NEW WEBSITE: INFORMATION FOR FAITH-BASED AND COMMUNITY GROUPS

HOW CAN YOU HELP?

You can tell your members, and others you help through your good works, that financial help may be available, and how they can get help from Social Security. We prepared a toolkit to help you. Our toolkit contains pre-written social media posts and newsletter articles you can use. The toolkit highlights the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program, which provides monthly cash payments to people with limited income and resources who are age 65 or older, blind, or disabled (including children). Did you know that a person could receive SSI payments up to $967 a month, and a couple could receive up to $1,450 a month? Some states provide an additional supplement. A person who worked long enough may also qualify to receive Social Security disability insurance (SSDI) or retirement benefits as well as SSI.

Our toolkit also explains that receiving SSI also provides eligibility for Medicaid, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (food stamps), and other benefits, and explains how to apply for SSI and SSDI benefits.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO DO MORE?

Your group can help inform your members about the programs and services we offer and how they can get the help they need. We invite you to visit our People Helping Others page to learn more, including how to help your members apply for benefits. If you would like someone from Social Security to participate in a forum with your members, we would like to talk with you. We invite you to visit our Ask for a Speaker webpage.

On behalf of everyone at Social Security, thank you for raising awareness for those who need help more than ever.

Subject Line: Social Security is Here to Help You During Difficult Times

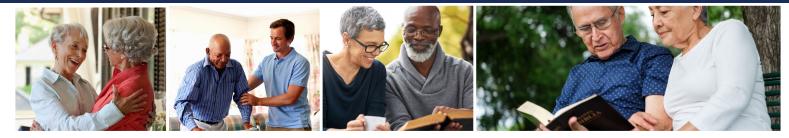

During difficult times, Social Security is here to provide help to people in need. Many of the nation's older citizens, children, and people experiencing homelessness, a disability, mental illness, or limited English proficiency, need help. We're asking for your support to get the word out to anyone who may need our assistance.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) is a federal program that provides critical financial support to people with limited income and resources who are age 65 or older, blind, or disabled. Children with disabilities or who are blind may also get SSI. Without SSI, many vulnerable people would not have money to meet basic needs such as food, clothing, and shelter. Did you know that a person could receive SSI payments up to $967 a month, and a couple could receive up to $1,450 a month (if they meet other criteria)? Some states provide an additional supplement. People who have worked long enough may also qualify to receive Social Security disability or retirement benefits in addition to SSI.

If you know someone who may be eligible for SSI, please encourage them to apply by visiting our SSI webpage today. Our webpage Understanding SSI and Other Government Programs also has information about programs such as Medicaid and the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as food stamps. Please remember to share this information with anyone who may need it.

We also offer our People Helping Others resource so you can do even more, like helping someone apply for benefits and get other assistance from Social Security they may not know about.

Thank you for your help in raising awareness about this critical program.

ARTICLE #1: HOW SOCIAL SECURITY HELPS PEOPLE IN NEED — AND WHAT YOU CAN DO TO HELP

Social Security provides economic security to people with disabilities, older adults, and veterans with little or no income or resources, including people experiencing homelessness, mental illness, limited English proficiency, or reentry after incarceration.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) provides monthly payments to help pay for basic needs like rent, food, clothing, and medicine. Now, more than ever, helping our most vulnerable citizens is critical—and you can play a major role in our efforts.

Faith-based and community organizations and Social Security share a common mission—a commitment to serving people who need it most. Together, we can protect and lift people up in times of great need.

We have worked closely with national and local advocacy groups to improve service to people facing barriers. We have also engaged federal, state, and local agencies, and private industry, to raise public awareness particularly in areas where we saw the greatest decline in SSI applications.

Please visit our Information for Faith-Based and Community Groups webpage for more information about our services. If you know someone who may be eligible for SSI, encourage them to apply by visiting our SSI webpage today. We also offer our People Helping Others resource so you can do even more, like helping someone apply for benefits and get other assistance from Social Security they may not know about.

With the continued help of partners like you, we can ensure that people who need it most know about and can apply for our programs. Please share with your group and help us spread the word on social media.

ARTICLE #2: HOW SOCIAL SECURITY SERVES YOU

Social Security touches the lives of nearly every American by providing critical services and benefits. In recent years, we've seen a reduction in the number of people filing for the Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) programs. We want to help you get monthly benefits for which you may be eligible.

SSI is a federal program that provides critical financial support to people with limited income and resources who are age 65 or older, blind, or disabled. Children with disabilities or who are blind may also get SSI. Did you know that a person could receive SSI payments up to $967 a month, and a couple could receive up to $1,450 a month (if other criteria is met)? Some states provide an additional supplement. Without SSI, many people facing barriers would not have money to meet basic needs such as food, clothing, and shelter. People who have worked long enough may also be eligible to receive SSDI or Social Security retirement benefits in addition to SSI.

