Jason Green-Lowe, JD

Executive Director, The Center for AI Policy

Jason Green-Lowe is the executive director of the Center for AI Policy (CAIP), a nonpartisan group urging Congress to safely manage the radical changes that will come from advanced artificial intelligence (AI). Prior to joining CAIP, Jason litigated on behalf of plaintiffs with disabilities and counseled nonprofits on how to comply with federal regulations. He volunteered for AI safety groups such as the Future of Life Institute and the Center for Long-Term Cybersecurity.

Jason has a Juris Doctor from Harvard Law, a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from Yale University, and two certificates in data science.
