislation must contain effective mechanisms to promote job creation in the islands.

Title XII includes many welfare provisions. I strongly support real welfare reform that strengthens families and encourages work and responsibility. But the provisions in this bill, when added to the EITC cuts, would cut low-income programs too deeply. For welfare reform to succeed, savings should result from moving people from welfare to work, not from cutting people off and shifting costs to the States. The cost of excessive program cuts in human terms — to working families, single mothers with small children, abused and neglected children, low-income legal immigrants, and disabled children — would be grave. In addition, this bill threatens the national nutritional safety net by making unwarranted changes in child nutrition programs and the national food stamp program.

The agriculture provisions would eliminate the safety net that farm programs provide for U.S. agriculture. Title I would provide windfall payments to producers when prices are high, but not protect family farm income when prices are low. In addition, it would slash spending for agricultural export assistance and reduce the environmental benefits of the Conservation Reserve Program.

For all of these reasons, and for others detailed in the attachment, this bill is unacceptable.

Nevertheless, while I have major differences with the Congress, I want to work with Members to find a common path to balance the budget in a way that will honor our commitment to senior citizens, help working families, provide a better life for our children, and improve the standard of living of all Americans.

WILLIAM J. CLINTON

THE WHITE HOUSE,
December 6, 1995.