If you know someone who may be eligible for SSI, encourage them to apply by visiting our SSI webpage today. Our Understanding SSI and Other Government Programs webpage also has information about programs such as Medicaid and the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as food stamps. We also offer our People Helping Others resource so you can do even more, like helping someone apply for benefits and get other assistance from Social Security they may not know about.

People who applied for Social Security benefits or SSI can check the status of their application with their personal "my Social Security" account at www.ssa.gov/apply/check-application-or- appeal-status.

We are here to help you and your loved ones secure today and tomorrow. Thank you for doing your part to help people in need by sharing this information and helping people apply for benefits.

ARTICLE #3: YOU MAY BE ELIGIBLE FOR SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME FROM SOCIAL SECURITY

Social Security can pay monthly Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments to adults and children with disabilities who have low income and few resources. We also make payments to people who are age 65 or older without disabilities who meet the financial limits. People who have worked long enough may also be eligible to receive Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) or retirement benefits in addition to SSI.

Income is money you receive, such as wages, Social Security benefits, and pensions. Income also includes things like food and shelter. The amount of income you can receive each month and still get SSI depends partly on where you live.

Resources are things you own, including real estate (not counting the home you live in), bank accounts, cash, stocks, and bonds. We count these resources in deciding if you are eligible for SSI. You may be able to get SSI if your resources are worth $2,000 or less. A couple may be able to get SSI if they have resources worth $3,000 or less. If you own property, you may be able to get SSI while trying to sell it. You can learn more about SSI eligibility by reading our publication, Supplemental Security Income.

An online application for SSI is available for some adults. To begin the application, visit Apply for Supplemental Security Income (SSI). If you are a parent or guardian applying for SSI for a minor child or you are 65 and older with limited income and resources, you can schedule an appointment by calling 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778) from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. local time, Monday through Friday. You may also contact your local Social Security office. You can find the phone number for your local office on our website.

We're here for you.

ARTICLE #4: SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS FOR CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES

The Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program provides financial assistance to children with qualifying disabilities and their families. For this program, a child must meet all the following requirements to be considered disabled and medically eligible:

- The child must have a medical condition, or a combination of conditions, that result in "marked and severe functional limitations." This means that the condition(s) must very seriously limit the child's activities; and
- The child's condition(s) must have been disabling, or be expected to be disabling, for at least 12 months, or the condition(s) must be expected to result in death.

A child must also meet other eligibility requirements. Since we only pay SSI to people with disabilities who have low income and limited resources, a child, who is not blind, must not be working or earning more than $1,620 a month in 2024. A child who is blind must not be working or earning more than $2,700 a month. These earnings amount usually changes every year. In addition, if the parents of the child or children have more resources than are allowed, then the child or children will not be eligible for SSI. You can read more about children's benefits by reading Benefits for Children with Disabilities.

If you know a child who may be eligible for SSI, encourage their parents or caregivers to let us know they want to apply by visiting our SSI webpage today. We will schedule an appointment for a representative to help with the application. We also offer our People Helping Others resource so you can do even more, like helping someone apply for benefits and get other assistance from Social Security they may not know about.

Thank you for helping a family member, friend, or neighbor in need.

ARTICLE #5: SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME: GATEWAY TO FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR THE MOST VULNERABLE

Social Security helps secure today and tomorrow for millions of Americans. We want to help people who need it most get monthly benefits for which they may be eligible.

SSI is a federal program that provides cash assistance to people with limited income and resources who are age 65 or older, blind, or disabled. A person who is eligible may receive up to $967 a month, and a couple could receive up to $1,450 a month, if they meet other criteria. Some states also provide a supplemental payment.

More financial help may be available to a person receiving SSI because SSI often serves as a gateway to other federal aid programs. When you get SSI, you may also get Medicaid, which helps pay doctor and hospital bills. Your local social services or medical assistance office can give you information about Medicaid. Eligibility for SSI and Medicaid are both based on factors like income and resources. Financial eligibility for SSI is determined using standard national criteria, whereas Medicaid is administered by the States.

Another federal aid program is the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as food stamps. Visit www.fns.usda.gov/snap to find out how to apply. For more information about SNAP, please read Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) Facts (Publication No. 05-10101). For more information about other nutrition assistance programs that may be available to you, read Nutrition Assistance Programs (Publication No. 05-10100).

To begin the application, visit Apply for Supplemental Security Income (SSI). If you are a parent or guardian applying for SSI for a minor child or you are 65 and older with limited income and resources, you can schedule an appointment by calling 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778). Our People Helping Others webpage is a great resource if you know someone who may be eligible for benefits, or to get other assistance from Social Security. Please share with your friends and family—and help us spread the word on social media and in your community.
